Truck Midway Equipment Lost In Road Fire

Wet paint dripping through the bottom onto a hot exhaust pipe was blamed Sunday for the fire which completely destroyed a Canadian truck loaded with equipment belonging to the Carol Shows, midway people of Toronto.

The fire took place on No. 14 Highway south of Belleville.

Driver of the truck Don Ketcher of Toronto told provincial police that paint was included in the load and it is believed that a can either upset or became jammed allowing the paint to drip through the platform onto the hot exhaust muffler. A streak of paint drops down the highway substantiated this idea as to the cause of the blaze.

Police stated that the large truck with its load was a complete loss. The blazing truck was stopped on the highway but the occupants were unable to extinguish the fire. The vehicle was later shoved into the ditch.

Rocket Missile Is Prematurely Released

A rocket missile hurtling over No. 6 Repair Depot, RCAF Trenton, exploded in a nearby field Monday morning causing alarm in area residents and air station officials investigated the incident.

Orman Orser, 103 Mt. Meisire Road is screaching whistle followed by an explosion of the rocket as it plowed into a field cutting a furrow 12 feet long and two feet deep before ricocheting and landing 300 feet and 300 yards north. Before striking the ground the rocket ripped though the wires of a hydro line pole and on a second concession of Sidney.

Royal Canadian Air Force officials at Trenton stated that the incident was the first accidental firing of a rocket since rocket construction was commenced at the station in 1948. Since that time more than 700 rockets have been fired.

The rocket which accidentally fired was a three inch practice missile with an armor piercing head. It was being loaded into a Mitchell bomber on a reserve squadron from London and Hamilton. The squadron is practising for appearance at the C.N.E.

Slippery Road Cause of Two Car Crashes

Slippery pavement caused by a brief rain shower, was responsible Sunday afternoon for two accidents on the Foxboro highway, both occurring within a few minutes and only rods apart.

George Dafoe of Foxboro lost control of his auto at the quarry two miles north of the city and the vehicle went into the ditch and back onto the highway before rolling over on its top. Neither Dafoe nor Miss Mary Seeley who was riding with him was injured.

The second accident occurred only a short distance away when Johannes Saltsma of Deseronto, lost control of his car and it skidded into a telephone pole. The pole was not broken but about $300 damages resulted to the car. No one was injured.

Both accidents were investigated by O.P.P. Constable Canning.

'Windrift II' Wins Fraser Trophy At RCAF Airquatic Club Regatta

Trenton, (Special) — Highest point-getter in the Commodore's regatta and the 1951 senator Fraser cup race Jack Sills, of Belleville, with his "Windrift II" captured the Senator W. A. Fraser trophy in a hotly contested race here on Saturday.

Silky 50-foot ketch crossed the finish line third, three minutes and a half behind Ehen James' new "Casswappy" with Senator Fraser at the tiller. In the Commodore's race a few weeks ago "Windrift II" came in second behind George Graham's "Wind-rift I" but Graham was well back Saturday and Sills' accumulated points gave him the Senator's cup.

The "Casswappy" a 35-foot sloop, had only been completed recently and therefore was not an entry in the Commodore's regatta. Her speed was proved, however, indicated that she would have had a good chance of winning the earlier event.

"Astra" Second

The "Astra" piloted by Group Captain C. Hawtrey Commodore of the Airquatic club, was also finished second on Saturday and through a misfortune in the regatta, lost the Senator's cup points to take the Senator's cup.

Dinghy and Class III boats of fered stiff competition, Ralph Dingley prize again going to the team of Squadron Leader Lloyd and Wing Commander R. C. Stovell, C. L. Mackenzie and Bob Hanks finished second and third respectively.

Lew Winters and Kin Hiett from Olds and Prescott Point sailed to victory in the Class III competition, while Cal Hiett captured second with Clarence Orser of Trenton third.

Following the sailing events presentation of prizes were made by Air Commodore W. W. Brown and Group Captain Hawtrey.

Coveted Trophy Won by Sergeants Artillery School

Trenton—(Special)—The coveted Sergeants' Mess trophy is back in the Sergeants' Mess at the Picton School of Artillery at Picton.

The team representing the Artillery Depot Sergeants' Mess defeated the Picton sharpshooters by a score of 13-12 however after a ruling agreed upon by both competitors the loser took the cup. The shooting was done from the 6 R.D. mess for two straight years.

Emblematic only or competition between the army and airforce sergeants the cup may return to the depot here when the teams meet at a rifle competition here within the next two weeks. Home and home games decide the winner each year.

The series provides great sport for the servicemen and tends to promote closer relations between the army and airforce.

One of the penalties the losers suffered was a thorough dunking with their clothes on in the depot swimming pool after the game. The army lads hope to return the repaimen some of their own medicine by earning the privilege to throw them into Picton bay after the final clash.

Backed by the strong arm of D. Maloney and the booming bats of his vice-president teammate the pair outfit soon took the lead and by the fourth inning bressed along on four with a 4-0 score. Pitcher Archie Tremblay poked one of pitcher "Marsh" Brackett's better knowns for what looked like a home bagger with the bases loaded but was forced to pull up at third, when a traffic problem arose among the slower runners ahead.

The army boys were not beaten when Felix Lange went into the box and a pitching duel developed between "Hap" Day and Lange. At the end, however, the artillerymen had the airforce hanging on.

During the contest the game was halted while a delegate of the airforce nine presented umpire W. O. Win Plosg with a watch commemorating one of his questionable decisions.

Teams:

Picton Sgts.— c, Art Ault; p, "Marsh" Brackett; 1b, Bill Bourgeau; 2b, Lou Asseline; 3b, Walter Stipp; ss, Ed. Feeding Mixture Lodges in Throat, Infant Dies

Trenton (Special) — Firemen using oxygen for more than 30 minutes failed to revive baby Richard Sheahan, who died after a feeding mixture lodged in the infants' throat and suffocated the tiny child Saturday afternoon. The three and a half months old infant was the son of Flight Lieutenant and Mrs. George Sheahan of 42 George Street, Trenton.

The baby's mother said she had fed her baby at two o'clock and that he was sleeping quietly when she looked at him at four later. At four o'clock the infant was having trouble breathing and when Dr. J. F. Byrne arrived a few minutes later apparently the baby was dead.

German Girls Having Tough Time Finding Husbands, Little Easier Than After War

By IAN FRASER

Bonn, Aug. 20 (Reuters) — German girls still are having a tough time finding husbands, although it's a little easier than it was right after the war.

West German newspapers continue to make large incomes out of lonesome spinsters reduced to advertising for a mate.

Statistically speaking there are 1,863 girls chasing every 1,000 men in the age group 27 to 31—the groups worst hit by the war. Before the flood of returning prisoners began in 1946 there were 1,713 girls after 1,000 husbands.

Girls in outlying villages have little chance of finding a husband. The agricultural areas sent proportionately more of their men to the soldiers.

In addition, many of the country's 4,176,000 widows want to marry.

Among upper-class families there is many a West German country house or castle with four and five daughters to marry off, at least one of whom at least one will end up in a convent.

Before, the daughters would have been sent for a season to Berlin or Munich and then dispatches on a round of country visits. But now Berlin is out of the question, and even in Munich there is little social life.

Outdoor social events where young people normally have a chance to meet are just appearing again.

Iran's Premier Still Hopeful Of Settlement

Tehran, Aug. 20 (Reuters) — Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh shot a ray of optimism into Iran's tottering oil negotiations today by declaring and saying he is "still hopeful we'll be able to find a settlement."

Thursday, but yesterday, the ailing premier told reporters of whose had had about concluded that talks to settle the fate of the Anglo-Iranian oil company had reached another impasse.

Mossadegh held a press conference after a 3½-hour meeting with Richard Stokes, Lord Privy Seal and leader of the British oil mission, and W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's personal representative who has been trying to reconcile the two sides.

Earlier Harriman had been reported as holding the view that there is a last-ditch compromise could avert a breakdown. Stokes had been pictured as ready to pack up and go home.

Mossadegh told reporters that Iran had asked Britain to fix the time for another meeting.

He denied that Harriman had brought full support for the British proposals, which would give Britain a large measure over to Iran but leave merchandising of the oil largely in British hands through a new organization.

However, a source who attended today's meeting said Harriman bluntly told Iran to consider the British offer a good one, and insisted it did not violate the Harriman formula on which the present negotiations are based.

The negotiations had seemed doomed after a one-hour conference yesterday at which Stokes' main proposals were rejected.

Retired Gardener Remanded Eight Days on Charge

Fort William, Aug. 20, (CP)—Harry Shymick, 71-year-old retired gardener, today was remanded eight days for preliminary hearing on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Arnold Crocker, 50-year-old trapper.

Police said the two men, who lived in adjoining log cabins west of a remote shack 300 miles east of here, had been feuding for two years.

They said Crocker was shot in the head Saturday night with a .22-calibre rifle as he chopped a hole in the roof above Shymick's room. He died yesterday in Marathon, 150 miles east of here.

Shymick told police he fired the rifle through the roof after Crocker, a native of Quakville, N.B., failed to heed a warning to stop chopping.

Legion Members Urged to Assist Appeal for Increase in Pensions By President Canadian Branch

Cornwall, Ont., Aug. 20 — "The maintenance of the real value of war pensions and allowances must rely for recognition on an unwritten contract — the conscience of the Canadian people," said Group Captain Alfred Watts, A. F. C., Dominion President of the Canadian Legion, in an address delivered here at the opening of the three-day convention of the Ontario Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion.

Mr. Watts urged the delegates to assist the Legion's present appeal for an across-the-board increase in all war pensions and allowances. He continued, "that is a measure validation of that contract we must take up the torch . . . if this organization means anything it must mean that you are prepared to accept this responsibility."

Outline Efforts

The Dominion President outlined the repeated efforts of the Legion, through the Dominion Council, to put this matter before the government, and expressed the Legion's whole-hearted dissatisfaction with the very limited action taken so far by the government to meet this pressing problem.

In discussing the two million dollar Unemployability Supplement to assist some 6,000 of Canada's totally unemployable pensioners, Mr. Watts pointed out that it involved a means test and that the government had failed to meet squarely the plight of all war pensioners — the disabled, rents, and as such it was a "disappointment and discouragement to all veterans." Mr. Watts reaffirmed the Legion's intention to fight this matter through to a finish.

Swinging to the important question of national defence, the Legion's leader had this to say:

"We are in no way further from a total war than we were this time last year."

Reiterates Belief

He reiterated the Legion's belief that, "Compulsory service in the reserve units would constitute an elementary safeguard that this country requires, by providing an adequate flow to the active forces and a proper reserve should the worst come to the worst."

Similarly, in the matter of Civil Defence, Mr. Watts stressed the need for greater federal emphasis on co-operation with the provinces and establishing the co-ordination of civil defence planning which must necessarily emanate from the top. The speaker continued that "inasmuch as civil defence involves in a very real way the defence of this country, the Legion is vitally interested in its progress."

On housing, the Dominion President stated, "It is regrettable that three years ago and more the government did not see fit to deal with the Legion recommendation and implement a policy which would at that time have built more than one hundred units." He urged that steady and constructive efforts be continued by the Legion towards the alleviation of the housing problem.

Deals With Communism

On the subject of communism, Mr. Watts emphatically stressed that, members of the Canadian Legion must continue to militantly exclude the communist from this organization. You can be sure that he only wants to be a member for one of two reasons or for both: (a) either to use the Legion for his own ends; or (b) to disrupt our Legion."

In a straight-forward warning against the phony communist peace confronts the speaker pointed out to the delegates that, "any time the communists really want peace they will agree to an adequate inspection of arms. The facilities for peace for all nations lie in the machinery of the United Nations and not in any communist drive to have us disarm while they go on."

The Legion's top man concluded his opening address with an appeal to all delegates to stand together in meeting their responsibilities in these trying times.

14 ROOMS DAMAGED

Stockholm, Aug. 20 — (AP) — Fire raged today on the upper floor of Stockholm's Grand Hotel, biggest and most famous hostelry in Sweden.

90 Bushels Oats Threshed From One Load of Crop

Marmora—Clarence Sopha who lives on the farm in the Vansickle Settlement, formerly occupied by George Vansickle drew in five loads of oats last Monday for threshing. He was pleasantly surprised to discover that the first load indicative of the five realized 90 bushels. His father, Charles Sopha, who farmed two farms away for 40 years says the yield constitutes a record for the neighborhood. Previously 50 or 60 bushels was considered a good yield. Other threshing in the settlement was not possible this past week owing to rain.

UNPUBLICIZED HEROES

The death of two "human guinea pigs" in a drug experiment at the University of South Dakota, while unfortunate, is not a rare occurrence in the annals of medical research. In this particular instance a staff doctor injected "the wrong drug" into a 30-year-old laboratory technician and a 26-year-old secretary, who, despite intensive efforts at resuscitation, died within 24 hours. The doctor, it is stated in the news release, had planned to participate in the experiment along with a fourth person.

Medical research, unfortunately, has been pioneered by similar tragic experiment. In this case the villain was the "wrong drug." Quite often "the right drug" has produced the same results. And while it is unfortunate that such incidents occur it is certain that as long as medical men continue to use themselves as "human guinea pigs" there will be similar disasters. In a way it is the price of progress and the public's demand for more and better medical service. Public indignation at some of Medicine's methods has never prevented their utilization of Medicine's discoveries.

In the past, Medicine was regarded with a mixture of fear and suspicion and was considered by the mass of the population as the blackest of black arts. As a science curiosity is its watchword. As an art the conquest of disease is its goal. It is inevitable that the two ingredients should at times produce strange fare, and the strangest has been the doctor's willingness to learn at the cost of his own life.

It is only during the past 100 years or so that medical schools have been able to secure human cadavers for the study of anatomy, the cornerstone of medical knowledge, without fear of reprisal from a sincere but misguided public. Even today there are fringe elements in the population who protest the use of animals in the research laboratories. It therefore becomes doubly amazing that experiments are carried out on human beings, and that to the average citizen that the doctor, whose mission is the preservation of life, would so readily accept death himself to further medical research.

Yet the list of those men who have knowingly and willingly done so is a long one.

How many have lived and died as "human guinea pigs" in a gallant search for new cures and new treatments will never be known. But the world owes a debt to martyrs-to their unquenchable curiosity a profound debt of gratitude as medicine moves ever onward in its service to mankind.

CHEESE—1½ OZ.

Reduction of the British weekly cheese ration from two to one ounce and a half, to take effect next week, is a reminder that the British are as short of some staple foods as they were in wartime, comments the Globe and Mail. For a person who likes and enjoys the hearty nourishing qualities of cheese, and especially for a workman who can make a sustaining lunch of two thick cheese sandwiches, an ounce and a half of the succulent protein is an insult. Not a ration to be properly brought up Britishers and that quantity of cheese in a single bite, and would need six times as much to make a satisfactory Welsh rabbit for one.

Of course, every one knows that Britain has to save dollars. Every one knows, too, that the British diet has improved greatly since 1945 because some foods are now off the ration. Every one has heard all the soul-stirring arguments about the "fair share" policy which makes sure that, when it comes to cheese, nobody gets more than anybody else. Still, when all is said and admitted, it remains a monstrous absurdity that the sturdy, cheese-eating British should have to queue up once a week for a miserable pat of cheese that would go on a 50-cent piece. There is something quite insane about an economic system that produces results like this. Whatever Utopia may be like, this certainly cannot be it. But still more frightening than the thought of that one and a half ounce of cheese is the thought that the British may be getting used to it.

THE AGE OF BEAUTY
(This Week)

At what age is a woman the most beautiful? The National Institute of Public Opinion conducted a nation-wide survey, in which men and women of every age and walk of life were asked to vote on this question.

Most people considered that a woman reaches the peak of her beauty in her early 20's. Less than one person in five considered the late teens the most beautiful age. Indeed, the bloom of youth and innocence as typified by the 18-year-old was esteemed even less by voters in the upper-age brackets. And only about one in eight subscribed to the view that a lady is more fascinating when she reaches 30.

WHEN I WAS A CHILD

I gaze at little Terry in his cowboy shirt and hat
And think: when I was four years old I wasn't dressed like that.

I never wore a bolster with a pistol in the belt
My suit was made of velvet and my hair was like a girl's.

I don't know how to tell it, but so calmly was my Ma
That ever my appearance she had arguments with Pa.

I still can hear him saying:
"Though he's now your pride and joy
He's the little girl you hoped for who turned out to be a boyy.

"You have lace upon his coat sleeves which no boy should ever wear,
He is four years old and ever and it's time you cut his hair.

Tresses around on mother fingers may look nice on little girls
But it's time to stop that nonsense, for no boy is proud of curls."

There's a long curl somewhere hidden, but just where I cannot say,
And perhaps some one will find it when from earth I've gone away.

There's a sigh I still remember. Mother said it was her cough,
As she took it from the barber on the day he snipped it off.

Strength for the Day

THAT BETTER MOUSE-TRAP

The world is always waiting for people who can do things well. America is a land of opportunity not just because we have many things which need to be done and many resources to meet our needs, but also because free government, free enterprise in industry, and religious motivations have endowed our people with a resourcefulness.

The English-speaking people have forged ahead in recent centuries because they had something to give the world which the world needed. Emerson once said that if a man made a better mouse-trap than his contemporaries, the world would beat a pathway to his door. This is another way of saying that this day of opportunity never ends until men become blind to opportunities. Russell Conwell's lecture, "Acres of Diamonds", emphasizes the fact that our greatest treasure is sometimes in our own backyards. But whether it is there or in some distant country to which we will have to export our energy, prudence, technical skill, and moral character, we can be sure that there are nevertheless plenty of opportunities in the world if we will only be on the lookout for them.

Of course there are many opportunities today as the result of new inventions. Practically the whole economic future may change sometime, but whether it changes or not, we can be sure that there will be plenty of opportunities for advancement for everyone who has gumption and get-up.

OUR TOWN

JUST WONDERING

Just wondering whatever became of "B" the world's most exploited wrestling star?

You remember "B". Whenever "A" plowed a field in any school yard today he ate hearty and old "B" would have to go out and plow the same size field in half the time.

This was ostensibly to inject the serum of mathematics into our sluggish little minds. Instead it left me with a life-long memory, and a mournful one, of a man cosmically called upon to accomplish the impossible.

Sometimes it was the field. Sometimes it was a thousand boxes of apples packed in an hour (while "A", of course, took the whole live-long day).

At times the text authors would display our weary old friend as "X", but smiling grimly through the grease paint you could discern the pallid, long-suffering features of "B" trudging off to a new field or a new orchard.

Dr. Dafoe, who recorded a classy C-minus in mathematics, assures me she's never accounted as this overworked fellow. Who knows? Maybe he joined a union.

Just wondering how many people who read that certain news items are "good for you" take a look at the ocean without a dirty little twinge of greed.

The news story? The report of a scientist that there's ninety million dollars worth of gold in every cubic mile of sea water. A no conceivable way of getting it out.

Which reminded me of the best story I ever heard about gold. Told to me by Jim Hart, a prospector at Kluane Lake in the Yukon who is still searching for the motherlode at the age of ninety.

Old Bart recalled that in the old days in the Cariboo country it would come into Whitehorse and gamble or drink away their nuggets. Occasionally desperately up for a drink, they'd take their working pants, burn 'em and pan the ashes for the gold dust that had settled in the pockets.

The present-day suburban version of this, of course, is looking behind the chesterfield cushions for loose change.

Just wondering why they can't leave my shirts alone.

For many a long and happy year, whenever the magic words "King Arthur's Court" were mentioned, my mind conjured up flittering pennants, the thunder of powerful horses charging in the lists as they carried their brightly-armored masters through jousts.

There were feats of derring-do and when the giants doffed their accoutrements and strode into the banquet hall to receive their respects in the ladies of the court and to gnaw on a leg of deer or the tusk of a wild boar, their mountainous men, biceps bulging chests out to here.

So now some researchers with all the romance of an IBM machine reveals that the knights of old were rarely over five feet tall, sick most of the time, no match for the modern soldier, period.

I tell you, it's enough to make a man take to a present-day flagpole-sitting though it may be, and I rue the day they pulled up the blinds on my knights.

Just wondering why the federal government really thinks about the shortage of war.

An Ottawa correspondent writes that the government doesn't really think the public is ready for any large-scale civil defense program and has adopted a wait-and-see attitude.

And yet the Department of National Defence has been, by every doctor and dentist in Canada two frightening articles. One in Collier's Magazine on the Effects of Atomic Explosions." The other, "Medical Problems in Chemical Warfare."

I believe that most politicians will be willing to risk the fear and suffering the fate of a Chamberlain, and will lean away from any policy which might lose them the appeaser. It is a curious thing that one political safe attitude in a day when Appeasement is said for peace is to sound belligerent.

Just wondering what peculiar negative outlook is responsible for the so-called "yon" seems as popular with today's authors as it is with two-year-olds. Whatever the literary can is in doubt he throws in that little word.

"Yon Tomorrow," "No More Yesterdays," "No Tears For My Lady," "No Cause For Alarm," "Yon Lie Sleeping," "No Sun In The Sky." So they go. And rarely with any real bearing on the story.

Well, I happen to be working on a novel myself, already spending my days at radio rights and contemplating the proceeds from television, but I'll be a half dozen paragraphs completed.

I'm just going to call it "No," and spell me a million copies.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

A small screw in the hinge of my eye glasses fell out, and I took the injured specs into the nearest oculist's in London. The glasses had been bought in Paris four years ago; and it seems they were a different size to a frame from the one used in Britain. "But I'll see what can be done," said the oculist, and handed me back my repaired glasses.

"How much?" I enquired, producing the handful of assorted British shekels that endanger our pockets and purses.

"No charge," said the clerk.

"Oh, but look here. . . " I expostulated.

The clerk smiled, and reached down into a drawer. He produced a box with a coin slit in it. On the box was a notice signed by a well-known London hospital, and above it a text reading:

"We make no charge for small adjustments, but contributions to the hospital are gratefully accepted."

On the counter of the news stand in my hotel is another metal box with a coin slot. Projecting from the box is a small squirrel containing lighter fluid in the tail. Every time I buy one or two you drop in are for the R.A.F. Benevolent Fund. One of the little unobtrusive generosities do these old country people remind one of—the Good Samaritan organ known as the heart.

Parachute Jump May be Followed By Another Stunt

Magog, Que., Aug. 20 (CP) — Mayor Ernest Simard of this eastern townships community announced today he pushed his publicity stunt shenanigans. He said his 2,500-foot parachute drop yesterday may be followed by another daring scheme.

The 208-pound chief magistrate, still excited with his first jump, said: "I'm going to make it with only a few score yards of silk to hold him up was great stuff.

"It was so easy I'm going to make a habit of it. Next time I'll do anything to publicize our town," he said.

Even the ducking the talkative mayor got in Lake Memphremagog, where an estimated 10,000 lined the shore, was taken in stride by Simard, who can't swim a stroke. Miss West lifebelt buoyed him up after he cut loose from his parachute about 20 feet above the lake surface. A motorboat brought him ashore.

The jump, to publicize the city's centennial celebrations which open officially next Sunday, "didn't scare me a bit," said Mayor Simard.

"It didn't bother me as much as the time I went down to the bottom of the lake in a diver's suit."

In that stunt, ostensibly to inspect the city's water works intake equipment, he was in trouble when the diving dress he was pumped down to him and hoisted from a plane developed a leak.

The 43-year-old father of five didn't let the big jump interrupt his schedule. After a change of clothes, he made a speech to the crowd, went to a dance for supper, attended boxing and wrestling matches in the evening and spoke at the opening of a sports centre.

HOW TO STAY YOUNG

A crank is an important impediment. It turns or starts machinery. The proper kind of business crank is not bad either. Marconi, Edison, Henry Ford, the Wright Brothers, Benjamin Franklin...I began using whole wheat five years ago. At first I ground it daily in a hand coffee mill, later I bought one of the grinders you mention in your pamphlet Wheat to Eat. (Copy of the pamphlet available on request if you enclose stamped self-addressed envelope.) I eat raw coarsely ground wheat, soaked in cold for 6 hours, and also cooked as a breakfast food. I believe there is no more appetizing or satisfying breakfast. Since I switched from refined white flour processed or manufactured cereal products to home ground whole wheat flour and cracked wheat I have experienced many health benefits. I am 77, Persons who have known me for the past few years put my age at from 65 to 70. I write this to assure you that your teachings do a lot of good that you probably don't hear about. (S. H. W.)

Any one who switches from refined white flour products to whole wheat flour products is bound to derive many health benefits, because when the bran and nothing is removed is the best part of wheat. Refined white flour is almost devoid of vitamins—unless a dash of this and that vitamin is added to the white flour, at the consumer's expense, of course.

Like millions of other people who have wrecked their health on ordinary diet in which refined white flour and refined cereals supply most of the calories, Mr. S. H. W. probably suffers from a variety of functional ailments due to other nutritional deficiencies, notably vitamin D deficiency, phosphorus and iodin deficiencies.

In the booklet The 7 Keys to Vite there is an outline of the basic or model health diet, which is designed to supply all the minerals and vitamins necessary to maintain health. As it stands it is a reducing diet for adults of sedentary habit, yielding approximately 2000 calories a day. Whole wheat and no cereal or cereal product is included in the diet. No refined sugar either. In the model health diet, which is not only a reduction diet but a protective diet, protective of preservation and rejuvenation diet includes eggs, butter and cheese, fresh vegetables, fruit and nuts.

Two thousand calories a day? "If you are one of the many poor people who tell the harried world they are "going on a diet," 2000 calories a day will not lessen your muscle. On the other hand, if you are one of the few overstuffed people of character you will say nothing about it but quietly begin regulating your food according to the model and leave it for your friends and acquaintances to comment upon the manifestations of your improved nutritional condition.

Most adults who do light work have a daily intake of 2800 calories, when on the wagon. 3000, more or less, when they indulge in such luxuries as pop, candy, pie, wine, beer, whisky.

Remember, the definition of vite begins like this:

Vite means preservation of the characteristics of youth...

Slacker flesh is not a characteristic of youth.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Carrots

Anything harmful about carrots when eaten raw? I love to nibble on a slice of raw carrot by way of a relish when eating dinner, but have Ben Told this is injurious. (J. M.)

Answer—Please pass the carrots and while we are crunching let's forget the side of the mouth le' us give Ben Told a good Bronx cheer from the other side. Contrary to what Ben told a lot of carrots, raw or uncooked, may be used in the whole scheme of the skin, particularly the palms. But this clears away soon after carrots are excluded from the diet although it is in no way injurious to health.

Food Iodin and Tuberculosis

Have been taking your iodin ration pamphlet for several years and feel certain it has improved my health. I am uncertain whether a person who may have tuberculosis should or should not eat it. (Miss M. L.)

Answer—No matter. Everybody needs a sufficient iodin intake. Iodin, should get it in natural food but seldom does in modern diet. Refined food that makes up the modern diet. One with tuberculosis should not take iodin in medicinal doses unless it is prescribed and supervised by a physician. For the pamphlet The Iodin Ration send stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Don't Take Examinations

I have to take entrance examinations in about two weeks and I'm fit to be tied. (Miss L. T.)

Answer—Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet on How to Examination Jitters.

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOUR OTHER SELF

Francis Bacon, in his essay on Friendship, refers to a statement by the ancients "that a friend is another himself." How very true is this day. We are becoming more wider than we ever know. How many a one lives long years in the life of his friends.

Commented Bacon: "If a man have a true friend, he may rest almost secure that the care of those things will continue after his death, as well as when he were, two lives in his desires." But not just two; perhaps scores of lives, and in each instance the worth and beauty flowing through the veins of endless good. How many a one has the potency of influence, especially when it is kind and heart reaching.

Your other self may be the source of your greatest happiness and satisfaction. Living to one's self alone is a profitless life. How often it is that we pass up something fine and worthwhile in a friend, and then it begins to enlarge and spread, so that we have as friends these other selves of ourself!

That other self of yours travels a long way in the course of a full and interesting number, many of whom are forever reflecting something of your own thought, your mind, your heart, and your overall nature. What an interesting fact this is to think about! How wonderful to realize that you are not alone in mere entity, but a vital force in the world even though you may not be advertised as such. It is inspiring and inspirited just to be conscious of the fact that you have a personal and personal influence and that it does its work quietly, sincerely and effectively.

Where does this influence of ours come from anyway? Does it not come from the endless endless other selves that touch our own, and give warm and life to our own self? I recently cut from my newspaper the face of a smiling person and pasted it on the back of my typewriter as I wrote—and it's there right now as I write—simply because I decided me of so many other smiling persons. That pictured face made me feel happy and pleasant.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

What's an "ideal" husband like?

What's your idea, of an ideal husband?

A man who's devastatingly good-looking so that he sets the heart of every girl he meets aflame goes? One who has all the social graces in the world so that he'd be a hostess's dream? The sort of person who bubbles over with high spirits and keeps the life of every gathering in which he finds himself? Or just a nice average somebody who loves his home and his family and tries to make them happy even though he'll never set the world afire?

A letter from a girl of 18 who objects to having said, now and then, that I think most teenagers are not ready to make a lasting choice in a mate at that age, as the choice of a mate, offers "a threadbare sketch of the man I hope will be my future husband". She does this to prove to me that a person of 18 is old enough to know a good man when she sees one.

Is that my description of the man who measures up to her ideal as a husband?

Her Ideal Husband

He's 22, "not handsome, not even cute, but just average-looking. To offset this, however, "he has the nicest face and smile you'll ever see when he smiles. He doesn't have a very glamorous profession, but makes a darn good income and supports his mother rather than see her work. He is very considerate of others and has a great sense of humor, and a wonderful sense of humor. He is not intellectual, but does not flaunt it, and is always willing to learn from others and take advantage of opportunities. He is very adaptable, and can fit in with any group of people. I can tell you definitely natural with him at all times, and we have just as good a time going for a walk as we do when we go dancing and spend a lot of money."

What shall I do the rest of you girls think? Does this man measure up to your own ideal, and if so you agree with the writer of the letter that any girl who picks a man with these qualities has a sufficiently mature viewpoint to be ready for marriage?

Personally, I think this girl is very lucky indeed to have found a young man with so many excellent qualities, and if he's the type who will always live up to them, he ought to make a fine husband. What I'm not so sure about, however, is that, just because she may have found herself really fortunate in having a good matrimonial bet come her way, it proves anything about her maturity, or lack of it.

Even what she says, I get the impression that she feels it proves something because she appreciates this chap even though he's not handsome and doesn't have a very glamorous profession—whatever that may mean. But he evidently does have charm, and when you have charm added to all the sound qualities he seems to possess, I wouldn't think it would take much more information to decide to settle for him. Wrinkles Mom

On the other hand, if good fortune hadn't dropped this delightful young male right into her lap, so to speak, but instead, another young man had come along who was very handsome, had a "glamorous profession", and spent or even squandered his money, but perhaps not quite so many good sound qualities, would she have been quite so wisdom without the impact of his charm and hold out for world wealth? That, I would say, is the real test of whether or not a person is truly mature—his or her ability to discriminate to see through a beguiling exterior straight into the heart of a person; to make a decision with heart and head together, rather than with either alone.

For this girl's benefit, perhaps I can make my own viewpoint on teen-age romances clearer, by saying that I don't believe the "average" girl in her teens is mature enough to do all this. And I'm willing to concede that this particular one may be above average. Only I'd have to have better proof than the fact contained in her letter before I'd be convinced of it!

Crinoline Style is Leading Feature of London Shows

By MURIAL NAIRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London. (CP)—For women who like the wide skirts of picture gowns and the soft swish of silken petticoats, London's "top ten" fashion designers include a wide selection in the fall fashion displays.

Newest styles may be the full tail look, the mermaid line or the close sheathing of an Egyptian mummy, but each designer spotlights at least one richly-decorated crinolined style that might have swished down the staircases of old London houses more than a century ago.

The continued popularity of these frivolidity dresses is partly due to the Queen's preference for these styles. On each state occasion since the end of the Second World War, she has chosen embroidered crinolines of tulle, net, lace or satin. And on such occasions, her choice is generally followed by that of the two princesses. The wide-skirted gowns made a perfect setting for their state jewelry and the rich background of official receptions.

Some of the smartest of this year's crinoline models are the work of Norman Hartnell, the Queen's designer. Widest skirt in Hartnell collection is a grey and mauve tulle called Versailles. Secret of its charm lies in the delicate shading of its rain-cloud coloring. The diaphanous theme is accentuated by a shirt trimming of lace or heavy grey velvet plumes forming a waving cloud around the hem and decorating the single draped shoulder line and accompanying stole.

Use Many Colors

Color, used with the abandon of paint, gives a glowing appeal to two exceptional dresses by Victor Stiebel. Done in handkerchief points of paper-thin taffeta, the wide skirts are a blending of seven or eight colors combining a variety of shades.

Much applause was given Stiebel's enormous evening skirts of heavy satin in dark shades of peacock blue, midnight blue and silver. These are combined with cozy cashmere sweaters in black, decorated with gold baroque embroidery. Always popular for ritzy occasions, these skirt and sweater outfits are likely to be in big demand. Embroidered sweaters are here scarce on the home market for years.

For cocktail wear Michael Sherard shows a crinoline of black velvet worn over several stiffened petticoats and lavishly embroidered with raised flowers of black velvet braid. One of his eye-catching full-length picture gowns is in orchid mauve lace over petticoats each of which ring with sequins. A spider's web of gray lace sweeps out behind, matching the lace of the flaring over strapless shoulders and bronze sequined bodice.

Most of the wide-skirted dresses are in floating clouds of tulle and lace or heavy slipper satin taffeta and velvet.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

The shape of bread is conservative in America.

No baker here would normally attempt to sell the 1-lb. wide loaves which are made in Persia.

A house wife would feel a little ridiculous serving bread like the foot breadsticks sold in Sicily.

Like Frenchmen, we prefer our pieces of bread to fit easily into the mouth. The croissant and the bâtard, the roll, the crescent and cube, are our chosen speed.

Bread cubes as croutons may be browned in a slow oven or pan fried. The latter method is employed for making the croutons for the following salad.

Caesar salad was the first one featuring fried bread cubes as a crisp garnish for cold salad. Several smashed cloves of garlic are added to oil, the garlic is removed and then the bread cubes are browned. They should be cooled before being added to the salad, but they need not be refrigerated.

Serves 6-8

1 cup salad oil
1/3 cup vinegar
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon crushed pepper-corns
1-2 teaspoon chopped garlic
3 slices white bread
1-4 cup vegetable fat
2 smashed cloves garlic
1 small head romaine
1-2 head lettuce
1-2 cup crumbled blue cheese
1 hard boiled egg chopped fine
1 cup chopped raw spinach

In a deep bowl combine the salad oil (olive oil preferred), the vinegar, egg yolk, mustard, salt, peppercorns and garlic. Beat together with a wire whisk or rotary egg beater. Put the dressing in the refrigerator to chill at least one hour. Strain the dressing.

Cut sliced white bread into 1-3 inch cubes. Melt the vegetable fat in a large frying pan. Add 2 cloves garlic and saute until brown. Remove garlic. Add bread. Pan fry, stirring constantly, until the cubes are light brown. Avoid a strong flame or bread may burn. Remove bread cubes from the fire.

Tear the romaine and lettuce into small pieces. Remove the root ends of the spinach and grind very fine in 6 cold waters before chopping.

In a large mixing bowl put 1-4 cup of the dressing, the romaine, lettuce, blue cheese, egg, spinach and bread cubes. Toss lightly. Add salt to taste.

Store balance of the dressing in refrigerator for future use.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BERGEMAN

Visitor Courtesy En Route

A charming way for you to delight your hosts is to send them a telegram while you are on your way home, or at once after you have arrived home. A thoughtful gesture to register an engagingly frank and mannerly appreciation. "We had a gloriously happy time, and have just voted you and your family the world's perfect hosts. Love to all and thanks to all."

(P.S.—This doesn't release you from the 'must' of writing a bread-and-butter letter within two or three days after you arrived home.)

Labor Day wedding generally means summer attire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is to be married in church on Labor Day, September 3rd. Would it be correct for me to wear a blue sheer dress with navy accessories, or would it be better for me to wear a dress appropriate for fall?

Helen

Labor Day in your part of the country is regarded more as "summer" than "fall". Hence I should advise you wearing the blue sheer dress with white accessories. However, it is most important that you consult with the bride's mother as to the type of costume she will wear, because the type you plan should correspond in form. But blue sheer with white accessories could be adapted to any type of costume.

Reception in unusual circumstances

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a young widow, and am to be married soon to a divorced man. We are going out of the state to be married. Would it be correct for us to have a reception on our return the same day?

E. M. S.

Yes. But wouldn't it be best, in the circumstances far less if you wait to give the gathering for your friends and friends when you have returned from your wedding trip? Perhaps a Sunday afternoon party, or perhaps a housewarming?

How the rule of courtesy works

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When I write to a married couple, and wish to include both of them in the news of the letter, should I write the salutation "Dear Arthur and Maria" or "Dear Maria and Arthur"?

2. And when I wish to sign a note or a letter with both my name and my husband's, should I sign "John and Margaret" or "Margaret and John"?

Margaret

These two questions are answered by that fine Rule of Courtesy.

1. In the salutation write "Dear Maria and Arthur" . . . courtesy to Maria.

2. In the signature when you are the writer, the husband's name write "John and Margaret" . . . your name last, in courtesy to your John.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Right wrinkles before you get them

Tactful beautician, when confronted by the cash-customer who has little seams in her face, tell the poor dear that after all, they are just character lines. This is small comfort to the woman who recalls sadly the day when her skin was satin-smooth with never a crinkle in it. Character, indeed! Her character can take care of itself without any facial evidence!

A course of facials is a grand idea

There are many women, in their sixties and seventies, who have no need of weeping over wrinkles. They took time by the scruff of the neck and started early on a campaign to defeat the birthdays. Wrinkles come because of the softening of the tissues, leaving the skin too large so it falls into folds. The reasons for their appearance are several—ill health, lack of cosmetic attention, emotional binges, lots of sleep and the bad habit of letting the face muscles relax whenever you talk. The serene, philosophical woman has an immunity against them.

Before the use of cosmetics became general women aged early, as you will realize if you take a look through the old family photograph album. It is a fact that has been demonstrated again and again that the skin needs lubrication and a certain amount of friction to keep tissues and glands in condition.

If the beauty budget can stand the strain, it is a grand idea to have a course of facials at a reliable pulchritude salon. The skin surface gets such a cleansing, the tissues, the fibres are stimulated by the manipulations of trained fingers, and the patron will find that the change she can put to use during that bedtime session with the mirror.

If even tiny thread-like lines are in evidence, there are ways to diminish them so they will not dig in deeper. Crinkles around the eyes, for instance, are the first signs that time is going to no longer within touch of youth's bloom. Meet them at once with a heavy cream, place it on the eyelid close to the nose, sweep outward to the temple, do several circles there for good measure, come back under the eye to starting point.

Frowns forming? Apply plenty of cream to those brow uprights. Place thumb at the lower end of them, first finger above; keep that finger stationary, iron upward with the thumb, lifting the flesh out of the grooves.

Sometimes, because of the bony formation of the jaws, furrows will extend from nostrils to lip ends. Pick up the flesh at the lower end, go slipping upward. Then do small circles, also upward. Never drag the flesh down, never push it into folds.

Have you learned your lesson? Good girl! Go to the head of the class.

Fashion Flashes

INTEREST IS DIRECTED to the sleeve in many of the frocks designed for the season ahead. A little flutter of material achieves a puffed effect on the sleeves with a series of tucks at the top, stemming from a shoulder seam and repeated at the side back of the sleeve, with the lower edge crossed in a petal-like arrangement. Makes for a broad shoulder which gives a nice balance to the fitted waistline and flowing skirt, the latter done with side tuck detail.

STILL THE WINNAH in the silhouette sstry is the line that marks the small waist and fitted midriff. Which is why the corset designers are concentrating on the high-waisted girdle, many extending down for a half inches above the waistline, which, while not overly indented, curves gracefully.

MUCH MORE, than just the regular task of a slip is performed by many of the new designs. A useful slip with figure-corrected duty is or nylon with wired nylon, strapless bra and a wide midriff of girdle satin, which is a perfect slip, bra and girdle combination for the average figure.

TURNING from contemplation of the forthcoming modes, we stroll the beaches to see what's the latest in resort rags. We find that the stole is still a mighty smart fashion, and we like a new one of fishnet throw with a slipthrough arrangement for one arm. It is decorated with all-over designs of cork and shells, matched on with bits of colored yarn.

LOADS OF COLOR mark cloths developed for general and beach wear come autumn. Handsome tones in the magnificent wool fleece in citron yellow lined with grey wool jersey, worn with a yellow wool jersey skirt and top of all-over tucked gray silk chiffon, sleeveless and low of neck.

LATE DAY elegance is well expressed in a series of theatre suits of taffeta brocade, one in deep violet with a tiny black brocade figure, another in dark brown with a black design, another in dark gray with rose.

Infiltration More Dangerous Than Armed Invasion

Washington, Aug. 17 — (AP) — Senator Pat McCarran (Democrat-Nev.) said today a massive, illegal infiltration of aliens into the United States is "potentially more dangerous" than an armed invasion.

The influx would provide an enemy country "a ready-made fifth-column," he declared.

Secret testimony of immigration officials, he said in a statement, showed that:

1. Aliens illegally in the United States are concealed in the millions, and may total 2,500,000.

2. Among them are "militant communists, Sicilian bandits and other criminals "in vast numbers."

3. The immigration service has many small effort to locate and deport the undesirable foreigners because of a variety of factors, including lack of staff and money.

McCarran's statement accompanied a report by the Senate subcommittee which he heads in an investigation of subversive activities.

Another member of the subcommittee, Senator Herbert O'Conner (Dem.-Md.) said in a separate statement that Windsor, Ont., and Buffalo, N.Y., are key points for aliens seeking illegal entry into the U.S. He said arrests for illegal entry from Mexico total 500,000 a year.

The sub-committee report quoted C. H. Pennington, chief of the Immigration Service's New York Investigations Unit, as testifying about rich and powerful alien smuggling rings, well organized and "using highly paid criminal lawyers skilled at finding loopholes in the laws."

Defending Reds Knocked off Four Hills in E. Korea

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 20—(AP) — South Korean infantrymen using hand grenades and bayonets knocked stubbornly-defending communists off four hills in eastern Korea today.

The south Koreans were within 100 yards of the top of two other hills.

Bitter hand-to-hand fights flared along the front from Kumhwa to the east coast.

There has been no full-scale assaults by either side since ceasefire talks started in Kaesong July 10, But the Allies have charged that the reds have suffered 9,580 casualties in the last three weeks.

The eighth army said also that south Koreans are going the allied fighting one man army with material fronts, supported by U.S. naval vessels on the east coast, heavy air strikes and United Nations artillery.

Air war flared again during the weekend, as fighters raided the three swirling battles Saturday and Sunday. The fifth air force said 18 communist planes in the air battles were destroyed, one probably destroyed and seven damaged. All allied planes returned safely.

The Rok troops counted 113 communists dead on one of their captured hills.

Three short engagements were reported Sunday south of Kaesong where cease-fire talks are deadlocked, West of Korangpo, also on the western front, an allied patrol withdrew after contacting a communist platoon.

With Mrs. Vella and a county Sam Gentile of Picton, the Windy City lonsorial artist sought the big ones in the Bay of Quinte. He hooked one but it got away when within three feet of the boat.

Last Monday it was different. Fishing near Adolphustown he landed a 34½ pound muskie that in future will beer witness to Vella's prowess with hook and line, from a choice spot in his Chicago barber shop.

28 Believed Dead After Explosion On British Tanker

Singapore, Aug. 20 (Reuters) — Twenty-eight people are believed dead following a violent explosion and fire early today aboard the British tanker Dromonby while it was loading gasoline at Balikpapan, Borneo, it was announced here.

Three of the 8,036-ton ship's British officers and more than half of the crew are reported to be dead.

Thirteen bodies have been recovered.

The Dromus was manned by 13 British officers and 38 Chinese crew.

Capt. H. G. Watkins, who was ashore when the explosion occurred, said he did not know what caused it.

The Dromus burned fiercely for six hours but except for a few small fires aboard the tanker did not spread to the island, where 250,000 tons of oil is in storage.

Democrats Defend Eastern Policies Of President

Washington, Aug. 20 (AP) — Democrats today defended President Truman's Korean and Far Eastern policies and assailed a Republican assertion that any final peace which leaves Korea divided would be a "delusion."

Eight Republicans, in a week-end report on the inquiry into the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, called for "liberation and unification" of Korea.

They blamed what they labeled "appeasement" policies of Truman and State Secretary Dean Acheson for the rise of China to the communists. They said the policies have created a serious part of America's difficulties with communism in Asia.

Answering unofficially, Senator Lester Hunt (Dem.-Wyo.) said that if the eight Republicans speaking for Styles Bridges of New Hampshire—want to risk a third world war by "accession to demands in Korea they ought to say so flatly.

He criticized an assertion in the report that a settlement south of the Yalu River border of Manchuria would "admit the success of Chinese aggressors."

Senator Tydings (Dem.-Md.) was one of the authors of the report, told a reporter he and others don't contemplate that a cease-fire agreement must provide complete withdrawal of the reds from Korea.

"But there will be no permanent peace short of the unification of Korea," he said, "we will be kidding ourselves if we believe there will be."

The joint committee voted last Friday not to issue a report to the Senate on the long investigation. It was decided, however, to let individual members of the inquiry committee file a statement of their views.

Three Colonels Arrive in Korea For Courts Martial

By BILL ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

West Sector, Korea, Aug. 20— (CP)—Three Canadian army colonels reached Korea by plane Saturday to begin the courts martial of three Canadian soldiers for murder and assault. They are charged with killing a Korean civilian last March.

Col. W. Clement Dick of Toronto said the talks will start at Seoul as soon as possible. The other members of the court are Col. C. B. Ware of London and Calgary and Col. A. G. Chubb of Halifax.

Brig. John M. Rockingham, commander of the 25th Brigade, told The Canadian Press that the dates and sequence of the trials will be announced late after a conference of his staff officers responsible but that he expected to announce the dates shortly.

Reuters reported that three members of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Second Battalion, go on trial in Seoul, Korea, Wednesday.

Reuters said the charges of rape and murder arose from the death of a Korean named Ei Chong on the night of March 17 in a Korean village about 25 miles south of the 38th parallel. The report added that the army said that in addition to the murder count each of the accused had been charged with criminal assault and common assault. Details will be released later.

Hitler Would Have Reduced Russia to Country of Serfs If He Had Won Says Book

By CARL FLECK-STEGER

Bonn, Aug. 20, (AP) — Hitler had in his own words "what he would have done had he won the war, in records of some of his official conversations published in Germany.

The book, entitled "Hitler's Table Chats", published by the German Institute of History of the National Socialist period, was agency of the West-German government, reveals that Hitler, had he been victorious, would in fact Reduced Russia to a country of serfs.

He stimulated conquered territories in Eastern Europe with "Germanic" peoples from Northwestern Europe and Scandinavia.

Churchill Might Celebrate 77th Birthday at Downing St.

London, Aug. 20. (AP)—Winston Churchill likes to note, in private conversations, that William Gladstone became prime minister for the last time when he was 82.

Churchill isn't quite ,that old. But it's plain that he aims to run the government once more.

If politics run the course expected by many political observers, the general will celebrate his 77th birthday next November at 10 Downing Street.

A general election is likely within the next few months and Conservative victory is believed almost certain. Most observers predict the Tories may win a majority as big as it was in the 625-seat House of Commons.

Now the political stream is a confusion of cross currents.

Prime Minister Attlee's second Labor administration, with only a slim cushion of control in the House, is in constant danger of having an election forced on it.

The Conservatives recently have come close to defeating the government. Labor's effective majority is only five.

Lately the government also has been criticized by its own left wing, whose leading members quit the Cabinet over the arms bill and its inroads into the welfare state.

Favorite date of political pundits is October, 3, 1-2 years before Attlee's term normally would expire. If the Tories should win Churchill would be prime minister again.

His parliamentary "intimates" believe he would take little active part in running the government.

They say he regards Britain's greatest need is a revival of the "Churchill spirit" which he himself made her great, and that he is the man to inspire the revival.

A general election would employ his gift of oratory to stir the country as he did in the glum days after Dunkerque, when he set the detailed administration to his lieutenants.

The Tories accuse Labor of doing many things wrongly. But they have not been united on their specific remedies for many of the evils they rail against.

The Conservatives cry loudly against high taxes but haven't said what taxes could safely be cut.

They protest the high cost of the welfare state but seem to be unable to cut it much without inviting political suicide.

Churchill advocates private enterprise and an end to economic controls. But he has declared he has led to unemployment, and the United States is increasing consumption, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry who qualify will start moving homeward. To qualify, they must have at least eight months including one winter in Korea. About 900 of the 920 in the men with the Battalion now qualify.

The bulk of the 25th Brigade, however, will spend this winter in Korea because they didn't get there until May. They will come home as soon as possible next year.

The men will move by companies.

Send Rifle Companies

To replace those Patricias who come home the army will send two of the four rifle companies, headquarters company and other small other troops from the 1st (23rd Brigade) Battalion of the Canadian Guards and later will send the support company of the 1st Battalion and a rifle company from the 3rd (replacement group) Battalion at Wainright, Alta.

This movement will start in September or early October.

The same system will be followed in rotating the other 2nd Battalions with their 1st Battalions.

Those men who volunteer for part-time training will receive medical checks and re-enlist for the regular army during the period and then they will be flown home about 50 a week, given 30-days leave and then returned to Korea, for paratroop training.

The aim, said the announcement, is to have trained and ready for troopers by the time their own units come back from Korea next year "and to continue an operational role in Canada."

Youth Festival Ends in Blaze Of Hate for West

Berlin, Aug. 20—(AP)—The communist youth festival ended in a blaze of hate for the west last night with 500,000 disciplined youth chanting allegiance to Stalin.

They crowded buses and trains for their homes behind the iron curtain today leaving a weary Berlin to clean up after the two-week long "peace" demonstration.

Despite the outward show of red strength among the world's young people, official western observers said they would report to their governments that the festival was a "sour disaster" for communism in Germany.

They drew three main conclusions from the activities of the last weeks during which about 3,000,000 red-indoctrinated kids visited east Berlin. At least 1,-000,000 of these are estimated to have visited the west to sightsee, for political reasons or just to kick up a row, as many came to the United States or British cantonments.

1. East Berlin youths were exposed to west Berlin in such numbers, and liked it so well that they may change their minds behind the iron curtain with propaganda.

2. Many delegates from the satellite countries, restricted to the Soviet sector of Berlin during their visit, were impressed by the fact that the cause of communism does not seem stopped cold at the border and hasn't the ideological strength to push westward.

3. Lack of enthusiasm among German youth cast a sharp reflection on the Soviet propaganda mission work and the men responsible for it.

The festival ended after two-hours of feverish anti-western speeches last night with the band taking rite reminiscent of Nazi mysticism.

The youths were told to vow to wreck the plans of the western "warmakers."

"We swear it, we swear it, we swear it!" They chanted three times in unison, raising their clenched fists in the red salute as searchlights played on a giant portrait of Stalin.

Mr. Henderson's itinerary includes visits to air force stations at Winnipeg, Moose Jaw, Ontario and Manitoba. He will also hold brief talks with the Cabinet Defence Committee and the Chiefs of Staff Committee.

At Cozumel Island, details of the hurricane's damage were lacking. As Isla Mujeres, a small island south of Cozumel, the inhabitants of the village had swarmed into the streets in panic, the island's radio reported shortly before it too shut down.

In Jamaica, Kingston survived the hurricane's heaviest blow. The British capital island counted 109 dead and totalled its property damage at £20,000,000.

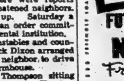
Jamaica's sugar crop, hard hit by the ferocious winds and the 17-inch deluge that accompanied, Air Port Royal at the end of a thin, sandy strip of land that bounds Kingston harbor, with every building was damaged. Four persons were killed in this town of 7,000.

Eight persons died at May Pen, near the former U.S. base, Vernam Field.

Round up Prisoners

Round up - SHRDLU SHRDLU

Authorities at Kingston sought to round up the 70 prisoners who gained their freedom when the big blow toppled a wall of the island's penitentiary.



The island's poor house and mental hospital also were battered, and the government reported that several persons were killed when the roofs on these structures collapsed.

The chore of restoring order and essential services was under way as the storm's rapidity as monitoring on the island allowed.

Reports received said the rich banana crop in some areas was blown down.

Observers meanwhile kept a weather eye fitted toward a new "area of suspicion" kicking up in the Caribbean sea south of Puerto Rico. In this warm spawning ground of hurricanes, barometric pressures were tumbling and winds were shifting.

They found Thompson sitting on his farmhouse steps. The two police approached and out of the back seat of the car and Thompson whipped out a knife.

"Get going!" Thompson shouted. "Get out of here."

While the men scrambled into the car and wheeled it out of the driveway, Thompson ducked into the house for his gun and fired a blast that wounded Dixon.

Extreme caution was advised on the northern Yucatan peninsula, especially in the vicinity of Merida and the easterly waters.

After bringing terror, death and destruction to Jamaica, the hurricane lashed a glancing blow, powered by a 90-mile-an-hour wind, at the British Island of Grand Cayman.

Thursday sweeping along a northwesterly path, the big blow crashed over Cozumel Island and fell with tremendous force against the Yucatan peninsula.

A 250-mile strip of land without a city was directly in the path.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

ONE OF THOSE THINGS!

A perfect double play, one of those sometimes read about and seldom seen, broke the Redmen hopes against Kiwanis Saturday afternoon when the Reds lost a close thriller by a 6-5 score.

They bowed again to that first inning jinx which netted the foe three runs and had whittled that down to a 6-5 count when they came up last in the top of the ninth. Rommy Mulholland walked and Johnny Dean teed off on a terrific right field drive that sent the fielder to the fence in a leaping catch. Vern Geyer drove a similar through second that slowed up to the grass and Leroy Ferguson, Kiwanis centre-fielder with a perfect throw caught Sammy sliding at third. The third - racker whipped the ball to second base in a leap into and Geyer was out in a twin killing.

'Twas a thriller with both squads erring but once and each collecting ten clouts, Johnny Mowat tolled till the eighth when the "Ole" Catcher went in to send the Leafs tumbling down.

Tonight the Dizzyettes are back here for a return visit. Now if some kind gent will hor-tic, choke to death or even anaesthetize that ornery first-inning gremlin that has been riding herd on the Reds for the past month or so, everything should be hunky-dory. It's setting as the outside spuads are dubbing our side the "Spot-'em-Three" Redmen. Coach Pat Wilson will send young Billy Strahan out there this evening to stop the Leaders. The latter's record this season is tops with the spring Balawa Skeemen eyeing their fourth-place slot with hungry eyes.

TOO MUCH "GREEN"!

It could have been the lights, it could have been the fact it was Saturday night when the boys are accustomed to bath, brownies and beans, and a quiet evening at home with the little woman. (Well, it's a good try, anyway). In any event Glens Boys, city softball champs this year, had a busy, with spots in front of their eyes, and wondering where the sudden squalls were coming from. . .

The weather was perfect. No blame on anything atmospheric. The spirit was there, no setballs, the size of pomegranate seeds whistling past their bludgeons while the squalls were the spuds precipitated from the speed of the upholstered baseballs.

The cause for all this dismay in the ranks of the Glens was young Master Robert Green, Bakelite's sterling forkrider who was commandeered by Cleaner Combines to do a spot of hurling in their contest with the Glens in order to calculate the first game under lights at the Alemite Field in quite some time.

Master Green hung out the red light at the first pitch and left it there until scarcely an hour later when the last Glen subbed his way around and wandered in a daze to the dugout. Nine of 'em, count 'em — nine, went down swinging in a row. And they were the first nine to look Master Green in the eye. Strikeen faced him in the first five chukkers. It was the last batting fest we have seen at Alemite Field in many a moon.

The Cleaner fielders had an easy time. In fact after the third innings Coach Brian Mugridge Mowat lost hope of sending the shortstop out there to make a fourth for bridge. The second baseman asked for an introduction when a Glen batter reached his ballwick by virtue of the only two walks issued by Green. If it hadn't been for under-sightedness, "Ben" Dean would have handed back the base umpire's stipend. At one time he inquired if anyone had a portable radio set handy. "Bawdy" was bored.

However the Glens trio of hurlers weren't off the beam either. Don Boyle, Marty Halloran and Bob Hunter issued but five hits, and struck out ten between them. All-in-all it was an outstanding game, one of the best the Glendale Softballers have had, but both teams staged a diamond duel that would put some of the better league fixtures well in the background.

SOFTBALL UNDER LIGHTS

The new lights at Alemite Field will do, says an official statement. President Don Lee of the Commercial Softball League after conferring with the executive committee following Saturday night's game said that the lighting is adequate and with some minor adjustments is suitable for night-play and OASA playdowns. He went on to say that city-playoffs will be staged this week-end in doubleheaders, the first game a twilight affair and the second under the klelgs. To get off the beam for the moment, Manager Don McNevin of Glen Rays expressed his sincere appreciation of the fine assistance and co-operation given by members of the Belleville Fire Department and Hydro in the job of getting the field lights in operating order.

LOCAL AUTO DRIVERS CLICK!

Auto racing drivers who get their mail in this part of the province came through with flying colors at Dick Burrowes Speedway Highland meet on Saturday. The card was strictly city and district throttle engineers and the boys staged some thrilling races in their first "special day". They deserve a lot of credit since this is their first year at auto racing and the majority, with more experience will stack up with the best in the province. There were no accidents despite the fact the junkers roared around the dangerous turns at high speed. The excellence of the track and safety facilities for both drivers and spectators give the former a confidence that is not experienced on tracks not especially equipped for events of this nature.

Tribe Splits With White Sox, Philly Thumps Yanks 15-1 Red Sox Trail by 3½ Games

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Is this going to be the calamitous 1943 campaign all over again for the skidding Brooklyn Dodgers?

A week ago, Dodgers were riding high, laughing their way to the pennant with a 13-game bulge over runner-up New York Giants.

Today, following Sunday's 14-3 pasting in Boston, Brooks' lead now is a "mere" eight games over the rejuvenated Giants. That means that Giants, who whipped Philadelphia 5-4 for their ninth straight, have made up five games in a week.

Those eight lengths still represent an apparently safe margin, especially since the Dodgers have only 39 games left to play. But back in 1943, Brooklyn enjoyed an 8½-game lead over St. Louis Cardinals with 35 games to go—and lost the pennant to the Redbirds by one game.

It took the Cards 18 days and 23 games to make up the deficit. The present Indians may not move in front and were never headed.

While the Giants are trying to make a race of it in the National League, the American League continues at fever edge. Cleveland Indians regained undisputed possession of first place by splitting a pair with the White Sox in Chicago while Detroit Tigers edged Yanks 4-3 on Vic Wertz's burying New York Yankees under a 15-1 deluge. The Indians now are 4½ games ahead of the Tigers in front of the defending champions.

Red Sox Bounce Back

Boston's bounce-back Red Sox whipped Washington 8-3 to climb 3½ games off first place, Fourth-place Detroit swept a pair from St. Louis' cellar-dwelling Browns 3-2 and 6-3.

St. Louis Cardinals vaulted over the Phils into third place, winning two from Cincinnati 5-4 and 5-1. Pittsburgh Pirates took two from Chicago Cubs 4-3 and 5-4.

A Chicago turnout of 46,864 saw Early Wynn blank the White Sox with seven hits in the opener, then watched the White Sox win the nightcap with a five-run seventh inning. Al Zarilla's ninth homer with a mate aboard proved the difference.

A nine-run seventh—the biggest single-inning scoring spree in the Yankees this season—helped Morris Martin knock the Yankees out of a first-place tie. Dave Philley collected five hits in five times at bat.

Williams Gets 24th

Ted Williams blasted his 25th homer and 24th of the season in Boston's 14-hit attack. Bob Porterfield for five runs in the first inning to give Boston a lead Detroit swept a pair from St. Louis' cellar-dwelling Browns 3-2 and 6-3.

Pat Mullin and George Kell sparked the Tigers to their double win before 18,360, largest Detroit baseball crowd since May, 1947. Mullin had three doubles and three singles and Kell had a double and four singles.

Don Mueller's eighth-inning single scored Whitey Lockman with the run that gave the Giants their victory.

Warren Spahn chalked up his 15th win as the Braves slaughtered the Reds behind Ted Gregory and Willard Marshall homered for the victors. The loss was Brooklyn's fifth in its last seven games.

Bobby Green's Two-Hit Effort Blanks Glens 2-0

Glen Roy's city champions finished and spoiled their eyes under the lights at Alemite Field Saturday night, but that's about all they did. They were not batting when the end of the ninth inning rolled around and found them on the short end of a 2-0 score in an OASA battle with Cleaner Combines of the AA section.

They couldn't blame 'em. For nine innings they poked and prodded at the lightning shoots of one Bobby Green, Bakelite ace southpaw, who handcuffed, hogtied and made 'em sit up and beg for the entire route.

Master Green struck out 13 of the champions, whiffing the first batter he faced and only allowed but two walks and two hits, one of them a blooper that dropped outside the left field line. A Glen plunked a foot on third base.

Green's two walks were clustered in the sixth, the only inning the champion batsmen got. The best they could do was get a man to second when Green settled and retired the side. He was afforded excellent support, the only error of the game coming when a Cleaner infielder dropped an easy fly.

Glens used Don Boyle, Marty Halloran and Bob Hunter in the losing assignment. The latter trio allowed but five clouts, one a triple in the sixth which scored the game. Hunter issued the only Glen walk. Boyle and Halloran each struck out four and Hunter two.

Cleaners scored one run in the third off two of their five hits, and the other in the fourth off a hit and the Glen fielding.

Cleaners used A. Adams besides Green to bolster their regular lineup. Roger Mallory and Alf. Rowbotham were missing from the Glen lineup.

Despite its exhibitional nature, the game was one of the best seen at Alemite field this season.

The score:

Glen Roy	000	000 000—0 2 0
Cleaners	001	100 000—2 5 1

Royals, Wings Still Rolling; Leafs, Chiefs Split

(By The Associated Press)

Lanky Carl Drews, veteran hailstorm of baseball batsmen, is hopeful of becoming a 20-game winner for the first time in his career.

The 31-year-old righthander started in organized baseball in 1939, but never achieved the charmed circle, although he came close with 19 victories with Newark in 1945.

Drews became the first International League hurler to win 16 games yesterday as he tamed the Buffalo Bisons 2-1 in 10 innings.

The hard-working mound-man, who performed briefly in the American League with New York Yankees and St. Louis Browns, pitched his 19th complete game while making his 35th appearance of the season. He has tolled 227 innings for the sixth-place Clippers.

Drew was aided at bat by Al Cihocki and Mary Rickert. Cihocki's 10-inning triple batted in the decisive run, while Rickert's single in the 11th drove in Cihocki for the eighth inning.

The league-leading Montreal Royals continued to roll as they captured a doubleheader from Ottawa Senators 11-1 and 4-1. Bob Alexander racked up his 15th triumph in the opener and Tom Poholsky added a brilliant two-hitter in the nightcap.

Rochester Red Wings, trailing the Royals by 13½ games, edged Springfield Cubs 4-3 in 10 innings. Jim (Cot) Deal, recently acquired from Columbus of the American Association, won the game with a home run in the extra inning. Southpaw Ed Wilhelm was credited with his 12th victory.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Syracuse Chiefs divided a twin bill, Hal Hudson and Ray Shore, appearing in his 42nd game, combined to pitch Toronto to a 4-2 win in the opener. The Chiefs came back behind Dick Scott and Jack Griffore to annex the second 8-3.

Veeck Signs Clown, Midget

(By The Canadian Press)

Since showman Bill Veeck took over as owner of St. Louis Browns, fans have come to expect almost everything—even a throwing contract.

And that's just about what they witnessed Sunday.

A Lilliputian midget appeared as a pinch batter for the Browns and set a clever target at first in a doubleheader against Detroit Tigers. Both have been signed to throwing contracts.

The club lost both games, but Veeck's stunts paid off at the gate. The program drew 18,369 paying customers, the Brown's largest crowd at home in more than four years.

The midget, 26-year-old Ed Gaedel of Chicago, was the first batter to face Detroit pitcher Bob Cain in the second game. He was walked.

Umpire Ed Hurley questioned Gaedel's eligibility, but manager Zack Taylor produced ed the midget's signed contract.

Kingston Driver Wins Feature At Auto Races

Warren Day, Kingston, led a field of ten stock car drivers to the feature race victory at Speedway Parkland on Saturday afternoon.

The Kingston driver, drove a splendid race taking the lead from the start and never batting after the first three laps and was never headed. Ten Broad, Belleville and Earl Thompson, Kingston, were the runners up. In a wire after Clarence Johnson, one of the afternoon's big winners was forced to drop out.

Only four cars finished the ten-lap grind, the other cooking out because of mechanical difficulties. Day grabbed a four-length lead at the fourth lap but was forced to pit to dig out to snatch the victory.

Belleville Driver Wins

Johnson proved one of the better drivers on the all-district meet which attracted twelve entries. The Belleville driver won the first heat, a four-lapper; finished second to Day in the second heat and the third for the day's total of two firsts and one second.

Another of the skill of these drivers who are experiencing their first year at auto racing is seen in the heat times. They showed excellent control of their vehicles with not an accident marred the meet. Their times were good for a possible 100. Slaughter then won the cast-off.

North Jury of Toronto scored 88 in the fly-casting event.

Three Speed Marks Cracked In Air Races

Detroit, Aug. 20. (AP)—Keepers of American and world records began rewriting their books today, because no less than three speed marks were cracked during the weekend in the National Air races.

Only one record, civilian or military, withstood assaults in what experts agreed was the "greatest demonstration of air power in history."

More than 100,000 persons saw the big show, 91,000 of them turning out Sunday. The races and demonstrations were run off in ideal weather.

Not only air force and civilian pilots got into the show but so did the Navy, Marines, the R.C.A.F.—and the U.S. Army.

Hundreds of planes split the air including the still-secret B-45 Jet bomber. Almost another 100 were on exhibition on the ground.

Col. Fred J. Ascani of Rockford, Ill., broke the world and American records for a 100-kilometre (62-mile) closed course Sunday in the Thompson trophy race. Flying an F-86 Sabre jet fighter, Ascani averaged 628.698 miles an hour, compared with a world record of 605.230 miles an hour established in 1948 by a British Supermarine.

In a Friday warmup, Col. Ascani averaged 635.411 miles an hour, a speed of 553.781 knots, by the National Aeronautics Association. NAA officials said this would be certified to the Federation Aeronautic Internationale for world record for a closed course.

Col. Kirk K. Compton of St. Joseph, Mo., set a transcontinental Bendix Trophy record with an average speed of 553.781 in a Sabre flying between Muroc Air Base, Calif., and Detroit. The previous record of 322.752 miles an hour was set in 1949 by Maj. Vernon A. Ford, jr.

John Paul Jones of Van Nuys, Calif., won the Continental trophy for midget planes for the second straight year in record-breaking time. He averaged 197.216 miles an hour for the 97 1-2 mile course.

The old Continental record which Jones set last year was 187.783.

The only record to withstand assault was the Allison Trophy race, won by Lieut. William D. Beasley, of San Francisco and Austin, Tex.

Kingston Edges Redmen 6-5 After 'Jinx' Spots 'Em Three'

By MAURICE H. REID

Kingston Disney Lacals, taking advantage of seven walks, eked out a 6-5 victory over the Belleville Redmen in the Quinte Cricket Field on Wednesday evening.

The win strengthened the Leafs' hold on third place in the OCBL standings and left the Redmen hanging precariously to the fourth and last playoff berth.

Two unearned runs in the bottom of the fifth proved to be enough for the Disney-sponsored outfit. Jerry Wagar opened the frame with a clean single and went to third on a wild pitch. Carnegie was retired but Richards walked and advanced to second when Wagar scoring on a passed ball. Allan walked. Aitken lifted a high fly to Mulholland in centre but Sammy dropped it with Richards scoring and Allan rounding third. Aitken was picked off trying to steal second to end the frame.

All lasting drama.

Kingston capitalized on the unpredictable Redmen for three of their others in the first frame. The Reds once again succumbed to that fifth inning jinx that has dogged them since early in the season.

The Reds knotted the count with a trio of runs in the top of the ninth. Mulholland started it bouncing one by. Richards into centre for a single. Reeves was retired on an infield ground-out with Billy advancing to second from third on the play. Richards stole a single to centre. Mulholland singled and both runners advanced a base. Pitcher Jerry Goyer then sliced one into centre scoring both runners. Richards an error by Richards on Strahan's ground ball. He scored on Mowatt's fly ball to right field.

Miss Chance

The Redmen missed a beautiful chance to knot the game, or even win it, in the ninth inning. Mulholland started things off with a single. Johnson Dean drove one a long fly ball to right field that Milne made an almost unconscious catch on the run and then over his head to drag it in. Goyer followed with a long fly to centre. Mulholland coming in. In the meantime, Goyer, seeing the throw going to third, went down to second. Third baseman White retrieved the ball in time to have it tagged Goyer for the third out and ending the game.

Goyer let Redmen garnering four hits in five trips to the plate. Gilmour gets honors including a double and Milne and Don Gilmour each hit twice. Milne carved a pair of singles and Gilmour and Wagar each had a two-base knock.

Mowatt started and went seven full innings for the visitors. He allowed but three hits in three; three wild pitches as his control was unsteady. Noakes took over for the last two frames, passed one as well as whiffing another while not giving up a hit.

Youthful Billy Richards went the distance on the hill for the homesters. He threw seven hits, issued only two free passes and struck out three others.

Watertown, N.Y., Aug. 20 — (AP)—Bob Faris of Wichita, Kan., was credited today with cracking the world's distance record for "very light" planes, landed Saturday night after a flight of approximately 1,210 miles.

Faris touched his one-place Mooney "Mite" down at the airport in the nearby village of Dexter. He had originally planned to fly to Old Forge, N.Y.

But Faris reported that he had only 13 gallons of gasoline left and that he would be unable to reach Old Town. At that time, he radioed, that he was over Belleville, Ont., crossing the Grand River, south of Hamilton.

"Smoky" Smith, Brockville southpaw won the Saturday tilt, limiting the losers to but Muffitti and Bunton yielding nine to the winners.

Non-Favorite Wins Top Award In Dom. Shoot

Meaford, Ont., Aug. 20—(CP)—The 82nd official edition cadet Saturday bested 130 other competitors to win the Governor-General's trophy at the Governor-General's match at the 53rd annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association.

Harold C. Gunter of Saint John, N.B., slightly built young cadet who was not among the list of favorites, won the coveted prize, the Canadian Legion award for marksmanship, in a four-way shoot-off.

In the match proper he tied with three veteran riflemen with a score of 198 of a possible 175 from 300, 600 and 900 yards. Also scoring 198 were Capt. G. J. Gaudet, Moncton, N.B.; Cpl. D. Bestack, Winnipeg, and RSM C. Foam of Montreal.

Gunter fired 82rd in the qualifying stage of the Governor-General's match Thursday. He is in his third year at the University of New Brunswick and has been attending the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers School at Kingston.

A bot sun beat down on the range for the match wound up the week-long meet. Some of the competitors complained that they were bothered by the sun's mirage.

The shoot-off, Gunter scored four bulls-eyes and dropped to a magpie three on the other in a regulation match. Officials said that was all he needed to give him a one-point margin over Bestack who also finished second with a score of 22 out of a possible 25.

Capt. Gamble and Capt. Bestack tied for third with scores of 21.

Diamond Dust From the Minors

The following teams will represent Belleville in the O. B. A. playdowns: Team Moe, Walker Equipment, Bantam, Rob-Royals; Midget, Canadian Legion, Br. 96; Juvenile, Jaycees.

Should any of these teams go further than the first round it will be necessary for each to secure a sponsor.

League competition throughout the past season has provided the fans with some keen competition, and given them some baseball knowhow.

Managers, coaches and the executive have tried to impress the players with the need of clear thinking, good physical condition, and understanding of the rules, and a sportsmanlike attitude toward competitors.

Rough-house tactics are generally used by players to cover up their lack of skill in any form of baseball in the game in which this bluff will not work.

It is a game that is highly competitive, and is taken very seriously in the U. S. A., any boy who possesses the ambitions must think of baseball as they do. Bad language and bad habits must be done in good sport and must be guarded against.

Baseball has been advised this year to concentrate on their control. Control will be the keynote of their practice. A catcher is probably the most important man on the team. His duties include the responsibility of judging the weakness of every batter. He must be a better hitter than anyone else on the team, and a good catcher can help keep them or considerably. Every man on the field should figure that every ball he hits the most sensible place to be hit in his direction. If this is kept in mind by you you will seldom hit the most sensible place. Keep alert as to how many are out and the position of the runners. It is also very important that you be accurate in throwing the ball. Wild pitches lose many games, so do not hurry your throws if you are off balance.

Please remember, fellows, you represent Belleville and your actions will reflect, for good or bad your home town. Remember, "Luck this in your hats and keep it there "It is not that we win but how we play the game. Let that be your theme and you will enjoy sports for what they are.

To you fellows that have been eliminated we would suggest that you challenge the winners in the various clubs to help keep them in condition, and to improve your own ability for next year.

A volunteer will be needed to transport the teams to out-of-town playdown games and it would be very grateful, indeed to know of anyone who would be willing to help out.

Let's get behind our group winners and give them our wholehearted support.

In the east, Hamilton Tiger-Cats won their second straight exhibition game against big Ottawa Rough Riders 26-17. Last week they beat Argonauts 17-1.

The fourth Big Four club, Montreal Alouettes, breezed to a 45-0 victory in a tune-up game against the intermediate Westmount Warriors.

The grind resumes tonight in Winnipeg for Argos who will meet the Blue Bombers in an exhibition repeat of the 1950 Grey Cup final, won 13-0 by Toronto.

Two yardsticks are the sport of the story in the west, Argos steamrolled 250 yards skirting up 100. Edmonton ploughed through for 268 yards rushing compared with Roughriders' 84.

Bugle Fewers Argos

Doug Smylie powered Argos to two touchdowns in the first half. Import quarterback Hobby Wirkowski from Miami University tossed touchdown passes to Joe Krol and Marv Whaley, Krol also kicked four converts and was whistled for roughing the Calgary goal line for a safety touch.

Billy Bass converted a Stampeder fumble into a major and Ulysses Curtis got Toronto's sixth touchdown by scampering 35 yards through the entire Calgary team.

All-Aussie Doubles Finish In U.S. Tennis

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 20—AP—Much to the dismay of the United States Davis Cup team's selections committee, the men's division of the National Doubles tennis championship will have its third all-Australian windup since 1938 today at Longwood.

Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor, the outstanding members of Australia's Davis Cup squad, serves will oppose countrymen Mervyn Rose and Don Candy. A year ago, Sedgman and McGregor teamed to defeat Rose with teammate Jack Bromwich.

The world's outstanding women's doubles pair, Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., and Shirley Fry of Akron, will play Mrs. Pat Todd of La Jolla, Calif., and Nancy Chaffee of Bridgeport, Calif., in their division's finale.

Two years ago, Bromwich and Wilder Schroeder defeated Sedgman and McGregor in the previous all-Australian windup and a year later Bromwich and Adrian Quist vanquished teammates Schroeder and Harry Hopman.

Sedgman and McGregor had an easy semi-finals task trouncing Eric Sturgess of South Africa and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, 6-3, 6-3.

Rose and Candy, however, had to battle for almost three hours to get through Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., and Bill Talbert of New York, 6-4, 6-8, 12-10, 6-1.

The U. S. feminine stars reached the British Wightman Cup forces in decisive fashion. Mrs. Todd and Miss Chaffee crushed Miss Quertier and Kay Tuckey England's top team, 6-3, 6-3. On Saturday, Miss Hart and Miss Fry overwhelemd Britishers Mrs. Joy Mottram and Pat Ward.

May be Upset In Final Series Of Intercounty

(By The Canadian Press)

London Majors may expect an uphill fight to reach the finals in the Intercounty Baseball League playoffs, if Saturday's performance is any indication.

By the same terms, Brantford Red Sox should be a shoo-in to reach the finals.

London, which finished league play in second place, can thank two glaring errors by Guelph Maple Leafs in the last half of the 10th inning for a 4-3 victory in London.

In Brantford, the Sox defeated Kitchener Legionnaires 6-3 to continue their record of winning all their scheduled home games this season.

The four teams will play the same clubs tonight in best-of-seven game semi-finals tonight, with London at Guelph and Brantford at Kitchener.

Guelph seemed to have the game in the bag, however, when in the top half of the first overtime inning George Carruth got what seemed to be a safe single, base, and scored on Joe Consoli's single.

But when the Leafs took the field Consoli let Billy Slacks' grounder go through his legs for a two-base error and Carruth dropped Don Cooper's fly ball for a two-base error, and the losing run. Bechard blasted out a two-bagger in the ninth and Bill Reid knocked in Cooper home with the winning run.

Form Beaten At Thorncliffe

Toronto, Aug. 20—(CP)—Form players took a beating as harness racing enjoyed one of its biggest days at Thorncliffe Raceway Saturday. Not a favorite won as the long shots or moderately-backed horses in nine dashes.

Paddy Brooke started it off by taking the first race and paying $43.60 for $2. Then Merlee, from the barn of G. R. McEwan of Clinton, Ont., won the second by nearly five seconds as she paced the mile in 2.15 4-5.

The final race of the afternoon was the second best of the pacing stake. This time Merry England, from the barn of Dr. J. S. Ferguson, in Chatham, lay behind the pace-setting Bonnie Stark until the end when a tremendous burst of speed through the stretch to win and pay $15.80.

Carruthers also stroked the Bay of Quinte Club team to victory to win the J. J. Morch Trophy. Included were Mike Aquafreda, Don Joss and S. Wonnacott who finished with a 299 total for the best gross scores.

The tournament was played under ideal weather conditions and some exceptionally fine golf was turned in by the 93 golfers.

Champ Joe Maxim Slight Favorite Over Bob Murphy

(By JACK HAND

New York, Aug. 20—(AP)—Joey Maxim, light-heavyweight champion, is a slight favorite in the title for the first time Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden when he meets Irish Bob Murphy of San Diego in a 15-round bout.

Maxim shaded Murphy in the clothes closet Jan. 24, 1950 when he dethroned Freddie Mills at London although he never gave anybody a shot at it, the early line showed the champ a slight favorite. There were indications Murphy would be the choice at Thursday.

Still some six pounds over the 175-pound limit, Maxim underwent his preliminary physical examinations Thursday, both boys weighing in at 174 pounds. They probably will just make it with little to spare.

It is the limit that prompted some senators to call for a consolidation of the light-heavy divisions. They claimed the International Boxing Club passed up Harry Matthews, who whipped Murphy last March, to give Irish Bob a shot at a title bout.

The I. B. C. expects a crowd of some 10,000 and a $50,000 gate when the bell for the opening round at $15. There will be regular free home television of the show.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You may have enough bridge troubles without worrying about the different meanings of doubles. But your worries may increase unless you know more about them. So, load up.

Your double of a suit bid of less than four is for takeout if made at the first opportunity and partner has not yet bid. If partner has bid, your double of any bid is 200 penalty; asks partner to pass.

Thus, if you open with a bid of one heart and first opponent says double, it is for takeout. But if you open a heart, opponent bids a spade, and your partner doubles it is for penalty.

So far so good. But there are a few situations that may not be so easy to decide without a bit of coaching. One of these odd spots will be pointed out to you today.

Suppose you have the south hand shown here:

♠J
♥A Q 9 5
♦A K 6 4
♣K 9 6 3

Your opening bid is one heart. Your west opponent, the one on your left, comes in with a defensive bid of one spade. Your partner passes and so does the next opponent.

Now the bidding is back to you. Instead of bidding a second suit, suppose you double. Is this double of yours for takeout or for penalty? How must partner interpret it?

Although your partner had a chance to bid before, he did not do so. Therefore, he has not yet bid. And the bid you doubled is less than four in a suit. So, it is a takeout double. Ask partner to bid.

Partner does not figure this out by instinct. Rule tells him: if partner has not yet bid, a double of less than four in a suit is for takeout if made at the first opportunity.

The double was made at the first opportunity. It was a suit bid of less than four. North had not yet bid. The south double was takeout.

That double should make the guy sing.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 20 (AP) — Here is today's lesson in the power of television:

Four years ago, Sid Caesar left behind a movie career that consisted of doing two pictures in three years. Today, thanks to TV, virtually every studio in town is seeking his services.

The sensational young comic was in town for a whirlwind visit during which he and his producer, Max Liebman, talked to just about every major producer in Hollywood. Their aim is to get up a movie to be filmed next summer with Caesar and his cohort, Imogene Coca.

I caught Caesar in a rare moment of relaxation beside his hotel swimming pool. Talking to him was like stepping into the middle of one of his famous monologues. He would say a few sentences and then lapse into some imaginary conversation. It went something like this:

"Ah, California; I remember how it was. That sunshine! That relaxation! I'm telling you I relaxed for a year. For one whole year, I did nothing. My biggest decision was whether to fall in the swimming pool or play tennis.

"Don't get me wrong; it was a great life. And did I make money; I developed lots of expensive hobbies. Like collecting handkerchiefs. And match books.

FACES ARE NOT FASIER TO REMEMBER THAN NAMES

THERE IS NO DIFFERENCE. If you looked at the name for as long a time as you do the face, you would remember it just as well. This is confirmed by the Department of Psychology of New York University.

Moose Jaw, Sask. (CP)—Lots of places have a band with no majorettes but the situation is reversed in Moose Jaw. Helen Tait has been training baton twirlers here for eight years but they have to go out of town to perform because there isn't a band in Moose Jaw.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, August 21, 1951

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Underlying outlook calls for sincere, serious thought. Some contention. Watch your orders, watch your actions. Some matters connected with older people, friends may cause disturbances.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Much like Aries with fewer personal angles to bother you. Be on guard against relaxing in duties or attention in business, property, financial matters. This is important.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Devoting some time to lighter matters, amusement, social affairs in order. Mark time with energy on business obligations where you should. Congenial friends, relatives may help.

June 22 to July 23, (Cancer)—Star configurations look for you to be consistent going through with tasks, jobs, despite obstacles. You have the ability for your affairs; be rightly concerned but not worried.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—You are working for and depending on others for income, knowledge, aid—be careful in attitude. Frankness pays, always. Handling machinery, electrical accessories, travel: be sensibly careful.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Personal affairs will tend to dominate other things though they should not. Be a wise director. Devote some time to business, obligations, have care handling money, credits.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)— Switch when you can from pressing matters that mean investments, new contracts. Put pressure on astute holding back of decisions, avoiding disputes, noticeable now about property.

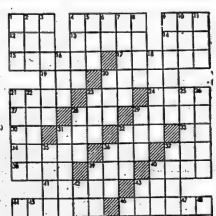
October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio)—Some indications that could be misconstrued if you are not careful. Also several benefic advantages ahead. Look sharp, be accurate, and achieve. Seek quality.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius) —Business expansion. Sound financial investments advocated when thoroughly studied and warranted. Creditable influences for employer, employee, middle man. Heart interests favored.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn)—Fine outlook for well laid plans, carefully run matters pertaining to home, personal property. Suggest you save as you earn, regardless of personal desires.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Most lines of endeavor will need thorough thought to keep pace with competition, smart outsiders. New business had better seek intelligent advice and not try to go it alone.

February 21 to March 20 —(Pisces)—Increase your research, study of problems and projects to avoid setbacks from overconfidence. Don't overrate or think for others. Listen; much to learn. Be lustily confident.



You Born Today: Active, full of ambition and the will to put over ideas, plans. Be sure to follow the right road, avoid questionable ideas or people who have little regard for truth. Use your great reserve of vitality and force rightly and you can't help but reach the top. You respond to kindness, appreciation rather than push or scolding. Your magnetic personality can pull you through "light" spots.

Seldom selfish ahead. Birthdate of: Philip Neri, with money, so budget yourself. Italian Saint.

WHY WE SAY "COP"

... Large bellows
The practice of calling a policeman a cop started in London where the uniformed police officers were ornamented with large metal buttons. Oddly enough, the same word in slang use, means to steal (or to "cop"). something.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was leening back, in his private chair smoking his first cigar after supper, and ma said, Really, William, I mean really a person looking for a prediction in this world mite as well be looking in a haystack.

That reminds me, my dear, your dinner was unusually successful, and I know of no higher praise, pop said. The lam and the salad, particularly, stood out like high peeks in a lofty range, he and I said. The potatoes and the peas and the rice pudding were swell too, ma.

Being particular in the whole meal, and ma' said, Thawts that cant rise above food can hardly be expected to bother about higher things. I said there was ranging those carnations and ferns, even a blind man could notice them in that big blue vase, but I could sit here without hearing a sillable from pop's single mind.

Meening especially pop, and he said, It's a thankless werld, my son, and I quite agree with you. I know just how you feel. I'll be the first to forget the love I reckon I honor forthday by giving myself an extra shave before retiring. I sat there wagetting my feet to give you a hint, you tiod me to keep still, I said.

Well then, both of you, you're just 2 berds of a single feather, pop said.

Which we are.

17,000 Workers Are Made Idle By Closedown

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 20 (AP)—The Lackawanna plant of Bethlehem Steel Company and others today after a "sick" walkout by about 200 brakemen and conductors of the South Buffalo Railway which serves the steel works.

Nearly 17,000 Bethlehem employees were made idle by the closedown.

Last night's last-minute parley between railway officials and union representatives failed to end the walkout which began Saturday night and has continued through today.

Edward F. Martin, general manager of Bethlehem, said the steel company could not operate without the services of the line, and ordered an immediate shutdown of the plant.

Meanwhile spokesmen for both sides in last night's conference said "negotiations will be continued in the near future" under the direction of a mediator from the National Mediation Board.

C. F. Dullenkopf, vice-president of the railway, said there was no explanation for them. Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, (Ind.), reporting sick.

Peiping Radio Hints Solution Step Nearer

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 18—(AP)—Allies and reds got down to brass tacks today as the four-man armistice sub-committee met on the buffer zone issue in an atmosphere of friendly informality for the second straight time.

The talks are strictly off-the-record and no official report was made.

But a pooled dispatch from Kaesong said the four generals—two American, one north Korean and one Chinese—were soon huddled over a map on a conference table. They seemed to be speaking informally, and not from prepared statements.

After a lengthy session they adjourned. They will meet again at 11 a.m. tomorrow (9 p.m. EST Saturday). That indicated the four trouble-shooters did not reach a final solution today on where the cease-fire buffer zone should be placed.

Correct more the sound of laughter coming from the conference room spurred hope of progress.

Peiping radio yesterday dropped a hint of progress in a broadcast just before the negotiators met. The red radio, monitored in Tokyo, said the sub-committee Thursday took the first step toward finding a solution to the issue deadlocking the truce talks."

What that was, Peiping didn't say.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

The spring of 1930 [illegible] two printers were added to the Edgington staff. But [illegible]ston that Died Roberts [illegible]ging down the hill—and fast. Then one afternoon when Died collapsed in his office, and Lance had to help him home and call Dr. Brown, he knew that Died Roberts must be awful from himself and his business at all costs, and soon.

And another thing. Goldie Webster must be taken out of Lower Town before it was too late. Lance had been making his rounds of the business places one afternoon and, having some time to spare, he journeyed to Lower Town. He and Goldie Webster were soon standing in the shade of a brick wall on a side street. Goldie was clinging to Lance and pleading with him.

"Brad, please, Brad! Take me with you! Get me away!" Webster ran away from this place—I never went to see it again—please, Brad."

"But what would your mother say?"

"She ain't my mother—my mother's dead!"

"But your father?"

"Him!" he said disgustedly, "always drunk. Look, Brad!" and Goldie bared his shoulders and back.

"It haven't name, son," Lance gasped, "your father do that to you?"

"Yes, Brad, he often beats me."

"But—for what? You're not a bad boy, are you?" By now Lance Bradley's blood was boiling. "Do you ever give him cause to beat you?"

"He don't need none, Brad. He gets drunk, fights with the old woman, then takes it out on me."

"Just a moment, Goldie," Lance cautioned, "I see him coming this way. He mustn't see us together. Better slip into this alley and wait. I'm going to have a word with him."

"He's an awful fighter, Brad," Goldie warned him.

"I won't let him hurt me, Goldie," Lance said, smiling himself. He had seen the bull-necked Black Jack Webster before and was well acquainted with his reputation as a fighter, but that did not phase him. He had seen him brutally beaten his son. His punishment must fit the crime.

Lance Bradley never found it necessary to raise his hand to punish those that memorable afternoon in France when he had stood face to face with a German soldier. But that brief glimpse at wounds on Goldie Webster's back and shoulders had convinced him that he must thrash Black Jack Webster a valuable lesson. He he hoped he had not been welted. This was one time in his life when he would start a fight, but he was ready for one. Opposed to progress in any form, Black Jack Webster had his axe to grind too. And so when he lumbered up on the waiting Bradley, he asked, "What's up, Bradley Snooper, what brings you around here so much?"

Lance did not answer him.

"Speak up, Snooper," Black Jack shouted, "I'm not going to let this plan to take our homes away from us!"

"Never heard that anyone planned any such thing," Lance said evenly.

"You're a liar, Snooper," Black Jack roared, "you're a dirty lying—"

And there was the epithet again, there was the match to set off the explosion, thought Lance Bradley crouched.

"So I'm fight you want," Black Jack snarled, and struck.

But Lance Bradley side-stepped this blow, then in close where he wanted to be. His hard knee caught Black Jack in the stomach. He doubled up with pain. His fist beat a tattoo on Black Jack's jaws, his face, his eyes and he was down. He was on his backside on the cement walk, his big head rocking heavily from side to side as he tried to clear his brain. His big hands pressing hard against his stomach.

Lance straightened his tie, without fuss. He was not his adversary. Then he heard a step behind him.

"What goes on here, Brad!" a voice demanded.

Lance swung in his tracks. It was Constable Ryan, a new member of Chief Slender's police force, with the ribbon of the war veteran on his left breast. Where he had come from Lance didn't know, as he had not seen him on the street before he had taken on Black Jack Webster.

"Why, this big hombre is said to be tough," Ryan went on. Chief warned me not to try to fry him in alone."

"So much for reputation, Ryan," Lance grinned "I'm sorry that I had to spoil it for him."

"You mean—"

"Yes. I hit him. I assaulted him. How place me under arrest and be done with it."

"You—mean —you did this—to him?" Ryan stammered.

"And who else! You don't think that he tripped and fell on himself, do' you?"

"But—you're so small compared to him," Ryan scratched his head.

"It isn't the dog in the fight, but the fight in the dog that counts," Lance quoted with a grin, licking a skinned knuckle.

At that moment, Goldie Webster, who had "witnessed the fight from a corner of the alley, ambled out casually, caught Officer Ryan's eye.

"Here, Goldie!" he called, as the boy approached he dropped a hand on his shoulder.

"Don't officer, please!" Goldie pleaded, but Ryan pulled him to him and turned back his shirt.

"Why, you dirty so-and-so," he stormed, and then to Lance, "If you take this big buzzard up the alley, soldier, and then beat his dirty face in, I won't say a word." Then he stopped, roughly yanked Black Jack Webster to his feet, jammed his hat down on his head.

"Come with me, you rotten no-good," he said, shaking the man out of his stupor by degrees. "You're under arrest and I'm going to lay a charge against you for child beating me? Have you anything to add, Brad?"

"Not a thing," Lance shook his head. "I've nothing against him now. Get Doc Brown to patch him up, tell him to send the bill to me."

"But, you'll help me take him up town?"

"You won't need any help, Officer Ryan. Black Jack as an unbeatable bully has been short-lived. I may, catch up with you, however, after I have a chat with my little pal, Goldie."

After they had gone, Lance Bradley sat down on the edge of the sidewalk, motioned Goldie to a seat beside him.

"Well, Goldie," he said, "I hope you don't hold anything against me for what I had to do to your father. After all, you deserve better treatment than—"

"No, Brad," the boy said, gripping his hand. "I know how you must feel about it. He had it coming to him for a long, long time."

"Tell me, Goldie, how old are you?" Lance asked suddenly.

"Fifteen, Brad. "You've going to take me with you, don't you, Brad?"

"Much as I'd like to, I just can't do it, Goldie. I must find a home for you. The law says you must attend school and I'm going to him for a long, long time."

"Tell me, Goldie, how old are you?" Lance asked suddenly.

"Fifteen, Brad. "You've going to take me with you, don't you, Brad?"

"Much as I'd like to, I just can't do it, Goldie. I must find a home for you. The law says you must attend school and I'm going to him for a long, long time."

"Oh, that soon? Why, that's only few months away now. But let's figure the whole thing out first. Now, here's what you better do, Goldie. First of all, get hold of Snooper, what brings you around here so much?"

Lance did not answer him.

"Speak up, Snooper," Black Jack shouted, "I'm not going to let this plan to take our homes away from us!"

"Never heard that anyone planned any such thing," Lance said evenly.

Red Anti-American Propaganda Makes Much of Incident

Charge Attack on Jeep Violation of Neutral Zone

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 21 (AP) — Communist protests and anti-American propaganda were stepped up today as a joint allied and communist sub-committee held its fifth session trying to break the deadlock in Korean truce talks.

(Banning new agency reported from Tokyo that the communist today termed the United Nations reply on the alleged violation of the Kaesong neutral zone unsatisfactory and asked for "punishment of those guilty.")

The reds formally lodged a new protest Monday that allied aircraft attacked and destroyed a liaison jeep of the communist delegation between Kaesong and the North Korean capital of Pyongyang. The jeep was said to be flying a white flag.

The reds charged this was a fresh violation of the neutrality zone agreement and asked Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief U.N. negotiator to "severely punish your personnel."

Mind Give Notice

An allied release today announced that it would give attention to the allied requirement that the reds give notification in time for safe flight of vehicles to be free from air attack.

This disclosure came on the heels of a red protest alleging that allied aircraft forced and violated the Kaesong neutral zone.

Red China's Peiping radio said today the U.S. is using a Chinese soldier in the Kaesong neutral zone "will rouse still greater hatred of American imperialism among Korea and Chinese people."

The radio formally charged the Chinese was killed in an ambush by United Nations forces. The U.N. command denied this; said it was probably the work of guerrillas.

Peiping broadcast, quoting the official new China News Agency, said "he was murdered in American ambush."

The broadcast quoted Maj.-Gen. Hsieh Fang, a Chinese armistice delegate and member of the Red Sub-Committee, as saying the death of the soldier "will surely harden Chinese volunteers' determination to defend peace."

Study Map

Hours before the broadcast, the Sub-committee — two allies and two communists met in Kaesong for two hours and four minutes. More than half that time they spent poring over a map trying to agree on a military dividing line for a cease-fire.

They studied another session for 11 a.m. Wednesday (9 p.m. EDT Tuesday). They made no report on progress.

But the U.N. spokesman, Air Force Brig.-Gen. Don Booth, Colorado, gave some indication little progress was being made.

Neither the Communists at the discussions were "immune" to military logic, "obdurate" in their political views or "inscrutable" in presenting them, and "adamant" to adjustments.

Nor was there any distinction between the attitude red generals displayed in full negotiation sessions and in sub-committee meetings.

The U.N. spokesman made his comments after Peiping radio said Monday that:

"If the American side still stubbornly adheres to its unreasonable demand of plunder, and rejects the just and reasonable proposal of our side, agreement will be impossible."

Toronto Girl Dies Having Tonsils Out

Toronto, Aug. 21—(CP)—Helen Waylewsky, 10, who came to Canada from Germany 18 months ago, died today under anaesthetic after having her tonsils removed.

She was the third child to die here in hospitals in the recent months.

Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson ordered an autopsy. The operation was performed in the office of Dr. William Zinchesin.

Hurricane Moves Toward Central Mexican Coast

Mexico City, Aug. 21 (AP) A refortified tropical hurricane blew its full fury against the west Gulf of Mexico today as the central Mexican coast and its oil fields.

Overnight it had regained most of the force with which it raked Jamaica last Friday and took 151 lives.

Along Mexico's tropical eastern shore by the gulf, Tampico and Veracruz, the country's two biggest ports, took precautions.

But the hurricane, it kept its present course during the day —was due to hit the mainland about halfway between the ports between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. EDT. Both reported it to be on the outer fringes of the storm.

The weather bureau said the full fury was headed for the Tuxpan-Nautla area.

Farmer Examined At Mental Hospital

Whitby, Aug. 21 — (CP) Lyle Thompson, 37, of Lake Dalrymple farmer, underwent examination at the Ontario mental hospital here today.

His four-day growth of beard was removed and his tangled, flowing locks were combed. Doctors said he gave them no trouble.

Thompson, jilted by a Dutch girl he met while in the army overseas during the Second World War, was overpowered by police yesterday after he had held off for them at bay outside his Beaverton district shack for 18 hours.

Police laid siege to the shack after a farmhouse when Thompson wounded one of four officers who came to take him in for a psychiatric examination.

Relatives, worried over his brooding, had signed a warrant

Champion Holstein Cow Sets New World Record in Milk Production

Brantford, Ont., Aug. 21—(CP)—The Holstein-Friesian Association today released the name of Seymour Nora Ormsby, a cow from Red Deer, Alta.

Nora, as she is commonly known, has established a world record for milk production over a two-lactation period on a three-a-day milkings—57,975 pounds.

A year ago, Nora won the western Canada championship for yearly production of milk on a twice-a-day milking basis, producing 28,450 pounds of milk, containing 894 pounds of fat.

She bettered her mark in her latest 33-day test by yielding 29,525 pounds of milk and 1,002 pounds of fat.

Owned by trucker H. L. Ahrens of Red Deer, Nora is one of a small herd cared for largely by Ahrens' 16-year-old son.

Machine-milked Nora has one quality in common with all great producers—the ability to consume large quantities of feed. Her most remarkable feature, Ahrens reports, is her appetite, is her knack of maintaining production right to the end of her lactation period.

(A lactation period is that time which a cow gives milk, beginning with the birth of a calf).

Nora has the added distinction of being one of the few cows ever to make over 100,000 pounds of milk in her first five lactations on three-a-day milking, having produced a total of 104,417 pounds of milk and 3,508 pounds of fat in that period.

Her world record of 57,975 pounds replaces the mark of 57,766 pounds established in 1935 by Pontiac Dutchland Devries, in the herd of Byran Bath, of Mossley, Ont.

Nora keeps on producing. In May and June of this year, when owner Ahrens, "she milked like a fresh cow and looked like one."

KOREANS WATCH CASE AGAINST THREE CANADIANS

Looking for Proof Officials Mean Business

New York, Aug. 21 — (CP) — Correspondent Gault Barrett says in a dispatch from Seoul to the New York Times today that many Koreans are watching the case of three Canadian soldiers charged with murdering a Korean as possible proof that United Nations authorities have decided to crack down on unruly troops.

The Times correspondent says the Canadians, members of the Princess Patricia's Light Infantry, are coming up for court martial in Seoul next week in connection with the murder of three Koreans and wounding of another as the aftermath of an alleged looted party. The writer said two British soldiers also were involved in the murders.

Writes Barrett:

"One of those killed was a Korean army lieutenant, Yi Chang Sin, and it is his murder specifically for which the three accused are to be tried.

"Five other Canadians are said to be involved in the crime, but to a much lesser extent, and these already have been punished. The two Britons also have been punished, and the three Canadians now up for trial apparently will be the real test."

Barrett in his dispatch lauds "the forthright and determined manner in which authorities moved to track down the criminals. He says most observers view it "as a bold attempt to stage a campaign to shock some United Nations troops into awareness of basic decency has begun."

Details Shocking

He adds:

"Although ... Korean civilians have been brutalized by troops on both sides, the hard fact of the matter in Korea is that the Chinese, waging a guerrilla style war as intently as a shooting war, have impressed many Koreans with the discipline of their troops. Many residents of Seoul seem to go out of their way to tell about good Chinese behavior, and specifically about public executions of two rapists the Chinese are said to have held.

Rita Will Likely File for Divorce Within Week

New York, Aug. 21. (AP)—Rita Hayworth's lawyer said today there is "absolutely no chance of a reconciliation" between the actress and Prince Aly Khan, and that she probably will file for a Nevada divorce "within a week."

Lawyer Bartley Crum arrived from Paris by plane at New York International airport:

Asked if the reason for the break-up between the couple was "because of Aly's gambling and playing out nights," Crum replied:

"I will say this. Any American girl expects her husband to come home at night."

Princess Margaret Marks 21st Birthday With Family Party at Balmoral Castle

Balmoral, Scotland, Aug. 21—(AP)—Princess Margaret, vivacious sweetheart of the British Commonwealth, came of age today. Her 21st birthday was greeted by Britons everywhere but the celebration at Balmoral Castle was a quiet family affair.

Tourists and local folk made it festive occasion as friends of the Royal Family — including some who may be eligible for Margaret's hand — came to take part in the birthday party.

Presents, telegrams and letters showered on the princess.

Grandmother Queen Mary phoned from Sandringham where she is holidaying. Court circles reported her gift to the princess was a diamond tiara.

The King and Queen gave another pearl for a matching string. Princess Margaret and Elizabeth each got a pearl a year from their parents.

The King and Queen also gave Margaret a pair of turquoise bracelets and that was what they will give her a sporty green car.

There were presents from young men who are Margaret's particular friends and who guests at the ball last night—Old-old William (Billy) Wallace, polo-playing stepson of Viscount Lascelles; Herbert Agar, and 27-year-old Earl of Dalkeith. Margaret's name is told to the many young men chose for her.

The day was a mixture of sunshine and drenching rain. Shortly before noon the princess and several guests went out to the hillside where the king and his party were shooting grouse.

Later the poppies of Margaret's big day were a picnic, a late afternoon tea and a house-warming at which the princess will wear the white and gold evening gown on which dressmakers worked six months.

There will be no booming of guns throughout the commonwealth since Margaret is only fourth in line to the throne.

"Grey old Balmoral Castle will be the scene of a Royal birthday ball over which the King will preside.

But outside the walls of the famed old Royal hunting lodge, there will be toasting and flinging of Highland kilts.

Scotsmen feel they have a special claim on Margaret because she was born in Glamis Castle.

The Royal Family sparks new speculation as to when Margaret will announce her betrothal. Legend has it that girls born at Glamis Castle marry, or at least become engaged, by the time they are 20.

New Responsibilities

Coming of age for this blithe-spirited Princess means acceptance of new Royal responsibilities. She gets the right to vote — privilege she probably never will use, since the Royal family traditionally does not take sides in politics. Instead of an allowance out of her father's pocket, Margaret gets an income of £6,000 a year. And she becomes qualified to be a member of the Council of State which would take over sovereign duties if her father became incapacitated or died in office.

The watchmen of British tradition also will expect her to drop one of the quick-witted impishness which has enlivened family affairs in the Royal household and has provided many a chuckle to Britons.

She now will have her own say as to whether she can wear strapless gowns in public or not. The Queen alone says she was not cheered by many but greeted by the raised eyebrows of those who disapprove of strapless gowns.

Local residents tried hard to pass off the occasion as a normal one. Large crowds gathered at the station yesterday to watch the arrival of those who came to take part in the celebration.

Among the important personages: Sir Alan Lascelles, Duke of Thornton Heath, carrying an impressive package which turned out to be a birthday cake, two bottles of champagne.

Visits of American Defence Leaders Underline Fine Alliance Between Countries

Ottawa, Aug. 21—(CP)—A series of visits from top American defence leaders is underlining one of the most remarkable military alliances in history: the allegiance between Canada and the U. S. in the joint defence of North America and now of the free world.

Latest in the list is Gen. Omar Bradley's visit to the joint defence of North America. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, was here for talks this week.

Both Canadian and U. S. sources here say there is not a single matter causing military relations between the two countries although there are plenty of minor headaches in working out the details of broad decisions.

This harmony is all the more remarkable because it is doubtful if history has ever seen two countries working in closer or more constant co-operation.

The joint defence plan was forged 10 years ago, during the war, and extended into peacetime. Its aim was the joint defence of this continent.

In the last two years, a larger concept—the joint defence of the North Atlantic area by 12 nations—has emerged. The two North American countries are backing it heavily. But the original alliance remains.

Parties For Joint Defence

Any enemy who attacks this continent might well find himself fighting Americans on or over Canadian soil or vice versa.

The plans are already laid for joint defence. Each country knows exactly what the other will do. Each has men serving with the armed forces of the other to learn how they do things.

The alliance has done some massive work, but always without friction, in the last five years. Examples:

A year ago the U. S. was irked over Canada's small contribution in Korea. Canada has since launched a considerable twilight mobilization, become the second largest contributor to the U.N.

The absorption of Newfoundland raised problems about three U. S. military bases there. These have been solved by compromise with neither country getting all it originally wanted.

Canada has been beefing about relative scarcity of U. S. arms coming here. The U. S. has given the green light for Canada to go after a lot more.

The Canadian army is shifting to U. S. arms. The U. S.-British plan to put a Canadian division in Britain is now being carried out a step forward as a rather candid referee.

The R. C. A. F. has adopted two types of U. S. planes. The U. S. is buying at least one Canadian design.

Even on a per capita basis, Canada's defence expenditure is smaller than those of the U. S. but if that is worrying Washington there is no sign of it.

Simpson, formerly chief constable of Niagara Falls, is headed by Sydney E. Abbot, formerly of the Royal Corps of Military Police in England.

PROBERS PROMISE TO EXPLORE STORY OF SPY RING

Claimed Moscow Knew Of Pearl Harbor Attack

Washington, Aug. 21 —(AP)— Senate investigators promised today to explore fully a story that a communist spy ring with some Americans in its ranks warned Moscow before Pearl Harbor that Japan would attack the United States.

Mitsusada Yoshikawa, director of special investigations for the Japanese attorney general, told the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee in executive session that Soviet Agent Honer Fredrick (Rep., Mich.) a member, and Robert Morris, counsel to the group, said the entire matter will be gone into deeply at further hearings.

The case of the alleged spy ring first was made public in February, 1949, when the U.S. army refused a $2,000-a-week contract on the operation. Parts of that report were deleted for security reasons.

Yoshikawa said Richard Sorge, a MacArthur's direction, Almost immediately after making the report the army withdrew it.

Yoshikawa said Richard Sorge, whom he sent to the gallows as head of the spy ring, named the late writer Agnes Smedley as a key member of the ring. Sorge never gave the names of a "young officer connected with the army intelligence" and an American newspaper correspondent who also were mentioned, Yoshikawa said.

Confessed Mission

The witness said Sorge confessed that his mission was (1) to spy on Japanese and German war plans, and (2) to induce Japan to strike at the U.S.S.R. France and Britain. The Russians, but not at Russia, if she struck at all.

Two Baptists Sent to Jail For Two Months

Val d'Or, Que., Aug. 21—(CP) —Two Regular Baptists who attended a religious meeting last Saturday evening were sent to jail for two months yesterday. They were convicted under a local d'Or traffic by-law.

Jailed at Amos, Que., were Rev. Lawrence Gagnon of Val d'Or Baptist Church, and Howard Kilpick, a student at the Central Baptist Theological Seminary.

It was the fourth sentence for Rev. Gagnon, who spent time in the Abitibi county jail only last week after serving a two months' term. He is opposed for a similar offence last June.

Meanwhile, Rev. Leslie Barnett, pastor of the Regular Baptist Church at Lasarre, Quebec, charged that he had been given a beating by Catholics on evening as he sought to conduct his usual street meeting in that town, just west of Val d'Or.

He said he was dragged from the meeting place, first by Chief of Police Edouard Carpentier, and two special constables and forced to leave.

Enemy Suggests Party Between Lines to Members Canadian Batt.

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

West Central Sector, Korea, Aug. 21—(CP)—Only group of Chinese today invited a Canadian patrol to call a cease-fire during the fighting so they could hold a party between the battle lines.

The invitation was accepted. The patrolling Canadians, to whom a Korean woman civilian reportedly was sent with the Chinese infantrymen, were ordered to hold their fire, however, not to interfere with their assignment.

The letter, written in plain paper was sent back to headquarters. It surprised high army officers.

(The Associated Press reported yesterday that the Chinese have sent other notes in similar vein to United Nations troops. It said possibility the notes were aimed at breaking down morale and leading U. N. troops to relax their vigilance.)

The message suggested that casualties could be avoided on both sides by ceasing hostilities pending completion of the Kaesong talks which have been going on for a month.

It told the Canadians that, despite the peace talks, "still you are forced to be here carrying on this war, to do every day such senseless, bloody affairs." Every day it said, "you have a danger of getting killed if unfortunately, you do not leave, he asks to see your loved ones.

"We are willing to meet you so that there may be something good for peaceful settlement of Korean problems and make the obstinacy of the peace talks slow down. Therefore the peace talks can be continuation and meantime casualties on both sides may be eradicated while the peace talks go on."

Final Offer Made To Iranian Govt. Expires Wednesday

Attlee Summons Cabinet To Discuss Oil Proposals

Tehran, Aug. 21 — (CP) — Britain's delegate today offered a new proposal to settle the grave Anglo-Iranian oil dispute and gave the Iranians until noon tomorrow to take it or leave it.

The new British move followed the abrupt withdrawal by British delegate Richard M. Stokes of the previous British proposal revolving about a 50-50 split of Iranian oil profits.

(In London, the Foreign Office, confirming the new offer, announced that Prime Minister Attlee has summoned his cabinet to discuss the oil negotiations.)

Stokes, Lord Privy Seal, announced he has offered compromise possibilities which concern the retention of British management at the Abadan refinery and the oil fields. These had been rejected by Iranian premier Mohammed Mossadegh. Stokes then withdrew Britain's proposals and substituted a new over-all one. It included the problem of employment of British personnel. If the Tehran government rejects this, Stokes probably will return at once to London.

Little Hope

There seemed to be little hope that a last minute Iranian proposal would avert complete breakdown of the talks. W. Averell Harriman President Truman's envoy who has been trying to mediate the dispute, had no comment on the invitation.

Stokes told reporters the breakdown came after Mossadegh objected to any sort of British supervision over the Abadan refinery and oilfields, although he said the Iranians were willing to hire Britons on an individual basis.

One source said it appears Stokes is trying to force Premier Mohammed Mossadegh to advance a specific counter-proposal to the British offer.

In announcing that Stokes had withdrawn his previous offer which provided for selling up a new purchasing agency and to be accounted to a virtual 50-50 split in oil profits, the Embassy said:

"Following a discussion with (Premier) Mossadegh, Stokes has, with deep regret, come to the conclusion that the Persian government is not prepared to agree to any arrangements under which British technicians, whose continued service to Persia was so urgently asked for by Mr. Mossadegh, would be prepared to remain" to supervise the nationalized oil industry.

Talked for Hour

Earlier, Premier Mossadegh talked for an hour with Stokes and Harriman about the deadlocked issue.

Harriman, President Truman's special representative, is fighting for a long the discussions from a complete breakdown. Mossadegh is known to be opposed to Stokes' withdrawal of the offer and to any foreign sale of Iranian oil largely in British hands.

Last night a British source close to the talks said there was no sign of a change in the Iranian attitude.

South Koreans Driven off Crest Of Two Hills

U.S. 8th Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 21 (AP) — Counter-attacking troops drove South Koreans off the crest of the two fog-swept hills in eastern Korea today.

A fight for possession of the hills continued throughout the day. Both are northwest of Yanggu, eight miles north of the 38th parallel.

A U.N. briefing officer said two attacking battalions of reds hit the South Koreans on one hill. One hill. Two other communist battalions won the top of the second.

Other reds attacked U.N. lines near the Kumhwa area in the west-central front for the second straight day. The attack was stalled, repulsed. Two red companies were involved.

Along the central-northwest of Yanggu were attempts to break up a U.N. attack launched last Wednesday. The briefing officer described red resistance as "extremely heavy." Red forces apparently received reinforcements.

Further east in the battle of the hills near the coast town of Kansong, communists fought stubbornly to hold two hills against attacking ROKs.

Air forces concentrated on blasting the reds' battered western Korea rail transportation system. Tuesday, a U.N. communique said.

A North Korean communique said red anti-aircraft batteries shot down five American planes Monday. They were said to be "murderous bombardments" on peaceful towns and villages. Tuesday the U.N. air communique made no mention of losses.

BOYS CAUSE DAMAGE TO PARKED CARS

A tip for auto dealers to keep the doors locked on vehicles in the parking lot at Zwicks. Especially so if the lot happens to be situated on an incline.

Just this was learned yesterday by a local dealer who found the fenders on one of his used cars had been mysteriously dented.

But the mystery was solved when two juveniles were found loitering around the lot. The young lads had been experimenting with the controls on one of the cars and had allowed the auto to move down the incline and bump into the next auto.

Road Not Wide Enough, Two Cyclists Collide

With the current frequency of auto accidents apparently the bicyclists must feel they must keep in the running too.

Yesterday's "one the book" mishap between two cyclists was reported to the police station. It appears the cyclists were moving in opposite directions on College Street when at the moment of meeting one decided to make a left turn. The inevitable happened and both bicycles ended up with bent wheels and forks. Nobody was hurt.

Sanitary and Storm Sewer Being Laid On Catherine St.

Traffic on Catherine Street at the base of the hill is disrupted as result of sewer excavations and the same condition will result progressively further west as the work of replacing the sanitary sewer progresses.

The McFarland Construction Company commenced about a week ago to tear up the pavement preparatory to installing a new 16-inch sanitary sewer to replace the nine-inch sewer which has been serving the district. At the same time a storm sewer is being constructed on the street. Mr. S. R. McCrory has the contract for the storm sewer.

Completion date of the work which will see the new sanitary sewer installed on Catherine St. to Yeomans and then down Yeomans for three months from commencement but the city engineering department expects with good luck the work will be completed prior to that date. The work has been underway for over a week.

On completion of the work catch basins on Catherine Street will be drained through the storm sewer. At the present time storm water is passing through the sanitary sewer. It is hoped when the change-over is made basement cellar flooding in the area will be averted.

10 U.K. Doctors Visit Station, Will be Posted

TRENTON

Trenton— (Special)— Ten doctors from the United Kingdom, all officers in the Royal Canadian Air Force, arrived at Trenton Thursday last for a four-day stop-over at Command Headquarters and Trenton Station before heading for their new positions as medical officers at R.C.A.F. stations throughout Canada.

The group is part of the 19 physicians who arrived in Canada last Monday aboard the Empress of Scotland. Eight of them hail from Scotland, while the other two come from London and Wellington in England.

The ten visiting have seen all Flight Lieutenants and included: H. Fyfe, Tayvallich, Argyle; A. C. Yelland, Killmarnoch; J. W. D. Sproull, Hamilton; A. S. Ferrie, Milngavie; David Allan Wemyss, Fife; B. R. D. Spittle, Dunfermline; A. F. Henry, Maud; H. G. Cooper, Wellington, Shropshire and J. D. Cairns of London.

Recruiting of the doctors arose out of a visit to the United Kingdom by Wing Commander A. G. (Sandy) Watson, senior medical officer at R.C.A.F. Headquarters. He was overseas on other business and the word passed around among his medical friends that the R.C.A.F. could use a number of doctors.

Picked on Records

Of the young doctors made available to Wing Commander Watson, the 19 were picked on past records at universities and in hospital. They have all been given a three-year commission and the rank of Flight Lieutenant.

The new Air Force doctors will report to their home stations for "contact" training after taking a two-week indoctrination course at Toronto's Institute of Aviation Medicine. They are following a trail blazed by at least 382 other Britons since the war. There have been many men who have served at one time or another in the R.A.F. who have crossed the Atlantic to join the R.C.A.F.

The reason the UK doctors were recruited is simply because there are not enough doctors in Canada to go around.

Flight Lieutenants B. R. D. Suttle and J. D. Cairns will remain at Trenton as M.O.'s on the staff at R.C.A.F. Trenton.

Canning Factory Opens

Tomato growers with contracts with the Metcalfe Food Factory at Smithfield have been notified that the cannery will commence taking their crop tomorrow August 22.

Suffers Head Injury

Mrs. Magdaline Stromoteki out walking her cat on Sunday night was struck down and suffered a head injury when hit by a bicycle ridden by Carl Pitman, 13, of Dodge Street, Buffalo, N.Y. The laceration on the injured woman's head needed several stitches to close.

With her prize pet on a leash Mrs. Stromoteki stepped out from behind a parked car in front of her apartment house on Dundas Street into the path of the moving bicycle. James Sutton riding his bicycle alongside young Pitman related a similar story.

An eye-witness said Mrs. Stromoteki was knocked into the air and came down hitting her head on the pavement.

She was treated by Dr. Dow at the Trenton Memorial Hospital. She went back to her job, at the desk in the Gilbert Hotel yesterday.

Heavy Rainfall Soaks District

Prophesied by the weather prognosticator as "scattered showers", the downfall of rain which descended over the Quinte district was much more than the weatherman apparently expected.

Officials of the Trent Road Committee place at a total of 1.15 inches of rain had fallen over the area during the morning. The rain started to fall at 6:26 a.m. and by nine o'clock was really pouring. After close to three hours of heavy rain it subsided with prospects for clearing skies in the afternoon.

Although the rain undoubtedly will serve to keep summer pastures green, farmers for the most part say they have had enough rain for a time. All summer farmers have had difficulty in getting crops cured because of the wet weather and threshing operations will again be delayed through today's storm.

British Sub In Collision, No Injuries

Halifax, Aug. 21 — (CP)— The British submarine Artful collided with the Nova Scotia fishing vessel Edith Eva early today off Lockeport, N.S. First reports head of no injuries on either craft.

The sub rammed into the Eva shortly after midnight but the wooden vessel remained afloat and was being towed to Lockeport about 100 miles south of Halifax.

The crew of the Eva, captained by George Lovelace, has been taken aboard another fishing vessel.

It was believed the Artful was cruising on the surface in a light fog when the accident occurred.

The Royal Navy craft arrived here during the weekend to carry on anti-submarine exercises with the Canadian navy.

Local Bowlers Go to Ottawa September 1

The Belleville Bowling Club will again be represented in the Governor-General's competition to be held in Ottawa beginning on September 1st. Representatives from every district in Ontario will send two rinks to this competition and a playdown will be arranged, the draw being a knockout one. The local club had the honor of winning this trophy three years ago and the members of the winning rinks were presented with blazers and crests from the city.

Last night at Brighton, the local bowlers hooked up with Campbellford, winners of their section in a 21-end game with total scores to count and were victorious by a good margin. The personnel of the winning rinks were Orlo Smith, Gordon Edwards, Howard Hanton and L. E. McLean and Ray Grant, Percy Graham, Gordon Watkin and A. E. Wonnacott skips.

The winning of the Governor-General's trophy is one of the most prized possessions of any bowling club and the Belleville club will try to make it for the second time.

Missing Man's Brother Resigns From High Post

London, Aug. 21 (Reuters) — Alan MacLean resigned from the British Foreign Office today because, he said, his position there was an embarrassment to the government since the mysterious disappearance of his brother Donald this spring.

Donald MacLean and another foreign office official, Guy Burgess, dropped out of sight in May, and have since eluded an international police hunt across Europe. Some reports at the time said they were heading for Russia.

A foreign office statement announcing Alan's resignation today stressed Alan is in no way connected with his brother's disappearance and is leaving of his own choice.

NOISY WEDDING PARTIES

The past few months we have had with us once again another more or less minor nuisance — we refer to noisy wedding parties. On a recent Saturday three different groups drove up and down Front Street honking horns and creating much unfavorable reaction.

It is difficult to understand why wedding attendants think a bridal couple get any enjoyment out of being subjected to the derisive stares of strangers. Everyone believes in a decorous manner, or nearly so, until the first [illegible] seized to let the couple into a car going to [illegible] from the church to the home, then decorum [illegible] out the window and a parade up the main street is organized.

Sometimes the driving is done at too high a speed in the excitement of the chase, as it were, and the wonder of it is that accidents have not occurred. Some years ago, an effort was made to discourage such nonsense and we feel the time has come to do it again. Those in authority should instruct the police to warn these parties and if disobedience persists to issue summonses for creating a disturbance.

Let there be gaiety at a wedding by all means, but let it be confined to the home where the event takes place. Parading up and down Front Street certainly is not the method of showing respect and affection to young "Mr. and Mrs."

STRIKES ARE NOT NEW

It would seem that labor strikes of modern times are not altogether new according to a news dispatch of a find made recently in Egypt. The record of this sort of trouble is revealed in an Egyptian document translated by a Professor Edgerton of Chicago University and reported in the current issue of Near Eastern Studies.

Workmen were preparing and decorating the tomb of Ramses III for Amon's "Valley of the Kings" about the year 1100 B.C. when they walked off the job because their pay was not forthcoming. They gathered in nearby places and when the pharaoh's officials inquired what the trouble was, they said that there was no clothing, no fish, and no vegetables. The workmen struck five times in one year when rations were late or inadequate and it appeared as though they won their point each time.

Professor Edgerton suggests that the workmen also may have been playing a primitive shakedown racket, for one of their relatives, a man named To, had been appointed visier to Pharaoh, and was the second most powerful man in Egypt. Instead of being overjoyed at his relative's good fortune, the workmen on the tomb may have been trying to bring pressure on their relative. The professor also suggests that the apparent lenience with which they were treated may have been due to To's influence or to the importance of their work.

Pharaoh needed the tomb - builders, for one of his leading projects was the construction of a monumental tomb in which he would be perpetuated as a "great god."

The professor's reasoning seems plausible for the pharaohs were not too lenient with those who thwarted their authority. Human life was cheap and short in length if defiance was too open. However, it is an interesting sidelight that the same sort of incident, with which we are all familiar, should have occurred so long ago.

TOM-FOOLISHNESS

(Montreal Star)

A note in The Manchester Guardian about the great Reuters centennial banquet in London urges us not for the first time, to remind somebody in the British bureaucracy ought to get his head read.

In framing the menu for the dinner, somebody at Reuters got the bright idea that each of its affiliates abroad might provide some typical food from its country to add international variety to the meal. The suggestion was enthusiastically accepted. India sent mangoes to go with the ice cream. New Zealand sent Toheron soup (made from a crayfish delicacy in those parts). The Australians wanted to send a thousand saddles of lamb. Down came the bureaucratic axe! This was contrary to regulations.

Britain is, we know, short of meat, and a good many people abroad send food parcels to friends which often include meat of one kind or another. This is, according to the book of rules, quite all right. But, when the friends of Reuters in Australia, want to send Reuters a mouthful of good solid meat, Whitehall takes fright. Of all the tomfool regulations this is one of the tom-foolishest.

The fact is, of course, that the Labor government has decided that, if it makes a mistake, everybody must suffer, and no exceptions are to be allowed. You take it, and like it.

JUST FOLKS

SOME GOLFERS DO THIS

He beat me. That I didn't mind.
To being beaten I'm conditioned.
I long have learned to take with grace
The smile upon a victor's face.
All winning golfers often say,
"I caught you off your game today."
Though scornfully or kindly meant,
That's something that I don't resent.
It's very seldom that I'm frowned
Because I'm six or seven down.
Or failed a single par to score.
That's happened many times before.

And though I never win a hole
I try to keep my self-control.
Whenever golf I badly play,
"He beat me," I am glad to say.

But when I've lost and we come in,
It wears my temper rather thin
To have him tell me: "All along,
I knew what you were doing wrong.
I could have given you advice
That would have stopped that costly slice."
Defeat I'll stand for, but I draw
The line at that.
Good counsel kept until too late.

WATCH OUT FOR THE GRANDCHILDREN

Every now and again society as a whole goes "off the deep end" about some new discovery. In the eighteenth century when men began to have their first knowledge about electricity, it was felt that electricity was something that would heal all diseases. Now we know that while electricity is very important from the industrial standpoint, it is not so important as people thought it would be from the medical standpoint.

Today the world has gone crazy over psychology. Most of our difficulties, we are told, are the result of frustration, emotional maladjustment etc., etc.

No longer does the pulpit have the final message for settling individual and world problems, but the office of psychiatrist, in fact many preachers are slipping the Bible down to the lowest shelf of their libraries and filling the top shelves with the latest books on psychoanalysis.

This too will prove a fruitless dream. Psychology is a branch of knowledge which has a real contribution to make to the thinking life of the world, but that it is a cure-all is a mere delusion. We are making the psychiatrist and psychoanalyst too seriously, and our grandchildren will smile complacently at our naivette.

Farm Life Has its Moments

(By John Gould in Christian Science Monitor)

It has been quite a time since I've seen anybody emphasize the vegetable aspects of life in the country. Such as the lad's owl. Last year when he put his chicks to range, something began catching them. The great number of things that can happen to chicks! But in the end the broad bivouac of life makes me wonder anew. If it pays to be a chick. It can be anything from a neighbor's bald-tailed puss cat to your own intellectual dog, but that time it turned out to be an owl.

So this year he put the chicks to range and "as same thing happened—except this time it was a hawk. It really makes quite a difference. It keeps you from settling into a steady habit and teaches you never to presume in your expectations.

You can't even plan on the predators of the wild, as the case of the broody ducks will attest. One of the ducks stole a nest and was about two weeks away when something offended her and brought an end to the venture. I will not tell what a fox, my self, but somebody said it could have been a skunk, and it might have been a dog or a cat. The duck was all right, except that she no longer had any nest, but she enthused and spent her time disappointed in the ground. But the second duck went broody about that time, and stole her nest away. I think it was two weeks and a fox, all right, because it was another duck. She comes no more to the hopper.

Now, I think to a city person that would establish a pattern. When the first duck began to show signs of incubation, he wondered if we could protect her in some way. I couldn't find her nest, but she would leave for a couple of days at a time, and then would come hurriedly to eat and disappear. They always got off the wrong way, and back back to their hiding place by devious means. No matter how many times we watched, she suddenly gone and you are no wiser. Then this one disappeared. For two days I paid no attention, but after the third I wondered. On the fourth I felt sure, so made a wide circle through the puckerbrush on the off-chance. And on the way back I found the nest. In fact but the eggs cold and lifeless. Then I heard a familiar quack, and I discovered the duck had been shut up in the [illegible] duck house. She was furious, but safe, and once again the desire for young had been put from her.

We have a trap door on the duck house, so we can catch the ducks, but any number of things can happen between the duck house and the pond. Where they are more agile than we are. Once in a while the trap is fastened up, and somehow it had caught the luckless duck's head. So I went up, and it was a nice big swann, and I set an example by shaking it and then gave the syringes a great jerk. This dislodged the bees, and they fell into the valley of the shadow and on.

The strays and stragglers plastered over the entrance, and we stood back and watched them go in. They acted much as would looking the queen in a swarm, which is why bees never get lost during the mass flight. They simply stand on their heads with their tails up in the air, and make a peculiar noise which acts somewhat like a radio beam for bees. Hence the development of aerial airplanes by instrument. We can always tell if the hive is settled by watching for these signals of bees.

So we saw them sizzing and know, and then Clyde and I turned around and found that another swarm was coming out of another hive, and was now in full flight at our shoulders. Because it was late in the day, having a place to light and hang up as been decided.

Well, this second swarm got confused, and when they heard the commotion for the first swarm, they thought the Promised Land was at hand and the struggle was on. Bees bring in a nice field and spent extra time to get things deep-filled and smooth. The past few seasons it was so dry in July and August my turnips didn't get a fair start, so this year I planted them about ten days earlier than usual. I got out the "little push-type" planter, fifty or sixty days, or in 15 weeks, would be almost a miracle, such a mixture as the cows of the "wonder drugs" has as yet effected.

The newspaper story reminds me of the performance staged years ago by the Canadian charlatan, who for a while worked magic by adjusting displacements in the feet, displacements which ordinary doctors just couldn't see. There's an "incredible air of faith" in the office and household of the charlatan. Former patients and friends volunteer to do his office work, guide newcomers, keep the flow of treatment functioning. "The flow of treatment," it seems, is from a dozen oxygen tanks. A dozen patients inhale air or oxygen through atomizers which contain the "mysterious chemicals."

An incredible air of faith — credulity, that is — has enabled many a faker to put his hocus-pocus across.

PATHOGENIC, ERT

A charitain down East, according to a newspaper interview, claims his secret remedy cures multiple sclerosis, cancer, cross-eyes, tuberculosis. I have classed this as a quack ad. The tuberculosis with cavity information in both lungs, in 15 days flat.") and Communism ("Communism is a chronic cerebral toxemia caused by the beta organism, and I can cure it.") He made this remarkable plea to the ever gullible public:

"What I have discovered is not merely an "apparent cure for malignancy—cancer—but a complete and scientifically integrated system of medicine involving that long list of acute chronic pathogenic diseases, the cause and cure of which have remained a complete enigma to this day."

Tuberculosis, cancer and Communism are bad enough but pathogenic diseases must be dreadful. I judge by the sound of being just a plodding, commonplace, ordinary man. I must confess I have never seen a case of pathogenic disease, and perhaps I was just too dumb to recognize pathogenic diseases.

A cogent factor in the state medical societies prosecution of the charlatan appears to be the secrecy of his methods or remedies.

Tricksters and nostrum mongers can always deceive a sufficient number of people with secrecy to assure them success. They can clean up enough to buy them yachts on Easy Street for the rest of their lives, after the public bursts.

The word pathogenic, says Webster, means "causing disease." Because the charlatan's writers put in into the script because it sounds scientific and maybe the charlatan himself came across the word in some medical publication and felt confident that prospective customers wouldn't understand it either.

That outrageous boast: "I have cleared up a case of tuberculosis with cavity formation in both lungs, in 15 days flat" is equivocal, probably intentionally so. Cleared up doesn't mean cured; it doesn't mean healed; it means made clear as to obscurity, as cure or healing of tuberculosis with cavity in both lungs, in 15 days, or in 15 weeks, would be almost a miracle, such a miracle as one of the "wonder drugs" has as yet effected.

The newspaper story reminds me of the performance staged years ago by the Canadian charlatan, who for a while worked magic by adjusting displacements in the feet, displacements which ordinary doctors just couldn't see. There's an "incredible air of faith" in the office and household of the charlatan. Former patients and friends volunteer to do his office work, guide newcomers, keep the flow of treatment functioning. "The flow of treatment," it seems, is from a dozen oxygen tanks. A dozen patients inhale air or oxygen through atomizers which contain the "mysterious chemicals."

An incredible air of faith — credulity, that is — has enabled many a faker to put his hocus-pocus across.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

How to Remove Warts

Please tell me how to remove warts. (A. J. S.)

Answer—First, steal a piece of soap without it from your grandmother in the dark of the moon. If no grandmother within easy reach paint the warts once a day for a week with the familiar purple solution, collodion, paste of salicylic acid dissolved in one-half fluidounce of flexible collodion, or rub the warts with corn, wart or callus so you can help it along. Send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for booklet Cosmetic Blemishes.

Booklet Should Grow Up

From my publishing experience I can understand why you are not keen about publishing your book. It is a very easy way. But I am sure your No. 19 Little Lesson should grow into a phenomenal seller if you would undertake the job of expanding it. What's more, I am sure any publisher would offer something like a fiftyfifty contract. (N. R.)

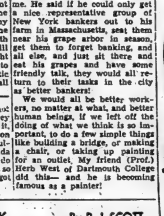
Answer—Thank you, sir, but never again. I had some experience with publishers years ago and it taught me a lesson. Maybe if a responsible book publisher could make an offer which would interest me. If any reader would like a copy of No. 1 Little Lesson in the Ways of Health it is a booklet titled Seven Keys to Vite. For a copy send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I BUILD A BRIDGE

For a few brief weeks each year I am far from city streets and the rush and worry of human beings, far from the noise of traffic and hurrying feet — on a small spot of earth in Nova Scotia, on a island in Grand Lake. A beautiful lake it is, and a sturdy, vital little island, with its brothers and sisters, rustic cities and mossy paths. A variety of old fish trees to hear and chirp in the most friendly manner, I feel akin to all.



Here it is that I do different things I do not do at home in the big city. I like to play with my boots and my duck. Maybe last past week I built a bridge, with the help of my good friend Bill Osborn. We ran out of the right sort of wood, so we went into the forest and found some rustic small trees and before nightfall had them looking up at us from the lake. I'll say it was fun, and it was inspiring. There are no bridges to build in the city, except small ones, and you have to build in our mind from one plan to another or from a failure to a success.

Doing different things, no matter how apparently unimportant, is significant, is what adds color and beauty to life. Too many are held down by the dull grind of the regular or conventional. I recall a couple of years ago I met the late David Grayson (Ray Stannard Baker) once related to a select group of writers at a nice representative group of New York bankers out to his home at Amherst, Massachusetts, near his grape arbor in season, and I'll say he got them to forget all else, and just sit there and eat his grapes and have some fun with us folks. He's driven off to turn to their tasks in the city as better bankers.

We would all be better workers, no matter at what, and better human beings if we had the doing of what we think is so important, to do a few simple things like building a bridge, or making a chair, or taking up painting for an outlet. My friend (First) Herb West of Dartmouth College did this— and he is becoming famous as a painter!

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. SCOTT SCRAPS

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In Canada when it rains, it is a deliberate and forthright business. There is a build-up to it. It begins to look like rain. Then it feels like rain. Then, by gum, it rains.

In England, here, it can look like rain all day and never rain a drop. There is no build - up, no staging. It is merely the weather. When strangers say that it rains all the time in England, they are mistaken. It merely looks like rain.

If what they get here is really rain, then we should have another word for the thing we get in Canada. You may walk along a London street under a grey and threatening sky. It is a limp, [illegible] thing. It changes the color and texture of its grey, minute by minute. In Canada under such a sky you would definitely take cover. But nothing happens, particularly no smoke-grey cloud bags and bags over your head, no a couple of tiny, infinitesimal drops tick your face. Then it is gone.

When it does rain, it comes down limply, idly, almost at random; speeds up an instant, then weakens. It has none of the arrowery, aimed fury of Canadian rain, which seems to have come from a great height. Rain in London gives the impression of having been sprinkled somewhere up about the height of Lord Nelson in Trafalgar Square. It lacks punch. It almost escapes.

That is why old country people can walk in the rain without squinting. Not only do they not bow their heads against it. They don't even close their eyes to it, but walk along with the rain on their faces and glistening cheerfully off their hats. Trees in Canada [illegible] like rain. So do Britons. For the past week, so have I. And I haven't even got damp.

Dresden, Ont., Aug. 21 (CP)— Police today continued investigation into the death of Grant Wallace, 32, whose body was found Friday in the Sydenham River.

The crown attorney's office at nearby Chatham announced it had decided that no inquest will be held if police lay criminal charges.

Wallace was last seen by his cousin, Lyle Wallace, and George Tanner, who told police they were with the dead man in Lyle Wallace's shack until early Wednesday morning.

Wallace told police that his cousin left the shack at about 2.30 a. m. Wednesday. Tanner said he was asleep at the time.

Police have questioned 15 persons in connection with the case. Results of an autopsy have not been released.

Lost in Baltimore Boy Finds Mother By Television

Baltimore, Aug. 21 — (AP) — Seven-year-old Jimmy Lucas of Toronto, lost in a strange city, showed the cops how to use television to get him back to his mother.

Jimmy and his mother arrived here yesterday to visit relatives. Jimmy went to the movies last night with two nine-year-old neighbors of the aunt.

After the show they got separated in the crowd outside the theatre. Patrolman found Jimmy on a street corner, unable to get back to his neighborhood.

The patrolman took Jimmy to a police station and everyone set back to await developments.

Not Jimmy.

"Hey," he said. "My aunt's got television. So have the people next door. How about putting me on television? Tell them to come and get me."

The cops took Jimmy downtown to WMAR-TV.

An announcer interviewed him before the camera.

"I like Baltimore fine," Jimmy said. "But the policemen ask me too many questions."

Mrs. Charles Maskell sat up with a start when she saw Jimmy on the television screen in her home, next door to Jimmy aunt. Almost everyone else in the neighborhood was out hunting him.

Jimmy's mother, aunt and uncle were waiting for him when the cops brought him back to the police station.

Here's why a further quarter of a billion dollars is being invested by Aluminum Company of Canada in

"OPERATION ALUMINUM"

Aluminum is being put to so many uses these days that Canada's aluminum industry, begun at Shawinigan Falls in 1900, and already grown to giant size, is embarked on another vast expansion program:

More dams, powerhouses, smelting facilities in Quebec ... a whole new operation in British Columbia ... these great forward strides will further step up Canada's aluminum capacity to a total of more than half a million tons a year:

IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Today the names "Peribonka" and "Kitimat" mean nothing to most Canadians. Right now they head blueprints — blueprints of work in the planning stage, of work in progress with thousands of men already on the job.

Project as planned calls for expenditure in the first stage of $200 million; the final stage when completed will increase this to $550 million. First stage to be completed 1954:

KITIMAT SMELTER
Capacity one billion pounds of aluminum a year.

Lake, above Nechako River Dam; 500 square miles in area.

Kemano powerhouse, to be built 14 mile inside mountain. Eventual capacity 2,000,000 h.p.

"Shawinigan", "Shipshaw" and "Arvida" were new names, too; many years ago. Today they are living reminders to Canadians — and to the world — that Alcan has proved a quarter of the world's aluminum resources so that now it produces a quarter of the world's aluminum supply.

On the Peribonka River in Quebec, Alcan is harnessing two cataracts — Chute-du-Diable and Chute-à-la-Savanne. These will provide hydro-electric power for a big addition to aluminum output and additional power resources for the Saguenay District.

Meanwhile, up coast 400 miles from Vancouver; a whole new aluminum operation is planned. Where now stands the tiny Indian village of Kitimat, a whole new town will be built; here Alcan will construct a huge smelter. At Kemano, 60 miles away, Alcan will build a powerhouse inside a mountain; a ten-mile tunnel through the mountain will carry water from a chain of lakes down a 2,600 foot drop to develop an eventual 2,000,000 h.p. capacity.

This "Operation Aluminum" means jobs for thousands of Canadians: It means additional millions of dollars coming into this country from abroad, for much of this aluminum will be exported.

It means additional low-cost aluminum for Canada's own use — metal which a thousand plants throughout the country use to fashion everything from utensils and toys to airplanes and bridges.

"Operation Aluminum" is a big thing for Canadians and for the free democratic world. It means a further line of defence against aggression. And it means a busier, more prosperous country in which to live and work.

TODAY

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's only attendant was Miss Dorothy Enid Malcolm, of Campbellford, wearing a dress fashioned with full lace net skirt and strapless lace top. Her lace jacket had scalloped edges, and she carried gladioli to match her frock, shading to deeper tones to match her floral headdress.

Mr. Ernest W. Carswell was groomsman for his brother.

After a reception, the bride and groom left for the Adirondacks, and will live in Campbellford.

COLEMAN—BERTRIM

COVERT—DUFFIELD

A very lovely wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Ernest Harbaugh, in Deseronto, on Saturday, August 11, at three p.m., uniting in marriage, Margaret Anne, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Duffield, of Deseronto, and George William, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Covert, of Carlaw, Ontario.

The wedding took place at the home of the bride, which was decorated with baskets of gladioli and red roses.

Rev. E. Harbaugh is from Taylorsville, Illinois. It was necessary for him to obtain a special license from the Parliament buildings in order to perform the ceremony. Mr. Harbaugh is a personal friend of the groom's family and was vacationing here at the time.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was becomingly gowned in a soft shade of Maline nylon sheer over a contrasting shade of taffets, the lightly puffed collar, forming her low neckline, was fashioned with a tight fitting bodice, and a finely pleated ballerina length skirt. A shoulder cloche of navy blue silk taffeta with tiny violets about the crown, was her headdress matching perfectly the suede shoes and wrist-length silk gloves. She carried a single gardenia on a white Bible.

The matron of honor wearing a ballerina length pale green nylon appliqued, over contrasting taffeta with pink accessories, was Mrs. D. C. McVicker, of Deseronto. She carried a nosegay of pink and white Sweetheart roses with white gladioli. Mrs. McVicker is a sister of the groom.

The bride's only sister, Marion Elizabeth, of Montreal, Quebec, was bridesmaid. She chose pale pink nylon over contrasting taffeta with white accessories. She wore a corsage of pink roses-buds and white sweetpeas.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Whitby, Oshawa, Cobourg, Castleton, Kingston, Monreal, Walkerton, Mount Forest, Taylorville, Illinois, Highland, Illinois, and Murphysborough, Illinois.

On their return, the happy couple will reside at Castleton, Ontario.

RIVERS—BAKER

The rectory of St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed, was the scene of a pretty wedding recently, when Muriel Emma, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Baker, Tweed, became the bride of Clifford Joseph Rivers, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rivers, Tweed. Rev. Dean Shannon performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride chose for her wedding, a gown of white nylon and Alencon lace. The fitted lace jacket had a low neckline edged with nylon and short sleeves, and the floor-length skirt flared to wide panels of lace. Her doubletiered fingertip length veil of illusion with a hand painted border of lily-of-the-valley, was held in place by a coronet of seed pearls. She wore elbow length nylon mitts and carried a semi-cascade bouquet of stephanotis, orchid, white feathered carnations and delicious fern.

Her only attendant, Miss Margaret Bennett, of Belleville, wore a gown of pale blue nylon sheer over taffets with a bertha collar and full skirt. She wore a matching headdress and nylon mitts and carried a nosegay of Johanna Hill roses with blue cornflower, adiantum fern and white streamers.

The groom was assisted by his nephew, Mr. Cleon Irwin, of Toronto.

Following the ceremony, luncheon was served on the the lawn at the home of the bride's parents. The table was most attractive, centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with pink rosebuds and decorated with rose-bowls of summer flowers. The bowls numbered about 75. The bride's mother received, wearing a gown of navy sheer with navy and white accessories, assisted by the groom's mother in a gown of navy and white printed crepe and white accessories. They both wore matching corsages of pink roses.

The luncheon was served by the Misses Marlene Rivers, Patricia LaBerge, Gwyn Lynn, Marie Flynn, Mary Young and Lorna Mercer.

Picking Pipe for Man Can Be Fun for Woman

(From The New York Times "Topics")

Men have always known that a pipe is a work of art and an instrument of temperament, but now more and more women are discovering that buying a pipe for a husband, father, brother or boy friend can be just as much fun as shopping for a new hat or new accessories. Nowadays nearly half the customers at an average pipe shop turn out to be women purchasing a briar or a meerschaum for their favorite male.

Being prone to a pipe anyway in the feeling that it lends distinction and character to a man, and being highly style-conscious, women have learned to make a ritual out of the selection of a particular model. This has been a particular pleasure, for there are thousands and thousands of pipes to choose from. The result has been all to the good, however, for the appearance of many a pipe-smoking male has been enhanced by the careful selections of the non-pipesmoking female.

There used to be a time when a man's decision to turn to a pipe would have been welcomed with delight as it almost invariably was the gift-buying problem, the gift of a pipe would be sure to make him happy and as for establishing what a pipe was a pipe, 'tis the true pipe smokers who lovingly and painstakingly select their pipes and cherish each and every one of them such a philosophy has, of course, always been anathema. Now pipe purchasers have become increasingly aware that a pipe is an individual gift, and that the purchase of any old pipe, the first one that catches the eye, could be a misgemt gesture. Giving a man a pipe that will accentuate his best attractive features brings shudders to veteran pipe dispensers. In their eyes, just as the right pipe brings out a quiet sterling quality, handing so presenting a fellow with a pipe wrong for him may warp his entire personality.

The pipe should fit the face and the face should be fitted to the pipe. As a result, gitting a pipe for someone else from one's pipe salesman means supplying all kinds of data except fingerprints. Age, height, weight, appearance, personality and smoking habits are elicited. A heavy-set young man is most likely to look good with a large bowl and graceful smooth lines, while a long, thin face is likely to be supplimented by a long bowl.

Older men seem to be best suited by the high round bowl or the more rounded apple bowl. The curved stem, wide bore model is considered suitable for short or stout men, even though Sherlock Holmes, usually depicted as a lean, angular individual with a hawk nose, undoubtedly would not have been able to do any detecting without the indispensable adjunct of his famous curved pipe.

With countless thousands of varieties to pick from, a woman selecting a pipe has to go through a number of mental fittings. Fittings seem to be one of the delights of womankind, like trying on one new bonnet after another, all of which look virtually alike and equally attractive to the attendant husband present to advise the consent. With pipes, however, men are not much different. A man who bows to the same shades and styles with no dalliance for shopping will spend hours debating the merits of getting the pipe with the ring around the bowl or the one without, or the suitability of the rectangular shank or the relative qualities of Algerian and Italian briar. Even if a man has fifty or five pipes, as many confirmed pipe smoker do, he is determined to add to them. He will take the utmost care in adopting a new one. Despite his wife's admonitions to get rid of that battered, burned-out relic, he will never throw it away.

As most cherish pipes, so do they cherish the associations. The married woman has also her learned to the expert hold that a pipe smoker usually lets the other person do most of the talking. Traditionally, too, the pipes and tobacco wafting at home have always been a part of the pleasures of the hearth rather than of a poker game, for example.

The experimental spin can buy a pipe for her swain and see if he takes it. Pipe smokers generally tend to be dull, easy-going fellows, given to a patience and deliberation reflected in the meticulous filling a pipe, the frequent pauses to relight it and the unhurried puffing. The nervous type who is ever seeking to express himself, does not have much success with pipes.

Finally, what woman can resist the temptation to make her man shine like her ideal, and a pipe even more than a highball glass—will make him look more like a man of distinction.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

The white blackberries grown in California were never successful.

If their flavor had been identical with regular blackberries, our eyes would simply not have permitted them to taste the same. The bright green oranges grown in the tropics, although exceedingly sweet, make people wince because of their unwonted color. Any pleasing contrast or colors makes for harmony as far as our taste buds are concerned. Thick sweet cream poured on shiny blackberries will intrigue the fruitarian appetites.

The anti-blackberry clan bases their opposition on the pits that sometimes retard busy mouth traffic. But true berry lovers accept this minor inconvenience along with the large pleasure derived from the berry season.

Crisp meringue shells are covered with stewed fresh blackberries and whipped cream in today's summer dessert.

Blackberry Cream Meringue

3-4 cup sugar
1-2 cup water
1 quart blackberries
3 slices lemon
2 egg whites
1-8 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1-2 cup sugar
1-2 teaspoon lemon juice
1-2 cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon sugar

Put the 3-4 cup sugar in a saucepan with the water. Simmer 5 minutes. Wash the berries. Add the berries and lemon slices to the saucepan. Simmer 3 to 5 minutes or until the berries are just tender. Remove the lemon.

Cool the berries to room temperature; then chill in the refrigerator until served.

Beat the egg whites with the salt until whites form soft peaks. Add the cream of tartar. Gradually add 1-2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating well after each addition. Add the lemon juice. The whites must be beaten so that when cut with a knife they leave a sharp groove.

Shape the meringues by tablespoons on unglazed paper on a cookies sheet. Each meringue should be about 2 inches in diameter. Bake in a very slow oven 275 degrees until crisp, about 50 to 60 minutes.

Remove from the oven. Cool. Beat the heavy cream until thick. Add the 1 tablespoon sugar. Put 2 meringue shells in a serving dish. Spoon the blackberries between the shells. Top with whipped cream.

Representatives Of Chinese Govt. Ordered Home

Taipeh, Formosa, Aug. 21 (AP) — The Chinese Nationalist government fired two of its representatives in the United States today and ordered them home immediately.

First, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek suspended Li-Gen, Mac Pang-Chu as field commandant of the Chinese Nationalist Air Force and delegate to the United Nations military staff committee. Chiang in a mandate accused Mac of "dereliction of duties and disobedience of orders." A government spokesman said Mac had failed to account for $19,440,000 of funds to buy equipment for the air force and to train its personnel.

Next, air force headquarters announced dismissal of Col. Hsieng Wah-Suan, executive assistant to Mac, and ordered him home to face charges of dereliction of duty and suspicion of being a communist agent.

It was declared here that either would return voluntarily to Formosa.

Flaming Jet Plows Into Truck Thirteen Burned

Fort Dix, N.J., Aug. 21 (AP) — A flame-enveloped jet plane rained death as it fought a losing battle for altitude—plowed into a army truck yesterday. Thirteen men were killed to death. Of the 20 injured, one died today.

Two of the victims were in the plane, a T-33 air force trainer that had taken off only moments before from nearby McGuire air base.

The dead were part of a 54-man army detail that had just finished loading a truck with ammunitions lins in a belt of scrub pines at the end of the base.

Survivors said the plane bore down on them "like a ball of fire" through the trees, skimmed over a truck partly-loaded with soldiers and crashed about feet feet away.

Maet. Bertram Brinkley, Fort Dix public information officer, said a landing was the final task, apparently jarred loose by trees, dropped onto the truck, turning it and the passengers into flamed torches.

Santa Monica, Calif., Aug. 2— (AP) — The 15-year-old son of the late movie star, Richard Dix, has been named in a paternity suit filed in behalf of a child expected to be born next month to Jo-Ann Beaman, 18.

The suit was filed yesterday by Mrs. Marianne Y. Beaman for her unmarried daughter. She asked $1,000 medical expenses, support for the baby and legal fees. She stated that Richard Dix, Jr., has admitted fathering the expected child.

Place of Sunshine

Toronto, Aug. 21—(CP)—July is the month for sunshine in Ontario and Harrow, Ont., is the place for sunshine.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture's 1950 statistical report shows that Harrow, 20 miles southeast of Windsor, had 288 hours of "bright sunshine" in July last year. Woodstock, 25 miles east of London, had 284, Toronto was third with 279 hours.

PICTURE OF BOREDOM

This bored-looking North Korean soldier typifies the sullen attitude of many people as he sits with head in hands on the steps to the conference house in Kaesong, where armistice talks are being held. Not Thinking Of an Election Frost States

Ottawa, Aug. 21 (CP) — Premier Frost said today that he has not thought about an Ontario election. He was "too busy doing the people's business to think about election."

The premier, in Ottawa to confer with Prime Minister St. Laurent, had been asked to comment on published reports that Ontario may have a fall election possibly right after the Ontario portion of the Royal tour in October.

Lapointe Praises Canadian Legion For Fine Work

Cornwall, Aug. 21—(CP)—No organization is better suited to accept the challenge presented by a constantly changing Canada than the Canadian Legion, Veterans Minister Lapointe said last night.

Addressing the 17th biennial convention banquet of the legion's Ontario command, he said the legion's membership is made up of those who have demonstrated great citizenship qualities, those who have shared common dangers and have learned to respect one man, rather than his background and antecedents.

Awards were presented at the dinner to various branches and individual members for outstanding contributions during the last two years.

Highest legion award, the Medal of Merit, went to Canon Roy E. Mess of Chatham.

The provincial shield and cup went to the Montgomery Branch, Ottawa, for bringing the greatest number of members into neighboring branches, and for entries in the senior essay competition sponsored by the Ontario command.

Ottawa Montgomery Branch's scholarship award to a veteran still studying wills in hospital went to C. L. Douglas, Kitchener.

London, Aug. 21 (AP) —Constant Lambert, 45, British composer, conductor and critic, died today.

Lambert who sometimes conducted at London's promenade concerts, was musical director of Sadlers' Wells ballet for many years. He wrote a ballet for Diaghilev at the age of 20.

Last month he conducted the first performance of his own ballet "Tiresias" before an audience which included the Queen, Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret.

Rain General Over Province

Toronto, Aug. 21 — (CP)—The first heavy rain in a month fell on Ontario farms.

The weather office said about a half-inch fell on Toronto and points to the rest of the province in an early - morning downpour. The last heavy rain was July 21 when an inch fell in the north, tapering off to a quarter-inch in the Toronto area.

Today's rain was expected to delay harvesting in some districts, but in the Niagara and Halton county areas, farmers welcomed it as an aid to their fall seeding.

Bodies of Two Drowned Men Washed Ashore

Goderich, Ont., Aug. 21 (CP) —The bodies of two Huron county men, drowned a week yesterday when their small dory overturned 100 yards off shore in Lake Huron here, were found washed up on the beach early today.

The bodies were identified as those of Keith Gardner, 44, Colborne township farmer, and Kenneth Hazlitt, 26-year-old Goderich garage mechanic. Both were married men with children.

They were found 500 feet from the south pier near the Canadian Pacific Railways roundhouse, by Jack Burrows, night watchman for the Canadian Bridge Company and William Mugford, CPR night watchman.

Coroner Dr. W. G. Gallon said decision on an inquest is pending.

The men are believed to have been drowned about 3 a.m. yesterday.

Half a Million British Railmen Ask Increase

London, Aug. 21 (Reuters) — Half a million British railroad men today handed in a pay claim that would add about £14,000,000 to the annual payroll of the nationalized roads, already operating in the red.

They acted soon after National Trade Union leaders, in a special report, warned the Labor Government that wages would have to go up to keep pace with rising living costs.

The Trades Union Congress, which has 8,000,000 members, officially abandoned its long-standing policy of withholding pay demands with publication of the report last night.

The railroadmen are asking for an over-all increase of 10 per cent in wages. They already have a 7½-per cent increase this year.

Other unions are drafting wage increase demands in the wake of the T.U.C. report.

Fighter Base To be Opened At North Bay

Ottawa, Aug. 21 — (CP) Opening of an important RCAF fighter base at North Bay, Ont., is expected to be announced soon.

Indications are that it will be used to train pilots and navigators in use of the new CF100 Canuck, the long-range, all-weather jet fighter designed for defence of Canada's wide open spaces, particularly the Arctic.

The first Canucks are expected to come into RCAF use fairly soon.

North Bay, 175 air miles north of Toronto, is in a good strategic position for an operational base for northern defence, too.

FAMOUS TAPESTRY

The historic Bayeux Tapestry was taken to Normandy about 900 years ago, depicting the Norman invasion of England.

Contamination Of Sask. Lake Kills 20,000 Ducks

Moose Jaw, Sask., Aug. 21. (CP) — Some 20,000 Moose Jaw sportsmen fought, through rain and bad roads last week-end to rescue a handfull of survivors among 20,000 ducks stricken by botulism in Johnstone Lake, 30 miles south of here.

Only 100 ducks were found alive. Officials said the lake water became contaminated by decaying animal and vegetable matter which blotted the smallest and palest ducks.

Ducks found alive had their mouths swabbed with fresh water and were taken to Old Wives Lake a few miles away.

The rescue workers used pitchforks to pile up the dead ducks in heaps along the lake.

Natural resources officials said heavy rains and continued cool weather would probably clear the lake. If the water is not cleared, another rescue mission will be organized.

SUCCUMBS TO INJURIES

Toronto, Aug. 21 — (CP) Ernest (Polly) Pemberton died in hospital here Monday from injuries suffered when struck by a car July 30.

A prominent jockey on Ontario and American race tracks, he was born in Manchester, England, in 1883.

KOREANS WATCH

"Details of the crime of which the Canadians are accused are particularly shocking. The greatest ill effect from this crime is its seizure by the Communist press and the widespread contempt held by many United Nations soldiers for the guilty men of this country, a contempt emphasized every day in the way the Koreans are pushed around.

Here is how Barrett describes the incident:

"Those up for trial are accused of invading a Korean home last March 17 and attempting to attack two women occupants while members of the criminal party restrained the men of the household who tried to protect the women. Finally the Korean women succeeded in freeing themselves, and shouting out the troops.

"As the Canadians and two British soldiers withdrew from the house, somebody threw a hand grenade inside and killed three of the occupants and injured a fourth."

Barrett says Canadian investigators roamed the front lines to get evidence. They discovered a grenade handle with the fingerprints of one of the accused on it. Also, reports the Times correspondent, a 45-calibre bullet was dug out of the wall of the Korean hut and was found to fit the gun of one of the accused.

He said the ring that not only had advance information on Japanese plans, but had helped to shape them through the exercise of influence on "brain busters" in the Japanese government.

The lean, spectacled witness, speaking in Japanese through an interpreter, described the capture of Seoul in November, 1945, a few weeks before Pearl Harbor.

He said it was "self-evident" that he had just about completed all the work he had set out to do" before his arrest.

Sew Messages

Hoshikawa said he saw a message relayed to Moscow in 1941 by Sorge advising that a Japanese attack against the Soviet Union was not attack aimed "to the south."

He said the message did not specifically mention an attack on the United States or Pearl Harbor, but that any power would know such a move would necessitate going to war with America.

He said that Sorge, although a Russian agent and a communist, also was a member of the Nazi party so fully trusted by German Ambassador Eugene Ott that Ott demanded his arrest. Yoshikawa said Sorge was able to warn Russia before Hitler's invasion of that country June 22, 1941.

ENEMY

The latter proposed that a while flag blanket from one side was willing to talk to the other. It asked that the U. N. reply be hung from a civilian house in a safe conduct guarantee and in the "leave message box," a refuse can, they would meet that the Chinese wanted the answer enclosed in their original yellow glazed envelope.

The Chinese suggestion concerning a flag was:

"We scheduled a time for a temporary cease-fire and shall see a spot in the middle of both positions for holding a party. Those who want to talk will be welcome—delegates all the same (presumably delegates of equal number). Both sides should guarantee delegates security from all military hostilities pending all military activities."

Signed by battalion commander Ching Chi of the Chinese people's volunteer forces and by [Don] Chi, chief of staff "delegation of the privates," the note ended:

"Hail the immediate realization of the brotherhood friendly entertainment."

Tribe Extends Lead To Game; Garcia Wins 17th; Yanks Split With Tigers

CHIPS THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

BLEW IN MINTS—

The Redmen's pet gremlin either got his dates mixed or was delayed by engine trouble last night for he was missing at his usual first-inning post, but bobbed up when the Reds apparently had the game in the bag with last three outs between them and a 6-3 victory over the third-place Kingston Leafs.

They played errorless ball for eight innings and were enjoying a comfortable lead when the gremlin struck. The sneaky error in centre field that saw the ball trickle through the legs of two outfielders started the big-ten accusation. Then a couple of hits, a walk or two, and the infield popped up with five more bobbles, and the ball-game was over. Five Kingston runners remained across the plate in that disastrous fourth and thereby hangs the tale.

Billy Strahm pitched good enough to win any game until the ninth. He faltered after he walked the first batter and a hit and the two-run error did not do any good. Willie Fordham came to the rescue and allowed a hit and a run, but he too, was the victim of two costly infield bobbles. Two over bats.

The Cubs had better be on their toes for the Balzam Shoemen are breathing heavily down their necks. Bobby Bunton turned in a sparkling two-hitter against Napanee last night to win 7-0 and with Shoemen's 8-3 victory over Belleville the fourth place Reds. Only a half-game separates the teams at the moment and that can be changed tonight when the Shoemen play.

Whatever Pat Gilmour's baseball faults are, it cannot be said the youngster has a bad throwing arm. His toss from the fence at deep right centre field to nip Lenard at third last night was one of the best fielding plays there will be in a long time to witness. The ball sped straight to the base and all Red Carson had to do was nail it and tag Lenard out by two feet.

The Redmen are hosts to Smiths Falls here Thursday night, but the game at the Falls scheduled for Wednesday night has been called off.

SO THAT'S THAT!

The announcement that Pat Wilson will do his hockey-log in Stratford, and Sammy Mailhollland will coach it in the Detroit Red Wings training camp at Sault Ste. Marie on Sept. 5th will put the quietus on all three Chic Sales rumors that have been flooding the sports rialto the past few weeks. Wilson has definitely come to terms with Stratford and Sammy will serve for the Sox, ultimate destination unknown. So-that's that, lads.

THIS IS IT!

The softball chips are down for the Men o' Glen Roy, Thursday night they trek to Kingston where they take on the Alcans of that city in the first game of their two-game Intermediate 'A' play-down total round. Second game here next Saturday night.

The Glens defeated the Alcans in an exhibition tilt earlier in the season by a close score here, but that has no bearing on the important series coming up. This is the second series and both teams will be all out to cop that all-important first game. The Glens will likely toss their full power at the Reddy crew and be greeted by everything the Kingston team has got, plus. It's a two-of-three series the squad that cops the laurels in the first tilt has a big edge on the losers.

Don Boyle will likely get the mound assignment for the Thursday night tilt with Bob Hunter or Marty Mailhot tossing 'em at the Limestoners come Saturday evening here. The series winners meet the victors of the Oshawa - Peterborough joust in the playdown second round. The winners of this series in turn will meet the Toronto representatives in the provincial semi-finals.

NICE GESTURE!

Up pops another sports-minded citizen with a generous heart who has the interests of the kids of Belleville always in mind. This time it's Art Keegan, Parks Board Commissioner who has built, painted and donated a handsome scoreboard which has been placed on Optimist Island. The board measures 25 feet in length, is seven feet in height, and is one of the most modern of its kind in the district.

"It's for the kiddies of Belleville who like sport", said Commissioner Keegan. "I have felt such a board is necessary, and it is a pleasure for me to be able to do, in a small way, something for these youngsters."

TWO PIPS FOR PERLEY!

District citizens, especially Point Anne tennis and softball circles has lost one of its useful enthusiasts in Perry Everett, who dons the khaki of the Canadian Army again.

Perry has been given a commission in the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps with the rank of lieutenant and has been posted to Kingston. He reports there tomorrow.

He spent six and one-half years in the service during World War II and received his commission in the infantry. After serving overseas he returned and became associated with the Mutual Life Assurance Company. In sport, Perry was one of Point Anne's softball slugsters and he was not bad at clouting back a tennis ball at an opponent. Last winter he supervised the purse-strings of the Redmen Hockey Club.

BLACK HAWKS FEATHER NEST!

Bill Tobin, boss-man of the Chicago Black Hawks is apparently tired of his feathered-pockets being picked annually by other teams of the National Hockey League. This using the Hawks as a stepping stone to a playoff berth, the league championship and the Stanley Cup, is going to stop, it seems. Tobin day-dreamed into the Blackjitters gold yesterday, chanced on a juicy rum in front of the Detroit Red Wings mastermiads schnozzles and went back to Chicago with six Wings and a junior prospect in tow.

Tobin is going to insist that unkind remark uttered in some quarters last winter that Lumley was the only hockey player wearing a Windy City uniform, down somebody's throat. He has acquired Jim Peters, Jim McFadden, George Gee, Metz McNab, Clarence Raglan and Clare Martin, the latter pair a defence duo, something badly needed on the Hawk roster.

There will probably be more thus gold - shedding on the part of the Black Hawks and when the new look flapped the uniform last winter will have to get down to brass tacks and hustle if they want to keep their jobs. Tobin apparently isn't fooling and a few thousand bucks here or there will not stand in his way to rejuvenate the Chicago team.

Belleville fans will see the old and new Hawks in action before the National Hockey League rail-birds glance there. They'll be here on October 4th to play an exhibition tilt and will practice in Memorial Arena on Oct. 3rd and 5th. They leave the city early Saturday, Oct. 6th.

Indians Scalp Senators 5-3 As Rosen Blasts 22nd Homer; Yanks Score Eight in Eighth

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Dale Mitchell, a bench warmer every spring, is one of the leading hitters in Cleveland's stirring drive for the American League pennant.

Mitchell, who has never failed to hit .300 in the big leagues, is on the sidelines down south while rookies battle for his left-field job.

But sure enough, before the season is well under way, Mitchell is the regular left fielder.

That's what happened to Al Zarilla after a horrible start after all aspirants for his berth filled the bill before he did so click and so did the Indians.

Mitchell reached the .300 mark in batting last night as the Indians opened a crucial 18-game home stand by beating Washington Senators, 5-3.

The triumph enabled the Tribe to pull a game ahead of the runner-up New York Yankees who divided doubleheader with the Tigers in Detroit. The Tigers won the opener 6-5, but the Yanks grabbed the night game 13-5.

Rosen Hits 22nd

Mitchell opened the Indian half of the first inning with a single to center, only two shy of his output in four previous complete big league seasons. Before the inning ended Al Rosen boomed his 22nd homer with a mate on and the Indians never were headed. Home runs by Bob Avila in the fifth and Mitchell in the sixth accounted for the other Cleveland runs.

Husky Mike Garcia scattered 12 Washington hits in posting his 17th victory of the year compared to eight losses.

Virgil Trucks, with help from Tony Trout, stopped the Yanks in the opener at Detroit, Trucks, leading 4-0, left in the eighth when the Yanks rallied twice.

Eight-Run Explosion

Jerry Priddy and Pat Mullin paced the Tigers' 11-hit attack against lefty Ed Lopat. Priddy drove in three runs on a triple, double and single. Mullin contributed his 11th homer.

The Yanks bucked the night-cap away with an eight run explosion in the eighth inning on five hits, three walks, an error and fly ball. Joe DiMaggio and Yogi Berra drove in three runs apiece. Berra homered in the ninth inning of each game to boost his home run output to 20.

Lefty Art Schallock, making it his second start of the season, scattered 10 Tiger hits including a homer by Johnny Groth.

The remaining American League clubs were not scheduled. In the National League, rain washed out a game between Brooklyn and Boston.

The other National League Clubs were idle.

Lady Driver To Defend Title

Toronto, Aug. 21 (CP) — Mrs. Mildred Williams of Beamsville, Ont., returns to Thorncliffe Raceway Thursday to defend her title as Ontario's champion woman driver of harness horses.

Mrs. Williams won her championship at Thorncliffe three weeks ago when, for the first time, the public was permitted to wager on a race exclusively for women drivers.

Mrs. Williams will drive her husband's mare, Mildred Hilliard. Her rivals will include Mrs. Grace Greig, Mrs. Victor Lutman, Mrs. Vivian Goodeck, Mrs. Scotty Innes and one other driver whose name hasn't been announced as yet. The field will be confined to six entries.

Sudbury Miners Seek Leaf Help

Toronto, Aug. 21 (CP) — Two representatives of the Sudbury Miners senior hockey club today talked with officials of the Maple Leaf organization about obtaining players for the Miners' winter campaign in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association.

The Leaf officials said that, because the Montreal Canadiens already have an affiliation with the Sudbury Wolves, the Leafs are unable to enter the territory.

However, the Miners' representatives said they still were hopeful that a way could be found to help them find players to strengthen their team.

Bisons, Chiefs Stage Battle For Third Place

(By The Associated Press)

Syracuse Chiefs and Buffalo Bisons are staging their own private battle for possession of third place in the International League.

Since Montreal Royals are firmly entrenched in first place and Rochester Red Wings are comfortably perched in second, interest currently is centred on the fight between the Chiefs and Bisons.

Syracuse registered a 7-3 victory over Ottawa Giants last night to move into third place by one percentage point. Buffalo, in dropping six out of its last eight games, bowed to the Toronto Maple Leafs 6-4 and fell to fourth place. It marked the first time that the Bisons have been as low as fourth since June 8.

Art Hartley garnered his 11th victory for the resurgent Chiefs, who clinched the verdict with a four-run outburst in the eighth inning. Hartley also drove in two runs with a single and a squeeze bunt.

A three-run rally in the seventh frame provided Toronto with its winning margin. Veteran Russ Bauers went the route to gain credit for the victory. Les Fleming homered for the Leafs and Hawk Blasutti slammed a round-tripper for Buffalo.

The last-place Springfield Cubs nipped the league-leading Montreal Royals 2-1 in 11 innings. The Cubs tallied their winning marker after Royals were out on a double by Carmen Mauro and a single by Johnny Lipiak. Tony Jacobs, who relieved starter Bill Padget, was the winning pitcher.

Rochester and Baltimore were not scheduled.

There is only one entry from outside Ontario. He is John Griffiths, Saskatchewan junior champion, from Regina.

The tourney must be finished by Thursday night so that competitors can leave early Friday for the Canadian junior championships at Ottawa.

Junior ladies' singles —

Guy Regent Wins Three Straight At Thorncliffe

Toronto, Aug. 21 (CP) —Guy Regent, the popular gelding owned by Bert H. Soper, former member of parliament from Smiths Falls, won his second and third consecutive wins to feature Monday's trots at Thorncliffe Raceway.

On Friday he had started in a pacing event at one mile and one-quarter, because his previous reputation had been established as a sprinter, the public pushed him to 6-5 to go to the post at odds of 31-to-1 and he led every step of the way to pay $64.10.

He came out Monday to race two heats of the featured pacing stake. Apparently the public believed that Friday's race had taken the edge out of him because he went to the post at almost 15-to-1, came from behind to win this time and paid $25.45.

Later in the afternoon, he won at 1 1-16 miles and paid $6.80.

Thorncliffe officials announced that, commencing exclusively for women drivers will be carried for Thursday.

Bobby Bunton Tosses Two-Hitter

Behind Bobby Bunton's masterful two-hit hurling, the strong Shoemen defeated the cellar-dwelling Napanee Athletics 7-0 in a Central Ontario baseball game in Napanee last night.

The victory saw the Shoemen's crew in the fourth place behind the fourth place Belleville Reds. Belleville defeated 8-4 by the Kingston Disney Leafs. A win for the Shoemen tonight will see the teams tied for the spot.

Bunton breezed through to a neat victory letting the Athletes down with two clouts while his mates were pounding two Napanee hurlers for thirteen hits. He struck out three.

The Shoemen showed two runs in the third, added another in the fourth and exploded for a five run splurge in the seventh.

Hooper started for the Athletics but gave way to Robinson in the third.

Bridgman smashed out three hits for four trips to the plate. Art Wright and Cosgrove contributed two apiece. Pentenson and Munro were the only Napanee hitters to connect safely with the Bunton shoots.

Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association quarter finals opened here last night as Metropolitans defeated Brampton Excelsiors 11-8 at Mimico in the first of their best-of-five series. Hamilton Tigers and St. Catharines Athletics drew a bye. The 1951 scores after two overtime periods.

Fergus Thistles came back into the playoff picture last night by whipping West Yorks in Fergus 13-5. This gave them a 20-19 edge in their two-game total-goal series with the Yorkers for the last played game. On Sunday in Toronto they dropped the first game 12-7.

The regular league play now finally ended, Mimico's Don Mc-Phail's lead, the scoring parade with 108 points over the 30-game schedule. He finished 18 points ahead of his nearest rival, Harry Wipper of Peterborough. Hamilton's Jack Dorney finished in a three-way tie with Ike Hildebrand of Peterborough — each notched 82 points.

Blue Bombers Thump Argos 13-1 To End 13-Year Toronto Drought

Winnipeg, Aug. 21 (CP) — 36-35 in Calgary Saturday. Ar-Winnipeg Blue Bombers ended a 13-year drought against Toronto football teams by walloping the Canadian champion Argonauts 13-1 last night before 9,600 fans, a record football crowd for Bombers' home field.

Blue Bombers, soundly whipped last fall by Argos in the Canadian championship final, outplayed the Big Four team in the air and on the ground in last night's exhibition game.

After a scoreless first quarter, George Trafton's Winnipeg team took 1-0 lead in the second, increased the margin to 7-1 in the third and added another six points in the final 15 minutes while holding the Dominion champions scoreless.

Winnipeg, beaten by Argonauts in the 1937, 1938, 1945, 1946, 1947 and 1950 Grey Cup final, charged to victory on the forward passing of quarterback Jack Jacobs and the shattering line play of tackles Dick Huffman and Buddy Tinsley.

Jacobs Stars

Jacobs, who failed to show much in last fall's final over Toronto's punch-over-dead City Stadium, kicked second-quarter single, threw a 40-yard third-period pass to Orville Casey for a touchdown and in the last quarter shot a 14-yard touchdown pass to Johnny Stroppa. Both were converted by and Joe Aguirre. Jacobs also continued playing for Winnipeg will depend on outcome of a court hearing Thursday when he headed a charging line that rushed Argo quarterback Frankie Knobbdy Wirkowski, throughout the game.

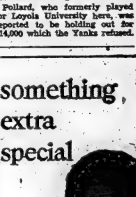
Jacobs completed only four of 11 attempted forwards and one was intercepted while Knobby Wirkowski completed for a total 225 yard gain.

Winnipeg Lions, Huffman's employers last year, have applied for an interim injunction prohibiting the big tackle from playing for any team but them. The injunction if granted, would prevent Huffman from playing until a court hearing can decide whether to uphold an injunction awarded in a United States court.

Argonauts were without tackle John Kerns and guard Bucko Hirsch, injured as the Toronto team edged Calgary Stampeders

Ex-West Pointer Turns Down Offer

Los Angeles, Aug. 21 (AP) — Al Pollard, army fullback who was expelled from West Point in the recent cribbing scandal, has turned down a $7,000 offer to play for New York Yanks in the National League.



Pollard, who formerly played for Loyola University here, was reported to be holding out for $14,000 which the Yanks refused.

Vern Bickford Out Four Weeks

Boston, Aug. 21 (AP) —Vern Bickford, Boston Braves' right-handed pitching ace, today was given permission to go home to New Canton, Va., to rest his fractured right hand. He suffered the injury during a pre-game pepper drill in Chicago Aug. 5.

Manager Tommy Holmes has been advised by Dr. Roger Doyle the club physician, that Bickford will be unable to throw a ball for at least four weeks. Before being sidelined, Bickford, a 19-game winner last season has compiled an 11-9 record.

Kingston Scores Five in 9th Snatch Last-Minute 8-6 Win After Losing Reds All Way

The Redmen reversed their procedure last night at Exhibition Park. They held their collective tops for eight innings and had the victory in the bag. Then they blew in the ninth and the Kingston Dinger finally pounced upon their eleventh hour flusher and turned a 6-5 licking into an 8-6 victory.

The loss combined with Batawa's 7-0 win over Napanee cuts the Reds' fourth place lead over the Shoons to a half game. A Batawa victory tonight will see the teams knotted for the spot.

Twice the Redskirts blew a comfortable lead in the ninth and that first inning jinx. They packed away at the Kingston hurling and garnered a 6-0 lead up to the fifth. Three hits and an error put the Leafs within shot-gun of the Reds, but the Wilson crew came back in their half of the beat to notch a brace that gave them a 6-3 lead.

Blew in Ninth

They blanked the Leafs until the last half of the ninth when the roof fell on them and the Red balloon went sailing into the blue. A walk and two hits preceded a costly centre field error by the reliable Sammy Mulholland and three Leafs fluttered across the plate to even the count with none out.

The next batter flied out and another walk started the sack populating. Carson got a grounder trickle between his legs and up popped Bucko Bill and Reeves consolidated another bobble and when the smoke had cleared and the ashes retired out back, was on the short end of an 8-6 count.

The Reds' starter, Jerry Bateman tired three in their half of the ninth and the curtain dropped.

Billy Stinson opened in a fine pitching job up to the ninth. He held the Kingston batters to seven hits up to that point, striking out five and walking one. He walked the first batter in the ninth, gave up a hit then the outfield error sent over a pair of runs before he got the side out. Then the other walk and Willie Fordham's hook over, Ken Infield errors and a hit greeted him before he retired the side.

Loaned Meian M

At Lenard essayed the starting mound duty for the Leafs and the big college professor and football player was touched for eleven clouts in five innings, giving all the Red runs before Stinson was called in to relieve. He was none out to quench the Red fire. This he did very effectively giving up but one hit for no runs in the four innings of toil.

The Reds piled up their chances to score with the bases loaded in the second and sixth innings but on both occasions the potential heroes drove out long flies to retire the side.

Johnny Dean led the Redmen hit parade with four for five, one of them a double that rolled to the fence. Fitzpatrick hoisted a towering triple to the boundary line and added a single. Buck Reeves also clouted a double with Vern Gegner and Sammy Mulholland contributing a pair of singles each.

Aitken and Al Lenard were sole men poison for the Redmen hurling. The former backed out a trio of singles and the Ole Professor helped himself to a brace of doubles, one of which he tried to stretch into a triple but a perfect throw from the right field fence by Pat Gilmour nipped him off the hot corner sack. It was one of the best fielding efforts seen here in a long while.

Gilmour got a pair of singles and Manager Stan Scrutton was also injected himself into the game in the seventh and batted in one for Ferguson and Carnegie.

'Jinxes, Phodey' Laughs Maxim Now 7-5 Choice

By MURRAY ROSE

Summit, N.J., Aug. 21 (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim says he's not worried over the little jinx that has plagued five boxing kings this year.

"Jinxes ain't going to help anybody in their Wednesday," said Maxim, who defends his crown against Irish Bobby Barrett in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. "I'm more concerned about some of that rough stuff he likes to pull."

"If he pulls any dirty stuff on me, I'll give him some of it right back," said Joey.

Maxim has been fighting pro close to 12 years and knows all the tricks.

"It is all or nothing with me" said Maxim. "I'm on the spot and I'll give it right back to him. Thumbs, if necessary."

Joey didn't go into the details on his complaint but manager Jack (Doc) Kearns was more specific.

"I don't want to bring up low punches," said Kearns, "but Murphy has a few low ones. Let's have a fight instead of a wrestling match. If Murphy fights according to the rules, Maxim will beat him easy. He'll beat him anyway. Probably will knock him out at that."

Murphy, a fighter who bores in from the start and keeps throwing punches without a letup, was burned up at the charges from the Maxim camp.

Murphy Predicts KO

"They're just getting up an alibi," said Murphy. "Maxim can't take it in the body, and believe me, I'm going to knock him out with a hook to the body within seven rounds."

A mild-mannered and pleasant guy when not in the ring, the red-topped west coaster was so burned up that he took it out on his brother in his last workout but Bobby hadn't floored any of his sparmates in 48 rounds of sparring—up until yesterday. He dropped his brother Charles (Chuck) Conarty (Conarty is Murphy's real name) with a left hook to the jaw.

Murphy has looked real sharp in his workouts while Maxim hasn't been any ball of fire. As a result the odds have switched and the challenger now is a 5 to 7 choice. When the match was signed Maxim was installed a 1-to-2 choice.

The 15-rounder figures to draw a crowd of from 9,000 to 10,000 and a gross gate of about $60,000 at a $15 top. The battlers, however, will cut into a radio-television option estimated at from $75,000 to $100,000.

Midget Wields 17-Inch Bludgeon Wants to Bat With Sacks Loaded

Chicago, Aug. 21 (AP)—Eddie Gaedel, the three-foot, seven-inch midget of the St. Louis Browns, says he looks longingly up the time you take to step to the plate with the bases loaded.

"They would walk me sure as the world and force in a run—and that run might win," said the 50-pounder whose biggest thrill in a fun-packed career was signing a contract with the Browns' Bill Veeck.

"That contract is ironclad and calls for $100 each time I appear in a game," he added.

The 26-year-old mite capped Veeck's carnival-like promotions Sunday by waddling to the plate and drawing a walk for suprised Bob Cain in the Detroit-Browns game at St. Louis.

Will Play Against Sox

Gaedel said he never saw a fellow so surprised as pitcher Cain.

"Cain stared and walked to-ward catcher Bob Swift," recalled Gaedel. "Swift was laughing so hard he nearly fell over. I acted mad and yelled 'let's go.' Throw it in there Fat and I'll molder it!"

Gaedel was wielding a 17-inch-long bat that weighed about 23 ounces.

Frank Lane, general manager of the Chi Sox, said Veeck was perfectly welcome to insert Gaedel in any game the Browns play with the Sox.

"We know there are not limitations on the size of players," he said. "As far as pitching to the midget—well, 'I don't know. But there is a strike zone and it seems to me that the way some umpires have been calling 'em it's the same as having a midget at the plate anyway."

May Not Choose Baseball Boss Till December

BY JOE REICHLER

New York, Aug. 21 (AP) — Baseball may be without a commissioner at least until December despite the efforts of the major league club owners to elect one at their meeting here today.

A poll of the 16 executives showed that a majority believed there isn't anybody among the eligibles with sufficient strength to command the backing of the needed 12 votes.

Those among the remaining 11 still being considered who would — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, for instance—probably are unavailable.

Del Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees and chairman of the four-man screening committee, summed it up when he said:

"I don't know whether or not a commissioner will be named. But I will say this: I haven't lost it and get the wrong man."

Fred Saigh, president of St. Louis Cardinals, went a step further.

Want Right Man

It is important that we get the right man for the job," he said. "Even if it means waiting until the December meetings — or even longer."

A member of the screening committee said that all 11 candidates who survived the voting at the owners' last meeting Aug. 7, had been reached. He admitted "some" had declared their unavailability, but declined to identify them.

He did, however, confirm that Eisenhower, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, president Ford Frick of the National League and president Warren Giles of Cincinnati Reds are among the 11 remaining candidates.

The committeeman said the names of James Farley, George Treutman, Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio and Senator Edwin Johnson, Colorado Democrat, included among those who did not receive sufficient backing in the last meeting, could be re-introduced for further discussion.

Pat Wilson, playing coach of the Redmen Baseball Club, announced last night that he has come to terms with the Stratford Hockey Club and will take over the player-coach duties of the western Ontario city's senior team this season. He will retain his position as his baseball activities here are finished.

Sammy Mulholland, centre-fielder of the Redmen has received orders from the Detroit Red Wings hockey club to report to the team's training camp on September 6th. Sammy will leave for Sault Ste. Marie where the Wings will train this year on Sept. 15th.

Sammy expects to be sent to one of the Wings' farm teams if he doesn't make the "varsity."

Tennis Stars Move To Lawn Tourney

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 21—(CP)— The 60th annual Canadian Lawn Tennis championships moved into high gear today with the arrival of many top-ranking net stars for the Quebec open tournament at Quebec City.

The Dominion's finest tennis show got off to a flying start yesterday, although it was without such notables as Bernard Brendon Macken, of Montreal, Lorne Main of Vancouver, Henri Rochon of Montreal, Max Rosburg of Long Island, N.Y., Pat Macken of Montreal, and Pat Love of Toronto.

Macken, Main, Rochon and company wound up their activities in the big Quebec provincial event yesterday and immediately wired local officials that they can be expected here late today.

The absence of these top-ranking players forced postponements of their matches.

Today's draw, made up last night, will feature more first and second round matches in the men's and women's singles events, plus opening rounds in the men's doubles, women's doubles and veterans' men's singles.

Draw for mixed doubles will not be made until after the arrival of the players from Quebec.

The St. Louis Cardinal outfielder increased his margin to eight more points over Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn during the week although his average fell off a couple of points.

Musial ispalishing 360 in games through Sunday while Ashburn's average is .339. Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson is third with .337.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 21—(AP)—Servicemen, you have a friend. Her name is Jane Russell. Some friend, huh?

It seems that the sentiment of most red-blooded men, particularly those to whom the availability of feminine charms is limited, is dead set against lowering the female heroine. Liesl, Tondelayo, Mrs. Chanfrau, Miss Havisham, Ilsa of Casablanca, S. C. but now residing near the 38th parallel, so informed AP columnist Hal Boyle.

The lieutenant assailed the dialects of French designer Christian Dior, who has sent the skirts of his new dresses lower than the ankles of a nickel.

When I informed the ample Miss Russell of the Dior diva, she replied:

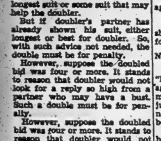
"Horrors!"

She thought the thing over and again commented:

"Horrors!"

When she recovered from the shock, I asked her if she would follow the Dior decision.

No Alterations



"Absolutely not!" she replied. "Down again, up again! Down again! I'm through with altering my dresses. They're going to stay just the way they are now. I'm not going to change them for anybody."

While rehearsing a dance number, she described her costuming:

"It's cut way up to here" (pointing). It's going to look as though I'm all legs. And my legs usually look as though they extend up to my neck, anyway."

Talk of the Town

The "burial" of U. S. movie theatres as forecast by a nation magazine . . . The general upturn in film business despite such pessimistic reports . . . Shelley Winters' deglamorizing in "A Place in the Sun" . . . That film's Oscar chances, considered by most observers the best of the movies seen so far this year . . . the kiss-and-make-up attitude between Mario Lanza and MGM . . . MGM's pick-up of Ezio Pinza's option, although his first two films are far from hits.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When an aspirant a bid you have, the rub is: Which chicken you does, just use a little logical. The answer must be practical.

Can you remember the spots where a double is for penalty and not for takeout? Can you remember where a double is for takeout and not for penalty? I not, know why. It will help recall when.

When a double is for takeout it asks partner to bid something. What for? The general idea is that I want partner to mention his longest suit or some suit that may help the declarer.

But if doubler's partner has already shown a suit, either longest or best for doubler, with such advices not needed, the double must be for penalty.

However, suppose the doubled bid was four or more. It stands to reason that doubler would not look for a reply so high from a partner who may have a bust. Such a double must be for penalty.

Put this logic all together and it will help you remember the rule. It is: If partner has not yet bid, a double of a suit bid of less than four is for takeout if made at first opportunity.

Suppose your south partner opens with one heart, opponent in west bids one spade, and you pass with the north hand shown here:

♥ A 6 4
♦ Q 8 4 3
♣ J 9 7 5 3 2

If the next opponent (east) bids four spades and your partner doubles, is it for takeout or penalty? Stop to consider the logic you have read somewhere above and you will recall the rule.

It is true you have not bid. But the bid is more than three in a suit. Partner would not ask you to bid five in hearts unless he may have admitted weakness. So, it is not for takeout.

So, you know the double of four spades by your partner is for penalty. It says to you, as it says he can defeat the contract. Common sense would tell you so.

COUNTERFEITERS AT WORK

Fort Erie, Aug. 21—(CP)—Counterfeiters, who took advantage of the racing meet here 10 days ago to pass bogus $10 bills, are at work again, police say. Several of the bills, said by bankers to be a crude imitation, appeared yesterday.

WILL OPEN EXHIBITION

Toronto, Aug. 21—(CP)—Viscount Alexander, governor-general, will open the Canadian International Stamp Exhibition here Sept. 21. The stamp display will commemorate the 100th anniversary of government-issued postage stamps in Canada.

Cleaners Force First Place Tie; Drub Avons 15-9

Scoring four runs in the sixth and six more in the top of the eighth innings, Cleaner Combines hit night drubbed the Avon Jewellers by a score of 15-9 in the final game of the Commercial AA Softball League.

The encounter, the longest of the season, lasted an hour and 55 minutes. In winning, the Cleaners climaxed a late season surge to move into a first place tie with the Bakelite nine and necessitates a two out of three game playoff between these two clubs for the right to enter OASA competition in their group.

It was a very loosely played contest with no less than 14 errors being committed, nine of them by the losers. These figured largely in the scoring and dragged the game out.

Cleaners broke fast from the wire with singletons in the first and second frames but the Avon boys roared back with one in the second and three more in the third to take the lead. They added another in the fourth frame while holding the power-packed Cleaner outfit off the score sheet.

Jones Hits Homer

Darnell's triple and Pete Jones' home run scored another quartet for the Cleaners in the fifth and when the home team forces let down in the sixth, they piled up another four runs on only one hit.

McTaggart's triple and a pair of walks brought the Avon nine one run closer to the win column of the seventh as three runs came in, but this was the last time they were to see daylight.

Five errors and four hits combined with a pair of walks helped by put things on ice for the Combines in the top of the eighth as the defenders came again let down. Each team tallied once more before the marathon was completed.

Young led the winners at the plate with a triple and two singles. Derushie hit a pair of triples while Graham had two singles. Rogers was the only Avon player to hit safely more than once, garnering a pair of singles, McTaggart, Hill and McBride each hit safely.

Holmes hurled the route for the winners striking out eight while passing the same number. Rogers started on the mound for Avon being credited with eight bases on balls and four strikeouts. He gave way to Jones in the sixth who was tagged with the loss. Day struck out and walked one each.

Carruthers Wins Two Golf Titles

T. A. Carruthers, Bay of Quinte Country Club links ace, established the best sort of a record over the weekend when he won two golfing titles. He annexed the championship of the Annual District Tournament and went on to win the club title from Harry Ridley.

It is believed this is the first time that one player has held both championships.

Carruthers has held the club title on several occasions.

Pt. Anne Evens Round Robin; Nip Ramsays 6-4

Point Anne Cementmen broke even on their six game round-robin series for the city league title with a 6-4 decision over Ramsay Paints last evening in a flood-lighted game at the Alemits Field.

The win gave the Pointers three victories and three defeats in the round-robin set left them in second place behind Glen Roy with Howe and Hagerman still having four games to play.

Point Anne's two run rally in the top of the ninth inning broke up a 4-4 tie and gave them the win. Pat Maracle led-off with a single to left field and moved to second on a wild throw by Gardner. Horwood sacrificed them both along with a nifty bunt down the first base line. Pete Green then delivered a tremendous wallop to centrefield with Maracle scoring easily after the catch. Pinch hitter Jim Hunter then came through with a single to score Logue. Brannigan ended the inning on an infield out.

Green played a big part in the scoring of most of the runs on both sides as Pat Maracle and Bunk Young hooked up in a pitcher's battle. Maracle had more control as nine walks kept Young in hot water throughout the game.

Green Hits Homer

Pete Green came up with the first hit in the game in the fourth inning when he blasted a home run to centrefield with two out and no one on. Point Anne took a three run lead with two more tallies in the fifth on a single, two walks, an error, a passed ball and a fielder's choice. A neat double play Bunk Young-to-Earl Bush-to-Glen Young cut short what looked like Point Anne's biggest rally of the game.

Two singles and two errors were all the Paintmen needed to count three runs in the sixth. They added their final run in the seventh with errors again paving the way for the score.

Point Anne scored the tying run in the eighth and went on to win in the final frame.

Maracle Whiffs Ten

Pat Maracle went all the way for the winners striking three, striking out 10, and doling out five hits. Bunk Young walked nine, struck out four, and gave up seven safeties.

Best at the plate was Ramsay catcher Glen Young with two singles in three trips.

Lineups:

Point Anne: Strahan 1b; M. Green lf; Elliott ss; Maracle p; Logue 2b; Horwood 3b; P. Green rf; B. Whalen cf, replaced by Jim Hunter in 8th; Brannigan c.

Frenchman Wins Quebec Tennis Singles Title

Quebec, Aug. 21 (CP) — Paul Remy the first Frenchman to hold the Quebec men's singles tennis championship after victories over Canada's two top players.

The 28-year-old Davis Cup veteran from France yesterday showed a lot of staying power in his final-round over Vancouver's Lorne Main, 7-5, 4-6, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4.

Brendan Mackey of Montreal, 1950 Canadian and Quebec singles' champion ousted by Remy in the semi-finals, joined forces with Main to win the men's doubles title.

The Canadian pair, who represented Canada in Davis Cup singles play, disposed of Remy and Jean Claude Molinari of France 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

Bartier, Louise Brown of Toronto won the ladies' singles championship to wind up the eight-day provincial tournament delayed by rain last week.

Remy's blazing service caught Main off guard for five aces in the singles match while the 21-year-old Canadian who was second seeded countered with four. Main lost his service 14 times and Remy 13 times.

But it was the Frenchman's dogged base-line work running down Main's sharp cross-court drives that finally decided the match.

Main appeared to slow down after taking a 2-1 lead in set but the broad-shouldered Frenchman kept on going at his regular pace.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Fer Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

New York, Aug. 21 — (AP) — Having seen Randy Turpin close up, it is easier to understand how Sugar Ray Robinson came to underestimate him with such unhappy results in their first meeting in London.

The new middleweight champion has an extremely disarming manner about him. He doesn't look tough, and he talks so low and enunciates so carefully and well that it is difficult to realize he makes his living slugging people.

Jack Dempsey, they say, had much trouble getting it through his head that a book worm like Gene Tunney could turn mean inside the ring. Something of the same nature happened to Sugar Ray, and perhaps that is one reason he feels such a wicked determination to splatter the young Briton in their return bout here Sept. 12.

Turpin was given the full treatment at his first press conference on this side yesterday and it looked for a time as if the boys would have to use blasting powder to get anything out of him. To many questions he would do no more than shake a gently admonishing finger and show his shining store of teeth.

The one time he displayed a little animation was when he was accused of having belabored Robinson while pretending to shake their first meeting. He insisted in his clipped, precise accent that he merely let Sugar Ray have a few on the ear in the clinches.

"Now, you don't call punch in 'is life," spoke up his manager, George Middleton. "I'll wouldn't know how it wouldn't."

Aside from a scrambled left ear and slightly cauliflowered left eyes, Turpin shows few signs of wear and tear. He doesn't, at 23, look like a survival fighter, which he is. Since he won the title he went to a little town out-

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, August 22

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Wonderfully benefic array of aspects to encourage, assist all worthy endeavors today. Trades, military interests, difficult propositions, artistic professions most favored.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Very encouraging vibrations for your particular talents, for all activities useful, purposeful. Do not go to extremes, however, nor needlessly strain health. Mental work fine.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Keenness, originality of thought should be high. Grand day for writers, advertisers, journalists; constructive study, research, experiment. Also favored; laborious trades, manufacturing.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Get busy early and put across day's schedule in fine style. New ideas, methods of worth equally sponsored with familiar routine and known activities. Soldier, artist, all under fine rays.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—Promising here, too, though personal trends (especially selfish ones) may not be fulfilled. Generous, purposeful efforts will gain rewards, give you feeling of inner contentment.

August 24 to September 23—(Virgo) — Can be peak day for plans, general interests. Try creative ideas, push plans to advance your position, increase output; income. Writers, physicians, surgeons, health aids sponsored.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Is favorable for your special interests as for most of us. Build up this promising day. Of course we must do our share, have ideals, sound objectives, and be printed above.

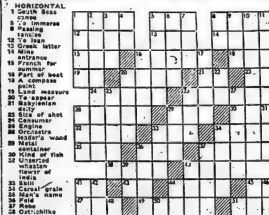
October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Your Mars and Saturn planets now give sensible warning to avoid forcefulness, too strenuous a program, unwise associations. Day is benefic on whole but care must be exercised.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius)—Most will go well in things of intelligent purpose, and if you function in your usual sound manner, and avoid extravagance. Grand rays for outdoor activities, fun within reason.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn) — If some self-centrism is exercised you should have a happy, fruitful day. Grand indications for advancement, personal gain in many ways. Don't be arbitrary, but protect principle.



January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)— Personal interests, making changes of advantage, unusual, even unexpected, happenings that could bring benefits are indicated and sponsored this good day. Don't fail your better self.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—A good day, one that can add new laurels to your score of achievements if you handle duties and added tasks as quietly as you can. New, unusual twists may be of great value now.

YOU BORN TODAY: Strong characteristics from both Leo and Virgo. You were born on the cusp of Signs. More daring and forceful than the Virgoan, likely more conservative, less arrogant than the true Leoite. Fortunate conditions in this sector—friendliness, exuberance, great intuition, analytical powers. Virgo's natural curiosity still evident, but merely for sake of learning to help, better things. You gain the trust of fine inborn character, will never betray it. Ability to act, write among assets.

Birthdate: Samuel P. Langley, pioneer airplane construction; Claude Debussy, famed French composer.

Big Propaganda Drive Flops In West Germany

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 1 (AP)—Communism's big propaganda drive has flopped in West Germany, United States High Commissioner John J. McCloy said today.

The reds opened their full-scale assault last spring, McCloy said in his quarterly report to the State Department. They tried to scare West Germans away from joining western defence and—this a sell-out compromise with the east.

Instead, McCloy reported, German support for western defence has increased, and the communists' chief propaganda agencies have been thoroughly discredited, rejected and even outlawed by an aroused West Germany.

"It has become increasingly difficult to peddle recognizable communist wares in western Germany," McCloy reported.

"West German determination to uncover and resist communist subversion has matured appreciably. Even the basic play on fear of Soviet attack has worn thin with excessive use and growing allied strength."

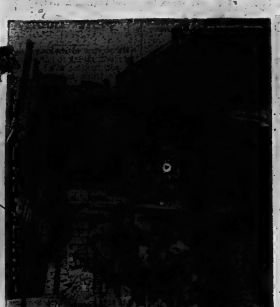
Their militant, uniformed "free German youth" spearheaded the communists' propaganda drive at its outset. They staged mass demonstrations and started riots in several cities, printed propaganda flooded West Germany. Communist newspapers became increasingly savage in their attacks on the western allies.

But the West German government banned the F.D.J. and confiscated tons of red propaganda, and the allies suspended most of the communist newspapers.

Then the red propagandists tried to use pseudo and groups not normally connected with communism, McCloy reported.

"Even these voices soon became lost as the West German population rallied to the anti-communist call," he said.

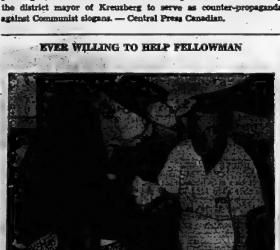
Dewey Sees Long Period Of Uneasy Peace



Seattle, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey sees a possible two-year period of uneasy peace for the world—created at Russia's pleasure.

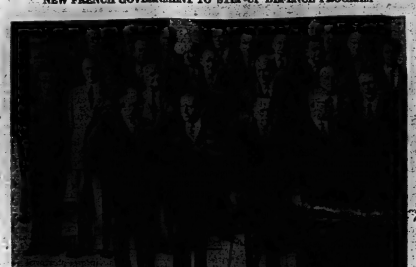
The New York republican leader gave this estimate of the world situation on his arrival here yesterday from a seven-week tour of the Orient.

Dewey told a press conference Russia is likely to carry on a two-year peace offensive to gain time for "picking daisies". This was his description of Soviet long-range plans at expansion in Asia.



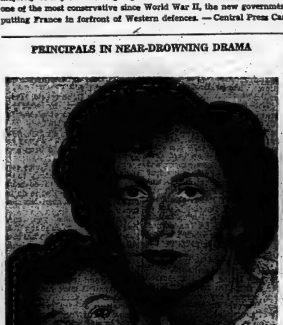
He said the next few months may tell whether we live in a free world five years from now. He said critical decisions in the far east are apt to hold the answer.

POINTING OUT THE OBVIOUS



A huge sector erected at a U.S. and Soviet sector point in Berlin is examined by a group of citizens standing in U.S. area. The poster shows a worker holding a sign which reads "is that unity?" while pointing at Soviet-made barricades. The posters were erected by the district mayor of Kreuzberg to serve as counter-propaganda against Communist slogans. — Central Press Canadian.

EVER WILLING TO HELP FELLOWMAN



Sister Elizabeth Kenny, famed Australian nurse, is seen on her arrival in Los Angeles, Cal., en route to Copenhagen to attend an international poliomelitis conference. A controversial figure for past 40 years in fight to have her treatment of dreaded polio accepted by medical men everywhere, famed nursing sister is travelling under a nurse's care because she is suffering from fatal disease. She is seen here with fellow-passenger Jack Hall, 30-year-old airline pilot, who was stricken with polio in Tahiti last May. While under treatment in an iron lung in Melbourne he met Sister Kenny, and at her request is being brought to U.S. for further treatment, near Los Angeles. — Central Press Canadian.

NEW FRENCH GOVERNMENT TO STEP-UP DEFENCE PROGRAM

PRINCIPALS IN NEAR-DROWNING DRAMA

Three-year-old Susan La France, of Ottawa, owes her life to the courage of a 12-year-old youth and the presence of mind of a Scottish war bride. While wandering from her home, the youngster tumbled into the Rideau River where she was found floating face up by Bobbie Brownrigg. Wading in fully clothed Bobbie pulled her out and carried her to home of Mrs. H. G. Evans, who applied artificial respiration for the first time in her life. Fast thinking of the La Frances' next-door-neighbor was credited with saving little girl's life. — Central Press Canadian.

CATERING TO WHIMS OF "EXPECTANT MOM"

While the male penguin usually does most of the egg-carrying while awaiting the birth of a baby penguin, the expectant mother does occasionally take a turn, as demonstrated here by "Baby," a female king penguin at the zoo in London, Eng. The expectant mom is so anxious about her new arrival, which won't put in an appearance until September, that she won't take time out to eat, so a keeper has to feed her while she cares for the egg, which is on her feet, covered by the skirt of feathers nature thoughtfully supplied for this very purpose. The egg-on-feet method is nature's way of keeping it off the frigid Arctic ground, where it might never hatch. — Central Press Canadian.

YODELLING IMMIGRANT

A lusty yodel was five-year-old Victor Hluschko's salute to America when he arrived at New York City. The Alpine clad youth from Lubeck, Germany, is headed for a new home in Indiana. — Central Press Canadian.

U.S. Coast-Guards are shown about to pick up Lieut. Robert Donovan, U.S. navy flier, from the life-raft in which he bobbed about on the Pacific some 25 miles off northern California for two hours after he was forced to ditch his Corsair plane. Coast-Guard planes which sqeezed his distress signals dropped life rafts and circled until the liner picked up the flier. — Central Press Canadian.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

"In mythology," the [illegible] explained, "Icarus and Daedalus decided to leave their country. And so they made wings [illegible] which were waxed to their bodies. Daedalus in due course reached his destination, made a perfect three point landing, and lived. Icarus was not so fortunate. He flew too close to the sun, the heat melted the wax from his wings, he fell into the sea and was drowned."

Lance Bradley laughed. "I'm afraid," he said, "that your learned friend is not quite a wise guy who couldn't be told, but that he was no sailor. In the first place he wandered away from his escort, paid the penalty for drifting into unchartered, dangerous regions; in the second place, did he been a good sailor he would have known the rules of overall navigation, would have kept on course, would have reached port okay. But, Mr. Parker, this Icarus was a sailor, the man at the helm of a vessel in mid-Atlantic. He can't see his home port, but with the compass pointing him, he knows that he is on course, the proper course, the best course, and that all in good time he will come in sight of his destination. Mr. Parker, before I invest one dollar of our money in a daffy new system of navigation for a certainly where I'm going, I'll be thoroughly familiar with the course I must take, the hazards along the route, and with a picked crew—the best that money can hire, the good counsel of Dad Roberts and the legal advice of a man named Clarence Parker, I shall make port safely."

"Brad," the lawyer said proudly, "I admire you for your great courage. It is only too obvious why you are risking your money in such a newspaper venture. But I think I know how to help you. Dad Roberts is one of God's gentlemen, he has richly earned retirement. And despite my belief that you're taking such a great risk, somehow or other I have a feeling that you will not fail. There's something that I've warned you about before, and I might be well to bring it up again—the possibility of a depression."

"I've thought of that, Mr. Parker," Lance said, " but I think if we can get our paper going now it should be well established before hard times come. We can allocate half our money to the newspaper, keep the other half in reserve in case we ever should need it."

"Sensible reasoning, very sensible," the lawyer chuckled. "I assure you that you're not getting good soon."

"Just as soon as Dad Roberts says the word. He's under the weather lately, y'know."

"Yes, I heard he was. By the way, Brad, have you done anything more about adopting that little—making him a child?"

"I certainly have, Mr. Parker. Here—" he ran his hand into an inside pocket, "Here's the particulars. I promised to give him a real present on his birthday, October 31. He will be sixteen then. Ruth has adoption papers though for me, won't you please?"

Dad Roberts' illness was of short duration, just an old heart that had been overworked and decided to flutter warning signals, and he was soon on his newspaper beat again.

CHAPTER XIII

The living room of the Roberts' home was no longer a place where the family gathered in the evenings just to restfully while away the hours until bedtime. By now this quiet room had become a place for constitution, a place where "shop" could be discussed without the interruptions of customers or casual visitors at the service end of the telephone bell.

That evening, after dinner, Dad Roberts stood up from the table and then stretched himself on the settee, something he had done so Lance's presence before. Pretty soon he was sleeping soundly. Out in the kitchen Lance helped Mother Roberts with the dishes, and when she told him to hang up the dish towels, she mounted the stairs to change her dress.

Lance tip-toed into the living room, picked up a trade magazine, and agreed himself in an easy chair. But even though the contents of the magazine were enlightening and informative, particularly since newspaper work was his life work, new things kept popping up in his mind, kept appearing between his eyes and the printed page. Dad Roberts being helped home from his office; Goldie Webster, back and shoulders gashed and bleeding, but tears in his eyes, pleading to be taken away from Lower Town, from the mistreatment of his brutal, drunken father.

Bradley was forced to think that the initial steps had been made to take Goldie away from such morbid surroundings, and this very night, after Dad Roberts awakened, he would make the first move to lift the all-too-heavy load from his aging shoulders.

The clock on the shelf in the dining room struck eight. Dad awakened, looked about him, and sat up sleepily.

"Well, well, well," he said rubbing his eyes, "I guess that, will you? I've been sleeping a whole hour."

"You were dead tired, Dad," Lance explained. "You're all tuckered out."

"I'm not now," Dad chuckled, "I feel right on the bit. Now where is sandhill is my pipe?"

"Lance retrieved his pipe from the window sill behind him—"Here you are, Dad. Going to bakes! Want a match?"

"Not everything, son," he said, filling his pipe.

Just then, Mother Roberts, never one to miss every much, came downstairs to join them.

"Did you have a good nap, Dad?" she asked, taking a seat near him.

"It was a dandy, Mother," he said, "I probably wasn't the best of manners, and unfair to Lance, but I hope he won't mind."

Lance watched him closely, waited until he snuggled back in his seat to enjoy himself. Then he spoke.

"Dad," he said, "Did you ever think of selling The Ensign, and retiring?"

Dad Roberts blew a smoke ring into the air, watched it vanish, slowly.

"Possibly," he said, non-committally.

"You're afraid Dad doesn't know when to quit," Mother Roberts smiled knowingly.

"Oh, I know when to quit, Mother," he said, "but I've a good newspaper, a good business, and I've always felt I never meet a potential buyer who would pay me what I think it's worth."

Lance Bradley pursed his lips in thought. So far, so good.

"Dad," he said, "it might surprise you, but I happen to know a man who will buy your business and pay you what your business is worth just to get it at this time."

"Well, son, that is mighty interesting." Dad said looking at him. "Anyone I know?"

"Yes, it's someone you know. Indeed, he's what you might call a close friend of yours, yet one you would never suspect of ever having any ambitions to succeed you. Of course this would-be purchaser would not be interested in buying your business unless you would agree to go with it, not to share the way you have been doing lately, but as a consultant, chief consultant, if you will, Dad, did you ever have any experience in the publishing of a daily newspaper?"

Dad laughed knowingly.

"Why to be sure, son. I made my start on a daily."

"Then you know your way around."

"I hope to tell you," Dad Roberts boasted. "But, let's get this straight, Lance, you say you have this man, whoever he is, wishes to buy The Ensign and turn it into a daily newspaper?"

"Yes, Dad, that's it exactly. Do you think that a small daily struggling would be his own way in Emerton and district? I understand there's room for a good paper printed within eighty miles of here."

"You know, son," Dad Roberts said, after considerable thought, "I believe that fellow has something there. It's something I would have tried long ago, but I just couldn't afford it. I was young, newspaper when I came to Emerton, but I had little money. Then, as I began to get ahead, and was ambitious, less young. This town has grown a lot in my day and I've always thought it would. The way I see it, a daily newspaper won't get by, pay for itself in a year or two, but after that it should be a good paying investment—I think. Is something I've overlooked, Lance?"

"What did you say, son, was the name of the man who would buy me out?"

"I didn't say, Dad," Lance laughed, "but I'll tell you that you said, and get it over with. Ever hear of a fellow named Harold Bradley?—Lance Bradley?"

"You—you—" Mother gasped.

"You must be joking, son, must be playing a joke on me," Dad Roberts protested, "Are you aware that it will take one hundred thousand dollars hard cash to start a daily newspaper and that it will take another hundred thousand to get it on its feet until it can go on its own?"

"Yes, Dad, I've been doing a lot of figuring, off and on, lately. I've bought the brick building, I've been doing a lot of thinking when I bought it, what I was ever going to use it for."

"You — bought — the Turner block?" Mother questioned.

"Yes," Lance said. "I secured it for fifty-five hundred. However, before I say any more, perhaps it would be better to do a bit of explaining."

"You betcha, son," Dad warned him. "This all sounds mighty fantastic to me."

"Listen, Dad, and you too, Mother," Lance said. "For some time I've been scheduling this important news from you. At times I have been fairly burdened at the means to tell you. But recent events have made it so necessary for me to think my secret with you now, that I mustn't keep it to myself any longer. You will recall, Dad, that I told you that I had invested two thousand dollars in the shares of The Lucky Streak Gold Mine where I used to work. You'll also recall, Dad that you asked me recently how I had made out and I told you I hadn't lost anything. Well, that was quite true, but it did not go far enough. I bought thirteen thousand shares at fifteen cents a share, and lost track of them while I was overseas. Then the morning after I came home I sat in your office and in the market quotation for Lucky Streak I saw something I just couldn't believe. I asked you for the name of a good lawyer and you sent me to Johnston Parker. Mr. Parker contacted the bank at The Bay where my shares were held in a safety deposit box to learn that I not only held the thirteen thousand shares but I had bought, but that Boss MacKay, who probably thought he was tricked by me for saving him from a treacherous assault by a miner, had placed another ten thousand shares to my credit. Now if you will multiply twenty thousand by twenty dollars, the price of Lucky Streak brings on the market today, then add thirty-five quarterly forty cent dividend cheques which have accumulated, you will realize that I have a lot of money. I may add that I have given Mr. Parker power of attorney and he has disposed of my stock, cashed my dividend cheques, and is handling my money for me.

"Son," Dad Roberts said, "I'm—I'm so astounded by what you have told me that I am at a loss for words at this moment."

"I don't blame you one bit, son," Mother Roberts said, wiping her eyes. "God has indeed been good to you."

"So you see, Dad," Lance continued, "I have the money to see this thing through, to do the things that I would like to do for Emerton that have been less fortunate than I."

"Now I recognize you, son," Dad said at last, "you're the Good Samaritan, the man who has been behind all these anonymous benefactions of the past year."

"Aw, skip that, Dad," Lance blushed, "It's a matter between we three and the lawyer and the bank, and it must not be mentioned outside. I've intimated, I wish to buy your business, but only if you will agree to stay with it, to help me, to go with me to purchase the necessary plant and equipment for the daily, to help choose capable men to run it, to remain with me as chief consultant, to lend me the benefit of your wide and practical experience as a newspaper publisher. If you'll call on those terms, I'll have Mr. Parker give you a cheque in full in the morning."

"But, what of my staff?" Dad asked. "Many of them have been with me for years and years. I wouldn't care to see them thrown out of work now."

"Your staff goes with the business as an integral part of the business."

Premier Frost Opens Exhibition At Ottawa

Ottawa, Aug. 21—(CP)—The 85th annual central Canada exhibition opened Monday amid the gleeful shouts and laughter of more than 40,000 children.

Admitted free, the kids swarmed to the grounds for the first day" prizes on the midway rides. Officials expected a record crowd of more than 75,000 would pass through the gates on the first day of the week-long exhibition.

The "ex" was declared official-ly open by Premier Frost of Ontario at a luncheon.

In a brief address, he predicted that eastern Ontario will be developed into one of Canada's greatest industrial areas. He referred to mining surveys made through federal-provincial co-operation, which showed great prospects for the area.

He recalled that only recently a American steel company had decided to develop iron-ore deposits in Quebec about 35 miles northeast of Peterborough.

"If there are deposits at Marmora, which is far more than you said, then there are certain to be others in between," Premier Frost told Mr. Frost. "We are just at the commencement of a great era in this portion of the province."

Fight or Work Saar's Problem

Saarbruecken, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Saar is one west European area only 200 miles from the Iron Curtain with no army, no plan for an army and as yet no part in western defence.

Supported by Britain and the United States, France has defeated the rich Saar coal basin from Germany and set it up as a partly independent country. Under its constitution foreign affairs and defence are in the hands of France.

Prime Minister Johannes Hoffman expects that sooner or later France will ask this country of nearly 1,000,000 for a contribution to rearmament.

"Of course, with all Europe mobilizing for defence," he said in an interview, "we can't hope to remain an exception."

Saarlanders who follow world affairs know that their next-door neighbors, the Luxembourgers are already raising a division from a population only one-third as great as theirs. But so far the military question has not come up in the Saar.

Chief of police Guy Lackmann, a major in the French army of the Second World War, thinks his country could raise about 35,000 men.

Many observers, however, feel the Saar's coal mines and steel mills could make a greater contribution to western defence than its potential soldiers. Prime Minister Hoffman is one of these. He is turning over in his mind the idea that grafting labor would be more effective.

Forming military units in the Saar presents a ticklish political problem. Saarlanders are Germans. Many, including several generals, served in the German army in the last war. Their training and military loyalties are German.

But the Saar government is closely tied to France. It recently dissolved a political party on the well-grounded suspicion that its leaders wanted unity with Germany.

HORSE STEAKS

Winnipeg, (CP)—The manager of Manitoba's only horse meat retail butcher shop says Winnipeggers consume almost 3,000 pounds of horsemeat every week. Most popular cuts are tenderloin steak and roasts, which retail at 60 cents a pound.

MOTOR MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Kitchener, Aug. 21—(CP)—Menno M. Frey, 60, of Floradale, 15 miles northwest of here, was charged with manslaughter yesterday in the death of Henry Martin, 50, of Elmira. Frey was driver of a car in which Reist died Saturday in an accident. Frey, severely injured, is in hospital.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma started to shake her head to herself, saying to pop, William can you imagine a woman with all too faults and none of the virtues?

I'd rather imagine her than have one, said pop, and I dont see any logical reason why she should ever have had a bound. Her lack of charm is only exceeded by her superabundance of nerve. She is the kind of dame who sits gracefully at a professional bewty, and as a matter of fact she hasn't enough caracter in her face to even be called interestingly homely, ma said.

It sounds like a difficult face to discribe, pop said, and ma said, Oh no, I can discribe it to you easily, if you met her one day, the next day you would pass her in the street without recognizing her. That diserbes her face down to the last detail. And the more she talks, the less she says. To give you a idea, she sounds like 3 women talking at once and all contradicting each other, ma said, and pop said, You cant make me believe that mind. I dont care to meet her.

Oh, I wont bother you any longer by even mentioning her, ma said. But you can imagine how bartlity I lafted up my sleeve when I realized that she had sparred me the embarrisment of even requesting me to buy a ticket for the big charity bridge and tea that she is giving at the Sultz Hotel, she said.

And she lafted out loud to herself just to think of it, and pop lifted even harder and got in back of the sporting page.

THE CASE OF THE TALKING AUTOMOBILE

I'M A STUDEBAKER COMMANDER V-8. Not that I'm a particularly shy individual but I have to blush when people talk about me. So I said to my boss, WEST END MOTORS, I wish you wouldn't praise me so much, it embarrasses me. You make claim after claim about me and it really keeps me hopping to live up to them. Now, look here, WEST END MOTORS, I says: "Let me do the talking." So I'm told — that's very silly, but how can automobiles talk? And, of course, I reply. A V-8 Commander CAN speak for itself and all you have to do is set a customer behind my wheel and I'll do the talking from here on. If you think I'm kidding, give me a trial. I'll SHOW you how to sell automobiles.

ARGUMENT OVER LEGAL POINT DELAYS TRIAL

Canadian Private On Trial for Murder

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 22 (CP)—The defence called the prosecuting officer to the stand today as Pte. Glen Roland Blank of Winnipeg went on trial charged with murder.

Blank, 27, is the first of three privates of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry to be tried by court martial for the grenade death last March 17 of a South Korean army lieutenant.

Blank pleaded innocent and his defending counsel, Lt.-Col. John A. Hutchins of Montreal and Regina, promptly launched a "trial within a trial." The surprise move forced a recess until Saturday.

Col. Hutchins called the prosecuting officer to the stand in an effort to determine whether Blank had been properly informed of all legal resources at his disposal. He said many summaries of evidence were being taken.

Adjourned Till Saturday

Lt.-Col. W. Clement Dick of Toronto, president of the court martial, ordered adjournment to Saturday. Dick is defending counsel of Blank's unit, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry to enable the press employed to inform Blank and his fellow-defendants of their rights.

Blank's co-defendants are Pte. Donald Michael Gibson of Ottawa and Alan Roy Montgomery Davis of Vancouver, also members of the Patricias. They will be tried next Tuesday.

The full charges against Blank include murder and attempted rape, but he is being tried for murder only at the present hearing.

The specific charges arose from the death of a South Korean army lieutenant, Cho Chin-Sun, at the village of Chungwoon near Chipyong March 17. Two other persons died in the same incident, but the three men are charged only of responsibility for the lieutenant's death.

Police Believe Five Arrests May Break Dope Ring Operating in Ontario Cities

Violent Quake Cuts West Hawaii Water Supply

By LEIF ERICKSON

Honolulu, Aug. 22 (AP) —The heaviest earthquake ever recorded on the volcano island of Hawaii cost the Kona coast district most of its treasured water stores —with two months of normal drought ahead.

Property damage was estimated officially at between $750,000 and $1,000,000, but the water loss was the local grief.

The quake jarred the largest of the Hawaiian Islands early yesterday. It wrecked or damaged more than 200 wooden water storage tanks on cattle ranches.

An after-shock bumped the Kona coast last night. Police said it was weak and no damage was reported. The after shock rattled dishes and windows in Honolulu.

Families along a 30-mile stretch of the Kona coast, on the west slope of Mauna Loa volcano, use tanks for storing drinking and household water.

Hamilton, Aug. 22 — (CP) — Royal Canadian Mounted Police said today they believe they have smashed a dope ring that operated in Ontario cities and may be connected with an international network run by Charles (Lucky) Luciano.

Their statements came as Louis Gellow, 49, and Maxine Morrison, his pretty, 19-year-old common-law wife, were remanded today until Aug. 27 on charges of conspiracy.

The Mounties said the charges were laid in connection with undercover investigations in Hamilton into the sale of narcotics.

The arrest of Gellow and Miss Morrison yesterday brought to five the number picked up since Aug. 13 when Carl Sloul, his wife and his brother, Charles, were arrested on charges of illegal possession of narcotics.

Bail was set at $20,000 for Gellow and $3,000 for Miss Morrison.

The five will face charges of possessing narcotics, of distributing and of transporting drugs.

Police said there was more than a "slight possibility" that Sloul and Gellow are members of Luciano's ring which they said operated a $20,000,000 — a - year drug traffic.

Police Doubt Connection

R. C. M. P. officials in Toronto, however, doubt there was any connection between Gallow and Stout and the notorious Italian-born figure of responsibility for his native country, several years ago.

Gallow and his girl friend were arrested on a Hamilton street. He was taken to R. C. M. P. constable:

"We could have arrested both of them 10 days ago when we picked up their boss, Carl Sloul, and seized about $20,000 worth of drugs."

So far, Hamilton police have seized 240 capsules of heroin, worth up to $3 each on the illicit market. They said 40 capsules were found on Carl Stout when arrested and 200 more were found when his home was searched.

Said one Hamilton police official today: "Dope addicts in Hamilton are probably walking around with their tongues hanging out. They can't get the stuff now."

Hurricane Hits Hard at Tampico, Many Injured

Tampico, Mex., Aug. 22. (AP)— A dangerous hurricane hit Tampico with fierce winds this morning. Houses were wrecked. Early reports said there were casualties caused by wind-borne debris.

Electric power was cut off to prevent fatalities from killing people in the streets.

Firemen rescued 25 families from the wreckage of their homes.

The terrific storm hit about 10:30 a.m. E.D.T., in the midst of a heavy rain. The weather bureau estimated the wind's force at 78 miles an hour. The greatest force of 130 miles an hour at the hurricane's centre passed only about 60 miles east of Tampico, and was expected to hit the mainland late local time and north of here.

Veteran Tampico reporters described it as the worst storm to hit the city in 15 years. Many lives were lost and the city badly wrecked in the last big hurricane of 1936.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Aug. 22 (CP) Synopsis: Ontario storms which swept through central regions Tuesday may have seemed like the Mexican hurricane, but there really was no relation between the storms except that they both had high winds. The strong northwesterly winds which brought low dark clouds and cooler air will subside today and Thursday. General clearing will occur in all regions by Wednesday evening and it will remain clear Thursday.

Temperatures will be quite low tonight ranging from freezing in White River to around 50 in southern regions. There will be a slight warming or temperatures on Thursday.

Wacky French Motor Car Drivers Real Menace to Safety Driving

Paris, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Frenchmen, at long last, are aware that they are among the weakest automobile drivers in the world and that they are killing a lot of people.

"One automobile in eleven kills somebody during its life," said a headline in the weekly news and picture magazine, Match.

The newspaper figaro recalled that last year 3,175 persons were killed in automobile accidents, and 34,000 seriously injured.

In France there are 2,500,000 automobiles and it is figured that one person is killed a year for every 771 automobiles on the road.

In Paris there are no stop signs at the entry into main thoroughfares. The car coming from the right, even from the narrowest alley, has right of way, even on the grand boulevards.

There is no speed limit in Paris and a driver can make a lefthand turn at any intersection he chooses without any sign or signal.

Honking cars in a Paris special-ity. During the day drivers are supposed to honk at every intersection, and most do. Others honk all night.

The principal cause of accidents is speeding. Figaro noted that 40 per cent of the accidents happened on straight country highways empty of other cars. The drivers roll their cars over, or hit trees. Seven-ut 10 of such accidents result from speeding.

There are only 737 traffic cops with motorcycles in the whole of Paris.

Oddly enough, in this wine-drinking country there isn't much driving while drunk.

Canada's World Trade Deficit Snowballs Into $340 Million For First Half of Year

Ottawa, Aug. 22—(CP)—An unusual $5,000,000 deficit in Canada's world trade in the first half 1940 snowballed into a $340,000,000 deficit in the first half of 1951, the Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday.

The deficit — compared with surpluses in past years—developed partly from these problems:

1. An upsurge in purchases from the United States with no countering balance in sales.

2. A weak meandering trade with Britain, resulting in a sharp slump in trade surpluses.

3. A continuing demand in Canada for raw materials and finished goods partly to help Canada become a more powerful industrial country.

Canada's total trade for the first six months reached a record $3,-865,000,000, up almost 1,000,000,000 from $2,901,200,000 in the first half of 1950.

Imports, mostly from the U. S., rose to a record of $2,102,400,000, up almost $700,000,000 from $1,-453,100,000 in 1950. Exports did not maintain the pace, climbing only $300,000,000 from $1,448,-100,000.

June told the same story as previous months. Imports climbed to $360,400,000 from $282,500,-000 a year earlier. Exports increased only to $315,800,000 from $291,800,000, causing a monthly deficit of $44,600,000, compared with a surplus of $9,300,000 last year.

Purchases from the U. S. in June climbed to $241,500,000, a sharp 28.8 per cent jump from $188,300,000 last year, bringing the half-year total to a record $1,471,000,000 from $1,004,500,000. June exports to the U. S. increased to $290,500,000 from $179,-900,000, bringing the six-month total to $1,126,800,000 from $916,-900,000.

The resulting deficit rose to $344,100,000, about four times the $87,000,000 deficit in 1950, but still $144,000,000 below the $488,-000,000 unfavorable balance in 1949.

On the other hand, sales to Britain in June declined to $51,-400,000 from $53,600,000 last year, bringing the six-month total to $254,200,000 from $237,100,000.

Imports from British, however, were moderately higher at $39,-90,000 against $37,100,000, increasing the six-month total to $244,800,000 from $187,200,000.

The result was that Canada's usual surpluses in trade with Britain, which in 1947, for example, reached $289,000,000 for the half year, dropped to a mere $29,600,-000 a year earlier. Exports in-

Revision of U.S., Canadian Extradition Treaty Suggested To Committee Probing Frauds

Toronto, Aug. 22—(CP)—Ontario officials have received critically a United States request for an opportunity to punish Canadians who sell fraudulent stocks in the U.S.

A provincial crime committee was told yesterday that swindling of U.S. citizens by Toronto-based stock sellers can only be halted by a complete revision of the extradition treaty between the two countries.

The statement came in an 8,000-word letter from Richard B. McEntire, a commissioner of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

The Attorney-General Porter of Ontario sounded a critical note.

"Their solution is a new extradition treaty," he said. "They don't suggest any further forms of co-operation. It's got to be a new treaty—and that's all."

Changing the treaty is a federal matter. At an earlier session of the committee, appointed last March to investigate administration of justice in the province, Mr. Porter said the basis for extradition would need to be closely defined to protect Canadian residents being called before U.S. courts on trivial charges.

The letter was read into the evidence by Mr. Porter.

The committee also:

1. Heard that the Ontario Securities Commission will ask Ontario brokers to post a $10,000 bond as part of its registration. The change to become effective Oct. 1.

2. Decided to call D. Tyrone Bigelow, chairman of the Ontario Racing Commission to testify as soon as an investigation into allegedly fixed races on Ontario tracks ends.

3. Heard Ontario official criticism of the American extradition request was O. K. clearance, chairman of the O.S.C. He said the Ontario commission had co-operated fully with the S.E.C. in the past but suggested the American body had not always reciprocated.

He said by mutual relations with securities commissions of other provinces in Canada were satisfactory.

DROP IN BLOOD DONATIONS

New York, Aug. 22—(AP)—New York Red Cross officials said yesterday that a sharp drop in blood donations is seriously hampering their program to supply blood and plasma to the armed forces. They attributed the drop in donations to summer vacations and the current truce negotiations in Korea.

Metropolitan General Hospital would receive $400,000 and Hotel Dieu, $175,000, for additions.

BELIEF SPREADING RUSSIA WILL SIGN JAPANESE TREATY

Opposes Unilateral Pact Between Japan, U.S.

By ROBERT RUNSON

Tokyo, Aug. 22—(AP)—There is a growing belief in Japan that Russia will do the unexpected and sign the Japanese peace treaty in San Francisco next month.

Reliable, if unofficial, Japanese circles express the view that the Russians may sign simply to bring up a strong fight for inclusion of one major provision.

They say the Reds will agree to keeping an American military establishment in Japan—but will demand a definite date for departure. They are opposed to a unilateral treaty between Japan and the United States.

This view was expressed despite last night's threats from the Chinese reds' Peiping radio that Japan's acceptance of a peace treaty not approved by both red China and Russia would be considered as an act of war.

Red China wasn't invited to the peace treaty conference. Russia accepted after considerable delay.

The feeling around Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Allied headquarters has been that the Soviet delegates en route to San Francisco are carrying brief cases loaded with monkey wrenches, ready to foul up the peace treaty.

But Japanese sources predict the Russians will sign the treaty if they can insert a separate state treaty between the U. S. and Japan.

The present plan is for the United States and Japan to sign a unilateral treaty as soon as the ink is dry on the treaty at San Francisco.

This unilateral treaty would provide for the stationing of American troops—between two and four divisions of ground troops plus an air force and a navy—in Japan to help the island nation defend herself.

Russia is believed willing to sign if the provisions of the military establishment are placed in the treaty with a date set for the last American soldiers to leave Japan.

Failing in this, the Russians may go ahead and sign anyway.

The Soviet delegates to the Russians will sign is that they have to maintain an embassy here to continue their espionage and communist propaganda activity among the people. Otherwise the embassy would mean pulling out of Japan diplomatically and the Russians would lose that.

WANTS ALLOWANCE

Los Angeles, Aug. 22 (AP) Mrs. Millicent V. Hearst, widow of publisher William Randolph Hearst, asked superior court Tuesday for a family allowance from his estate pending its distribution.

Her petition asked no specific amount but only for a reasonable sum in keeping with the size of the estate. A hearing was set for next Monday, when a petition for settling the publisher's will for probate also is set for consideration.

Development of Submarines Outstrips Defences Says Canadian Admiral

Halifax, Aug. 22—(CP)—Vice-Admiral Harold T. Grant, chief of the Canadian Navy, said today "if the Russians start something like they have submarines first" he has the strength and development of the German undersea fleet in mind, effort.

Here on an inspection tour, he told reporters that the development of the submarine has outstripped defences against it. This was especially true in the Pacific in naval circles.

Air reconnaissance will play a part in the Canadian effort against the submarine and three helicopter squadrons which he said were generally held. The first concerned recruiting. He said newspaper readers learned that recruiting figures were good.

"But this doesn't mean a hell of a lot," he said. It took two years to train an operational pilot longer to train officers. This made a long gap between the recruiting figures and the time when the sailor would be useful to the navy.

This was especially true in the technical branches of the service. The recruiting of technicians was slow and the navy's program to train her own technicians took time.

Another popular misconception concerned the strength of Canadian naval role in Korea. It was generally held that this consisted of three destroyers, actually five destroyers were continuously involved in the Pacific war, but three on duty, one going and one coming."

He had a word for Atlantic coast seaman. They have looked with some envy at the Pacific force. "East coast ships are going to have a full share of the operational role in Korea," he assured them.

Admiral Grant was pleased with the progress of the new naval construction program. He said that by the end of the year the navy would get two of the new anti-submarine escorts, four fast minesweepers, four gate vessels and a northern patrol ship that will be equipped with helicopters.

British Cabinet Holds Emergency Session on Crisis

Iranian Parliament Gives Premier Vote of Confidence

By ROBERT E. HEWETT

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 22 (AP) — Parliament gave a vote of confidence today to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh on his stand rejecting the latest British proposals for settlement of the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute. But the Lower House urged him to continue the oil crisis negotiations which are threatening to break down.

The vote in the Majlis (lower House) was 75 to nothing. Earlier the Senate had approved the nationalistic premier's uncompromising policies by a vote of 33 in favor with three abstentions.

This new parliamentary move came an hour after the original deadline set by Britain's chief negotiator, Richard Stokes, who yesterday said he would return to London unless Mossadegh abandons his Stonewall stand against the British proposals.

A British spokesman said Stokes extended his ultimatum deadline to 3 p.m. today (12.30 a.m. EDT) in view of the fact that parliament appeared to want to keep the talks from breaking down.

Gov't. Issues Deadline

Later, deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi said the cabinet would meet at 4 p.m. to draft an answer to Stokes' latest statement. Fatemi stated it plain that the Iranian government was ignoring the Stokes deadline, which apparently irritated the Iranians.

Fatemi told reporters that "we have the utmost desire to settle the oil dispute in friendly talks" in view of the fact the Lower House indicated that the Stokes ultimatum had not effect—prompting into the stone wall of Premier Mossadegh's objections to the British proposals. Fatemi told the House he had asked Stokes to explain the British proposals further, with regard to British management of day-to-day operations of the Abadan refinery, and added that thereafter "any decision taken will be in the best interests of Iran."

Communist Party Membership In U.S. Drops

Washington, Aug. 22—(AP)— Membership in the United States communist party has dropped from 43,210 to 43,317 in a year's time, director J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has told Senators.

And each party member now has back of him about seven to eight fellow travellers, as against 10 several years ago, Hoover told a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee March 1 while testifying in support of his request for $115,000,000 for operations of the public todays.

But Hoover cautioned that the communist party members constitute "a hard core dedicated to sabotage and to militant revolt against this country if and when the time comes."

Eight-Year-Old Boy Pinned Against Wire Fence by Truck, Driver of Vehicle Leaves Scene

Pinned by the throat against a wire fence after being crushed against the fence by a truck in which he was riding, an unidentified drunken driver, eight-year-old Lance Beer, son of Mrs. Margaret Beer, Bleecker Ave., in Belleville General Hospital with possible concussion and spinal injuries.

The accident took place at Ivanhoe, 19 miles north of Belleville, at 9.30 this morning as the Beer boy was assisting to feed calves from a ditch at the side of the road.

A freight train of the truck seeing the boy was seriously hurt ran down the road and two hours later previously police were still searching for him. The man jumped over a fence and disappeared into the brushfield on the Reid farm.

The little lad nearly died of strangulation before Mr. Reid could cut the wire fence and release him. He then set to work to cut the boy's face was nearly black as result of his breath being cut off by pressure of the truck fender.

He was rushed to hospital by Bush's Ambulance where he was X-rayed for possible skull and spinal injuries.

Nearly Hit Cows

Before plowing into the ditch and striking the boy, the truck was said to have narrowly missed Mr. Reid's herd of cows being driven to pasture by Terry Beer, 12, brother of the injured lad. The truck then left the road sped directly towards the group feeding in the calves in the ditch.

Besides Mr. Reid and the Beer boy, the group included Mrs. Reid and Jean Seymour, age 12 years. All got out of the way except the boy. He was pinned against the fence.

At first it was thought all had been driven from the truck then the Seymour boy chanced to go around to the other side of the vehicle and saw Lance pinned face forward against the fence. The boy was turned blue from the lack of air before the fence could be cut to free him.

Disappeared Up Road

Later the driver of the truck, believed to be Les Ryan, age about 19, of R.R. Harold, disappeared up the road and jumped the fence into the Reid cornfield and despite an intensive police search he was still at large at noon.

Mrs. Percy Cooney, 501 of Hunter Hughton, said a young man had called at their home some time after nine o'clock.

"He seemed excited and undermental strain and asked for a drink of water to light a cigaret," she said. "He was wearing no shirt and asked to borrow one, as he had lost his."

Mrs. Cooney said the man told her he had crashed into an airplane which came down in the woods nearby. He asked her not to tell the police.

A short time later he eluded police by hiding behind some bushes at the side of the road and then disappeared into the woods.

B.C. Fires Rage Almost Unchecked

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 22. (CP)— Forest fires were on the offensive again today in British Columbia, ripping through woodlands sapped of moisture by summer-long drought.

British Columbia became a giant smudgepot with commercial air lines piled up with more than 14,000 feet while flying over the Rocky mountains.

Vancouver Island and the interior Nelson Forest district were the main battlefronts as many areas in the U.S. and Canadian Northwest began their 101st day without appreciable rainfall.

Thirty-two separate fires were burning in the Nelson district and one of them, along the Yahk river, has chewed over 8,000 acres.

A force of 1,000 men was enlisted in the interior, where the hazard was described as the worst in years.

The big blaze, 18 miles south of Golden, B.C., was resisting the efforts of 400 men, Moyie is a community of 90 on the Canadian Pacific Railway line, 20 miles south of Cranbrook.

South Koreans 'Looking Down Throats' of Reds

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 22 — (AP) — South Korean infantrymen, attacking behind the most satisfied artillery barrage of the Korean War, captured a dominating hill in rugged eastern Korea today.

From its crest the South Koreans "look down the throats" of communists on other hills they had seized in fierce counter-attacks Tuesday.

The 8th Army officer estimated reds lost about 2,000 men in five days of fighting north and northwest of Yangpu.

Seventh Air Force pilots Tuesday concentrated on hitting intensified rail efforts to resupply North Korean lines.

From the east central front the correspondent for McArthur reported massed Allied guns, supporting South Korean infantrymen in a 4½ - day attack, fired 12,000 rounds of high explosives. Mortars and the high velocity guns of tanks added to the barrage.

"No unit ever had that much fire support," the division commander said. "The reds couldn't evacuate. They could not supply. They couldn't do anything.

"I don't think there's one damn red man up there."

The communists had an estimated 1,000 men in the Kelton stronghold when the attack started.

When the South Koreans stormed the final crest just before noon Wednesday, only one red platoon remained, McArthur said.

A battle for the north - south ridgeline west of Hamyang continued fiercely. South Korean infantrymen seized a new hill from the reds, but were unable to recapture another crest which the communists gained in a counter-attack Tuesday.

On the central front, a U. N. tank-infantry patrol pushed into Pyongyang, at the apex of the line of fallen iron triangle, the patrol ran into communist troops before returning to its own lines.

Spread of Fire Greatest Danger Says Worthington

London, Ont., Aug. 22. (CP)— Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington said today the spread of fire presents the greatest potential danger to Canadian cities in the event of atomic or other attack, and urged to cope with the problem s far from satisfactory.

Measured against the "ever-growing critical deterioration of the international situation," progress in civil defence is small, the federal civil defence co-ordinator said. There is even less progress "to cheer us" in the area of fire defence.

Yet development of an operational fire defence plan, particularly in those areas which may become targets for the enemy, is a challenge "which we must meet", he added in a speech prepared for delivery before the 43rd annual meeting of the Dominion Fire Chiefs' Association.

"Unless we do meet this challenge, we can be defeated."

The great problem, said Gen. Worthington, is in arousing "intelligent interest."

"This applies to both officials and the general public. Apart from this apathy and indifference, but it goes much deeper, especially when applied to atomic warfare.

"We cannot visualize mass destruction or measure in our minds tens of thousands of casualties; of fire and destroyed homes; of homeless and destitute. Added to this is the inherent belief that we will muddle through and all will be well in the end."

RESOLUTE V.I.P.

With determination in his eye, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme commander of Allied forces, shows leaving United dining room at the United Nations prison camp to give his delegates a final briefing before their departure for another truce session at Kaesong. The generall's firmness in refusing to yield to red demands for a buffer zone on the 38th parallel is now paying off. The four-man sub-committee agreed Tuesday in addition to the buffer deadlock has taken the first step toward a solution, according to the Peking radio.—Central Press Canadian.

Housing Corp. Under Fire At Convention

Cornwall, Aug. 22 (CP)—The Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation came under fire today at the 17th biennial convention of the Ontario Command, Canadian Legion.

Legionnaires termed C.M.H.C. selling prices of houses built as "exorbitant" and "totally out of line with their cost or value."

Representatives of C.M.H.C. employees and agents with using various forms of Duress to enforce sales of these houses.

The convention, adopting the report of its housing committee—headed by Ray Mann of Brantford — demanded legislative reporting the following points:

Federal rent controls; a home building and building material subsidy; lower rents for C.M.H.C. houses for those unable to afford present rents; special consideration for handicapped pensioners who are tenants of, or applicants for, C.M.H.C. houses; an immediate probe into cost of home building in Canada; placing housing before National Defence as a major project.

Russian Spy Outwitted Nazis Says Hoover

Washington, Aug. 23—(AP)— J. Edgar Hoover has told U. S. visitors "the personal bodyguard of Stalin" smuggled himself into Nazi German forces during the last war.

Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, also disclosed that a woman who carried information from Germany to Moscow later came to the United States as a displaced person.

•He said the F. B. I. was able to trace her and order her deportation.

This sidelight on international intrigue was offered by Hoover in closed-door testimony before the senate appropriations committee March 1. It was made public today.

"We have many German files seized in Germany after the army of occupation occupied that country," Hoover said. "We found among those files a record to show that the personal bodyguard of Stalin arrived during the time that the last war was in operation, had gone into Germany and had become a prisoner in the army of Vasilov." He explained that that was the "white Russian army that had joined with the Nazis."

"The committee had sent confidential information back to Moscow during the period of time. He sent it back through the medium of a woman . . ."

Theatre Manager Drowned in Lake Near Peterborough

Peterborough, Aug. 22 — (CP) — Paul Trundy, 44, theatre manager from Corostolla, Pa., was drowned last night when his boat overturned in Chemong Lake, 12 miles northwest of Peterborough.

Watchers said the boat hit a rough water whipped up by a strong west wind. When a rescue party reached the craft, Trundy was gone.

For a time it was feared that Robert Trunich, the theatre man's son, and Jim Coppaway, a young man from the area, had also been drowned. Word reached here this morning that they were safe. They had apparently attended a dance and it was not until this morning that the young people learned that his father was drowned.

Model Tank Gets Out of Control On Room Floor

London, Aug. 22 (AP) — Alan Tamplin had a 200-pound radio-controlled model tank and turned it loose on the living room floor.

The four-foot long squat monster of aluminum alloy and bronze got out of control.

It rumbled about the room smashing furniture and frightening Mrs. Tamplin.

Inventor Tamplin was brought the tank to London today for a demonstration at the model engineer's exhibition. He says he has the controls working properly now and it will lay a smoke screen, fire three rounds of ammunition from its turret gun or squirt jets of water at target. But it won't try to tamper with it.

But Mrs. Tamplin still calls it "that horror."

Allies Say Red Charges 'Border On Ridiculous'

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 22—(AP) —The allies accused the communists today of making "a universal symbol of bad faith" out of Kaesong, site of Korean war truce talks.

The charge was broadcast after a sub-committee held its sixth session in Kaesong without sign of breaking the deadlock over where to draw an armistice line across Korea.

The sub-committee scheduled another try for Thursday.

Armistice negotiations were complicated by a dispute over latest red charges that United Nations forces violated the Kaesong neutrality zone.

The Peiping radio of the United Nations command," broadcast from Tokyo to Korea, said the "communist charges border on the ridiculous."

The broadcast asked:

"Why are the United Nations delegates assigned to an armistice mission constantly forced to divert their attention to the question of armed personnel in the conference area."

The broadcast traced the history of incidents within the neutral zone and answered its own questions.

"It is now quite obvious that Kaesong was picked (by the communists as a negotiating site) in order to intimidate the U. N. C. (United Nations Command) delegates by a show of force.

"That failing, the conferences should be stalemated with a series of side issues blocking the main discussions."

There was no suggestion from say quarter that progress had been made toward settling the main issue.

Chicago Woman Expects to Bear Five-Six Babies

"Top men in their profession have figured out the 'odds number,' the story set forth. Some, using stethoscopes, have detected heart beats from six babies. All have easily detected five heart beats.

"The babies are expected to be born late this month or early in September."

The newspaper said there is no record of sextuplets who survived.

ARGUMENT OVER

Col. Ritchlin questioned the prosecuting officer, Capt. Lawrence M. Hanway of Amherst, N.S., as to steps taken to acquaint the defendants with provisions of the Torthcoming National Defence Act.

Entitled to Counsel

While the act is not yet in force as a whole, some of its provisions became operative Feb. 1. One of these stipulates that the accused person is entitled to representation by a defending officer, or counsel at the taking of a summary of evidence.

Col. Hutchins asked Capt. Hanway:

"Was the accused to your knowledge acquainted with these provisions?"

Hanway: "Not until either May 1 or April 30 when we definitely knew that he was among five who might be in serious trouble and then he was told that he had a right to be represented by counsel."

Hutchins: "He was not told that he could be represented by a lawyer at the taking of the summary?"

Hanway: "No, there was none in the theatre at the time."

Hanway added that Blank's officer representative, Lieut. John G. Regan of Vancouver, had a chance to call defence witnesses if he wanted such, where written statements were taken in absence of witnesses on duty elsewhere, he could demand their presence if desired.

Hanway said Regan did neither.

Hutchins: "Then the summary of evidence represents only the evidence of prosecution witnesses?"

Hanway: "That's correct."

No Legal Training

Regan, who is attending the court martial as assistant defending officer, testified that he had no legal training apart from reading the rules guiding the taking of evidence, he was not schooled in the practice.

To find out whether battalion personnel were advised through other means—such as publication in unit orders or by briefings from the commanding officer—of the protection extended under the provisions of the National Defence Act, Hutchins asked for Major R. K. Swinton, Vancouver solicitor at the time, and George Flint of Montreal, Blank's company commander; Capt. Gordon Turnbull of Toronto, adjutant, and Lieut. Arnold Beauchamp of Hamilton, Ont., assistant adjutant at the time the alleged offence.

Hutchins said: "This point is crucial to accused that I could not without protest allow this trial to go forward without their evidence, I propose to show that he has been properly represented, the evidence in this summary would have been such as to eliminate all possibility of a murder charge."

Nineteen of 25 Employees Off Job at Welland

Welland, Aug. 22 (CP) —Nineteen of 25 employees of Welland's street cleaning department walked off their jobs this morning.

The strikers, members of the Welland General Workers' Union (CCL) objected to the hiring of a non-union resident as a truck driver, to their foreman and to the discharge of an employee yesterday.

They presented a petition-ultimatum to city council last night, calling for the removal of foreman Morris Lansbury within 24 hours.

Council answered the ultimatum by giving the men until noon tomorrow to remove the signatures from the petition.

The petition charged that Lounsbury was a "slave driver, who will not allow us to go for a drink of water or to the toilet. We can't talk to him. . . be is always right and everyone else is wrong."

Lounsbury was engaged by council on May 1, 1949, to remedy a "lax situation" in the street department, a city spokesman said Tuesday. He was instructed to instill discipline in the staff.

Reason given for today's walkout was the firing yesterday of Alfred Thorpe, worker on a garbage disposal unit, and the hiring of a driver from out of town.

Ald. Joseph Lenelin, chairman of the street committee, said Therrien was dismissed for insubordination and for failure to work 13 Saturdays since Jan. 1.

The six men who remained at work are manning two garbage-collection trucks.

Britain has offered Iran what is termed a final proposal in hopes of settling the vexatious dispute that has taken up so much time since negotiations began. Premier Mossadegh's objection to any sort of British supervision over the Abadan refinery is rather remarkable when he must realize the operation cannot be continued unless such supervision is maintained. The loss of revenue to Iran through a complete shutdown would be almost disastrous to the country's financial resources.

The New York Times believes the negotiations must be kept open by both sides. It says the rest of the world would certainly be entitled to feel critical of Britain, as well as Iranian diplomacy if the talks were broken off. The paper goes on to say the precious oil, the vast refining capacity of Abadan, the strategic position of Iran, the political effects on the Middle East and on Islam, are all factors that make this issue one of immense importance. It can be granted on the Iranian side that British slowness and meanness gave great provocation; it can be granted on the British side that the Iranian nationalization law and enabling act were confiscatory and inexcusable measures as they stood.

The fact remains, however, that the British are trying to repair the damage and have made great concessions, and the Iranians have retreated from their original intransigent stand. Britain has agreed to nationalization of the oil and is willing to accept a large financial sacrifice. The Iranians, thanks to Averill Harriman and Walter J. Levy, President Truman's emissaries, have been brought to understand that they cannot run their oil industry without British help, and they surely realize that any business deal must be profitable to the British and must give them valid assurance for the future.

"The problem now is to translate this understanding of principles into practical terms. That is where the present conflict arises. It stood to reason that the Iranian Government, faced as it is with fanatical political pressure, would put up a fight for the hardest possible bargain and would regard any slight concession as victory. It was also obvious that the British could not make an unconditional surrender or an unprofitable deal, nor could they induce British technicians to remain without proper safeguards.

A solution is therefore difficult, but it is possible and it ought to be found. The British know now that they must make a deal with Premier Mossadegh. And the Premier knows that he must either make a deal with the British or see the ruin of the Iranian oil industry, and probably of Iran with it. So there is nothing for it but to talk and keep talking until a bargain is struck.

HALF-MILLION MISSING MEN A SOVIET SECRET

(The Montreal Daily Star)

It is almost six years since the last shot was fired in the Second World War, but there is still no prisoners of war have been returned. Most of them are Japanese and Germans, and all of them were last heard of as inmates of Russian prison camps.

It is many years now since most of the nations of the world signed international conventions governing the conditions of prison camps and of the return of prisoners. International inspection has been a condition of the conventions. It is enough to read the two words "international inspection" to know that the Soviet Union has never signed the convention.

The Kremlin is firm on many points, but one of the most important is that there shall never be adequate international inspection of anything inside its borders. This, can be understood. It is the secret of the Soviet power. In the war, that Russia had butchered thousands of Polish officers in cold blood and buried the bodies in vast pits.

The half million missing men may, for all the world known, have met a similar fate. More probably they have been put to forced labor, and the more rugged among them are still at it, working without hope for the future — lost but not dead.

A United Nations Commission has been set up to find the facts. It will get no help from the Russians, who concentrate not upon giving them up, but upon getting more slaves to work for them. But the Commission, by piecing together what is here, a fact there, examining ex-prisoners, patiently following a tiny clue that may be found almost anywhere in the world, may get at the truth.

They will not, however, get at the men.

OLD HELMETS!

(Fort William Times-Journal)

Two young Fort William men were inspecting the interesting collection of antiques at the Canadian Lakehead Exhibition. Old boots, canes and jewelry had claimed their attention, and then one of the pair pointed at another object, saying excitedly:

"Look at that old helmet. I'll bet it goes back to the Boer War."

From beside him the quavering voice of an old lady said with asperity:

"I'll have you know that's a lady's hat. I wore one of them myself."

SECRETARY AWAY

If your letter isn't answered;
If I miss a luncheon date;
If the bill that's due this morning for another month
must wait;
If the telephone's unheeded
(and at times, I'm sure
'twill be)
It's because my secretary has left everything to me.

She knew that I'd have trouble,
And I'm sure she also knew
That a lot of things I should to do.

So I write this explanation;
If that bill is over due
Or your letter stays unanswered for another week or two,
It is not because I'm heedless of the work have run
amuck,
It's my secretary's absence that is causing the delay.

She has gone on her vacation.
Now I understand her smiles.
She could see me vainly seeking what she'd hidden in the files,

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME

In fifty years of practice in Randolph, Wisconsin, a village of less than 1500 population, Dr. Arthur W. Jones delivered more than 2500 babies and never lost a mother,' according to newspaper story.

The news story is illustrated with a picture of the doctor, a three-months-old baby, the last he delivered, and the nice kind lady who certainly doesn't look thirty.

But the significant part of this story is the fact that Dr. Jones delivered ninety-eight out of each hundred babies where babies have every right to be born, at home.

The newspaper story speaks of the "last" baby Dr. Jones delivered, if he is retiring from active practice it is devoutly to be hoped that he has trained, for the nation, that his successors may carry on in the tradition established by this real doctor. It is unsure to predict that it will not be long now until the trouble folks everywhere take a lesson from the Randolph record:

"As soon as pregnancy is suspected, the very young couple should see the doctor who follows the methods as prescribed in "Childbirth Without Fear" by Grantly Dick Read, M.D., a $2.75 book for prospective parents published by Harper.

For prospective parents, a good policy is "Expectant and Maternity" by William Brady, M.D. For a copy send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope. In the meantime remember, when it comes to having a baby, there's no place like home."

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

DEAD LETTERS

Wedding bells broke up that old gang of mine a long, long time ago. Now their stenographers and secretaries are finishing the job.

There are a half dozen of my old buddies who went on to better things, who became editors or executives or butchers or in other higher-bracket positions. Most of them are in the east and whenever I'm down that way I visit them and listen to them tell how much money they made last year. Then, when they're out my way, they visit me and I listen to them tell how much money they made last year.

Between these visits we correspond on a fairly regular basis, as men do who like to be reminded that they once were young and gay.

But there's come a time in each of these exchanges when a woman has moved between us. Inevitably, my more successful friends seem to reach the point where they acquire a secretary and the habit of dictating their letters. It is almost more than a friendship can bear.

I've yet to meet one of these ladies in the flesh. They remain to me only initials—Miss or MS or Mrs.—but they have always had the same dampening effect as a female at a fishing camp.

The lusty and sometimes downright bawdy tone of the letters fades away. Where once I might read such a letter and picture old Ed or Hal or Gord as he used to be in our salad days, now I see him as he is now, in the dessert course, behind a huge desk, wrapped in a pin-striped suit, clearly a man too busy to dwell at length on the desk, dead day of yore.

Change of Tone

Let me tell you, by way of example, of the cooling in my relations with Ed and what happened when a girl became his secretary—OP—came into our lives.

Ed was one of my more faithful correspondents. We'd done a lot of wild things together in our youth and we cherished the idiot memory of them. We were unashamed of this and our mail was pure, 100-proof nostalgia.

Then for every two weeks Ed would get to a typewriter and drop me a line. His letters would begin something like this: "Hello, Pig-face: Got your last letter okay. Sure, I remember the night we threw the bureau out of the Pallisar Hotel window. And, say, remember that big fat girl we called Limestone Susie? Well, she's off my list and call me Shorty, if I didn't see her the other day. . ."

So they went, full of charm and culture and dignity. And then Ed went up another notch in his prosperity and acquired his secretary, this mysterious OP. Then the letters began this way:

"Dear Jack: Received yours of the 14th inst. and hasten to reply. Business conditions now are excellent in this area and my chief interest prospects for the fall and. ."

But enough, I felt as if a stranger had written me. Ed was getting on, I reflected, and that meant that I was getting on, too, and the heck with that.

Of course I knew what had happened. Ed simply couldn't show his lovable, small boy side to this new girl. Start dictating a letter about a girl named Limestone Susie and you are bound to lose a little face. Thus old Ed was, in fact, writing a letter as much for his secretary's reaction as mine and soon our correspondence dwindled to a few desultory letters, sometimes concerned only with Dow Jones averages.

My Own Trial

I knew what was happening to these once old friends because, I too once had a secretary. I still wake in the night sometimes with a shudder, recalling her.

I'd taken a job as press representative of the CBC for Western Canada. The day I reported for duty I was astonished to find a tall, svelte blond in my office. "I am your secretary," she said, crossing her legs with a hiss of nylon. I gulped and said I needing a report, upside down.

That was the year I lost all my friends. I had no dictation letters. There was nothing else for the poor girl to do, I used to brag, but to the office early and think up a whole letter just to start her day right.

I guess it's a born talent. In any event, I never had it. I didn't feel it was a proper thing to do unless I began a letter acknowledging something or begging to inform or in reference to something. Naturally my friends felt my position had gone to my head or, worse still, I was trying to sell them something.

I never did get to feel natural with this lovely creature, my sole contact with the outside world. Indeed, it all blew up one day when I began to dictate a letter. "Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter and to confirm your fine bosom. ."

It was a mistake I'd never make later; that I went back to work on my own and writing my own letters. I wish a few of my friends would, too.

THE RIGHT ORDER

When we find ourselves in any sort of difficulty, when good fortune begins to slip away from us, when we meet with failure and are followed by a haunting sense of failure, we say to ourselves—or if we are asked for advice we say to others—"Try harder."

But the Christian gospel does not say "Try harder" it says "Believe harder." For the power of one's Christian life arises from faith, and faith is based on belief. This does not mean that if a man has Christian faith he can life back and declare that he is going to let things take their course and somehow or other everything will turn out all right. It certainly will not turn out all right under these circumstances. There is a place for effort in the progress of the Christian life, but the place is not first. Belief comes first. Then effort is followed by faith. Then effort, entering as the result of faith, brings success.

Everything in life is part of a sequence. We must get the facts. Some of life in order right order if we are going to make them contribute to happiness and success. Life is something like the jigsaw puzzle, where every piece is made to fit into just one place and no other. We will never attain success in the Christian sense of the term by putting effort first. We must put belief first—"Believe harder." Then out of belief grows faith, then out of faith comes triumph.

Frost Convinced Canada can Handle Seaway Project

Ottawa, Aug. 22—(CP)—Premier Frost said Tuesday he is convinced Canada can go ahead alone with development of the St. Lawrence Seaways and Power project.

In an interview following discussions with Prime Minister St. Laurent and Finance Minister Abbott, Mr. Frost said the St. Lawrence projects are not too big for the people of Canada.

The premier said he discussed the credit situation generally with the federal authorities. During the discussions reference was made to the financing of the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power projects.

The people of Ontario, he said, are interested as Canadians in the development of the seaway. But they are particularly interested in the power end of the project.

Ontario would be asked to contribute toward the cost of power developments on the international rapids section of the river. Ontario would obtain an additional 1,250,-000 horsepower from the development, he said.

While the total cost of the power development would be great, it would still be more favorable per horsepower than any power project now contemplated by the province.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THAT INNER ASSURANCE

Each night we go to our bed of rest, not knowing what the new day may bring forth. But it is being somehow borne in the subconsciousness of us from year to year—call it a personal philosophy, religious belief, or what not—that of wonderful power—faith, that keeps us on an even keel, and gives to us assurance that life is well worth while.

"Destroy this inner assurance," said William James, "however vague as it is, and all the light of heaven seems to have been extinguished for all these persons grounded to a few desultory and something so substantial that it stirs us and inclines us to look upon the bright side of things, and to trust to this faith of ours to carry us over onward through every emergency and action of life.

The more we look out upon nature and note its everlasting qualities and its intricate designs for performance, the more we are convinced of the reality of a Supreme being who has His eyes upon every one of us, blessing us far beyond our realization. It is everywhere, and He has scattered Himself off over creation, and the soul of this God keeps creeping into human beings, and is what gives to us all that spirit of faith and hope.

It is this inner assurance that we all have, and that sometimes by offering bolstering our lack of faith and courage, turning on the light into the realm of darkness so often approaches. I have often quoted the last words to have been ever on the bed of the great Prime Minister, Gladstone, the English statesman and leader, who died in perfect peace whose mind is staid on Thee."

Largely we must manufacture our own destiny, setting up our own standards of philosophy, and working out our own plan of life. Nature keeps whispering little hints and suggestions to us and the recorded thoughts of an endless number of others who have inspired all mankind greatly influence our code of life, but it is finally up to each one of us to formulate a continuous course of action. We build our own inner assurance.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Sooner or later, everyone has to face his first lobster. And there is only one way to tackle the first time as the last: grab bold, break and eat.

I was a young relative to dinner last night and he chose lobster, for the first time in his life. It looked good on the platter, had heard of it, perhaps dreamed of it in the night. It was all before him, in two carmine and snow-white halves, he was aghast. Take no notice of him. I instructed him, take no heed of the waiter hovering solicitously near, nor of any of the neighboring diners. Tuck your napkin under your chin, pull up your cuffs and assault it. Which he did: and a more astounding soigne and sophisticated young man has never sat back from a lobster's relics.

In the Moose River Mine disaster of some years back, Matt Higgins, the affable innkeeper of Moose River, was faced with the enormous problem of acting as communicator to a rapidly and enormously increasing population of newspaper and radio men, politicians, government officials. Among the things Matt imported to the mine were several large cartons of beautiful lobsters. But there were no tools to handle them—no crackers, picks, prise and trick forks that are laid out for you in lobster restaurants.

So Matt inducted us all, Canadian and American alike, into what he'd assured us was the main time method of getting into a lobster: and that was to use the head of your boot.

You set the lobster on any available firm surface, such as a chair seat, ledge or even the floor, you bring the heel, smart stamp of the foot, not too hard, not too soft, you cracked whatever part of the lobster you came to next. Primitive, yes. But a primitive approach to the proper approach to lobsters, in any company.

MAY HAVE ONT. ELECTION

Toronto, Aug. 21. (CP)—The Globe and Mail says today in a political column that Ontario may have a general election in late October or early November, possibly right after the Ontario premier of the royal tour—which ends October 22.

"Premier Frost has given no hint of his intentions, but there have been recent indications that, if the date has not already been set, he will give them out in late October or early November election," the paper says.

Three-Way Fight Develops Among Project Supporters

Washington, Aug. 22—(AP)—A three-way fight developed today among Niagara River power project supporters at U.S. Senate Public Works sub-committee.

To a disagreement over whether the army engineers or the New York state power authority should build the project there were added arguments for a third proposal—development by private enterprise.

Representative William E. Miller (Rep. N.Y.), who has offered a House bill to permit private development, was alloted time today to argue for his proposal.

The private development plan is before the committee in a bill presented by Senator Homer Capehart (Rep.-Ind.).

Miller, in offering his bill, said the proposal by Senator Herbert Lehman (Dem.-Lib.-N.Y.) for army engineers to do the building offers no safeguards against the federal government keeping control of the project.

The private development plan, he said, is favored generally by the people of his district, in which the project would be located.

Witnesses at a day-long hearing yesterday divided sharply over the Lehman proposal and a bill by Senator Irving Ives (Rep.-N.Y.) to permit the New York authority to build the development.

Ample Safeguard

Lehman told other supporters of the Lehman bill loontended there is ample safeguard for an agreement to have the project turned over to New York state after completion.

Ives and supporters of his plan argued that there is no such guarantee in the Lehman bill.

Chairman John E. Burton of the New York power authority said the Ives plan would establish federal-state co-operation rather than "the power monopoly sought by the department of interior."

The Lehman bill, he contended, carries an open invitation to the nullification of the bill's expressed intent" in its transfer agreement provision.

"If such an agreement is not negotiated," he said, "the project power shall be delivered and disposed of by the department of interior."

Under the transfer proposal in New York State the cost of the project would be repaid by the state.

President Peron And Wife Drafted By Labor Unions

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Aug. 22—(AP)—About 5,000,000 members of the government's master labor organization laid down their tools today in a country-wide "strike" to demand that president Juan D. Peron and his blonde wife, Eva, rule Argentina for the next six years.

Workers representing every major city and hamlet began converging on the capital three days ago for a mammoth demonstration today, sponsored by the government-backed General Confederation of Labor, the Peronista Party and Mrs. Peron's Women's Peronista Party.

Peron and his wife are scheduled to speak at the meeting after union leaders urge them to run for president and vice-president in the Nov. 11 elections.

Police are alert for any move on the part of the opposition to capitalize on the rally. Special guards have been placed on all trains bringing workers to Buenos Aires for the demonstration. Others have been stationed at important public buildings, bridges and power plants.

Peron has said repeatedly he does not want a second six-year term. But during recent months he has left little doubt in the minds of his followers that he can be drafted. If Mrs. Peron agrees to run with him, she will be the first woman in Argentine history to seek election for public office. It was she who fought to get Argentine women their right to vote.

If the couple chooses to run, their victory appears almost certain. Opposition parties are prevented by law from forming a coalition to buck the huge Peron political machine.

WEDDINGS

MILES—WHALEN

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, the altar and sanctuary adorned with asters, was the setting of a pretty wedding on August 7th., at 9:00 a.m., when Elizabeth Ann, daughter of Mrs. Dan Whalen, St. Lawrence Street, became the bride of Frederick Wilbur Miles, of Capreol, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Miles, Very Reverend Dean L. Garvin performed the ceremony and Miss Norah Fluney, organist, played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, William Whalen, wore a gown of white eyelet over taffeta and carried a white missal covered with pink and white streamers of red roses.

Miss Ann Frauts, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and wore a gown of cinnamon lace over copper satin and carried a white missal covered with gardenias and streamers of Pinnochio roses.

Mr. John Frauts, of Capreol, brother of the groom, was best man. Mr. Allen Green, cousin of the groom, and Mr. Kenneth Ellis.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride where Mrs. Ryan Whalen received her guests wearing navy crepe and lace with a corsage of Talisman roses, assisted by the groom's grandmother, wearing navy crepe with grandmother suit and corsage of gorganzas.

For a wedding trip to Toronto, Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo, the bride wore a lime green dress with Kelly green accessories and corsage of gardenias.

Says Crime Rate Low Among Women

Montreal — (CP) — There is a surprisingly low crime rate among Montreal women and girls, says Police Director J. Albert Langlois.

Women are occasionally picked up for various types of offences from driving without a license to theft with violence. Langlois said more women were arrested for "loitering while drunk" than for any other offence, but in the recorded cases most frequent charges are shoplifting, vagrancy, disturbance of the peace and gambling and prostitution.

The police head said women are good drivers, but many are arrested for driving without a permit. Few women are charged with more serious traffic offences, such as dangerous driving or leaving the scene of an accident.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Bradford, Ont., Aug. 22 (CP) — On the identification of a police officer who said he almost interrupted them at work, Frank Watson and Leonard Jackson, both of Toronto, Tuesday were committed for trial on charge of the armed robbery of the Bradford Bank July 26.

The two were arrested in Toronto 40 miles south of here, July 30 and police are still searching for a third man said to have taken part in the $4,100 holdup.

WILL MAKE SURVEY

Niagara Falls, Aug. 22—(CP)—Motorists on the highways in the Niagara peninsula soon will be flagged down and asked where they are going, where they are from and why they are travelling by a department of highways survey to determine where highways are needed. The work is to be done by university students and the entire province will be covered in the next few years.

Signing the register in Holloway Street United Church are Mr. and Mrs. Evan Bovay. The bride is the former Shirley Gwendolyn Day, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Watt of Belleville.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

Sleeter Bull is not the winner at a cattle show. The gentleman must have other interests also because he is professor of meats at the University of Illinois.

But if such jibes were offered, they have not deterred Professor Bull from writing an extremely useful book on purchasing meat. The book entitled "Meat For The Tables" does not contain recipes, but it does contain a wealth of practical information which every homemaker should know. It shows you accurately the difference between prime and choice beef; why the loin veal chop is expensive; why you should avoid half hams unless they are cut to order; why you shouldn't buy legs of lamb with the lower hind shanks left in. It tells you how meat is cured and how it is frozen.

The average housewife may well ask when she can find the time to read an entire treatise on meat. But when one considers that the problems discussed in this book bedevil and frustrate the meat buyer almost every time she goes to the meat counter, day after day and year after year, then the value of Professor Bull's book can be appreciated.

Select grayish pink veal, cut from the leg, for today's recipe. If you want to know more about veal, read "Meat For The Table".

Veal Steaks Piquant—Serves 4

4 thin slices of leg of veal, 4 ounces each
Flour
Salt—pepper
Vegetable fat
1 medium size onion
1 can condensed consomme
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon anchovy paste
Brown gravy color

Have the butcher pound the meat thin with the cleaver.

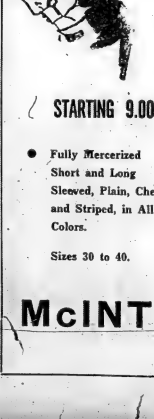
Sprinkle the slices of veal with salt and pepper. Dip the veal in flour. Melt 1-4 inch of fat in a sizzling pot. Brown the meat on both sides over a slow flame.

Chop the onion fine and sprinkle on the meat. Saute 2 or 3 minutes more.

Add the consomme to the pot. Add 1-2 cup hot water. Bring to a boil and simmer, covered, for 1 hour or until meat is tender. Skim the fat.

If a thicker gravy is desired, mix 1 tablespoon cornstarch to a smooth paste with 2 tablespoons cold water and gradually add to the simmering liquid.

Add the vinegar, mustard and anchovy paste to the sauce. Simmer 3 minutes more. Add brown gravy color if desired. Correct the seasoning.



Veal chops or pork chops may be substituted for the veal slices.

Urges Lower Keys For Church Hymns

Wellington, N.Z. — (CP) — Church singing is being "ruined by the almost heights at which hymn tunes are set," in the opinion of Bishop R. H. Owen of Wellington.

"There would be a great improvement if the edition of ancient and modern hymn tunes were transposed to a lower key were more widely used by our organists," he said.

Bishop Owen said the throats of men were not made to produce sounds that would ever approximate the heights laid down as necessary in the ordinary edition. Even women often found it a severe strain.

The tunes were written in the keys set because it was assumed that the singing would be done for the congregation by a trained choir of boys, the Bishop said. Many were quite unsuitable for congregational singing.

Dress Designer Gains New Fame For Royal Garb

London (CP)—Hardy Amies, London couturier chosen by Princess Elizabeth to design some of her clothes she will wear on the Canadian tour with Prince Philip, is drawing much comment from London fashion writers.

One of the youngest of London's "big ten" of fashion, he has long been a favorite with Canadian buyers and the sudden royal patronage gives added interest to his background.

Just turned 40, clean-shaven and dark-haired, this six-foot bachelor started his designing career by a turn of fate experienced by few.

Early familiar with the inside of a fashion salon through the employment of his mother by a court designer, Amies met the wife of a director of Lachasse—another of the big ten—and gave such a graphic description of her dress that it was later relayed to the lady concerned.

As a result hardy Amies succeeded Lachasse as designer to Lachasse when Morton retired to start his own salon.

With the training to guide his early career, Amies became part of the world of silks and satins —and still laughs at his own sketches. His cutters complain they are "more like blueprints". They have, however, one accentage. The designer fears nothing more than "chic".

"If anyone can copy from my sketches," he said, "I'd like to employ them myself to help me."

WOMEN GOING TO HAVE SAY

Windsor, Aug. 22 — (CP) — Women are going to have a say in the arrangements here for Princess Elizabeth's visit, city council decided last night.

The city lawman alderman, Mrs. Cameron H. Montrose, told the council that women's organizations had not been named to the arrangements' committee.

She won assurance that the committee would be expanded to include prominent women's groups

Wooler W.I. Observes 50th Anniversary

Wooler Women's Institute observed its 50th anniversary in the Town Hall on Wednesday afternoon with a large attendance. Visitors were present from York Road community, Codrington and Unionsdale branches. The hall was decorated in the Institute colors of blue and gold.

Mrs. W. H. Morrow presided and read the opening ritual. She wore an old-fashioned costume and bonnet.

Representatives from CJBQ, were present and took recordings of the meeting and Mr. A. G. Austin took pictured.

The institute was organized in 1901 by Dr. Creelman of Guelph at the home of Mrs. W. H. Dempsey. In 1908 the Institute was divided into York Road and Wooler branches. A pageant of the organization was given by 14 members of York Road and Wooler branches, one member, Mrs. W. A. McColl, of Wooler, having been at the original meeting.

A short memorial service for the three deceased members was held with Mrs. Morrow reading the Twenty-Third Psalm. Mrs. J. J. Way, in name, and Mrs. S. L. Terrill placed a yellow rose in a vase in memory of Mrs. W. H. Dempsey, Mrs. W. W. Farley and Mrs. Eli Terrill, while Mrs. Lloyd Lloyd played Sabbath Chimes on the piano.

The past presidents, who were present, were escorted to the platform through a guard of honor and presented with corsages. They were Mrs. S. L. Terrill, Mrs. W. W. McColl, Mrs. George Adams, Miss Mabel Rogers, Mrs. P. K. McAuley, Mrs. W. Ashley, Mrs. C. Gooding, Mrs. O. J. Anderson and Mrs. L. Whitney.

A program of vocal duets by Leila and Donna McColl and Barbara McColl and Ann Redcliffe, piano solos by Mary Dorland and Mrs. H. Rowe of Frankford, a vocal solo by Mrs. John Goodfellow, of Codrington, a reading by Mrs. C. Buchanan, of Codrington and an address by the District President, Mrs. Clayton Taylor, Brighton, was given, followed by refreshments that included a birthday cake, and an enjoyable social half hour.

Drop Old Custom Of Giving Groom Indian Servants

Jaipur, India (Reuter)—An age-old custom among royalty, nobility, presenting servant girls to the groom as part of the bride's marriage dowry, has been abolished in Rajasthan, home of India's Rajput Princes and chieftains.

The state government, which has enforced a series of reforms since the integration of the sovereign principalities in this part of India, decreed that giving away human beings as marriage dowry constituted "a violation of the dignity of person, guaranteed by the constitution."

The young bobleman of Rajasthan now will miss the large retinue of "Dowry girls" accompanying his bride.

The "Goli" community, to which these girls belong, regard this reform as marking its formal liberation from centuries of serfdom. The Goli system has actually been out of vogue since the beginning of Rajasthan's transition from feudalism to democracy. Its official abolition, just announced, is regarded as a natural corollary to the liquidation of feudal landlordism to be carried out by the state government shortly.

From Nearby Stock

The Golis of Rajasthan are of hardy peasant stock. They are attached to the land and to the Thakur (the chieftain) to whom the land belongs. The Golis cultivate the Thakur's land and work as domestic servants at the Thakur's residence.

Originally, the Goli system had a specific purpose — the young bride desired servants whom she had known since childhood to keep her company in the new surroundings of her husband's home.

The Golis, even when well taken care of, were virtual prisoners in the palaces of the princes and noblemen who kept them. At times they were ill-treated by the men who were supposed to protect them.

Christmas Parcels Go Early to North

London—(CP)—It may be a long time until Christmas but crates loaded with gifts from Britain are already on their way to the children of northern Newfoundland and Labrador.

Collection of the presents is under the provision of the Cirenfell Association of Great Britain, which has these isolated areas under its special care.

Women Drinkers Growing Problem in South Africa

Johannesburg—(CP) — Before the Second World War drunkenness among women was almost unknown in South Africa. Today the problem is rising concern among welfare societies.

While the number of women convicted of drunkenness has more than doubled in recent years, the total is considered negligible among the whole population. The chief worry is over the proper treatment of women inebriates.

There is no institution set aside for treatment of women alcoholics and the Rand Aid Association has taken the lead in raising funds for such an institution. The association expects the problem to grow worse.

A changed social attitude towards drinking is blamed by welfare officers. Little more than 10 years ago it was unusual to see a woman drinking in public. Dances for instance were usually at the lemonade and buns variety.

Changing Customs

The war however speeded up the change and one welfare officer said "the shame of being drunk no longer exists among an ever-increasing number of young women."

"Today," said this expert, "there appears nothing extraordinary about a party where women of all ages take drink for drink with the men, even past the stage where they are slurring their words and bumping into doorways."

Another welfare worker here said "young girls nowadays think it's old-fashioned to refuse a cocktail. A hangover is not considered a disgrace. The greatest boast of many young women is that they can "hold their liquor like a man."

This worker said the attitude toward drinking is not confined to the lower income groups, "I think it is more rife among the better educated girls who come from good homes."

One official takes a less gloomy view of the picture. He thinks the social pendulum may be swinging back again and believes "there is a tendency to pull up."

Girl Supervisor Paddled Long Way to Teach Indians, Eskimos

Moose Factory, Ont.—(CP) — Getting in the mood for a new job as supervisor of 30 small Indians and Eskimos, 17-year-old Jennifer McVicar of Toronto paddled a good part of the way to her post in a canoe.

It's some 360 miles between Ottawa and Abitibi and many more by canoe.

Jennifer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kay McVicar of Toronto decided she would like a change this year from previous summer jobs on the farm or at summer camps and hotels. She obtained a post as temporary supervisor at the Bishop Horden Memorial School here from the Department of Indian Affairs.

Because her job didn't start until Aug. 1, Jennifer, who got her senior matriculation last spring, had time for a chance to travel from Ottawa to Abitibi by canoe. From there she came on by train to Moosonee.

Her first days were busy, helping to prepare for the ceremonial opening of the settlement of the mission and watching the influx of Indians who came from as far as 200 miles away in war canoes.

Likes the North

In a letter to her mother she noted that there is only a day school during the summer, but in winter the Indian children stay here while their fathers move off to the bush. She has been keenly interested in the Indian ceremonials and social events.

An evening service in the Cree language that she attended "was very beautiful to listen to," although she knows only a few words of the Cree language.

"There have been three Indian weddings with a dance after each one," she said. "I was very disappointed to find that the brides were satin and not native costume.

"There is no point in going to a wedding before 11 o'clock as they just start then and dance until dawn. They dance a form of square dance with six couples. In between sets the men do what is called a step-dance, trying to outlast one another."

African Natives Learn First Aid With Enthusiasm

Johannesburg (CP)—Knowledge of magical incantations, evil-tasting potions and of "throwing the bones" no longer is sufficient for the African witch doctor.

Even in the remote villages it is becoming more and more necessary for him to have a knowledge of first aid, and it must be according to Red Cross standards supported by certificates and medals.

The native African is fast taking to regulation first aid, and incantations just don't do any more to treat a drowning person, for instance. There are far too many tribesmen with knowledge of artificial respiration for the witch doctor to get by with the old spells.

The natives pack the stands at every first aid contest between African teams competing for the favor of the white judges and officials, and of the crowd. Such events draw as much enthusiasm as a football game.

Team-leaders put on a great show, tumbling and leaping, clowning and howling. But in spite of the horseplay the tests are carried out with speed and efficiency. Tourniquets are in the right spots, bandages correctly tied and applied, rules of hygiene are not forgotten and splints are just what the doctor ordered.

Lots of Enthusiasm

The best-tied bandage will slip sometimes, and when this happens there is a roar of derision for the offending team. But after the competition finishes there is a grand party for the winners. Meat and potatoes are roasted over open fires and African beer flows freely. African drums pound out a challenge which carries down the wind to the next compound.

These events have helped to train thousands of illiterate natives in first aid work. Last year alone the total was 37,943 and the reserve of trained first-aiders grows every year.

William Tasker, Red Cross secretary in the Rand and chief of the Red Cross service which trains them, estimates there are nearly 500,000 qualified workers now.

Their growing influence in tribal life is reflected in numerous official reports. One magistrate notes that a party of white motorists received efficient first aid from a blanket-clad tribesman when their car overturned. Another reports that an African woman's life was saved by a first-aider who properly treated ugly wounds inflicted by a crocodile.

In the gold and coal mines of the Transvaal the first aid expert gets an extra three-pence a shift and is in line for promotion to the coveted job of "boss boy."

WHEEL-CHAIR COACH

Outings in comfort for wheel-chair-bound persons are possible with this custom-built coach designed by Walter Callow, 37, of Halifax, him self-blind and paralyzed. Callow, severely injured in the First World War when with the Royal Fly ing Corps, now has three of the coaches and hopes to have as many as 150 by 1956 — enough to be available to every crippled person in Canada. Callow's injuries left him barely able to move his lips, but to day he works 14 hours a day and keeps four secretaries busy. — (CP Photo).

Special Coaches for All Cripples are Callow's Aim

By KINGSLEY BROWN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Aug 22 (CP) —Under the best conditions, it's hard enough to build a dream into reality.

Imagine how the difficulties are multiplied when you are paralyzed, blind, in almost constant pain and barely able to move your lips.

Walter Callow, who wants Canada's wheel-chair patients to share the pleasure of the man on the street, has hurdled these difficulties. Now he is moulding his ambition into what looks like a "sure thing."

A Callow-designed coach has just been delivered here from an Ontario manufacturing plant. It is another cog in the machinery which Callow hopes will put voluntionline the lives of wheel-chair sufferers.

He now has three custom-built coaches and by 1956 expects to have enough—perhaps 150 —to look after every crippled person in Canada.

Now 37, Callow knows what these coaches can mean. He was at his best during the First World War but was severely injured in 1917 in the old Royal Flying Corps when his plane crashed up during a test flight. Years in Bed

The crash ruined his career as a promising mechanical expert and made him a helpless cripple. He became paralyzed and blind.

But 21 years in bed failed to break his indomitable spirit. He has the drive of two ordinary men; works 14 hours a day and keeps four secretaries busy during the winter.

"The new coach will be as smooth as a high-class pullman" Mr. Callow said in an interview. "Sounds boastful, I doesn't it? But it isn't.

It has airplane hydraulic shock absorbers, and the springs were custom built in Montreal. Over-drive and five-speed transmission make it accelerate like a passenger car. There's nothing like it in its class in North America."

Even the wheelchairs, which enter the special vehicle by a hydraulic-operated ramp, are fitted with pneumatic tires.

A recent survey at the Nova Scotia hospital where most patients are mental cases showed that some 130 of the 400 patients could be taken out on occasions. Callow's buses took them to the local baseball games.

"Doctors claimed it was not only good recreation, but the best treatment they could have" he said. "It put them back into circulation."

Many Outings

The coaches carry polio-stricken children, crippled veterans and invalids to hockey games, and on excursions into the country. It is believed that every wheel chair patient in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick has been on at least one outing this year.

Ernie MacLellan of Bass River, N.S., is a good example. Ernie, a veteran at Halifax's Camp Hill Hospital, broke his back and was "out" three times in nine years. Last year, in Callow's buses, he made 23 trips throughout the province.

George Mumford of Halifax is another. George, now 29, became paralyzed at the age of six. He never left home in 21 years. Then a Callow bus took him to a local art school. The school's principal says George will be earning his own living in a year.

British Doctors Deny Charges Of Inhuman Methods

London, (CP)—A blunt suggestion in the British medical journal "Practitioner" that doctors are using human patients as "guinea pigs" in scientific experiments ha provoked widespread indignation among the profession.

The article in the journal's current issue deals with forms of human vivisection and other horror practices in Nazi concentration camps in the last war. Then it declares:

"We should take a lesson from this and give careful thought to the extent to which we are tending to abuse the trust our patients put in us. Without such trust we and our patients are lost. And its loss will never be compensated by that increased knowledge that might arise from human vivisection."

The article mentions one method of investigation called cardiac catheterization, an operation involving the passing of a fine tube through the bloodstream to the heart.

How far, it asks, are doctors justified in submitting patients to experimental procedure which may not be without risk to life?

Patient's Risks

The suggestion appears to be that the search for knowledge takes priority over the welfare of the individual patient," the journal adds. "Knowledge can be bought too dearly. Once the sanctity of the patient's right is questioned there is no telling how rapidly the standards of practice will fall."

It is emphasized that the ethics of the profession frowned on public discussion of such matters. But they denied emphatically that experimental vivisection was practised by them on patients to advance their medical knowledge.

"There is absolutely no truth in the suggestion that human beings are treated as laboratory animals," said a council member of the British Medical Association.

Says Prince Philip Frowns on Crew-Cut

Toronto (CP)—Leslie Higgins, Liverpool - born barber, says the Duke of Edinburgh likes his hair "a bit long, but neat."

And it suits him perfectly, says the 45-year-old snipper. He should know—he cut the Duke's hair in England for 14 years.

Higgins, once barber to the Duke of Kent and the Duke of Gloucester, and to King Carol of Roumania and Paul of Yugoslavia, now is working in a Toronto barber shop.

He plans to offer his services to the Duke during the Royal tour in October.

"It would be nice to get back to the artistic side of hair-cutting," he says. "Canadians just jump into the chair and shout: 'Short, front and back'."

Modern Methods Make Poor Land Produce Good Crops

Bradford, Ont—(CP)—An impoverished 100-acre farm near here is paying off for Jim Steers a 21-year-old farmer with a firm belief in modern methods of agriculture.

The land wasn't much for yield when Jim started working it 12 years ago. Most of it was sloping and every time it rained the topsoil started heading for the hollows. The crops didn't have a chance.

Jim, who had taken short courses at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, invited the college experts to help him. They told him how to map out his farm, how to follow contours, to seed grass waterways and what crops should be planted where. They also gave him a five-year program that has proved successful.

Spruce-Mead, as he calls his holdings, is actually a dairy farm. All the crops are planted with that in mind. Mixed grains and plenty of hay are the main items. He once planted a corn crop but had to give it up. It proved difficult to handle on hilly land even when planted on a contour.

Scientific Use

On one side of his sloping fields this year, he has four or five acres of alfalfa planted in two-year rotation with grain. The lower areas are kept in hay crops as much as possible to prevent erosion. Grass waterways are provided to drain off rain without removing soil.

As well as being a successful hay and grain farmer, Jim has followed the latest methods in cattle raising. Last year he built a loading barn and milking parlor for his dairy herd.

He is also something of a conservationist. Other farmers in the district have started working their farms across the slope.

Hope to Develop New Beef Cattle

Manyberries, Alta., — (CP) — Brahma bulls from India, Canadian buffalo and conventional beef cattle are being bred at the experimental farm here to develop cows that live longer and provide an extra roast or two.

Experiments to develop cattalo —half buffalo and half bull—have been conducted in Canada for more than 20 years without success. Last year herds were shipped here for another try.

So far cattalo bulls have been sterile and the mixed offspring have been born with the tapering hind quarters of the buffalo. However, the long-maned cattalo with the distinctive hump have been able to withstand winter weather better than their beef cattle forebears.

Next year, officials plan to breed their beef bulls with the hybrid calves. If the smaller hindquarters and sterility among the bulls are eliminated, the plan will be a success.

Also planned is cross-breeding of Angus cows and Brahma bulls.

"We might be able to retain all the desirable qualities of beef cattle and gain hardier strains and longevity by the use of Brahma bulls instead of buffalo," superintendent Robert Peters said.

When should a family borrow

A family should borrow only when a loan is the best solution to a money problem. For example, to pay old debts, medical expenses, taxes, fuel, educational or car expenses or repairs. Loans for these reasons are not deficiency, for the money is not used to buy goods in short supply or increase indebtedness.

SOLVING MONEY PROBLEMS

At HFC—Household Finance—we believe a family should borrow only when, by careful planning, the money problem can be resolved, and the loan repaid in an orderly manner. When a family borrows under these circumstances, it is simply "renting" money on terms it can afford. At HFC you may borrow $50, $250, $500 or more on your signature, without bothersome security.

Top-Seeded Stars Take Over In Title Tennis

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 22 (CP)—The Canadian Lawn Tennis championships moved into high gear today with the arrival of the top-ranking competitors.

Fresh from the hair-barly of the tennis wars at Quebec City, a plane load of top-seeded stars blew into town yesterday and almost at once began thwacking their opponents unmercifully.

Canadian Davis cuppers Brendan Macken of Montreal, Lorne Main of Vancouver and Henri Rochon of Montreal all won their second-round men's singles matches. All had drawn first round byes.

Macken defeated Gert Lukk, Sarnia, Ont., 6-1, 6-1. Main stopped Frank Zsiarski, Hamtramck, Mich., 6-2, 6-2, while Rochon topped Mario Paperella, Detroit, 6-0, 6-1.

Pat Macken of Montreal and Lowe of Toronto, who accompanied Davis Cuppers here from Quebec, did not see action yesterday. They were seeded No. 1 and 2 among Canadian entries in the women's singles event.

Tony Vincent of Long Island, N.Y., seeded No. 1 among U.S. starters, saw his first match be scoring a pair of rapid-fire victories after his late arrival.

Vincent knocked off Jim Taylor of Toronto 6-0, 6-0, in the second round of the men's singles and came right back to eliminate Alex Metreck of Detroit 6-1, 6-1 in the third round.

Seymour Greenberg, Chicago, Ill., seeded No. 1 behind Vincent won his only match of the day, stopping Jacques Gigeure of Quebec, 6-2, 6-3.

Leonard Brose, Detroit, who ranks No. 4, was upset by Lorenzo Barclay of Vancouver, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Doris Popple, Des Moines, Iowa, ranked No. 1 among U. S. contestants, easily disposed of Lillian Hartley of Sarnia, Ont., 6-2, 6-1, in a second-round women's singles match.

Marlene Seeks Fourth Title

Kingston, Aug. 22—(CP)—Little Marlene Stewart tomorrow will attempt to add the eastern Canada ladies open championship to the golf titles she has won so far this season.

The five-foot, 17-year-old miss from Guelph, Ont., winner of the 1951 Canadian and Ontario women's championships, will meet leading golfers from Ontario and Quebec in the three-day event at the Cataraqui Golf and Country Club here.

Sixty-three entries have been received, to be whittled to the 16 low gross scorers in one round of match play tomorrow. The championship will be decided in match play Friday and Saturday.

Among those expected to provide stiff competition for the little golfer from Foothill is Dalnty Chriholm, Quebec champion from Montreal's Royal Golf Club.

Suspend Manager For Stalling

Kitchener, Aug. 22—(CP)—Don Gallinger, playing manager of Kitchener Legionnaires of the Intercounty Senior Baseball League, has been indefinitely suspended for stalling for time during a game at Brantford Wednesday night.

Otto Manske, league president, who imposed the suspension, said Gallinger is being held responsible for delaying the league playoff game which was forfeited to Brantford 9-0 by plate umpire Frank Slota.

Science to Aid Star to Break World Record

Edinburgh, Aug. 22 — (CP)—A scientific formula devised by an Oxford University medical professor, points to Roger Bannister, Britain's speed demon, or the other paths, as a cinch to break the world's mile record within a year.

The prediction was made by Dr. R. W. Parnell of Oxford's department of social medicine, at the concluding session here of the British Association. The formula, he said, was based on the scientific relationship of physique to physical attainment.

The professor said he had worked out his yardstick by measuring the length of leg, height, weight and by x-rays the size of hearts of a group of sprinters and middle-distance runners. By lacking the results and applying the formula it was possible to tell whether an athlete would make a good miler or a 100-yard sprinter.

In the case of Bannister, he said, the calculations had produced a figure much higher than for any of the others.

"This man, I predict, will break the mile record at the Helsinki Olympic Games next year."

But to make the prediction a reality, Bannister must beat the record of 4.01.4 set by the Swedish star, Gunder Haegg, in 1946.

Squires Victors Over Phantoms

In the first game of the juvenile playground playoffs last night the Columbian Squires defeated the Phantoms 11 to 7. It was a close game until the end of the fifth inning with the score standing 4 to 3 in favor of the Squires. The winners exploded for four runs in the sixth and three more in the seventh while losers scored three times in the seventh.

The Squires obtained five hits off the left hand slants of "Buddy" Canning. The Squire hitters were Garvin, Fox, Nolan, Bohan and Hughes. The Phantom hitters were Moynes, Wallbridge, Ashley and Canning. Lally pitched the fine game for the winners and was in control throughout.

Bobby Green Wins Batting Title In Close Race

After a season-long battle in which the lead shifted several times, the Toronto Coca Company emblematic of the Commercial AA Softball League batting championship was won by youthful Bobby Green of Bakelite.

The race was so close that a winner could not be declared until the final out of the final game of the season. One more hit by either the second or third place men could have changed the whole standing.

Bobby, in addition to being the batting champion, also set a league record for strikouts in his role as hurler for the Bakelite entry. Over the 16-game schedule, in which he pitched 118 1/3 innings, he threw the third strike by no less than 175 of the opposing batsmen, a remarkable feat in itself.

The trophy will be presented at the annual Commercial Softball League banquet in the near future.

FRANKFORD

Flyers, Trenton Eliminated In Softball Playoffs

Frankford—Monday night saw the end of Trenton's dominance of the Trent Valley Softball League for this season, as both Trenton Wesse Motors and the R.C.A.F. Flyers were eliminated in the first round of the Trent Valley Semi-finals.

In Frankford, the homesteaders edged the Flyers by a 3-2 count, even though Vic Burtt, Flyers lefty tossed two-hit ball. Frankford took the lead in the third, as two Frankford runs crossed on Appleby's walk, Bedard's triple and an infield error.

The Flyers bounced back in the fifth with two runs, as the Frankford shortstop threw wildly to first with the bases loaded, on what would have been the third out.

Frankford went ahead in the bottom of the fifth, when Dodd singled, advanced to second and went to third on a wild pitch. However, in behind the play, Dodds, Flyer third sacker interfered with the runner, attempting to block him off the base, but Steenburg sent Gilmour on home on the interference.

Burtt almost spoiled the count, as he sprinted for home on a ball which Murphy hit far over centre field. However, the Frankford relief receiver recovered in time to put the tag on the sliding Burtt. Another Air Force rally was quelled in the ninth, as Auld was tagged at third, trying to take an extra base on Jarrett's single. Umpire Ethier was right on the job at third base for the call, and was bowled over by the runner, and Frankford third baseman as they came sliding into the bag.

Burtt, pitching for the R.C.A.F., deserved a much better fate, as he hurled two hit ball and struck out thirteen. McComb, giving up six hits, kept them well scattered, and was exceptionally tough when the chips were down. He struck out seven Flyer batsmen.

Wooler 10—Treaty 2

Over in Wooler, a capacity crowd saw the home team eliminate the Trenton Wesse Motors, champions of last year, by a decisive 10-3 count. The issue was never in doubt, and except for some brilliant fielding by Harry Farr in the clutch, the score would have been much higher. McColl pitched for the winners.

A cheer went up from the crowd as the score of the Frankford-Air Force game was announced.

Wooler and Frankford now meet in a best-of-five series. The first game scheduled for Wooler Wednesday night.

Flyers Protest Softball Game

Frankford—A protest has been lodged by the R.C.A.F. Flyers entry in the Trent Valley Softball League, against an alleged breach of rules by one of the players in the Frankford-R.C.A.F. game Monday night in Frankford. A Frankford base runner was sent in home by the umpire, following interference by an Air Force fielder as the runner was attempting to reach third base on a passed ball by the Air Force catcher. It is expected that the meeting to settle the protest will not be held until President Bill Barnett returns from his holidays Saturday. This will temporarily tie up the Trent Valley League Playoffs.

BABIES' BLOOD

Stockholm (CP) — Swedish doctors report successful results in 95 per cent of cases treated for Rh-negative blood. Treatment at maternity hospitals involves immunizing expectant mothers and substituting blood in the "Rh-babies."

Bromby on Grill For Three Hours

Toronto, Aug. 22 (CP) — John Bromby, apprentice jockey, was cross-examined for three hours Tuesday by the Ontario Racing Commission at a probe into allegedly fixed races.

He was one of two witnesses during the day. Earlier, blonde model Betty Spencer, 25, formerly of Winnipeg and on $1,000 bail as a material witness told commission she knew nothing about any fixed races. She was released from bail.

Bromby, under indefinite suspension from Ontario tracks, was making his third appearance at the hearing. All officials would say Tuesday was that the investigation of his case was not been completed.

Bromby rode North Drive when the horse won during the Fort Erie race meeting this summer. Large sums of money were reported to have been collected on the winner.

Upset Features Junior Tennis

Toronto, Aug. 22—(CP)—Bob Bates of Ottawa scored an upset victory over Gord Daly, fourth-seeded boy's player, in the Ontario Junior Tennis Championships Tuesday. Play was confined to singles matches because of rain.

Apart from the upset all other favorites advanced.

Results included:

W. Brown, Hamilton, defeated Bill Jolly, St. Thomas, 6-0, 6-2.

Batawa, Redmen Tied for Fourth

Batawa Shoemen defeated Napanee Athletics by a 6-1 score in a SCentral Ontario Baseball League game in Batawa last night.

The victory drew the shoemen into a fourth-place tie with the Belleville Redmen.

SWEDISH CROPS

Stockholm (CP)—Dry cold weather in the spring led to forecasts of small crops in Sweden this year, but surveys now show the yields should be above average. Considerable improvement has been shown and harvesting began at the end of July.

GREASY FINGERS

Tanners use great quantities of cod liver oil to finish leather.

More than 20,000 fans, largest crowd ever to turn out for a football game in Manitoba, saw Indian Jack Jacobs lead his Winnipeg Blue Bombers to a 12-1 win over touring Toronto Argonauts, thus ending a football era for Argos, who had never hitherto been beaten by a Western Canada team. The dominion champs looked helpless against Jacobs' passing which rolled Bombers for 17 first downs and completed the astonishing total of 18 of 28 passes and were bewildered by Jacobs' manoeuvres in the backfield. Complete Plans For Playoffs In AA Softball

Playoff dates for teams in the 'AA' section of the Belleville Commercial Softball League were arranged at a special meeting of the executive along with managers and coaches of the several teams interested last night in the office of the Belleview Printers on Coleman Street. There was a full attendance and the discussion was lengthy and sometimes warm before a decision was reached. Don Lee, president of the association presided.

It was finally agreed that Bakelite and Belle Cleaners would play a two-of-three series for the right to proceed into the OASA Intermediate "AA" playdowns. The first game of this series will be played under the lights at Alemita Field this Wednesday evening at 8.30 p.m. with the second game to be played Friday night at the same field and at the same time. If a third game is necessary it will be played on Monday night.

Avons, Motors Clash

On Thursday night Avon Jewellers and Belleville Motor Coach will start a series of two games, runs to count, for third and fourth position, the second game to be played on Saturday afternoon. The game on Thursday night will start at the home plate and at that time the draw for the $50 bond will be held. All those names excepting the one on Saturday will be played under the lights.

The Cleaners section of the league will be entertained by the loop at a banquet, the time and place to be arranged later. Each team of the senior sections, both "A" and "AA" have donated money to sponsor this affair along with members of the executive and other donations will be accepted. At the banquet the kids will be presented with their pennants, prizes and trophies and a grand night is expected. The Cleaners league has been a decided success due to the sponsorship of teams by leading firms in the city.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

ROYALS HERE TOMORROW!

The Redmen's game with the Smiths Falls Royals set for the down east diamond tonight has been called off, but the second - piece squad from Knotty Lee's ballywick will be here in full force tomorrow night to take on the Men o' Wingo. The Fallsmen have not been doing so well of late and have been taking more shellackings than they figure is their share. However they still hold down that second slot and have no intentions of relinquishing it to the Kingston Leafs.

Meanwhile the Ratway threat to the Redmen's fourth place post is becoming a serious one. The Kingston defeat and Shoemen arm of Monday night shaved the Red's lead a full game, and with but a scant two weeks of play left in the schedule, it will behoove them to get crackin' and do something about winning a ball game.

At this stage of the schedule game it is not wise to take anything for granted. Playoffs are looming up and from here in all squads will be out there, battling to grab one of the berths. Early schedule performances are much water under the bridge and the victory jade will turn her smiles wherever she sees fit. Front Brockville can be beaten, and it wouldn't come as a surprise to see any of the lowly squads thru the trick. Besides the slate is clean when the playoffs begin and many a proud leap-frader has bitten the dust at the hands of so-called underdogs when the chips are down.

WELL-DESERVED AWARD!

A hard-hitting pitcher in softball or baseball is something of a rarity in these days of sport speed. But when you get one that combines leadership qualities in both, you've got a downright novelty let alone a valuable asset to any team.

And Hedley Barbeau, teen-aged star of the Rathlite entry in the Commercial Softball League "AA" section, newly-crowned batting champion of that division not only has these qualities but other attributes that mark him as being one of the outstanding younger stars in the city.

Bobby won the Conger Coal Trophy for leading his section in batting with a .466 percentage. His pitching has bordered on the sensational at times, his best feat of the season being his 2-0 shutout of the city champion Glen Roys in an exhibition tilt in which he whiffed 13 and allowed but two scratch hits. During the season's schedule play he struck out a total of 176 enemy batsmen. His record is ten wins and six losses.

Bobby has more than athletic prowess to mark him as one of the most personable youngsters in the city. His achievements on the softball diamond can be laid to a strife. He shows no sign yet of being "swell-headed". We have known Bobby for some years and say without hesitation there is no finer young gentleman on or off the diamond than this good-looking scion of a well-known athletic family.

Bobby is the epitome of sportsmanship. He took his defeats with a smile and his victories with undemonstrative elation. He used the type to blame a loss on the shortcomings of team-mates. His philosophy is "You can't win all of them, or there would be no competition."

Sig is a football star of no mean ability. With Gary Schreiber, a backfield mate, he carried the colors of St. Michaels Academy to many a gridiron victory. Deep in this department's secret heart, we have often felt a twinge of regret that Bobby did not turn his pitching prowess to baseball. We felt, and still feel, the young left-hander would have developed into an outstanding hurler on the bigger diamond.

Bobby comes by his athletic ability "honestly". Bill Green, well-known hockey star of "way back when" is his father. And despite the fact that Bill modestly admits "the kid is pretty good," he is no better than any other "pop" and nurses a secret pride in the fact that "That's my boy". And who can blame him?

To sum it up, the award of the batting championship trophy of the "AA" section "couldn't have gone to a nicer youngster."

NO, NOT THIS!

It could be that Lee (The Leer) Henning's facial grimaces were too much for the hard-rock from down under, Fred Atkins. Or, could maybe the "villains" of the last two wrestling pieces between Hamilton's Golden Boys, Mike and Ben Sharpe fell out regarding strategy during combat, or failure or plans as drawn up in private sundials.

In any event, Atkins dug deeply into the ramlin' bag of bash-'em-and-bang-'Em graduates of the College of Applied Pachyderm in quest of a new partner and look what he came up with! None other than the masked and mighty Marvel of Stanley Mazey McLean. The Marvel is not only a graduate of the aforementioned collection, but he wrote several amendments to the constitution after he was named head of the mayhem department.

With the acquisition of the Marvel and his Shadow, Atkins figures the Sharps will be two flats come next Friday when they clash in a team match in Memorial Arena. But Ben and Mike are readying themselves. They are taking special lessons from a trained octopus so they can handle six arms and legs at once instead of the usual four. Pat Flanagan takes on McLean as a warmer-upper while Tommy O'Toole meets popular Lou Schonberg.

Lacrosse

Peterborough, Aug. 22—(CP)—Peterborough Petes Tuesday night took the first game of their best-of-five quarter-final series against Fergus Thistles 11-2 in the Senior Lacrosse Association playoffs.

The Petes took the lead in the second quarter and steadily increased it for the decisive win.

Hunt Slater scored three goals to lead the Petes while Emmet Creighton, Curly Mason and Bob Thorpe shot two each. Singles went to Harry Wipper and D. Vitarelli.

Fergus scorers were Harry Kazarian and Don Campbell.

Second game of the series will be played in Fergus tonight.

Indians Blank Senators 6-0 While Yanks Hammer Tigers To Maintain Sizzling Pace

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated From Sports Writer)

Bob Feller has reached the first of two goals set before the start of the 1951 season.

The 32-year-old Cleveland righthander set 20 victories and a world series triumph as his prime targets for the season.

Feller realized his first ambition last night as he became the major's first 20-game winner and the way the Indians are travelling these days he stands a good chance of attaining the other.

The no-hit master pitched the Indians to a 6-0 triumph over Washington Senators to preserve Cleveland's one-game edge over the runner-up New York Yankees. The Yanks hammered Detroit Tigers 11-4, while St. Louis Browns upset the third-place Boston Red Sox 6-4, and Chicago White Sox defeated Philadelphia Athletics 13-3 in other American League games.

In the National League, New York Giants stretched their winning streak to 10 games, beating Cincinnati Reds 7-4. Philadelphia Phils nipped Chicago Cubs 3-2 in 13 innings completing a suspended game of July 22 and then downed the Cubs 6-1 in the regular scheduled game. Boston Braves clipped Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1. Rain washed out a game between St. Louis and Brooklyn in the third inning.

Feller pitched only six singles and was in command throughout. It is Feller's first 20-victory season since 1946 and his sixth in 13 seasons—a feat matched by only five other American League pitchers: Cy Young, Walt Johnson, Lefty Grove, Wes Ferrell and Eddie Plank.

Larry Doby hit his 19th homer for the winners in the seventh. The loss was Washington's 10th straight.

Yanks Smack 17

Yogi Berra, Gene Woodling and Johnny Mize led the Yanks' 17-hit attack against the Tigers. Berra, poled his third homer in as many games to open the Yank scoring. Woodling drove home four runs on as many hits and Mize batted in five-run fourth inning with a two-run homer.

Jim McDonald turned back the Red Sox on two hits at St. Louis. The Browns clubbed a trio of Boston pitchers for 10 hits.

Chicago ran up an 8-0 lead over the A's in the first two innings to win in a breeze. Earle Alkma, who took over in the third from Saul Rogovin, gained credit for his fifth victory without a loss.

The Giants poled three home runs in the eighth inning and scored six runs to beat the Reds. Homers by Ed Stanky and Whitey Lockman tied the score at 4-4 and Wes Westrum followed with a three-run blast off Frank Smith to win the game.

Bill Nicholson walked with the bases loaded and none out in the 12th inning to force home Philadelphia's winning run against the Cubs to complete the suspended game. Bubba Church was the winner and Monk Dubiel was the loser.

Ken Johnson, with help from Church squared his record at 4-4 in the nightcap. Ralph Caballero, with three hits, led the Phils' 13-hit attack against Cal McLish.

Jim Wilson turned in his first complete game triumph for the Braves in stopping the Pirates at Boston. Wilson scattered eight hits including a homer run by Joe Garagiola.

Tommy Anderson Gets Big Contract

Lebanon A. Reid, president of Moncton Hawks club of the Maritime Major Hockey League, said Tuesday night he had air mailed the "biggest contract ever offered a coach in the Maritimes" to Tommy (Cowboy) Anderson, of Drumheller, Alta.

Anderson, former coach of Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League, agreed to terms by telephone several days ago, Reid said. He declined to reveal the salary the former National Hockey League player would receive but said it included "substantial" bonuses based on the position in which the team finished in the league standings.

Narrow Field For Baseball Boss To Three Names

By JOE REICHLER

New York, Aug. 22—(AP)—The new baseball commissioner, who may be named at the Major League joint meeting in Chicago Sept. 20, will be either Warren Giles, Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio or Ford Frick.

In a meeting here yesterday, the club owners narrowed the field of candidates down to these three from the Associated Press learned today. The owners also voted that the executive council call a meeting for Sept. 20 to elect a czar with increased powers and a larger salary than any of his predecessors. However, the fact that three names remain, does not mean that one must be elected commissioner. Happy Chandler, the ousted commissioner, was a dark horse when he was elected.

Del Webb, vice-president of the New York Yankees and chairman of the screening committee, announced at the close of yesterdays session that the field had been whittled down from 11 to five.

It was learned on good authority, however, that two of the five Webb had in mind were Douglas MacArthur and Milton Eisenhower, president of Penn State University. The others were Lausche, Giles and Frick. Giles is president of Cincinnati Reds and Frick is president of the National League.

Eisenhower and MacArthur could still be considered last-minute candidates if either decides to throw his hat into the ring. It is now, both have said they felt "honored but could not accept the position." However, it was felt in some quarters that they might change their minds.

GOOD footballers and hockey players have made new and greater names for themselves in the field of government during their postcareers. Similarly, good paddlers and scullers make good businessmen and the commercial world welcomes them with open arms. The same drive and tenacity which won on the water, ice or playing field still sustains our athletes when the glamour days are done. A few months ago, in this column, we endeavored to do justice to a few of the Forces' athletes who are now prominent men in Canada's business. Here are other names you know.

The Ice Man

One of the outstanding one-two men of the Boston Bruins was Wilf (Ice Man) Malles Cowley. For years he travelled and played with Clapper, Shore, Weiland and the rest of those great Bruin teams. Bill Cowley still holds the NHL record for highest number of points, 594 (195 goals, 399 assists in regular season play, 12 goals, 34 assists in Stanley Cup playoffs). Today, at 39, Bill lives in Ottawa with his family (two girls and a boy) and is manager of the Ottawa office, Lands and Forests Department, Provincial Government.

Reginald "Hooky" Smith went a long way after he starred with the Granites when they became Olympic Hockey Champions in 1924. The centre of the "Big 5" line of Stewart, Smith and Siebert, Hooky is his greatest days was the guiding light of the old Ottawa Senators of Montreal. Today, Hooky Smith (48) lives and works in Montreal as President of the Smith Sanitary Supply Company. He has one daughter, Barbara, age 16.

The Water Boys

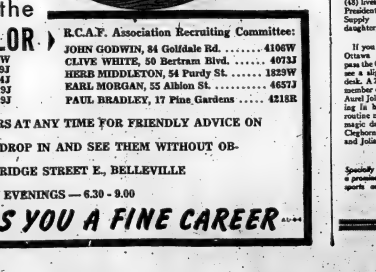
It's twenty days and years since Joe Wright, Jr., took his second oil for the Diamond Cook at Henley, England, and brought these boys to Canada. Still active on the gridiron and in the water affairs of Argonauts, Joe Wright (45) is a senior executive with the Wawaset Fuel Company at Montreal.

Denis Barchey, a prominent paddler in the thirties, out of St.-Lambert, Quebec, remembers the "day of the big wind" (1930), at Hamilton Bay when the British Empire Games were held. Many of the boats were swamped but Barchey and company won the race 4's. A winner of the Eastern Intermediate Singles at London, Denis Barchey (39) has flown 40,000 miles in two years as Regional Public Relations Officer for T.C.A.

A long-time member of the Argonaut Rugby and Rod Denison (1931-37), the well known clothier. A stickler for precision and helpers on the water, Denison (41) recalls an inquisitive step too many off the dock in the early spring. Cliff Lake Ontario was so respecter of Argonauts.

Gridiron Greats

The names Frank Turnbull and Brian Timmis will bring back memories of the Terrible Tigers of the '30's. Turnbull, the long boomer of many a tenacious afternoon, is now an executive with the CPR, as "Old Man of the Mountain". Timmis (39) is industrious as ever as Supervisor of Sales for Calvert Distillers.



One of the greatest Canadian football players of all time was Harry "Black" Batstone of Queen's. Today Batstone (52) is a roaring doctor at the Ontario Hospital, Kingston, and practises his profession within a quarter mile of the scene of his greatest triumphs.

Time marches on!

Bob Murphy Predicts KO In Seven Bettors Switch Odds to Challenger

By MURRAY [illegible]

New York, Aug. 22 — (AP) — Confident Bob Murphy predicts he will knock out light heavyweight king Joe Maxim and become the new champion tonight.

"I'm going to knock him out within seven rounds, and with a left hook to the body," said the husky, hard-hitting San Diego redhead as he awaited the 10 p.m. EDT, starting gong for the 15-round title scrap in Madison Square Garden. The bout will be broadcast and telecast.

"I'll win—I've got to win," was the way Maxim put it. The champ, thy champion is defending his crown for the first time since he lifted it from Eddie Mills with a 15-round kayo in London 10 months ago.

The bettors lean to Murphy. Solid support for the challenger in the last few days has zoomed him from an underdog to an 8 to 5 favorite.

Maxim's lack-lustre workouts are the reason for the switch in odds. When the 34-year-old made after Maxim took a 15-round pasting from Ezzard Charles, champion was rated a 2-1 choice to whip the powerful but crude southpaw challenger.

Slow in Drills

But in his recent drills, Maxim looked slow afoot and he'll need shifty feet to elude the ball-like rushes of Murphy.

Maxim is the key to the fight. Everyone knows what Murphy can do. The former sailor boxer is with a relentless attack. He has a neat left hook and a solid knockout wallop in his left hand. He's easy to hit and he's willing to take a few punches to get in one swipe with his left hook or uppercut. His right hand is feeble.

The big question is how good is Maxim. He is close to the fighter who stopped Mills or 75 percent as good, he should be able to handle Murphy as easily as Harry (Kid) Matthews did last March. The old Maxim would keep Murphy off-balance and punish him with left jabs, fast hooks and straight right crosses, and get away from or tie up his opponent's payoff left.

Although Maxim is only 29, same as the challenger, he has been fighting professionally for 12 years. Murphy, who started hooking while in the navy, has been battling for pay only six years.

Murphy has knocked out 55 of his 65 foes, lost five bouts, and been stopped twice, by cuts. Maxim in compiling a "10-17 record has fought the toughest of them including Jersey Joe Walcott, Charles and other top heavies. Maxim has been kayoed only once, by Curtis (Hatchet Man) Sheppard, and he beat Sheppard in a return.

Matthews Stops Basora

Portland, Ore., Aug. 21 (AP) —Harry (Kid) Matthews, 172, Seattle extended his knockout string to seven by stopping Jose Basora, 173, New York, in 2:33 minutes of the fourth round last night.

Referee Eddie Volk stopped the fight after Matthews had delivered a terrific right cross to Basora and floored his Puerto Rican opponent for the third time.

A crowd of 4,246 watched the massacre.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT
(For Hack Fullerton, Jr.)

New York, Aug. 22—(AP)—About two more false alarms and baseball fans are going to lose all interest in the name of the next commissioner.

Coming out of a hotel yesterday after a long, hard day of riding herd on the assembled magnates we ran squarely into a stocky little man wearing a broad smile and a straw skimmer.

"Who did they elect?" demanded Gene Sarazen, who probably was told with perahps a touch of asperity.

"What do those guys think they're doing—electing the president of the U. S.?" chuckled Gene, who was something of a golfer in his day. "I'll bet they don't name themselves till the day before the world series."

That's all we would need.

Some Benefit

However, Chuck Comiskey, youthful vice-president of Chicago White Sox, came out of the latest meeting feeling that the extended get-togethers of the owners of both big leagues are having a salutary effect generally and will work for the betterment of the game.

"We've been talking things over freely and in an excellent spirit," he said. "For one thing, I believe now that the fellows in the National League understand the American League better—and perhaps vice versa. It is bound to be a good thing."

Some owners never quite got over the feeling that they had been "taken" by Commissioner Landis when he threw the book at them including Jerry Joe Wilcott, Charles and other top heavies. Maxim has been keyed only once, by Curtis (Hatchet Man) Sheppard, and he beat Sheppard in a return.

TO DEFEND HEAVYWEIGHT CROWN IN U. S.

Randolph Turpin, holder of world's middleweight title, is seen waving good-by to admirers in London, Eng., prior to his departure for U. S. with his manager, George Middleton, right, where he will meet Sugar Ray Robinson in a September 12th title match in New York. In one of the ring's most stunning upsets, brown-skinned 24-year-old Englishman hammered out a 15-round decision over defending champion Sugar Ray Robinson of New York to become the first British-born world middleweight champ since Bruce Woodcock won the title in 1941. Although betting is going behind Robinson to reverse the verdict, confident Turpin believes "I shall take the title back with me."—Central Press Canadian.

Baseball Midgets Old Stuff-Author

New York, Aug. 22 (CP) — Bill Veeck's stunt of using a midget in baseball is nothing new, author James Thurber had the idea more than 10 years ago.

Thurber, who has written a number of short stories including The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" and "You Could Look It Up" was surprised when he picked up a newspaper and saw a picture of a midget batting in St. Louis Browns' uniform.

Veeck, fun-minded owner of the Browns, signed up 26-year-old Eddie Gaedel, a three-foot, seven-inch mite and used him as a pinch-batter against Detroit Tigers Sunday.

A crowd of 18,369, biggest of the Browns' home season, roared when the 50 pound midget went to the plate swinging a midget bat and walked on four straight pitches off astonished Bob Cain of the Tigers.

Thurber thought of using a midget in 1940 when he wrote "You could look it up." In the story he tells of a midget who joins a major league club in the thick of a pennant fight 40 years ago.

Thurber's midget, Pearl De Mouville is noted for the sole purpose of drawing walks. He has great success but in a key game the midget's temptation to hit gets the best of him. After the count goes to three-and-nothing, Pearl swings at a bad ball, coats the team the victory and is thrown into centre field by his irate manager.

Thurber said yesterday at his home in Cornwall, Conn., many of his "friends have been asking whether Veeck consulted him about the midget idea.

"Frankly, I've never met the man," Thurber says. But he isn't going to sue. With a chuckle Thurber said "it's good publicity for me."

Learns Base 'Em

The American League Tuesday banned playing midgets.

Will Harridge, president of the league, ruled that St. Louis Browns could not use the three-foot, seven-inch Eddie Gaedel in future games.

The 50-pound mite was inserted into the Browns' line-up as a "pinch batter" against Detroit Tigers at St. Louis last Sunday.

In St. Louis, owner Bill Veeck of Browns said he was "grieved" by the ruling but he would not protest.

Added Veeck: "I assume they feel that Gaedel provided unfair competition.

In his appearance, Gaedel, 26, was given a base on balls as the first batter in the first inning for the Browns. The midget was replaced on the base lines by Jim Delsing as a pinch runner. Delsing won 6-2.

Canuck Driver Enters New York Speedboat Race

New York—Canadian sportsman, Art Hatch, Hamilton, Ont., became the first Dominion motorboat driver to enter the fifth annual Harmsworth Trophy race around Manhattan Island when his entry was officially accepted here by the American Inboard Association, sponsor of the event.

Hatch entered three 225 cubic inch hydroplanes, "Costa Lota", "Lota Costa" and "Costa Livia." All three boats are currently campaigning in Canada under the banner of the Hamilton Boating Federation.

Hatch will compete against a top field of inboard motorboats, including Charles Moyer's "M-T-Mo," recent winner of the Miami-Palm Beach Marathon. Harwood's Trophy race, a 30-mile dash around Manhattan Island, will be held Sunday, Sept. 9.

Like The Musical Old Grey Dobbin, Hockey 'Aint What She Used to Be'

Toronto, Aug. 22—(CP)—Is professional hockey an unsportsmanlike game which develops savagery and brainless bruising in place of intelligence?

Hear more than it's ever been, says Conn Smythe.

The general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs told an interviewer yesterday that "in hockey as in other things, we can thank God that things aren't as they were."

He was commenting on recent statements of Frank Fredrickson of Vancouver, a great amateur and pre centre star years ago. Fredrickson said more illegal tactics are prevalent in today's sport and intelligence was being sacrificed for the "brainless bruiser."

Smythe said he remembered Fredrickson as "the equal to the greatest amateur centres of all time," when the latter played with Winnipeg Falcons in 1920.

"Has Short Memory"

"But what he knows about pro hockey shouldn't be judged on what he did at Pittsburgh when he managed, coached and played with the Pittsburgh Professional League club' in 1929-30.) Under his leadership, practically a vacuum existed in the rink."

Smythe added that Fredrickson "must have had a conveniently short memory about unsportsmanlike tactics."

During the time he was with Boston Bruins and just after he left, there were a couple of incidents such as Eddie Shore leaving off on Ace Bailey (of Toronto Leafs) . . . I think we have thinned out such happenings . . ."

Smythe said the game has changed greatly since that time. Sport was "like any other business" and "if you don't streamline your business over the years you're going to go under . . .

"Hockey now was a major series like the Stanley Cup final between Canadiens and Leafs last year. It had everything. And more people see hockey in Montreal and Toronto in one season than see all the baseball played in the whole of Canada in the time of Fredrickson."

Dutchies Stall, Umps Award Game To Brantford Sox

A baseball game delayed once by rain and again by the Kitchener Legionnaires was awarded to Brantford Red Sox last night by give the Sox a 2-1 lead in games in their best-of-seven semi-finals in the senior Intercounty League playoffs.

Three thousands fans left the Brantford park with two out in the bottom of the fourth inning, and with Brantford leading 5-0. The umpires ruled that Kitchener deliberately stalled the game in hopes that rain might put a finish to the contest.

Meanwhile in London, a three-run rally in the eighth inning gave London Majors a 3-2 victory over Guelph Maple Leafs in their best-of-three semi-final series. London leads the series 1-0.

The Sox-Legionnaires game was delayed on account of rain in the second half of the fourth inning. Gord Dyment, who had been pitching for Kitchener, Hugh McGillivray. McGillivray threw the ball away and two runners scored.

The umpires, after conferring with Lipka and Gallinger, awarded the game to the Red Sox. The decision was made in a conference at the pitching mound at which some shoving took place.

Bisons Edge Leafs In Twelve 3-2; Birds Clip Wings

(By The Associated Press)

Archie Wilson's prolific clutch hitting for Buffalo Bisons is making him one of the most feared batmen in the International League.

The hard hitting Buffalo outfielder became the first player to drive in 100 runs when he blasted his 38th home run last night. The circuit clout came in the 12th inning and gave the Bisons a 3-2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs.

Wilson is now only three home runs behind the Baltimore Orioles' Marv Rickert, who leads the league in round-trippers with 39.

The belting Bison also possesses the most hits in the loop, 163, and is the second-leading batter with an average of .315.

All of Buffalo's runs came in the result of homers as Wally Post socked a two-master for the first frame with a man on base. Johnny Ostrowski bashed a sixth inning home run for Toronto that tied the score and enabled Wilson to break the deadlock. Ray Shore, making his 90th pitching appearance, suffered the setback, while Mike Schultz gained the triumph.

Bill Baker and Loren Babe sparked Syracuse Chiefs to a 7-4 victory over the Ottawa Giants. Baker smacked a grand-slam home run in the opening frame and Babe rapped out four hits in five trips as safty Bill Miller won his 13th game of the season.

Baltimore clipped the second place Rochester Red Wings 3-2 behind Jake Schmitt's seven-hit performance. A home run by Damon Phillips aided Schmitt in attaining his 10th victory.

The Montreal — Springfield game was rained out.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A marine writes that he attended a party while on leave. His objective, it seems, was to establish a bleachhead. But they pinned him down to a bridge game.

In one of the deals he held the south hand shown here:

♠ A K 8 5 3
♥ J 7 6 4
♣ A Q

He opened the bidding with two hearts. This was as it should be. His hand contains a count of nine tricks. With two suits of different lengths, first bid the longer.

West stuck in a defensive bid of two spades. Whether or not the west player had enough for such a bid is not the point. North passed and the east opponent also passed.

With the bid of two spades dumped in his lap, south saw a chance to bat a big hunk of penalty points. So, he doubled. But when west passed, north butted in with three clubs and west got out of the hook.

The marine was too polite to say anything at the time. But he wants me to tell him what was wrong with the picture. It seems that north believed his double was fine a bakeoff.

The rule is: When partner has not yet bid, a double made at the first opportunity is for takeout if the doubled bid is less than four in a suit (not more than three in a suit).

However, there is one time this does not apply. It is when the double is by a player who has opened with two in a suit. A double by an opener of two in a suit is always for penalty.

The logic in this is easy to see. An opening of two in a suit shows a powerful hand of some kind. Nine tricks at least are shown by such an opener; a hand that should make a game.

If he bids again he says he prefers to play it at a game bid. But if he doubles instead he says he can make more by defeating the opponents. Against him, defenders come in at their peril.

Like challenging a tank with a peashooter.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma yawned a polite yawn to herself in back of her fingers, went to pop, kiss, pop, kiss and such a dull day, I feel if I dont do something this evening I'll bust with boredom. We mite go to see a picture, but there's nothing good in town, she said.

That's a break, pop said.

His favorite saying at home, and ma said, It's not too late to get up a bridge game, but you played bridge Monday, and you're like a rock of Jibralter when it comes to playing more than once a week. Oh-dear, there's not a single thing on the radio tonite, and still less on television. Of course I suppose we could call somebody up and ask them to come over, she said.

I mite call up Herb Lewin, he always has a fund of amusing stories, pop said, and ma said, They mite amuse the denizens of a smoking car. Even Benny could think of a more brilliant suggestion than that, she said.

Sure, ma, I said, I'll call up some of the fellows to come over and we'll have a minstrel show and you can have a swell time just laffing at us, I said, and ma said, Now do you think that's practical?

Sure it is, ma, if you talk to their mothers and promise to send them home erly, I said, and pop said, It seems to me I've heard of people who just sit and reed at nite.

Why William, how wonderful, that just reminds me, ma said. My book is due back at the lyberry tomorrow, and this is a golden opportunity for me to finish it before exter dues pile up on it, she said, and pop said, Lond live litterature.

And he kept on reeding his paper and ma got her book and I red volume 6 of my Junior Encyclopedia of Nolledge till I had to go to bed.

ABOLISH SYSTEM

Tokyo, Aug. 21 — (AP) — The Japanese government has announced it will abolish the "conscribble yen" system after Dec. 31. This special currency was created for the convenience of foreign traders in obtaining daily necessities, so that they could avoid the red tape of converting dollars into regular yen and since they are ineligible to use occupation military scrip.

EVIDENCE OF PRAIRIE'S PIONEER PAST

Relics of Saskatchewan's pioneer past are the house, top, and the huge millstone, above. The house, about six miles south of Kamsack, is a Doukhobor prayer house, the centre of a pioneer village deserted in 1912. Official residence of Peter Veregin, spiritual leader of the sect, when he visited the district, the Dukhobors did not transfer it along with the rest of the community buildings when they moved to British Columbia. The millstone, erected near what was site of village of Yorkton from 1882 to 1890, now stands amid the rubble of the abandoned village, where it was used to grind corn. The village is now three miles away. To Mrs. Clift Shaw and son Douglas it is an awe-inspiring relic of the days before the prairies knew machinery. — Central Press Canadian.

AT THE BELLE

A stirring and unusual motion picture which has received widespread critical acclaim, while setting attendance records in many major American cities will open today at the Belle Theatre. The release receiving such impressive credentials is W. Somerset Maugham's "Trio", a film version of three of the celebrated authors most exciting stories.

Many Maugham tales have been successfully transferred to the screen and among the outstanding works that have been enthusiastically received by moviegers are "The Razor's Edge," "Of Human Bondage," and "The Letter." In addition to Maugham's narrative powers, "Trio" is abbetted with a large stellar cast which includes such accomplished performers as Jean Simmons, Michael Rennie and Anne Crawford. Miss Simmons has already displayed her talent to advantage in "The Great Expectations" and "Hamlet" but her performance in "Trio" is reported to establish a high-water mark for her young career.

If the unanimous advance reports about "Trio" can be trusted then Mr. Maugham and his people have brought us a delightful package of romance, charm and drama that will prove to be an illuminating piece of screen fare.

FIFTEEN HOMELESS

Toronto, Aug. 22—(CP)—Fifteen persons fled a fire which gutted the top floor and caused severe damage on other floors of a three-storey rooming house last night. Police had difficulty restraining occupants frm retuning to the building to save their belongings.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 22 (AP) — Today's lesson in the problems of Hollywood comes from a sharp-looking redhead named Gale Robbins.

Now don't go away in a huff. Miss Robbins is serious about this subject, since it concerns her future in the movies. Who knows?—the gamification of this subject might even concern the future of the entire film industry.

Here's her argument:

"Sex is in a rut on the screen. Every time screen writers portray a sexy girl on the screen, they immediately place a bottle in her hand, a gun in her fist or make her appear — unwed — in some man's boudoir. Shame on the screen writers!

Good and Attractive

"Why does a girl in a movie have to be bad if she's sexy? Why can't she be good and yet have a wholesome inner warmth that makes her attractive to men, why does the other woman have to be the sexy one and the heroine a wide-eyed sexless creature? It's an insult to American womanhood."

Miss Robbins sees a good number of movie scripts. In her search for roles she invariably passes up the routine ingenue parts, even though they usually offer more footage on the screen than the parts she takes.

Miss Robbins gets the kind of role she's talking about in her current film "The Legend." She plays a fiery damsel who is courted by Anthony (Valentino) Dexter.

Benny's Plaudits

The other day Jack Benny delivered high praise of Jerry Lewis, the screwball member of the Martin and Lewis team. Said Benny: "He is the greatest new comedian I have seen, since Ed Wynn, who in his prime was the funniest man I have ever known."

But that doesn't stop Benny from ribbing the younger comic. When he returned from Korea, he called up Lewis and said with mock disgust, "I don't mind your breaking my theatre records in New York, Chicago and Detroit, but to do it in such a sneaky way—when I was in Korea entertaining the boys."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, Aug. 23

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—You can score gains today if you adhere to your native chart that suggests shrewd managing, study before acting. Mere doing won't do, it must be intelligently directed.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—The actual putting over ideas and plans is small in consideration to the research for the important know-how. Inner conflict may try to prevent proper doing. Avoid this with common sense.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Promising outlook for the intelligent student of thought and management. Superlatives can be forgotten, apply good philosophy flavored with tact, business sense. You have them.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Arrest non-essentials, get down to facts, not fancies. Obstacles in A.M. may tend to cause upsets if you aren't on guard. Breather during P.M. should be enough to strengthen, gains.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—Day comprised of many angles, some good, others adverse. Hold decisions until well informed, right way revealed, then go at it in true Leo fashion to success. Accept challenges.

August 24 to September 23—(Virgo)—Don't take anything but right conditions to launch your plans today. Rather anchor awhile in calm atmosphere until stable outlook appears. P.M. offers new vistas in the farseeing natives.

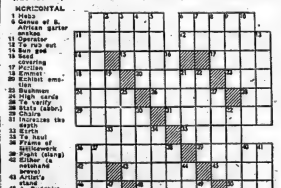
September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Personal harmony (work to maintain it) and individual freedom needs to enact plans, desires. It's possible if you are smart, don't contend or disrupt things yourself. News encouraging.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Some rare openings this month. Though a.m. may appear dense, you can get under the surface to reveal good prospects. Concentration and tightly integrated action means success.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Keen imagination and novelty could symbol your achievement early; exercise all judiciously. Pace action in accordance with functioning capability. Intricate angles.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Perplexing rays, contradictions most of day, may tend to confuse, set off on wrong tracks. Be acquisitive, go beyond prescribed duties. Possible help from others.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—There are varied opportunities if you are willing and quick to observe. If not, put yourself through the mill, pep up ambition. Do some extra thinking, it will pay.



February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—It can happen here, and now. Fine aspects for well directed energy, for excellent achievement. Be specific in what you are about. Use your talents actively to advance always.

YOU BORN TODAY: Generous, intelligent, generally ready for anything in business and fun that are honorable, productive. Be not overconfident or too assured with your way of doing things. When properly educated, and this you can do yourself, can make good in profession or trade. Especially adapted to artistic or scientific calling; in a religious life. Fine analytical ability, good judge of human nature, are keenly intuitive, abhor anything vulgar, coarse. Bright future, pray for guidance.

Birthdate: General Jonathan Wainright, Defender of Corrigedor; W. E. Henley, poet, critic, editor; Lincoln B. Hale, noted college president.

TERMINATE BUS SERVICE

Kingston, Aug. 22 (CP) — Ofcials of the Kingston Coach Company Tuesday said they will terminate their city bus service Sept. 1.

The company said it will not "embarrass" citizens or the city government by stopping the service on short notice. A "gradual" transportation system is arranged.

H. J. Currie, vice-president and general manager, said rising costs and increased wage demands had forced the company decision. An increase in fares would not provide a solution, he added.

WHY WE SAY

"GONE TO POT"

...Melted down

When we say that something is gone to pot we mean that it is no longer useful. The expression alludes to the practice of sending useless scrap metal to the melting pot to be reused.

Farmers Battling Two Tough Weeds In Saskatchewan

Prince Albert, Sask (CP) — Thousands of dollars are being spent to eradicate the menace of two tough types of weed, the toad flax and the leafy spurge.

These hardy perennials are a pretty sight and they decorated many gardens in western Canada since they are damaging in grain fields.

R. Buck, Prince Albert Provincial Agricultural Representative, said that many farmers in western Manitoba have been driven off farms rendered useless by these weeds.

The toad flax grows four feet down into the soil, sending roots sideways at the same time. The roots and shoots upward to produce new plants above ground.

Both the toad flax and the leafy spurge are heavy seed producers. And the seed is widely spread on the clothing of persons, as well as being distributed by winds or animals.

The Saskatchewan district west of Prince Albert has been seriously affected by the toad flax. Dundurn municipality for five years so that an effort could be made to clean it up.

Chemicals Ineffective

Chemicals such as 2-4-D won't injure flowers of these weeds. In farm fields, it takes three full years of summer fallowing to bring them under control.

"Farmers in this district are spending thousands of dollars in an effort to kill weeds, yet they don't know what kind of weed in the city."

Agriculture officials are becertain just when the weeds were first brought from Europe Ralph Sharpe, Phone 2-6-R-14 probably brought for ornamental purposes since the flax produces beautiful yellow flowers and is often mistaken for snapdragon.

Gas is Stored Back in Earth

Lethbridge, Alta. — (CP) —In Turner Valley, the western Canada Natural Gas Company takes gas from the earth in the Burdett, 140 miles southeast of Calgary, the company puts it back into the ground.

The gas is pumped into 11 huge underground storage tanks during the summer, and released as needed during the winter.

Operations are held foreman at the station where gas is pumped back underground, said storage, however, is in the tanks will be practically unlimited.

Each day 8,500,000 cubic feet of gas is put into below ground at a pressure of 654 pounds per square inch. This is enough pressure to ensure a steady flow when the gas is released in winter. The gas first came from Turner Valley fields at a pressure of 140 pounds per square foot.

The natural storage wells extend under a four-mile area. Thestorage gas supplies Lethbridge, Macleod, Taber and other southern Alberta centres.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Muldrum Moore

Ded Roberts got up to the floor in deep thought.

"Mother," he said at last, standing before her, "What do you think we better do?"

"You can be hell not one answer, Dad," she said.

"Yes, Mother, there can be but one answer." Then, turning to Lance Bradley, he dropped a hand on his shoulder and chuckled.

"Son," he said, "you've bought yourself a printing office."

And Mother went to Lance's side and kissed him on the cheek.

"Son, I'm so happy about the whole thing that—that—well, I'm going to have a good cry—that's all."

Lance Bradley was indeed a happy man when he retired that night.

CHAPTER XIV

Sentenced to serve thirty days in jail in lieu of a fifty dollar fine for ill-treating his son, Black Jack Webster in his cell showed that he was in a mood for driving a hard bargain when it was mentioned to him that a certain unnamed person wished to adopt his son. This was the gist of the information Lawyer Parker had to impart when Lance Bradley appeared at his office in response to a telephone call.

"His argument is that since he raised the boy, and has brought him to the age when he would go to work to help him, he should be given a substantial sum of cash to give him up now," the lawyer explained.

"Slow much?" Lance asked.

"Seventy-five dollars a month from the day the boy was sixteen until he comes of age at 21. Of course I could advance the argument that there is no guarantee that the boy would continue to live with him, and provide him with home money, for that's all he was thinking about. Indeed, I do believe that even with a magistrate in the country who could permit him to take from his son's earnings out of that

HURRICANE C[illegible]ES ITS SWEEP ACROSS MEXICO

Armed guards patrol area around hangars demolished at the Palisades Airport, Kingston, Jamaica, after 135-mile-an-hour winds whirled across the island, killing at least 80 persons and making thousands homeless. Below, nurses search through the ruins of the women's poorhouse in Kingston, where eight inmates died when the building collapsed. Damage is estimated at $50,000,000. The big blow is sweeping across Mexico, heading for Texas. — Central Press Canadian.

Plan to Chute Over Niagara Falls Is 'Definite'

New York, Aug. 23—(AP)—Bernarr MacFadden's plan to parachute over Niagara Falls is "definite", says an aide of the 83-year-old physical culturist.

He may take the leap Saturday, said Stewart Bodin.

MacFadden kicked out the spot for the jump last Sunday while on an airplane flight over the Niagara gorge just below the falls, Bodin added.

The physical culturist and publisher will make the parachute jump on his 84th birthday. He planned to make another leap over the falls, on his 82rd birthday last week, but he postponed the feat to the night kind of weather, Bodin said.

Six of 14 Young Jail Breakers Still at Large

Flemington, N.J. Aug. 23—(AP)—Six of the young desperadoes who escaped from two prisons in the biggest mass jail break in New Jersey in 20 years still were at large today.

A hunt by scores of armed men over a 14-mile area led to the capture of three escapees last night and one early today.

Herbert Simpson, 20-year-old convicted burglar who sawed his way out of the Bordentown Reformatory with seven other prisoners yesterday, was caught today.

Police collared the other three last night when they tried to crash a road block near Ringoes, five miles south of here.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Aug. 23 (CP) Synopsis: Temperatures tumbled during the night as cold polar air brought clear skies to all of Ontario. Toronto registered a minimum of 51 degrees while Wiarton reported one degree below freezing. Tonight will bring a repetition of the low temperatures, but a rise to the upper 70's is in for Friday. Sunshine is expected in most regions today and Friday.

Hurricane Roars Through Tampico Causing One Death, Many Injured, Heavy Damage

Tampico, Mexico, Aug. 23 (AP) —The killer hurricane that raged over tropical seas all week long more than 120 miles per hour causing millions of dollars in damage, was blowing itself out today in the mountains of Mexico.

The storm—described as the worst recorded in Mexico—spent its final fury over the oil port of Tampico yesterday. At least one person was killed here and the damage was expected to run far above $1,000,000.

Twenty-seven persons were officially reported injured here—unverified reports placed the casualties at high as 300.

Twice the fierce winds hit Tampico with destructive blows —first when the hurricane's front roared over, then when its back force followed up the mid-day calm of its central "eye."

Broken communications and the black-out of a power shutoff prevented a check of all possible casualties and damage.

There were unconfirmed reports of dead and injured in Soto-La Marina, 120 miles up the gulf coast.

The hurricane which began its murderous rampage over Jamaica last weekend, killing about 150 persons there, hit Tampico full force. Its velocity measured up to 150 miles an hour.

High winds buffeted the flooded city all night as the storm trailed gales behind it.

Advance warning and tons of sacks of hurricane sand probably saved many lives in this rich oil port of 100,000 population.

Several hundred persons were rescued from the wreckage of their homes. Four thousand families were reported homeless, sheltered in schools and public buildings.

Most of Tampico's littered streets were under water after nearly 24 hours of driving rain. Virtually all the houses were flooded.

Legion Critical Of C.N. Railways

Cornwall, Aug. 23 —(CP) Delegates to the 19th biennial convention of the Canadian Legion's Ontario Command voted Wednesday night to hold their 1952 convention at Sudbury.

Concluding their four-day sessions here, delegates elected officers and approved five committee reports and 30 resolutions.

They criticized the Canadian National Railways for its refusal to pay railway service pensions to ex-service personnel currently receiving veterans pensions.

Delegates recommended that pensions should be free from any economic means test or any standard other than the degree of pensioner's disability.

Major Pat Biggs, secretary, reelected a four-year term decreed in command membership during 1950. Membership for this first seven months of this year totalled 46,046. It was expected the year's final figure would exceed last year's 55,505 total.

Last year's poppy campaign netted the command a $24,370 profit.

Parish Priest and Postmaster Will be Facing Criminal Charges

Montreal, Aug. 23. (CP)—Postmaster-General Edouard Rinfret said today criminal charges will be laid against Rev. Alfred Roy and the postmaster of St. Germain de Rouyn, Que., Wilfrid Begin, alleged to have tampered with mail.

"Nothing must be allowed to interfere with the sanctity of the mails," said Mr. Rinfret at his Montreal office. "If there is such interference the post office has no alternative but to prosecute no matter who is involved."

The postmaster-general said details of the manner in which the prosecution will be handled are still being worked out in Ottawa.

The decision to prosecute was taken some time ago," he added.

St. Germaine Rouyn is a Quebec hamlet near Rouyn and the decision to prosecute the priest and the postmaster follows complaints by Baptist pastor Leslie G. Barnhart of Lassarre, Que., that religious pamphlets addressed to Canadian Legion members failed to reach their destination.

Mr. Barnhart wrote a letter of protest to the postmaster-general claiming he had been sold by the 22-year-old daughter of the postmaster Monsieur Begin who supervised the post office on behalf of her father, that "we had some special order about that mail".

Mr. Barnhart asserted that he was told the missing mail had been taken away by Father Roy who had given the order that the pamphlets were not to be delivered.

Recently Archbishop Leger of the Roman Catholic diocese of Montreal in a statement, said that if the reported actions of the priest were true, they were wrong and he called upon people of goodwill "not to implicate the whole church in a culpable act of one of its members, even though he may be a minister of religion."

UK DETERMINED THAT OIL TALKS END SUCCESSFULLY

Will Stay in Abadan Until Oil Flows Again

London, Aug. 23 — (AP)—Britain announced officially today her determination to remain in Abadan until Iran permits oil production to resume again.

A foreign office statement warned Iran that Britain will take "the necessary measures" to ensure safety of British personnel in Abadan, site of the world's largest oil refinery, if the Iranian government fails in its obligation to do so.

The Anglo - Iranian Oil Company had announced a few hours earlier that it was recalling British workers from the oil fields surrounding Abadan for movement home, but that it was retaining a thinned-down staff at the refinery itself.

London, Aug. 23— (AP)— A foreign office spokesman said today Britain has decided to give Iran another opportunity to reopen the entire question of the future of the billion dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Britain made clear she will stay put for the time being in Abadan, centre of the giant oil industry that produces about 500,000 barrel a day—a vital source of western Europe's defence needs.

The spokesman said the new bid to reopen the talks is based on the previous recommendations drawn up by W. Averell Harriman, the American trouble-shooter in Iran. There formed the basis for the talks just concluded.

Harriman left on in Tehran after the talks came to a halt yesterday. He apparently regarded further official talks in Tehran, saying that the discussions with Iran's premier Mossadegh had broken off. Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh said, however, that "it is finished".

(Stokes is due in London tomorrow morning. It is expected he will be summoned for an emergency Cabinet meeting soon after he arrives.)

Count on Harriman

It is obvious that officials here are counting on Harriman to try once again to talk Iran into a more accommodating attitude toward Britain.

There were predictions by informants here that if Harriman fails, President Truman may intervene once more in the dispute.

Richard Stokes, Labor member of British negotiating team in Tehran and Lord Privy Seal, is expected here tomorrow morning. He will give the cabinet a firsthand report on the talks and try to reassess the chances of reopening them.

Informed sources stressed that there will be no "dramatic" actions such as the landing of British military forces in Abadan unless circumstances demand it.

Therapy Clinic Will Open At Soo on Aug 31

Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 23 (CP) — An Arthritis therapy clinic will open here Aug. 31 in a final effort to stamp out a ringworm epidemic that has plagued some 1,400 Sault children for 18 months.

Dr. N. C. Craig, Sudbury radiologist, will supervise the treatments until 1,500 remaining cases have been taken care of.

J. E. Bailey, Sault health officer of health, said today that X-ray equipment at the Plummer Memorial Hospital had been approved for the treatment by Dr. Craig.

Dr. Glenby added that although the therapy does not kill the ringworm germ, it causes hair in the treated area to fall out within 18 to 21 days, thus freeing the scalp of the disease.

The Sault Board of Health decided Aug. 16 to put costs of converting the hospital equipment after turning down an Ontario Dept. of Health suggestion that the children be sent to Sudbury for treatment.

Patients will be charged for the treatment, with board help in cases of need. Total cost is expected to range between $5,000 and $6,000.

Now Mr. Toad is convalescing in a box and looking prim about his experience.

High Pressure Label Given 35 Brokers

Toronto, Aug. 23. (CP)—Chairman O. E. Lennox of the Ontario Securities' Commission says 35 of Toronto's active brokers operate use high-pressure telephone and mail methods to sell fraudulent securities that swindle United States citizens.

Lennox told Ontario Crime Committee yesterday that he suspects some of them are "fronts" for other utterly operators. Fronts were divided into two camps, controlled by either big heads.

In reply to a question, he said 135 firms or persons are registered with the commission as broker-or-dealers. Thirty-five are out-of-town dealers. Of the 100 local dealers, about 30 have been inactive this year in selling.

He said that the remaining 80 have been creating trouble between authorities in the United States and Canada by freezing U.S. residents with worthless stocks. The U.S. officials have accused Ontario of lack of co-operation in curbing the swindling practices which are allowed to put them on trial in the States.

Mr. Lennox said he was not notified in Canada. Postal authorities removed mailing privileges from the Canadian firms under fraud orders issued last March. He said he did not seek prosecution of the firms because he considered the action had accomplished nothing since the big offenders were unaffected.

J.P. BICKELL, 67, MINING MAGNATE DIES IN NEW YORK

Became Millionaire In His Early 30s

New York, Aug. 23—(CP) — John Paris Bickell, adventurous mining magnate and financier best known to Canadians for pioneering in the development of northern Ontario's rich McIntyre Porcupine Gold Mine, died yesterday. He would have been 67 Sept. 26.

He had rugged bachelor, who started his own brokerage business in Toronto at 23 and became a millionaire in his early 30s, became ill on the way here from Toronto Monday. His death in New York Hospital was due to a heart attack.

His achievements included the stepping up of aircraft production in Britain and Canada during the Second World War. He was one of the "four busy B's" on an all-Canadian team headed by Lord Beaverbrook. The others were the late Viscount Bennett, former Prime Minister, and Beverley Baxter, Canadian-born member of the British House of Commons.

He was a Presbyterian minister's son, born at Molesworth, Ont., near Listowel, in 1884. He received his education at St. Andrew's College in the Toronto area community of Aurora. In 1907 he established a financial brokerage business in Toronto and operated it successfully during the exciting years when prospectors and developers opened up the golden treasure of the Porcupine and Kirkland Lake.

As a sportsman, he liked to take chances on big odds. He could smile at the loss of $400,000 in an afternoon—and at a gain the next morning of $500,000.

He was a bachelor.

Played Good Golf

As a sportsman, he shot golf that fell short of championship calibre, although it was said of him that he was a hard man to beat when there was a challenge. Once after losing a hole-in-one on the Mississauga course near Toronto, he staged what is recalled by some members as the biggest hole-in-one celebration in history.

Ridgway States Reds Broke Off Talks Prematurely

Decision Made Before Alleged Bombing Occurred

Tokyo, Aug. 23 — (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said tonight that communists must have decided to break off Kaesong truce talks even before they charged an Allied plane bombed the truce city.

In a statement issued at midnight (10 a. m. EDT), the United Nations commander said the red action breaking off the talks came so quickly after the alleged bombing that it must have been decided in advance.

High-level Decision

He said the decision could be made only by a high level of the red command. It was delivered only a few hours after the asserted incident by a red liaison officer.

Ridgway's words were:

"As has been brought out before, the decision to declare all meetings off from this time forward was a decision from a high level command, could not have been arrived at and transmitted to Colonel Chang, communist liaison officer, for delivery to the United Nations command liaison officers, in the interval from 2320 (11:20 p. m.) on August 22 to 0145 (1:45 a. m.) on 23 August."

It was apparent the U. N. commander meant that the decision to call off truce talks had been made some time before. He said he could not be called out of their beds in the dead of night and brought to headquarters to investigate the alleged bombing.

Staged Frame-up

An earlier announcement from Ridgway's office said investigation "clearly supports the whole incident is a frame-up, staged from first to last."

Admiral Joy, head of the U. N. truce delegation, and his staff remained in their tent camp in Munsan. They kept a telephone line open to the communists in Kaesong for any further messages from the reds.

The so-called bombing incident was the latest of a series of charges by the reds that the allies violated the Kaesong neutrality agreement. Admiral Joy rejected them all in a blistering reply delivered seven hours after the reds broke off negotiations, he said "were fabricated."

The communist word that talks were "off from now on" was delivered Thursday to Col. A. J. Kinney and Col. T. Murray, U. N. liaison officers.

They were awakened at midnight under an urgent call from the reds in Kaesong. To get there the two colonels had to wade the 100 yards across the Imjin River. The power boat taking them across couldn't make it all the way because of low tide.

Said It Was Night Attack

At Kaesong a Col. Chang, Chinese liaison officer, showed them what he said was an American napalm (jellied gasoline) tank, a slight depression in the ground and other results of what he said was a night attack by one plane inside the neutral zone.

"Col. Kinney asserted the evidence plainly was not the result of a night attack," Admiral Joy reported to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway tonight.

Joy reported to Gen. Ridgway, U. N. commander-in-chief, in a message from written notes, Col. Chang announced there would be no further meetings."

Kinney asked if Chang also meant meetings of the sub-committee which was scheduled to meet at 11 a. m. in its seventh attempt to draw an armistice line across Korea.

"Col. Chang replied all meetings were off from now on," Joy reported.

The American colonel said Chang spoke from notes obviously prepared in advance.

The commander said it was obvious that Chang's statement had come from much higher authority.

And his statement was delivered only three hours after the bombing was supposed to have happened.

The information bulletin from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo called it "an ill-produced and amateurishly-staged presentation."

The statement said the incident was planned in advance as an excuse for breaking off truce talks because the communists were losing out on their demands, and were losing face in Asia.

The same view is shared by American officials in Washington, dispatches from there said. But there was no immediate official comment. Quoting high administrative sources, the Washington view was that the red action was deliberate, prematurely dicated from Moscow.

...First Name Not Known

The talks, arranged by the highest of communist officials on each side, were called off by a Chinese colonel whose first name was not known by the U. N. Command.

Tourist Hooks 26-Pound Muskie In Moira Lake

Guests at the Crystal Beach summer resort near Madoc had their eyes popping the other day. They had heard a lot about the big muskies that inhabit Moira Lake but a lot of them had never seen one.

And it remained for Gene Fetterly, Greensburg, Pennsylvania, fishing guest, to produce concrete evidence that the summers the largest type of these fighting fish.

Fetter dangled a handsome 46 inch specimen that weighed 26 1-4 pounds before their astonished gaze. It was caught with a small spotted yellow flatfish cast and south of the Beach.

Lance Barr, son of Mrs. Margaret Beer, Bleecker Ave., was assisting Nathan Reid of Ivanhoe to feed calves in the stable when the truck careened down the road and went into the stable through the door to the fence. He nearly strangled before he was freed by cutting the wires.

Donkey Baseball Game Provides Plenty of Laughs

Trenton — (Special) — The donkey baseball game between the Kiwanis and Lions on Monday night provided a million laughs for the large crowd in attendance and a clear $200 for the underprivileged children.

With the battle deadlocked 1-1 Kiwanis' darkhorse slugger Clyde Mason rapped out a home run touching all three bases and home on the back of one of the speedier burros. Mason's last climb effort gave the Lions a jolt then never recovered from, and as a result Kiwanis won 2-1.

But the Lions turned face about in the Mexican hoin game blanking the victory-filled Kiwanis by the score of 2-0.

Lions in the middle again and handling his steed with the superb skill and agility of a veteran polo player Lion Don McPherson drew roar into the hearts of the Kiwanians as he rode rough shod over all opposition to run in his side's entire total. Triple threat McPherson smashed the Bain Park pitches with his unique style of bashing the bole.

At one point McPherson's fans feared their hero was getting the horse laugh. Instead he was getting the donkey laugh.

All ears directed all eyes to focus on McPherson lying on the ground with a brawling burro staring him straight in the face. Rider McPherson had slumped to the field exhausted after a supreme effort in scoring the second goal.

Players were: Kiwanis — Bay-lis, P. Tripp, W. Lawson, J. Alexander, D. McInnes, Bert Brown, Clyde Mason, Lions — Manager Don McPherson, Mac Laroche, Wild Lablanc, Bill Britz, Fred Bird, Parnell, Doug Whitley. Referee; Mac Justus.

Suspect Escapes While Constable Checks Credentials

Trenton. (Special)—An alleged auto thief who removed a window screen and slipped out of the constables' room while Constable Weese was checking his credentials by phone in another room, is being sought by Trenton police.

The man, who is about 36 years, and with slim build, dark hair and deep tan, had been detained for questioning later in the afternoon by Constable Bruce Weese, after he had attempted to sell a new tire and spare wheel at local service stations.

The story told by the man was that he was motoring to Montreal and had run out of cash and was attempting to sell the tire and wheel in order to continue his journey. He did not have the ownership card of the late model Chrysler he was driving as he said he had only recently purchased it and the ownership had not yet been changed. However, he did have the ownership of a car which he said belonged to his wife in Toronto.

Left alone in the constables' room while an officer phoned, the man calmly took out the screen of the window and disappeared. Further investigation revealed that both the car which the man had been driving, and also the car which he claimed was owned by his wife in Toronto, were stolen.

About ten last night a car owned by Ernest Kimy, Trenton, was taken from where it was parked at the rear of the post office.

Runaway Truck Hits Parked Car

A runaway truck which had been left parked on Murray Hill narrowly missed a group of small children playing on the sidewalk Wednesday evening when it ran down the hill, hopped the curb and crashed into a parked auto.

The Belle Cleaner truck in charge of John G. Reppard, 19 St. Charles Street, was damaged to the extent of about $75, while the parked auto owned by Kenneth Hill, 33 West Bridge Street and the rear light and fender broken.

Reppard told police he had left the truck parked on the hill and went to a customer's house. During his absence the truck moved down the hill its one wheel mounting over the curb onto the boulevard and sidewalk.

Mr. Hill was working around his car when he saw the driverless truck coming directly at his car. Less than a minute previously a group of small children had been playing at the rear of his car, he said.

Sales of Farms Near Simcoe Said for Giant Aircraft Firm

Toronto, Aug. 23—(CP)—Toronto real estate brokers said today a giant aircraft industry is planned for the Simcoe area of western Ontario where a multi-million-dollar deal is reported being negotiated.

Simcoe farmers disclosed last night that between 10 and 15 farms in the district have been purchased at prices ranging from $700 to $1,000 an acre. The normal price was said to be $400 an acre.

Brokers here, said to be acting as agents and working through an unidentified Simcoe realtor, estimated the total cost of the land to be purchased at more than $2,000,000.

A Toronto group was said to have deposited $250,000 in a Simcoe bank to cover options, good until the end of 1952, on a number of farms.

Last night Eugene Caswell, a tobacco farmer in the area, said he had given an option on his 79 acres to sell for $20,000 with a 10-per cent payment for the option. James Moore, another Simcoe farmer, said he will collect $77,000 if an option for his 100 acres is taken up.

The land being optioned is one of the most prosperous farming areas in western Ontario. Port Dover, seven miles south of Simcoe, was a thriving Lake Erie port for many years. It now is a lake resort.

Typical of rumors circulating in the district concerning possible use of the land was that voiced by one farmer:

"The area will be a site for the Vatican if it is forced to move from Rome in the event of another world war.

Commodity Prices Gain on News

New York, Aug. 23 — (AP) — News that the Chinese communists broke off truce talks in Korea caused an upsurge today in prices of major food and manufacturing raw materials for future delivery.

A burst of trade demand and commission house covering sent wool futures prices up as much as 7.8 cents a pound in early trading.

New York cotton climbed as much as $1.20 a bale shortly after the opening but the market later eased.

Cocoa was up more than one half cent a pound at one time. Coffee and vegetable oils were strong.

Early gains in world sugar futures prices ranged up to a half-cent a pound — the daily permissible trading limit — before profit-taking trimmed the net gains sharply.

At Chicago, most gains were firm.

Stock prices on the New York Stock Exchange, after a mixed opening, turned higher.

Tin and rubber prices were reported higher in both Singapore and London.

$20,000 FIRE LOSS

Long Point Beach, Ont., Aug. 23 — (CP) — Loss was estimated at $20,000 after fire early today levelled a 15-room lodge at this Lake Erie resort. Owned by Joseph Kuhn, the lodge was occupied only by the Kuhn family.

2,000 Workers Will be Laid Off August 31

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 23 (CP)— A darkening economic picture worried this automotive city today following an announcement that 2,000 Ford of Canada employees will be laid off Aug. 31.

The layoff will bring to 3,460 the number removed from Ford's payroll since federal credit restrictions started last spring. It means a payroll cut of about $250,000 a week.

Windsor merchants braced themselves for possible layoffs in federal plants which, before Ford layoffs started, employed 7,000 men. Feeder plants so far have held their layoffs to 400 men.

Rhys M. Sale, Ford president, announced in a statement Tuesday that 2,000 workers would be laid off indefinitely at the end of the month, and that the remaining employees would go on a 32-hour week.

"The simple fact is that we cannot go on making cars and trucks faster than we can sell them," Mr. Sale said. "There is no doubt credit restrictions and high taxes triggered a swifter collapse of demand than anyone had expected."

Chrysler Corporation has laid off some 400 employees in the last few weeks.

In all, about 5,000 men or close to a quarter of the automobile working force in Windsor are out of work or have been given notice.

Labor Congress Asks Premier To Act as Arbitrator in Strike

Ottawa, Aug. 23—(CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor today disclosed that it has asked Premier Frost of Ontario to act as final arbitrator in the current Hollinger gold mining strike at Timmins.

Pat Conroy, C.C.L. secretary-treasurer, said in a statement that he has proposed the following settlement plan to Mr. Frost:

1. That one of the questions in dispute, union security and the check-off, be subject to voluntary arbitration with Mr. Frost acting as arbitrator. "Both the union—the United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.)—and the company would agree in advance that the decision of Premier Frost as arbitrator would be binding," Mr. Conroy suggested.

2. That on questions of wage rates, pensions and incentive bonuses, these be dealt with by negotiation with a Ontario Labor Department representative acting as mediator. This, said Mr. Conroy, is in accordance with a standing order by the Ontario Labor Department.

3. That if any of the money questions remained unresolved after mediation efforts, they should be taken up by Mr. Frost for arbitration on the same basis as union security.

Mr. Conroy, in his letter to Mr. Frost, emphasized that the proposals were made even though normally the Canadian trade movement is against enforced arbitration of trade union disputes.

Is Taking Action

A dispatch from Toronto Wednesday night indicated that Mr. Frost was taking action on the proposals. It said it was learned Mr. Frost has asked both parties in the strike to renew negotiations and has instructed Louis Fine, the province's chief conciliation officer, to propose further meetings with parties to both sides of the dispute.

Mr. Conroy emphasized that the strike at Hollinger was serious and this was the reason for the unusual proposal by the Congress.

"Your decision," Mr. Conroy suggested in his letter to Mr. Frost, "would be accepted by both parties as final and binding, and would be included in any contract that might be arrived at between the disputants.

Local Man Wins Prize

Robt. Douglas of this city was the winner of a $30 cash award offered by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company in connection with their national advertising quiz. Robert won on a contest folder mailed out through Bruce H. Smith, of Uptown Tire and Battery Service, local Goodrich dealer. The picture shows Fred Douglas (centre) accepting the cheque from W. E. Jamieson, district manager.

"It seems to me that because of the attitude of the government of Ontario towards the check-off question in its stated position that these are matters which should be resolved by collective bargaining processes, you might accept the suggestion of our congress that you act as the arbitrator of this question. ..

South Koreans In Firm Control Of Objectives

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 23—(AP)—A five-day "battle for the hills" in east Central Korea has ended with South Korean troops in firm control of all their objectives, the Eighth Army said today.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, army commander, indicated the positions won would be strategically important if the latest breakdown of cease-fire talks means a resumption of full-scale war across the Korean peninsula.

Official estimates placed fed casualties at 9,019, including killed, wounded and captured. South Korean casualties were comparatively light.

The battle was the most severe action along the front since early June. Opposing forces closed in bitter hand-to-hand fighting with bayonets and hand grenades.

There was no report of any important ground action elsewhere.

The mountainous area over which the battle was raged lies generally northwest of Yanggu and northeast of Inje.

The South Koreans were supported by gunfire from the battleship New Jersey, the cruiser Toledo and several destroyers along the east coast. Continued air assaults and massed artillery pounded on the reds.

The reds were entrenched on the slopes of the hills, and threw curtains of mortar, machine-gun and small arms fire at the advancing roks.

The weight of the allied offensive crushed the determined communist resistance after bayonet battles were fought on the slopes and crests of the key terrain.

Ford of Canada Workers to Vote On Policy Change

Windsor, Aug. 23 (CP) —Ford of Canada workers, members of Local 200 United Auto Workers (CIO) will be asked to vote Sunday whether the union is to demand 40 hours pay for 32 hours work, or insist on company adherence to the contract to provide a 40-hours work-week.

It is expected 10,000 workers will cast ballots.

Calling for a vote of the general membership was the result of a meeting Wednesday night of the policy committee of the local.

Jack Taylor, president of Local 200 said, Ford is laying off 3,000 men, but it trying to make the union share the burden.

He said "we refuse to let the Ford Motor Company push us into a share-the-poverty position."

President Taylor said that the company "through greedy production policies earlier this year and the Canadian government through its round-about policies of channeling workers into defence production, made it pointless for Ford workers to go on a four-day week or less."

The company announced earlies Wednesday that declining sales, which it blamed on government credit curbs, had forced it to lay off 3,000 men and to introduce a four-day week that would spread the work among the remaining employees.

MADOC W.I.

The August meeting of Madoc W.I., was held at the home of Mrs. Russel Lewis with 23 members and three visitors present. The president, Mrs. D. Kernohan, conducted the meeting. A minute's silence, in memory of the late Mrs. Percy Holland and the late Mrs. M. Finch, was observed and a suitable poem read by Mrs. F. Phillips. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The communications included a card of thanks from Mr. P. Holland and Mrs. Shea, also one from the Navy League acknowledging the proceeds from the Tag Day, and a letter re the Achievement Day at Stirling on August 29. The treasurer's report was given and Mrs. K. Nicol reported on the money collected for the Fair prizes.

Mrs. George Hill reported on the meeting of the Community Centre committee, which was held the previous week. They were appealing for help to work on the project on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. W. Stewart was in charge of Current Events, and passed around several clippings about recent happenings which were read by the members. On motion of Mrs. K. Nicol and Mrs. Aylsworth it was decided to write a letter to the local council re the flag for the town.

Mrs. C. Whytock and Mrs. A. Johnston were in charge of the program which opened with a trio consisting of Mrs. W. Hulin, Mrs. K. Nicol and Mrs. A. Adams. Their number "Dear Land of Home", was well received. Mrs. C. Whytock in a few well-chosen and witty remarks introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. W. Hart, who gave a most interesting account of a recent trip to the West Coast. The four-week long trip which covered over 7,000 miles was only marred by rain on two occasions. Her vivid description of the Calgary Stampede, Banff, the trip through the mountains, was all very interesting not to mention visits to Coolie Dan, Stanley Park in Vancouver, Yellowstone National Park in Montana, and the witnessing of the Passion Play at Spearfish, South Dakota.

Mrs. Dan Miller also gave a few highlights of her recent trip to the West.

The trio again favored with the number "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen".

The National Anthem closed the meeting.

Mrs. Lewis and her assistants served dainty refreshments."

Miss Vankieck moved a hearty vote of thanks to all who had helped with the program and to Mrs. Lewis for her hospitality.

Some varieties of Guatemalan corn are so hardy that their stalks two inches in diameter and as tough as bamboo, can be used to support fences. The Guatemalan corn is the field variety used for making anything from hog feed to nylons.

In this country people everywhere are now enjoying the tender white and golden kernels of roastin' ears, fresh from the field. People of the southwest mix their sweet corn with green and red peppers in a variety of combinations. One of these is featured in today's fritter recipe.

Fritters are a form of thick pancake. A relatively small amount of flour and a large number of eggs are called for in this recipe. The eggs, of course, not only makes a more nutritious dish but also a lighter and richer fritter. This kind of fritter is more like an omelette than the heavy slabs sometimes passed off as fritters.

If the peppers are chopped fine they may be added raw to the batter. If the peppers are cut into large bits, they should be pan fried before they are mixed with the batter. Vacuum packed whole kernel corn may be used if place of the fresh when the latter is not in season.

Serves 4.

1-3 cup all purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon onion chopped fine

1-4 cup green pepper chopped fine
1-4 cup sweet red pepper or pimiento, chopped fine
2 eggs
1-2 lb. bacon.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

His Cool Kimmell Engages Impulse

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The year I was going steady with a boy, but eventually we broke up. Recently, after not having seen him in a long time, I read of his engagement.

Greatly to my surprise, he came to see me last week and told me about his engagement. He did not marry him on impulse, and that he is still in love with me and wants me to go back willing to take him back again.

I feel very puzzled by this and very uncertain about what to do, especially since I always thought he was a nice guy when after breaking up with him. He is of a different faith than mine, and my parents would rather have me go with someone of my own faith.

What shall I do, and what do you think of his coming back to me after becoming engaged?

K. T. R.

Dear K. T. R:

I don't think much of it. What I do think is that this young man is probably rather unstable type, and I doubt if you can take his changes of feeling very seriously, particularly when it was since "impulse" that brought about his present engagement.

If he is still in love with you, why didn't he come and tell you so sooner? Why wait till he got himself engaged to someone else? It sounds as though his continuing his engagement depends on whether or not you are willing to take him back again. That doesn't indicate much character, does it?

I can't see that the question of your different faiths enters into the matter at this time anyhow. The only thing for you to do, at the moment is to make up your mind whether you feel any real confidence in a young man who behaves as this one is doing. Personally, I'd be very dubious about him.

Why Let Another Girl Make Suckers of You?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We are two girls in our early teens who would like your opinion about another girl whom we like very much, but who treats us strangely. She is very popular and has a nice personality, and whenever we go with her we have a lot of fun. We know, though, that she only goes with us when she hasn't got her other friends to go with, and we know that behind our backs she talks about us and says mean things about us. When we see her in the movies with these other friends, she acts as though she had never seen us before in her life.

In spite of everything, we still like her very much, I guess it's because she's so much fun. Our question is, should we continue going with her or not?

Dear Girls: Why on earth should you want to bother with a two-faced character like this, when there are so many really nice people in the world to have for friends? Apparently this girl has a certain magnetic personality that attracts others

Cutting a Pretty Figure

According to dress designers the ideal figure measures twenty-six inches at the waistline, has a thirty-four bust, wears size fourteen socks. Then the bust measurement is thirty-four the hips should not expand beyond 36 inches. Run now to your sewing table, get out the tape and see how close you come to the requirements. If you need them you can walk with pride. You qualify.

It is not just weight that puts some women out of form, it is also a matter of proportions that aren't what they should be. Overweight doesn't mean much if one's lines are good. Many women who worry about too much age are of pleasing appearance. They carry themselves in a queenly manner, show a certain anatomical splendor, step lightly, have grace of movement. Correct posture is the secret.

Are your measurements in proportion?

An over-developed bust throws the body out of form. She who carries too much frontage must be extremely careful in the choice of foundation garments and brassieres. There are models that will do much to camouflage the over-curved. They seem to tuck away superfluous tissue, or they place it where it does not detract from pleasing contour.

For the sake of one's health as well as appearance, one should endeavor to train down to normal. Those extra pounds are a burden; it wears one out to lug them around. Adipose tissue is packed around the internal organs. It is not firm, but carries blanket.

To get rid of the fat cells you have to starve them. Most women keep on feeding them by eating elements that produce bulge: fats, sweets, starches. The appetite can be disciplined and should be. There are plenty of good things to eat that won't add an ounce to weight—lean meats, fish that is not fat, poultry, egg, butter, fresh vegetables that grow above ground, fruits and fruit juices. Just a little care and one can shuttle off a pound a week. That is reducing fast enough.

Some times a woman with narrow shoulders will have spread or sunshine that throws out of the good looks picture. By deep breathing exercises and swinging the arms in circles for ten minutes each day she can develop the chest and make the shoulders fill out. By torso twisting and bending she can delete a few inches from the waistline that has followed a policy of expansion.

If the thighs are heavy, place your hands on a table, come up high on the toes, down again slowly, a favorite exercise used by gymnasts to strengthen the muscles of the legs. Make muscles strong and fat cells can't get a toehold.

How to Write Your Bread-and-Butter Letter

Your bread-and-butter letter can be, should be, a very charming expression of the You-Who-Went-Visiting...of the You who was delightfully aware of the goodness and kindness of your hostess and her family...of the You who wants to say gracious and really adequate thanks for peaceful hospitality. This letter of appreciation need't be long ...but it must be prompt, and it should show that your heart and thoughts are in the right place when it comes to that wonderful Art of Appreciation.

The most helpful suggestion to writing this important thank-you letter is: Write from the point of view of your hostess. Put yourself in her place, and consider what you, if you were she, would like to be thanked for. Don't ever take hospitality for granted...particularly in these days when food prices have to be battled with and when service either doesn't exist or is limited and sketchy! Offering hospitality today means extra planning, time, expense, adaptation on the part of all the members of the family. We have to be a pretty nice guest to deserve all this...and we should write a pretty nice thank-you note!

1. Make a bow first to the hospitality in general..."What a wonderful house to visit with you and your dear family, and what glorious memories I have to cherish always!"

2. Recall and thank for special plans made for your entertainment and happiness and comfort. Your favorite sports planned for. A tea, a luncheon, card party, dinner, given for you, a dance to which you were taken. Beautiful drives, a merry picnic. The lovely guest room assigned to you, perhaps looking on some quiet trees or a garden your hostess knew would bring you needed relaxation and deep comfort.

3. If there were no special entertainment-plans...just welcome plans for rest and relaxation...mention features of the home that were special joys: delightful books to read, a piano to play, a varied collection of records, a television you may not have at home, a friendly dog or a happily-purring kitten to enjoy, a lovely garden to roam in, a drive to a nearby beach.

4. If you were given the happiness of meeting friends of the family, be sure to mention your delight in knowing these charming friends.

5. Include a thank-you to members of the family: "Please tell my deep thanks to that nice Phil of yours, my so-thoughtful host," and to Emily and Jimmie for their many kindnesses to me."

Don't think that I'm advising you to write about all these things. But I have seen so many bread-and-butter letters that were so stiff in their generous, sweeping statements that I am trying to draw out from the usual viable two or three details that will check up with your experience to be enthusiastically thanked for.

You have lovely memories of your visit. Thanks for the plans and features that made those memories. And this will make "the memories linger on" also in the thoughts of the hostess in whose home you were a guest.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

"But, really, old boy—"

"Don't interrupt me, Jimmy," Lance Bradley swivelled. "After what you stunt your stuff around town, it makes me wonder what I ought ever there was a fool like you could age a man without being one. I've heard that you're wealthy, but when your money or passes on, you'll be the richest man in Emerton. I've said many times and will repeated, that you are talented, that there's the makings of a locomotive fireman in you, what are you doing about it? Are you aware that you're known as Mr. Useless, a man who can't or won't work, won't lift a helping hand to anyone in need? Look, Jimmy Hastings, I want you to get hep to yourself. Chuck that swaggerstick, that crop of dandy fancy clothes, and above all learn to speak the language of the men about you."

"Well, really, old boy—"

"You might let the moths out of your wallet, Jimmy, and among other things, you might drop around and have some needle with the boys at the GWVA hall. You owe them so much, Jimmy. For if they hadn't stood between you and the Hun, you would be pushing daisies today instead of that is if you escaped the fate of standing before a goose-stepping firing party. Tomorrow, if I were you, Jimmy, I'd call Doris up, have a friendly chat with her, order her out for a spin, get her off her feet. You can't call, Jimmy—" Lance stopped, then—"And now if you're as sure at me for telling you these things that you can't permit me to drive you home—" he reached over and opened the car door—"then you can get out and walk. A good long hike with something to think about should do you no end of good."

For a long moment Jimmy Hastings looked at Lance Bradley with a quizzical expression on his face.

"Well, old chap," he said heatter-of-factly, "if you don't mind, I'd much rather ride with you."

They rode in unbroken silence until Lance stopped his car in front of the Hastings residence.

"Well, that was decued ripping of you, old boy," Jimmy said with hand on the door, but he didn't say what was that was so "decued ripping". "Well, cheerio."

"You won't forget to 'phone Doris?"

"Righto," Jimmy said with a wave of his hand.

As Lance Bradley drove off, his face broke into a broadgrin. That was certainly a great show. It was fun. It was perhaps cruel fun, but it was worth it, if he had made Jimmy Hastings himself as others saw him, as the man he could be if he changed his ways. For Lance Bradley knew now that Jimmy Hastings was not beyond redemption; that even though he would become a useful citizen, he might not even win Doris Parker's hand. Yet he would, by his persistence, take up so much of Doris's time that she would have no time for others, for one in particular who could never marry her.

With Jimmy Hastings all principed up to keep Doris Parker out of his hair for the time being at least, Lance turned his mind to Goldie Webster and his promised birthday present. But first of all he must find a home for his newly adopted son.

Mother Roberts would have taken Goldie Webster into her home, but Dad Roberts came up with a better plan, and more to Lance Bradley's liking. He pointed out that John Grooms, a friend of the family, would be just the man for caretaker of the New Ensign building, and that it was possible—since he and his wife had no children—that he would be glad to have Goldie live with them. Grooms, a retired farmer, with a yen for gardening, lived in a neat little cottage just a short walk from the Ensign section.

Followed a visit to the Grooms' place, an inspection of the room the boy would occupy, a satisfactory arrangement about board and lodging, and when Lance left Mrs. Grooms that he would bring the boy to her home on his birthday, October 31, her eyes lighted.

"Did you say his sixteenth birthday, Mr. Bradley? Well, well, think of that, will you? And I remember the poor child doesn't know what it is to have a birthday party, birthday cake, candles and all."

"I suppose he doesn't," Lance said, remembering that the orphan never been a birthday party in his life either.

"Well, then there must be one for—for—"

"Goldie, Mrs." Grooms—Goldie Webster."

"For Goldie. My, that's a nice name for a boy. We'll have a party for him at six o'clock, and I'll be expecting you and Dad and Mother Roberts. You won't forget, Mr. Bradley? My, isn't Goldie a nice name for a boy?"

That fateful forenoon in the life of Goldie Webster arrived. Lance Bradley was driving into Town to pick up a well-scrubbed, well-dressed boy, to take him away from such surroundings as the boy's father, Black Jack Webster, was not in sight, but his hulking stepmother appeared and Lance saw her for the first time, and he instantly disliked Black Jack's wife was a heavy-set thing, bovine in her placidness and her lack of interest in what was going on around her.

Lance took the boy on his rounds of duty. Then they ate luncheon at the Roberts' where Mother Roberts knocked on the striking resemblance between Lance Bradley and his foster-son. The afternoon was spent at The Ensign office and Goldie was then shown what he must do to make a newspaper, to turn out bits of printing as it was required.

Then at six o'clock Goldie was driven to his new home, and was shown his room before they all sat down to a well-laden table graced with a three-story birthday cake with sixteen candles on it. Goldie saw more food than he could ever hope to eat and more knives and forks and spoons than he knew what to do with. There were many happy congratulations from Mr. and Mrs. Grooms and Mr. and Mrs. Roberts and—of course—his Brad.

And then there were presents, all sorts of presents—two suits in fact, one for everyday, the other for special wear, and shirts and ties and underwear, summer and winter, braces and garters, socks and boots—everything that a boy should have, but never had had until then.

And the boy from the slums was so bewildered, yet so grateful for it all, that he broke into tears. And then thinking that this wasn't the thing for a big boy to do, he wiped his eyes and managed to say, "Aw, gee, folks, you're swell—just swell, gee!"

That evening he was with Lance Bradley at the Y.M.C.A. and shook hands with Secretary Billy Wentbrook, who handed him a membership card. And after he was with Lance Bradley in the gymnasium, watching the boys indulging in various sports. And when Lance asked him what sport he would like to go in for, he said boxing.

In a few minutes they were provided with boxing gloves. They took off their coats and climbed into the ring, where Lance proceeded to show his foster-son some of the fine points of the game. It was quite late when they walked in the Grooms' home, where Lance told the boy to come down to the office early next morning to run a few errands as a sort of break-in before entering the business as an apprentice.

CHAPTER XVI

By the middle of December, the army of workers, gathered some months before by Russell Builders, had completed the stately Turner two-storey building into an L shaped Emerton Daily Ensign building with broad yard. They had added a third storey of sufficient size for the radio broadcasting studios and the engraving department over the front top of it.

The remodelled edifice faced main street, while the north side flanked the narrow side street running east and west. Across the base of the L at the back, the upper floor contained, from north to south, the newsroom, small office for women's editor, advertising manager, proof-readers, and the composing room. Below the composing room and under the stereotyping-pressroom, and under the news room the paper was stored and the central heating plant would be installed.

In the two storey section between back section and front or business office, the two floors were occupied by the job printing department, reached from both pressroom and newsroom by stairways or doors. Above the front business office and reached by a wide central stairs to the right was a large unused room with stairs to the radio station and engraving plant above. The stairway from the side street was the one used by the radio staff.

Doors on the ground floor opened into the broad yard from the business office, job department, pressroom and storage room. The building was well lighted throughout with large windows which would permit the unrestricted circulation of fresh air into every where everyone would be racing the clock to get the paper to press on time; the first edition to reach the street office for the country mails at three o'clock; the second edition at five with the reports of the stock markets and late news for local consumption.

But since there was much electrical work to be finished up and since this work must be done by town electricians under the supervision of the electric light company, and since town plumbers must complete the installation of fixtures for the washrooms on the, three floors of the building, while others would put in a central heating unit with radiators, Lance Bradley knew that it was now impossible to keep the knowledge from the public any longer, that this building was to be used as a printing and publishing house and a radio broadcasting station.

And so on Thursday, December 13, The Ensign on its front page took the public into its confidence. It was a brief statement of fact, with no names mentioned, no indication that Dad Roberts had disposed of his business to Lance Bradley and he was no longer an editor and publisher in his own right.

The startling news that after the new year Emerton would have its own daily newspaper, to succeed the weekly Ensign its own radio broadcasting station, was hailed with delight on all sides, particularly by the businessmen. As a town Emerton would go places now, and it was not beyond possibility that Mayor Joe Crowley and his co-berts at town hall would be ousted from office once a fearless paper dug into their and if his money could not be were many challenging reports going around but no one to do anything about it. But the citizens wondered where all the money had come from to start this daily paper, this radio station. Only Lawyer Parker could have told them that, but he wasn't telling, not even the members of his own family.

But even before The Ensign had made its startling front page announcement, men and machinery had been arriving daily from the city; unskilled labor was on hand to uncrate heavy machines in place them where they would be used in the days to come.

Of course the most important news in Emerton in its history was to bring its repercussions. A much changed Jimmy Hastings, for instance, chased Lance Bradley to The Ensign office to ask if he "couldn't get in on this". He had a lot of money that he would like to invest in such a venture, for the man was undoubtedly sinused, he asked to be taken in as employee. He didn't know what he could do, but he was anxious and willing to try his hand at something—anything that would help—wages being the least important point.

Lance Bradley listened to Jimmy with sheer amazement and not without considerable pleasure as a working man. Yes, Lance was about it. He wanted to invest money, but above all he wanted to go to work. But Lance just couldn't see Jimmy Hastings as a working man. Yes, Lance Bradley soon changed his mind for Jimmy Hastings proved himself to be different to the Jimmy Hastings who had sat in Lance's car one evening. This Jimmy Hastings had come out of his shell and had tossed away his swagger stick and much of his affected speech. He was, of course, well dressed, but in better taste.

It would appear, too, that Doris Parker had seen this great change in Jimmy Hastings, for she made one of her rare telephone calls to The Ensign office, and asked for Lance Bradley.

"Say, Brad, what in the world has happened to Jimmy lately? Why such a change?" she asked.

"Did you say—Jimmy Hastings?"

"What have you been doing to him? I saw him with you in your car one evening recently."

"I didn't do anything to Jimmy, Doris. Never laid a hand on him."

"Well, he's a changed man, now, Brad. He's not the same person at all. Do you know he asked me to go to the show with him?"

"Now wasn't that nice of him?"

"Of course it was, Brad, but he never had the courage to ask me to go with him before."

"Better take him up on it, Doris, before he changes his mind. Do you know I think Jimmy, could get hold of himself, is going to be a little bit of all right."

"You do?"

"And why not?"

"Brad, you're keeping something from me."

"Why should I do that?"

"I don't know. Jimmy likes you, Brad. He says you're a perfect example of what a young man should be."

"Well, that is something, isn't it?"

"I tell you, Brad, Jimmy is changed. He says he's going to loosen up, he's going to go places and have fun. He plans to join the Y.M.C.A. and take up boxing."

"Did you say—boxing?"

"Sure he says you at it, and you're real good, going to ask you to give him some lessons."

"Oh, yeah for your sake I'll remember, and not hurt him."

"And why for my sake?"

"Oh, I don't know, Doris. Probably it's because I don't want to see you on the street with a man with a black eye."

"Take care he doesn't blacken yours, Brad."

"Forewarned they say is forearmed, I'll watch myself, not that it matters greatly. I've no one to cry over me."

"You might be wrong, Lance Bradley, you might indeed be very wrong. Well I must go now. The boss is waiting to get on the line."

Canadian Troops Will Likely be In Europe Thi[illegible]ll

Ottawa, Aug. 23 (CP) — Gen. Eisenhower would like to see Canadian troops in Europe this year, Premier Ilsley says that he will get his wish.

Parliament, due to resume sitting Oct. 9, is expected to be asked for early approval of movement of the army's 27th Brigade group to Germany before snow flies.

An RCAF fighter squadron, reinforcer of the 11-squadron air division, would leave about the same time as the soldiers, probably in October or November.

With these movements, Canada's manpower commitments for the great Atlantic Pact experiment in deterring war through strength applied at a strategic spot would be really on their way to fulfillment.

So far as is known no final decision about the movement to Europe has been made by cabinet but the question is very much in the wind. The army is anxious for definite orders, one way or the other, and has advised that the brigade should move either this fall or next spring, not during the winter.

First Large-Scale Tests With Irradiation of Grain Crop Seeds, Plants Conducted

Regina, Aug. 22—(CP)—The continent's first large-scale tests with irradiation of grain crop seeds and plants are being conducted at the University of Saskatchewan.

The research is financed by a scholarship grant from the National Research Council to a student of the college of agriculture. This year's scholarship winner, Tom Lawrence of Colonsay, Sask., is doing the tests under the direction of Professor L. H. Shebeski of the Field Husbandry Department.

"The main purpose of this research is to see if the straw strength of Montcalm barley can be improved without reducing the quality or yield," Prof. Shebeski said.

Irradiation of the seeds and plants was accomplished by use of different energy rays. Radioactive phosphorus, neutron and gamma rays were used separately and together along with betatron rays.

The irradiation idea came from a Swedish publication which said greater straw strength could be produced by X-ray treatment.

In some tests, the seeds were treated with one or more of the active substances. In others, the plant itself was treated at different stages of growth with one or more of the active substances.

In some cases the treatment was given only once while varying numbers of treatments were used for other tests. For each row of experimental plants, a row of untreated barley was planted for comparison.

Prof. Shebeski said the treatment of plants and seeds with energy rays produced a remarkable number of mutations, many of which would be crop improvements.

He predicted that irradiation will become an important tool of plant breeders in the future.

A mutation is a sudden change in the inheritance of one or more characters of the plant. More than 13 have been produced by the current irradiation experiments. Many of them show the improved straw strength that is sought.

Montcalm barley is a six-rowed variety of smooth-awned barley, often difficult to grow because the straw is weak and much lodging occurs.

Acheson Making Plans to Meet Foreign Ministers

Washington, Aug. 23—(AP) — State Secretary Dean Acheson is making tentative plans to meet here with the British and French foreign ministers Sept. 10 to review German problems and other key cold war issues.

Acheson has suggested, it was learned today, that the American-British-French high commissioners in western Germany also join the three-power talks.

Informed officials said the U.S. secretary will discuss problems ranging through Europe, the middle east and far east during a conference with Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison of Britain and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France.

The three plan to fly back here Sept. 9 for their round of talks after attending an Japanese peace conference at San Francisco.

Officials said the No. 1 item on the agenda probably will be a three-power agreement on western Germany's manpower contribution to the proposed Atlantic Pact army led by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Ready to Back Idea

The U.S. and Britain are reported ready to back the idea of full German divisions to be integrated in this army, as demanded by the west German government. France is reported reluctant to accept this and is clinging to the idea of German combat brigades of 5,000 to 7,000 men with strict safeguards against a revival of the German general staff.

Acheson is hoping to get a common stand agreed upon in time to report to the 12 Atlantic pact foreign ministers who are to meet in Ottawa Sept. 15 to discuss western Germany's role in European defence, among other things.

Problems to be Dealt With

Informed diplomats said that during their talks the foreign ministers would likely deal with three problems:

1. Plans for giving the western German government more freedom in political and foreign policy matters.

2. The Iranian oil crisis.

3. Egypt's demand that Britain evacuate its troops from the Suez Canal area and allied policy toward the continuing Arab-Israeli differences.

4. Italy's demand for American-British-French support in revising the military restriction clauses in the Italian peace treaty.

5. France's reported need for further military aid to French and Indo-Chinese forces battling the communists in Indo-China, and plans for economic aid to southeast Asian countries threatened by communism.

Hard Task To Stop Narcotics Says Witness

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 22—(AP) —Perry Ellsworth, "Miss Michigan" of 1947, appeared as star witness yesterday before a legislative committee studying the narcotics problem in Michigan. She said it is "absolutely ridiculous" for anyone to contact the narcotics habit.

"I thought I'd find out what it was all about," she said, "I thought I was strong enough to stop, but I wasn't."

She said she had cured herself by "boiling up" alone in northern Michigan and depriving herself of drugs. "It was agony," she said.

"If my notoriety serves any good purpose, I'll be tearn delighted."

A former Detroit cab driver, sentenced as an addict, said he quit his job and turned to armed robbery to obtain drugs. A Detroit Negro, also a convicted addict, estimated he staged more than 100 holdups to get money for dope and spent between $50 and $100 a day for his supply.

Fighters Continue Battle Against Scores of Fires

Portland, Ore., Aug. 23 (AP) — Weary firefighters continued their battle today against scores of forest blazes in the Pacific Northwest.

Twenty-two new fires broke out in Washington yesterday. One of them had covered 400 acres by evening.

In Oregon two major blazes continued out of control despite yesterday's higher humidity and rain sprinkles. A fire which has blackened 18000 acres in the Vincent Creek area of West central Oregon burned furiously over hundreds of acres more.

Further south in the Hubbard Creek district, a fire which has levelled 11 farm homes, still was out of control after searing more than 10,000 acres.

CONVICTS EAT AGAIN

Salem, Ore., Aug. 23 — (AP)— An end of the week-old state prison strike appeared Tuesday night as about 1,200 convicts were given their first food in five days. The convicts started eating after James H. Audett, head of a former prison grievance committee, said he had been given assurances that 90 per cent of the men were willing to return to work today. The convicts went on a sit-down strike last Tuesday demanding removal of a guard from within the walls of a shop. Hunger strike started last Thursday.

Fishing, hunting and yachting were his other sports.

His interest in hockey went beyond serving as the first president of Maple Leaf Gardens and later, as a director. He owned the old Toronto St. Pat's Hockey Club in the 1920s. In his later years he attended the Toronto Maple Leafs' home games regularly when he was in Toronto and occasionally would fly to Boston or New York from Nassau or elsewhere for games.

He was a flying enthusiast and for many years had his own planes. In 1936 one of his planes, in which he was travelling with former Ontario Premier Mitchell Hepburn, was forced down in the Yukon. The next year he flew with Lord Beaverbrook on a trip in the Maritimes.

Circled Globe Twice

He and a financier friend, Bernard R. (Bell 'Em Ben) Smith, took off from San Francisco in 1936 on a spur-of-the-moment flight to Shanghai that turned into an around-the-world trip. They arrived in Shanghai in time to see the start of the Japanese bombing, got out to Dairen and came home the long way through Asia over the Trans-Siberian Railway.

He and Mr. Smith circled the globe again last year, returning from Europe by way of Tokyo, Alaska and Edmonton.

He was credited with getting the Transatlantic Ferry Command going during the two wartime years he was with the British Ministry of Aircraft Production. Another part of his job was to arrange for crippled planes to be hustled from forward bases to repair depots and back into operations.

President Victory Aircraft

Back in Canada, he became president of Victory Aircraft, government-owned company at Malton near Toronto that turned out many Lancaster Bombers for the R.C.A.F. He resigned from the company in 1944.

Kelly Butler of Toronto, his private secretary for 26 years, recalled much of Mr. Bickell's success to his boundless energy.

"He worked 16 hours a day at his desk until recent years, when he began to take it a bit easier," he said. "He always had an overwhelming supply of energy and a ball-fellow-well-met attitude that made him friends all over the world."

Tributes from friends last night included one from Conn Smythe, general manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs, who called him "one of the three or four great Canadians of this generation" and another from Toronto stockbroker [illegible] Bickle, a former president of the Leaf Gardens, who described him as "one of Canada's great industrialists."

He leaves a sister, Mrs. J. B. Poulin of Toronto.

A private funeral will be held in Toronto at 3 p.m. EDT Saturday. Burial will be in Toronto's Mount Pleasant Mausoleum.

Changes Cause Native Shifts In South Seas Island Groups

By F. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Auckland, N.Z., (CP)—Three groups of Pacific islanders have made the switch to new homes. One venture has proved an unqualified success; one is still in the doubtful stage and the third has just begun with high hopes and a spirit of initiative which augurs well for its future.

Behind the uprooting of these islanders from their ancestral homes. The natives of Ocean Island, almost on the equator, were shifted because their island was too rich in a commodity needed by civilization—phosphates.

The people of Niua Fo'ou, in the Tongan group left because volcanic eruptions overwhelmed their chief village and threatened others.

And the inhabitants of Pukapuka in the Cook Islands are buying a new home on time payment because their island is too poor to support the entire population any longer.

The first migration was from Ocean Island, a large part of which is pure phosphate. Extraction of the phosphates to supply the fertilizer needs of Australia and New Zealand meant the workings were gradually encroaching on the living quarters of the people. The South Pacific Commission suggested that they migrate to Rambi in the Fiji group, which was large, beautiful, and abundantly fertile. The commission agreed to pay travel expenses and if at the end of two years the natives were not happy, it would take them back to Ocean Island. The natives agreed and went south with their sailing canoes lashed to the decks of steamers.

Like Home

In a country and climate that was strange to them they had much to learn, but when a member of the commission conducted a secret ballot, only 18 per cent of the natives wished to return. When offered the chance to go, none accepted.

Far different was the case of the people of Niua Fo'ou, known to Philatelists all over the world as "Tin Can Island, because mail was taken out to passing steamers in tin cans by swimming mailmen. Volcanoes on the island are frequently in eruption and in 1946 a major outbreak destroyed the chief village and all government buildings. Then the government decided that for their own safety the people must be moved, although they were reluctant to go.

They were shifted to Eua, the most fertile island in the Tongan group, but the happy people of "Tin San" island are homesick. Many of them want to return to their old home, volcanoes and all.

The third migration was initiated by the natives themselves and points to a new attitude of self-reliance among the natives of the Pacific in efforts to raise their standard of living. The 700 people of Pukapuka, which lies not far below the equator, decided their island could not support the growing population. They looked to fertile but inhabited Nassau Island, in the same region of the northern Cook group, and asked the New Zealand government which administers the area if they could buy Nassau.

Paying For Land

Before the war Nassau was worked by a trading company which made extensive coconut plantations there. The company left before the advance of the Japanese during the war and it sold the island to the New Zealand government for $6,000. The plantations have been neglected since then but there are young trees and with attention they produce substantial quantities of copra for many years. New Zealand agreed to sell Nassau to the people of Pukapuka for the price it paid. The three island, $6,000 from produce sales as down payment.

Now a party of 100 people from Pukapuka has moved in, built a community shelter, and started clearing the plantations, preparing to make the island their permanent home. They will pay off the balance of the purchase price from sales of copra from the plantations.

New Zealand's Minister of Island Territories, F. W. Doidge, says: "This is a very fine example of self-reliance and community effort. Practically all the organization and negotiations were carried on by the people of Pukapuka themselves."

Tribe Leads By Two As Tigers Edge Yanks; 'Crooshul' Series Starts Today

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THE CHIPS ARE DOWN!

The Redmen can still looking nervously over their shoulders to see how far behind the Belleville Shoemen are. All they have to do is gaze alongside and identify the blokes who assigned them with a significant "lay four, bub, we're on way way" gesture. One of 'em had the audacity to yell "Fore".

With two scant weeks of play left all squads in the OBHL are hitching up their britches with perhaps the exception of the Napanee Athletics. The playoff berths loom up over the horizon and while the proud Mowbray crew in Brockville perch smartly on the top rung grinning downward at the worried pack, the rest of the field especially the western mavericks are grabbing their leads for a stiff stretch battle.

Smiths Falls, who are the guests of the Redmen tonight have been finding the trail rough the last couple of weeks and although they are more or less confident of second slot it might behoove them to keep a wary eye on the Kingston Leafs.

From here it looks like a battle for the fourth position between the Redmen and the Belleville Shoemen. The teams are deadlocked at the moment, but the Shoemen have a slight edge in future meeting if it can be called that. The Redmen even rosters with the top-flight teams on two or more occasions while the greater majority of the Shoemen title are with the second division clubs.

However that should not be taken as any criterion that Bateva or any team for that matter will find the lowly squads stepping stones to playoff berths. Napanee and Picton are quite capable of tossing the semi-kinemo monkey wrench into somebody's playoff aspirations mechinery — and don't be surprised if that happens.

Tonight the Redmen face the Royals in a game which they must badly. Bateva wins over their last two starts and appear to be off on the playoff berth foot. The Reds must needs put their best baseball feet forward and grab all the victories they can. They can ease another stiff test here Saturday night when the league - leading Brockville nine plays here.

REST OF LUCK!

Tonight the Glen Roys Intermediate "A" softball team, ably chaperoned by bearers of Belleville's banner along the rocky titular trail, meet the Kingston Alcans in the final game of a two-of-three series to decide the OASA first-round winners. The Marty Halleran, sturdy right-hander will be the bonze of hurling the first OASA playdown game for Belleville in nearly a decade. The team will be at full strength for the all-important tussle and Manager Don McNevin is confident that he will retain his first-iff honors. The second game of the series is scheduled for Alemite Field Saturday night under the lights. Don Boyle will probably get the flinging assignment.

WANTED — CLOSE SCORES!

Playoff strengeuments for the "AA" Section Commercial Softball league handed a new wrinkle in "suspect" tinglings series to settle third and fourth spots when Jewellers' and Belleville Motor Car clash in a two-game affair with runs to count. The first game is called tonight at Alemite Field under the lights, with the second being played Saturday afternoon.

Belleville and Jewellers finished last night in the first of a best-of-three series for the right to go into the OASA playdown with the second scheduled for Friday night. Third game, if necessary will be played Monday. The "AA" regulations sensitives will not see OASA action till September 6th when they meet Kingston in the first round. Second game here September 8th.

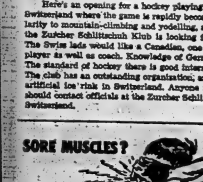
AND DID THEY EAT IT ON!

A big crowd turned out at the Dallas, Texas, baseball park one April night in 1940. Dallas and Oklahoma City were scheduled to play but there was to be a special attraction. President W. R. Burnett of the Dallas club let the word get around that he had a little surprise for the local fans, but nobody in the stands seemed to have any idea what it would be.



Just before time for the ball game to start, the park organist began to drone the "Three Blind Mice". Then out of the clubhouse, marching single file, came a line of umpires— 34 of 'em altogether. They paraded silently on the field, lined up facing the grandstand, the music stopped and as one man in unison they let go with a tremendous "Boo". It was probably the first time in history that umpires have had the pleasure of booing the fans.

The 34 umps were attending a meeting in Dallas for the purpose of working out season assignments.

OPENING FOR COACH!

Here's an opening for a hockey playing - coach. Over in Switzerland where the game is rapidly becoming second in popularity to mountain-climbing and yodelling, at Zurich to be exact, the Zurcher Schlittschuh Klub is looking for a hockey mentor. The Swiss lads would like a Canadian, one who would be a good player as well as coach. Knowledge of German is not necessary. The standard of hockey there is good intermediate or senior "B". The club has an outstanding organization, and plays in the finest artificial ice rink in Switzerland. Anyone interested in the job should contact officials at the Zurcher Schlittschuh Klub, Zurich, Switzerland.

Avila's Homer Gives Indians 14th Inning Win Over Senators Chisox Lose Two, Red Sox Win

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cleveland's stretch drive for the American League pennant enters another critical stage today as the Indians clash with the runner-up New York Yankees.

The Indians, out in front by two games, have three of their aces ready for the Yankees.

Manager Al Lopez will shoot Bob Lemon (14-9), Early Wynn (14-11) and Mike Garcia (17-6) against the defending champions. Bob Feller (20-6) of course, is in reserve.

The Yankees pitching plans are not as definite. Vic Raschi (17-7) will face Lemon today. Ewell Blackwell (14-5) is scheduled for Friday night's game and Ed Lopat (15-7) is scheduled to work in the series finale Saturday.

Allie Reynolds (17-7) originally was scheduled to go Friday night, but the righthander worked four innings yesterday in the Yanks dropped a 7-6, 12-inning decision to the Tigers. Kramer started the game and lasted less than two innings.

The Indians rested their big four pitchers and gambled on rookie Bob Chakales against Washington. Chakales didn't last but the Indians pulled out a 6-3 14-inning victory.

Bob Avila homered with two out in the 14th off Sandy Consuegra to give the Indians the edge over the Yankees. Mickey Mitchell sent the game into overtime in the 14th with a three-run homer in the eighth.

15 Straight

The victory was the Indians' 18th in their last 23 starts and their 15th straight at home. Steve Gromek pitched the last 7 innings and allowed only three hits to pick up his 14th win.

Johnny Groth singled home George Kell to open third with the Tigers' winning run against the Yankees. The Yanks jumped off to a 4-0 lead in the first inning and led 6-3 going into the eighth when Pat Mullin blasted a three run homer to send the game into overtime. Virgil trucks permitted only four hits and fanned five in the last four innings to gain credit for the victory.

The Pacific American League games, Philadelphia Athletics swept a two-night doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox, 9-2 and 8-1, and Boston Red Sox beat St. Louis Browns 3-1 in 13 innings.

Bob Hooper stopped the White Sox on eight hits in the opener and Sam Zoldak limited Chicago to six hits in the second game. Gus Zernial homered in each game for the A's to boost his output to 37, tops in the American League.

The Red Sox won out in the 13th when Brownie Tommy Byrne grazed a single and four walks. Byrne walked in during the game. Leo Kiely was the winner.

Brooks Win Two

In the National League, Brooklyn Dodgers captured a day-night doubleheader from the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 and 8-7. The runs-up New York Giants moved into their winning streak to 11 games by defeating the Cincinnati Reds 4-3. Philadelphia Phils downed Chicago Cubs 4-0, and Boston Braves edged Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 in 10 innings.

Both Dodger victories were 10-inning affairs. Gil Hodges singled home the winning run in the first game and Jackie Robinson drove in the payoff counter in the night contest with his fifth hit. Clyde King won both games in relief to boost his record to 14-8. The Dodgers have now won 14 straight from the Cards.

Whitey Lockman doubled home Al Dark in the eighth inning to break a 3-3 tie and give the Giants the nod over the Reds. Sheldon Jones was the winner in relief.

Robin Roberts blanked the Cubs on five hits for the Phils. The triumph was Roberts' 17th and his sixth shutout. Bibby Bell scored the Braves' winning run against the Pirates from third base on a wild pitch.

Brockville Rally Beats Batawa; Picton Wins 4-3

Batawa Shoemen passed up the opportunity to take over fourth place in the OBL standing last night when they dropped a close 5-4 decision to the league-leading Brockville Memos at Batawa.

Picton Athletics although held to four hits eked out a 4-3 decision over the Kingston Disney Leafs in Picton in another league tussle.

The Shoemen were leading 4-3 in the eighth inning when a costly error brought home the tying run. Brockville scored two more in the latter half of the ninth to win the game.

Hayes held the Shoemen bats to six hits over the nine-inning route while Art Wright gave up 10 in a losing cause.

Over in Picton, Kingston's young hurler, Rose stifled the homesters' bats to four hits over the route but lost the game.

Frankie Dyer, Picton ace was nicked for nine safeties.

Cleaners Edge Bakelite 8-7 In Series Opener

Cleaner Combines continued their winning ways on Wednesday night at the Alemite Field when they eked out an 8-7 win over Bakelite in the first game of a two out of three series to decide who will continue into OASA competition.

The game was a real pitchers' battle between righthander Jack Holmes of Cleaners and portsider Bobby Green of Bakelite. Holmes gave up four hits in the nine inning stint while Green allowed only three. Loose fielding by both sides kept the game always in doubt until the final out.

Cleaners were the first to tally scoring single runs in the second and third frames without getting a hit in either. Jones plated the first counter as he walked, took second on a sacrifice and came all the way around when Powers lofted the ball away. Derushie walked in the third, coming home on a three-base error by righthander Green, for the second run.

Cousins doubled, the first hit off Holmes, to open the fourth for Bakelite and Green reached first on an error. Both scored after two were down on Power's single to left field.

Score Five in Fourth

The Cleaners practically won the game in the bottom half of the fourth, however, when five runs were scored on a single inning-it-all. Three walks and three errors by the Bakelite nine proved costly as Jones, Mulvihill, Graham, Holmes and Derushie crossed the dish before the third out. Cleaners scored what proved the winning run in the fourth on Derushie's single, a passed ball and a three-base error.

Bakelite kept pecking away at the lead scoring singles in the sixth and seventh but a pair in the seventh to bring them within two runs of tying up the score.

Then Ray Burley, leading off in the 9th, smashed a high towering drive far over the left and centre fielders heads for a circuit clout. At this point, however, Holmes settled down to fire Cousins to pop out and threw the third strike by batting champion Bobby Green. Cook lined a hard smash to rightfielder Graham for the third and final out.

Graham Derushie and Young got the hits for the winners, the latter's being a double. Graham and Powers collected singles for Bakelite while Cousins doubled and Burley had a four-bagger.

Each hurler struck out ten of the opposition but Holmes had the edge in the walks department with five to three for Green.

These two teams hook up again on Friday night in what promises to be a thriller to the finish.

Lineup:

Bakelite: Littlejohn, 3b; Green-hall, 2b; R. Burley ss, Cousins; Green, p; Cook, lf; Gord Burley, cf; Harry Powers 1b; Ray Power, rf.

Cleaner Combines, Derushie, 3b; James, c; York cf; Jones, 1b; Mulvihill, ss; Graham, rf; Young, 3b; Draycott, replaced by Bunton in the 2nd, lf; Holmes, p.

With What-a-Man Ratterman as Key Fans Pick Larks Team of The East

By W. R. WHEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Aug. 23 —(CP) — Montreal Alouettes with proved Canadian talent and a flock of new imports, are shaping up as faster, snappier team than that which bowed out before reaching the Big Four football playoffs last year.

That's the opinion of coach Leo Lyman, who ventures that far out on the pre-season limb and then stays put without another word.

Some of the more loquacious football-minded are already tagging Alouettes the team to beat in the east. Their predictions may well depend upon import George Ratterman in the quarterback slot vacated by Frankie Filchock who joined Edmonton Eskimos after two big Alouette seasons.

May be Prize

Ratterman may turn out to be Hayman's prize. At 185 pounds and six-feet-one, he came to Montreal after three seasons with Buffalo and one with New York Yankees. Before that he was an all-American star with Notre Dame University.

The Yankees wanted him back so badly they went into court. The case won't come up again until late in September. By that time Ratterman expects to be proving his worth to Alouettes and cating less about his legal decision as his status in American football.

In the big squad practising these days, Hayman has 10 Americans, two now qualify as non-imports and a host of long hopefuls in middle-wing positions, where Trawick leads with his 230 pounds.

Canadian Wings

Canadians predominate for the outside wing jobs, where Yonaker is the only newcomer. There Alouettes have such well-known performers as Ralph Toohey, Keith English, Glenn Douglas and Johnny Taylor.

Bruce Coulter, a top-notch Canadian quarterback, will handle the team when Ratterman is not playing.

There is plenty of good Canadian talent in the backfield— halfbacks Normie Kwong, Lou and Red Paniagge; Tommy Manastersky, versatile hockey-football man, and Bobby Cunningham.

Two Canadian regulars are back at the flying wing post, Johnny Harper and Joey Pal.

Maxim Upsets Murphy, Experts In 'Surprising' 15-Round Win To Retain Light-Heavy Title

By TED Sl

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Joey Maxim settled the world's light-heavyweight crown tightly on his swarthy brows today by virtue of his surprising 15-round decision over free-swinging Irish Bob Murphy.

It was a case of boxing science versus brawling and science won.

Three tough challengers await Maxim. Most probably the champion will fight Bob Satterfield in Chicago Dec. 7. There is talk of a fight in London with the British champion, Alonzo Ratcliffe, and out on the Pacific coast there is a Harry "Kid" Matthews, who, his supporters claim, is the best of the lot.

The strife-packed fight in Madison Square Garden last night came as a surprise to the experts who picked Murphy to win and made him the 12-5 betting favorite. This was the Maxim first defence of the title since he won it 19 months ago in London from Freddie Mills.

"About the seventh or eighth round I thought I had things under control, but he scared me every round," said Maxim afterwards.

"I felt very strong, but I just didn't have the steam to put the punch you need," said Murphy. "I had him sick plenty of times. If it hadn't been for the 15-round limit I have gone down in the first round, and if he had gone down I think I might have finished him."

Eight Rs Closed

From the fifth round on Murphy fought with his right eye almost closed, possibly poked out of his left but wading in fearlessly, and taking repeated left combination punches to the head and body. Murphy wanted to fight at close range but Maxim refused to take cruel punishment to do so. Maxim managed to keep him at a distance at least half the time, and hurt him both from short and long range.

There was no argument over the decision. Referee Ruby Goldstein scored the fight seven rounds to three for Murphy and two even; the Judges, Harold Barnes and Charley Shortell, made it 10-5; the Associated Press scored it 11-4.

The reason Murphy was the favorite was simple. Last May 8 Maxim, swelling up to 181½ pounds, was mercilessly beaten by the then heavyweight champion, Ezzard Charles. He got down to 172½ pounds for this fight, one pound lighter than Murphy, and it looked like too great a strain.

The surprise came when Maxim took all that Murphy could throw, held him off in neat and artistic fashion, peeled him with his left and peppered his head and body. Maxim did not escape unhurt. He was bleeding at the nose after the first round, and his left hand was swollen by the end of the fight.

"I never did think I could knock him out," said Maxim in heartfelt tribute to his opponent.

The fight did well, drawing 8,435 who paid $48,445. And there was an additional $100,000 from television and radio. Maxim gets 40 per cent of the take and the same percentage of the TV and radio income. Murphy's share of each is 30 per cent. .

'Come, Come, Girls', This is Tennis

New York, Aug. 23 (AP) No more frilly bloomers on the tennis courts. Patrons attending the national championships starting Monday at the West Hills club have to take their tennis straight.

That was the edict handed down today by the sedate fathers of the ancient sport who are horrified by the trend toward lace panties, low necklines and other fashions that accent femininity.

"A few innocent kids have been trifling for years with tennis costumes designed purely for commercial reasons," said Russell B. Kingman, president of the U. . Tennis Association.

"We think this must be stopped. We . . . sane, and now insist upon, is more good taste, with emphasis on competition instead of questionable fashion displays."

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

New York — Joe Maxim, 172½, Cleveland, outpointed Irish Bob Murphy, 172½, San Diego, 15 (light-heavyweight championship).

Oakland, Calif. — Maurice Harper, 146, Oakland, outpointed Phil Terranova, 150, St. Louis, 10.

Montreal — Laurent Dauthuille, 160, France, outscored Eugene Matteau, 159½, New York, 10.

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Cleveland's Satchel Paige, baby pitcher from Iowa, 17-year-old Bob Feller, started his first major league baseball game 15 years ago today. He struck out 15 St. Louis Browns, missing the American league record by one and Dizzy Dean's major league mark by two.

Cricket Tourists Lose First Game

Vancouver, Aug. 23 (CP) — England's touring Marylebone cricket team Wednesday suffered the first defeat of its Canadian tour as against 10 wins and one draw in its previous matches.

A strong Mainland League side beat M.C.C. by a score of 110 runs to 82 before 1,200 spectators at Brockton Point grounds. It reminded them of the day in 1933 when another local XI beat the Australians by 147 runs to 139, an Aussie team that included the famous Don Bradman.

The Governor-General Vis-count Alexander, attended Wednesday's game during the afternoon and stayed until the finish. Timed after their long train trip from Jasper, Alta., the M.C.C. players did not reach Vancouver until 11 a.m. Wednesday and were out on the field at 1:45 p.m.

Sawyer to Head Phils Next Year

Philadelphia, Aug. 23 (AP)—Robert R. M. Carpenter, Jr., president of the Philadelphia Phillies, says he hasn't signed over a 1952 contract with manager Eddie Sawyer but he intends that Sawyer will manage the club next year.

Rumors have persisted here for weeks that Sawyer might be moved up to general manager next fall as Phils are seeking someone to replace him as field pilot.

The 1950 National League champions have floundered all season and have been in trouble staying in the first division. Attendance is off by 250,-000 paid admissions from that of last year.

Lacrosse

(By The Canadian Press)

The confident Fergus Thistles went out like giant-killers last night to win the first of their best-of-five semi-final series 7-3 against Peterborough Petes, last year's champions and top team this year in regular senior Ontario Lacrosse Association play.

Mimico Mountaineers made it two straight when they won 13-6 and 9-6 to take 4-0 in their semi-final series with Brampton Excelsiors, Monday night—they won 9-6, 11-8, less decisive victory.

A fast-paced rally that netted eight consecutive goals gave St. Catharines Athletics a 12-6 win and a one-game lead over Hamilton Tigers in the second game of their play-off test. Monday night they see-sawed to an 11-11 deadlock after two overtime periods.

Thistle's upset win at home came as a surprise after they just managed to squeeze into the final playoff spot with a three-point lead in a two-game, total-goal series with Toronto West Yorks which ended Monday night. Much more can be said about the hand you saw yesterday. Take another look at it here:

♠A K 9 8
♥K Q 7 6 4

♣A Q

The cards are in the hand of the south player who was the dealer. The opening bid by this hand was two hearts. West broke in with a bid of two spades and north passed.

When east also passed, south doubled. West passed the double of two spades and north should have passed it, too. But north took it out with a bid of three clubs. Which was wrong.

If partner has not bid, a double of a suit bid of less than four is for takeout. Except if the double is by an opening two bidder. Then is the double always for penalty. This was the point brought out.

But an opening of two in a suit is forcing to game. When west bid two spades, you may wonder if north's first pass was unusual. No, it was not. The west bid keeps the bidding open for south.

With no bid by west, north would bid two no-trump to deny having a sure trick. With the west intervening bid, north gives the same information by passing. His pass denies having a sure trick.

If his pass over an intervening bid denies a sure trick, how could he have shown a sure trick? By bidding something. Thus did south learn by the north pass that no sure trick was there.

Without a sure trick in north, south sees no slam. Even a game may not make. So, more points can be won by doubling the opponents. North should have known this. Let me tell you why.

The opening two bid is forcing to game. South does not have to double to force north to bid. Bidding three in a suit is not game. Nor is a bid of two no-trump. Either of which south could bid.

North knows this. He knows he would be forced to bid again if south made any bid that was not game. Therefore, he should know the double was not for takeout. That's the logic of it.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 23 — (AP) — What has happened to Larry Parks?

I called at his house to find out the answer. Little has been heard about Parks since he testified before the House of Representatives Un-American Committee last March that he had joined the communist party in 1944 and dropped out in 1946.

I record his replies verbatim:

Q: Have you done any work since you testified?

A: No.

Q: Why not?

A: Because there have been no offers for my services. You know how Hollywood is.

Q: What about your plans to produce a picture with your own company? Do you have the backing?

A: Yes, we had backing. But if you can't get work for any other producer, it's pretty risky to make a picture on your own.

Q: What do you plan for the future?

A: I don't know. I have thought about other lines of work, but the movies have been my chief occupation for the last 10 years. I suppose I will have to decide about the future soon. I've never worried about how I'd get along, but you have to think about it when you have two kids.

Q: What kind of mail did you get about your testimony?

A: I received about 575 letters and only 14 were derogatory.

AT THE BELLE

From the eloquent pen of W. Somerset Maugham, one of the world's greatest living writers, come Trio, a brilliant witty and moving Paramount release which plays for the last times today at the Belle theatre. Here is exciting proof that Maugham's reputation as a story teller stands on very solid ground for this screen linking of three of his best stories in an unusually rewarding combination of humor, adventure, pathos and irony that is sure to appeal to the widest possible range of cinema tastes.

It is difficult to select any single performer as outstanding, for all the characterizations are marked by unique polish and conviction. Top honors must inevitably go to Mr. Maugham, in his rare narrative sense and genius for companionate observation that have made Trio such an irresistible package of charming entertainment.

REDS REFUSE DEMANDS

Washington, Aug. 23 — (AP) — Russia refused again Tuesday to return 670 small land - lease naval ships as demanded by the United States. The Soviet contended the U. S. is welshing on an old agreement to sell them. At the same time, the State Department disclosed Russia's negotiators have indicated a willingness to increase their "final offer" of $240,000,000 to settle Moscow's long - overdue lend-lease account. The U. S. has demanded $800,000,000.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

...ook in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, August 24

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Rather friendly day all told but especially so for activities and work that require energy, alertness, perseverance bravery. Successful (pray) for our armed forces. Avoid money extravagance.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Not all favorable for personal advancement, particularly if new undertakings are involved but there are no wholly unfavorable conditions. Finish incompleted matters; rest over weekend.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Your usual routine, work and other interests with which you are familiar most favored for quicker accomplishment today. Try to clear desk or bench of odds and ends. Don't relax.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Splendid indications now. Use careful judgment starting new undertakings to get best results possible. And don't neglect things already started. Enjoy weekend sanely.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—An admonition in your sector: be not careless with machinery, tools, vehicles, mixers, mowers, all hazardous work asks sensible care. Day pleasant, favorable on whole.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)— Should be very satisfactory day for writing, study, research, analyzing problems; all sound mental interests. But day generally does not sponsor unknown projects not urgent.

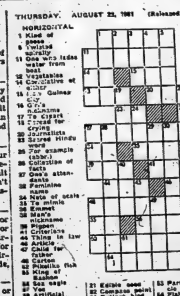
September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Gain, benefits possible, depending on how you manage, plan schedule. System, steady effort more important than spurts of speed and force. Familiar matters okay. Enjoy weekend sanely.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — You are especially honored with Mars strongly and beneficiently aspected. Difficult matters, personal interests can gain through your cleverness and steady endeavor. Pray daily.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius)—Promising for your rightly directed affairs, for benefits earned. Finances difficult problems among favored. Don't overdo, however, and spoil possible accomplishments.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn)—You, too, in line for gain, opportunities. Good day for military successes, matters requiring bones, effort, especially for military successes, matters requiring vigor, endurance, fortitude, the public's needs.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Have no "life" or "route" in mind. Indications excellent for advancement, new avenues for progress later on. Plan carefully, have faith in you and in success, you'll succeed.



February 21 to March 20— (Pisces)—May feel restricted in some things now but this should help you. Restrictions may be helpful, bolster us for later action, aid our strength, spiritual benefit.

YOU BORN TODAY: Diplomatic, proud but not egotistical. Unusual talent for profession bringing you in touch with the public. Could be also actor, speaker, lawyer, teacher, but patience must be developed, maintained. As a rule industrious, capable of acquiring much knowledge. Maybe has mechanical ability. Clever, abhor deceit. Like the honorable and above board. Resent orders, suggestions unless you have already mastered this. Prayer, pleasant. Intelligent associates and relaxation requisites.

Birthdate: Aubrey Beardsley, artist; Wm. Francis Gibbs, noted naval architect; Chas. G. Gill, author; Rob't. Herrick, English poet.

FARMER TURNED CUPID, UNITES D.P.'S

A Sutton, Ont., farmer with a kind heart, Victor Swain, found himself cast recently in role of cupid when an employee on his 100-acre tobacco farm, Ilka Skitchefski, Polish-Ukrainian D.P., was unable to save sufficient money to bring his fiance, Walma Fritsch, to Canada. Mr. Swain loaned him the money. Young couple, seen above, now happily married, are working together on the Swain farm to repay their benefactor and their dreaming of a farm of their own some day. — Central Press Canadian.

Motor Cars Ended Big-Time Sailing States Old Skipper

Toronto (CP)—Marriage and motor cars have been the doom of big-time sailing, says William Churchill, a devotee of canvas and polished brass for nearly 70 years.

The 85-year-old sailor says nowadays the trend is to small pleasure craft—dinghies and one or two-man jobs. He is the owner of a 45-foot ketch, the Madora.

He says the automobile is the main reason young men aren't spending the time they used to under sail.

"Now they go by car to the lakes they couldn't reach in the horse and buggy days," he says. "But the wedding bells are almost equally responsible.

"Young sailor fellows used to come looking for a chance to get in a boat crew, they'd work hard at it too—for free. Now the trend is toward smaller boats because you can't get five or six men to stick together. As soon as they're married, you never see them again."

Churchill was born at Portugal Cove near St. John's, Nfld. That meant he was all but born with a tiller-sheet in his hands.

As a boy he sailed the Grand Banks on fishermen schooners. At 20 he left the sea and came to Toronto to work as a plasterer.

At the turn of the century he was sailing the waters of Lake Ontario in the Dolphin, a 35-foot sloop which he and his brothers built.

A few years later they built the Madora. Oak and other materials were used for them and the craft was completed for about $3,800.

"It couldn't build her today for under $18,000," Churchill says.

The veteran yachtsman has been watching the Toronto sailing scene for over 50 years. He regards the period just before the Second World War as tops. Since then the number and size of sailing craft has fallen off.

Churchill now sails only a few times a year, and because it takes four men to sail the Madora, he will have to dispose of the cutter.

"I'm going to scrap her," he says. "I'd rather scrap her than see someone fooling around and making a mess of her."

ARLINER CRASHES IN CALIFORNIA, 47 KILLED

50 Severe Cases Of Dysentery Reported in Sask.

Appalling Conditions Found In Mennonite Community

Saskatoon, Aug. 24 — (CP) — A government doctor said last night there are more than 50 severe cases of dysentery in the Bergthal Mennonite settlement east of Hague, Sask., where four babies already have died.

Dr. B. T. Dale, director of preventive services for the Saskatchewan Health Department, said a new cases are "very serious" and that one baby boy cannot possibly live more than a day or two.

"We expect many more cases before the outbreak is checked," he said.

Today he planned to warn the Manitoba government that the epidemic may spread to Mennonite settlements there, through the west unless Mennonites who have been exposed to the disease are located immediately.

Tropical Disease

The disease — an inflammation of mucous membrane and the intestinal tract — is normally found in tropical and semi-tropical regions. It is accompanied by severe pains.

Dr. Dale said he found Mennonites living under appalling conditions. Many children lived in one room and slept seven to a bed.

There were "unbelievable conditions" of filth and disease in the settlement.

Dr. Dale made an all-day tour of the Bergthal community yesterday to investigate conditions which led to the four deaths.

Doctors have said the disease responsible apparently was contracted in Mexico, among a party of 62 Mennonites from the district who made a vain attempt to reach Honduras where they wished to set up new homes.

The party comprised 30 adults and 32 children under 18 years. They travelled 16 hours a day, had no toilets for the babies and no proper food. Mexican authorities turned back the caravan at Mexico City because the Mennonites' papers were not in order.

Returned to Canada

After further attempts to get into Honduras and Mexico, the Mennonites returned to Canada. Two of the children died in Hague district had not been on the trip.

Dr. Dale described conditions in the Mennonite settlements in the Steinbach-Ste. Agathe area of southern Manitoba.

He said he has started a campaign for the burial of communities on preventive measures against disease. The Saskatoon sanitary inspector, and a public health nurse would be in the district "day, isolating cases and improving sanitary conditions.

The doctor said he travelled "miles and miles" from one shack to another, from bush hovel to bush hovel, from filth to more filth.

TWELVE KILLED AS TWO CRACK TRAINS COLLIDE

Two American Soldiers Victims, Many Hurt

Metz, France, Aug. 24 (CP)—The Basel-Calais express rammed into the rear of a Frankfurt-Paris train near here today. At least 13 persons, including two Americans were killed, and possibly 40 others, about half of them United States soldiers, were injured.

Seventeen French soldiers were among the injured.

U. S. Army headquarters at Orleans, France, sent two officers to investigate reports that the baggage and mail cars of the Basel train were demolished.

The wreck occurred when an express from Basel, Switzerland, to Calais, France, smashed into the rear of a train from Frankfurt, Germany, to Paris which carried many American soldiers.

Eyewitnesses said the accident scene was one of horror. Arms lay hand here, a leg there and one body cut in two. Baggage was scattered for hundreds of feet of track.

The train from Basel was going about 50 miles an hour when it hit the Frankfurt train which was running 30 minutes late.

Farmer Loses 16 Choice Steers

Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 24—(CP)—Sixteen choice steers have died on a farm near here and officials today opened an investigation to see if the animals were poisoned.

Wray Stewart, a Leeburin township farmer, told the Department of Agriculture that he lost half his livestock within the last two days.

Department officials said cherry leaves were found in the animals' stomachs. However, it has not been established that the greens were poisonous.

Possibility of a disease was ruled out.

Dr. J. Henderson of the Ontario college at Guelph has been asked to conduct the investigation.

Dr. William Bristance of Desbarats, a veterinarian, said the animals may have died from prussic acid. The poison is found on old cherry tree leaves.

The animals were valued at a total of some $4,000.

McCallum Undecided About Fourth Term

Toronto, Aug. 24—(CP)—Mayor Hiram McCallum today declined to confirm or deny reports that he will run for a fourth term in 1952.

He said: "I can't tell anyone at this time which way I'll go. This is not the time to talk about it."

But of Alderman Nathan Phillips, an announced candidate in the Dec. 3 voting, the mayor said: "I don't care what he says about me. If he gets tough with me, I'll blast him off the face of the earth. Attacking the city's government, when there is absolutely no basis except his own anxiety to advance himself, is another matter."

The alderman yesterday criticized recent board of control decisions. He also had a unkind word or two about Mayor McCallum personally. The mayor's remarks today were taken as a reply.

State Department Given no Report By Canadian Govt.

Washington, Aug. 24—(AP)— The state department has had no report from the Canadian government on its investigation into alleged contamination of Rainy Lake on the Minnesota-Ontario boundary.

Jack McFall, assistant secretary of state, advised Senator Edward Thye (Rep.-Minn.) that Canada promised last month to check into the matter but has made no report.

Thye wrote the state department several months ago about reports of the pollution of Rainy Lake. He said it appeared the trouble was due to the Steep Rock Mining Company Limited, at Steep Rock Lake, Ont.

They quoted the Minnesota water pollution control commission that the effect of the contamination is a serious menace to public health to the water supply, to fish life and the scenic beauty of the lake.

McFall told them that the American Embassy at Ottawa brought the matter to the attention of the Canadian government in July. The Canadian Department of External Affairs advised the American Embassy July 31 that the case was being investigated and a report would be made.

The Embassy has continued its efforts to obtain action by the Canadian authorities, but thus far no reply to this government's urgent representation respecting this matter has been received, setting forth the result of the investigation," McFall said.

"In the words the Canadian government does not take action to terminate this pollution of boundary waters consideration will be given to having the matter referred to the international joint commission for consideration. . ."

Toronto, Aug. 24—(CP)—Western Oils broke into the lead in early afternoon dealings today as the exchange's index of 25 selected issues jumped 2.02 points to a new high of 210.98. The previous high of 209.59 was reached Aug. 21.

Industrial stocks climbed briskly to a new high at 339.28 in the first hour of trading. The former record for industrials was 338.62, set Feb. 12.

Wife of Missing Diplomat Leaves Vacation Area

Beauvallon, France, Aug. 24—(AP)—Mrs. Melinda MacLean, wife of a missing British diplomat, was believed today to have left the villa here on the French Riviera where she has been vacationing. She has been gone two days, watchers said.

Her three children, mother, sister and nephew are still in the isolated villa, here at Cap St. Tropez.

It was learned that when the postman arrived yesterday with a letter from Chicago for Mrs MacLean, the postman was told to take it to the Hotel Du Golf in Beauvallon. The letter was still there today, uncalled for.

Donald MacLean, her husband, disappeared May 30 with Guy Burgess, a foreign office colleague, and there have been reports they went to Russia. There was speculation when Mrs. MacLean left for her holiday that it might lead to a reunion with her husband in this area— where he was last reported seen.

Woman Seriously Injured in Crash

An elderly woman was said to have suffered fractures of both legs as well as internal injuries and six other persons were shaken early this afternoon when two cars collided head-on at the brow of a hill on Highway 47 one mile north of Cleges.

No names of the persons involved in the accident were available at press time.

Bush's Ambulance was called to the scene when the ambulance from Tweed was not available. Dr. Richards from Northbrook attended the injured. The accident occurred shortly after one o'clock.

50 SEVERE CASES

Dr. Dale called a special meeting of the rural municipality council. Steps were made to stem further outbreaks.

District schools will not open at the usual dates next week, but remain closed perhaps a fortnight.

Dr. Dale said that 99 percent of the Mennonites who made the journey here are suffering from dysentery or had it previously.

More Cases Expected

"Their aunts, brothers, cousins have caught it from contacts at the church and a few more — a very large circle is affected.

"We expect many more cases before it is checked.

"The greatest trouble is that the unaffected majority here believe that groups of Mennonites —are below normal in their standards of education, living and beliefs.

"They believe that, as God produced them, anything coming from anyone else is harmful. They are against all education, against medicine, against anything which civilization brings.

"I couldn't persuade them to send their cases to hospital. All I could do was give them medicine, and try to improve the filthy conditions in which they are living. . . .

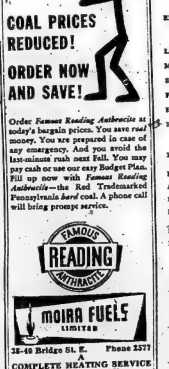
Tiny Ray of Hope Truce Talks May Be Resumed

Tokyo, Aug. 24 — (AP) —Only a tiny ray of hope remained today that Korean truce talks might be resumed.

If they break down completely, the United Nations ground commander and his troops will go back to fighting "with hate and eagerness."

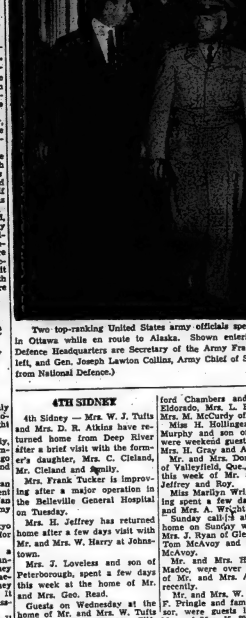
"We feel very confident we can whip the enemy in the present battle area," Lt.-Gen. E. M. Van Fleet said at his Eighth Army headquarters.



The U.N. command in Tokyo had not abandoned all hope for the armistice talks.

Officers searched through a new proposal top communists for an indication that they might want to resume the Kaesong armistice talks which they broke off abruptly Thursday. It was in this harshly-worded message we found a ray of hope.

The message was from Kim Il Sung, North Korea premier and supreme commander, and Gen. Peng Teh-Tsai, commander of Chinese troops in Korea. It was addressed to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.



FISHING TACKLE

New Glasgow, N.S. — (CP) — Two boys who claim they caught 20 cod by using an ordinary garden rake wrote to the local paper about it. The boys said they caught the cod in the prongs of the rake and dragged it ashore. It measured almost 30 inches and was 8½ inches around.

FRIVOLOUS DEMANDS HURT LABOR

The Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO), in negotiations with John Morrell and Company of Ottumwa, Iowa, have included in their twenty-seven contract adjustments, demands that the company provide free, to each employee, a 15-pound ham at Christmas and again at Easter. The union, which claims 2,800 members, also has asked the company for two hours paid travel time a working day for each employee — an hour before and an hour after the working tour; a day off with full pay each birthday for an employee; free lunches furnished by the company or one dollar a day extra instead of the lunches, and a 30 minute lunchtime to be considered working time. In addition the union is asking that the company sell meat to the employees wholesale.

It is reported that the company had no immediate comment on the demands.

It is not surprising that the company has remained silent. In all likelihood the management has been struck dumb. Who would dare to suppose that any responsible union such as CIO could have become so completely ridiculous as to ask a company for the concessions which they have demanded of Morrell and Company meat packers?

Now what possible reasons have they presented these demands?

Labor unions usually confine their attention to the betterment of working conditions and the promotion of labor-management relations with a view to a better understanding of mutual problems. In the past the unions rendered valuable service to the cause of the working man in the matter of wages, hours, working conditions, supplementary benefits. Now, in some cases they seem to be more concerned with the humiliation of management than the bettering of industrial relations.

The time is long past when management was a slave driver and concerted action was needed to bring about necessary reform. The unions won that fight. Today, if anything, it is management that needs to be protected from labor. If the demands of the Packinghouse Workers are justified why should not the appliance workers demand that the company shower them with toasters, mix-masters, and light bulbs? Why not gasoline engine drivers, rock drillers, truck drivers, and brick layers would all be entitled to the same rights.

What seems to have been forgotten by the unions is that a worker is entitled only to an honest day's pay for an honest day's work. Stealing is a harsh word, but any worker who shirks on the job, or is over paid, or demands more than a day's wage for his work is a thief. It might behoove the unions to spend some of their time urging their members to buckle down to the tasks of their employment. The cause of labor is not aided by mocking management with frivolous and irresponsible demands that are neither legitimate nor justified.

CHEAPER CLOTHES

(Windsor Star)

Even though the prospect is not immediate, possibility exists there may be cheaper men's clothing, of the cloth that contains all or part wool. For there has been a sharp break in the price of wool in Australia and New Zealand. In Australia the average price has dropped by £100 a bale since the peak of March which, on a full season's clip would amount to a decreased value of £360,000,000.

A major reason is that United States buying has declined, perhaps due to price controls being imposed in that country, perhaps to a cessation of stock-piling. As it was United States bidding (helped along by that of Russia and other countries) which forced the price up to fantastic levels, the increase tapered off and then fell.

Higher and higher prices that had to be paid for wool had a direct effect on men's suits and other clothing containing wool. Whenever wool prices advanced, there was soon a reflection on the retail prices. The natural logic of events would suggest as wool prices decline, so will clothing prices.

The drop cannot be in the immediate future, however. The clothing industry, from manufacturer to retailer, now is stocked with high priced wool. This will have to be cleared through the channels of trade before the lower priced wool can reach retail counters. Otherwise, the trade would take a loss all along the line. But it is good to know this basic material is descending from the price stratosphere.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST
(Copyright, 1951, Edgar A. Guest)

JUSTIFIABLE NEGLECT

If you were at a summer camp,
A little girl of ten,
Although you had a postage stamp
And paper and a pen,
With boats to row and trees to climb
And woodland paths to roam,
Do you suppose you'd find the time
To write to folks at home?

Again, if you were ten years old
At camp, where mother went,
And had a blanket you must fold
And tidy keep your tent,
If you must put your things away,
Including brush and comb,
Could you take time from work and play
To write to folks at home?

If you'd a grandpa fond of you
And letters came from him
And you had so much else to do,
Say dance and ride and swim;
If you must go to bed each night
When counselors said you should,
Would you still have any time to write,
Although you'd said you would?

The picnic arranged by Mayor Charles Hanna, the members of the city council and the city officials which was held in Herman's Park at Rednersville was a most enjoyable and successful event. Mayor Hanna was the most moving spirit of the outing and he was ably assistant; in Teddie Austin who won the prize for the best quoit pitcher. Sid Fisher was another live wire and Billy Woodley and Percy Hall the life. Ald. Adams showed marvelous form as a ball player, Ald. Ballinger was a close second the way he played ball and tossed the 100 pound sack everything. Ald. French as pitcher in the ball game showed an assortment of curves and spit balls which was amazing.

George Ostrom arrived too late for the ball game and his place was taken by Robert Tannahill who played a fine game and knocked a three bagger. Ald. Wenaley stole four bases and was given walk. Sam Treverton had a tendency to hold the ball but he got a hit every time up. He is a swift runner. Charlie Mott knocked out a home run. Ted Austin manipulated a double play and Billy Woodley a three bagger over the ground. Harry Stock is some pitcher and did not hit more than 10 batters, so he was permitted to live. Billy Harden, the gas man, was there and told the ladies to say it to his face, but he is so pleasant that he got away with it; he is some ball player too.

The lineup for the ball game was as follows: City Council: Woodley, Wenaley, Adams, Ballinger, Fisher, French, Treverton, Bleecker, Tannahill. City officials: Stock Colden, Harden Mott and Rowlands. Mayor Hanna was the umpire and he escaped with minor injuries. The score was 63 to 55 in favor of the city council. In the races John Kerr, Bleecker, Colden, Mills, Mott and Rowlands showed surprising speed. In the putting of the shot Charlie Mott was first and Sid Fisher second.

900 Employees Of Aluminum Co. Walk off Job

Shawinigan Falls, Que., Aug. 24 (CP)—Nine Hundred employees of the Aluminum Company of Canada's Shawinigan Falls plant walked out early today following failure of a last-minute effort to settle their contract dispute with the company.

The men, members of the national council of aluminum employees went on strike at 2:35 a.m. EDT, in support of their demand that the company accept the recommendation of an arbitration board.

Company spokesmen said they were ready to accept all clauses of the unanimous report with the exception of those dealing with grievance procedure, job-evaluation and seniority rights.

Shortly before the walkout, the union rejected a company proposal for settlement on the basis of reducing the duration of the contract, the company offered to have the contract expire in February, 1953 instead of February 1954.

Special Session Of Ont. House Opens Sept. 24th

Toronto, Aug. 24 (CP) —Premier Frost announced Thursday that a special session of the Ontario Legislature will open Sept. 24 to pass old age pension legislation.

He said the session would be devoted solely to pension legislation and that he expected all the details of an agreement with the federal government on pensions between 65 and 70 would be completed by that date.

The premier said he was anxious that the legislation be expedited so that pension cheques can be sent to the over-70 group and to those eligible between 65 and 70 by New Year's day.

He also announced that the government will give each applicant a form authorizing the Ontario government to look at Dominion records for proof of his age.

"With this system, I think we can prove 95 percent of the cases," he said.

Pensioners May Earn $240 Yearly

Toronto, Aug. 24—(CP)—Maximum income which a needy person may receive and still be eligible for a full old age pension is to be increased from $120 to $240 a year, Ontario Welfare Minister George Challies told Thursday. The new arrangement is expected to become effective June 1.

The change in the pension regulations will be carried out under the recently announced Dominion-provincial pension scheme. Under the new scheme the federal government will share the cost of pensions to the needy from 65 to 70.

Effective with the new scheme, single persons over 65 who qualify for pensions will get $40 a month and will be permitted to earn $240 a year in addition. Couples will be permitted a total of $1,200.

The changed pension legislation will also simplify regulations covering the assets a pensioner may have.

New Airport Will Be a Second Trenton in Size

North Bay, Aug. 24 (CP) — This whole city is looking forward to the RCAF moving in Sept. 1. On that date a jet fighter squadron will settle down at the Department of Transport Airport here.

An attractive, full-scale village of 170 houses with a modern six-room school is almost ready for the servicemen and their families. The village is close to the airport which also has seen major changes.

Hangars and administration buildings are under construction. Runways are being lengthened and a line of barracks for single men is going up.

RCAF officials say the place will be a second Trenton in size. It is a strategic mustering point for northern defence. In an emergency the airport would respond to calls from radar stations which are being built to screen industrial areas further south.

Better to Give Than to Receive

Portland, Me., Aug. 24—(AP)—The 47 guests at Mrs. Elizabeth's home for orphans today learned a great and timeless lesson—it is better to give than to receive.

Two weeks ago they heard a radio appeal for funds to help Kansas flood victims.

The girls talked with aunts of the Sisters of Mercy, who operate the home and camp, and decided to donate their candy money and do without candy for a while.

A collection was taken up. One girl gave a penny. That was all she had. Another had two cents and she gave one. Altogether, they had $3.64 in cash.

The girls today received a letter and a package from Topeka, Kans.

In the letter, Ned Fleming, chairman of the Topeka Flood Relief committee, thanked them and said committee members thought they should still have their candy.

So, along with the letter came a 25-pound box of chocolates and 15 boxes of candy bars.

The girls had a party today.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

V.I.P. is one of those phrases constantly about him, and it catch-which became popular in the last war. It means very important person. And it begins to look as if it had moved into the English language on an official and fully accredited status. At the V.I.P. lounge, familiar with other big airports, there is a well-appointed sign to the effect that only accredited V.I.P.'s are admitted to the lounge.

It is separated from the main lounge by a few grey curtains, and is a sort of flowers set conspicuously, as though to honor somebody, maybe a bride. Not being a bride, we don't go through the half-open curtains.

I had to see Lord Alexander at the air port about some small item regarding a story we are doing about him, and to catch him on his departure back to Canada I had an official note to say that he would be in the V.I.P. lounge. As I drove into the airport, I was told the driver asked the police for, the V.I.P. lounge. We ran into the commandant of the airport, and that is what he called it, too: the V.I.P. lounge. The more you say it, the more you hear it, the larger it grows.

We got into it just as the sandwiches and tea were being passed around, the same sandwiches and tea as in the U.P. lounge outside the half-drawn curtains—U.P. being an entirely casual title thought up at this moment and meaning us Unimportant People.

This might be said for official slang, that there was a time not so long ago when more than half-drawn curtains and a vase separated the V.I.P.'s from the U.P.'s; and the sandwiches were not the same.

PROGRESS REPORT ON INFANT FEEDING

Back in the days when legs showed only in a high wind doctors made a practice of prescribing sodium citrate (citrate of soda) for the modification of cow's milk for infant feeding. From one to two grains of it added to each fluidounce of milk served to prevent formation of large curds in the infant's stomach.

A little later, about the time I mounted my brother Andy's bicycle and rode the cinder path to Shortsville to begin the study of medicine in the office of my preceptor, Dr. Dadlet A. Kiseline, citrate of soda was prescribed by lime water in milk modification.

Lime water is made by putting a lump of unslacked lime the size of a walnut in two quarts of boiled water in an earthen crock or jar. The water should be cold, not hot. Stir thoroughly, and allow it to settle. Pour off the clear liquid without stirring up the sediment. The clear liquid is lime water. Add a teaspoonful or two added to each glass of milk or each feeding, helps keep formation of large curds. Lime water is weak stuff—there is more lime (calcium) in a glass of good milk than in a glass of lime water. It is also an alkali and non-irritating, does not blister or generate gas itself, and is absorbed readily. Perhaps it is especially good to relieve nausea.

Still later, when I had begun to throw my weight about internationa, that is in the public prints of this and the two or three other benighted countries, lime water for milk modification went out of fashion in infant feeding. Not just because I didn't encourage the use of lime water myself, this it behoove me to be modest about, but because a better and more natural modification of cow's milk for infant feeding is effected by the addition of plain milk with plain boiled water—the sugar and proteins in the mixture sweetened with a spoonful or two of milk sugar (lactose) to the quart modified cow's milk. Woman's milk contains more milk sugar than cow's milk.

For infants five or six months old strained oatmeal water or strained barley water may be used in place of part of the water for dilution cows milk to modify it for feeding. Oatmeal water is more laxative than barley water. The oatmeal from which it is made should be replaced with first unstrained oatmeal or barley water after a few weeks and then gradually with thin gruel, so that the baby at six or seven months will be to be examined by a doctor be-be ready to eat strained foods. That is to your physical education instructor, if your school provides one.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

FULL SPEED AHEAD

We often think how pleasant life could be if all the doubts and uncertainties were removed. After all, these seem to cause most of our daily worries; we are forced to decide, to refuse, to stop or go, and doubts beset us.

Perhaps we think how much we could achieve if we did not have such doubts. If we could only stop worrying and plunge ahead, regardless of the consequences, how great we would become! Damn the torpedoes. Full speed ahead! Such are the temptations—is that the key to greatness?

No, it is not. Great men are not those who have no doubts, but those who overcome them. Even Admiral Farragut, in his famous words to the torpedoes (if he is quoted correctly), showed not that he was unconcerned about the dangers, but that aware of the danger, he was still resolved to press forward.

The Bible constantly shows us that even men of the greatest faith have their doubts. When God first called Moses to begin the deliverance of his people from slavery in Egypt, Moses replied, "Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh?" Peter, later the staunchest of Jesus' friends, was reluctant at the first meeting to obey Him.

But Moses overcame his doubts and in the end conquered and changed the course of history.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE WIND

Here in my favorite island retreat I have for years sat and watched the effect of the wind. The large variety of trees add accent to the touch of this wind. The poplars have leaves that reversibly reflect the sunlight and glimmer like tiny particles of silver. The different varieties of green on the great trees that have for more than a century been growing to their maturity, give out a fascinating display as the wind rises and falls and then dies away.

Outside my cabin I watch the shadows play like little runaways on the green grass and about the verandah. All day the bending and swaying of these friendly trees almost humanly whisper their joy and satisfaction, and scampering across the waters of the lake, are millions of waves running their happy race to the rocky shore, to meet the laughing dancing waves of the land, and when night time arrives I have watched the burnished rays of the golden moon that stream through the thicket of forest nobility, and later in the evening I watch the stars dance upon the surface of the water, and dodge the gentle wind that I wished to be my friend for hours and hours away.

There is a song to this wind, as well. Poets have written about it many a time. I would too, if I were a poet, but I only have a poet's heart and appreciation, which must suffice. There is something divinely peaceful and comforting to the touch of this wind. It speaks to the sturdy trees, and helps to give new life to the young saplings. I have watched birds cling to branches in the grasp of the wind, though they took sport and enjoyment in the process.

One of the most beautiful books I have ever read was that written by Helen Keller, which she titled: "Listen The Wind." People who pilot planes through the miles above the earth, do a great deal of thinking, speculating and meditating on revolution, as they journey with the wind. The wind becomes their companion and their guide. I like to think of the wind as God breath in the world.

An information bureau, for the convenience of visitors, is located near the entrance to the exhibit in front of a display of sculptured pictures, featuring the many Canadian National services.

Widow of Oil Operator Charged With His Murder

Dallas, Aug. 24. (AP) — The widow of millionaire oil operator Thomas W. Dowell has been charged with his murder.

Dowell was shot to death as he and his wife, Rebecca, sat in an automobile parked in a lane Monday night.

Mrs. Dowell told police the gun discharged accidentally as she attempted to remove it, wrapped in a towel, from a glove compartment.

Homicide Captain Will Fritz said two shots were "fired on the spot" and he added that he also had evidence the gun was also wrapped in a towel at the time it was discharged.

Two empty cartridges were inside the gun. Only one bullet was found. "A double action gun just doesn't go off twice," Fritz commented.

Times Says U.S. Has Drafted Rigid 'Set of Rules'

New York, Aug. 24. (AP)— The New York Times said today the United States has drafted a "rigid" set of rules for the Japanese Peace Conference "designed to prevent any filibuster by the Soviet Union and its allies".

A Times dispatch from Tokyo, signed by James Reston said the rules "are expected to be ready-off at once for debate immediately after the opening of the conference in San Francisco Sept. 4."

The rules now are being discussed with other governments, and must be approved by the conference before adoption.

The rules drafted under discussion would forbid amendments to the treaty, the story said, adding: "It would allocate one hour to each delegation for formal comments on the treaty, but forbid further debate thereafter until all other delegations had spoken.

"Moreover, while each delegation would have the right to interrupt speakers on points of order, no substantive debate would be allowed on the point of order, which would be ruled upon at once by the president of the conference.

"Delegates interrupting on a point of order, under these rules, would be permitted to appeal against the ruling of the presiident, but this appeal would be put at once to the vote."

The drafting under these rules "are intended to enforce the United States view that delegates have been invited to San Francisco to vote for or against the draft treaty as it now stands and not to amend the draft or obstruct its being put to a vote on final adoption after five days."

"The Russians and their allies are expected to wage a fierce fight against adoption of the rules," Reston wrote.

Highlanders Take Top Picture Play In British Papers

London Aug. 24. (AP)—Canada's visiting Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders today took top picture play in British newspapers.

Four morning newspapers and one evening paper carried front page pictures of Princess Elizabeth chatting with members of the regiment's pipe band, including Lt.-Col. J. M. Stevens, commanding officer, and Lieut. G. L. Nielson, who led the 1st Argylls in Korea.

Most popular shot showed the princess fondling a bearskin pandkerchief work on the nose of her daughter, Princess Anne, while Col. Farmer and Lieut. Nielson looked on.

The photographs were taken after a command performance at Aberdeen, Scotland, by 26 pipers, all from Hamilton, Ontario.

The Princess, who is the regiments' Colonel-in-Chief, had invited pipers to her holiday home in Aberdeen. The Canadians have been staying at Stirling Castle since competing in the overseas pipers championships and attending the Gathering at Edinburgh, Saturday.

Designers Show Many Silhouettes For Fall Wear

Paris, Aug. 24. (Reuters)—In the varied new Paris fashions for fall and winter wear, every woman can find a silhouette becoming to her type.

One after the other, Jacques Fath, Jacques Griffe, Jean Lanvin, Jean Desses, Christian Dior and others presented their collections and Paris is literally humming with fashion talk.

The general trend shows a tendency towards longer hemlines. But this is not a revolution like the post-war "new look". Fath, Griffe and Christian Dior drop the hemline one or two inches, depending upon the individual dress.

Silhouettes stress the natural curves of the body. Waistlines are whipped over rounded hips, emphasized by short peplum and basque jackets. Other waistlines are banded and swathed in the new draped cummerbunds.

Full skirts contrast the contrast of whittled waists. Jacques Fath likes this type and drapes them in contrasting fabric with wide sashes or belts. Dior cuts the waist in slim princess lines, marked at the hips and bustline with cuffs or yokes. This is the central theme of Dior's collection.

Daytime skirts at Fath's are full or accordion pleated, and measure yards around the hemline. They are shown over stiff backram or horsehair petticoats, which just peep out the hipline and the skirt.

One expects anything from Schiaparelli and this season her biggest innovation is seen in barrelled hemlines. Hoop skirts, straight from the Pasha's wives, are exploited on coats, jackets, day and evening gowns. Schiaparelli calls this line "The Shape".

Another innovation is the kangaroo pouch, a pleated drape placed squarely on top of the stomach.

Carven goes to darkest Africa, taking the jungle theme which is exploited primarily in the "giraffe silhouette". The giraffe's height is duplicated in high stand-up collars which hug the throat.

Shortages Hamper Big French Trade in Cooked Snails

Barr, France (AP)—A supply crisis is creeping up on the French industry, and it's no joke to Adolphe Willm.

He's the "snail king" of northeastern France, and his factory supplies processed snails as far as Paris and Lyons. It is one of the big money earners in this town near Strasbourg.

Many tourists take at least one stab at eating snails, always drenched in garlic. They cost between $1.10 and $1.40 a dozen in restaurants.

Although snails are prepared in France, they are mostly imported alive from Germany—7,000 or 4,000 tons a year. For 19 years, Willm says, German law has protected the supply by declaring a closed season part of each year.

Price Increases

"Unfortunately," Willm said, "a lot of Germans acquired a taste for snails in the four years they occupied France. We used to get all we needed from Wurttemberg and Baden. Now we have to bring them from all over western Germany, and the price is going up all the time."

Purchasing agents in German towns send their supplies to a central mail depot at Kehl, just across the Rhine from Strasbourg. From there they go largely to Willm, or the small canneries of Burgundy.

During the season, which runs from October to March, Willm eats snails three or four times a week. He recommends them with a nice cold Riesling wine, which he makes himself and sells as far away as San Francisco.

At 54, Willm has always been in the wine-and-snail business. His 27-year-old son is in it with him, and a grandson, he hopes, will follow.

Careful Process

The snails are starved for 10 days to remove impurities. Then they are plunged into boiling water to kill them and get them out of their shells. Shells and snails then part company, to meet again only at the end of the process.

A strong broth is brewed from the snails, for which Willi claims great virtues. It is highly seasoned, with herbs and a lot of garlic. Meanwhile, the shells have been sterilized. The holes are repaired with a kind of cement Willm prepares from crushed shells. Repairing the shells requires a specially-made brass instrument like a syringe.

The snails are then stuffed back into shells—naturally not the ones they originally came from. The sauce is added and the opening of the shell corked with a pat of butter.

They are delivered fresh to restaurants, where they need only be heated before serving. The ultimate consumer pulls the snail from the shell with a special two-pronged fork and mops up the sauce with bread. Willm says some food fanciers don't even bother with the snail—it's the sauce that counts.

CAMPBELLFORD W.I.

The Campbellford Women's Institute held Grandmothers' day at the home of Mrs. Ed. Hawley on Thursday afternoon, with a large number of grandmothers attending.

The Institute Ode opened the meeting, followed by the roll call by Mary Stewart Collect, which showed all members present. After a short business period, Mrs. G. G. Stephens took the chair for the following program.

A silent prayer was said for all grandmothers, after which Mrs. Stephens gave a reading entitled "Times Have Changed". Mrs. Allan Lewis displayed a wedding veil worn by her mother 65 years ago, and Mrs. G. Stephens showed the ladies a linen towel which has been in her family for over 100 years. Mrs. Frank Little gave "If You Meet a Man of Woe", and "Faith of Our Fathers", was sung by the ladies.

Mrs. George Longmuir, who is 84 years of age, proved to be the oldest grandmother present, and was presented with a lovely bouquet of flowers by Mrs. R. A. Rutherford. Mrs. Longmuir still takes an active interest in Institute work.

Current events were given by Mrs. Fred Hendy, after which Mrs. Allan Lewis, president of the Seymour West branch, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Charles Puffer of Warkworth, Percy Women's Institute.

Mrs. Puffer interested the ladies with some of the highlights of the Guelph Conference held in the spring, and was thanked for her talk by Mrs. Harry Jacques.

Mrs. Stephens held a contest, "Things found around grandmother's house", for which Mrs. Thos. Campbell and Mrs. Mac Waddell's group won the prize.

The singing of "God Save The King" brought the meeting to a close and refreshments were served to the ladies by Mrs. Allan Lewis, Mrs. Jas. Black and Mrs. Thos. Dunham assisted by Mrs. James Clark and Mrs. Gordon McCulloch.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Any Boy Should be Lucky to Get Any Who Likes This Girl

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 16 years old and I carry a large burden on my shoulders. My mother left with us when we move, and I have two children to take care of and a house to keep clean. I enjoy taking care of these children for three years and I can go out just once a week with my friends.

I am engaged to a wonderful guy, but we can't go out often because of my home responsibilities. We love each other very much but sometimes I think I ought to break the engagement and let him go, because I feel that I have quite a while yet to take care of my sister and brother, and it doesn't seem fair for my fiance to carry the burden and always expect him to skip home with me. S.P.

Dear S.P.:

Under ordinary circumstances I would think that 16 was much too young for a girl to be engaged. But, as you say, you have certainly a very large burden of responsibility, and you have done it bravely that I feel you must be a more mature young girl your age. The kind of thinking you are doing shows unusual maturity, too, for a 16-year-old. It also shows a very unselfish, thoughtful and self-reliant disregard. But, as you say, you have carried

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON OF THE WEEK

Salt and Salvation

By ROY L. SMITH

That was a daring figure of speech which Jesus used when He called his followers "the salt of the earth," and warned them that upon their shoulders there devolved the responsibility for saving the world from its wickedness.

Created Generation

Not long afterward one of Jesus' disciples stood up in the midst of a vast multitude in the city of Jerusalem and cried out three yourselves from this crooked generation." This has been the warning the Church has cried out in every century when it has been discharging its responsibility.

In the midst of immorality, corruption, chicanery, and moral laxity the task of the church is inescapably clear. It must be salt. It must infect the life of the community, the nation, and the world with a sense of reverence, respect for law, loyalty to good morals and a strict devotion to decency. Church Has Duty

The roster of almost every great modern government that has enough intelligence to call themselves Christians that we might expect the millennium if each public official were to do his duty as a Christian.

There are enough members of Christian churches in North America to guarantee that every trial would issue in justice, that every act of every government would be dominated by a moral conviction, and that the poor and oppressed would come into their own, if all Christians were to translate their Christian professions into social and political action.

Good Religion on Loose

It is almost impossible to estimate what might happen in the world's life if all the individuals who call themselves followers of the lowly Nazarene were to translate their theology into action in the jury box, the ballot booth, the council house, legislative halls, and the luncheon club.

If good religion were ever let loose in the slums, there would be a revolution.

If good religion were ever let loose in the field of industry, labor, management, production, a long list of heads might fall but the cause of the plain man would be furthered.

If good religion were ever let loose in international affairs the astronomical sums now expended for war purposes would be sufficient to provide the most liberal instruction, and opportunity for all the underprivileged areas in all the world.

Personally we're inclined to accept the idea of a correspondent who says he lays strips of aluminum foil between his vegetable rows. He reports this discourages the weeds. It keeps the soil moist, and reflects the sun's rays to the plant.

There are so many uses for aluminum that the lie fills a good-sized book, and is always growing. At present we can't supply Canadian manufacturers with all they want. But we're busy building new plants and powerhouses so that you may be able to buy more of the aluminum articles you would like to have. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

If good religion were ever let loose in the field of race relations, white race might be amazed to discover the extent to which the colored races were contributing to the welfare of all men.

It's a Big Job

The pastor of a large church in a western city was being reconciled by some of his official members to "keep out of its religious controversies. That isn't a preacher's job."

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 26th: "The Christian's Responsibility in Public Life." Matthew 5:13-16; 13:33; Luke 19:1-10; Acts 2:25-39; 1 Peter 2:13-18.

"I would gladly keep out of this mess if I dared," the preacher replied. "Nothing in the world could be more distasteful to me than the necessity of fighting the political machine in this town. But I have waited for ten long years for the people to do something about the situation. I have plied with some of you to take up the cudgels and fight for the life of this brazen set of gangsters. Now you have not called me in. I'm not asking you why you have not, nor am I charging you with cowardice because you do not, but I am only saying that because you have failed to do your duty as citizens of this city and protect your community, I am compelled to. The least you can do, under these circumstances, therefore, is to stand by me when the forces of evil rally to their support and begin to wreck my good name and reputation."

It was not a preacher's job, but the preachers had to do it because the laymen were not doing it, and it had to be done.

CAMPBELLFORD

Baptist Church Pastor Speaker At Rotary Club

Campbellford, Aug. 23 — The Campbellford Rotary Club held their regular luncheon meeting this week, with Mr. H. S. Staples of the Baptist Church as guest speaker.

After being introduced by president Franklin Linton, Mr. Staples gave an interesting speech on the subject of the "Inseparable Twins". "In asking ourselves where the material ends and the spiritual side of our national, domestic and business life begin and end, we will find they are "inseparable twins" and the attempts of men to separate them have never been satisfactory," he said, "A combination of both gives life all that is worthwhile, beautiful and lasting."

He went on to say that the material things are tangible, in which we relate our business, industrial, commercial, educational and welfare work to this general heading. However, we are only touched the perimeter of human need.

The spiritual twin has been cloistered in monasteries, and chapels, beyond the reach of many, divorced from the other working companion.

He stated that material, with the spiritual, only then can be created that which is lasting.

Especially, these two factors have failed completely to produce that which is good and lasting, and it could be that our spiritual failure is greater than that of our material.

Mr. Staples stressed that in order to achieve the highest success in life, we must bring these twins together, as the greatest Humanitarian of all time did when He said "Men shall not live by bread alone. Come with me" and "I go to prepare a place for you."

Rotarian Ward Baker extended his thanks to the speaker on behalf of the club, after greatly enjoyed listening to the reverend who was teacher, preacher and business man before becoming pastor of the Baptist Church.

Pre-Season Wins Stamp Tiger-Cats Strong Contenders East Grid Loop

By TOMMY MOORE
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Hamilton, Aug. 24 (CP)—Hopes run high in Hamilton for the city's first Big Four football championship since 1936.

Victories over two rival clubs in pre-season exhibition play stamp the Tiger-Cats club as strong contenders in eastern Canada's major loop. They start the campaign with a night game here Aug. 29 against Montreal Alouettes.

The emphasis coach Carl Voyles put on speed for the 1951 campaign has paid off with a 17-11 victory over the defending champion Toronto Argonauts at Buffalo and a 38-17 romp over Ottawa Rough Riders here in Hamilton.

Last year Voyles stressed power, rather than speed, and it brought the Tiger-Cats within striking distance of the title. They wound up the regular schedule one point ahead of the Argonauts but went down 33-18 in a two-game-points playoff.

For this red-hot football city, the only question is whether the team can keep up its exhibition-victory pace when Voyles cuts his American imports to the seven allowed under Canadian Rugby Union rules. He had 12 for the two exhibition games and since then has lopped one—back Peter Elzaich—from the club roster.

The task of picking the seven best Americans won't be easy. Voyles has four back from last year—Vince Mazza, Jack Carpenter, Ralph Sazio and Vince Scott. Mazza appears a certain choice for an outside wing job.

Negro Quarter Tops

Top man among the newcomers is Bernie Custis, Negro quarterback from Syracuse University who seems to have the pivot job in his hand. Last year's quarter, Stan Heath, was late coming to terms and then suffered a shoulder separation. Zeke Martin hasn't lived up to advance notices.

Other imports are: Paul (Spinner) Ohlson, former Buffalo pro who played with Ottawa last season; Ned McNeill, a back with a Pittsburgh Steelers pro background; Hal Waggoner and Joe Shinn, a pair of fleet-footed backs from Tulane University.

Six young Canadian players who may hit star status this year provide another bright spot. A 186-pound six-footer, Floyd Cooper scored touchdowns in each of the exhibition games. He is just out of junior ranks. Others are Doug Gray and Blake Crooker, from the University of Western Ontario Mustangs; tip Lozzo from Queen's; Vincent Collins from McGill; and Peter Newman of St. Catharines, just out of high school ranks, who is being groomed for an outside wing slot.

Others with the club include: Stan Walkowski and Alfie Crooker, three-year men; Jackie Stewart, top-ranking snap Jake Gaudaur; snap Jack Rogers; Peter Wooley, up from junior; hard-driving Eddie Bevan, former Big Four all-star; outside Louis DiFrancisco, a veteran Sam Soccia, up from Dundas intermediates. Inside Mel Aull; veteran inside Earl Valiquette, with Edmonton Eskimos last year; junior Cam Fraser, who may do the kicking; Ralph Barsetti, play for the title.

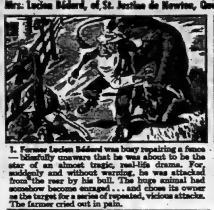
In a desperate bid to bolster their stretch drive in the American League pennant chase and overtake the league - leading Cleveland Indians, the New York Yankees have called up their young "superhoy" Mickey Mantle, from Kansas City farm team. Original planes called the 19-year-old phenom to remain in the minors for the rest of the season to gain experience, but the lack of punch exhibited by the world champs caused these plans to finish. Mantle, playing—centrefield for the Blues, has set a torrid pace in the American Association. In 60 games he made 60 hits for a .363 average, hitting 11 homers, 9 doubles, three triples and batting in 50 runs. — Central Press Canadian.

Marlene Stewart Sets Record At Eastern Open

Kingston, Aug. 24—(CP)—Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., added the Cataraqui Golf and Country Club to her list of victims yesterday when she set a record 68 for ladies for 18 holes in the qualifying round of the eastern provinces open ladies' golf tournament and international invitation open.

She posted a 73, two under the regular par, and three-under yesterday's par, to beat her closest opponent, Dainty Chisholm from the Royal Montreal Club, by four strokes.

Fifty-eight entrants teed off for the qualifying round. The 16 with the low grosses will play in match play today and tomorrow in elimination matches.



Tomorrow afternoon the two finalists will play an 18-hole match play for the title.

Marlene shot r. 38 on the front nine and knocked 1 one strokes off that in her red sid nine. Miss Chisholm was 6, on the first nine and 38 on the second. Mrs. N. J. Carlson, Turnolo Rosedale, took third low with 82. Mrs. G. Pyke, Whitlock course, in Montreal was fourth low gross with 83.

Although Miss Chisholm parred more holes than the 17-year-old Marlene, and their nogies were the same, Miss Stewart came up with five birdies as against one for the Montreal girl. Miss Chisholm lost four strokes on the seventh and 12th.

WOMAN USES CHAIN TO STOP MAD BULL ATTACKING HUSBAND

Mrs. Lucien Bédard, of St. Justine de Newton, Que., saves farmer's life by tackling enraged beast

1. Farmer Lucien Bédard was busy repairing a fence — blissfully unaware that he was about to be the star of an almost tragic, real-life drama. For, suddenly and without warning, he was attacked from the rear by his bull. The huge animal had somehow become enraged . . . and chose its owner as the target for a series of repeated, vicious attacks. The farmer cried out in pain.

2. Inside the house, Mrs. Bédard heard her husband's frantic shouts for help. Running to the barnyard, she took in the situation at a glance. The farmer was lying on the ground, trying in vain to ward off the bull's continued assaults. With quick presence of mind, Mrs. Bédard grabbed the only weapon at hand — a chain — and, rushing to the animal, began to flail him with it.

3. Finally the courageous, determined woman succeeded in winding the chain around one of the bull's horns. Surprised, the animal stopped and turned its head. This gave Bédard a chance to get up. Although injured, he was still able to get the bull under control. To Mrs. Lucien Bédard, whose bravery undoubtedly saved her husband's life, we are indeed proud to present The Dow Award.

Lemon Squeezes Yanks For 2-1 Victory To Put Indians Three-Games Up

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"MUSCLES" COMES THROUGH!

It could be those "can-can" carters that he is wearing; the law of averages, or the fact that an unkind fate that has frowned on his second activities in his last three starts, discovered it had a permanent leave of absence, but Bobby Mowat came through with a sparkling batting chore against the Smiths Falls Royals last night, slitting the second-placers' hindgowns with three hits, while the Redmen came up with a near-flawless fielding performance.

Mowat had the Men of O'Brien slibbing out of his palm the most of the way, sending 11 of them down by the whiff route, and climaxing the feat with a neat three-striker against a pinch-hitter in the ninth.

A right nifty tilt with the hurling predominating. In the shadow of Mowat was Bertiques, product of Hull, who went in as a relief hurler in the first and yielded but one hit, that a booming triple by Vern Geyer in the late innings. Both sides were all even on the clouts each getting a trio.

The victory hoists the Reds back into undisputed possession of fourth slot with a full-game edge on the Batawa Shoemen. They meet the Brockville Memos here Saturday night in what should be not only a stiff test but a honey of a baseball game.

GLENS LOSE THRILLER!

Meanwhile down Kingston way Don McNevin's Glen Roy Intermediate "A" city champions were edged in a thriller by the Kingston Alcans. Early game errors, two of them by Roger Mallory aged the gift of a run saw the Glens come back fighting. Then with the bases loaded, Lynn, their fielder who is built like Fort Henry, got the surprise of his life when he banked a looper over the first-baseman's head and it rolled along the foul line for a triple and three runs.

Manny Halloran, Glen hurler from that point in promptly squelched the Alcan clubs, holding them to two hits. The Glens outhit the Alcans 8-6 but that cluster of three in the third was the knockout blow.

The second game is scheduled for the Alemite Field here on Saturday night starting at six o'clock. And fandom here is in for a mere-se-less novel night if the Alcan master-minds decide to start Jim Hogan with the pitching chores. He's a powerfully-built laddie-buck with an Irish brogue, as broad beerra as the beam of a snow-boat. He is a flip-pitcher. No wind-up, merely whirls the forearm and she's away, bebbers. But his classic is his slow ball. It is a curve-ball, when that of a cricket bowler, a lawn bowler and an alley slinger. He grasps the ball in both hands, leans over forward, takes a careful bead on the plate with a sequinted eye and, bingo, that apple flieth through the air with the greatest of ease.

Outside of the disastrous third, it was an outstanding game between two evenly-matched powerful squads, in fairness to the Glens it must be said they hit the ball into the hands of the Alcan fielders practically all evening. Tomorrow night's game should be a classic. Glens must win it to force a third and deciding tilt and it should be worth anybody's while to see these teams in action. As we said before they have split six of six o'clock; plenty of time for all to take in both it and the Brockville - Redmen baseball game.

THIS IS IT!

Both teams have a lot to lose when the pairing of Mike and Ben Sharpe collides with the alliance of Fred Atkins and the Masked Marvel in the tag team wrestling feature at the Alemite Arena this Friday night. The defeat of the Marvel would be curtains for that mystery-maman, as he would have to un-mask and end his hidden career. As for Atkins, he has already taken on the hefty and grizzled the Sharpes, when he teamed with Manning, who has been laid on the shelf. If Atkins loses, that would just about end his threat as a team opponent for some time.

Other highlights of the card will be Pat Flanagan meeting Mayes McLain, the Mask's manager, in the semi-final and Tommy O'Toole clashing with Lou Sjoberg.

EXIT, THE ZEBRA!

And speaking of wrestling, in case any of you fans are interested the "Zebra" was exposed at a public unveiling in an Ottawa ring the other night. Principal at the expose rites was one Larry Campbell, a Montreal out of Montreal who floored the Striped Herror after fifteen minutes of rough-house tactics.

The Hood refused to take off the facial disguise after being disfigured but that soon promptly tied him up in the ropes and with the aid of the referee let daylight into the Zebrian map after twelve months of hibernation.

Oh yes, who was it? A wrestler out of Chicago by the name of Zebrowski. Hence the mystery the mask and the over. He joked about it in the dressing room later saying "The mask never handicapped me but it sure got hot at times."

The Gananoque Hockey Club at its annual meeting the other night disclosed that it ended the season with $27.66 on the right side of its ledger. The published financial statement revealed the club's receipts were $5,966.03 as against expenditures of $5,938.37. Receipts from games were $3,536.43 and "six players' salaries, $6,536.11".

It was revealed at the meeting that there is a strong feeling that the town should enter Senior "B" circles this season, with imports brought in to strengthen the team.

Hot Hurler Heaves 3-Hitter Mitchell Double Gets Winner Bo-Chisox Win; Brooks Lose

Cleveland Indians, steaming three games ahead in the brisling American League pennant flight, have the world champion New York Yankees set up for the kill in the American League.

The Indians widened their first-place margin to three games yesterday by taking the opener of a vital three-game series 2-1. Bob Lemon turned in a superb three-hit job in outpitching Vic Raschi for win No. 15.

And the way the Indians are clicking on their familiar home grounds, they have high hopes of blunting the Yanks' bid for a third straight flag. Yesterday's triumph was Cleveland's 18th straight at Municipal Stadium this season and the 19th in their last 23 starts.

Early Wynn (14-11), a tough guy when he's right and a louse, like, will go against the Yankees tonight before a crowd of about 70,000.

The Yankees are gambling on Stubby Overmire (3-7), for the Saturday tilt, and Eddie Lopat or Allie Garcia (17-8) ready to go against Ed Lopat Sunday.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel selected Overmire for the important second game because both of his previous choices, Allie Reynolds and Bob Kuzava, are out with injuries.

Must Win Two

The Yankees must win the next two games in order to stay in the running.

The Indians scored first in the third inning when Hank Bauer reached second on an error and a double steal. The Indians tied the score with a' run in the fourth on a single by Mitchell and singles by Bobby Avila and Harry Simpson. Dale Mitchell doubled home Jim Hegan with the winning run in the fifth.

In other American League games Philadelphia Athletics defeated Chicago White Sox 6-3; Boston Red Sox humbled St. Louis Browns 9-3 and Washington Senators shut out Detroit Tigers 10-0. St. Louis Cardinals downed Brooklyn Dodgers 4-3 in the only National League game.

Cards Beat Brooks

Toronto - born Dick Fowler with help from Carl Scheib, pitched the Athletics to their third straight victory over Chicago. The A's wrapped it up with three runs in the first inning against Randy Gumpert.

Mel Parnell coasted to his 15th victory as the Red Sox downed the Browns. Parnell chipped in with four singles to help his own cause.

The Senators whacked out 14 hits while Dutch Leonard blanked the Tigers on four singles. The Senators clinched the game with six runs in the sixth inning.

Lefty Max Lanier scattered seven hits to help the Dodgers to end a 14-game Cardinal losing streak at the hands of the Brooks. Ray Campanella belted his 27th homer for the National League leaders in the ninth.

Avons Defeat Motor Cars 11-7 In AA Playoff

Avon Jewelers took a commanding four-run lead over Belleville Motor Car on Thursday night at the Alemite field when they scored an 11-7 win.

The game went the first of a two game series, total runs to count, to settle a tie for third place in the final league standing. Second game will be played during the early part of next week.

Thomson and Hatfield reached base by the walk route to open the game and "Shorty" Miller loaded the sacks with an infield hit. Then Bisons forced a runner across with another base on balls. Sione drove another pair in with a single to centre after Hatfield had scored on the first out. Semark fanned and Bland grounded out to end the inning.

Semark Hits Homer

Singles by Murray, Rogers and Donovan combined with a pair of boots by the Motor Car infield netted the Avons seven more runners in the bottom of the second frame. They added another trio in the third as the Motormen fell apart for four errors although there was not one safe hit.

"Jud" Semark drove a tremendous drive over the right-centre field for the auto men's only other counter until the ninth but Bisons forced a runner with other three tallies in the fifth on doubles by Bland and Murray and a single by Day.

Neither team plated again until the top of the ninth when the Motormen surged back strongly with three runs. Hatfield's double and a bunt single by Miller were the only safeties but the former was nailed and forced to be replaced by Tapp. It was the fourth immobility which saw the ankle was sprained or broken.

Forty more errors by Belleville Motor Car and a single by McDougall got two of the runs back for Avons and gave them a four run working margin to carry into the next encounter.

Hatfield and Donovan each collected a double and a pair of singles while Miller, Rogers and Murray hit safety twice.

Tapp Baldwin, the winning hurler whiffed an even dozen batters whereas Avons got five bases on balls, three of them in the first inning. His opponent, Sione, fanned six and did not allow a walk.

Two-Run Homer Gives Leafs Win Over Baltimore

(By The Associated Press)

Jackie Collum, little lefthander of Rochester Red Wings is a prime example that you don't have to be a strapping six-footer to get ahead in baseball.

The five-foot eight inch 160-pound Collum turned in his 13th International League victory against one defeat last night as he pitched the second-place wings to a 6-3 triumph over Buffalo Bisons. Collum became the first lefty to defeat the Bisons in their own ball park this season.

He limited the Bisons to four singles and clinched his own game with a two-run homer — his fourth of the year—in the sixth inning off Jim Tavy. Tavy also homered for the Wings.

Frank Catanzaro, another good hitting pitcher, hurled the last-place Springfield Cubs to a 9-3 decision over the league-leading Montreal Royals. The Cubs' 13-hit attack against Tom La Sorda and two relief pitchers included five doubles and four triples.

Syracuse Chiefs nipped Ottawa Giants, 5-4. Bill Baker drove in both Syracuse runs with a bases loaded single in the ninth. The triumph was the Chiefs' fifth straight.

Leroy Anderson smashed a two-run homer in the 10th inning to give Toronto Maple Leafs a 5-3 victory over Baltimore Orioles. Mike Gollat belted a two run homer earlier in the eighth to count for Baltimores' markers.

Macken, Main Meet Yankees In Title Tennis

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 24—(CP)—Two members of Canada's Davis Cup team and two hot shots from the United States see action today in the semi-finals of the men's singles at the 60th annual Canadian lawn tennis championships. Today's pairings sent Brendan Macken of Montreal against Seymour Greenberg, Chicago, and Lorne Main of Vancouver against Tony Vincent, Long Island, N. Y.

The same situation holds true in the women's singles semi-finals with two Canadians and two top-ranking Americans seeing action. But here a Canadian is certain to be in the finals.

Pat Macken of Montreal will face Pat Lowe of Toronto and Doris Popple, Des Moines, Iowa, will meet Lucille Davidson, Lee's Summit, Mo.

Brendan Macken and Miss Popple are the tournament's defending champions.

Both Brendan and Pat Macken had tough struggles winning their quarter-final matches yesterday.

Brendan was forced to go all out before defeating Lawrence Barclay, young Vancouver star, 8-1, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Pat had to come from behind to oust Miss Mae Turner, Somerville, Ind., 2-6, 6-3, 7-3. In the last set she trailed 5-1, but staged a terrific rally to overcome her hoosier netter.

Main bested his opponent, Robert Dixon of Ann Arbor, Mich., Michigan State singles champion, a terrific battler, 6-4, 6-4. Dixon was seeded No. 3 among foreign entries.

Seymour Greenberg, former U. S. clay courts champion, scored a comparatively easy victory over Henri Rochon of Montreal, another Canadian Davis Cupper, 7-5, 6-3, 6-1.

Brantford Sox Blank Dutchies

(By The Canadian Press)

Fireworks at an Intercounty Baseball League game sent a fresh game in Brantford Thursday night were confined to the diamond, where the Brantford Red Sox lambasted Kitchener Legionnaires 8-0.

The Kitchener players, fearing repercussions of an incident here Tuesday night during the third game of their best-of-seven series, had asked for police protection when they arrived at Agricultural Park. But they proved needless to fear from the 4,000 spectators—2,800 of whom got in on raincheks—than from the batting and footwork of Brantford's heavy hitters.

In the night's other Intercounty game, London Majors won their way to the finals by a 3-1 victory over Guelph Maple Leafs in a game in London that went 10 innings. London took the series 4-1 and qualified to face the winner of the Brantford-Kitchener series.

Mowat Fashions Three-Hitter In Jinx-Chasing 4-2 Victory Over Smiths Falls Royals

In a pitchers' battle-royal last evening Belleville's John Mowat swapped three-hitters with two Smiths Falls hurlers and came away with a 4-3 win that lets the Redmen a little more solidly entrenched in the fourth and last playoff spot in the COBS standings.

Batawa Shoemen's 6-4 loss to Brockville on Wednesday evening and the Redmen's victory last night left the Joguns a full game in front of the Shoemen in their mad dash for the gold and glory of the last playoff position.

The game started slowly but by the time the fourth inning rolled around both sides seemed to square away their pitching and from there in only three men reached first base, two for the Royals and one for the Redmen. Mowat and George Berniquen of the Royals both had their stuff snapping off beautifully throughout the ball game leaving as they sent 19 men down swinging between them, with Mowat claiming 11.

The Royals appeared to be headed for great things in the first frame when lead-off man Phil Desjardins banged the first pitch into left field for base hit and then came to third on a passed ball. McGregor swatted a long high fly to right field and Desjardins scored easily.

Reds Score Three

The Redmen gave the home folks a big thrill in their turn at the first when they reversed their first inning jinx by collecting three runs and a 3-1 lead over Falls starter Sullivan.

Sam Mulholland started things by drawing a walk, and then John Dean blasted a scorching triple down left field line and with Mulholland romping home. Vern Goyer promptly scored Dean with a double to centre field and at this point the Royals' masterminds pulled a fast one and rushed in Berniques.

He immediately obliged by walking Tom Buchanan. Fitzpatrick filed out to centre field but Goyer advanced on the relay with a wild past third. Big Vern, after teasing Berniques with a few mad dashes toward the plate, made it official in a headlong dash for the payoff. Berniques was so startled that he hesitated and Goyer was home free and Buchanan moved to second. A strike out and an infield out retired the side.

The Royals, unable to score despite Wilie's two base carom off Carnegie shin in the second inning used three walks and a double steal to plate Desjardins for the second run of the game in the third inning.

The Redmen replied with their last run in the third with Vern Goyer walking, taking second on a walk to Harry Hamilton's third and coming home on Mac Carson's magnificent sacrifice bunt down the third base line.

After that the pitchers took over and aside from a single by Berniquez in the fourth and a scratch infield single to Legris in the eighth, the rest of them went in order. Berniques was even stingier giving up only one hit, Vern Goyer's single in the eighth, over the rest of the route.

In the eighth Goyer tripled to right field with one out. The relay to third went past the base and behind the Redmen catcher, but Goyer, who fell rounding third couldn't come on in to score. Manager Pat Wilson claimed a base because the ball left the playing field, but umpire Lorne Pond and Vern stayed and died on third. Manager Wilson entered a protest on the umpire's decision but then Mowat set down the Royals in order in the ninth to claim the win.

Golfers Ready For Important Links Tourneys

By ERWIN FRICKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 24—(CP)—It isn't just the pros that take their golf game seriously. Take, for instance, the 40 amateurs that were lining up putts and drifting down the fairways of the Royal Ottawa Golf Club today.

They played each shot as if a million dollars hung on it.

Actually the eight-Willingdon Cup team players and their juniors were only ironing out the wrinkles. They wanted to be mentally sensibly for tomorrow when the 36-hole medal play competition for the Willingdon Cup is played. Simultaneously with the inter-provincial team play, the juniors go at it for the Canadian junior title.

Walt McElroy of Vancouver, member of the B.C. team which is expected to give the defending Ontario squad a run for the Willingdon honors, said of his 11-hour efforts:

"I need practice because we've only got one more day before we get down to business."

Most of the players found the 6,235-yard, par-71 layout playing as it were 300 or 400 yards longer.

An exception was Erik Weslock of Windsor, Ont., who found the rolling, gully-cut course "easy".

Weslock shot a three-under-par 68 yesterday shortly after arriving here in a long dive by automobile.

Demon Hanover's victory worth $11,250, brought his total life-time earnings to $170,750.

US Tennis Stars Favored Over Britain's Ladies

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 24 (AP)—A highly competent team of American women tennis stars is expected to fend off the challenge of five of England's best women's players in the Wightman Cup competition today and tomorrow at Longwood Cricket Club.

A United States victory in this two day series would be the sixth in row since the Second World War. It also would be the 19th triumph in 23 such meetings since 1923.

Mrs. Hazel Wightman, Longwood's Mother of Tennis" installed the international competition and put up the cup as prize. England's last triumph was by four matches to three at Wimbledon in 1930.

The English players scored only one point out of a possible 35 while losing five years in a row since the Second World War.

In today's opening match Wimbledon champion Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., opposed England's Jean Quertier. Miss Hart is number one of the American team and Miss Quertier is number two, ranked after Mrs. Jean Walker-Smith.

Today's schedule: Singles — Miss Hart vs Miss Quertier; Shirley Fry, Akron, O., vs Mrs. Walker-Smith; Gussie Moran vs Mrs. Pat Canning Todd, La Jolla, Cal., and Nancy Chaffee, Berkeley, Cal., vs Val Ward and Joy Gannon, Mottram, England.

Tomorrow's schedule: Singles—Maureen Connolly, San Diego, Cal., vs Kay Tuckey, England; Doris Hart vs Walker-Smith; Miss Fry vs Miss Quertier; doubles—The Misses Hart and Fry vs the Misses Quertier and Tuckey.

The Dutchmen have also signed four holdovers from last year's squad, "Bud" Hurley, Don Oberholtzer, Art Hurst and Jim Pemfrates.

MORE HOT DOGS

Batting, Dale Mitchell, Indians — drove in one run and scored another as Cleveland defeated runner-up New York 2-1 to increase its American League lead to three games.

Pitching, Bob Porterfield, Senators limited Detroit to four singles in pitching Washington to a 10-0 victory.

Randy Turpin, who ousted one of the major upsets of the ring when he trounced Sugar Ray Robinson in London, England, to win the world's middleweight title for Britain, is shown (right) with his brother, Jack, as they become acquainted with that great American institution — the hot dog — upon their arrival in New York city, where champ will tune up for his return bout with Sugar Ray on Sept. 12. Wise money is going behind Robinson to reverse the verdict, but not Randy Turpin's confidence: "I think I shall take the title back with me."—Central Press Canadian.

THIS IS BIG YEAR FOR ESKIMOS, CLAIMS EDMONTON COACH

With Roland Miles, 1950 member of the All-American colored team, and Frank Filchock, former Montreal whizz, on their side, Edmonton Eskimos' stock in the western football conference has gone up. The Eskimos' rating was way down in the pre-season selections of the four-team "junior" circuit, but they amended matters when they obtained Miles, who runs the 100 yards in 9.8 seconds, in a surprise package from Regina Rams. With American talent doing the running and Filchock the passing, 1951 may prove to be, as Coach Annis Stukus, left, said at Malton, Ont., en route to clash with Alouettes in Montreal, "the Eskimos' big year."—Central Press Canadian.

Three-Run Triple Gives Alcans 4-2 Victory Over Glen Roys In First Game 'A' Playdowns

A bases-loaded four inning triple in the third innings that cleared the sacks was the big blow in the deciding factor in the 4-2 victory of the Kingston Alcans over the Belleville Glen Roys at Victoria Park, Kingston last night.

The game was the first of a best-of-seven OASA Intermediate "A" first round playdowns series. The second game will be played at Alemite Field here Saturday evening starting at six o'clock.

The game was one of the best seen in Kingston this year with Glen Roys outhitting the Alcans eight to six but committing costly errors and a first-inning walk that presented the winners with their first run.

Hurling Duel

Outside of the third it was a thrilling pitching duel between Marty Halloran of the Glens and Pat Deasy of the homesters. The Alcans gave the big Irish hurler sleight support with Ball, shortstop coming up with three putouts and eight assists, Halloran whilfed four and walked five with Deasy striking out two and starting on free tickets.

The third innings three-run eruption blossomed out of three hits a walk and a three-base clout. Smith went out on an infield groundout and Hopkinson singled. Holland went out via Alfie Rowbotham who snagged his pop-up and Jordan doubled. Nourry walked to fill the sacks and Lyons, husky Alcan right fielder looped a drive over Corbett's head that rolled down the right field foul-line for a triple, cleaning the bases.

Alcan opened the scoring in the first when Dolizny got on when Mallory let a third strike get away from him. Kallonis bobbled Ball's bunt and Smith got an infield tap that cluttered the sacks. Hopkinson walked to force in the run.

The Glens' got that one back in their half of the third when Bob Hunter singled to centre, stole second and came home on two infield outs. He slid beautifully under the bow to count the tally.

Deasy the disastrous bottom half and the Alcans were three up. From there Halloran stifled them with two hits.

Threaten in Seventh

The Glens threatened in the seventh when Tomaso poled a single to centre but was nipped at the plate after Sword drew a bounder to left field. Deasy settled down and retired the side.

Tomaso started a Glen rally in the ninth with his third hit of the game but went out when the centrefielder threw to third after picking up Corbett's single. Sword popped up short and Bob Hunter lined out his second clout to score Corbett, Culkin grounded out to end the rally.

Tomaso was the star of the Glens, pounding out three hits and fielding flawlessly. Bob Hunter got a pair of singles with Anthony Nourry slashing out a double. Corbett and Sword supplying the rest.

Lyon's payoff triple and Hopkinson's pair featured the Alcan attack. Lyons batted in two, double and Smith and Ball got infield hits that should have been

CALL FOR CUTOFF

Washington, Aug. 24—(AP)—The Senate Thursday joined the House of Representatives in calling for a cutoff of trade with certain Soviet Czechoslovakia until Associated Press correspondent William N. Oatis is freed from a Czech prison. Oatis was sentenced to 10 years on charges that his AP reporting constituted espionage.

A resolution passed by the Senate, 84 to 0, by voice vote, and the executive branch of the government is not compelled to comply with it unless it wishes to.

Ratterman-Filchock Aerial Show Features Larks Win Over Eskimos

Montreal, Aug. 24—(CP)—Montreal's 1951 edition of the Alouettes provided 31,583 fans with a successful football preview last night when they defeated Edmonton Eskimos 28-21 in an exhibition game.

George Ratterman, former New York Yankee punting ace, hurled four touchdown passes in a brilliant aerial show. Ex-Montrealer Frank Filchock was the big gun for the westerners as he made a bold bid to keep pace with his young successor, hitting three touchdown receivers.

Ratterman completed 15 of 18 tosses and Filchock 15 of 20.

The victory avenged Montreal's 11-6 defeat at Edmonton last fall.

Frank Aschenraenner, former Chicago Hornet halfback, and little Joey Paul scored two Montreal touchdowns each and Pete Thodos got the other.

Ross Miles, 21-year-old Negro, Harry Bunting and Bill Briggs registered assists for the Montreal and playing coach Annis Stukus used his talented Negro end Gene (Choo Choo) Roberts, ex-New York Giants halfback, scored on one of his pass catches.

White Four in First

In the first quarter, Montreal took five plays to march 75 yards as Ratterman whipped four straight passes and Aschenraenner and Roberts. Aschenbenner smarted a toss on the 20 and raced the rest of the way for a touchdown. Roberts converted.

Midway through the second session, Filchock started the picture play of the game. He fired a 15-yard toss to Normie Kwong, the former Calgary Stampeder, on the Montreal 35 and Kwong raced to the four-yard stripe before he laterlaled to Briggs while sliding on his knees. Briggs made it easily the rest of the way. Coach Stukus' convert evened the count 6-6. Edmonton recovered their own kick on the Montreal 33 and Stukus booted a placement.

With only 15 seconds remaining in the quarter, Ratterman peeled off his second payoff pass to Paul from the Edmonton five. The convert missed.

In the third quarter, Filchock flipped a short pass over centre to Bunting for a major that moved Edmonton ahead. Stukus converted to make it 15-11. It was later in the stanza before Ratterman hit paydirt again, hitting Paul with a short pass while parked on the Edmonton five-yard line. Again the convert went astray.

Aschenbrenner raced 70 yards in the final quarter after snaring Ratterman's 10-yard pass de score Montreal's 21-15 victory. Less than five minutes later Ratterman again pitched his deadly pass to Aschenbrenner to the Edmonton four on a 33-yard run. Thodos dashed around right end for the touchdown. Ambrose kicked both converts.

Filchock Flys 'Ess

Filchock then came up with a great performance at halfback, hitting Prather, Howie Hansen and Miles with short passes before firing his touchdown pass at Miles from the Montreal 35. Stukus missed the extra point to complete the scoring.

Edmonton made nine first downs to Montreal's 13 but drove for a total of 180 yards. They went 209 yards through the air and Montreal 163. Miles punted 378 yards, averaging 37.8 yards per punt, while Briggs averaged 37.5 yards a kick.

Alouettes rolled up 346 yards on 70 rushing plays for 10 first downs. They did better in passing, rounding up 13 first downs and a total yardage of 363. Montreal intercepted three passes. Rod Roberts and Bob Roberts shared the kicking chores, gaining 365 yards on 10 kicks.

Edmonton lost 30 yards on three penalties and Montreal was pushed back the same yardage on five penalties.

'Grandstand Managers' Direct Browns Today

St. Louis, Aug. 24 (AP) — About 1,300 fans running to manage a major league baseball club will have their chance tonight.

The "grandstand managers" will direct the St. Louis Browns against the Philadelphia Athletics.

Decisions on tactics to be employed will be by majority vote. The Browns' lineup determined by ballots cast by the "grandstand managers" in their letters of application.

Veeck plans also to sign two baseline coaches for the game from among 800 fans who wrote him why they thought they deserved the jobs.

Arthur Ehlers, general manager of the Athletics, has denounced the stunt as making a joke out of baseball. To this, Veeck replied Ehlers must be one of the fans will outmaneuvre the Athletics.

Mrs. David Dean of Delta, Ont., with 75 points of cheddar, won the silver trophy for dairying.

The Hibbert Co-operative Association, Ltd., of Staffa, Ont., took first honors in the print butter division.

AWARDED SILVER TROPHY

— RAIN OR SHINE —

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

With my conceit (confidence to those who dislike me) it is not uncommon for me to take in too much territory. But there are also times when I find myself not covering enough.

For instance, take a double. In teaching it, you hear me say: If partner has not yet bid, a double or less than four in a suit is for takeout; except, by an opening two bidder it is for penalty.

What I mean is: Any double by an opener of more than one is for penalty. Because any double by a three bid opener is also for penalty. So, any double by an opener of two or more is for penalty.

Take a case where you have the south hand shown here:

♠Q J 9 3
♥A K J 10 7 5 3
♦A J
♣None

You have opened the bidding with three hearts. West sticks in a defensive bid of three spades. Your north partner passes. So does your east opponent. Suppose you now double.

Partner has not yet bid. The bid is less than four in a suit. Ordinarily a double of such a bid would be for takeout. But not if the opening bid was two or more. Then it is for penalty. See why?

An opener of three in a suit has a long, strong suit. Similar over does that pair end in a different suit. Especially if partner does not voluntarily change it to a long suit of his own.

So, the opener should have no excuse to ask partner to take it out to some other suit. Thus, his double should not mean it is used as a signal for a takeout. It must mean something else.

If the three opener desires his side to bid it himself not be in some other suit. It would be in his own long and strong suit. If so, he would bid that in his own suit. If he did not pass, of course.

So, what could his double mean? It could only mean that the double expects to defeat the opponent bid. It is for penalty.

A rule you can follow is one you can swallow.

WORKMAN ELECTROCUTED

Hamilton, Aug. 24 (CP)—Robert Corneau, 18, who came here recently from Quebec, was electrocuted Thursday when he touched a three-wire cable while working on the foundation of a house. Firemen who attempted to revive him believe the wiring was short circuited.

Toronto, Aug. 24 (CP)—Farmers of central Ontario face a possible $10,000,000 loss of fall wheat through ravages of the Hessian fly, department of agriculture officials said Thursday. They estimate that at least 50 per cent of the crop has been blighted.

Hollywood, Aug. 24 — (AP) — Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, hottest performers in show business today, will be cooling off in the future, as far as their public appearances are concerned. The reason: Lewis' health.

The pencil-thin, brush-topped young comic is not as ill as some accounts have pictured him. But he did suffer a breakdown in Chicago near the end of the team's record-breaking theatre tour.

"It scared me; I was so tired I couldn't walk," said Lewis.

Lewis said it was his third breakdown. The first was at 16, the second three years ago.

"You see, I'm the hyper - - - what is it? - - - hyper-sensitive type," he said. "The work doesn't bother my partner Dean because he's stronger. He has his golf, which relaxes him. But I like to keep busy with my photography and my friends. Also, I handle all the business of the act — hiring musicians, getting arrangements, and so forth."

The pair claim they will play no more night clubs and will also cut down on their theatre appearances. They will limit themselves largely to movies, television and radio.

Capsule Review

"Saturday's Hero," is a well-made film, dealing with over-emphasis of college football. The plot concerns a poor boy whose football prowess gets him fancy offers for higher education. He finds glory, but bitter disappointment, too, as his world collapses. John Derek measures up to the demanding role as the gold star and does his best work to date. The film adds power with a fresh-looking cast and a sharp, dramatic approach.

Clear Weather Promised For C.N.E. Opening

Toronto, Aug. 24 (CP) —The Canadian National Exhibition opens its big gates today, with famous soldier Gen. George C. Marshall coming to take part in the formal ceremony marking its official start.

Gen. Marshall, United States Defence Secretary, could expect to find the 350 acres of grounds and buildings on Toronto's western Lakefront thronged with perhaps 200,000 persons of all ages by the time of the early afternoon proceedings. Clear weather, with a temperature of about 75 degrees, was forecast for the opening.

The 72nd run of the world's biggest annual show will continue until Sept. 8, the Saturday after Labor Day, closing down only on Sundays. Officials hope the over-all attendance will exceed last year's, which was approximately 2,000,000.

Some of this years' features have been brought from the Festival of Britain. They include three-dimensional movies produced by Canada's National Film Board. A display "British Book of Our Time," is the same as one now on display in London.

Oddities include a mechanical man, a four-legged girl with three arms and two heads, and a plastic model of an automobile engine.

Heavy Exhibit

In the agricultural competitions, 8,068 animals of blue ribbon calibre will compete for $125,000 in prize money. Some 1,500 exhibitors brought in livestock ranging from tiny Guinea pigs to huge Holstein bulls.

The crack United States Air Force band will be among the musical groups to perform at intervals in the daytime and evenings.

The Monticello Guards of Georgia, oldest regime in continuous service in North America, will march in the Warriors' Day parade tomorrow.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Much is up to you today. Day responds to practical, sound direction but is not so promising for extensive undertakings, immediate returns for efforts. Be reasonable; rest, too.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Overstimulating activities not advisable. Day will return most from consistent, steady effort rather than spasmodic spurts. A good book, healthy quieting hobby suggested for spare time.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Your Neptune and the Moon in most propitious configurations today favor your special interests and talents, home, family matters. Friendly day for rest, healthy fun, being congenial.

YOU BORN TODAY: Bright, penetrating, inhuitive, imaginative; good memory. Virgians make excellent critics, analytical experts, secretaries, advisers; religious. If true to God's gifts, your inherent characteristics are clever, conservative, sensitive, conscious. Will work tirelessly for loved ones, honorable goals. A tendency to criticize (constructively) can be misunderstood unless carefully watched. Very artistic, make top decorators, dressmakers, clothiers. Avoid worry, overwork.

Birthdate: Jas. Lick, founder, Lick Conservatory; Bret Harte, author; Jane L. Stanford (Leland-Stanford University); Allan Pinkerton, Pinkerton Detective

Voters Promised Tax Cuts, Lower Living Costs

Wellington, N.Z., Aug. 24 (AP)—The two major political parties of New Zealand—Labor and National—promise voters tax cuts and lower living costs as they campaign for a general election Sept. 1.

How can New Zealand cut taxes and at the same time increase subsidies to keep down living costs, Prime Minister Sidney G. Holland says the government has been collecting more in income and other taxes than is expected.

In 1935, New Zealand was the first country in the Commonwealth to elect a Socialist government. In the general election of November, 1949, the people voted Labor out of office.

Holland's government had 46 seats to Labor's 34 at dissolution.

The National party government has been a Liberal, free enterprise government. It was entitled to another 14 months.

In its first year, the National government removed control of currency and credits, virtually abolished import controls, lifted many price controls, and reduced subsidies substantially.

Then it faced its greatest crisis—a huge strike, with communist influence, that lasted 29 weeks, longshoremen, supported by coal miners, seamen, and men in key industries set out to paralyze New Zealand.

The government put up special men to work, fostered new unions, and won through. When parliament reassembled at the end of June, Labor opposition based a motion of no confidence in the government on the handling of the strike.

Holland then said he would seek a dissolution of parliament, and a mandate from the people.

Four Maori representatives, and the 76 "European" representatives will stand for election. The communist party is putting up only four candidates among the 80 seats in four different constituencies—seats that the Labor party took certain to win.

Communism is being pushed into the background by the cost of living. Labor has hammered on this theme, and has said little about the strike.

Both parties adhere to the principle of the welfare state. The National party claims there is "room for private enterprise within the welfare state. Labor claims the welfare state is paramount.

There is little real difference on foreign affairs. Both National and Labor pledge support to the Commonwealth and United Nations.

The Natural Method of Child-Planning

Now couples can plan to have children when they want them, by a simple method that doesn't violate the scruples of any religious group.

In September Reader's Digest, Dr. Morris Fishbein explains how and why this new method works.

There are only about two days each month when a woman can conceive a child; Dr. Fishbein tells how the great majority of women can learn when they can conceive by keeping a record of their daily temperatures.

HUNT DRIVER IN HIT-RUN CASE

All-out police man-hunt is under way in Madoc, Ont., area for 19-year-old youth who fled after his truck pinned eight-year-old Lance Beer to a wire fence, nearly strangling the child. Quick cutting of the wire fence saved the life of the child, seen above, with Nurse Margaret Miller in Belleville Hospital. — Central Press Canadian.

Peron and Eva Running Mates In Elections

Buenos Aires, Aug. 24 (AP)—President Juan D. Peron and his dynamic blonde wife, Eva, were hailed today, as running mates in the Nov. 11 presidential elections. Their followers demanded it, and they said that they "need Argentina forever."

Formal acceptance by Peron and his wife of the draft call by the Peronista party and leaders of the government-controlled general confederation of labor is considered a certainty. They told wildly-cheering throngs yesterday they would "abide by the will of the people".

The powerful husband-and-wife team which has ruled Argentina since 1946 was nominated last night by the president's Peronista party superior council in a closed session.

The nomination came after the mammoth demonstration in which about 250,000 supporters gathered in the capital for the express purpose of demanding that the two run on a "Peron-Peron" ticket—Peron for re-election as president and Eva as vice-president. The election is for the 1952-58 term.

Mrs. Peron, 29-year-old champion of women's rights, told the crowds yesterday she demand that she become vice-president came as a "complete surprise". She said "I will do what the people say".

The general confederation of labor ordered its members to continue their country-wide 'strike' until Peron and his wife accept the nomination. Thousands of thousands of workers throughout the country were idle yesterday, and only essential services operated.

Nomination of the Perons by the Peronista party is tantamount to election. The party has the full support of the general confederation of labor, which claims 5,000,000 members. The women's Peronista party, organized by Mrs. Peron after she and her husband pushed through voting privileges for Argentina's women for the first time in 1946, also is a powerful new ballot force.

Opposition parties are prevented by law to merge their forces into a coalition to fight the powerful Peron political machine.

Committee Told Where Peddlers Got Printing

Toronto, Aug. 24—(CP)—The Ontario legislature's crime committee heard Thursday where high-pressure book peddlers obtained some of the thousands of dollars worth of books they used in the mails in their swindling campaigns against United States customers.

O. E. Lennox, Ontario Securities Commission chairman, testified that, in at least three cases, broker-dealers were backed by high-pressure book sales men, the commission eventually cancelled the broker's licence.

One of the house not only ran off promotional literature for a stock pusher, but also handled the replies brought in by the promise of overnight wealth from investment in the stock issue.

Mr. Lennox, who avoided naming the printing companies, said one firm got a broker $50,000 credit. Another extended $35,000 credit to a broker making his first venture into the shadowy world of expensive "sucker" lists, alluring mailed enticements and chatty, long-distance conversations with the gullible.

The commissioner said the mailing lists of prospects were available in certain firms in Toronto, in Chicago and New York. The shady operators dealt chiefly with U. S. residents to escape detection and prosecution for fraud.

Many of the voices going out over the long-distance lines from Toronto "bucket shops" were those of smooth-talking Americans, Mr. Lennox said.

"I think the Americans like to hear someone with their own accent."

Cpl. Convinced Secretary of State Acheson is Right

Inchon, Korea, Aug. 24 (AP)—A young American Marine who learned personally from Dean Acheson why the United States fights in Korea said today he is convinced the secretary of state is right.

But Cpl. John B. Moullette says he had to come to Korea to be convinced.

"When I get back I hope to go down to Washington to see Mr. Acheson in person," said the 24-year-old Marine from Camden, N.J.

"I'll tell him he is doing a good job and ask him not to let them put him out of office."

Last January, Moullette was a confused Marine stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif. He wanted to know why the United States was fighting in Korea.

He asked his question in a letter to his father, who forwarded the letter to Acheson.

Acheson answered on March 17, and the story made newspaper headlines.

Moullette said today he wasn't too "bowled over" at first by the secretary of state's letter.

"But," he added, "when I reached Korea a few months afterwards, Acheson's words hit me like a slap in the face."

"And I believe it woke the people up in the states.

"The gist of his answer was that the United States is trying to (1) build up the kind of world we want to live in and (2) ward off aggression.

"Our fighting here in Korea has shown the communists that we won't put up with aggression any longer."

The Marine said the morale of the soldiers was low at the time he wrote the letter.

"But today," he declared "the spirit of the allied troops over here is wonderful."

Prominent figure on Canadian financial scene, mining magnate and financier, J. P. Bickell died recently of a heart attack while visiting in New York City. Son of a Presbyterian minister, Mr. Bickell was born at Molesworth, Ont., in 1894. He started his own brokerage firm in Toronto at 23, and shortly after formed McIntyre Porcupine Gold Mines which he nursed through difficult infant days until it became one of Canada's greatest gold producers. As chairman of Canadian Pacific Airways, Mr. Bickell was credited with inauguration of transatlantic plane ferry service. His efforts in stepping up aircraft production both in Britain and Canada won him high praise on both sides of the Atlantic. — Central Press Canadian.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

In the next few days Lance Bradley discovered that while he had gotten Doris Parker out of his hair, for the time being at least, her place had been taken by Jimmy Hastings. For Jimmy was tagging after Lance everywhere he went, and Lance could not say truthfully that he didn't like the young fellow's company. The heir to the vast fortunes of the Hastings estate was no longer the gauche, gangling boy, the tight wad. He was throwing his money around willy nilly and he said he was getting "a big kick out of it". He walked into the G.W.V.A. Hall, approached the secretary-treasurer and handed him a cheque for a sum that surprised him, and said that the money must be given to the families of veterans who were feeling the pinch. And for that he was given an honorary membership in the G.W.V.A. at the next meeting.

And he told Lance Bradley that in the spring he would buy up slum property, replace the shacks and build small houses that would be rented for only what was required to pay taxes, the upkeep and insurance. Lance had already planned to do this very thing in Lower Town, but now that Jimmy Hastings had similar plans, he withdrew and told Jimmy to go ahead. For Lance was beginning to realize that it is better to give than to get, and to do good with money than have it lying idle in a bank. Consequently, as Lance Bradley saw it, Jimmy Hastings must be encouraged in his spending; he should not be allowed to become handicapped in any way.

But that Jimmy Hastings was a man of no mean talent, Lance Bradley did not discover until one afternoon, when they were in the broadcasting control studio to see how Manager Ted Wilson was getting on. At the sight of the plano, Jimmy's eyes lit up with a smile and he turned to the manager with a simple "If you don't mind!"

Lance watched him screw the piano stool to the height desired, watched him as his fingers struck a chord, and then to Lance's amazement, he threw himself into the stirring "Polonaise", followed it by a bit of "The Song of the Hours" and topped off his performance with the sweet, lilting strains of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart".

Ted's jaw stood up and wiped his face.

"Why, Jimmy Hastings," Lance said, "What manner of man are you?"

"I think we can use him," Manager Wilson said.

"I don't think—I know," Lance said. Then to Jimmy, "Well, Jimmy, you've won yourself a job. From now on you take orders from Manager Wilson of Radio Broadcasting Station CEDE. Okay?"

And a delighted Jimmy Hastings hugged him and said, "That's really rippling, old boy!"

Now that Jimmy Hastings had found his place in Lance Bradley's business venture, what was to become of Doris Parker? A place for Doris must be found. After all Doris was the daughter of a man to whom Lance felt much beholden. Yes, Doris must be given a position on the Ensign staff as her father had said she wished it in the event of her game in some capacity. As a private secretary, his private secretary, Doris was definitely out. Doris must go to the newsroom, at the back of the store, where she might read proofs, but proof-reading Lance had been told, was exacting, tedious, monotonous work, and she might not be contented at that. On the big city dailies there were women reporters, women who set off on their beats to cover assignments, come wind, come weather. But Lance could not see Doris Parker doing that. And then it dawned on him, but it downed on him because Dad Roberts solved the problem for him, that Doris should be the paper's woman's editor, handling the women's section of the pages. She would have her own office, her own telephone, free to come and go at her own speed, but always under the authority of the much-married managing editor Sial Gordon. She would never fall for her good looks, her keen sense of humor, her quick tongue, and could still show her how to dress up her copy and keep within the strict rules of the newsroom.

Lance Bradley would have preferred to tell Doris Parker what he had planned for her, but since she had been hired by Lance through her father for a position on the paper, it was to her father that he went with the news. And Per Parker was very pleased. He promised to pass the good news on to his daughter, and he would tell her that Brad wished to see her.

Doris lost no time about it. She caught Lance Bradley alone in the Ensign office three her arms around his neck and kissed him.

"Brad," she breathed. "You're—you're just too sweet for anything!"

He mustered a mad impulse to hide her in his arms, and then was true, quite true, that Emerson was anything but civic-minded, that possibly he was as much to blame as anyone, since he had the means to stir up an interest in such matters town council but hadn't done anything about it.

But despite the multiplicity of duties he shouldered, Ded Roberts was enjoying himself, in quiet fashion, as a newspaperman. Lance Bradley was doing what he would have done at his age, if he had had the money. However, that was all in the past now. And it pleased Ded him to think that out of his forty years of publishing he had gained experience, invaluable experience, that would stand Lance Bradley in good stead in such a venture as this. For in his estimation there was only one Lance Bradley, only one man in the whole world with such a great heart and soul.

As he anticipated, Lance Bradley's decision to incorporate a broadcasting station with the daily newspaper, proved to be a master stroke, particularly since an electric tube had been developed along with loud speakers for receiving sets. Ded bought one of the new receiving sets and presented it to Mother as a Christmas present.

As the new year started off on the right foot under weather conditions that were normal and the time rapidly approached when the machines in the composing and stereotyping rooms could start. When the teletype was installed in the newsroom, the inter-office service installed to all parts of the building from the business offices, when the big press was ready to roll in its first run, Lance Bradley and Ded Roberts made plans for the get-together, the get acquainted meeting of his employees in the business office a few nights before the daily paper would go to press for the first time.

The meeting was held on Friday evening, January 14, since it was planned to put out the first edition of The Daily Ensign the following Monday afternoon. The day before the meeting the final edition of the Weekly Ensign had been run off and even before the ink had dried on the paper, men had started to move the old plant in the new building. Obsolete machines and equipment were taken away by the dealers for scrap. Within twenty-four hours the old Ensign building had been emptied, the key had been turned in the lock.

By the night of the meeting Lance Bradley and Ded Roberts had completed the personnel of the staffs of newspaper, job-office, radio station and business office. And every last one of these employees, fifty in all, was in town, ready to go to work at a moment's notice.

The meeting was most informal. Copy boys rubbed shoulders with the mechanical superintendent, the managing editor, girls who would be employed in the job office, radio station and business offices were with Miss Doris Parker, the paper's woman's editor. Seats had been provided by the G.W.V.A. and had been placed by Goldie Webster and caretaker, John Grooms. Among the guests present were Johnston Parker, and Dr. Brown.

Tony Rezzato came with several waiters from next door with sandwiches, huge pitchers of steaming tea and coffee, and saw that everyone was looked after. Then after the luncheon was over and the waiters had cleaned up, Lance Bradley was on his feet. From the paper in his hand he said he would read the names of the men at the head of the various departments of the new business, he did not ask anyone to make a speech, but he thought each Dad Roberts and when his or her name was called.

"We start first with the newsroom," he said, "after all what would a newspaper be without a newsroom? And so give this gentlemen, is our managing editor, Mr. Sial Gordon." Mr. Gordon, tall and bald, stood up and made a bow!

Then followed Bill Jennings, news editor; Stub Rose, sports editor; reporters Bill Artist and Terry Holland; woman's editor, Miss Doris Parker. Jumping to the composing room, there was Sandy McLeod, mechanical superintendent and foreman, George Watson, machinist. Charlie (Scotty) Grant, foreman of the job printing department, Paul Johnston, pressroom foreman and stereotyper; W. H. Sparling, in charge of the business office; Miss Millie Brooks, classified advertising desk; Miss Wilson and Miss Purdy, switchboard operators, and Ted Wilson in charge of the radio station.

Introductions over, Lance called on Johnston Parker, Dr. Brown, Treasurer Scottie and Dad Roberts for a few words, then he was on his feet again.

"And now ladies and gentlemen," he said, "now that you are better acquainted I'm going to tell you what I expect from you in the days to come. First and most important, I expect you to give this town and district a first-class daily newspaper and a truly fine service through our radio broadcasting station. You are experienced newspaper, radio men and you have at your disposal the best printing equipment that Dad Roberts and I could find on the market at the present time. I assure you that we will not be content with that, newer machines and better equipment when made will be added if required.

"It is my earnest wish that you always work in utmost harmony at all times. Please co-operate with one another, with me, and in time we should have one big, happy, family. I would remind you, however, that there is no place in this organization for weak links; that if they should appear they will be dispensed with and in short order. I will always pay you well. I will always have your best interests at heart. I assure you that you will find my associate, Dad Roberts, a true counsellor and friend.

"It is now practically certain that our first issue of the new Daily Ensign will go to press at three o'clock next Monday afternoon. In the meantime I would ask you to use the few hours at your disposal to get thoroughly acquainted with your surroundings. Editors and reporters, if they have not already done so, must start at once to prepare copy for the machines; operators must see that every machine is properly serviced and tested; advertising and circulation managers who already have things pretty well lined up must make a final round of their field tomorrow. Please leave nothing undone to have our first paper truly representative of what you can do. Please have it ready on time.

Ridgway Sends Blistering Message to Red Leaders

Tokyo, Aug. 25 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today sent a blistering message to top red commanders in Korea and left it up to them whether armistice talks would continue in Kaesong.

The supreme allied commander said he was willing to resume negotiations, halted by the reds. But he rejected as "malicious falsehoods" comment accusations that the United Nations forces violated Kaesong's neutrality.

The reds broke off the talks two days ago. They demanded a "satisfactory" answer to their charge that Communist planes attacked Kaesong to murder the red delegation.

Ridgway's reply said the charge was "so utterly false, so preposterous and so obviously manufactured" that it did not merit a reply.

Next Step up to Reds

The next step was up to the communists, Ridgway's scathing message gave them a hard choice.

The harshly-worded reply was sent to Kim Il Sung, North Korean premier, and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, commander of the Chinese red forces in Korea.

The last paragraph left the door open just a crack—for a resumption of talks.

Ridgway said, "when you are prepared to terminate the suspension of armistice negotiations . . . I will direct my representatives to meet with yours, with a view of seeking a reasonable armistice agreement."

Ridgway's reply, in tone and content, came as no surprise to observers here.

They said he could hardly apologize for incidents he had already branded as "manufactured in every respect."

Nor, the observers added, can the reds accept the blast as the "satisfactory" answer they demand.

It is possible, said the observers, the reds will agree to continue negotiations, and try to convince the world they are doing so for the sake of peace.

Does Not Merit Reply

Ridgway pulled no punches. He told the reds:

Your charges against addition to alleged incidents . . . so utterly false, so preposterous and so obviously manufactured that they merit a reply.

"Nor do the incidents you have cited . . . afford a substantial basis for you for your own propaganda needs. These incidents have proven to be the actions of irresponsible without the slightest connection with any forces or agencies under my control.

Six persons were injured, four of them seriously, in a car crash and head-on collision on Highway No. 41 north of Cloyne early Friday afternoon.

All six of the injured were rushed to Belleville General Hospital, two of them in the patrol truck, and three others by Bush's Ambulance which raced to the scene.

Most seriously injured were Mrs. H. G. Sparling and her brother James Wiggins of 63 Maple Ave., Burlington. Mrs. Sparling received a broken leg, while Mr. Wiggins had severe facial cuts and his aged father, George Wiggins, age 84, had a broken leg, his condition is serious.

Two other persons in hospital were Thomas R. Deacon, K.C., Toronto lawyer, with a broken nose, and his son, Thomas, age 15 with facial cuts. Another boy, David Rogers, 15 of Pembroke, was not admitted to hospital.

Meet on Curve

According to reports the accident occurred on the brow of a hill about one mile north of Cloyne, Mr. Deacon with his son and the Rogers boy were proceeding to Toronto from Petawawa where they had been on holidays. The Wiggins car, coming from the opposite direction, was said to have turned out to pass another car and crashed head-on into the Deacon auto.

Dr. E. A. Richardson of Northbrook, and a Dr. Phillips of Montreal, who was holidaying at nearby Mallory Lake, attended the injured at the scene of the accident.

Mr. A. E. Northey of Northbrook brought the two most seriously injured, Mrs. Sparling and James Wiggins to hospital in his panel truck.

Mrs. Deacon said she was following her husband in another car a short distance behind. She did not see the accident.

Mr. Northey said the two cars collided on the brow of a hill and came to rest jammed together in the centre of the highway. Provincial Constable T. Lumming of Madoc investigated.

WITNESS TELLS OF ATTACK BY CANADIAN SOLDIER

Trial of Army Private Continues in Korea

Somewhere in Korea, Aug. 25— (Reuters)— A Republic of Korea army corporal told a Canadian general court martial today British and Canadian soldiers threw a hand grenade into a room, after rain attempts to rouse two Korean women, and killed an R.O.K. officer and two civilians.

The corporal, Song Ju You, first prosecution witness at today's session of the trial, said the grenade exploded right after he himself had to run to a nearby Korean military police station.

Being tried separately for the murder of R.O.K. Lieut. Ke Chong Sung, Gunner Glen R. Donald M. Gibson, 22, of Ottawa; Pte. Glen R. Blank, 27, of Winnipeg; and Pte. Alan B. Montgomery Davis, 24 of Vancouver. All are of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

In a prosecution statement at 10th Canadian Field Punishment Camp headquarters, Capt. L. M. Hanway, the battalion's legal officer, said he gave his sister-in-law, Mrs. Gladder Jeffrey, room in a house where his small R.O.K. army group was billeted.

Blamed Girl

Commonwealth troops arrived at the billet later from a nearby party, Hanway said, and saw the visitors. Three Canadian and two British soldiers were molesting the girls, whose screams started Ke on his way to them.

Lieut. Blank threw a grenade into Ke's room, Hanway said. The two civilians killing were Pak Soo Pung and Kim Young Kak, both attached to the R.O.K. army.

Sung, prosecuting witness, told the court the assault on the girls apparently failed and the men went away after throwing the grenade.

Walter Killoran, owner of the resort, recovered Mrs. Johnson's body from four feet of water. His wife rescued Linda Johnson, who was uninjured.

FUME WHILE CAR IN MOTION

London, Aug. 25 (Reuters) — A miniature compressor which will run a car through exhaust fumes while an automobile is in motion is one of the exhibits at this year's Farnborough model engineering exhibition. The compressor can be fitted to most cars and has a patent universal joint which can be attached to the wheel with the flat tire.

Mother's Home Treatment Cures Children of Rare Blood Disease

London, Aug. 25 — (AP) — Children, their mother would warn, "if you don't eat your cabbage you'll turn blue."

Further warning, either, the medical magazine Lancet reported today. As a result a way has been found to treat a rare abnormal pigment condition of the blood.

The children were identified only as Jackie, 9, and Maureen, 8, whose mother works at a London vegetable market.

From time to time both tots, although they seemed healthy enough, would turn blue. Jackie's schoolmates teased him about his strange hue.

By accident, their mother found out that they would turn pink again after a heavy meal of cabbage, but in time, the kids got mighty tired of this fare.

So their mother took them to the Royal Free Children's Hospital and told her story to the special men there.

Knowing that cabbage is rich in ascorbic acid, the doctors suspected that this might be what worked the change.

Mr. Clayton noted that part of the group were French-speaking Canadians. He hoped the comradeship established between the English and French-speaking group "will persist and grow throughout your service careers."

"The increasing understanding and unity of purpose between English and French-speaking Canadians everywhere should find their highest expression in our country's armed services."

Korean Fighting Proving Laboratory for Weapons But Not for Battle Drills

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the Canadians in Korea, Aug. 25 (CP)—Is the Korean fighting a preview of the kind to be expected in any future war?

In the day of the long, armored thrust, or of the massed tank battle ground warfare put the soldier back on his feet for good?

And does modern emphasis on fieldcraft mean, perhaps, a step back towards the trench fighting of the First World war?

The answers all around are probably "no."

Apart from any ideological reasons involved, army officers here are beginning to consider Korea as another Spain—but only partly.

Where the Spanish revolution of 1936 served as an experimental ground for battle drills and as a proving lab for weapons, Korea so far is discharging only the latter function.

Tactically, experiences here of the United Nations forces have served only to confirm lessons already in the book.

In mountain-ridden Korea the principal problem is mountain clearance.

It is useless to send out long armored columns along main roads if the hills commanding them remain occupied by the enemy. The "front" is unknowable from behind, the lines of supply are open to attack and outflankfleet pockets of resistance are left behind to clear up, disciplines Far East commander's forces.

There was a lesson learned by the U.N. command in Korea last year.

Only in rolling hill country to some parts of Korea and in a few places such as that north east of Seoul, is the country suitable for armored deployment in mass. And wherever the land is suitable, it abounds today in the burned-out carcasses of enemy and U.N. tanks, indicating that both sides have exploited the opportunity.

As a field for police action, and for the clearance from a country of an aggressor, Korea's very nature has demanded the type of infantry warfare now being waged here.

But it is not the type of warfare, nor the sort of battlefield, in which the west could fight a showdown battle with world communism—should such a showdown ever be forced.

The level of a major stand against communism, it is thought here, would be abandoned.

It just does not permit the maximum mass development of the west's power, the only way to win wars speedily and with minimum loss of life.

"Fire and movement" win today's wars, both as high-powered as the level allows.

Almost anywhere else in the world, U.N. forces—tanks, tanks, self-propelled artillery, strong mobile columns of infantry and air superiority.

But even in Korea, the application of fire and movement has kept the front flexible enough to advance solidly and resilient enough to absorb enemy offensives—and, except from what clearly are intended to be "last ditch" stands, far away from the trenches of Flanders fields.

Defence Minister Claxton Wants Best Officers Available

Camp Borden, Ont., Aug. 25— (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton told a group of officers-in-training today that Canada wants nothing "second rate" about her armed forces and that she will continue to try to get the best to get the best officers available.

"During the last four years I have emphasized officer training to the point of meeting criticism in the press that my demands were too high," Mr. Claxton said in a speech prepared for delivery. But this remarks, he added, has been justified by the "fine record of the troops in Korea, and in all the various commands and by the job that has been done in expanding the forces by more than 50 per cent during the last 12 months."

Mr. Claxton spoke before more than 90 officers-in-training, completing their first eight weeks of training under the new officer entry plan. Then now will be split among various corps units to get more practical experience.

Detailing the picture on army officers, Mr. Claxton estimated that Canada has about 6,200 officers, 10,323 on active service, 8,648 in reserve units and 7,321 as candidates in training.

In addition there were some 57,000 veteran officers with service in the Second World War, available to give Canada a good start in the event of actual war in the next two or three years. But still more were needed "so as to ensure at any time adequate numbers to meet any need."

However, quality had to be kept in mind. The only place for expensive education was ignorance.

"We want to have nothing second rate about our armed forces . . . the quality of the general of the future, the success or failure of our arms depends on the quality you young men are in see before me today, on what you do, on the training that you receive here and in the services afterwards."

Mr. Claxton noted that part of the group were French-speaking Canadians. He hoped the comradeship established between the English and French-speaking group "will persist and grow throughout your service careers."

"The increasing understanding and unity of purpose between English and French-speaking Canadians everywhere should find their highest expression in our country's armed services."

Forty-One Bodies Of 50 Killed Are Recovered

Oakland, Calif., Aug. 25.—(AP) The Federal Bureau of Investigation early Saturday added officials today opened investigations into the two weekend crashes of United's newest-type airliner, as searchers went over a hillside 20 miles south of here for the last of 50 broken bodies.

Object of the F.B.I. investigation is to determine whether sabotage caused the DC-6B to plow into a fog-covered hill a few moments from the end of its transcontinental flight early yesterday.

The F.B.I., in announcing the investigation, would not elaborate or comment whether it was routine.

United Air Lines said last night searchers quit after bringing down 41 bodies, most of them charred beyond recognition, to return today for the other nineor whatever can be found of them.

The 50 victims included the six Oakland from Boston. It had originated in Chicago, Cleveland and Chicago.

Pilot N. W. Hedden, Redwood City, California, said the plane was coming in for a landing at Oakland when the accident occurred. It was scheduled to arrive at Oakland.

The big ship struck the hillside and flew apart in a burst of flame several minutes later.

The big four-motored airliner was scheduled to arrive at Oakland, Calif., at 7:30 p.m. (PST) and was put in service with six sister ships August 1. Its capacity is 63 passengers and 7,000 pounds members and 6,000 pounds of mail.

AGED APPLYING FOR PENSIONS AT 5,000 A DAY

160,000 Applications Have Been Received

Ottawa, Aug. 25. (CP)—Canada's aged are applying at a rate of more than 5,000 a day for a federal pension of $40 a month starting next January.

About three weeks ago, the federal Welfare department asked Canadians 70 and over, not now in receipt of a government pension, to apply if they wished to receive a pension under a new universal program. So far about 160,000 applications have been received.

It is estimated there are 400,000 Canadians 70 and over, not now in receipt of a government pension. There are another 315,000 in receipt of old-age pensions. Those already receiving a pension will have their records transferred from provincial government offices to federal offices and automatically will be brought under the new program next January.

The Welfare department hopes to reach a target of 200,000 applications by Jan. 1. This would leave it an additional 200,000 to receive and process in the four months before the pensions become payable.

Of applications so far received, 800 have come from Newfoundland; 8,700 from Nova Scotia; 7,100 from Prince Edward Island; 3,500 from New Brunswick; 37,000 from Quebec; 65,000 from Ontario; 7,500 from Manitoba; 8,500 from Saskatchewan; 7,000 from Alberta, and 20,000 from British Columbia.

Regardless of Means

Under the new plan, the federal government will pay pensions of $40 a month to all persons 70 and over, regardless of means, provided they have lived in Canada for at least 20 years.

At present pensions of $40 a month are paid to persons 70 and over who have lived in Canada for 20 years and who can establish need for such a pension. The federal government pays 75 per cent of the cost of the pension and the provinces the remainder.

The new program will be financed out of taxation, with all corporations who can contributing a specified amount toward the cost of the pensions. It is not yet known how the tax will be applied.

Paul Gutnov, Welfare minister now is negotiating with the provinces on a program under which pensions of $40 a month could be paid to needy persons between 65 and 69 who have lived in Canada for at least 20 years. The provinces would share the cost on a 50-50 basis.

Artist's Barrel Trip Over Falls Depends on Police, Customs, Cash

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 25 — (CP)—Leslie Sander has made a bet with death—a foolish bet.

He'll try to win it today. He has bet that he can go over Niagara Falls in a 4½-foot-high-and-2½-foot steel barrel and keep his life.

Sander, a 29-year-old artist from Niagara Falls, N.Y., rooming house, he told reporters that he is determined to make the 155-foot drop into the swirling green cauldron below the Horseshoe Falls—but he didn't tell them how all the arrangements for making it.

He was said to have a ton of hardware jammed to attach the torpedo-shaped barrel to an unnamed object on the American side of the river—out of the jurisdiction of Ontario's provincial police who eventually moved to stop Sander from making his stunt.

They were ordered by Ontario's Premier Leslie Frost to prevent exhibitions following the death on August 3 of William (Red) Hill who tried to shoot the falls in a contraption he made from inner tubes and fish netting.

Sander's helpers last night faced other problems than that of the provincial police.

Canadian customs officials were reported ready to impound the barrel if they tried to take it across to the American side of the river.

Jiggs Rufrano, who built the barrel for Sander, said: "I think I was still owing on it.

But Sander's helpers employed a more elegant tactics last night. Reporters couldn't question them as to what they intended to do. They couldn't find them.

And Rufrano didn't seem to be worrying about the $150. Late yesterday afternoon, he put last minute touches to the barrel.

Sander insisted last night that he was going over the falls:

"With a barrel or without a barrel. It is the realization of a dream I have had for many years."

The little, Hungarian-born artist is unmarried and has no dependents.

"Everything is going wrong," he said, "But I will not go home and say that I have failed."

Nothing was said yesterday of another man, said to be preparing to make the big drop some time today.

Toronto newspapers reported Thursday that an unidentified young Toronto sleepjacker would make the attempt. His first name was said to be Irene and he is said to have taken up the preparation on a dare from fellow workers.

Four Cornered In Mid-Town Post Office

Two Toronto Men Arrested In Raid on Rooming Houses

Toronto, Aug. 25 (CP) — A man known to police by four names was killed in a gun battle near Bloor and Yonge Streets in the heart of Toronto today. Four others were arrested after the shooting duel which developed when a police cruiser disturbed an attempt to rob a post office.

Police Joseph Savage, 39, was killed by a bullet from the gun of Constable Ken Cole. He was also known to police as Mathew Sarosky, Jake Herman and John Kenny. He was out on $10,000 bail on a shop breaking charge on which he was arrested just a night and a day.

Larry Edgar Shirley, 24, who refused to tell police his home address, had his wrist cut in the affray, possibly as he barged his way through a plate glass window in an effort to escape the police who approached the building in a cruiser on a routine check.

Shirley was charged with attempted murder, shopbreaking and carrying concealed weapons. Police said they found a knife and gun.

Sarosky, wounded in the spine when he made a break from the post office, died after a chase. He was wanted for questioning in a bank robbery at nearby Bradford July 26.

Three Arrested in Rooms

Three men were arrested in their rooms later: William Lovejoy, 24, Stewart Vallgetta, 34, and Herbert Taylor 26. They were charged with breaking and entering the post office.

Lovejoy, wounded in the spine when he made a break from the police, died later.

Police said Shirley leaped through a window and raced north on Yonge Street, firing from his .38 calibre automatic as he went. He was caught three blocks away.

HAT CHERRY LEAVES

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. Aug. 25— (CP)—The cherry leaf spot and caterpillars in this district has been a problem for years. The death of 16 young beef cattle worth $5,000 on the farm of Wray Bros. on Outarde Island in Lake Superior, said cattle had eaten secondgrowth cherry leaves which contained poisonous acid. Cattle, normally present in mild quantities, become lethal in second growth after the caterpillars have defoliated first growth earlier this year.

Youth Arrested When Police Posse Encircles Swamp

A two-day police search for a 20-year-old man who ran away after pinning an 8-year-old boy in a wire fence with his truck, was ended Friday afternoon when Leo Ryan, R. R. Harold, was arrested by police officers who closed in on him where he was hiding in a swamp near his home in Rawdon township.

When surrounded by the officers the young man attempted to run and then submitted to arrest without a fight, it was being charged with dangerous driving and with leaving the scene of an accident.

Ryan disappeared Wednesday morning when he ran away following the accident at Ivanhoe where his truck struck off the road and pinned Lance Best against a fence. The boy is recovering in hospital and escaped serious injury although he was badly bruised and cut when the wire fence could be cut to free him.

Arrested by Posse

Search arrest of the truck driver was made late yesterday afternoon by a posse of police officers led by Provincial Police Cpl. Jack H. Hatch of Madoc. Officers searched the area on foot and when ended in the arrest, were O.P.P. Constables Al Cockburn, Harry MacKenzie, J. A. Fullerton, Ragg H. Backham, J. G. McGregor and Arthur Bolger, all of Belleville and Police Chief J. Rankin of Madoc.

Police said that the home and barn owned by the Ryan family in the 9th concession of the Rawdon township had been searched, evidence being seen leading to the swamp where the young truck driver was in the vicinity.

Encircle Swamp

Police officers encircled the swamps area quarter of a mile in extent in which Ryan was believed to be hiding and then entered the area from the lake afternoon Ryan emerged from the swamp into the arms of Constables Fullerton and MacKenzie. He was running in the direction of Belleville and Cpl. Hatch located at the edge of the field.

He let him get within 100 yards and then called at him to stop," but not only did the youth continue running and threw up his hands saying that he would not attempt to run anymore.

He was taken to Madoc and then to Belleville and lodged in the county jail.

The accident from which Ryan was charged with fleeing the scene road just north of Ivanhoe early Wednesday morning. The truck driven by Ryan was said to have narrowly missed a herd of cows and then careened into a field where Lance Best was feeding calves. Nathan and Walton Reid and Donald Thompson managed to get out of the way but the Best boy was pinned to the fence.

When Ryan saw the boy was injured he ran up the road and jumped over a fence into a cornfield.

3½-Pound Pike Makes Dramatic Leap for Pan

Now comes a steeplechasing pike.

F. W. Vancile, Caledonia, N.Y., swears it's true that a 3½-pounder disdained bait of any kind, and taking off in a fifty zoom, hopped out of the water, cleared the boat's "gunnel" by a foot and plopped in the bottom of the boat.

It happened while Vancile and two companions Ulysses Wojlowski and Ray Raymond were fishing in East Lake near the Outlet.

The haul was poor and the trio had pulled in their lines before morning home.

They were three feet from shore when the fish, when the fish made its dramatic leap for a frying pan.

Eight Killed And Ten Injured In Dynamite Blast

Wonderru, Colo., Aug. 25 (AP) —Eight men were killed and 10 hurt yesterday when lightning touched off a dynamite blast in a dam site and searchers still checked today to see if there were other casualties.

The explosion sent a rain of boulders and rock crashing down on the site of a $12,000,000 dam project in south Boulder Creek canyon.

The dam site is about 35 miles northwest of Denver.

Between 50 and 60 men were working in the area when the lightning touched off the dynamite which was to have been fired when the day shift went off duty at 3 p.m. The blast was at 1:40 p.m.

Vernon Bushcn, 21, driver of an earth moving machine, said he saw a rock half the size of a car crush a man.

Rock driller John Zeren, 30, of Boulder, said when he regained consciousness "I was dazzling on the end of my leather safety belt. I was tied to a pin driven in the rocks. It saved my life."

Some of the men were loading powder holes drilled on both sides of the canyon. Others were in the bottom of the chasm clearing up rock from previous blasts. The lightning apparently hit both sides of the canyon and touched off charges about 80 feet above the bottom.

General Marshall Sees Bright Spots In World Picture

Toronto, Aug. 23 (CP) —Gen. George C. Marshall, United States defence secretary, says developments in the past few months indicate should not delude the western nations into relaxing their vigilance against communism or slacking their efforts toward preparedness.

In an address yesterday at the opening of this year's Canadian National Exhibition and at a press conference that followed, the former U.S. secretary of state who gave his name to the Marshall Plan said it is essential to realize that the struggle against communism power politics world crisis, of which the Korean war is "a mere incident."

He pictured Russia as opposed to all democratic objectives and said:

"In this business in Korea, we have conclusive proof of the futility of expecting sincerity on the part of the Soviets in our efforts to pursue peace."

As a result of co-operation between Canada and the United States, North America was a source of abundance in men and of industrial might that could be fully mobilized within eight months of the start of production.

He said a "surge of momentum" is carrying the democratic allies to the peak of their preparedness.

The general, first American ever to open the exhibition said his misgivings and all the evidences of Canadian industrial and military progress point to a time of a feeling of happiness. Such an exhibition reflected the goodwill that nations of good intention hoped would some day become world-wide.

Today's marchers' day, with a giant military parade as its highlight. Officials expect the parade of veterans and active service unit to top last year's record of 10,000 marchers. Gen. Marshall will take the salute from a reviewing stand.

Plaster Torn Off

Hunks of plaster had been torn from the wall beside a vault containing only $1,000 in cash and money orders.

Details of the shooting were still meagre but police gave this story:

Black and Shirley gulped entry to the building through a rear window. The others were posted as lookouts.

The men in the post office dashed from the scene when a police cruiser approached on a routine check of the neighborhood about 2 a.m.

Constable Cole jumped from the cruiser as Black crashed through the ground-floor window and shot him before he hit the ground.

Police fired three shots at Shirley as he dashed up the street. They said he returned their fire as he passed a cockhouse and barely missed hitting several patrons. He was overtaken two miles later and taken to headquarters.

Arrest Two Men For Brutal Attack On Thornton Man

Thornton, Ont., Aug. 23 — (CP) — Police arrested two men early today on charges of armed robbery in connection with a brutal attack on 60-year-old Aubrey Longley, a butcher in this community eight miles south of Barrie.

Constable Art Kellogg of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated a farm at nearby Cookstown on a bunch. He found bloodstains in a car. He arrested the car's owner, Donald Whitesides, 22, of Cookstown and Bert Wham, 21, of nearby Lefroy.

Mr. Longley, left lying in his driveway with severe head injuries after the attack Friday night, was taken to hospital at Toronto where his condition was reported as satisfactory.

Two armed men attacked Mr. Longley in his garage, about 11 p.m., as he was preparing his trucks for early morning deliveries. They ran away when Mrs. Longley rushed out in response to her husband's screams. She was in night clothes. The men fired two shots at her as they ran, both going wide. Later police found two bullets imbedded in the kitchen floor.

Mrs. Longley said a purse containing $150 was still in her husband's possession. He was in semi-conscious condition. He had been shot about the head.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

Brighten the Corner Where You Are

Do not wait until some deed of greatness
you may do,
Do not wait to shed your light afar,
To the many duties ever near you bow
be true,
Brighten the corner where you are.

Just above are clouded skies that you may help to clear,
Let not sorrow sell your way debar,
Tho' into one heart alone may fall your song of cheer,
Brighten the corner where you are.

Here for all your talent you may surely find a need,
Here reflect the Bright and Morning
Star;
Even from your humble hand the bread of life may feed,
Brighten the corner where you are.

Back in the early years of the present century, when the soul-winning sermons of the famed evangelist, Billy Sunday, were sweeping America, a gospel song came along which was destined to brighten and bless revivals everywhere for many years to come.

The new song, "Brighten The Corner Where You Are," was written by Mrs. Ina Duley Ogden. It received its song-wings from Charles M. Gabriel to whom Christians are indebted for other precious hymn-tunes including those which he created for "The Way Of The Cross Leads Home," "That Will Be Glory For Me," "Since Jesus Came Into My Heart," and "He Lifted Me."

When it was introduced at a revival service conducted by Mr. Sunday, it became immediately popular. Soon it was being widely used in other gospel meetings.

Mrs. Ogden was born in Illinois. She planned at one time to give her life to missionary endeavor. Instead, she became a teacher and then turned to verse writing. "Brighten The Corner Where You Are" was written to cheer her father during a long and depressing illness. We can begin to count the men and women who have been similarly "lifted" by this little song through the years!

Mrs. Ogden wrote other evangelistic hymn-poems including the favorites, "When You Know Jesus, Too" and "Carry Your Cross With A Smile."

SWISS WATCHMAKING

St. Gallen, Switzerland — (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — The name which Swiss watches have created for themselves is no slight act of deification within the next few years if the watchmakers have any say in the matter. They are maintaining their great system of training, production and research and are ever anxious to improve it. This system of which the industry is justly proud, has been developed with a thoroughness that is so characteristic of this small country.

When a boy decides he would like to enter the watch industry he is given a test to see if his abilities lie in this direction. If he is successful he enters one of the seven training schools where, under the guidance of expert teachers he is given a theoretical and practical grounding in the trade. Today as many as must present at his final exam an entirely hand-made watch, which is ample proof that he has begun to acquire the skill of his predecessors.

Many Small Factories

After graduation he is sent to one of the 2,500 firms in the industry. He will find working conditions quite pleasant for the factories are generally quite small and are almost all situated in the Jura district, where there is nothing to disturb him at his work. The view from the window is that of a quiet countryside rather than that of a noisy city.

Employers themselves have done their part to create excellent working conditions. They have adjusted salaries to the cost of living, instituted paid holidays and pay a share of health and unemployment funds. In addition, Canada is not the only country to have the baby bonus, for the employers here include grants for family allocations and a subsidy for children. It is quite easy to understand that with such relations and in such a pleasant atmosphere, quality workmanship is promoted.

Designing Swiss

The Swiss not only train their own watchmakers but design and construct their own precision instruments and machines. These machines are used chiefly for producing parts, for the assembly of the watch is left to the technicians.

Some specialize in the assembly of men's type of wristwatches, others in the women's models. It is the latter who have a really difficult job for the smaller a watch, the greater the need for precision adjustment of the movement, if a high degree of accuracy is to be obtained. Of course, it is much more difficult to obtain this precision. These watches come at the bottom of the scale of potential precision, but they are the most beautiful and only the greatest of care is devoted to them. Because of the minuteness of size, more frequent care is required than with the larger models.

Fantastic Precision

The precision required is well illustrated by the following example. Every twenty-four hours in the movement of a watch there is a total of 432,000 diminutive swift jerks, each separated by an abrupt halt. Consistency depends mainly on the hairspring balance, and if there is an error of only 1/100 in the period of the hairspring action, it will result in the daily loss of fourteen seconds.

The simple type of watch comprises thirty-two points of lubrication, and must be oiled every year or two to keep it in good working condition. The drop of oil in a balance jewel is so small in size, about 1/500 mm and if it disappears or escapes into the [illegible] Watchmakers do everything they can to maintain this minute drop of oil in its place — using all types of devices proved by centuries of operation.

Temperature Tantrums

Some of the difficulties which watchmakers have had to overcome are so elementary that one would never think of them. For instance, there is temperature. A watch may lose five seconds in twenty-four hours as the result of the change of one degree in temperature, or when it is alternately exposed to heat and cold. To compensate for this, most Swiss watches are fitted with a bimetallic balance which nearly annuls the effect of temperature changes.

Another difficulty is magnetism, which causes loss of time if the watch is placed near motors or other electrical appliances. Technicians have had to develop alloys for the construction of important parts so that the watch would be almost impervious to a magnetic field.

Destruction by Dust

To prevent water or dust from mixing with the oil in the watch, Swiss watchmakers developed the water-repellent watch. This was a great advance in its day, until that time, water, and what was much worse, dust, was clogging the oil and causing a rapid deterioration in the efficiency of the watch.

Any Swiss watchmaker will proudly relate a long list of famous airlines, railways, and shipping companies which insist on having Swiss-made watches for their work. He will also tell you that for many consecutive years Swiss watches have won all precision records in the pocket and wrist chronometer classes at the British National Observatory. Since the earliest days of the modern Olympics, Swiss watches have been used for timing the events. All these and many more! A fitting tribute to an industry which has expanded and developed until today it produces fifty precision - made watches every seventeen seconds.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

by WINIFRED E. WILSON

When we consider our ancestor's unnecessary slaughter of birds before there were laws to protect them, not to mention the illegal destruction that still flourishes, we wonder at the number of remaining, North American birds.

From the time of the earliest settlers, until the Migratory Birds Convention Act went through in the early part of this century, there was no thought of conservation. Without laws, there is little doubt that several of our best loved species would be as extinct as the passenger pigeon and the great auk. This passion for killing solely for the sake of pleasure seemed to be implanted in some youths of today. Gangs of small boys in certain districts take delight in chasing even song birds with air guns and slings.

Like Father, Like Son

Perhaps this is not strange, because their elders do much the same thing. The Dominion Government now has more than 70 bird sanctuaries. One of several near Montreal lies just across the river, along the opposite shore. In autumn, it has been proved that most migrating ducks fear to stay in the shallow water, but keep well in mid-stream. Why?

The answer can be had if we walk along the beach, noticing the blinds that have been erected, picking up the spent cartridges, and counting the maimed or dead redheads, pintails, or teals.

Mrs. Ogden wrote other evangelistic hymn-poems including the favorites, "When You Know Jesus, Too" and "Carry Your Cross With A Smile."

LAWS CANNOT ALWAYS PROTECT THE FOOLHARDY

The drowning of five men in Lake Simcoe on July 22, and the near drowning of two others in the same party has prompted the coroner's jury to recommend to the Department of Transport that the government license boat liveries and that boat manufacturers be required by law to mark the carrying capacity of their boats on the hull. The accident that prompted this request was one in which seven adults crowded into a 16-foot motor boat powered by a 16 horsepower motor. The boat was constructed to carry a maximum of five persons and such was the overcrowding on this occasion that one of the men had to sit on the bow. Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson described the disaster as "landlubbers who went to their certain doom."

It is obvious that Dr. Lawson's appraisal of the mishap is as accurate as can be. But why it should become the duty of the government to protect the foolhardy from going to "their certain doom" is not so obvious. It is tragic that these five men died by drowning. There was no need of it. Common sense would tell even the most amateur boatsman that seven in a five-man boat are two men too many. And when not one of the seven had even a superficial knowledge of the operation of an outboard motor, the wonder grows that any of the seven managed to live to an adult age. The bounds of human folly apparently are limitless.

It would be wise to take all possible precautions against similar disasters, but it seems futile to call for legislation where common sense and reason dismiss obvious dangers. Laws are designed for protection, but all too often the passing of laws results in a relaxation of natural care and the promotion of a false sense of security. It is not within the province of the law to assume the individual's responsibility for the preservation of his own life in all the situations that daily threaten him.

A RAILROADER TESTIFIES

(Hamilton Spectator)

Public opinion has often questioned whether some of the streamliners and other modern trains travel at speeds too fast to ensure the maximum of safety.

Some interesting expert opinion has been expressed on this question by John J. Mantell, former vice-president of the Erie Railroad. He is a veteran of experience who was engaged by the Public Utilities Commission as a consultant to investigate a recent disaster in the United States which took a heavy toll of life.

In testifying before the commission, Mr. Mantell gave it as his mature judgment that too many serious wrecks have occurred within the past two years which were due, as he has observed the situation, to excessive speed on curves. He cited especially such accidents as American lines since March of 1949 in which 144 persons were killed and which he attributed to a common cause. In saying that, he tended to confirm an impression held by laymen.

Railroading has undergone radical changes within the past few years. The Diesel locomotive, the new design of coaches, the competition of air travel, buses, private automobiles and transport trucks have all combined to bring about a striking transformation. Passenger and freight trains move much faster than they used to do ten years ago.

Considering the great total of passengers carried during a given year and the immense volume of freight conveyed, together with the vast ranges of the rail systems which cover North America, the railroads may justly claim that their record of safety is not open to criticism. The accidents, they may contend, are no more frequent than in any other mode of travel—perhaps less. A train passenger, it is said, is as safe as in any other modern experience of modern life.

ON COURAGE

(Field Marshal Slim in Freedom)

I don't believe that there is any man who, in his heart of hearts, would not rather be called brave than anything else. There is a sound reason for this, because courage is not merely a virtue; it is the virtue.

Faith, hope and charity do not become virtues until it takes courage to exercise them; it is not only the basis of all these things — it's their expression. It is quite true that it is possible to be bad and brave, but it is equally impossible to be good without being brave. As courage is a mental state — an affair of the spirit — it draws its strength from both spiritual and intellectual sources which, blended, produce both physical and moral courage.

Self, these types are very distinct; the first an emotional state which urges a man to risk injury or death, the second a more reasoning attitude which enables him coolly to stake career, happiness, his whole future, on his judgment of what he thinks either right or worth while.

TO A BOY, GROWING UP

I'd say to every growing boy:
"You can!
You are endowed with all that makes a man.

"Stand up to life and never be afraid,
For mastery you were superbly made.

"You have the eyes, the ears, the hands, the mind

With which the greatest genius was designed.

"Remember this last fear your dream destroy:
The man most famous now was once a boy.

"You are equipped for greatness, if you'll try,
But you the will and courage must supply."

Famous Poetry Has Often Been Written in Queer Ways

By W. G. ROGERS

New York (AP)— One poet writes while walking in the woods, a second in the rigging aboard a third while lying in the death bed.

Others mumble their verses aloud as they compose, or write them at night by the fire, in the air. Still another arouses himself in the absorbing pursuit of composition by drinking whiskey and listening to phonograph records.

The accompanying survey of the quirks in the ways the poet works is told in "Poems in Process," by Phyllis Bartlett, published by Oxford.

Conducting the survey principally to Americans and English since Milton, Miss Bartlett acts as a sympathetic delighted listener. Breathing down the necks of the great and near great, she has watched them pick up the pen and lay it down, write a line and delete it, work desperately for the one right word, rearrange, polish and mark down, "finis."

Her book is not concerned with the question of inspiration; it does not discuss what makes a poet, but simply how a poet makes a poem. And there are about as many distinct ways as there are different notes.

It was Schiller who kept the apples in the drawer of his desk right under his nose, Tennyson who quoted on a slip, Yeats who mumbled, Chatterton who waited for the full of the moon. Burns, Shelley, Keats were the walkers, and Burns sometimes composed faster and better on horseback. Auden drinks endless cups of tea. Hart Crane depended on liquor and much.

Strange Habits

Waller de la Mare smoked and wrote. Spender drinks coffee and writes. The tragic Francis Thompson took opium but wrote when not under its influence. Poe, of course, was not the habitual drinker he is assumed to be long; and Swinburne, who was a drinker, probably was not affected seriously as a poet by the habit.

Wordsworth wrote, as he said "in tranquility," and Byron was his exact opposite, Neither Coleridge nor Whitman could write well unless he felt well. Burns and Shelley both found writing easiest in warm weather, but Longfellow preferred October.

Byron and Dryden were speedy writers. Tennyson's notebooks show reference to "The Idylls of the King" more than a quarter of a century before they were published, and Gray spent eight years on the Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, which is at the rate of less than one line every three weeks.

Poe took every now and then a poet would have the luck to dash off almost as fast as he could write a poem that would stand unchanged. Among them were Longfellow's "The Arrow and the Song," Whittier's "What of the Day," Yeats' "The Wheel," and Frost's "Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening."

VOLCANIC DEATH

Volcanic eruptions on Martinique Island in the British West Indies killed 36,000 persons in 1902.

First vehicle to reach a speed of 100 miles an hour was Engine No. 999 of the New York Central Railways in 1893.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

THE WOMAN WHO WOULDN'T EAT HORSE

I guess the whole story will come out before long. A stout Fuller-Brush man or a chubby Watkins deer-to-door salesman will be reported missing. The police will make an investigation and perhaps find some grisly scrap of evidence. Then the whole world will know how the Smedleys solved the meat problem.

My own evidence is purely circumstantial. I could prove nothing. I only know what I've seen in peeking from behind the blinds and hearing the strange behaviour over at their house.

The Smedleys, you see, are our neighbors. Harvey Smedley is the head salesman in a shoe store and spends a sizable part of his life, Sybil, is a hearty buxom woman. They have four sturdy children. (I say putting this all down quietly and without dramatics so that you may judge the facts for yourself).

The Smedleys were sorely hurt by the soaring cost of meat. They love it. Like most people, they like a life without red meat plunged them all into gloom.

I remember one morning—oh, it must have been three weeks ago—when Sybil was in our kitchen having a cup of coffee and grumbling in a way quite foreign to her sunny disposition.

"As for horse meat," I heard her say, "I just absolutely refuse to eat it. Why, I'd sooner eat a cat . . . a human as set a horse!"

Afterwards I found it very hard to forget that particular remark.

My wife said something about just going without meat for a while. Sybil's voice sounded shrill. "I'm not going to stand by and do nothing." I heard her say. "I'm going to lick this thing."

It was a day or two later that the incident occurred involving the Encyclopedia Americana salesman. He was a short, rotund man with a somewhat florid complexion. He came, first, to our house and talked to me a few minutes in the yard, where I was working. Then he went next door to the Smedleys.

Knowing that the Smedleys had recently acquired an encyclopedia, I was rather surprised to see Sybil invite the salesman in. Some ten minutes later I noticed smoke coming from the Smedley's kitchen chimney. I had not observed the salesman leave, but I presumed he had departed from the rear door.

The next morning I happened to meet Marvin Smedley at the bus stop and, in the course of our conversation, the commuter, Smedley little provider, Sybil, had the most wonderful loin of pork, last night. Don't know how they does it at them prices."

It was then I felt the first real chill of apprehension.

Nothing at all happened for the next four days. The usual door-to-door salesmen came and went without incident and while I noticed they were all thin, very thin I would not permit myself to indulge in macabre speculation.

Then came the events involving the piano tuner. He was a big, solid man of perhaps 240 pounds. Again I was surprised to see Sybil invite the fellow into the house. It seemed odd because the Smedleys don't own a piano.

This time I took up a position behind the blinds. I was most able to note that the piano tuner did not leave the house. Soon the smoke came once more from the chimney.

I could see Sybil moving about purposefully in her kitchen, a place little fit for a lady, and a morning I made sure to encounter Marvin at the bus stop and to manoeuvre the conversation to the subject of food. He had never seemed more robust.

I had a bad night of beef last night that must have cost $18, he said. "I don't know how Sybil does it."

Since that time nothing has been said by either stranger event, but as it involves me, I naturally feel some alarm.

I had gone to the drug store for cigarettes. The druggist asked me if I would bring an order over to Young Poe, his delivery boy, a plump and ingratiating lad.

"Took an order over to Mrs. Smedley's and hasn't come back," the druggist said. "He seemed like a pretty reliable kid, too. I guess he just got itchy feet."

I hurried home, determined now to tell my wife of my suspicions. As I passed the Smedley's place I ate around and the doctor treated the anemia successfully, yet the girl continued to feel tired and dispirited.

Turning over the paper one day the mother happened to notice an item which, on examination proved to be an offer to send for a pamphlet about nutritional fodine. She sent for the pamphlet and began giving her daughter Iodin Ration. It didn't do the girl a bit of good. Her mother subsequently filed a progress report, to wit:

"The result has been simply unbelievable. She is very happy and I am so grateful—she was so tired....Great lassitude ...couldn't enjoy life at other young people do. Now she is bubbling over most of the time."

More recent scientific research indicates that Vitamin B-12 when accompanied by the correct activator (as described in the Red, Blood Vitamin) will also do much in preventing the young ones from mopping. Several eminent pediatricians have reported that the red blood vitamin in fact is extremely small daily rations promotes an increase in vigor and alertness and improves general behavior.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

The Price of Sugar

Our pediatrician prescribed (a fortified baby food) Similac for preparing the baby's formula. This (fancy brand) costs. (Mrs. C. W.)

Answer—Even if it were no more expensive than ordinary milk sugar, it has no virtue or superiority over the corn syrup or Karo or molasses for infant feeding—no virtue, that is, except the enormous profits the manufacturer of the fancy brand makes, which enable many to generously subsidize to enjoy a vacation as guest at one of the fashionable dude ranch and fishing ledges. Unless your pediatrician has you hypnotized, it is hard to believe that (in health) to squander 25c and a dollar more per week.

Hope for a copy of The New Brady Baby Book.

No Colitis Diet

Sent ten cents for your colitis diet and have not received it. You have a good packet. (H. D.)

Answer—It costs more than 11 cents to mail it, and that I have no such item as you request, especially when you fail to inclose a stamped, self addressed envelope. Only advice I give about diet and colitis is in the booklet The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene. This I get two back 20c and stamped, self-addressed envelope. If you think you know more than I that an ordinary doctor does, the booklet will not be worth the price.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Treatment, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Sic.

There's a world of difference between dreaming and moping. Bright youngsters daydream; dull ones mope.

That does not imply that this child twelve or fifteen years of age who daydreams occasionally is exceptionally bright, nor that the young one who mopes sometimes is dull. For goodness sake let 'em mope or daydream a bit without making an issue of it. You probably daydreamed or moped just as much when you were in your teens.

It is time to do something about it when a growing youngster begins to mope a good deal, feels too tired to play or study and becomes increasingly quiet or moody.

Please let me say that the worst thing you can do is to blame the boy or girl for it. The child is less to blame for the trouble than you are for the artériosclerosis, diabetes or rheumatism you may be training for right now.

The first thing to do is send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask in writing for two separate pamphlets, one Iodin Ration and The Red Blood Vitamin. Then, while waiting for the pamphlets to arrive, make an appointment with your physician for a thorough examination of the youngster for tuberculosis. The examination should include physical examination of the chest and an X-ray film—and the technician's report interpreted by the family physician in confidence with the X-ray technician.

Chances are about 100 to 1 that the examination will be negative—disclose no sign of tuberculosis. But it is essential if you wish to have the child's mind at ease. The examination reveals that the tuberculosis has developed—how happy you will be for detecting the disease in the earliest (incipient) stage, when proper treatment will surely bring early arrest.

One fifteen-year-old girl began to mope too much. Her mother took her to a doctor whose physical examination was negative. The girl had a comfortable siesta and the doctor treated the anemia successfully, yet the girl continued to feel tired and dispirited.

Turning over the paper one day the mother happened to notice an item which, on examination proved to be an offer to send for a pamphlet about nutritional fodine. She sent for the pamphlet and began giving her

GOD HAS WON A BEACHHEAD

One of the basic contentions of the New Testament is that God has established a beachhead in the kingdom of God upon the earth.

Of course, from the worldly standpoint, the kingdom He established was ridiculously ineffective. It consisted at the time of the ascension of only a hundred and twenty persons.

Three hundred years later, although Christianity was the official religion of the Roman Empire, the number of Christians in the world was very small comparable with the total population. Even today there are many more non-Christians in the world than there are Christians, and among the nominal Christians only a certain percentage of them can really be said to measure up to the standards of Christ.

In other words, God has won only a beachhead in the invasion of this world's life. From the beginning of time, some people have believed in the one true God. But with the coming of Jesus, this incoherent belief and allegiance became centered in a Person. But God in Jesus Christ won only a beachhead in the teeming life of the world.

Think of the social circle in which you move and ask yourself: if this is not true. Think of the office or mill in which you work; of the block in which you dwell; of the church which you join; of the country to which we owe allegiance; of the world of which each of us is such an infinitesimal part. In it God has won only a beachhead. Is this not true?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Although the war had been over six years, the daily newspaper in London and the British Isles generally can be folded twice and stuck in the most pocket as easily, almost, as a letter. It is six pages most days, and due to the entirely different handling of the news-ages to get it all in, to the satisfaction of his millions of readers. One sentence often does for stories that we would feel ashamed to send four words to. Yet even when they get what we would call a human interest story, such as a child lost and found by their dog, without a quain, devote a great deal of space to it in the press. It carries, a screaming top line taking up priceless space, and the first shocking paragraph printed in large type, so that you can get its awful import as you run, in the subway and swap in a dim-lit bus or tube train. When you get home, and they have a break often enough in a population of 45 million, the news about the UN can, with astonishing ease, be compacted into three or four brief and extremely dignified sentences. And away down at the bottom of page five will be one inch describing how Mrs Hill met her husband Jones in a contraption of rubber tubes.

In a peaceful setting, the world over, is the most jealous man on earth. He is jealous of space, and measures it out to his neighbor on the planet with a cold and critical eye. Three hundred square feet less advertisements, in which to put it. The gift of understatement, which is the total property of the treasured of British vices or virtues, is something that the press, it is not quite understatement, either. It is the art of saying the world in the least words. The news editors must be driven to the verge of lunacy, however, because one of the traditions of these newspapers is that the two best middle pages have to be given over to some way reviewing a book, or some bird watcher writing about what he saw at the bottom of the garden only last Tuesday.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE THING CALLED FAITH

Lifes' greatest asset is faith. Without it there would be no progress, no attempts or trials into the unknown, no confidence in oneself or in the future. Faith is the glad thing that causes us to enter into the work set before us each day of our lives, his faith is what gives us hope and confidence that we will be able to carry through impossible things!

How long would we be able to carry on a happy commerce between people and nations if we did not have faith in their character and good intentions. There is no business in this world or any trade as character, the foundation of which is faith. With faith we can attempt anything, for it is a fact of fact we could hardly make a move without faith, which is as much as much as a matter of course.

The great creators in this world have been people of large faith. Every invention and every new scientific discovery has been the product of faith. Without faith we would not have our newspaper in the morning and enter upon our duties without being so filled with fear that we could accomplish nothing. It is faith that drives out all fear.

We have supreme faith you have to be yourself. No pretensions, no hypocrisy, no sham will be acquashed to you by the Creator. People may wonder at times when they cause failure, and all that, but that won't matter. It never does to lose your head over faith, and know they have it, the same as they know that they breathe.

I have watched the birds and animals in nature and note how happy they seem to be and how busy. They give no evidence that they are dissatisfied with their lot. They, too, must have their own particular faith, for without it this world or anybody to conduct their life without worry.

Our greatest source of faith comes from God, and He has expressed the whole world with it. All through nature it is evidenced. Then we can look upon the sturdy oak or hemlock and see in it an illustration of faith, or the lowly violet and imagine we see it stamped upon many a weathered face.

American Firms Extend Training for Teen-Agers

New York — (AP) — The idea of systematically training teen-agers to become business men is spreading through the United States.

Business firms in 39 states are behind the movement, known as Junior Achievement Companies. Their success is a pleasant other side of the teen-age story — an antidote to the recent accounts of juvenile addiction to high speed or moral laxity among college athletes.

Under the junior achievement plan youngsters from 16 to 20 years of age form their own companies, sell stock in them, make and sell products, keep the books and manage the business.

Eighty per cent of the companies make a nice profit, but they do so after the young men and women have done considerable nail-chewing while they risk their own and other people's money.

Junior Achievement, Inc., has been promoted on a national organization scale only since the fall of 1948. But in the school year ended in June, there were more than 2,000 such companies, manned by nearly 30,000 teen-age officers and workers. The companies are liquidated at the end of each school year, and usually the youngsters are able to vote themselves a bonus of the profits.

Business firms backing the movement, according to the National Executive Service Corps Board, aim "to give American boys and girls a positive education in owning, managing and operating their own businesses so they can learn at first hand the functions of capital, management and labor."

First-hand Experience

Here is how junior achievement companies operate:

Each has a business firm sponsor that furnishes three advisers, one each from the accountancy, [illegible] and sales departments [illegible]ship is limited to 18, [illegible] is no fatther bedridge [illegible]con has to work. They start by floating a stock issue. Each youngster must buy one $5 - cent share, and can buy up to five. Then they must sell the rest around their town. They rent a business center, usually in a school or clubroom, or some business place.

Junior workers meet one evening each week for two hours. At each meeting they first tackle their problems: wage increases, stepping up or cutting back production schedules, sales volume and administering personnel — including the sometimes troublesome problem of absenteeism. Then they start working on the product they've chosen to make and sell.

These products or services run a wide range. About 40 per cent are manufacturing enterprises.

A Chicago junior company made $186 profit on plastic food bags, table cloths and cover sets.

Other junior achievement companies have ranged far afield: — newspapers, baby-sitter bureaus, stenographic service agencies and even radio program productions for sale to local firms on community radio stations.

PICKED ON POLICE OFFICERS

Alexandria, Egypt, Aug. 25 — (AP) — Police announced today they have arrested a gang of pickpockets who specialized in robbing police officers. Recruits, police said, started picking the pockets of police lieutenants and gradually worked up to captains and higher officials. They counted the leader of the gang as saying "we ignored ordinary policemen because they are too poor."

School Inspector And Wife Honored Before Departure

Bancroft—A large crowd that included representatives from Church, school community and athletic organizations attended going-away partyplast was held in the auditorium of North Hastings High School on Thursday night for Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Simpson.

For the past three years Mr. Simpson has been inspector of public schools for North Hastings and the adjoining townships of Renfrew and Nipissing. Starting as the first of the new school terms he becomes inspector for South Carleton and some sections of North Dundas and Stormont, with headquarters in Ottawa.

During his term in Bancroft Mr. Simpson was active in many organizations. In 1950-51 he was coach of the Bancroft Pontiacs, who won the championship of the Hastings-Addington Hockey League, and in the same year he was chairman of the Canada Dinner, that arranged the building of the new parsonage for St. Paul's United Church, Bancroft.

Other Positions Occupied

Other positions that he occupied in the three years he was in Bancroft were secretary-treasurer of North Hastings Minor Hockey Association, member of North Hastings Community Centre Commission, one of the executive of the North Hastings Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association and treasurer of Bancroft Lions Club. Mrs. Simpson served as a home economics convener of Bancroft public school Home and School Association, chairman of the Hobby Show committee and secretary treasurer of the women's auxiliary of St. Paul's United Church.

After presentations of a leather brief-case and a hat box were made to Mr. and Mrs. Simpson by Mrs. J. N. Brown and Gordon Groves, representatives of the community organizations, brief speeches were made by Hugh Vance, J. N. Brown, Cecil McAlpine, Guy Bentley and Whitney Martin.

The program of the evening consisted of games, duets, singing, folk dances and novelties under the direction of Quirt McKinney of the staff of Peterborough Normal School as master of ceremonies. Refreshments were served by the evening auxiliary of St. Paul's United Church.

190,000 TO GET CHEQUES

Toronto, Aug. 24 —(CP)— About 190,000 persons in Ontario will get pension cheques for the first time when the universal $40-a-month payments go into effect Jan. 1, says Welfare Minister Goodfellow.

In addition, some 93,000 Ontario residents now receiving the means test pension will automatically be transferred to the universal pension lists.

DAFFODILS FOR FALL PLANTING

There is such a list of grand varieties of narcisai and daffodils that it is difficult to recommend specific kinds.

Above is illustrated Incomparabilis Kanasa. This is snowy white with a yellow centre edged with red.

Daffodils never disappoint you. They grow easily, are sturdy, colorful and gay. They take any kind of severe winter and multiply with amazing rapidity.

They always harmonize with other flowers and are excellent for cutting.

CAMPBELLFORD

Rev. N. Bosko New Minister Free Methodists

Campbellford — At a church conference held in Toronto recently, it was announced that the following changes will be made in the pulpit of the Free Methodist Church in Campbellford.

Rev. Donald White, who has been the minister here for the past five years, is leaving to take charge of the parishes in Clarendon and Mississippi in eastern Ontario.

Rev. Nicholas Bosko has been named to replace him in Campbellford. Rev. Bosko, born in Russia, came to Canada in 1918 and has been a minister in the Free Methodist church for the past 25 years. Lately he has been a resident of Picton, and has a small son and a daughter in Toronto.

It is expected he will arrive in Campbellford later this week, and will take up residence in the Free Methodist parsonage.

Resides in Town

Donna Birks Devincy, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Evan Devincy of Toronto, and Douglas Milton Carswell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Villjean Pearse Carswell, Trenton, were married in Toronto recently, and on return from their honeymoon trip through the Adirondacks will take up residence in Campbellford.

Returns From Vacation

Mrs. J. E. Ayrhart, wife of Mayor J. Ernie Ayrhart of Campbellford, has just returned from a vacation trip with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Dale of Brampton, Ont. Mrs. Ayrhart drove to Brampton, picked up her parents and drove to the Laurentian Mountains, to spend a week with her husband in the Ayrhart cottage at the Alpine Inn, St. Margaret's. Later Mrs. Ayrhart drove her parents home to Brampton, stopping at her home in Campbellford en route.

OLD HELMETS!

(Fort William Times-Journal)

Two young Fort William men were inspecting the interesting collection of antiques at the Canadian Lakehead Exhibition. Old boots, canes and jewellery had claimed their attention, and then one of the pair pointed at another object, saying excitedly:

"Look at that old helmet. I'll bet it goes back to the Boer War."

From beside him a quavering voice, an old lady said with asperity:

"I'll have you know that's a lady's hat. I wore one of them myself."

CONFERENCE IN PARIS

Paris, Aug. 25 (AP) — Plans are being made for a conference in Paris this fall to launch a new international organization of free newspaper men. Martin formerly was vice-president of the International Organization of Journalists but took his union out if it when communists captured control. He wants the new body to replace the I.O.J.

Two Transports, 2 Cars Involved, Six Injured

Napanee, Aug. 25—(CP)— A traffic smashup involving two transport trucks and two automobiles five miles east of here last night sent six persons to hospital. Bert Steinburn, an R.C.A.F. member who had hitch-hiked a ride was pinned in the front seat of one of the cars for 45 minutes before he was freed. His legs were broken and his face cut.

Police said the chain-reaction crash started when an east-bound transport truck driven by Clovis Gordon of Prescott developed engine trouble and slowed down before pulling off the road.

The truck was rammed from behind by Sherman Gauley, an engineer with the Canada Rivers Commission, officers said.

Steinberg was a passenger in the Gauley car.

Then another eastbound truck, driven by Joseph Marcil of Montreal, pulled up behind the wreck as Marcil stopped to offer help. Before Marcil could get out of the cab behind his truck, his vehicle was rammed by a car police say was driven by Mrs. Thomas Lee of Ottawa.

Gauley suffered a broken leg and head injuries.

Gauley suffered head and arm injuries and his wife an diwo children were less severely injured.

Loneliest Island Has Crawfish Boom

Cape Town, South Africa (CP) —One of the world's loneliest islands—Tristan da Cunha south of the Cape of Good Hope—has turned into a bustling centre of commercial development by its lowly crawfish.

A modern cannery on Tristan will soon be in full production, largely financed by the British Colonial Development Corporation. Within the first year the cannery expects to export 10,000 cases of crawfish and 30,000 cases of frozen crawfish tails.

The islanders many years ago even saw a ship. Now one regularly makes runs to and from South Africa and another is scheduled to join it before the end of the crawfish season.

The development corporation also exploits the fact that the island is free of virus disease. As a sideline it is producing a strain of seed potatoes which will carry a "virus-free" guarantee.

Govt. Piles Up Huge Surplus In Four Months

Ottawa, Aug. 25 (CP) — The Federal Government piled up a surplus of nearly $400,000,000 in the first four months of the 1951-52 fiscal year, a year in which the surplus was not expected to be more than $80,000,000.

In the budget speech April 10 last, Finance Minister Abbott forecast revenues of $3,720,000,000 and expenditures of $3,700,000 for a surplus of $20,000,000. But Friday a report from the treasury disclosed that the first four months of the year ending March 31 next, revenues totalled $1,302,901,538 and expenditures $794,012,372, leaving a surplus of $408,979,150.

In the first four months of the 1950-51 fiscal year, the surplus totalled $253,000,000. The government ended the year with a surplus of $303,000,000, although only $15,000,000 had been forecast.

Canada's record surpluses were compiled in 1947-48 and totalled $970,000,000.

The treasury report said the increased revenues reflected some of the higher taxes imposed last year and some of those in the 1951 budgyet.

The revenues of approximately $1,303,000,000 for the four-month period compared with $861,000,000 for the corresponding period of last year, an increase of $341,900,000.

Israel Visitor Enjoying Steaks On Canada Visit

Vancouver. (CP)— One young woman visiting Vancouver has not been complaining about the cost of meat. Mrs. Arthur Goldberg from Israel has had a steak a day since she arrived in Canada, and hopes to continue on that menu until she and her husband of seven weeks return to Israel.

This is Leumith Goldberg's first trip away from her home country. In Israel all food is rationed and each person is allowed a half-pound of meat per month.

"Back in Israel," she said, "all food is tightly rationed and we still have to line up, and even then it is difficult to obtain."

Leumith fought side by side with men and women of Israel in their battle for independence.

She fought with the underground, helped train troops and when the Israeli army was formed officially, served for 16 months and wound up a corporal. She obtained her discharge from the army to get married.

Women as well as men are obliged by law to serve in the army. Every unmarried girl between ages of 18 and 26 must do a two-year hitch.

Her husband, a 25-year-old Vancouver man, brought his bride from Jerusalem to visit his parents here. He plans to live in Israel and help build up the country's tourist industry.

He left the University of British Columbia to go to Israel over a year ago. With him went a fleet of cars—first U-drive autos in Israel. Now he has a franchise for a bus line. He is an R.C.A.F. veteran.

Belleek China—Great Skill Required in Its Production

By Lavonia Stockelbach

Enniskillen, Ireland—(Special to the Ontario Intelligencer.)— Ireland cheered up this morning and generously gave a whole day of sunshine after having even more generously given many diseal deluges lately. It would be a pleasant day to visit the Belleek factories of North Ireland to see how their beautiful china is made.

So, at eight o'clock, ready for breakfast, none were ready for it. No sign or anyone and the bus was to leave at nine. One can easily do without breakfast, but tea can more easily do with it. So the night porter took pity on me, made me a pot of tea and brought it up to me with some bread and butter.

For some time I had wanted to add to a tea-set of Belleek china and always wanted to see the "wheels go round", to see, in this instance, how feldspar, flint, clay and a few other ingredients could be made into one of the most delicate of chinas.

Beautiful Drive.

The beautiful drive from Enniskillen to Belleek along the twenty-mile Lake Erne was refreshing. In the early light one could see the high hills on the left and even across to the other side, and most of the way places all very Canadian, plus the usual ancient church and castle ruins and occasional thatched cottages.

Barely is a factory so beautifully set as Belleek, not only in its immediate surroundings but the approaches. After a visit here one goes away with a nearly greater fragrance as you recall the views from the workmen's windows and the sound of the rushing waters of the rapid river, Erne, as it descends from the lake to the sea near by.

One also remembers how Lady Londonderry, the land and over the place —or was it luck, or the "penny of observation" that made the "penny of observation" that made the "penny of observation" that made

Two New Textile Colors Picked By Princess

London, Aug. 24—(AP)—Princess Elizabeth has picked two new textile colors—Edinburgh green and Elizabethan rose—to commemorate her forthcoming tour of Canada and Washington with the Duke of Edinburgh.

The British Color Council, announcing this today, described Edinburgh green as "the color of the silver spruce, a tree known equally well in Canada and Scotland."

Elizabethan rose is "a rose color with a warm glowing undertone."

The council co-ordinates textile color and design in Britain. The names of the two shades will be spoiled as official by all its members.

While she was at it, the council said, Princess Elizabeth decided to sponsor two colors for children: Cupid blue, "a clear turquoise," and Mayflower, "a gay clear pink."

Briefs From Britain

Bexhill, England (CP)—Jimmy Coulter, 14, entered a highland dancing competition here "just for the fun of it." He won the gold medal, first time in 126 years that it has been awarded a boy.

London (CP)—More than 300,000 British children have been presented with badges bearing the head of a reindeer. It denotes official recognition as members of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Swansea, England (CP) — A model plane flown by Mike Billington at the British National meet here set a record with a speed of 95.16 miles an hour.

Easthaupstead, England (CP) —Rev. F. W. Cornell, the local rector, says one of the best ways to beat a church is to fill it with people.

London (CP)—Latest advice to housewives in a home-help column is pop your blankets into the oven and bake them if you think they have moths. Another way is get rid of the moths is put blankets in cold storage and then use a brush on them.

Lallingstone, England (CP) — Latest find in excavations of Roman ville sites here is a silver coin minted in the Emperor Severus era. Buried for centuries, it is still well-preserved.

Nottingham, England (CP) — A plaque of bells brought service in St. Peter's Church to a temporary halt. No one was aware that the bats were there until workmen began repairing the 12th century church after it was struck by lightning.

Kingston-on-Thames, England —(Canon T. R. Scrutton, to what he believes is a sure-fire plan for making church hymn books last 100 years: Instead of 100 weeks. His idea: Have the parishioners buy their own.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was taking a Saturday walk with pop, and we stopped to go passed the new shart and necktie store on the Avenue, the sign saying, Dick' Budheim's Friendly Habberdashery, Call Me Bud.

By golleys I'll take him up on that, pop said. I'll step in for a cuppie of minutes and call him Bud and exchange a few frendly remarks about the weather. A chap se frendly as that ought to know that he's appriciated, he said.

And we went in the store and a round face man was smiling in back of the counter. Hullmeet, and pop said, Are you Mr. Budhaim?

Yes indeedy I am, the man said, and pop said, Then I'll call you Bud.

Good, that's what I like, Mr. Budheim said, and pop said, This is warm weathr we been having, Bud.

Yes indeedy, Mr. Budheim said. What's it to be? he said, and pop said, It's to be even warmer, probably.

I bet you're right, and you cant always tell about the weather, Mr. Budheim said. Were you looking for something in the way of sherts? he said, and pop said, Well yes I was, Bud, but I found some.

I've got quite an assortment of ties, Mr. Budheim said, and pop said, I can well believe it, Bud. I dont know who would if you didn't. Well, it's been nice talking to you, Bud, thanks for the invitation, have a cigar as said.

And he handed him one and Mr. Budheim took it with his mouth open, and we went out again, me saying, G, pop, do you think he appriciated it? and pop said, I dont know, but I had a very nice time, and if Mr. Budheim didn't, it just goes to show that frendship for purely social reasons is more injoyable than frendship strickly for bizzness.

Which maybe it is.

Yanks Scalp Indians With Two-Run Homer To Reduce Lead To Two Games

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

BROCKVILLE HERE TONIGHT!

The Redmen Davids play hosts to Brockville's Goliaths in a crucial Central Ontario Baseball League game at Exhibition Park tonight. While the Reds are not exactly Davids, baseballically speaking, the Memo have attained a Goliath stature by virtue of their domination of the loop's top slot practically from the beginning of hostilities. That they are a well-balanced powerful squad cannot be denied. They have played consistently good baseball all through the schedule, but they have had a goodly share of the breaks, too. They are by no means invincible, and the forthcoming playoffs will prove whether they are a money team, or just one that has taken advantage of the foe's lapses with a goodly share of the well-known horseshoes.

If this department's memory serves it correctly, it was the Redmen that punctured the Memos balloon but effectively during one of the teams' early season clashes. The Brockville squad blew higher than the proverbial kite and the Reds, pounding upon their sudden lapse from grace sent eleven runners scampering across the plate — a single-innings record for the league.

In any event the three-cornered fracas between the pair here tonight as special guests of the Redskins. And while they will be welcome from a social standpoint, all friendship ceases when the two shirts "Play Ball". The Reds, fresh from their sparkling victory over the Niagara Falls Royals, have stated "blood" and their appetite is far from being sated. A tasty dessert of Brockville pie would do very nicely thank you, and if it is at all available the Reds are going out to help themselves to a generous portion. Game at 8:30.

GLEN BOYS ON SPOT!

Meanwhile up at Alumite Field Don McNevin's Glen Boy's Bakermaten "AVs" go into battle with their backs to the wall. At six o'clock this evening they face the Kingston Alcans in the second game of their two-of-three playdown series, and the Glens must register a victory if they wish to survive. A third game, if necessary, will be played in Kingston since the danged coin which was flipped prior to the first tilt in Kingston Thursday night had two heads. It must have had, since the Glen "caller" favored the tail-side of the piece.

No matter who wins or loses the softball faithful is due for a thriller in their favorite sport if the Alcan 4-2 victory Thursday can be judged a criterion. The Limestoners had their share of the breaks, but it can't be believed the Glens were the only ones that were not only tought but in the series. Don Boyle will go to the mound for the Men o' McNevin and the speedball hurler should give the Alcans plenty to akin at. To repeat, the game starts at 6 o'clock.

WHERE WINGS AWAIT!

The sixmire W. G. Mikel Trophy for the fastest sailing yacht in the Bay of Quinte will have the fourth outing of the season Sunday afternoon when the district sailors gather off the jetty at George Graham's home on the Trent Road. Mr. Graham is currently the defending champion. In two previous encounters with district sailors he was able to finish second twice and as soon as he copped the bauble he invited everyone to his place where he would be in a fine position to defend it. No one as yet has been able to keep the trophy longer than the time needed to get from one boat to another.

Not only will all the standing keel craft in the district be on hand, but there will also be a full entry of dinghys. Leo Flagler, Bancroft, who slipped into town to take the championship at the last get-together, will be on hand to defend his title. In addition there will be a full card of runabout racing with Rae Roblin out to keep the sailing bottle awarded him at the first clash several weeks ago.

The course laid out for the yachts will be down the bay from the Graham jetty to the bay bridge, up the Prince Edward County shore and back to the jetty. If the wind blows hard there will be several outfits in trouble before the new bay bridge road and at Optimist Island will be afforded choice seats for the renewal of this local classic, which is scheduled to start at 2.00 p.m.

RACE FUN AT CRYSTAL BEACH

Lovers of speedboat racing will get a thrill at Crystal Beach, Madoc, tomorrow afternoon when the resort's first Canadian One-Design Inboard Class will be staged. Well-known drivers and boats such as Ed. Pine and "Mrs. Dockitt"; George Gorrie and "Bob-Anne-Ter" from Brockville; Frank Ramsay and "For Sale Too" from Bideau Ferry; Bob Wiseman, and "Golden Girl" from Smiths Falls; E. Broadgate and "Sea Witch", Toronto and last but not least "Miss Madoc" owned by the Kincaid Brothers of the village, will be racing.

Crystal Beach is the first of its kind in Eastern Ontario and will be a draw-rebearsal for the majority of the boats which have been entered in the CNE races in Toronto.

Tennis Notes

The Quinte Tennis Club became champions of the Bay of Quinte Tennis League for the first time when they nosed out Trenton for the title in the dying moments of the 1951 campaign. The wins gives the Quinte netsters the right to hold the Canada Cement Trophy at Point Anne Finlayson third behind Trenton, while Batawa wound up in fourth position.

Next week the Corby Cup playoffs get under way with the Quinte playing Point Anne and Trenton hooking up with Batawa in home-and-home series. The semi-finals are to be completed by September 10.

The senior tournament last Sunday saw Thorold Horwood and Joe LeForce of Point Anne win the men's doubles event while John Black and Gertie Galsforth of Trenton copped the mixed doubles crown in the large field.

All entrants in the Ontario Junior Tennis tournament are to be congratulated. Mary Jane McNally, Quinte Club, reached the semi-final of the junior girls singles only to be edged in a three set game with the top seeded player who was the Toronto and district champion. Bob Burns of Trenton reached the quarter finals of the junior boys' singles. The under eighteen age-netters are Eve Robbins of Quinte, and Terry Joyce of Holloway, next strong opposition in the first round and though beaten were by no means disgraced. Mary Jane McNally, Bob Burns, and Terry Joyce are due to appear in Ottawa today for the Canadian junior championship.

In the intermediate league Holloway and Quinte meet on the latter's courts Monday evening, while on Thursday, two matches are called: St. Andrew's at Trenton, and Batawa at Quinte.

The Bay of Quinte League, and of season dance has been arranged to be held in the Batawa Recreation hall and will probably be on the last Friday of September or the first Friday in October.

Woodling's Dramatic Clout Belts Bombers Back in Fight; Chisox Brooks, Giants Win

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Gene Woodling, 29-year-old outfielder with New York Yankees, is waging a one-man drive to prevent the Cleveland Indians from winning the 1951 American League pennant.

Woodling, one-time member of the tribe, has belted the Yankees right back into the thick of the fight just when the Indians thought they had the defending champs on the run.

The veteran outfielder put the Yankees back in business last night as he poled a two-run, two-out homer in the seventh inning off Early Wynn to lead the Yanks to a 3-2 triumph. The current title moved the Yanks to within two games of the Indians.

Woodling's dramatic homer was his fifth decisive four-bagger against the Indians and his 13th of the season. He also collected a single and two walks to give him a total of 15 hits in his last 30 times at bat, a .750 average.

The payoff homer struck before 71,768 fans, largest night game crowd of the season, overshadowed Allie Reynolds' brilliant pitching by Stubby Overmire and Joe Ostrowski, obscure lefthanders of the Yankees.

Ostrowski Wins

Overmire, entrusted with only three previous starting jobs, lasted until the fifth when he complained of a pain in his pitching arm. Ostrowski took over with runners on first and second on one out and got out of the jam.

Ostrowski received credit for the victory, his ninth against three losses.

In other American League games, Chicago White Sox edged Boston Red Sox 3-2, St. Louis Browns defeated Philadelphia Athletics 3-2, and Washington Senators clubbed Detroit Tigers 10-7.

Ed Robinson singled home Ray Coleman with the winning Chicago run against the Red Sox. Lou Kretlow limited Boston to five hits.

Ned Garver hung up his 15th victory for the Browns in relief with the aid of batterymate Sherm Lollar, who pounded out a homer, double and single to drive in two runs and scored three. About 1,000 grand-stand managers detected Al Zarilla's error in Wally Veeck's promotions. Gus Zernial accounted for half of Philadelphia's runs with his 28th homer.

Mike McCormick clouted a grand-slam homer and Sam Mele and Joe Haynes homered with the bases empty as the Senators trounced Washington to victory over Detroit.

Red Sox, Majors Battle for Title In Intercounty

(By The Canadian Press)

Brantford Red Sox and London Majors will be final contenders for victor's laurels in the Intercounty Senior Baseball League.

The Sox eased ahead of Kitchener Legionnaires in an 11-inning game last night 11-9 to take four games to one in a best-of-seven semi-final series.

Thursday night the majors administered a 3-1 beating to the Guelph Maple Leafs to take their semi-final series also 4-1.

Last night it looked as though the Legionnaires would push the series to at least another game. They led 9-5 going into the top of the eighth frame.

But the Sox beaten the Legionnaires took out starting pitcher Roly Larouche and replaced him with Ken Creasey.

Creasey walked one of the first four men to face him in the eighth inning, miscued on an infield hit by another and allowed singles to the last two. He was taken out but the damage was done. Four runs were forced to tie the game before Don Feuhrer could retire the side.

In the top of the 11th inning with two out on three successive hits, Feuhrer got a walk and another single. That brought in two runs and the Sox had the game.

In Northern Ontario, Kirkland Lake Blue Devils and Timmins Pioneers clobber a 14-5 setback in the final Timiskaming Senior Baseball League game to win the series.

Greenwoods will meet the winners of the McIntyre Macmenn-Porcupine Combines series for the T.B.L. championship.

Sports Roundup

By MURRAY ROSE
(For Sports Writer)

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—I'm giving you three winners right now—before it's too late. That is, unless this normal gets around to the training camps. Boy, what a "football stuff" can do to mess you up!

Here goes: Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan to outpoint Billy Graham next Wednesday. Sugar Ray Robinson to get even Sept. 12 and take back his middleweight crown from Randy Turpin. Rocky Marciano to whip Ezzard Charles.

Sure, Gavilan, Robinson and Saddler are all favored. But you can't go wrong in betting on the choices in boxing this year. It's been a black '51 for change and favorites. And for the alleged experts.

Marvelous Murray

Some nerve, eh? The guy picks Rob Murphy to knock out Joey Maxim and now he has the gall to try and slip the public three winners. Nah! Nah! Jack is just kidding.

When Maxim was first signed to meet the socking sailor, I said Joey couldn't miss. Why Murphy wouldn't lay a glove on him.

Then I made the horrible mistake. I visited the training camps and watched the preliminary action. Maybe I should have left well enough alone.

Anyway, I saw Maxim train. He looked slow, worn and weary. He didn't have the power teammates belted him plenty. The old right was gone from the chest legs.

Then a trip to Murphy's camp. Even in training the smirking Irishman takes a licking. Everybody can't be wrong.

He just appeared to be too strong for a Maxim who had been beaten by the likes of Bernard Clarke.

Yes, it had to be Murphy. But then maybe Maxim still has had enough left for one more good fight.

The Clincher

Then I ran into a Cleveland writer, who shall be nameless.

"Murphy's a cinch in 10," he confided. "Say, you remember, is a pal of Joey's."

"Joey just hasn't got it anymore. Too bad, isn't it?"

Several more writers joined the party. It was agreed, pal Joey was going to get licked.

Well . . .

Joey was nice about it all afterwards. He explained the prediction. He smiled.

"I don't blame you a bit," he said with a grin. "Boy did I stink up that camp. Everyone belled me good. Those sparring partners bit me like I was a pitcher for the Browns. They all hit .400."

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

The exhibitions are over. Western football today starts what may be the wildest scramble for playoff space the Prairie provinces have ever seen.

Winnipeg, Calgary, Regina and Edmonton — the western interprovincial football unions — boast the strongest teams ever. They play their first league games after an intensive series that knocked predictions into a cocked hat.

Tonight Edmonton plays the Bombers at Winnipeg, another way west from an 22-21 exhibition loss to Montreal Alouettes.

An aerial extravaganza is expected in Regina, when Stampeders lock horns with the Roughriders.

General Lee III Friday won the $1,000 purse at the Woodstock Fair. Coming off the fast pace of Royal Linda, Stew Stimpson of Alvinston drove him to victory in the final heat.

The General's time of 2:13 3-5 was the fastest of the day.

Nova Scotia's Twin . . . sailing craft with some of the grace and fleetness of the great Bluenose herself, Friday won the International Bluenose class championship at Halifax.

Jack Lord of Guildford of the Armdale Yacht Club was presented with the trophy Friday night after winning the 1951 season's highest score in five races against Canadian and United States yachts.

Jim Ferrier, Canadian Open champion, shot his second straight par Friday to lead after the second round of the $15,000 Fort Wayne Open golf tournament.

His 139 total, 69 strokes under Thursday's leader, Glen Teal, Knoxville, Tenn., pro, who soared from a record 63 nine under par, Thursday to a 70 Friday. Ferrier, an Australian, now makes his home at San Francisco.

South Africa will not allow any non-title boxers — Asiatics or Negroes—to enter the country to fight, Interior Minister T. E. Donges announced Friday.

He made the statement in a letter to Vernon Bloomer a member of parliament who had made representations on the subject two years ago in behalf of two Indian boxing promoters in Durban.

Al Balding of Toronto's Islington Golf Club Friday won the Canadian Amateur Professional Golf Championship at the Montreal Beaconsfield Golf Club with an even-par total of 144.

Balding had rounds of 71 and 73 to finish 12 strokes better than his nearest rival, J. P. Alary of Montreal Municipal.

Chiefs Win Two From Montreal; Birds Blank Leafs

(By The Associated Press)

Springfield Cubs have been floundering around in last place for most of the season, but that's no fault of Hill (Speck) Padgett.

The 26-year-old right-handed hurler came through with his 14th victory last night against 11 setbacks, when he halted Ottawa Giants 8-3 in the second game of a doubleheader.

The seventh-place Giants captured the opener 9-3 in eight innings, and Padgett's triumph in the nightcap enabled the Cubs to remain only two games behind Ottawa in their quest to vacate the International League cellar.

Padgett, in his third year of organized ball, allowed eight hits and walked none. He won 43 gamesin the first two seasons and is the property of Chicago Cubs.

Ottawa's first-game victory broke a seven-game losing streak A walk, a pair of singles and an error in the extra frame provided the winning margin.

The transgaging Syracuse Chiefs boosted their winning skein to seven as they downed the league leading Montreal Royals 4-1 and 6-2. Art Hartley gave up six hits to win the opener and then came back in a relief role to win the second contest for Jack Robinson. Hank Wiesman walloped a pair of homers for the Chiefs in the nightcap.

Buffalo Bisons edged Rochester Red Wings 5-4 in 11 innings. Two pitchers yielding 23 hits, including five home runs, for 96 total bases. Ted Kazanek, Frank Carswell and Wally Post slammed circuit clouters for the Bisons and Russ Derry propelled two home runs for Rochester.

Jack Brittin twirled a five-hitter as Baltimore Orioles blanked the Toronto Maple Leafs 2-0. Jack Crimian drove in the runs in the second inning on hits by Russ Kearns, Al Chocki and Eddie Orwald.

Mask, Atkins Are Disqualified After Giving 'Bunny' Heave-Ho

Some people are very unappreciative. In fact some of them do not recognize a good thing when they see it, nor take advantage of opportunity when it is tossed to them. Either step at the toss or flat feed them.

Take Professor Fred Atkins' class of '51, Applied and Pure Psychotomy, who is giving postgraduate courses in Calmed in Skullduggery, underground tactics and general mayhem.

Last week, his assistant Leo (The Lose) Henning failed in his first course against the Sharp Brothers. His successor, Mask Mask, with possibly not enough Atkinian training to be dangerous, began as far as team match procedure goes, got a "pass" in his first test and slipped.

Are Disqualified

In fact, he and his tutor "passed" out of the match with disqualification certificates across their papers. Perhaps the new pupil was over-exuberant. Perhaps he knew as much as "master Ben" in any event, not satisfied with breaking the rules of team match work by holding a toss in the ring and tossing the Sharp Brothers' sparring partner about all over and under the ropes, they topped it off by flinging the Ole Professor into Bunny and using the hemp to join the Golden Boy from Hamilton in an out-of-the-ring battle.

The Ole Professor, grimacing painfully, staggered to his feet, grabbed a Sharpian arm in each hand, hoisted 'em high and awarded himself a double fall and match and 1500 howled approval.

Up in the ring the referee was as though Professor Dunlop looked with some favor on the Australian and his bright pupil. He's fell victim to the crafty wiles of the Main Event personality and wisely chose to wash that worthy's new but skilled assistant from the ring. Trying to fight organized tactics and Atkins promptly availed himself of the opportunity to bury a fist in Mask's face and whatever Sharpian stomach was target for the moment.

It started in the third fall when the brothers applied the "corkscrew" to the unfortunate rookie, a neat and effective grip that if grasped applied given to the wrist by the jugular vein and the the spinal cord at the same time.

Both Atkins' and Mask's backs had been severely swivel-led in the second fall, and the re-application was painful to say the least.

Atkins suddenly twisted out of the hold and hammered Mask's neck between the ropes and crossed 'em trussing-him-like a mid-Victorian mercenary in the days of bets. Ben rushed to his aid.The Mask found his arms and legs out into the cruel world. Mike was loosed by La Dunlop and he too, went overboard. There was much rum keg from a banks fisherman. Atkins and the Mask did a "My Truly, Truly Fair" to the tune and M'sieu Dunlop interfered.

Tom Bunny 'Overboard'.

Figuring the Sharps needed help Mask and Atkins promptly tossed La Bunny over the top rope on his noggin and the battle was over. Phew! Referee Ben got up and demanded the victory, but the Diamond ump was adamant and awarded the fall and match to the brothers.

The Sharps lost the first fall when the four clashed in the ring after the brothers had received seven disqualifications. They not get out in time and the "villains" got the nod. In the second bout the Sharps applied the "corkscrew" after taking a couple of cuff-lock lessons from the foe and quickly alternating the arms of the opposition, evened the count when Ben flattened Atkins.

Mayor McLaughlin, manager of Op Mask and Pat Flanagan indulged in some shoulder-bending in the semi-final go, with the agile Flanagan winning after 18 minutes of fast milling.

Tommy O'Toole's unorthodox methods proved much for Martin Nutzler, a newcomer, and the Irisher scored an unpopular decision in 19 minutes.

Trotting Record At Thorncliffe

Toronto, Aug. 25 (CP) —Malcolm Hanover, current king of Canadian pacers, had brisk drill for next week's Canadian Cup pace Friday as he won the featured pace at Thorncliffe raceway.

Hanover had to do his best as he won in 2.07 over a field worthy and, four other speedsters. He lay in fourth place for most of the race and came around the field on the final bend.

A new Canadian record for three-year-old trotters was established Friday when Dr. Riddell won the first heat of the $2,000 Vondale Cup. Dr. Riddell owned and driven by Hon. Earl Rowe, member of parliament for Dufferin-Simcoe, travelled the distance in 2.11 defeating Joe Herbert.

Blue Elite Evens Playoff Series With 10-7 Win

Bakelite evened their two out of three series with Cleaner Combines when they took a 10-7 win in the abbreviated seven inning playoff contest at the Alemite field on Friday night. The game was called in the eighth due to rain.

Each team now holds one victory and the third and deciding game is scheduled to be played on Monday night on the same grounds at 8:30.

A seven-run first inning rally by Bakelite practically put the game out of reach. They combined their hits with three Cleaner errors and, all in the outfield, and a pair of top-notch team of Max Hennessy of Ain Arbor, Mich., and Joan Johnson, Detroit.

Jacqueline Peterson, 21-year-old former U.S. Clay Courts champion, and Hennessy, 23-year-old Canadian Miami champion, turned in great singles performances to defeat their opponents in straight sets and opposition put up by Macken and Main in the two semi-finals discussionalists Saturday.

Greenberg defeated Macken, defending champion, 6-4, 6-1, after losing the first set in a little longer to subdue Main, 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.

Miss Hennessy is certainly not to be played at 2 p.m. EDT, will be broadcast over a Canadian radio network.

Macken and Main scored a 7-5, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5, 6-3 doubles victory to capture the title from Mrs. Henri Rochon, Montreal, in one semi-final round.

In the other, Greenberg and Vincent eliminated the young Canadian combination of Mrs. Hill and Lawrence Barclay, 7-5, 6-2, 6-2.

English Cricket Team Assured Of Test Match

Vancouver, Aug. 25 (CP)—With a lead of 128 runs and four wickets still in hand in the first innings, the touring Marylebone cricket team seems assured of winning the test match against an all-Canada eleven.

The two-day match, the first test ever played in Canada, will conclude today at Brockton Point.

After putting Canada to bat for 191 runs Friday, the visitors won the toss, and dismissing them for a paltry total of 94 runs in the innings yesterday completed 222 runs, for the loss of six wickets when stumps were drawn for the day.

Skipper Rohins who the visitors' contributor, taking five wickets for only 22 runs, then scoring a brilliant 54 runs himself in 36 minutes through lovely strokes all round the wicket. M.C. Wallfort also batted magnificently in compiling 36 and was unlucky not to reach his century.

A crowd of nearly 2,000 is expected to be on hand today, and should M.C.C. succeed in putting Canada out a second time for a small score to win by an innings, it has been agreed to stage an exhibition game for the afternoon session, with each team having a similar time in batting. Spectators will see whether the Canadians can deal with the deceptive googly bowling of Robins, which while they were all at sea on Friday.

The M.C.C. team moves to Victoria for a Sunday game and then will journey to Vernon, B.C., for a match on Wednesday.

And in an "All-American women's doubles final, Doris Popple of Des Moines, Iowa, last year's singles champion, will team up with Mrs. Davidson against the top-notch team of Mary Hardwick of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Joan Johnson, Detroit.

Colorful British Track Personality Celebrates 50 Years Handicapping

By EDWIN L. JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Aug. 25—(CP)— Rex Prince Monolulu, colorful tipster of the British turf, plans a harvest of "sure winners" next year for his fans—if he lives as a special spree to celebrate his 50 years handicapping.

Ever since the Boer War days the big, dusky personality, in brilliantly-hued costume and plumed headdress, has attracted an ever-widening circle of followers with his raucous cry of "I've gotta horse," which often and paid lucrative dividends to those who believed him. He admits he has also doled out a fair percentage of losers.

Now past the 70-year mark, Monolulu estimates he has collected some $500,000 in his half century of track adventure. But it has been a case of "easy come, easy go," wealthy one day and penniless the next. However, he's enjoyed every day of it and wants his 50th anniversary to cap it all with a flash of success at long-shot prices, if possible.

Was Shanghaied

Born in Addis Abeba, cap(tal of Ethiopia, the towering purveyor of tips first saw the race track at any track, found his way to England by a circuitous and adventurous route. He was shanghaied aboard a freighter by the master of a sailing ship, he told the crew he was a descendant of an Ethiopian king. That's how he got his name—Rex Prince Monolulu. He had heard white missionaries say that princes were great people in their own lands.

After a stormy voyage on which he was forced to work under a tyrannical mate who lashed him with a rope and fed him on plum duff, Monolulu reached the United States and

1,115 'Managers' Can't Be Wrong, Railbirds Guide Browns To Win

St. Louis, Aug. 25 — (AP) — With 1,115 grandstand managers calling the signals for them, St. Louis Browns outmaneuvered Philadelphia Athletics in a night game in the latest of Bill Veeck's stunts.

The grandstand managers—more than half of them women—piped in by a public address set. The Browns' lineup was determined by ballots filled and included catcher Sherm Lollar and first baseman Hank Arft, who were batting the bench strength.

Each drawn in turn. Lollar sparked the St. Louis attack with a homer, double and single, and scored three of the runs himself.

Seated behind the Browns' dugout, the managers sent their tactics to be used with "yes" and "no" signs. Any signs suggesting possibly moves were held up in front of them.

Decisions Split

In most cases, their decisions proved to be the right ones.

Veeck, owner of the Browns who has come to be known as Baseball's number one showman, called it "our great experiment."

Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Athletics, threatened before the contest started to ask for a forfeit if the grandstand managing delayed the game unduly. Actually, the game required only two hours and 11 minutes.

After the game, however, Dykes expressed the belief that the grandstand managing did not affect the outcome.

"It was a good game," Dykes said.

Veeck had to abandon plans for a game with the Athletics' coaches, American League headquarters refused to approve the contracts offered the coaches as men selected for the job.

The crowd drew a total of 7,165 spectators, including the managers. Paid attendance was 3,225.

As for manager Zack Taylor of the Browns, he spent the game in a box adjacent to the club dugout, resting in a rocking chair and sipping a cool drink.

Batavia, N.Y., Aug. 25 (AP) — Dr. Stanlon, owned and driven by W. L. Fraser of Forest, Ont., won the second heat of the two-dash Buffalo Invitation Pace here Friday night and collected the largest share of the $10,000 purse at the track's meet.

In the earlier mile event, Fermanon Hanover, given a brilliant drive by McKinney Lawhon, overlook the field.

Dr. Stanton's second and first places easily topped Fermanon Hanover's first and seventh for the summary triumph.

Amateur Stocking

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Salmo Lures)

For some reason, folks don't seem to learn that ichthyology is a science, and as such, is of benefit to mankind if used properly. Men spend their lives working with fish, learning all they can of their living requirements, food, and general behavior. Yet there are many men who disregard this source of useful advice and go ahead on their own when the spirit moves them. Often, regardless of good intentions, they do more harm than good.

There is a lake in New York State which is the focal point of a group of families who have joined together in a club and have built attractive summer homes around the entire shore line.

Some of the men like to fish, so they decided to stock the lake. They did not stop to consider such things as the natural food supply, spawn requirements, temperatures, etc. They ordered a truck-load of small fish and a truck-load of mouth bass, had these fish dumped into the lake at once and back to let nature take its course.

Although the bass were of legal size when purchased, some of the 5,000 of them, somehow the members of the club failed to get any fishing to speak of. The lake is not large and 5,000 legal-size bass should have been ample but the fishing was not good.

Many Fish, Fishing Poor

For six years the "fish committee" has been stocking the lake with small-mouth bass annually into the unproductive waters of that little lake. Still no good fishing. Then one evening I had a talk with one of the members.

"Can't understand it," he said. "Thirty thousand bass in six years and I haven't caught a one. We have caught five hundred in all that time. They just seem to disappear."

Meanwhile the sunfish had prolonged spawning. It is a great chore to pick up fifty or so along the shore line in an hour's fishing — big fellows of half a pound or better.

"No" sirree. Those members asked me to spend a week at the lake, fish around, look, listen, and see what I could learn. One of them loaned me his house, so we moved in. Then I spent the evening telling I found the answer to the mystery of the disappearing bass. Dick had hooked a small sunfish. The little fellow put up quite a scrap, but at last he did and was tired when he was unhooked and released. The canoe swam slowly away from the canoe, from the depths rolled a big bass which took the sunfish, took the little sunfish, and sank again into the dark water.

Bass Just Fodder

It was surprising to see this species so far south, but there it was, unmistakably. Thus, the mystery of the bass was solved. Those big lins evidently had been living high and waxing fat on the sunfish.

Briefly, the stocking program that the "fish committee" set up for that little lake was completely cockeyed. Some years ago, to beautify the lake, all lilypads, reeds and brush had been removed from the shore line. There went the natural cover, with no water weeds planted to replace it.

The shore line was into the shallows and cleaned up the piggy of the lake mucky mines, leaving little food for the bass.

Moreover, the temperatures set up by the lake does not lend itself to smallmouth anyway. The lake is shallow and heavily influenced by great deal by the wind. Under the hot summer sun it establishes high temperatures, perhaps thirty or thirty-five feet.

The Heat Was On

Smallmouth, as you know, prefer to live in the lake, at least in high sixties and to get this they must live well out in the deep water. The bass grew under-fed and constantly preyed upon by large fish. Small wonder that they disappeared.

"All right," said the member when I made my report, "what do we do now?" He gulped a bit and his face grew wider as I told him. It is a bit tough to realize that six years of time and not a little money had been wasted.

That fall, when the summer residents had left, the majority of the sunfish were seined out and transferred to other waters. Next the entire lake was poisoned with copper sulphate, creating for the time being a biological desert.

Perch Poisoned

The following spring, after the lake had purged itself of the poisons, there was systematically restored along the shore lines. Suitable water growth was planted and the only stocking that was done was a copious planting of minnows.

Not until the following year were any game fish introduced to this refurbished home. Then the lake was stocked with 2,000 bluegill and rock bass and 1,000 legal-size largemouth bass, All of these, as you know, occupy the same water and compete on even terms for the food supply. At last the club members can enjoy considerably good fishing.

The lake, unfortunately, is not an isolated instance. All too often are good fishing waters completely ruined by unintelligent stocking and management methods.

So take a tip from the experience of the "fish committee" that had a good thing and ruined it. Before fishing in that little lake in New York State, if you want to dabble in stocking and fish management and you are not trained in such matters, it will pay you in time and money — not to mention improved sport — to hire a competent ichthyologist at least to chart your course for you.

Marlene Stewart Breezes Through First Two Rounds

Kingston, Aug. 25 —(CP) — Marlene Stewart, Canada's trim little golfing sensation, won the two rounds of match play in the Eastern Provinces Open ladies' golf tournament at Kingston's Cataraqui Golf Club, rolling the first 7 and 5, the second 5 and 4.

After seven holes in the morning round, the freckle-faced miss was only one up on Dot Rigney of Kingston. Then she settled down to some real golf and took the next six consecutive holes.

In the afternoon Marlene was four up on Mrs. W. D. Stewart of Kingston at the end of nine holes. She whizzed through the next four, halving the 11th for the match.

Four low handicap players who finished Friday's eliminations will pair off today in semi-final matches.

Sets Course Record

Marlene will play Mrs. Greene Page of Montreal. Whitlock in one match and in the other Mrs. F. N. Gerien of Toronto, Isabelle will play Dainty Chisholm of Royal Montreal.

Miss Whitlock defeated Mrs. W. J. Leonard of Kingston Cataraqui 7 and 6 in the morning and Mrs. Leonard won under par golf for 11 holes in the afternoon to win 7 and 6 over Mrs. Doug Wright, also of Cataraqui.

Mrs. Pyke, of Montreal Whitlock, defeated Mrs. J. Marvin, 4 and 2 in the morning and Caroline Mitchell of Kingston Cataraqui 3 and 4 in the afternoon.

Dainty Chisholm scored an easy victory over Mrs. J. Hamilton of Cataraqui 7 and 5. Mrs. L. Ross of Cobourg gave her a battle for a final 3 and 4.

Marlene set a course record of 74 in the first round, a sizzling round for the match play. The Canadian Close and Open champion's best round in 1951 was a gross of 75 over the 18-hole course.

Lacrosse

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton Tigers, Peterborough Petes and Mimico Mountaineers all managed smashing victories last night in playoff games with Ontario Senior Lacrosse Association senior playoffs.

In Hamilton, the Tigers evened their best-of-five quarter-finals with St. Catharines Athletics at one game each by a 9-3 victory. They wrapped up the win in the first quarter when, paced by Blaine McDonald and George Masters, they netted three goals against the visitors' goosegog.

Petes took a 2-1 lead in their O.L.A. best-of-five series with Perrigo Thistles by routing the prickly six 14-3. They led 2-0 in the first quarter, had a 4-2 margin at the half and were in front 10-3 going into the fourth of the hard-checking contest.

Luckless Brampton Excelsiors never got into the picture last night with Mimico Mountaineers. The Mounties led 4-1 at the end of the first period, unleashed a 10-goal offensive in the second quarter and had a 19-4 advantage after three periods.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 25 (AP) — This week's news in Hollywood produced another nightlife brawl but this one was different.

It concerned a young actor who was given a beating by three assailants. But the actor later surprised everyone by admitting that he couldn't remember what he had done and suggesting he might even have deserved the lacing.

This set a new record for candor in Hollywood news. This extraordinary frankness could start a trend. Who knows? — one might even be treated to such news events as these:

Clyde sat-up, the clever comic, is aboard a crowded airliner zooming across the Atlantic. As the plane nears Ireland, it develops engine trouble and the passengers are panicked by the chance of a crash.

So does Clyde stand on his seat and calm the others by snappy jokes? Not on your life. He cowers in a corner, mumbling "I'm too young to die!" . . .

More Candor

Minerva Mango, the glamor queen, announces that her contract with her studio is at an end. But she doesn't claim that she asked out of her contract because she wasn't earning enough money. Oh, no. She calmly remarks:

"They fired me. It seems my pictures weren't making any money." . . .

Renee Randid, the dramatic star, announces an end to her marriage, long considered "Hollywood's most perfect match." And is she still "the best of friends" with her ex-husband?

"Don't be ridiculous," she snarls "I hate the bum." . . .

Bernard Barefoot, the boy producer, creates a picture which does poor business at the box-office. Asked for an explanation, he does not assert that it hit the market at the wrong time or that it was too good for the public or that the stars were not drawing well.

"It stinks," he shrugs. . . .

These stories could happen in Hollywood. But—sigh—they undoubtedly won't. Perhaps it is just as well. The shock might be too great for the Hollywood press corps.

3,000 Men Needed to Help Harvest Alberta's Bumper Crop

(By The Canadian Press)

'It's the biggest want-ad in Canada — Needed: 3,000 men.

With a bumper crop in the fields, the west today looked anxiously to the east for harvest help.

Good wages — for skilled and unskilled farm help — are not attracting enough regular workers to do the job. As a result, the prairie provinces have asked Ontario and Quebec to send 3,000 men to help bring in the harvest.

The first group of an expected 1,200 Quebec harvesters left for Winnipeg this week. But it's doubtful whether the west will get its expected quota from Ontario where a heavy grain crop is saving few harvesters for duties outside the province.

Quebec sent 1,151 workers west last year and officials say the figure may have to be increased this year to offset Ontario's labor shortage.

In Alberta, harvesting starts next week on what is expected to be a record crop. Needed immediately are 130 men — for 130 farms.

Last year 738 easterners lured to Alberta to help bring in the crops. This year the Alberta Agriculture Department has asked for 1,000 eastern workers but could use 1,500.

Construction, oil and other industries have skimmed off much of the province's own labor force. Things are so tight, in fact, that considerable thought is given to the idea of recruiting school children in large numbers for the harvest, Crops Awarded in Mass returning to teaching this year because the extra family income may not be needed.

The bumper crop is producing goodies for industry with wheat up to $2 a day, drains off many farm laborers who might otherwise head west.

Manitoba has asked for 600 men, although eager to find positive things to distress you, be not careless or hasty; cast off moody, supersensitiveness when they appear. Follow intelligent diet.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking the 2nd half of his ferst cigar, and I said, G. pop, a fly just pritty neer flew rite in my eye.

He probably thawt of some place he liked better and changed his mind at the last moment, pop said, and I said, No sir. I'm the one changed his mind for him, because if I hadn't of blinked my eye as fast as lightning the fly would of flew rite in. Oh boy, that was the quickest blink I ever blinked. It was a instinct, I was able to think fast enough, I said.

As a matter of fact, it's just because you were not able to think fast enough that Nature thawt for you, pop said, and I said, Nature didn't thawt for me, it was a thing called reflex action. Reflex action is one of Nature's wonders, and it should be a thing that we respect out of us, because it's an accomplishment that we share with the lower animals. Would you be intrested to hear just how it works? he said, and I said, Sure, G.

Well, in the case of that fly the sensory nerves in your eyelid flashed a messidge to the master switch in your spinal column, pop said. From your spinal column the message was relayed to the central station in your brane, where it was decoded. Then your brane sent special instructions to your eyelid, ordering it to blink, and your eyelid obediently blinked, and the whole complicated operation only took a thousandth of a second, pop said, and I said, just the same, if I hadn't blinked my eye so fast all those instructions would of been wasted, because the fly would of got in anyways.

You're an exceptional boy and I wouldn't be a bit serprised if you grew into an exceptional man, pop said.

Being a partly sourcastic compliment.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

"Well, that is about all I could get into last night had been screwed into my head, that the paper margins were correct. And then, foreman Johnston who had been helping with his assistants to do the stereotyping of advertising cuts was asked to try it out.

Meanwhile upstairs, other mechanists were expertly trying out the line casting machines. Skilled operators took them over when the machinists gave the word, to sit down and proceed to turn out columns of reading matter and advertising matter. Proofs were taken of the matter as it was set, passed over to the proof-readers. In the ad. alley printers were setting advertisements, casting borders and spacing material; columns rules on machines made for that purpose. In the middle make-up men stood over long steel tables, tables with fruitless surfaces as they put advertisements all reading matter together, then to turn them over to the man at the mat roller who sent them through the machine, then chisted the pat producer to the presscroom below for casting. There to be placed on the large cylinders of the big press when the word was given that it was ready.

On the same floor off the composing room but in a different office, men read proofs, advertising manager Dolson checked over his lists of advertisements that none would be missed, saw that the copy for each advertisement was in and if it wasn't, to go chasing out for it. Next to Dolson's office, women editor Doris Emerton typed the material for her page, doing quite a bit of telephoning to gather up interesting items for her women readers. In the newsroom itself, managing editor Gordon and news editor Jennings shared the same large desk but on opposite sides, sports editor Stub Rose, reporters Artis and Holland, hatless, coatless, took, wrote, typed copy which was coming in by telephone, and wire.

While The Emerton Daily Ensign was a-burning that Saturday, Goldie Webster was working with the stereotypers, Dad Roberts was all over the place but he spent most of his time in the ad. alley, setting advertisements. Out in his private office Lance Bradley was busy because as the people of the town poured in to congratulate him and to wish him well in his new venture, while Treasurer Sparling and his office girls, Miss Wilson at the switchboard, Millie Brooks at the classified advertising desk, had a busy day.

Shortly before five o'clock mechanical superintendent Sandy McLeod dropped into the presscroom to make a note of what new things were going there, then he was back in the composing room. "Well, Sandy, how's your luck ed," he reported. "Better knock off at 10 p.m., and we'll give her the works on Monday." If we can plug a ball and chain on an advertising manager who figured on twelve pages, while there's sixteen in sight even now."

Such a good start had been made on the paper that previous Saturday, that although the first issue required sixteen pages, the staff was quite ready for it on that fateful Monday. Indeed had they been pressed, Lance Bradley's highly-priced crew could have made it twenty pages and still have had it ready on time.

Two editions of The Ensign were to be printed every afternoon. The first at three o'clock to catch the mails to its country readers; the second at five o'clock to carry the stock market quotations and any late news. This second edition would also be sold and area readers, would reach them by carrier boys right from home to home. It would also be available at the bookstores, the news-stands.

A few minutes before three o'clock that Monday afternoon, men and women in their aprons came out and headed in the same direction—to the press room. The presses had been shut down and one was left in the front business office but Miss Wilson, the switchboard operator, Lance Bradley, Dad Roberts, Treasurer Sparling, the guests on this special occasion, Lawyer Parkes and Dr. Brown. And Mother Roberts was there, too. She stood with Miss Doris Parker whose large black eyes were rolling in excitement and expectation.

The ceremonies were simple. Lance Bradley, in a few brief words, thanked his employees for their fine work in getting the paper to press on time. Mother Roberts felt the honor of pressing the button to start the big machine. She also received the first printed copy which Lance autographed. Copies of that first edition were given to each person present.

Then as the papers poured from the press, as they passed into the hands of the mailers, the circulation manager, Lance Bradley took Mother Roberts up to the broadcasting station where he talked with microphone in hand to tell the country that CKDE was on the air as part of the service designed by the Emerton Daily Ensign.

A tour of the plant followed, there were countless introductions and smiles of admiration from all sides for the little white-haired lady. Then they were standing in the business office and Miss Wilson was explaining the purpose of the inter-com service which connected the boss's office with all parts of the business.

After a while Mother Roberts was nestled in a big chair in Lance's private office, when Dad came in rubbing his hands, a broad smile on his face, and dropped into a chair at his desk in the corner.

"Well, Mother," he said, "what do you think of us now?"

"It's all so wonderful," Mother said, "there's so much of it, that I can't realize it."

Lance stepped over and turned to Dad.

"Ever hear Jimmy Hastings play the piano, Mother?" he asked.

And then came the voice of Manager Ted Wilson of the near-by fifteen minutes, ladies and gentlemen, CKDE will give you the piano stylings of the one and only Jimmy Hastings."

"Why, I never knew he was a pianist!" Mother said. "I've often thought it was in him."

"Neither did I until recently, Lance confessed. "But there he is." He turned the radio down a bit. "It stands to reason that there must be quite a number of talented persons in this town of six thousand," he went on. "It's going to be CKDE's business to run them down and put them on the air."

"You must feel mighty proud of yourself, son," Mother Roberts smiled.

"Oh, I don't know about that," Lance said. "After all you and Dad are to blame for all this."

"Did you say—blame?" Dad asked from his corner.

"And why not?" Had you and Mother not been so kind to me at the start, I wouldn't have been here and if I weren't here, well—"

"But what else could we have done at that time?" Dad asked, "I couldn't think of you as a dead-beat, a pan-handler, a no-good bum. In other words, you looked good to me. As for you ever owing us anything, the shoe is on the other foot. Think of all the joy, the pleasure, that you have brought into our lives. If you still think that we're to blame for anything, so be it, pile it on and we'll take it gladly."

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was looking at the headlines on his way to the sporting page, and ma started to turn the television on, saying, The wrestling is going to start, William. I dont think it will annoy me if you turn the sound low, pop said, and ma said, Now William, it's going to be very intristing. The glamnerous glider is having his big grudge match with the two ton Terk, she said.

May be the maddest man win, pop said, and ma said, I wish you'd try to be broad minded for once and put your paper down and come and watch.

Call me in an hour, pop said, and ma said, It will be all over in an hour, for land sakes.

Not by what I read in the paper, pop said, Call me in an hour, he said, and ma said, But that's just when the gerl wrestlers come on.

Exactly, pop said. After those 2 mountains of beef get through slamming and crashing around with their ribs cracking and their spines snapping, we'll have the gerls. I can see them now, their ferm muscels rippling beneath their silken skin and their lovely long hair streeming between each other's perty teeth. What a relief, after those bulking brutes, to see 2 dainty darlings, one with her delicate fingers reaching into the other's sparkling eyes, while her own lovely face, like a crushed rose, peeps shyly out from the spot where her beautiful opponent is sitting on it. Call me in an hour,

Closer Control of Strategic Materials Object of Govt.

Ottawa, Aug. 27—(CP)—Administrative machinery by which Canada may engage in economic warfare against communist states should the need arise was announced today by the trade department.

This was done through the imposition of a system of import controls under which the department will have power to clamp down on the movement of goods into Canada from any specific source.

The department, at the same time, took action to plug loopholes in the export of strategic materials by revising export permit regulations "to provide more precise and effective scrutiny of the ultimate destination for all Canadian exports."

An official explained that the system of import controls was designed as an economic measure of waging economic warfare if the need arises.

He would not disclose at what specific countries Canada may aim the import guns, but it is generally understood that Canada will follow the lead of the United States.

Reversal of Policy

This is a direct reversal of government policy on foreign trade with communist states, reversible by, it had been indicated that Canada, for instance, did not want to injure trade with red China in "non-strategic goods. A trickling of goods has come in, to U.S. embargo.

This trade may be gradually cut down under the new system of controls.

The import regulations, passed by order-in-council under the Federal Export and Import Permits Act, also will act as a certificate of good faith for Canada in ordering strategic goods from other countries, the department said.

For example, Canada, before exporting essential materials and metals to European points, requires a certificate by the governments of those countries that the exports will not be reshipped to Russia or a communist satellite country.

Canada, under the new regulations, will in turn give Russia and the countries the same certificate that the goods will not be transshipped.

U. S. Goods Not Affected

A trade official emphasized that some action under the import regulations may be necessary on a "few goods." This will not affect imports from democratic countries.

Import controls to offset a deficit in trade—which has reached $340,000,000 in the first six months of 1951 compared with that in the first half of 1950—was contemplated by the department.

Trade Minister Howe, however, said in an interview that import controls against United States goods—covering 65 per cent of Canada's spending on foreign goods—would not be given.

Officials had estimated if the controls were imposed the cut down, it might mean 50,000 cities in Canada and push the cost-of-living higher.

Closer Inspection

Tightening up on exports of strategic goods, the department made these orders:

1. Exporters must have documentary evidence to prove that the ultimate destination of the shipment is in accordance with their application to the department.

2. If here is any doubt, or where the final user of the goods can not be ascertained, then no export licence will be granted.

3. No shipments may leave Canada in the name of a foreign exporter. Shipments must be made by a Canadian resident and the applicant must actually be the shipper of the goods.

4. All previous exemptions to the regulations are cancelled. Henceforth permission will have to be obtained to cover shipments to government offices outside the country, casual gifts and personal effects.

Telegraph Rates In United States Are Going Up

Washington, Aug. 27—(AP)—Telegraph rates in the United States are going up, and that 10-worder is going out.

In most cases, the exact amount of the rate increases remains to be worked out. But the minimum charge will be for 15 words instead of the present 10.

The Federal Communications Commission Friday disapproved as too high proposed rates schedules filed by the Western Union Telegraph Company and designed to yield $11,000,000 net revenue.

However, the F. C. C. agreed the company needs up to $9,900,000 more revenue as a result of a July 1 increase.

While not specifying exact rates in most cases, the F. C. C. did authorize Western Union to:

1. Make 15 words instead of 10 the minimum charge for straight telegrams.

2. Increase the minimum money order premium for money orders from 15 to 20 cents. This charge is in addition to telegram charges.

3. Make 50 words instead of 25 the minimum charge for night letters, with no change in the present 50-word allowance for day letters.

The decision does not affect the increases in incoming charges for cables, Press rates now are one-third and one-fifth, respectively.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association objected to the new formula because it would increase press rates proportionately more than telegram service. The commission said, however, that it did not regard the formula as "unreasonable."

STUNT MAN BURNED

Oshawa, Aug. 27 (CP)—Roy Reynolds, stunt man in a motor show suffered burns Saturday when he leaped from the rear of his automobile as he sped through a pool of blazing gasoline. Flames on his overalls had to be passed in front of the grandstand.

Police Think Gunfight Spells End of Notorious Numbers Gang

Toronto, Aug. 27 (CP) —Police think a gunfight Saturday spelled the end of Ontario's notorious Numbers Gang, blamed for a series of holdups during the last year.

They also believe they have captured its elusive leader, described by police as a brutal as a cool, fair-haired strategist. He had slipped through police fingers on several occasions.

A police bullet in the spine of John Black after police surprised five men in a branch post office on mid-town Charles and Yonge Streets in the early hours of Saturday, Black was slain at a window of the post office as he tried to leap. Four other men were arrested after a police chase punctuated by shots.

Larry Edgar Shirley, 24, of Winnipeg, was charged with attempted murder or a police officer, with having an offensive weapon and with breaking and entering. Theodore Valiquette, 34, Herbert Taylor, 26, and William Lovejoy, 31, all of Toronto, were charged with shoplifting.

Some of the officers assigned to question them had worked on the search for the members of the Numbers Gang, so-called because of its habit of using numbers in football quarterback style to signal each other at various stages of robbery. The officers had a description of the leader, given them by two of four men arrested during the May 5 holdup in connection with the gang's operations.

The veteran officers said they saw a facial resemblance between between the black-haired Shirley and Black, who also was a cool, fair-haired strategist. He had slipped through police fingers on several occasions.

Shirley said:

"Well, I fooled you guys for a couple days, didn't I?"

Shirley will be placed in police headquarters' lineup today to face witnesses of the $8,000 robbery July 26 of the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at Bradford, Ont.

At the time of the post office raid, Black, described here as Sarcasky, Herman and Sarasky, was on bail on housebreaking charges in Montreal.

Two Telegraph Companies Apply For Rate Increase

Ottawa, Aug. 27. (CP)—Canada's two telegraph companies today applied for permission to increase their rates on messages sent within Canada, except Newfoundland.

They asked the Board of Transport Commissioners to authorize an increase of ten cents on the basic full-rate telegram of ten words, with varying increases for other types of service.

The companies—Canadian National Telegraphs and Canadian Pacific Railway Company—asked that the changes become effective October 1. They contended the higher rates are necessary because of increased costs of labor and materials.

The last previous increase—a general one of 15 per cent—went into effect in July, 1949.

45 P.C. REDUCTION

Hamilton, Aug. 27 — (CP) — Operation of a 45 per cent reduction has been declared by 45 per cent, probably for the remainder of the year.

PLANES SEEK MISSING MEN ON LAKE ERIE

Pair Attempted Trip In 12-Foot Boat

Tillsonburg, Ont., Aug. 27 — Two radio-equipped aircraft from Centralia joined a search long for two men missing since they set out Sunday to cross Lake Erie in a 12-foot boat.

Archie Knowles, 32, and his brother-in-law, Wilfred, 19, left Port Burwell Sunday morning to cross 65 miles of water to attend a baseball game in Cleveland.

A search was started when Mrs. Knowles failed to receive a promised telephone call from her husband Sunday night.

A federal government tug set out from Port Burwell Sunday night to look for the men who had only a short gas line in the boat, no coats, blankets or food. They had expected to make the trip in five hours.

Archie Knowles won the boat in a raffle a month ago. This was their first long trip in it.

Barrel Seizure Blocks Falls Plunge; Canadian Soldier Hurt In Unscheduled Gorge Tumble

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 27— one injuries.

Sunday, the little New York interior decorator who planned to go over the falls to draw attention to the seriousness of the world situation, never had a chance.

Police seized his twin-hulled 13-foot torpedo and immigration officials nabbed him when he tried to walk across the Niagara River bridge into Canada.

Provincial police searched the bank as far away as Fort Erie, 18 miles away for a barrel said to have been cached by the Toronto sleepejack identified only as "Hank."

"Hank" phoned a Toronto radio station last week and declared he would attempt to ride the thundering Horseshoe Saturday. His prefer-ace drop vanished when fitted he said, because "the stunt would worry his mother." His mother had nothing to worry about.

Eighty-three-year-old Macfadden didn't show up either. The famous physical culturist had announced he planned to parachute into the river below the falls, changed his mind and decided to drop from balloon parachutes to test wind and water currents.

The "parachute builder" appeared Sunday, however, in a plane flying above the Hudson River. He jumped out of the plane and parachuted safely down, landing in the river 30 feet from the New Jersey shore. He said he'd try the falls next year.

United States is Expected To Adopt Less-Benevolent Policy Toward Premier Nehru

Washington, Aug. 27—(AP)—A new and less-benevolent American policy toward India appeared certain today in the wake of from Prime Minister Nehru's refusal to sign a United States-backed peace treaty with Japan.

American officials made no secret of their disappointment at India's public criticism of the proposed treaty draft coming as it did only nine days before the start of a special 52-country peace conference in San Francisco Sept. 4.

India's arguments for boycotting the signing, officials here said, amount to a flat refusal to join standing objections, and give powerful, timely ammunition to a pro-Moscow propaganda line that wreck the Japanese Treaty.

In New Delhi, Prime Minister Nehru told parliament today that India will sign a separate treaty with Japan as soon as Japan has achieved independent status.

Nehru did not explain what he meant by that statement, but it might have referred to the period after the peace treaty is signed and ratified, when the state of occupation will end; or he might have meant the time, no one knows how far off, when the U.S. troops in Japan will be withdrawn and U.S. bases relinquished.

A separate pact between the United States and Japan is expected to be signed after the main peace treaty is disposed of. That pact would constitute a new legal basis for keeping U.S. troops in Japan for its defense.

All local authorities are expected by American diplomats to approve the peace pact despite Russia's threats. Only Burma and Yugoslavia so far have joined India in refusing to sign.

State department officials said they are convinced the timing and terms of India's refusal were not set to give added punch to Moscow's expected propaganda offensive.

Misguided Effort

Rather, they attributed it to a misguided effort by Nehru to steer a neutral course in the east-west conflict and emerge as leader of the Asiatic democracies.

These officials indicated the state department intends to substitute tougher diplomatic tactics for the patience it has displayed in dealing with Nehru so far.

Nehru's refusal to sign the American-British sponsored treaty, they said, in effect constitutes a blanket indictment of American policy throughout the far east.

The clearly implies, on examination of past American policies to determine what can be corrected," the United States and other southeast Asia countries understand basic American aims more clearly.

In rejecting its conference invitation, India assailed the final draft treaty in these ways:

1. Fails to turn over Formosa to communist China.

2. Does not confirm Russia's present hold on the Kurile Islands and southern Sakhalin.

3. Gives the United States trusteeship control of the Ryukyu Islands, including control of returning them to Japan.

4. Allows American occupation forces to remain in Japan.

The treaty draft as written, India concluded, contains the "seeds of a new conflict in the far east, and at the same time fails to restore Japan to a position of "honor" equality and contentment among the community of free nations."

Commenting on Formosa, the state department said the Japanese government and people want American military protection in and around Japan.

Montreal, Aug. 27. (CP)—Montreal's first horse meat store did a booming business during the weekend, and there's little likelihood of the shop running out of supplies.

More than 250 customers were served Saturday, and Donat Verronneau, the butcher, said that an additional 15 Ste. Hyacinthe, Que., was slaughtering 300 horses a day to fill his showcases.

Doukhobor customers started at fillet mignon at 63 cents a pound, sirloin steak at 63 cents; rolled roast, 75 cents; rump steak, 63 cents, and horseburger 43 cents.

MRS. R. THOMPSON, PETERBOROUGH, HELD FOR MURDER

Husband Shot by .22 Calibre Rifle on Saturday

Peterborough, Ont., Aug. 27 — (CP) —Mrs. Roy Thompson, 36, was remanded today to Aug. 31 when she appeared in court on a charge of murdering her husband.

A family quarrel over liquor was said by police to have been the cause of the Saturday night shooting of Thompson, a scrap metal dealer.

Police said that Mrs. Thompson, mother of four children and expecting a fifth next month, told them that she had been "taunted" into pulling the trigger of a .22 calibre rifle which her husband had loaded for her.

The officer said she was going to "end her life." Thompson was said to have told her: "You've too yellow even to shoot me."

The slain man had apparently been intoxicated during the morning and evening. Shortly after 9:30 p. m. Mrs. Thompson ran across the street to tell a neighbor, William Jamieson, that there had been a shooting accident.

Johnson called police who found Thompson lying dead in a bedroom. A bullet had entered his left breast his chest and a rifle identified by police as the murder weapon, lay on the kitchen table.

The Thompsons' 14 - year - old daughter, Betty, and a playmate, Nancy Scott, were sleeping in an upstairs bedroom when the shooting occurred. Three other Thompson children were also away from the house at the time.

The four children have been taken in charge by relatives in Orillia.

Jamieson, shocked by the death of his friend, told police he traded the gun to Thompson for an electric saw. He described the Thompsons as a "happy couple."

Mrs. Thompson was lodged in the common jail here after refusing to talk to police or sign a statement.

Police Seize Magazine Entitled 'Soviet Union'

London, Ont., Aug. 27 — (CP) —Provincial police seized a magazine entitled "Soviet Union" here Sunday night when they walked in on a picnic meeting at Springbank Park.

Acting on a report of a communist gathering at the park, Provincial Constable C. E. Mitchell found about 50 persons holding the magazine, which sells for 25 cents, in possession of a large amount of literature.

The group, mostly immigrants from central Europe, police said, had a banner reading "Long Live Labor Picnic Committee" holding an annual picnic. Police took their names but did not interfere.

U.S. Experts Study MIG Jet Plane Salvaged From Sea Behind Red Lines

London, Aug. 27—(AP)— The story of how a team of Britons, Americans and South Koreans snatched a Russian jet plane from its watery grave 100 miles inside communist lines in Korea is told here today.

The plane, a MIG-15, now is under study at the Wright-Patterson Air Experimental Base in Dayton, O. There, British flight experts will dig out the secrets of construction and design which have given the Russians what in some respects superior to any western plane now flying.

The account of its recovery was made public by the admiralty.

The MIG-15, shot down in a dogfight, was ditched by its pilot in shallow water off the west coast of Korea.

Planes from the Royal Navy Carrier Glory fixed its exact position. Then a U.S. helicopter dropped a buoy to mark the spot.

The task of grabbing the plane was assigned to Capt. W. L. Brown and the Royal Navy Frigate Cardigan Bay.

He enlisted a U.S. Navy landing craft equipped with a lifting crane and a South Korean motor launch.

The Cardigan Bay then led the two ships through waters within a few miles of the enemy coast—as close as the frigate could go in the shallow water.

"Aircraft from the Glory set up a covering screen against enemy air attack, the British cruiser Jamaica steaming the skies.

A motor boat from the Cardigan Bay guided the U.S. landing craft and the South Korean launch to the ditched fighter.

The men of three countries set to work fixing a sling under the plane so that it could be lifted.

On the following day the Russian jet was lifted from the water with the fleet steamed away with its prize.

Leave Door Ajar For Continuation Of Armistice Talks

Re-investigation of Alleged Violation Asked by Peiping

Tokyo, Aug. 28 — (Tuesday) — (AP) — The communist high command today bitterly rejected the Allied reply on an alleged Kaesong neutrality violation but, at the same time, left the door open to a possible resumption of the Korean armistice talks.

The reds broke off the stalemate talks Aug. 23, alleging that an Allied plane had attempted to "murder" the communist delegation at the Kaesong conference site.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme United Nations commander, told them Saturday their charges were "malicious lies" but that he was willing to resume the armistice effort.

Entirely Unsatisfactory

In a reply broadcast early today by the Peiping radio, North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Chinese red Gen. Peng Teh-huai said Ridgway's statement was entirely unsatisfactory.

They accused him of manufacturing incidents to break up the truce talks and of "slandering" the communists.

Following a wordy complaint that reiterated old red charges, they then stated:

"We hereby once more propose to you that this grave action of provocation should be dealt with by your side with an attitude of serious responsibility. Then the continuation of the seven-day recess for a just and reasonable armistice agreement can be guaranteed.

"At the same time we demand that your liaison officers proceed to Kaesong to carry out a re-investigation jointly with our liaison officers of the incident that occurred on Aug. 22, when our military aircraft bombed and strafed the vicinity of the residence of our delegation in order once again to prove the full validity of our protest."

India Will Sign Separate Peace With Japan

New Delhi, Aug. 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru told parliament today India will sign a separate peace treaty with Japan as soon as Japan has achieved independent status.

Nehru said the peace treaty proposed by the United States carried "the seeds of future disputes and possibly conflict in the Far East."

He said the Indian-Japanese treaty will be signed as soon as Japan has achieved independent status. He did not explain whether he thought "independent status" would have been gained after signing of a treaty in San Francisco between Japan and most of the countries who fought in the Second World War or whether such a status could not be fully achieved until after the withdrawal of occupation troops.

Parliament broke into cheers when Nehru said one reason India would not attend the conference was because the treaty does not propose return of Formosa to communist China.

India attaches "the greatest importance to the treaty providing that the island of Formosa should be returned to China," he said, but added that the "right manner and of such a return might be the subject of separate negotiations."

Leaving future of Formosa undetermined in spite of past international agreements does not appear to the government of India to be either just or expedient," he said.

Spirit of Friendship

Explaining the negotiations between India and the United States, Nehru said that the many suggestions for changes were made in the spirit of friendly and sincere friendship for the government and people of the United States.

Despite agreement over the Japanese treaty, Nehru said his government subscribed to the co-operate with the United States and other governments to achieve peace in the Far East "in such a manner as may be open to them consistent with the principles on which their foreign policy is based."

Nehru told parliament that his note refusing to attend the conference contained three points:

1. Japan should be guaranteed a "position of honor and equality among the free nations."

2. The treaty should be "so framed as to enable all countries especially interested in the maintenance of a stable peace in the area to become subscribe to the treaty sooner or later."

He said that for present occupied Japan to sign such a treaty would be "a negation of the principles of the United Nations" and give rise to the impression that Japan did not enjoy a position of freedom and equality.

The man was described as being short with jark hair and wearing a dark jacket and light trousers. A police check of the area failed to locate any suspect.

Woodsman Finds Specimen Of Ginseng Root

Sandford Lawrence, well-known Marmora trapper, hunter and woodsman, came up to Belleville one day with a specimen of the ginseng root, a medical drug used extensively by the Chinese.

According to the veteran of the timberlanes, time was when the root was fairly plentiful in Hastings county forests and residents received as high as $20 a pound for it.

It has died out in recent years, however, and prices have dropped to $6 and $7 per pound.

The root of the ginseng grows in odd shapes, mainly that of the human form. This, it is claimed, was one of the principal attractions for the Chinese.

Lawrence found his specimen near his cabin home nine miles northwest of Marmora.

Old Steel Bridge Being Dismantled

O'Brien's Bridge, a popular spot for still fishing on the new Moira River south of Plainfield, is slowly disappearing.

During the summer a contracting company has been engaged in razing the steel work structure and already two spans on the north end approach of the bridge have been taken down.

The old bridge has been in distinct view since the new concrete structure on No. 37 highway route a number of years ago. The new bridge was built after a truck rammed into the northern span of the old bridge and caused two spans to drop into the river. The bridge was temporarily repaired with wooden spans, but since erection of the new bridge O'Brien's Bridge has been used only by fishermen.

City Residents Throng District Outdoor Spots

A large number of city speedboat enthusiasts enjoyed the regatta at Crystal Beach Madoc, while cabin and cottage in all parts of the district did their quota.

Steady streams of traffic ribboned the highways east and west while northern routes, too, had their share of weekend travellers.

DOES NOT PAY

Cobourg, Aug. 25 — (CP) — Mrs. Caroline Thompson of Kingston has challenged that it doesn't always pay to be too cautious. Yesterday, just to be on the safe side, she stopped her automobile on a railway crossing near here—although the warning signal was not in motion. A car following her rammed into the rear of her car. Then a truck crashed sideways into the front of her car. She was not hurt but the car was damaged beyond repair.

Patron Throws Baboon-Wrench Into Exhibition

Toronto, Aug. 27 — (CP) — A pickled Canadian National Exhibition patron threw a baboon-wrench into the scheme of things at a crowded hamburg stand in the grounds Saturday.

The animal whose behavior left little doubt as to his condition, spied a big baboon in a crate at the British Africa zoo exhibit. Brutus — the baboon — was about because he had been acting "mean."

The patron pulled a board off the crate and Brutus joined the nearly 375,000 other customers at the "Ex."

Once a fence and into the trees Brutus fled. He perched on a tree. As officials went for a capture net Brutus shot into a nearby hamburger stand, apparently hungry customers.

He elbowed his way to a corner where he began stuffing himself. A courageous counterman fed him a bowl of milk.

Then trainer Howard Y. Bary, president of the British Africa railroad arrived, puffing and out of breath and threw a cage over him.

100 Varieties Of Gladioli Seen in Garden

Marmora — William Aunger's gladioli display in the garden of his home on No. 7 Highway about three miles west of Marmora is still attracting attention. Another variety grown from seed of his own hibernating four years ago is named for the water lily. Ocean named after the waters near which he has lived most of his life, namely "Crowe Lake".

Brantford, Aug. 27 (CP)—Steve Yaraldi, 29, is in the hospital suffering from three stab wounds in his back as a result of a Saturday night brawl. Police say he was attacked by another man as he came out of a public hall to go home.

His condition is "not serious."

Joycus Reunion Held at Maple

Maple, Ont., Aug. 27.—(CP)—Five persons who travelled a long and dangerous trip across the closed boundaries of Europe only to be separated again for more than a decade by the Atlantic Ocean had a joyous reunion in this village 30 miles north of Toronto Sunday.

The five are Mr. and Mrs. Josef Shillih, daughter Jane, 27, son George 25, and their German sheperd dog, Perra, 4.

Perra, who had the family across the mountains to escape from Yugoslavia, arrived in Canada first, more than a month ago. Landing at Dorval, Que., by plane, she broke away add was missing more than 10 days. She was recaptured and sent to kennels here to recuperate.

Toronto, Aug. 27.—(CP) — Industrials continued last week's advance today as they climbed to a record high in their last hour, pushed higher until noon and then eased to about the earlier level, trading was moderately active.

Steels and refining oils spearheaded the advance. Liquors, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous industrials pushed upward while agriculturals, construction, utilities and retail stores remained firm. Papers, foods and banks were mixed. Utilities weakened.

Western Oils climb[ed] to break their former record set in the first hour of trading today. Selective buying maintained a wide list of active issues.

Base Metal leaders climbed while the majority of stocks remained steady. Consolidated Smelters, Labrador, New Calumet, Normetal, Sherritt-Gordon and United Keno 3[1]/4 edged ahead as Falconbridge, Hudson Bay and Steep Rock slipped slightly.

Senior golds turned mixed after early weakness. Hollinger, Sigma and Wright-Hargreaves showed small gains, Giant Yellowknife, Kerr Addison and McIntyre dipped. Senior golds issues showed a majority of losses.

Textile Workers Are Laid Off At Trenton Plant

Trenton (Special)—Layoff of between 30 and 40 textile workers of the weaving division of the Downs Coulle plant here on Saturday was blamed by government credit restrictions by J. Utley, company official today.

In the meantime the plant will operate with a skeleton staff, administrating staff until sufficient orders are on hand to necessitate recalling the weavers, Mr. Utley said. The company official announced that the firm had received a moderate war contract but not large enough to warrant keeping on the weavers.

At one time the English textile plant employed 225 mill workers. Last year it was out of action during a dispute between A.F.L. and C.I.O. factions among the workers.

TRENTON

Girls Lose Close Decision To Weese Motors

Trenton (Special) —An Ace and Her Queens girl's softball team from Toronto on Saturday night lost a 7 to 6 decision to Weese Motors men's team in an exhibition game attended by 500 at Bayshore Park.

Ace flinger Teresa Jones hurled only three innings to save her arm for Eastern Canada tournament competition with Greenbergs of Montreal at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this week. Pitcher Jones was replaced by Motors' pitcher Vic Burtt against the wishes of the crowd, who delighted in watching the girl wonder mow down members of the opposite sex. Harry Farr went the route for Weese's.

Trenton softball fans, however, left the park having had a close-up look at a team of girls that had made a clean sweep of the Ontario tournament without a run scored against them. Tricky base running of the female aggregation bewildered the motorcops regularly and what the girls lacked in brawn they matched with speed.

Deep Freeze Said to Give Relief To Sufferers of Hay Fever

Got hay fever? Then go stickante your head in the family refrigerator, or the nearest deep-freeze unit.

That is the advice passed along today by one who claims to be "in the know" and says he can produce three or four relieved victims to prove it.

Which if true, substantiates the story that topers are immune to the ragweed based nose-run.

Immunity is procured, no doubt, by the placing of ice-packs on the head of the celebrant the morning after.

That is beside the point. If it is true that zero temperatures offset the nasal disturbance, then startling things might happen in the future.

LEAVE DOOR

The reds, after a long weekend of vitriolic propaganda against the United States and the United Nations, thus passed the buck back to Ridgway.

On the basis of the previous exchanges, it appeared unlikely that he would consider their response satisfactory.

Not Ready to Cancel Talks

However, the red invitation to renew the investigation at Kaesong and to seek a settlement indicated clearly they were not yet prepared to cancel the deadlocked truce talks once and for all.

Whether Ridgway had received the reply officially was uncertain. It was broadcast in Chinese voice but no previous communications from the enemy capital has awaited an official written copy, properly delivered by liaison officer, before making comment or response.

Ridway himself returned to Tokyo only Monday after a flying four-hour visit to Korea. His purpose was not disclosed.

The sudden red broadcast reply followed a month of outpouring of propaganda attacks on the U.S. and its allies which had been in full flow ever since communists broke off the Kaesong talks at 1.45 a.m. Thursday.

The burden of these semi-official and unofficial red broadcasts was that, even after the break-off, the U.S. made two new land and air raids on the Kaesong area. One by which warplanes scouting over Shanghai, Tsingtao appendage encased in a tray of ice cubes, or mayhap ruining the weekend supply of meat and vegetables by taking a nap with his head resting in the soft-drink compartment.

Enterprising manufacturers may come out with a new Freezex for Boozers model which will have a head-sized slot cut in the door with a drop to prevent defrosting.

Taking the toper idea, ice-packs could be modelled in popular shapes and worn with no disruption of the victim's activity.

Or ice-cubes could be produced along the all-day-sucker style, and used with some loss of pride by sufferers, according to age.

The alleged relief is simple. Don't wheeze or sneeze— just freeze.

and other Chinese coastal cities.

Near the end of the day Monday, the fleeping radio said the communists still were expecting satisfactory liaison officers and correspondents to arrive at Kaesong to investigate the original charge of a bombing the night of Aug. 22.

MARMORA

Hec. Boudreau Dies Suddenly At Tourist Home

Marmora—Calling for gas at Sunset Cabins on No. 7 Highway close to the Deloro turn about 10 o'clock on Monday, a tourist found the proprietor, Hec Boudreau, dead in his chair in the refreshments booth adjoining his home. Mrs. Boudreau was in Marmora at the time and the tourist seeing no one else there went to John Clemens, a neighbor to summon aid. Mr. Clemens having no telephone, he hastened to Marmora to advise Dr. H. G. Parkin, who on arrival found life to be extinct. Having attended Mr. Boudreau for some time for a heart ailment, it was unnecessary to call a coroner.

Former Ball Player

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boudreau "Hec" as he was known to many received his former baseball association here. He was born at Farnham, Que., on June 29th, 1894. He entered the employ of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited in 1921, working in the engineering department until his health forced his retirement on pension early in 1950, in 1924 he was married to Nell Brown, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phillips, Marmora township. He was active in the affairs of the Deloro baseball team for several seasons and was proficient at batting. He was with the team when it won the Intermediate championship in 1936, in which Bridgeburg were the ousted finalists.

His genial nature won him a host of friends, who will deeply regret his passing. Surviving are his wife; a stepson Albert (Bert) Brown, Marmora township, and three sisters, Mrs. Corine Foutains and Flora, Cohoes, N.Y., and Mrs. Phillip Jette, Farnham, Que.

Having served in the First World War, He was a member of Marmora Branch No. 337, Canadian Legion, under whose auspices the funeral took place this Monday afternoon, leaving his late residence at 2.15 p.m. for St. Andrew's United Church, where service was conducted by Rev. George D. Young, B.A., B.D. Interment in the Veterans' plot in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

CONTROL BUT NOT "PRICE" CONTROL

Reports from the provincial and federal Departments of Agriculture indicate that Canadian farmers this year will reap record harvests, barring natural disasters such as flood, fire, frost or hail. The Bureau of Statistics also predicts that the cost of living in Canada is likely to reach an all-time high sometime around the beginning of the new year. This paradox makes good sense if sometimes figures are made to lie, because it is obvious that in times of plenty there should be no famine. A rise in the cost of living is actually as real as a famine as people do not eat what they cannot purchase, and if you do not eat, no matter what the reason, there might just as well be famine.

This rising cost of living is producing a national neurosis, and the first symptom is the growing appeal for price controls. It is characteristic of neurotics that they fail to grasp the real nature of their illness, even though they realize that they are "not quite right," and in consequence usually dose themselves with the wrong medicine. In this case price control is not the remedy, because by its very nature price control breeds itself.

When a government institutes price controls, too often the seller assumes that the price agreed on for every article is the basic price for the commodity specified, and all too frequently the price agreed upon is too high, or, if the price is pegged at a low figure the producer is subsidised by public funds. This makes the production of the articles controlled a profitable business venture and soon the market becomes flooded with the controlled commodities. This in turn makes it an expensive proposition for the government to subsidize it and so the bureaucratic strategists have to step in and control production. This in turn leads to a regulation of industry in which the planners ultimately determine the wages paid for services, as it becomes impossible to run a controlled society if there is surplus money available to bid up the price of a pegged article. In the end rationing of all essentials becomes necessary and in such a system considerations of the cost of living become secondary and living itself becomes the main problem.

There is no need of price controls in Canada. That some regulation of prices is necessary is undeniable, but Canadian production is such that Canadians should enjoy a comfortable standard of living in spite of bureaucracy and the red tape of a price control system.

A wise man once synopsised economics in a sentence—"The standard of living depends on what you produce, plus what you import, minus what you export." Minus the frills and taking into account the usual pitfalls of over-simplification this is perfectly true. A nation cannot eat credits in foreign countries, and any nation that imports more than it exports is actually enjoying a higher standard of living than her production merits. She may be poorer in dollars, but she is richer in goods.

If Canadians are to enjoy again the fruits of their labors without the present physical and mental strain of inflation it is necessary that the distribution of their production be such that they reap the benefits.

There is no need for Canada to withdraw from the export trade because her production is so overwhelming that it would be sinful waste not to trade it off to the rest of the world. But there is something to be said for the recommendation that Canada trade only her surplus production. It is entirely logical that Canada should withhold from her annual production enough to satisfy the domestic needs of a figure that is considered right for all Canadians to enjoy a high standard of living on the average Canadian wage. All that is needed is a little foresight on the part of the Canadian government in making commitments for overseas buying, and let them sell everything Canada has to sell but only after Canada's domestic demands have been more than met.

This is the answer to the cost of living. Price controls are indeed open to defects for the reasons given. A more sensible distribution of the nation's production would alleviate the strain of our present inflation and give Canadians a sample of "control" as it should be applied.

NO CHEAP HOUSES

(Port Elgin Times)

What's the sense of any politician, no matter which party he belongs to, talking about cheap housing for the masses? The only way that it can be accomplished under present-day conditions is through subsidies — which means general taxation.

Take Toronto, for instance, where the demand for houses is so acute. There bricklayers lay 400 bricks a day. Under the Labor government of Great Britain an apprentice lays 1,000 bricks a day and full-fledged tradesmen 1,600 a day. What applies to masons is equally true of most of the other trades. We believe in free enterprise and most labor leaders do too, but with short work weeks and high wages low cost housing is an impossibility. We do not begrudge a man earning all he can, but in return he should give an honest day's work. To lay only 400 bricks a day at a cost of $100 a week is neither honest nor fair to the employer or the person who desires a home — for rent or purchase.

Alberta has 60 textile factories with annual production of $9,100,000.

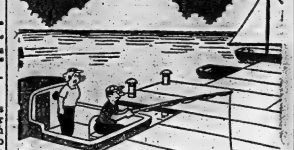
HOT WEATHER VERSE



The weather may be cool today,
But when these verses I was phrasing
(And that was just three weeks away)
The sun relentlessly was blazing.

The weather may be pleasant now,
But that I have no way of knowing,
The leaves hang still on every bough.
Today no cooling breeze is blowing.

When these few lines appear in type,
From roofs and eaves rain-drops may dribble.
But now, my headed brow I wipe,
It's mid-it too hot to sit and scribble.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Every time you take a slice of bread in hand, think, think upon England. When you sit down to your first meal in England today they set a basket of rolls before you. They are conventional little rolls, slightly smaller than the Canadian.

Canadian fashion, you pick up the table as a whole they bring your order.

You give it a twenk. Hunt! You tighten your grip and give a twist. No use. You examine it, as you would an oyster, to find a chink in it. In the chink, if any, you insert your thumb nails and pry.

It breaks. The shell or crust is like that of a coconut. Inside, there is a greyish mass that does, in fact, remind you again of an oyster. You feel it with your finger tips. It is damp.

You break off a piece of one of the halves in your hand, and, cautiously removing the dough so that no one will observe you, you pop the section of crust or shell into your mouth. You clench with your teeth.

No go. You shove it over into your cheek, in the hope of letting it rest there a few minutes to soften up.

You can always spot a Canadian or American in a London dining room by the fact that he is sitting at his table with a large lump in one cheek, while an expression of incredulity and dismay plays upon his face.

Before I describe them, I am going to find out how the natives get their bread. Either they have far better teeth than we or else they have no teeth at all and have mastered the art of swallowing those jagged and horny crusts unchewed, like sword-swallowers.

North Bay, Aug. 25 (CP) —A hydro span more than a mile long will be constructed as part of a 15-mile extension to serve the village of Killarney, on Georgian Bay, northeast of Manitoulin Island. H. Killarney, a fishing village and tourist village, has a normal population of 1,100. It is accessible only by water and air.

Three Made Trip Over Falls And Survived But Only One Alive to Tell Story of Stunt

By OWEN CRUISE

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 27 — (AP) — Around here they point to stocky, cocky Jean Lussier and whisper, "He's the only one alive who made it over the falls."

He was 22 years ago when Lussier, one of five daredevil frames into a six-foot rubber ball and rode over the Canadian Falls to be the thin and last person to pull the stunt and survive.

Since then, two others have gone over; the 155-foot Horseshoe cataract and perished. One other died before he successful on stunt.

Most recent of the three fatal tries was that of William (Red) Hill, Jr., of Niagara Falls, Ont.—son of a man who earned fame around the river and falls but disliked the "daredevil" label as "fool's stunt." Red Hill, Jr., went over Aug. 5 in a flimsy "barrel" made of bent hunk inserted-bound together with cotton webbing and fishnet. Drifting waters ripped the contraption apart.

Hill's death brought renewed efforts by police officials to curb the stunts. For years police have been disconsolate over attempts by stunters, pulling some bodily from their barrels and being ignored by others.

Sent Over as Sacrifice

There's nothing new about going over the falls. Legend has it that when the Indians first inhabited on the banks of the river, a fair maiden was sent over in a canoe as sacrifice to appease the deities to Onkigarah (the Indian name for Niagara).

After the Indians came the barrel stunters, led by a Michigan school teacher named Carlisle. Mrs. Annie Edson Taylor, lived through the drop in a wooden barrel.

She said she just wanted to do something no one else had done—besides, she added, she was reputedly without a cent. Even though luck dropped Mrs. Taylor's barrel free of the rocks, it left her drenched, but not in the poorhouse.

The next trip was also successful, even it did injure the stunter, Englishman Bobby Leach who sought the drop in a steel barrel in July, 1911. He spent 32 weeks in hospital.

Leach later moved to New Zealand. He died there in 1926 after slipping and hitting his head on the sidewalk.

A British, Rog., barber was the first to die. George Stevens used a wooden barrel that was smashed apart in July 1921. He left a widow and 14 children.

A chef from Buffalo, N.Y., was the second to die, George Stathakis his was suffocated when his wood and steel barrel was trapped for 32 hours behind the curtain of the falls in July, 1930.

Then came the physics and rubber bounced Lussier over the falls July 5, 1928.

Lussier, the only one left to tell his story, was born 60 years ago in Concord, N.H., of French-Canadian stock.

Rubber Ball is Reason

"Felt like riding in a rowboat in rough water," Jean says of his plunge over the falls.

The rubber ball is the reason Lussier is alive. He says he made it himself after getting the idea from barrel stunt. He bought it at Akron, O. He now works in a chemical plant here.

The six-foot diameter of the ball stretched over a double frame. It had steel spring action with thick rubber. When Jean made the trip there were 32 tire innertubes inside, weighed 1,127 pounds with 200 pounds of oxygen in case of an emergency. He was the one that cost Stathakis his life.

For breathing during the trip, a pipe fitted with a valve to keep out the water stuck out of the rubber-rubber surface and sucked in air.

Weighted on the bottom, the ball weighed 1,127 pounds when Jean inside. Compared to Red Hill's flimsy craft, Lussier's boat was as safe as a cabin cruiser on calm waters.

Knew Hill Would Die

Jean says he knew Hill would be killed. "A pin prick would have ruined Hill's barrel," he said. "I told him, but he—"

Jean says authorities should let people go ahead and try trips in the rubber balls. But, he adds, they should first examine the craft and the person to determine whether he is physically and mentally sound enough to make the trip.

Lussier said he needs people with nerve. If more people had that quality, he would probably have built a better shape today," bachelor Jean tells tourists as he struts around the museum where the ball is on display.

Lussier said he would ride over the American Falls if someone would offer him "10,000 greenbacks." He won't say who, if anyone, has offered the money, but he says he will go over the American Falls next year in a lighter but more sturdy ball.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHY DIDN'T YOU

What wonderful managers most of us would make of other people's jobs! Look at many of their personal lives! How evident is this fact illustrated by those who are forever telling others what to do! "Why didn't you do this, or that?" is the favorite question that one says this isn't the other person, with that person's personality, gentleness and sensitiveness.

We all make mistakes. We all make the wrong decisions at times. We all have been in the way of doing a thing that is characteristic of us, only to find that someone else is so wise that he or she feels able and invited to do a better job than anything than we can do, or have done? Strange but true.

If we all knew in advance the right way to do a thing, we would never make any mistakes, and we would have nothing to learn. Fair-minded persons are always ready and willing to accept suggestions, but their intelligence does not permit them to think of things things out for themselves is given a rude jolt when someone else says "Why didn't you do it this way?" (And of course, his way.)

You will find these "why didn't you" people everywhere. They are in your own home, perhaps, in your office, and among your friends. And they are just the people who never find interference with the way they do things! A person resents an incident in which a certain course of action was taken, to the best of that person's knowledge and ability. But there is always someone within the same area who will pop up and say "Why didn't you do this and so?"

There is always such a wise-neck in hearing distance, ready to offer a better way to do what has already been done. Yes, there are those who do not feel that most of the things we do might have been done better, or differently but if they had been we would not have been what we are.

We must all work out our own salvation and philosophy of life. We wouldn't be a personality or an entity as a person if we didn't do things that might be questioned by those who have proved themselves to be superior to us from personal experience.

Montreal — (CP) — Maurice Leclerc was too obliging for his own good when he volunteered to drive a friend's motorcycle car while visiting Montreal. He was fined $20 for driving the car without a permit and allowing the horn for no good reason. He said he was just trying to be friendly."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Child's Sweat is Colored

Three-year-old child has had dark yellow perspiration for the past month. It stains clothing so much that I would like to know the cause. (Mrs. B. J.)

Answer—Yellow or red or brown sweat is usually due to otherwise harmless bacteria on the skin. Affected areas of skin, after soap and water washing and drying with vinegar.

Yeasheart

Where can one get a starter for yeasheart? How should it be made? (P. B.)

Answer—I don't know—the Bulgarian bacillus usually used to make Bulgarian sour milk. Yeasheart is often largely displaced by Acidophilus bacillus culture, making Acidophilus milk. In some cases, however, these fancy sour milk preparations has any more therapeutic value than plain sour milk or buttermilk or just fresh milk or skim milk.

Eye Color

If both parents are blond with blue eyes is it possible for them to have children other than blond or with other than blue eyes? (Mrs. H.)

Answer — In at least 9 per cent of such instances one or more children have other than colored eyes or be less blond than either parent.

THE DIFFICULT AND THE IMPOSSIBLE

A certain detective agency is said to carry on its letterheads this statement: "The difficult we do at once; the impossible takes a little longer."

We recall the story of that doughty Puritan preacher who, being told that a thing was impossible, "Let us go down to the matter with it, let's go ahead."

That's child, born into the home of a Jewish carpenter nineteen hundred years ago, who upon attaining manhood went forth to become more than a hundred miles from home, who never wrote a book, never held an office, but had time dated from His birth—this is just impossible. It couldn't have happened. But it did. And that His followers should have gone forth to the ends of the centuries and have established His Church as the successor of the Roman Empire—this was another impossibility.

Politics Become Important Part of Underground Traffic In Dope-Smuggling Racket

By SIDNEY SHERON

London, Aug. 27 (AP)—Big-scale drug smuggling isn't a game of cops and robbers any more—politics has become an important part of the underground traffic.

At opposite ends of the world where communist east meets democratic west there are reports the trade are exporting drugs.

While the reliability of these reports is sometimes difficult to assess, it is known that plants used for production of narcotics are cultivated in eastern Europe and sizeable amounts of drugs for legal medicinal purposes are shipped from some communist states.

Also, bulk supplies of opium become available to the red bloc when the communists took over the Chinese government. Backing this up, the United Nations permanent central opium board in Geneva reported last year that the Chinese communist government offered 700 tons of raw opium for sale in the British colony of Hong Kong.

Beyond that fact, the reports are contradictory.

In Vienna, occupied by the Russians and their satellites, the Austrian police say the communist states are shipping narcotics to the west as a source of dollar income.

Sheet of Drugs

In occupied Germany, on the other hand, there have been no such reports by police or Allied authorities. On the contrary, there are reports the eastern communist countries are short of drugs for even medical uses.

A survey of western European and middle east countries reveals however, that with rare exceptions there is almost no internal drug problem.

The western European countries have a rigid police inspection of drug producers and dispensers, plus a close watch on ships entering their ports.

Major drug producers outside the Far East and South America include Turkey, Yugoslavia, Syria and Lebanon.

Syria and Lebanon concentrate on production of hemp, the leaves and flowers of which are used for production of hashish. Most illegal exports go to Egypt and other parts of North Africa.

The Lebanese government a year ago launched a stiff and drastic action. Police have destroyed thousands of acres of hashish crops.

An index to the damage done to drug traders by this action is that the price of hashish has risen 800 per cent in recent weeks.

Turkey probably is the major producer of the world's medicinal opium. It exports around 350 metric tons legally. But it is impossible to trace thousands of hidden poppy plots and police estimate that between 30 and 50 tons are smuggled out of the country annually.

Rubber Sacks Inside Camel Stomachs Latest Device Used by Drug Peddlers

United Nations, N.Y., Aug. 26—(AP)—The latest United Nations report on the world-wide rounding of drug peddlers shows they're a pretty dumb lot.

Law enforcement officers waging a continuing battle against narcotics peddlers report few new devices in attempts to outwit them.

The report covers information passed on to the U.N. during March and April this year, listing more than 300 drug seizures and arrests for several months preceding that period.

It may be that drugs get through by means that customs and narcotics squad officers haven't tumbled to, but the reports, of course, can't show them yet.

But rubber sacks inside camel stomachs, secret compartments in automobiles, trucks, jeeps and ship cabins, and hiding places in bicycle tires are getting to be old stuff to the men fighting the narcotics evil.

The only new touch in the report was from Burma where a truck driver was halted with a load of 40 bags of garlic. Inside two bags were a total of 51 pounds of opium.

Most seizures were from people who looked like ordinary peasants or villagers, carrying the drug hidden in a corner of a basket or bag of garden produce.

The Egyptian government told of a camel caravan halted by inspectors. A metal-detector showed no trace of metal boxes in the animal's stomachs. A few days afterward, one of the camels expelled a rubber container. The camels were slaughtered. In their stomachs were found 83 more rubber containers with a total of 70 pounds of raw opium.

Customs agents have found drugs hidden in pipes of ships, in a radio-phonograph and in exhaust silencers.

Some dope smugglers in the past even put label and trade names on their packages. The Egyptians tell of picking up a fellow on the west bank of the Suez Canal. The search produced several packages of hashish. One brand was called "Lloyds", with the picture of a lioness on the package. Another smuggler's brand had printed on the package: "extra fine, excellent, beware of forgery."

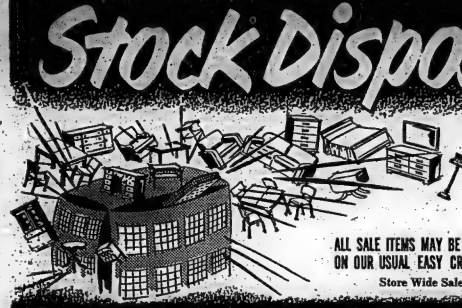
New people just moved in next store to us, and last nite ma said to pop, William, do you think we ought to call on the new folkes next store, just as a matty before they really are. After all, nobody likes to be socially disturbed so soon after the flurry and bustle of moving, with their new paybox ringing the bell while the front door is practically still closing on their old furniture. I think we better just keep a frendly distance till the dust settles and the occasion arises, she said.

That's the real neyborly spirit, pop said, and ma said, I saw the woman at the market this morning, and it seemed to me she has all the stones and earmarks of a person who would expect you to give her all your choicest recipes with open arms, and then hang on to her own like grim death.

I cawt a glimpse of the man when I left for the office, pop said. He gave me the impression of a man whose politics would be the exact opposite of mine, with unlimited statistics to back them up. Not that I believe in judging people by first appearances, but I think ya're rite, my dear, just at present we'll limit ourselves to giving them a frendly reserved nod. If they nod frendly he said, and ma said, Yes, after all, it's the neyborly way.



Being the end of the subject.

Songs and Poetry

Clifford, Ont., (CP)—Mrs. Elvira Keeso, a housewife in this town near Owen Sound, has written two songs in collaboration with a Hollywood song publisher and believes they may soon be on the market all over the continent.

Mrs. Keeso, who has been writing poetry and her own music for years, wrote music and lyrics for a children's play at a nearby school a few months ago. A former Hollywood song writer who attended a performance was so impressed with Mrs. Keeso's work that she worked with Mrs. Keeso on two of the songs and passed them on to a recording firm.

Now they've been recorded and Mrs. Keeso has been asked to prepare others. The two are "My Make Believe World" and "On the Board Walk." The former is a love song, telling the story of a lonely young man's dreams, but the second is a lively Easter piece.

AUGUST DAYS

In the quiet dawn of an August day
When silence enfolds the morning gray,
When shadows lie on the sand-strewn strand,
And dews lie damp o'er the mead-ow-land,
Then in the hush of the waking earth
Silently waiting the day's re-birth,
A spirit comes the hours to cheer
And the presence of God seems very near.

Then over the sunlit harvest fields
Where August her golden treasure yields,
Is heard the harvester's lusty song
As he drives his steady team along,
And the binder's hum seems a song of praise
To God for the wealth of harvest days,
For He alone sends sun and rain
That the earth may bud and bloom again.

O August days with your wealth of gold,
Your fruit and flowers and gifts untold,
Your quiet dreams and your moonlit nights,
Your noontide's old and rare de-lights,
Oh, soon, too soon, you are drifting by
I check a tear and a rising sigh—
Your magic power o'er my heart holds sway
For I was born on an August day.

From Korean combat to a performance by Seattle, Wash., dancing girls is a pleasant transition for 1,430 U. S. soldiers home on rotation leave. When the troop transport docked, soldiers were greeted by the Scotsdrew lassies who danced the hop-scotch polka. This type of greeting drew fire from religious groups in the city who said it was "extreme and appalling." Seattle officials in charge of welcoming the returning veterans said they had not noticed any demoralizing effect on the servicemen.—Central Press Canadian.

PRAIRIE BEAUTY

A bumper wheat crop is always a beautiful sight to Saskatchewan farmers. And a pretty girl will always make a pretty picture.—(CP Photo).

MARIO . . . In his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

Scallops are the most honest seafood.

When you buy a pound and a half of lobster, for instance, you get one portion. When you buy a pound and a half of scallops you get six portions, because the scallops all 'eats' food. There are no shells, bones, heads, tails, stomachs or other waste.

When the scallop is dredged from the ocean bottom, it lies in a shell just like an oyster. The scallop fisherman opens the shell, cuts out the eye or muscle, which is what you eat, and discards the rest. All of this is by way of explaining that the price per pound of scallops is high per portion, it is low.

There are two kinds of scallops—small yellow bay scallops and large white sea scallops. In the summer the bay scallops are not obtainable. But sea scallops are sold in most markets, and are a reasonably priced food. The sea scallops should be cut into small cubes about 1-3 to 3-4 inch thick. Delicious quick frozen scallops are available all year long in most markets.

The liquid which scallops throw off when simmered in water has a subtle sweet flavor, and should be used as a stock for the sauce.

Baked Scallops—Serves 4-5

1 lb scallops
1 large carrot sliced
1 large onion sliced
1 teaspoon celery seed
Salt—pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 cup light cream or milk
1-4 cup white wine
1 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons white bread crumbs
Paprika

In a large saucepan put 1 quart and 1 pint water, sliced carrot, sliced onion and celery seed. Bring to a boil. Simmer 15 minutes.

Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Add the scallops. Cover the pan. Simmer 5 minutes. Remove scallops from the cooking liquid.

Strain the cooking liquid. Reserve 1 cup of the cooking liquid.

In a saucepan melt the butter. Remove from the flame. Stir in the flour. Gradually stir in the 1 cup cooking liquid. Return to a slow flame. Simmer 5 minutes. Remove sauce from the flame. Stir in the parsley, cream, wine, and 3 tablespoons finely chopped onion, salt and pepper if needed.

Put the scallops in a greased baking dish. Pour the sauce over the scallops. Sprinkle with the bread crumbs. Sprinkle lightly with the paprika.

Bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees 15 to 20 minutes or until crumbs are lightly browned.

Careful, Mister.... that's dangerous stuff!

Maybe you don't think that money can harm you. But nowadays, unless you handle it with care, it can make things tougher for you—and others.

If you spend it on things you think may soon be scarce or may cost more later, you will help drive prices still higher. And that will hit you where it hurts—in your own wallet.

But every dollar you save now—in life insurance, bank deposits, or savings bonds—helps keep prices down. And it can work for you in other important personal ways.

For instance, you may need money someday for an unexpected emergency. Or, perhaps, for starting a new business . . . buying a new home . . . sending your boy or girl to college. These and countless other plans may remain just dreams—unless you have more money saved.

In your savings plan, life insurance meets a special need. For you can use it to combine savings with financial protection for your loved ones.

So, to help keep prices down . . . to provide for your tomorrows . . . SAVE!

Celebrates 83rd Birthday by Jump Into Hudson River

New York, Aug. 27 (AP) — Physical culturist Bernarr Macfadden, who celebrated his 83rd birthday with a 2,000-foot parachute jump into the Hudson River yesterday, said he is "good for things like this for 10 more years."

"I recommend this for everybody," he added. "It's a damn good thing to do. I could do it every day in the week."

When Macfadden was fished out of the Hudson River after his jump yesterday, he said:

"I feel like a million. I feel 25. Next year I'm going to jump over Niagara Falls."

Macfadden's parachute leap yesterday was for the dual purpose, he said, of demonstrating that "old age is just a habit" and that United States paratroopers need have no fear of landing in water.

But the publisher of health pamphlets and muscular magazines almost failed to accomplish the second purpose. A wind caught Macfadden and almost dashed him into the rocky palisades.

Then he narrowly missed a stump of trees on the cliff, and finally landed in the river only 30 feet off the New Jersey shore, near Alpine and opposite Yonkers, N.Y., just north of New York City. From both banks of the Hudson, thousands of onlookers watched as the octogenarian jumped, his ski suit looking like red flannel underwear.

Macfadden had intended to jump near the George Washington Bridge, but New York City authorities sent up a police helicopter to shoo him away.

Similar bouts with Canadian and American authorities had caused him previously to drop, at least temporarily, plans to parachute next week into the churning waters below Niagara Falls, he said.

The publisher made his first parachute jump at Dansville, N.Y., two years ago to celebrate his 81st birthday. His actual birth date is Aug. 16.

He took off in a plane yesterday from Teterboro, N.J., with Major Lloyd Hill, of Niagara Falls, Ont., as his technical adviser, Hill's brother, Red, was killed a few weeks ago trying to shoot Niagara Falls in a "barrel" made of inner tubes.

Policeman Hit While Guarding Union Official

Detroit, Aug. 27 (CP)—Walter Moon, 21, was held without charge for questioning Sunday in the shooting and wounding of a policeman on guard at the home of a top official of the United Auto Workers (C. I. O.).

Police said Moon, an employee of a private detective agency, pulled a revolver Saturday night in attempting to serve a circuit court paper on Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the U. A. W. in connection with a strike at the Wolverine Tube division of the Calumet and Hecla Consolidated Copper Company.

Mazey was not at home at the time of the shooting. He has reported receiving death threats at various times since the assassination attempt on U. A. W. president Walter Reuther in 1948 and Reuther's brother, Bruce, also a U. A. W. official a year later.

Moon said he thought the plainclothes patrolmen were union bodyguards.

Mercy Flight Made to Jamaica By North Star

Montreal, Aug. 27—(CP)—An R. C. A. F. birthday, when usual run is the Korea airlift, Sunday night touched down at Montreal airport after a 5,000 mile mercy mission to hurricane-ravaged Jamaica.

Flt. Lt. Stuart Olsen, skipper of the ship, said he left Montreal Friday to pick up emergency supplies of blankets and food at North Bay, which had been flown in from Winnipeg and then picked up a similar cargo in Toronto before the hop to Jamaica.

Flt. Lt. Olsen said: "We had to stop over at Tampa, Fla., Friday night because there were no lights on the field at Kingston. We took off in the morning and landed in Jamaica about one o'clock.

"The field there was a shambles. The control tower had been blown over, hangars were just a mass of twisted girders and some aircraft had been wrecked beyond repair."

FIRE DESTROYS HOME

Alcester, Aug. 27—(CP)—A fire believed to have started from a short circuit in a radio, left a young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kelly, and their five-year-old son homeless last night. The house and their possessions were destroyed in the $8,000 blaze.

BEAT BRIDE-TO-BE

Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 27—(CP)—Grant Howard, 24, of Peterborough wound up Saturday standing in the prisoners' dock instead of before the altar because he beat his bride-to-be. He was fined $50 when the court learned he had beaten his fiancee who told him she had lost her job and could not contribute to the up-keep of their prospective home.

Striking Miners 'Draw Their Time' At Hollinger

Timmins, Aug. 27—(CP)—One hundred and thirty of 1,600 striking miners at the Hollinger Mine have "drawn their time," it was learned here Sunday.

That means they have taken their money out of the company's mutual saving plan and if they wish to work again at Hollinger they must lose all seniority and start at the bottom.

Miners deposit $3 into the fund every two weeks; the company puts in $2. After an employee has five year's service, the company adds a lump sum to his total.

Reports said that some of the men had drawn their money because they had found jobs elsewhere and moved away. Others had immediate need for the money.

The Hollinger Miners walked off their jobs July 9 asking higher wages and a union dues checkoff.

AFFAIL TO EYEWITNESSES

Oakland, Calif., Aug. 27 (AP) — Civil aeronautics officials Sunday appealed for eyewitnesses to speak up and help them determine what caused Friday's United Airlines crash which took 50 lives. All bodies were recovered Saturday.

Ralph A. Reed, chief of the Bureau of Safety and Investigation for C. A. B., said it was believed the airliner was visible from the ground for at least a mile before it plowed into a hillside 20 miles southeast of here.

A public hearing is expected to be held by the C. A. B. in about 10 days.

Reserve Pilot Killed in Jet Near Toronto

Toronto, Aug. 27 (CP) — A Calgary-born RCAF reserve pilot was killed Saturday when his jet plane crashed and burned in suburban Scarborough York township while on a practice flight which his pretty wife and small daughter had been watching.

Flt.-Lt. Donald J. Brown, 31-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown of Calgary, had been going through a series of acrobatics with a Vampire jet in preparations for a special air show to be staged in about two weeks during the closing days of the Canadian National Exhibition. He carried out his air reserve duties on his own time, when off work from his job as sales engineer for a plumbing firm.

As his plane zoomed in for a landing at suburban De Havilland airport, it just missed a chimney on the home of Robert Dunn, topped the top branches off a tree, swept across a lawn, clipped off three spruce trees and nosedived into a field.

Indians Retain Game Lead; Giants Cut Gap To 6 With 14th Straight

CHIPS FROM THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"THEY DOOD IT"

So it took the Redmen to strip the veneer of invincibility that has coated the Brockville Memos in the Central Ontario Baseball League for the last five weeks from the uniforms of the mighty league leaders.

And they did it the hard way. They spotted the Herschock Rankine a trio of runs in the first (an old Redmen custom) but came from behind in a scrapping display that whittled down the lead and vaulted it to the slender to hand the down-eastern their first defeat in god-knows when.

For some reason unknown to baseball science, or at least as far as we know, the Redmen tossed Johnny Mowat in there Saturday night to stem the Memo bats. Mowat hurled a thrilling 5-hitter to Smiths Falls Thursday gloaming, and it would seem he was hardly ready for a bash at Brockville Saturening. That was evidenced when the leaders got to him for three runs in a typical Redmen first-inning.

Then enter young Mr. Strahan. He promptly proceeded to wrap up the Brockies in a neat parcel with a tab "Do not open until the end of the ninth" and sent the Sarsaville buckaroos home with their heads hung in shame, their hopes and a defeat tacked to their belts, quite an unusual experience for the river-towners.

What appeared to be from our box in the splinter - seat bleachers (We'll do the Sunday dinner using the plane as a table) to be the largest crowd of the season, gave the Redskirts some rousing moral support — and maybe that solves part of the answer for the most of the Redmen defeats. And the boys reciprocated with smooth and chilly baseball.

Three outstanding features contributed to the Red victory. Billy Strahan's fine hurling; Vern Geyer's daring steal of home-plate and Diddle Fitzpatrick's fielding, especially in the seventh after Strahan made a mentional step a ball that carohed off the pitching slab and headed for the faraway pastures in right field. Dick pulled it down and his throw' beat the runner to the plate by a country-mile.

For the second time in as many games, Geyer crossed up opposing pitchers with a daring pilfering of the home plate. He did under Catcher Wesnick's nose while pitcher Kapuschak was busied in his initial attempt to stop the steal, then the crowd into a sustained roar of approval and M'lou Kapuschak's temper into a hundred pieces. That gentleman vented his verbal spleen in no uncertain terms on the embattled Manager Jack Dunn.

Well, it's see. The Reds have knocked off Smiths Falls and Brockville in a row and tonight hope to make it three straight at the expense of Picton. This one can be plenty tough as the Falls-Brockies games for the unpredictable "Spanish" squad is liable to come up with a thriller-diller. Don't sell 'em short.

A FINE REPORT!

Manager Don McNevin, Coach Jim Ethier and the members of the Glen Ray Intermediate "A" city representatives have no reason to be "down" over their two-game elimination at the hands of the Kingston Alerts in the new-ever OAHA playdowns in Kingston together with a softball Redmen they have every reason to be proud. They gave all they had in a thrilling brace of battles against the experienced Alerts but did not quite have what it takes and went down fighting. They went worthy representatives of this city. And as Manager McNevin and Coach Ethier said in the true spirit of sportsmanship, "We were beaten by a better team".

It was a fine series despite the fact the Glens lost two in a row. Both games were close hard-fought affairs, the kind that often the "breaks" decide. It was topflight softball all through, a distinct credit to both games. And — well — next year is another year.

FUTURE CHAMPIONS!

Once again junior athletics have put the name of Belleville in the sports headlines. Mary Jane McNally and Bobby Burns, promising tennis youngsters of the Bay of Quinte League have added to their already creditable record by recent Ontario Junior Championships. Mary Jane in an outstanding display went to the girls' semi-finals while Trenton's Bobby Burns was eliminated in the quarter-finals. A distinct feather in the cap of President Les Digby of the BOQTL and his associates, who have taken junior tennis under their wing. Both Burns and McNally as well as other junior players who took part in the tournament show excellent promise. They played in the Canadian championships held at Ottawa over the weekend.

Yanks, Tribe Split Twin Bills Brooks Divide While Giants Grab Three Weekend Victories

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The New York Giants' sensational 14-game winning streak today projected the National League pennant race smack into the limelight with the American League's fight for first place.

Manager Leo Durocher's pennant-hungry Giants swept a double-header from Chicago Cubs yesterday 5-4 and 5-1 to chop the once imposing lead of Brooklyn Dodgers to six games. The Dodgers split with the tailend Pittsburgh Pirates, winning the nightcap, 4-3 in 10 innings after blowing the opener 12-11.

Meanwhile, the American League race remained status quo, Cleveland Indians held their same lead over New York Yankees by splitting a doubleheader with Boston. The Red Sox won the first game 5-0. The Indians took the second 5-1. The Yankees divided with Chicago White Sox, losing the opener 3-3 and winning the nightcap 7-3.

In other American League games Washington Senators swept a pair from Athletics 5-3 and 8-1 and Detroit Tigers blanked Philadelphia Athletics 5-0. In the National League St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Braves split a twin bill, Cincinnati and Cincinnati Reds split doubleheaders. The second game of the Braves' 12-11 but lost the second game 9-1. The Phils edged the Reds 2-0 after Cincinnati won the first game 4-2.

Two home runs by Wes Westrum and single by Mueller accounted for all of the Giants' runs in the first game. Bringing Westrum won the game with a two-out homer in the ninth.

Jim Hearn gave the Cubs no six hits in the nightcap as the Giants compiled their longest winning streak since 1936.

Score Eight in Seventh

Brooklyn blew a 9-2 lead in dropping the opener to the Pirates. The Bucs bunged on Don Newcombe and Clyde King for eight runs in the seventh inning. Bill Howerton clouted the relief with a three-run homer.

The Dodgers averted defeat in the nightcap when Andy Pafko homered in the ninth to tie the score. Pafko won the second game in the 10th with a homer off Ted Wilks.

Ewell Blackwell checked the Phils on five hits in the opener at Philadelphia. Rookie Willie Jordan, making his first major-league appearance, shut out the Reds in the nightcap on six hits.

Red Schoendienst batted in four runs on a homer and two singles to lead the Cards to victory in the opener at Boston. The Braves broke up the hurling duel of Al Brazle of the Cards and Jim Wilson with six hits in the nightcap in the seventh of the nightcap.

Feller Loses

Bill Wight blanked the Indians on five hits in the opener at Cleveland. Bob Feller, gunning for his 21st victory, went down to his sixth defeat.

The Indians collected only three hits off Leo Kiely and Ellis Kinder in the nightcap but two were home runs by Luke Easter and Sam Chapman. Jim Lemon, with help from Mike Garcia, was the winner.

Ed Robinson and Nellie Fox ruined the Yankees in the opener at Chicago. Robinson homered in the eighth to tie the score 3-3 and Fox doubled home Don Lenhardt with the winning run in the ninth.

The Yankees piled up a 3-0 lead in the three innings of the nightcap. Late-inning homers by pinch-hitter Bert Haas and Don Lenhardt threw a scare into the Yanks but relief pitcher Allie Reynolds saved the game for rookie Art Schallock.

Ed Hudson gained his fourth victory in the opener at St. Louis. Don Johnson breezed to a four-hitter in the finale.

Fred Hutchinson shut out the Cubs on three hits in the single game at Detroit.

Vancouver Loses To Marylebone

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 27 (CP)—The touring Marylebone Cricket Club Sunday defeated a Victoria XI by 136 runs after a large crowd at Beacon Hill Park.

The All-Stars ran up a score of 231. Victoria scored 95.

Batting first, the visitors' Walford and Powell put on 63 for the first wicket before the latter was bowled by Jack Payne for 31. Walford's patient 45, which took 90 minutes, was ended by Sparks who held a fine return. On the next ball, a misunderstanding between R.W. Robbins and J. R. Thompson led to Thompson being run out.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

It appears unlikely the Russians will set the world afire when they join Olympic competition next year at Helsinki unless they come up with stronger teams than they presented at the World Youth and Student Games here in August.

In track and field, the Soviet's best bets appear to be their women—especially the discobol gals in the shot put and javelin throw.

The festival managers announced 43 "World Student records" were established during the East Berlin games, most of them by Russia. But all the men's track marks at the festival are well below the Olympic records.

Some of the Russian women, however, were credited with performances which shade existing Olympic records.

Jim Ferrier, 1951 Canadian Open golf champion, skidded to a 77 Sunday after shooting three straight 66s in the Fort Wayne Open golf tournament but it was good enough for a 269 total and the $3,400 first money.

The Australian-born Ferrier, steadiest in the field during the first three days of the tournament, started out with a 33 on the front nine Sunday but he ballooned to a 44 coming in.

In the aftermath of a soccer game riot two weeks ago, a three-man committee of the Ontario Football Association Saturday upheld the Ukrainian Sports Club's appeal against a Toronto and District Soccer Association's decision to suspend the club from operation until next May.

However, in place of the suspension the association fined the club $500 and ordered it to put up a $500 bond guaranteeing future good behavior of its players, officials and supporters. The bond will be in effect until the end of 1952.

Sault Ste. Marie girls Saturday advanced to the all-Ontario Intermediate A finals in the Provincial Women's Softball Union playdowns when they handed the Timmins Maroons 16-8 and 5-3 defeats in the best-of-three series for the Northern Ontario Intermediate A title.

The Sault Ste. Marie girls advance against Peterborough, Southern Ontario representative.

The Ontario Amateur Athletic Association has ordered a halt to Sunday night amateur boxing and wrestling shows at La Salle Park Windsor.

Provincial police have been asked to enforce the order.

Sponsor of the weekly shows, the La Salle Youth Centre, said it is accused of operating without a permit. Centre President Phil Gigeroff said he was under no indication that a permit would be issued if applied for.

Kingston Leafs Drub Smiths Falls, Brantford Wins

(By The Canadian Press)

Brantford's batting Red Sox got off to a flying start against London Majors Saturday night in their best of seven finals series for the Senior Intercounty baseball championship.

With the score tied 2-2 for most of the game, Brantford unloaded a last minute power drive and knocked in three runs in the top of the 12th inning to take the game 5-2. Next two games will be played in Brantford Tuesday and Thursday.

In Toronto, Peterborough Petes took an 8-6 shellacking from Toronto Crefiores. The first half of a final twin bill in the Ontario Hockey League, then came back in the second game to upset Crefiores 4-2.

The split leaves the Petes deadlocked for first place in the Vladuct League with Oshawa Generals. The two will play a best-of-three games series to decide first place. The first tilt is set for Tuesday in Peterborough.

In the Nickel Belt Senior League Fred Myers came from behind with three runs in the sixth inning to edge Copper Cliff Redmen 3-2 in the initial game of their best-of-five semi-final playoff series.

Winner will meet the survivor of the Coniston-Garson series for the Morrell Trophy, captured last year by Creighton Indians. Sudbury Reels finished last.

In Kingston Saturday, base hits walks and runs were a dime a dozen when Smiths Falls and the Central Ontario Baseball League defeated Smiths Falls Royals 13-8.

The Smithies combed Norm Darcy's offering for 15 safeties but this advantage was offset when Clouthier handed out nine bases on balls and George Hancock eight.

St. Catharines Stags' 4-2 victory Saturday over Welland Sticks gave them second place in the Niagara District Senior Baseball League's final standing.

Ottawa, Aug. 27 (CP) — Laurie Roland of Vancouver won the Canadian junior golf championship at the Royal Ottawa Sunday by a single stroke in a thrilling razzle-dazzle 18-hole playoff with Doug Silverberg, defending champion from Red Deer, Alta.

The two 18-year-old boys put on a rousing show, Laurie finished with 73, two over par, putting on a great spurt on the back nine. Doug had 74.

It was a well-earned win for the boy from the Vancouver Marine Drive Club. Laurie has been knocking at the championship door for three years.

Johnny Thrope was the only youngster among the eight Canadian junior provincial champions to give the leaders a real argument. Gerry Knechtel, 16-year-old youngster from Kitchener, shot a 156 and the next closest was 160 scored by Jimmy Doyle of Winnipeg and Ray Marsh of Moose Jaw, Sask. Then came Lawrence Perry of Halifax with 161 and Lloyd Hicks of Moncton, N.B., with 163.

Redmen Edge Brockville 4-3 In Uphill-Battle Thriller; Spot Leaders Three Points

Belleville Redmen scored an upset of more than moderate stature on Saturday evening when they came from behind to defeat the league leading Brockville Memorial Centre scorers 4-3 in a encounter that held a thrill a minute.

The win solidified the Redmen's hold on fourth place in the CORL standing.

Brockville started things by plating three times in the initial frame off of starter Johnny Mowat. Johnny was able to retire only one man before the Riverworks started to batter the ex-Redmen hurler via the walk route. Then successive singles by Kasepchuk, Pierce and Ashley combined with a fielder's choice executed double steal, was enough to do the damage.

After the third successive hit off of Mowat, he was pulled in favor of Billy Strahan who came on to put out the fire without further damage.

The Reds got one of these back in the bottom half. Mulholland, lead-off man, singled to left field, advanced to third on a passed ball from where he scored on Gayer's fly ball to centre field.

Reds Score in Fifth

Gilmour beat out a scratch single to the mound, leading off for the Redmens' in the fifth. Carson, trying to sacrifice, popped to Galen with Gilmour getting safely back to first base. Galen drew a base on balls but Strahan whiffed for the second out.

Mulholland then walked for three and two pitch and then connected solidly for a double to left, scoring Gilmour. Dean grounded out to end the rally at one run.

Big Billy Strahan had the sixth off with his first hit of the night, a double to centre that was only about six feet from scoring over the fence completely. Ashley made a valiant try and just failed to nail it. He advanced on Buchanan's ground out but had to hold fast while Fitzpatrick also grounded out.

With Gilmour at the bat, Gayer made the play of the night when he stole home, sliding in beautifully beneath Mort Turner, the Maroon receiver, with the tying run.

The winning run was scored in the bottom of the eighth inning. Dean was laid off by walking. He stole second while Gayer was called out on strikes. Buchanan advanced him to third on a ground ball and he came home on a passed ball.

Thrusten in 9th

The visitors threatened in the ninth when Galen drove a hit into centre that Mulholland misjudged, the ball rolling to the fence for a three-bagger. Strahan showed masterful control at this point by getting out of the hole without a score. Pinch-hitter Hayes grounded out to second base, Turner allowing to sacrifice but Strahan picked up the ball and threw to Dean in time to retire the runner from third for the second out. Weaver reached first on Reeves' misplay of a ground ball, and Stelmack whiffed.

Billy Strahan, who came on with only one out in the first inning, buried masterful ball. He struck out four while not issuing any bases on balls. His opponent, Bill Kasepchuk, also hurled well as he threw the full route for the Maroon Redmen and passed only three.

Mulholland led at the plate with a double and two singles while Kasepchuk, Pierce and Ashley each had a pair of singles. Gayer's double and Galen's three-bagger were the only other hits for extra bases.

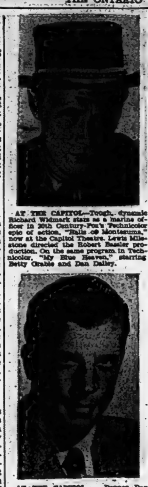
Diamond Dust From the Minors

The first round of OBA playdowns is at hand!

On Tuesday, August 28th, Canadian Legion Midgets meet Dick Bridgman's Trenton team at the Batawa field at 6.30 p.m., with a return game being played at the Belleville Fair Grounds on Thursday evening, August 30th, at the same time. Should a third game be necessary, it will be played on Friday evening at the Fair Grounds.

The Rob-Royal Bantams trek to Kingston on Wednesday, Aug. 29th, for their first game with the Kingston Bantams, the game being played at the Kingston Cricket Field at 2.30 in the afternoon. The return game will be played on Monday, September 3rd, at the "Belleville Fair Grounds at 4:30 p.m. Should our midget team defeat Trenton, a double header will be played against the two Kingston teams on Monday, September 3rd, the first game starting at 3:30 o'clock.

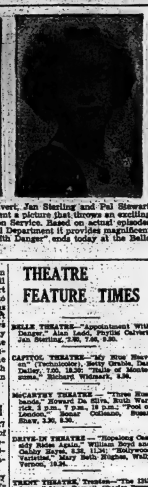


Anyone who can make the trip to Kingston for the afternoon game on August 29th and has room to take a couple of the players is asked to contact Mr. Doris Vandervoort at 211 J-2 Station Street, telephone 2562-J.

Walker Hardware Pee-Wees and Canadian Tire Juveniles have been declared winners in this section and will probably not begin competition for another week or 10 days, in the meantime, the juvenile team is playing an exhibition game at Port Hope on Wednesday, August 29th at 8:30 p.m. They are in need of help as far as transportation is concerned and anyone who could spare the time, to take some of the boys along is asked to please contact Mr. Cliff Rowse, 183 William Street, telephone 2246-W. The Port Hope team has agreed to share the proceeds with the Belleville team and this will help us with our travelling expenses for future games. It will also give us a better idea of how good our team is.

A meeting of the Minor Baseball Association was held on Friday evening, August 24th, and plans were set in motion for an evening of entertainment in October for all the boys who have competed in the Minor League this year. It is hoped to obtain as a special guest a Major League player from the United States who may be visiting in this district at that time. Cresta will be presented to the winners in the Pee-Wee, Bantam and Midget Divisions. The trophies for annual competition will also be presented at this time.

In the only official game played last week, the Rob-Royal Bantams met Houston Lumber Bantams on Saturday afternoon to determine the city championship. The Rob-Royals defeated Houstons in a very well played game to win the city championship and they proved themselves worthy representatives in the OBA. The final standing of those two teams in the regular schedule resulted in the Rob-Royals having 8 wins and 2 losses, as against Houston Lumber's 7 wins and 4 losses.



Now that the OBA playdowns are commencing, we hope and trust that the baseball fans in the city and the parents of all the boys will give their support to the Minor League and try to attend as many of the games as possible. Whole-hearted support at this time is what the boys need. It would help considerably to keep high the morale of the players as well as the executives, and it should provide some encouragement to continue with a Minor Baseball League again next year.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Most bridge players have a tough time with defensive bids. It seems to be an effort for them to get this straightforward out. And yet, they are easy to classify as to opening bids.

Suppose your opponent in the fourth opens with one heart. You have the west hand shown here:

♠A K 9 8 4 3
♥None
♦K 8
♣A Q 9 3 2

What would be your first defensive (overcall) bid? How would you know? By taking the order of choice of defensive bids so that you can decide which bid fits the situation truthfully.

There are only four types of overcalls (defensive bids). They are from strongest to weakest: Overcall in opponent suit, jump overcall, double for takeout, simple overcall.

Overcall in opponent suit shows nine tricks and no losers in that suit. Jump overcall shows eight tricks and a reasonable suit. Double shows as good as an opening one bid. Simple overcall shows less.

To be more specific about a simple overcall, it presumes five tricks among which may be only two high cards of which only one is a sure trick with a biddable suit of at least five cards.

Your hand contains nine tricks. They are your five high cards (aces, kings, queens); three short cards in hearts, one short card in diamonds. Shorts and highs tell how many tricks you count.

Being void in hearts you have no losers in the opponent suit. This with your nine tricks in count tell you that your hand contains all the ingredients expected of an overcall in opponent suit.

Can there now be any doubt as to what your defensive overcall should be? It is the strongest in your list of defensive overcalls.

Can you now have any worry as to whether you are correct?

Step right up there with a bid of two, hearts. Or would you rather be a mule?

Movie Column

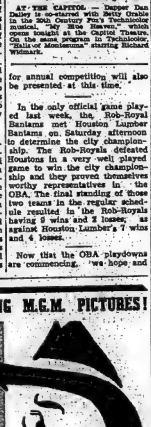
By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 27 — (AP) — Mari Blanchard, recently New York's top model of bathing suits and now a promising movie starlet, was walking down a studio street and evoking whistles from admiring males.

"You'd never suspect," remarked a bystander, "that she was once crippled by polio."

Mari, a vivacious, shapely girl who has all the physical assets for Hollywood stardom, told me her story as we lunched at the Brown Derby.

"I was nine when polio struck," she related. "I was paralyzed below the hips, in my right arm and the right side of my face. My mother — thank God — was a physical therapist and she had been working for years on the treatment of polio along the same lines as Sister Kenny. She would not let the doctors put me in a cast. Instead, she started me exercising.



"She drew a line along the ceiling of my room and told me to imagine I was a soldier marching along the line. She had me chew three and four packs of gum at a time. She bought a small canvas pool, put it in the back yard and gave me massages in it.

Muscles Working

"Everything was designed to keep the muscles working. Her theory was that whatever part of the body we do not use will wither and die.

"In a couple of years, I had recovered enough to start learning to walk again. First I had two crutches, then one, then I walked unaided. My mother told me: 'You have two legs, use them!' In three years I was back in school.

At first she was intent on a career in international law and studied at university. She decided she had to earn a living and got work with an import firm as file clerk. But she was earning more money in part-time modeling work and decided to hit the big time—New York.

AT THE CAPITOL — Dapper Dan Dailey is co-starred with Betty Grable in the 20th Century Fox Technicolor musical, "My Blue Heaven," which opens tonight at the Capitol Theatre. Also on the same program is Twentieth Century Fox's "Tale of Monte Cristo," starring Richard Widmark.

WHY WE SAY

"Filibuster is a word that was first used in the mid-19th century to describe the action of a member of the United States Congress who attempted to prevent the passage of a bill by making long speeches and refusing to stop talking. The word came into English from the Spanish word "filibuster" which meant a pirate who sailed in a flyboat. The comparison is between the slender, swift sailing of these pirates and the aimless discussions in modern filibusters.

18 Fatalities In East Canada During Weekend

An estimated one million Peronists met recently to nominate Juan Peron, president of Argentina, for a second term, and proposed Eva Peron for the vice-presidential position in the November 11 election. Anti-U.S. posters appeared during the demonstration describing U.S. as the "world's most criminal nation." Jose Espejo, president of the government-sponsored General Confederation of Labor, asked the Peronists, seen above, to vote for "the happiness of the people," adding that huge crowds would not stir from the spot until they announced their acceptance. Acceptance of Peron was taken for granted, but some doubt was expressed that he would accept and break tradition and run for vice-president.—Central Press Canadian.

North Ontario Being Invaded By Ragweed

Toronto, Aug. 27— Ontario Department of Agriculture said that northern Ontario, once a haven for hay fever sufferers, is fast being invaded by ragweed.

K. E. Fallis, fieldman for the department's crops branch, said that if the weed's spread remains unchecked, it may cost the province many thousands of dollars of tourists' money.

Mr. Fallis said that if tourists know ragweed is around, it may tend to keep them away, particularly in late summer.

He suggested cultivation as the best means of controlling the pest, blamed for 20 per cent of the hay fever suffering in Ontario. Unseeded stubble fields should be cultivated immediately following harvest, and cultivation continued as late as possible.

He stressed that ragweed can only be eliminated by determined efforts of both rural and urban residents. Aside from cultivation, any one of three other methods are effective—chemical weed killers, clipping and hand-pulling.

Mr. Kallis said that another important reason for keeping the weed under control is that if there is too much of it in pasture lands, it gives milk an off-flavor.

Children's Day At Exhibition

Toronto, Aug. 27.—(CP)—This is children's day at The Canadian National Exhibition. Five cents will get a boy or girl into the big fairgrounds and another nickel will take him or her on almost any midway ride.

Cloudy skies were forecast with temperatures a few degrees below the 80-degree mark reached Saturday when 16,000 veterans of three wars marched in the Warriors' Day parade.

The mercury scheduled drop in temperature, coupled with the influx of thousands of excited children, was expected to push up the attendance—perhaps beyond the Saturday figure of 274,500.

Four hundred persons were treated Saturday by the St. John Ambulance Corps, most of them for heat and exhaustion and others for minor burns, cuts, bruises and blisters. Scores of children were lost and found—and lost again—and police reported one man looking for his "new wife."

Today likely will be the fair's biggest day for lost children. By tradition, parents usually become "lost" almost as soon as they reach the 350-acre grounds and later are found feasting on ice cream and cookies at the special lost children's building where worried parents usually apply.

For the young patrons the afternoon is full of wonderful things like water skiing displays and screaming jet planes.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

That January Monday night, the [illegible]. But now that the Ensign Daily Ensign was read and digested daily, and it was like that's all correspondents be and in all parts of Emerton. all, it was work that Dad enjoyed the surrounding districts immensely. He edited all each copy which reached his desk, many of the questions that had sent it on to the composing room remained unanswered were answered there. He paged, pulled proofs, and then himself, measured each head, marked it down. In this fashion, And at the end of each month, he saw that each correspondent received a cheque in full-and a brief note of thanks and appreciation for the fine work done. But there were times, and they came often, when Dad stole away from the front office and when he could be located in the composing room where he was "just keeping his hand in" as he used to say.

CHAPTER XIX

As the head of such an important and business as a daily newspaper, Lance Bradley received many prominent people in his office. Indeed, his callers were so numerous during those first few weeks of publishing, that he was seldom alone.

However, one afternoon when there came a restful lull, who should walk in but the tall, well-dressed, grey-haired Mrs. Hastings, mother of Jimmy. The widow explained that she had called to have a good look at "the man who had worked his mysterious magic" on her son, James. According to his mother, James had never co-operated when she had undertaken to tell him that he should take more interest in the things that were going on around him.

Lance Bradley told her that he had not performed any magic on James. All he had done was to give him a good talking-to, just to awaken him out of his lethargy, to show him that he wasn't getting the best out of life.

Mrs. Hastings concluded her visit by saying that if Lance Bradley should ever need financial assistance to put ver such a fine project as his daily newspaper or such an important thing as his radio station, that she should be pleased to help him. Meanwhile she assured him that he would find a welcome at her home at any time.

Mrs. Hastings had no sooner gone, than Dad Roberts came in from the back office, and Lance told him of the woman's visit.

"Ever read Dickens' 'Pickwick Papers?'" Dad asked with a grin.

"No, yes."

"Then beware of the widders, Sammy," Dad chuckled.

That evening Lance Bradley took Dad Roberts to the Y.M.C.A. to see Goldie Webster box, and when Jimmy Hastings came along and asked Lance to put the gloves on with him, Lance agreed.

Jimmy Hastings was willing, but awkward in a sort of clownish way. As a boxer he stood nothing, and Lance playfully toyed with him, but in a clinch, Jimmy butted him in the eye with his head and the fun stopped. Jimmy apologized profusely, while Lance wondered what people would say the next morning when they saw him going around with a black eye. And a black eye on Lance Bradley was not what gave Doris Parker something to laugh about.

Next morning when she came to work with Jimmy Hastings, she cut through the business office on the way to her office and slowly opened Lance's door to take a look at him.

"Ho, Brad," she smiled. "Hear you have an eye out of business this morning." She pointed it facetiously at him. "Remember, I warned you; you can't say I didn't," she teased.

Lance Bradley made a bluff at chasing her, but she made a hurried escape.

Of course Lance Bradley was human enough to know that all his visitors would not be coming in to slap him on the back, to try to make him believe that he was a super man. It was beyond reason to expect that every man in Emerton was with him, was on his side. And not being a friend, perhaps through jealously or envy or because he had something to fear or something to hide, he might come to ask her something that was neither in the publisher's power to give, or even to consider.

And so when Mayor Joe Crookes popped into his office unexpectedly one afternoon, Lance braced himself. Mayor Crooker's reputation had preceded him by some long time. In fact, Bradley often-ed wondered why he was hanging the frame office of Brown Paving, in a side street, so much. Some day he would look into it.

Mayor Crookes was a slightly built, dark man, with restless black eyes. He wasted no words in telling Lance what had brought him into the publisher's private office. He had not been asked to take part in his official capacity for either the opening of the radio station or the first printing of The Daily Ensign, and he felt slighted.

"After all," he said rather sourly, "I'm but the mayor of this town, I'm but Emerton's chief magistrate, and if the people around here don't like me, don't want me, they wouldn't have let me in office for the past seven years."

For the moment Lance Bradley was caught without an answer to that. Yet he knew that what the mayor had said was not the way he had heard it. Joe Crookes was mayor of Emerton simply because the ratepayers had fallen asleep, had not cared who filled the mayor's chair. The coming fall, however, The Ensign would set the municipal pot boiling as it had not boiled for some years. Indeed, if one were to read between the lines of Hal Gordon's editorials, he could see even now, that a civic misdemeanor was being created that would see the Emerton's taxpayers on the idea that its town council should be composed of the best men in the town. However, Lance Bradley kept those matters to himself even then when a much displeased Mayor Crookes stood before him.

"I'm very sorry, Mr. Mayor, that you were not invited to our opening ceremonies," Lance said, tongue in cheek, "but it was a mere oversight. To get such a business venture under way, to get the first edition of the paper to press on time, well, every man jack around the place was laboring under a severe strain, with no room for anything but him, the matter in hand."

Mayor Crookes gazed at the picture on the wall before speaking.

"Well," he said resignedly, "I suppose nothing can be done about it now. I was not aware of the circumstances you were living under. I can see now that it was through no fault of yours. Yet, as mayor, I was not even a guest at the ceremonies. So, supposing we let it go at that. However, when I'm here, I must say that it gives me great pleasure on behalf of the town and district, to congratulate you on your fine undertaking to give this town a new daily newspaper, such a splendid radio station . . . And speaking of radio, are you going to make it possible for candidates for office to use it to make their platforms known at election time?"

"Why, of course, Mr. Mayor," Lance said, "when election time out, was that Joe Crookes was comes every candidates will be a born politician, a skilled given equal opportunity to air his gaoler, and that to remove him views, and at no cost—as a pub- from the mayor's chair, was going lic service."

Mayor Crookes was profuse with his thanks, but after he had gone Lance could not dismiss the fact that Crookes was slippery, tricky, a schemer. What he did not know, but later found

"Well—I was a long time coming to it—but one day John was shopping with me. He picked up a package of Mother Parker's—read he money back guarantee printed right on the label. 'Here,' said he, 'it's try Mother Parker's—we can't ose.'"

UN Command Says Reds Sent Plane On False Mission

Enemy Wants Ridgway To Admit Bomb Incident

Tokyo, Aug. 28 — (AP) — The United Nations Command charged today that the communists sent one of their own planes through the motions of bombing Kaesong last Wednesday and then blamed the Allies for the attack.

The charge was contained in a bulletin released by the Public Information Office at Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters as the U.N. command shuttled a communist note that could shatter hopes of truce in Korea.

"There is as yet no indication as to the time when Lt.-Gen. General Ridgway will make to the press conference, the public information office said.

Impose Conditions

The reds offered to resume truce talks — which they broke off last Thursday — on certain conditions. Primarily, they want Ridgway to say a U. N. plane bombed the Kaesong neutral area Wednesday.

The Air already said no U. N. plane was even in the area. He told the communists they manufactured the charge to cover up their own aggressive act.

Because of this, Ridgway's public information office restated the same position in detail.

He said no U. N. planes were in the area at the time of the attack but that an unidentified plane was. It added:

"It is beyond doubt that this was a communist aircraft.

"All evidence established the clear conclusion that on the night of Aug. 22 the communists perpetrated a deliberate fraud."

The release said there were no bomb craters, no bomb fragments, "no evidence on the ground or a United Nations command air attack."

Deliberate Fraud

"There is every indication," the release said, that red truce "personnel at Kaesong were accessories to or to deliberate fraud. Using their military control of the countryside as a cloak of deceit, communist personnel perpetrated a sham of unprecedented proportions.

"Creating an elaborately staged and quite obviously premeditated scene, they sought to fix upon the United Nations command a false charge of air attacks on the conference site."

The reds asked Ridgway to make a new investigation and to give evidence of the asserted bombing. To this, the public information office countered the reds have had time to prepare "more convincing evidence of a bombing."

Officials at U.N. headquarters said it was virtually unthinkable that Ridgway would retract his charge that the entire incident was a frame-up.

Its basic principle is: "Deception in the midst of fighting."

A German sinologist, Ernest Cordes, in a new book on China entitled, "Fighting Without a Revolution," tells of Sun Fu's influence on Mao's modern campaigns.

Cordes, who says he knows Mao well, reports that the red leader was never without the torn and tattered manual in his pocket when he was in field.

Sun Fu's sage counsel is quoted thus by Cordes:

"If you are able to attack, make believe that you are not if you are near, make the enemy believe you are far away. If you are far away, make him think you are near. Deception and secrecy are a heavenly art Through them we learn to practice invisible and inaudible and compel the enemy to subdue himself to our thinking."

In the sixth century B.C., this military general was advocating that "thru the veil to the enemy to keep him moving."

Then when the enemy had been lured into the deadly trap, picked men, lying in readiness for him, must finish him off.

Other principles laid down in the Sun Fu manual include: manual centre around the Chinese custom of allowing an opponent, even under the most trying circumstances, the opportunity to save his face. To a gozid general-ship, says Sun Fu, there is "unconditional surrender," this address of Mao's:

"Do not fight an army that is on its way home. If an army is surrounded, always leave a small loophole open for its escape. Do not pursue a frantic enemy too closely. The lofted art of warfare is to crush the enemy's resistance without fighting."

Old Sun Fu also posted this rule as never to be forgotten: Use espionage liberally.

THREE KILLED AS DIESEL RIPS CAR AT CROSSING

Driver Walks Away With Minor Injuries

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 28 (CP)—An evening outing by two young East Windsor couples ended in high death for two of the girls and one of the youths when a freight train ripped into the automobile at a level-crossing, three miles south of the city limits.

The other youth, described by police as the driver, walked away from the crash scenes with minor injuries.

Melda Rounding 17, was thrown from the car and died before ambulance arrived. Jean Pilkingworth, 18, was dead on admission to hospital. William Lachance, 20, died an hour in hospital.

Car salesman Joseph Lachance, 21, remained conscious after the smashup. He was treated in hospital for pain over his eyes and on his nose, the back of his head and on one leg. At the hospital he said:

"I didn't see the train until it was too late."

Crossing Illuminated

Trainmen said the south-bound freight was travelling about 25 miles per hour when the locomotive pushing it struck the car. The engine picking up speed as it rolled through the Windsor outskirts for many miles.

The left front corner of the engine struck the right front side of the car. The vehicle bounced off the locomotive and landed right side up in a ditch 50 feet from the crossing. Right front fender of the car was carried along on the front of the locomotive, then stopped 700 feet down the track.

The accident gave the Windsor district its second triple-fatality in three months. Two United States soldiers and a Windsor girl were killed June 27 when their high-powered car rammed into the back of a truck on a highway.

Three-Legged Colt Gets Soft Berth

Brantford, Aug. 28—(CP)—Tripod, a three-legged colt, has found her niche in life. It's privately owned.

Tripod was foaled on a farm near here three years ago. She appeared on the scene with two hind legs and only a front one.

Not rare enough to interest sideshows and certainly unable to pull a plow, the luckless lass faced the possibility of being destroyed.

Recently, Frank Plaunt, Brantford horse lover and owner of Billy Direct, 2.01 trotting champ, heard of Tripod's plight.

He decided to give her a home in green pastures with a warm barn for winter. He went to take her mother too—Tripod isn't weaned yet.

Canadian Soldiers Kept on Bit And Aggressive by Enthusiasm Of Brig. J. M. Rockingham

By BELL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the Canadians in Korea, Aug. 28 — (CP) — From Army Commander James Stuart, 51, far down the line as one cares to carry it, one hears but hears about just "the Canadians."

It's "those aggressive Canadians."

The tone is one of envy among U. N. commanders whose concern is to keep troops interested in hostilities that Kaesong might end any day.

It is one of amazement among troops thoroughly weary of the whole business and satisfied with that with the possibilities inherent in Kaesong's gains that are sticking their necks out." And do so almost enthusiastically.

In large part they do so because they have come to reflect the enthusiasm of their commander, Brig. John Meredith Rockingham of Vancouver.

Rocky's enthusiasm for war and the keenness with which he identifies himself with it — to the minutest detail and the fighting of the smallest sub-unit — certainly have had a dominating influence in the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade group.

The men know him and like him. In operations he's seldom far from the middle, and often far out of the command post. He has been known to go to the forward observation post — sometimes even to the forward section to see how things are going and, often, to make suggestions.

He scales apparently — impassable mountain trails in his jeep, and when the trails give out he makes his way on foot to the infantry he wants to see. But he doesn't stay there — even if it means picking up bullets in his tires and taking prisoners on the way. He has done both.

Troops Love It

The troops love it. "Rocky's here," the word goes around, and the tension of fatigue of the moment relaxes a little.

If the troops love it, the battalion commanders frankly do not. They're running the show, and are personally responsible for it. Hence they are bound to their command posts, where they can co-ordinate the operation. They feel that they present less a target required in a crucial moment to influence the outcome by rallying their men.

Yet they are conscious of the men's reaction: "He's always on the Brig. when we're in action, that's where the C.O.'s (The Commanding Officer.)

Not that command posts are so safe. Shells sometimes find them.

But even at the C. P. the Brigadier has been known to become impatient with the C.O. and to take it over hobus-bobus. There was one in the Kapyong fight when it was running the infantry, his chief gunner ranging for the artillery and his chief engineer also doing the air-liaison work with

Eisenhower Tells Senators Federal Union in Western Europe Might Solve Problems

Washington, Aug. 28. (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower has told Senators he is "very hopeful that many of our problems would disappear" if a federal Europe were one federal union."

"I believe it so strongly," he said, "that I can believe real security is going to be felt in the British Isles, in the British Empire, and other nations of the globe until that comes about."

He said he is convinced the whole area of Western Europe is united in a federation the Soviets will never be able to hold the East Germans out of it—I believe that with all my heart."

Eisenhower, Supreme Commander of North Atlantic Treaty organization forces in Europe, made those statements to a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee which toured Europe last July. It was studying U.S. economic aid, arms and programs. Testimony was released yesterday after deletion of portions the group felt might involve security.

The General told the Senators:

"I realize that a lot of my professional associates are going to say that I am completely crazy, but I will tell you that joining Europe together is the key to the whole thing. And if you can do it with a European army, I am ready to put a lot of work in to it."

American leadership, help and armed forces, Eisenhower said, "are entirely the confidence of Western Europeans, and he added:

"The faster they regain their confidence, the faster they will make up their own minds and decisions. In my opinion, the one thing that can break the United States and give us nothing in return is to drag this thing out. We must go to the limit of our productive capacity to help the European Europe to absorb our military assistance, and get it done now."

Speaking of possible moves by the Kremlin, Eisenhower said:

"I personally believe that if you make a Western Europe strong enough, the Russians will just not commence some where that picking is easier because they have got a whole world to choose from."

2,000 Communist Soldiers Arrive In Manchuria

Taipeh, Formosa, Aug. 28 (AP) — The China Union Press, a pro-Nationalist news agency, said yesterday more than 2,000 European communist soldiers arrived in Manchuria early this month.

Neither the Nationalist defence ministry nor United States Eighth Army headquarters in Korea would confirm or deny the report.

The ministry and the army headquarters could not verify other reports that 2,000 Caucasian troops from Europe had taken up positions on the Soviet Pacific coasts of Korea, ready to fight beside Chinese communists if Kaesong communists if cease – fire negotiations are terminated.

The Chinese Union said also that Russia had given the Chinese reds 2,000 French machine guns, 300 anti-aircraft guns and 500 military trucks since July.

The Nationalist Kuomintang agreed to supply the Chinese reds with 2,000 planes and 620 tanks, and added that some of the tanks had already arrived in Korea.

Tobacco Strike No Closer To Solution

Montreal, Aug. 28. (CP)—J. T. Steeves, vice-president of Imperial Tobacco Company, Ltd., said today his company was "no closer to a solution" in the strike called by Local 311 of the International Tobacco Workers Union (T.L.C.-A.F.L.).

The deadlock affecting nearly 2,000 employees at company plants at Granby, Que., Hamilton, Ont., and two here, started last Thursday when the union and company could not reach agreement on a new contract. The union turned down an arbitration board's suggestion of a 35-cent-an-hour increase on condition that the union accept a two-year hours before he was to appear in court.

Police said Singh, 55-year-old retired police constable committed suicide by throwing himself under a train at suburban City Station. He had been charged a few days ago with theft of nails valued at 24 cents.

TRUMAN AWAITS UNION REPLIES TO END WALKOUT

Copper Strike Hitting U.S. Mobilization Drive

Denver, Aug. 28 — (AP) — A county-wide strike of copper workers continued today while President Truman and federal officials awaited union replies to their appeal for an end to the walkout.

Defence officials said the strike was hitting the United States mobilization drive at its weakest point since copper is the scarcest of war metals. The strike also affects zinc, lead and silver production.

The leader of 38,000 striking international mills, mill and smelter workers (ind.) told reporters in Washington last night that the strike, which began yesterday, would be called off "unless and until" the government agrees the industry to accept a federal proposal for ending the wage dispute.

The U.S. conciliation service has proposed that the companies raise wages 18 cents an hour and increase pension benefits an additional 4½ cents to settle the strike. The I.U.M.M.S.W. said that is acceptable to them. Present wages ranges from $1.31 for service laborers to $1.49 for miners.

The I.U.M.M.S.W. was expelled from the C.I.O. on charges its leaders follow the communist line. In addition to the 38,000 I.U.M.M.S.W. workers, there are 3,400 members of the United Mine Union (A.F.L.) in Utah who joined in the walkout. The I.U.M.M.S.W. has warned railroad members of the Railroad Brotherhoods were respecting their picket lines.

Maintenance Men on Duty

Maintenance workers at the 50 strike-bound plants in 13 states remained on duty in preparation for a quick reopening of operations, the union said last night.

President John Clark of the I.U.M.M.S.W. said the telegrashed return-to-work request from the wage stabilization board had not been received last night. He said "we want to co-operate with government agencies involved in this matter but it must be consistent with the interests of our membership and of the general welfare."

"We are willing to accept, of course, agree to call off our strike if we find until we receive assurances from the government that it will press for acceptance by the companies of the federal proposal for settlement of the dispute."

The four major companies affected by the strike are the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, Phelps Dodge Corporation, Kennecott Copper Corporation, American Smelting and Refining Company and their subsidiaries.

New York, Aug. 28 — (AP) — Mrs. Alice Hall, 70, and her 49-year-old son were found dead of carbon monoxide in their parked automobile in a garage and police said the case apparently was a double suicide. The victims were identified as Mrs. Clara Manz and William Manz.

Accused Soldier Denies Throwing Grenade Which Killed Three Koreans

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 28 (CP) — Pte. Glen Roland Blank of Winnipeg testified at his court martial trial today that he did not throw a hand grenade the night a grenade killed three South Korean civilians and injured 16 of Chung Woon.

Blank 37, is on trial before a military judge-general and 13-officer court martial on charges of murder. He is accused of murder of Lieut. Ee Chong Sung, one of three South Koreans killed in the explosion.

The prosecution rested its case today.

Lt.-Col. J. A. Hutchins of Montreal, defence counsel, announced that the case be dismissed, saying there were no grounds for charges against Blank.

The court disallowed the motion.

Pte. Alan Roy Montgomery Davis, 24, of Vancouver, and Pte. Kenneth Samuel Gibson, 22, of Ottawa, also have been charged with Ee's murder and are to be tried later.

Hutchins called Blank as the first defence witness.

Blank testified that to the best of his knowledge he did not leave his tent area at the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry camp that night. He said he was certain he did not throw a grenade.

Blank said March 17 was a holiday among the Princess Patricias to celebrate the birthday of Princess Patricia, honorary colonel of the regiment. There were sports and a great deal of drinking in the rest camp, he said.

Blank said he drank part of a bottle of rum, two bottles of beer, a few shots of gin and a mixture of "canned heat, lemon juice and sugar."

Blank said witnesses who had testified he went to the farmhouse were mistaken. He said he did not know anyone who could account for his actions during the night.

Col. W. C. Dick of Regina, president of the court, asked Blank how he could be so certain he did not throw a grenade when he seemed to have a complete lapse of memory about events of the night.

Transport Expert Needed to Avoid Shipping Crisis

Heavy Western Crops Strain Facilities Says Chevrier

Ottawa, Aug. 28 — (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier said in an interview today that he will ask the cabinet to appoint a transport controller and a deputy to avert a grain transportation crisis in the west.

He described the situation as an "emergency" and said the recommendation likely will go before cabinet on Wednesday, and that a decision may be announced Thursday.

Mr. Chevrier said that if cabinet approves, the man selected for the job will be one who has dealt with the "grain movement problem all his life." He declined to disclose whom he had in mind.

Will Get Full Powers

Asked whether such an appointment would alleviate the shipping shortage, the transport minister replied:

"I anticipate the transport controller will be given all the powers necessary to handle the situation."

Observers believed that if the cabinet approves the recommendation—and it appeared almost certain—it would mark the first time in peacetime history that Canada has had a transport controller.

The cabinet announcement may be made following a meeting of a special committee of government and commercial shipping and grain officials who have been attempting to alleviate the shortage during the summer months.

Record Wheat Crop

The committee, under the chairmanship of J. C. Eamans, deputy transport minister, meets here Thursday.

Canada will harvest a record 382,000,000 bushels of wheat this year. On top of this will be heavy crops of course grains—oats, barley, rye and flaxseed. Western storage points are heavily taxed with big surpluses of 1950 carried over from the last crop year.

LARGE NUMBER REQUIRED

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP) — The director of the labor department's women's bureau estimates that approximately 1,500,000 women "not normally in the labor force" will be required in the American defence program by the end of 1952. "The largest single addition" of women, Esther S. Miller said "are housewives and other women who do not ordinarily hold down jobs outside the home."

Ottawa Mayor Dies Suddenly Of Heart Seizure

Ottawa, Aug. 28 — (CP) — A funeral with full civic honors will be held Thurs. for Grenville Goodwin, 53-year-old mayor of Ottawa who died suddenly early today following a heart seizure.

The man who became the capital's chief magistrate last December was stricken while shopping yesterday. He was taken to a doctor's office and then to hospital where he died six hours later.

Controller Dr. Charlotte Whitton, designated by the council earlier in the year as deputy mayor, will take over the mayor's job until council chooses a new mayor.

Members of the board of control and heads of police, fire and other civic departments were notified of Goodwin's sudden death. Dr. Whitton said the mayor had been under treatment for cardiac troubles and was taking a warning from doctors to "take it easy."

"This she said, "is an incredible tragedy."

Mr. Goodwin defeated former mayor E. A. Bourque in the civic election last December after several years as a controller. At the same time Dr. Whitton, well-known social worker and writer, was elected to the board of control for the first time after a spectacular campaign for civic betterment.

Mayor Goodwin was born in Prescott, Ont., the son of a school teacher. He served with the 21st Vimy and the Somme in the First World War, he was invalided home, and later established an optical business here.

He was first elected to the board of control in 1942. Lately he had been deeply engrossed in planning for the visit of the Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh just five weeks away.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter and three sons.

New Series A-Tests Will Take Place in Nevada

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP) — A new series of atomic tests will be conducted soon in Nevada and the resultant radiation may be observed in other parts of the United States.

The Atomic Energy Commission, announcing this today, emphasized that the radiation will be only slightly above normal and far below amounts that could be harmful to human, animal or crop life.

The new tests will be carried out with the co-operation of the armed forces. But the commission said it hopes to stage a later test in Nevada to be open to press, radio and other reporters. No announcement gave no dates.

Five test blasts were touched off at the Nevada proving ground near Las Vegas last January and February.

There has been speculation that some of the Nevada tests will involve atomic artillery shells and other weapons less devastating than full-scale bombs.

Military Prowess of Red Chinese Based on Strategy of Years Ago

Bonn, Germany, Aug. 28 (AP) —A German expert on Asia reports well-read reports that the revolver of the red Chinese is based on strategy conceived 2,500 years ago.

The strategy is contained in a manual written by China's most brilliant general of ancient times Sun Fu, and a copy of it is cherished by Mao Tse-Tung, the communist leader.

Club president, Murray Davis, gave a report on the Kinsmen National convention held recently in Halifax giving the highlights of several resolutions passed at the meeting. Next year's convention will be held in Vancouver.

Shortages Delay Pool

Club member Harry Rollins gave a progress report on the community swimming pool, stating that completion of the project is still being held up by material shortages.

However the fill has been completed about the pool and there have been offers from local tradesmen to donate labor for painting and to stucco the bathhouse. Mr. Rollins said a local painter, Joe Large, had offered to paint the bathhouse, while a local firm had offered the paint. Vic Morris, local plasterer, has volunteered to supply the labor to stucco the building.

Compliments were also heard for Mr. Croll, general contractor, who was said to have done a fine job in construction of the pool and bathhouse.

With equipment shortages holding up completion of the pool no definite date has been set for the opening.

Cucumber Grown Within Bottle

In the bottling of food, William Stratton of Albert College has approached perfection.

He does not steam, boil, grind, slice, or mash his materials. He grows the article in the bottle.

The idea is simplicity itself, and yesterday he presented the finished product at the desk of the editor of this newspaper. Enclosed in a bottle slightly larger than itself was a full-grown cucumber. While this fact is not particularly exciting, it assumes more than passing interest when it finally dawns on the spectator that the bottle has a neck less than half an inch across. And yet a cucumber with a waist line almost three inches thick sits coolly inside.

Of course the answer is that the cucumber grew inside the bottle after being inserted through the narrow neck while still a sapling.

Then, when harvest time and bottling time rolled round all that was necessary to complete the home-canning operation was to pluck the vegetable from its vine, pour in vinegar, and seal.

If nothing else Mr. Stratton can claim that his food is "garden fresh."

For all you clever people who have been wondering all this time how you get the cucumber when lunchtime approaches we have only one answer. Who wants to eat a prima donna?

Death Accident Jury's Verdict In Man's Death

A verdict of accidental death resulting from 9th degree burns was returned by a coroner's jury empanelled by fire was returned Monday evening by a coroner's jury at the adjourned inquest into the death of Wilfred Ferguson, Hillcrest laborer, who died August 18th. Cause of the fire which destroyed the home and killed Ferguson was not determined.

Thirteen witnesses were called by Crown Attorney R. J. Donovan to testify at the hearing which was held before Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott. Witnesses included Dr. H. Luke, pathologist; O. P. P. Constables J. McBride, Harry Barker and R. Backhaus; Dan Boudet, Ray Keller, David Taylor, Gladyne Milson, Mrs. Edith McFall, Mrs. Audrey Hill, Norman Howard, Thos. McCoy and Frank Gardiner, official of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department.

Jurors empanelled by O. P. P. Constable E. Canning included—Fred Maund, foreman; George Dines, Reg. Dracup, Enos David and Carl Crosby.

Started Near Couch

Inspector Frank Gardiner testified that as result of his investigation he believed the fire at the Ferguson home had not originated from the electric wiring, but rather had started near where Ferguson had been resting on a couch in the living room.

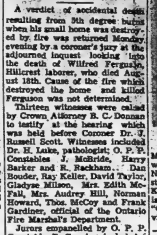
Earlier it had been brought out by witnesses that Ferguson was a heavy smoker and that he had had been a pile of newspapers and cushions resting on the floor of the room.

Gladyne Milson, who had acted as housekeeper for Ferguson, said she had put him to bed about 9 o'clock on the night of the fire "because he was drunk".

She said that she had then done the supper dishes and had then gone visit a neighbor across the road. While she was visiting at the neighbor's the fire had been discovered.

Saw Fire from Station

Ray Keller, Hillcrest, told of seeing the fire from the C. N. R. station. When he arrived at the scene he had been told that Ferguson was in the bedroom. He grabbed an axe and chopped an opening but the room was empty.



David Taylor, now four driver, told of assisting to pull away the wall of the burning home and of discovering a body resting on a couch in the living room.

Police told of finding a rifle at the side of the couch ruins. On question by the Crown Attorney Miss Milson said the rifle had been hanging over the couch. Mr. Gardiner said the rifle had not been fired and there was no shell in the chamber.

Bug Goes 'Bugs' Over Lady 'Bug', Crawls in Ear

Even the bugs around Exhibition Park go into reversal of form during a baseball game.

A lady fan who is "bugs" about the game found to her cost last night that one of the bugs was "bugs" about her.

In fact, the winged cuss was so enamored of the gal, it crawled into an ear to have a between-innings nap.

But the trouble started when it attempted to back out by a spot of fresh air. Its reverse gear was not working.

Summoning Bubby's efforts and those of fellow fans to remove the "critter" were futile.

She was taken downtown where a doctor removed a large moth from the cranial cabin, little the worse for its experience.

Spilled Gas Catches Fire, No Damage

Spilled gasoline on the basement floor which caught fire, when the stove upset caused a run for the belleville fire department to the home of Mrs. F. J. Leach, five miles west of the city on the Trent Road, this morning. The blaze was out before arrival of the firemen.

Mrs. Leach told firemen, that she was heating water for washing on a gasoline stove in the basement. The stove failed to work properly and gasoline spilled onto the floor and caught fire.

No damage was reported as the blazing gasoline on the concrete floor of the basement was extinguished before it caught into any woodwork.

Unplanned Target Test Upsets Bombardiers' Aim

Targets of the 34th Battery RCA, might be safe from harm this season, if the units bombardiers do not sharpen their shooting eyes.

They fired on targets of the unforseen unplanned test the other day.

The bombardiers were laying a floor in the gunners' mess in the Bridge Street armouries.

A mouse suddenly appeared from nowhere and scampered around the mess room.

Bombardier L. Potts picked up a broom and heaved a mighty swipe at the tiny invader. He missed.

Bombardier Tom Deschote grabbed a hammer and smote a mighty blow at the rodent. He missed.

Bombardier "Red" Herman snatched up a trusty axe ten army pool and hurled it at the little fellow. He missed.

Finally the three "monsters" armed with a griddle and converged in mass formation on the intruder.

Bombardier Potts with a flying tackle seized the mouse by the tail—and that's the end of the story.

We do not need a special day,
To bring you to our minds,
For the days we do not think of you,
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were ours to give,
And gold we had to spare,
We'd spend it all to see you live,
Once more and always be near.
—Ever remembered by sister Evelyn and family. A38

Grain Harvesting Progressing Well

Toronto, Aug. 28 (CP)— The Ontario Agricultural Department reported today that harvesting, delayed last week by rain in several sections of the province, is progressing satisfactorily.

Southern counties, the weekly crop report added, have in most cases completed grain harvesting.

Although canning factories are busy in most counties, the department reports that tomato crop is not ripening as fast as expected. In most other southern Ontario counties however, the tomato crop is up to standard.

Frontenac county in eastern Ontario reports periodic rains are making harvesting almost impossible. Stinking smut or bunt has reduced the yield of fall wheat in Leeds county.

Blight in potatoes is reported in several sections.

Victoria county reports the yield of oats and mixed grain is well above average and of excellent quality.

Competent harvest help is scarce in some sections.

CALL VISIT OFF IS CLAIM

London, Aug. 28. (Reuters)—The King shouldn't be expected to visit Australia next year because of the strain on his health, Lt.-Col. M. Lipton, a Labor member of parliament, said in an address last night.

"The public doesn't always realize what heavy demands are made upon the physical and mental endurance of people in public life," he said.

"I don't think, for example, the King should be expected to undertake the arduous task of visiting Australia in February.

Swiss Consul Gives Illustrated Talk to Rotary

"Switzerland, a Democratic Way of Life," was the topic of an illustrated address by Anton R. Lendi at the Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon.

Mr. Lendi is the Swiss Consul in Toronto, and is making a tour of Canada, visiting Belleville on his way to Montreal. He came to Canada after being educated in Switzerland. He served as an intelligence officer in the Canadian army for five years during the last conflict, joining the consular staff upon discharge.

The speaker pointed to his native land as an example of democracy. Located in the heart of Europe, its total size does not exceed that of Vancouver Island. One third of the country is taken up by mountains, timber and water areas and yet it has a population of over four million souls.

Has No Mines

"There are no mines within its borders," he said, "necessitating the import of gold, iron, copper, silver and many other raw materials. Yet there is no hardship. Switzerland is a great paradox where despite the lack of many essentials, the inhabitants maintain a high standard of living."

"An example of this," stated Mr. Lendi, "is the watchmaking industry. Fifty years passed ago, the Swiss started making watches and their component parts. Today, 80 percent of all the world's watches originate in Switzerland. The excellent workmanship and craftsmanship go into every one of the 120 different parts that go to the ordinary timepiece. And like the watch, Switzerland is an example of supreme quality, with every part working smoothly in a co-ordinated effort. This is the secret of prosperity."

Great National Unity

"Switzerland, although one of the smaller nations of the world, is the last great nation of today. Greatness is not defined by its size but by its contribution to humanity. Within Swiss borders live four different nationalities: Italian, German, French, and Romonsch being spoken. There is a great unity, a great common bond of human freedom among the people."

"Although there are two distinct church groups," Mr. Lendi continued, "there is no disunity in spite of the national and lingual groups. They are just as anxious to uphold the rights of the minority."

To those pessimists of the world who proclaim there is no hope for world peace," he said in conclusion, "there is hope."

The fortress Chateau de Chillon. The speaker was thanked by Rotarian Rev. Jack Creeggan for one of the most interesting addresses to be heard by the local club.

Guests were present from Ft. Pierce, Fla.; Moose Jaw, Sask.; Wilkensburg, Pa., Montreal, Peterborough, Trenton and the city.

Birthday roses were presented to Rotarians Harold Mott, Jack Sprague and Mac Haig.

THE LESSON MAY HOLD

Among all the comments on the truce talks at Kaesong the most surprising are those which run to this effect. Why try to come to an agreement with the communists when they obviously won't keep an agreement a moment longer than it suits their purpose asks the Christian Science Monitor.

Few people these days seem to think back to the Berlin airlift. That essentially defensive operation was aimed against one form of Soviet aggression, no less crucial because it was economic rather than military. It was possible to argue at the time that an agreement on the issue would leave things just where they were at the start, with Russia in a position to renew the embargo whenever wanted.

Yet in the perspective of time it can be seen that the airlift did achieve a victory. It may have marked the whole turning of the tide in Europe, and at the very least has gained several years of grace for western rearmament. Of course, the Russians have made plenty of trouble in Berlin since they could split the air lift issue wide open any time they wanted; and no one but the naive is likely to think they have been held back by abstract considerations of honoring their word rather than by the concrete cost of breaking it. Nevertheless, the conclusion of the Berlin airlift did mark a limited but real victory for the West.

So with Korea. Any truce agreement worth anything will require rights of inspection to prevent the mounting of new aggressions in North Korea. A post-truce period in that area will offer innumerable hazards and opportunities for fresh trouble. Yet the communists already have learned the heavy cost of breaking earlier agreements in regard to Korea. The lesson may hold.

"THE KEY TO PROGRESS"

(Montreal Gazette)

Nearly a year ago an address was delivered by Dr. G. C. Allen, professor of economic science in Liverpool University, before the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Most of the addresses delivered before this venerable association are of interest only to specialists in science. But in his address Prof. Allen developed a theme of very wide interest. His address, which was much commented on at the time it was delivered, has now been published as a pamphlet.

Prof. Allen was not concerned with politics or government policies. But he was discussing the conditions on which continuing economic progress depends.

Said Prof. Allen: "The rise in material wealth depends not so much upon steady progress in turning out familiar things . . . as upon the discovery of new ways of producing those things and even of producing new things to produce. . . . The key to progress is held by the man who is capable of effecting novel combinations of resources, often for the creation of fresh classes of goods."

Prof. Allen supported his theme with much technical learning, from a scientific point of view. But it is evident that this theme does have direct relation to governments and government policies. If change and novelty are the very sources of progress, it must follow that a nation will increase its wealth according as the government encourages the ingenuity, and the freedom, and the incentive to do old things in new ways.

The real danger, it would seem, is that the general trend of government policies is in the opposite direction. Government planning has its important place. But it is very difficult to plan originality into existence, while restricting competition, fostering bureaucracy, and penalizing initiative by progressive taxation. On the whole, the enlargement of governmental policies is more concerned with systematizing and regulating the familiar than risking and welcoming the unfamiliar.

If what Prof. Allen says is true, it is hard to see that such policies hold "the key to progress."

GAMBLED IN MUSTARD

(Sudbury Star)

News reports tell of the death of Frederick Stanley Pease, 81-year-old farmer at Milk River, Alta., who last year undertook a crop gamble and became the "Mustard King" of Northern Alberta.

Farming 10 sections of land in the Milk River district, Mr. Pease, with his sons, reasoned that people like mustard with their hot dogs, and proceeded to plant 1,700 acres in mustard seed.

The land was planted in three and one-half days, and Mr. Pease then sat back to reap the benefit of his crop — a yield of approximately 600 pounds an acre, which produced a crop value of approximately $56,000.

COTTAGE FOR SALE

For sale: The summer cottage where the children used to play.
It has served its happy purpose,
but the need has passed
away.
The children now are married and have youngsters of their own,
And I wouldn't hold a cottage
I must occupy alone.

It's a comfortable cabin; one with everything equipped.
It is chief of the bungalows that it knew, I leave it stripped.

I will sell the chairs and tables and the beds in which to sleep
And the curtains and the pillows, but the memories
I'll keep.

Where we once were all united, now no longer can we be.
The children plan their future as long ago did we.
And it's right it should be that way. So, I'm on my way to sail
A sign upon that cottage,
with these simple words:
"For Sale."

Proud Creations Of Car Industry Take Spotlight

Toronto, Aug. 23 (CP)—The Canadian National Exhibition, moving into its fourth day today, is showing signs of settling down to a regular stride.

Crowds which the officials estimated might reach the 300,000 mark poured through the mechanical building—with its "robot" and electrical day—admiring the snappy new European and American cars and the intricate displays of machinery and home appliances.

Sports events included dart and archery tournaments, and an international air meet drew a full competition. A Canadian team, last year's winner, is defending the trophy against cadets from Scotland and the United States.

Yesterday was children's day. In some ways it was the most exciting day to date at the big show" with a brazen $223 robbery and an accident during the "Hell Drivers" automobile stunt performance in front of the grandstand.

Just before closing time two men walked into Waller's Cafeteria and told Mrs. Lucy Tse, cashier, they wanted to see her in the kitchen.

There, the men calmly scooped $822 from the cash register, sauntered out and disappeared.

Driver Badly Cut

In front of the grand stand, driver Chuck Breit of Miami Beach, Fla., was badly cut about the face when his car overturned.

He was performing an act in which one automobile rears up on two rear wheels and on a second auto 46 feet away. Breit's car swerved on the second and crashed the side of the parked auto.

In yesterday's Canadian Amateur swimming championships Vivian King, 20, and George Bevan, 18, both of Winnipeg, were the heads and most amateur championships.

Bruno Peikin, 16, of Sobcaygeon, Ont., won the boys' Canadian closed water skiing championship and Norma Cutts, 15, also from Sobcaygeon, won the women's closed championship.

Canada won the Babson International sailing trophy after piling up 9,000 points and placed in the first five matches against U. S. rivals.

MOODS

Do you indulge your moods? Some people are more moody than others, but everyone experiences the ebb and flood of emotional tides. It is only those individuals whose moods come one hour are at flood tide and at the next ebb tide who have a real problem in the matter of mood.

Whether we like it or not, self-control is a must in the lives of successful men. We think we get great satisfaction in "blowing off our top," in brooding over fancied injuries, in thinking about our failures and pitying ourselves for them. But there is no happiness in this sort of nonsense, all of which is the result of diseased moods.

emotions. Our moods, when they are normal, reflect either a satisfactory or unsatisfactory state of body or mind. When nothing has gone too grotesquely, when they stand out on a man like an oversized nose on the absent-minded face, then they are abnormal. Moods are all right as long as we keep them in hand. They are not bad when they get out of hand.

How can we manage them? Self-analysis—that is standing outside our problems and asking ourselves just what they really are—is helpful. A few moments of quietness, and above all quietness interspersed with prayer, are also helpful procedures for people who are continually ravaged by their moods.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Self-importance gives a certain set to the mouth in both men and women, by the time they are mid-thirty. Of all our features, we must be most watchful of our mouths.

Our eyes are under almost constant control. We can make them hard or soft, banal or cunning, by suit our moods of the moment. But the mouth slowly and surely takes on a build and style that cannot be controlled. Years of unconscious habit form it into a revelation of what the inner character is. It is always with astonishment that we notice our mouths in candid-camera shots and unstudied snaps. It doesn't look like the mouth we see in our mirrors at all.

Knowing this, many of the oriental races require that their womenfolk cover the lower half of their faces, allowing the eyes free rein. The result is that, with the tell-tale mouth hidden, the eyes have the vivacity and expressionless quality of squirrel's eyes. It is an interesting reflection that in the early stages of the growth and construction of the Greek and Roman empires, men wore beards as the statuary shows. But in the height and decline of those empires, the men were shaven. In the Victorian Age, which was the peak of the expansion of the British empire, beards were universal. Then we shaved. And look at us.

A big executive once told me that he will never do important business with a man who has a cigar in his mouth. A cigar distorts and to some extent conceals the mouth.

If we have the type of mouth that is a snitch and a tattle-tale we should do our business over the telephone. That is easier than growing a beard.

Letter to the Editor

Criticism Is Not An Attack

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Being a constant reader of your paper and very interested in the valuable service that you render to the people of the city of Belleville and the surrounding community I feel very apprehensive of your attack on labor unions in your editorial on Friday, entitled "Frivolous Demands Hurt Labor."

The first place it is very doubtful if either you or I, at this distance, know very much about the facts which exist between the John Morrell and Company and its employees, and this is borne out by the fact that you do not give your readers any information in this regard.

I have no connection with either the Packinghouse Workers of America or the C.C.L. I should point out to you that the object of Labor Unions is to better the lot of their members and their families and to some extent all the people and it is not intended in any way to humiliate their employers. A very old motto of my union is "A Fair Day's Work for a Fair Day's Pay."

It is quite considered frivolous for a farmer in this country to give as part of a contract with his employee, a free house, milk, vegetables or a plot, etc., and this in an industry where labor unions are not practically unknown, and it might be considered outrageous for a manufacturer in charge his employees more for his product than he receives from his customers. I believe that if this would be the case were a meat packer to charge more per pound for meat. A lot of evidence can be produced to refute the president's statement that he has been converted from "Slave Driver" to "Friend."

I am presenting you with a copy of the August Journal of The Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of Way Employees and I would respectfully draw your attention to "Your and Prices," page 2, and "Editorial" on page 3 with regard to same. A lot of evidence can be produced to refute some of this information to your readers as most unions are aware of the conditions of their unions and the conduct of their officers.

—R. Woodward

Mr. Woodward need not feel apprehensive about "your attack on labor unions." The editorial was a criticism only of the demands put forth by the union. It took issue with the demands for pay which were, five weeks and so forth because it was felt these were frivolous and unwarranted.

The articles in the Journal which the letter writer suggested we read had no bearing on the issue. One dealt with the demand for price controls in the United States and the other, with Westbrook Pegler for his criticism of union leadership while the other dealt with the president's editorial dwelt on the need for stabilization of employment or employment security in railway industry.

We feel labor unions have done and are doing splendid work but demands such as in the case of the Company are definitely not in the best interests of labor.

—The Editor.

Former Chairman Favors Lifting Ban on Selling

Toronto, Aug. 23 (CP) — C. P. Morgan Ontario chairman of the Ontario Securities Commission, would like to see it made possible for stock salesmen to go around ringing doorbells and offering securities on a house-to-house basis.

"Insurance salesmen and lawyers and others are free to make house calls," he told the Ontario Legislature's Crime Committee yesterday. A lot of evidence can be produced to refute the president's statement that he has been converted from "Slave Driver" to "Friend."

A REAL HEART TONIC

A businessman who is old enough to have had some experience writes:

"I had a coronary thrombosis 6 years ago. Have been taking the B vitamins with iron and manganese as you suggest in your booklet on cardiovascular degeneration" (the booklet, titled C V D, deals with heart-and artery conditions, is available on request if you enclose 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope) "for the past four years. I regard this as life saving and I am sure it has done me more good than the hundreds of dollars spent for all kinds of medicines and other vitamins. I am truly grateful for your column . . .

For years I have been making avail of every opportunity to proclaim that, by any judgment, an optimum daily ration of the B vitamins, that is, the vitamin B complex as the group is known in nature or measured quantities of B1 (thiamine), B2 (riboflavin), niacinamide (nicotinic acid), calcium pantothenate etc., combined, with a wee pinch of iron gluconate and manganese, is more efficacious than any medicinal heart tonic, insofar as there is only heart tonic we have.

A tonic is anything that tones muscle tissues, improves their function. The B vitamins tone the gastro-intestinal canal, improve peristalsis and digestion. They tone the heart and liver walls of the arteries, improve circulation.

The disease, beriberi, is widely prevalent in America in a mild form, although seldom recognized as a nutritional deficiency state because physicians in America are mighty unaware of the chief source of calories in the American diet is refined white flour and refined white sugar, foods which contain neither vitamins nor minerals which are required to prevent beriberi. One of the features of beriberi is heart weakness.

I advise you to supplement your inadequate everyday diet with at least three times as much B1 and the other vitamins of the complex as those listed above. Its cities consider essential to prevent

A BOOKLET

Dad, 55, has always consumed his share of liquor but the last three years has come home intoxicated three or four nights a week. His mental faculties are failing and I am most concerned about the effect on my little daughter. Can you tell me of a booklet that will help me to understand how to go about booking the family intake of vitamin B complex.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Troubles That Never Happen

Ten years ago a physician of high professional standing gave me massive doses of vitamin D for my colds. Lately I read in (a popular magazine) that such doses of vitamin D damage the liver, kidneys, heart and blood vessels. (Mrs. W.)

Answer—Unpsychotically, maybe. Actually, however, evidence to date accumulated from enormous amounts of vitamin D is questionable. Your present good health is evidence that the vitamin D in your case did no harm. You do not say whether your arthritis is better or worse than it was before you took the vitamin D. In any event, I do not believe any one can be injured in any way by taking less than 5000 units of vitamin D daily for a year, more or less.

Booze Breaks Up Home

Dad, 55, has always consumed his share of liquor but the last three years has come home intoxicated three or four nights a week. His mental faculties are failing and I am most concerned about the effect on my little daughter. Can you tell me of a booklet that will help me to understand how to go about breaking up the habit.

Answer—Such scoffing is one of the characteristic symptoms of addiction. It might help the saving of your homes if you can persuade your dad, in a friendly way, to communicate with an Alcoholics Anonymous group in your vicinity. Look in telephone directory or write A. A. TODAY'S TALK

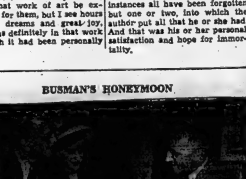
PERSONAL SATISFACTION

We would all be happier human beings if we took more satisfaction than we do out of doing things for the pure pleasure of doing them. If, for instance, I paint someone, or make a gift to him, that does not mean that I should thumb print on the great master upon it. He might have sold a tiny fragment of his work as well! Great artists put themselves into all that they do.

I love to look upon the early creations of the pioneers and colonial people, who made things to last, for they had to, and so they put themselves into all that they made and did. How we prize the early furniture of people when they took the time to make it artistic and substantial, so that today it is a thing of beauty.



In literature it is interesting to note that those books, that have lasted through the years, have been the few creations of those who wrote them. In many single instances all have been forgotten but one or two, into which the author put all that he or she had. And that was his or her personal satisfaction and hope for immortality.

The late George Grey Barnard, who was commissioned once to repair a portion of the painting of Michaelangelo in the Sistine Chapel, One day, toiling away, he suddenly found on a small fragment in a little box that he prized because it had the thumb print of the great master upon it. He might have sold a tiny fragment of his work as well! Great artists put themselves into all that they do.

Labor Manifesto Says Britain's Duty Is to Preserve World Peace

London, Aug. 28 — (CP) — The Labor party's high command has reaffirmed that peace is its No. 1 priority.

"Our first duty is to save world peace — no other aim can take priority over that," the party's executive committee said in the opening sentence of 3,000 — word manifesto released last night.

Thus, from the start, the committee laid down an official line which makes no pretence of concealing differences of opinion within the party.

In effect the statement is an answer to a left-wing rebel group, headed by former cabinet minister Aneurin Bevan, which argues that Britain's three - year armament program is bigger than it should be.

In reply, the policy document says the arms bill cannot be changed unless the world situation changes too, and adds that the cost of preventing war will be just a fraction of what would be needed to win it.

The Bevan group has already urged its opinions in a pamphlet entitled "One Way Only," which contains two main ideas: Arms comes aren't the only way to fight communism, and anyway Russia is over-rated. This document was sharply criticized by the majority of British newspapers, but Bevan and his supporters plan to return to the fray with a new pamphlet called 'Going Our Way.'

This, the rebels say, will answer all the criticisms heaped on them. It may also take some of the play away from the official party statement, which comes up for discussion at Labor's annual meeting in October.

Party Secretary Morgan Phillips explaining the statement at a press conference, said it is no answer to "pamphleteers" referring to Bevan and his left - wing group.

Apart from its insistence on the need for rearmament, the statement gives three hints of future labor policy:

Price-controls will be strengthened if needed, extended; the monopolies commission will be expanded; food subsidies and rent control will continue; the greatest sacrifices should continue to be borne by those with large unearned incomes.

Six Convicted Of Plotting Assassination

Amman, Jordan, Aug. 28—(AP) —A special military court today sentenced to death six men of plotting the assassination of King Abdullah. Four other defendants were found not guilty and freed.

The six convicted are: Col. Abdullah El Tel, former governor of Jerusalem; Mousa Ahmed El Ayoubi, Dr. Mousa Abdulla el Husseini, Aled Mahmoud Okkeh, Zakrula Mahmoudng Okkeh and Abdel Kader Farahat.

The court handed down a not guilty verdict for Father Ibrahim Ayyad, Roman Catholic secretary of the Latin Patriarchate in Jerusalem; Kamel Abdullah el Kalouti, cattle dealer and the brothers Tewfik Salah el Husseini and Dr. Daoud el Husseini.

Defense lawyers for the four contended during the trial that the prosecution had failed to prove they had any connection with the killing of Abdullah by a young Moslem tailor in Jerusalem last month.

MEMBERSHIP INCREASED

London, Aug. 28 — (AP) — A German Methodist Bishop reported last night that Methodist Church membership has increased 41 per cent in the Russian zone of Germany in the last five years. Bishop J. W. Ernst Sommer, head of the church in Germany, said there were some Sunday schools in the Russian zone which had an average attendance of more than 1,000.

Harriman Thinks Iranian Oil Crisis Can be Settled

London, Aug. 28 — (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's special negotiator in the Anglo-Iranian crisis, said today the present cooling off period may lead to a settlement satisfactory to both countries.

"I believe a solution is possible" he told a press conference at the United States Embassy. "A cooling off period may be valuable."

"The next move is up to Iran," Harriman said.

Harriman said he has not discussed with Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh the possibility of Russia being attracted to intervene in Iran by the richness of the oil fields. But he has talked over with Iranian officials the danger of Iran's communist party being a means of Russian penetration.

The American negotiator said the talks between the Iranian government and Richard Stokes, Lord Privy Seal in the British cabinet, "improved the atmosphere" surrounding the negotiations.

This atmosphere, he said, "provides a sound basis for future negotiations and eventual settlement."

All-Day Battle Rages in Hills North of Yanggu

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 28 (CP) —An all-day battle raged today in the rain-soaked hills north of Yanggu on the east Korean front.

The rest of the front, which had flared with increasingly-heavy shelling Monday, quieted under low clouds that often obscured entire ridgelines.

Rain and mist dampened the entire battle lines. Ground activity was limited to sporadic artillery, barrages and scattered fights between patrols. Most planes were grounded.

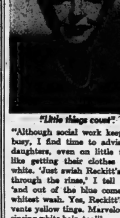
Reds took advantage of the weather to slip small groups of infantrymen into positions north of Yanggu for assaults on allied positions. The communists troops attacked at 9 a.m. (7 p.m. EDT Monday). By noon two reinforced companies were trying to crack United Nations positions. The attack was in the same general area where a red force Monday forced U.N. troops back nearly two miles. The fight lasted until nightfall.

Yanggu is seven miles north of the 38th parallel.

Ships of a U.N. task force shelled the Kojo coast consecutive day with communist shore batteries hidden in the cliffs near Wonsan.

The U.S. destroyer Hopewell covered 10 direct hits in its action on a communist bivouac area. Communist fire came close but did not damage any of the allied ships.

On the west coast, the British frigates Mounts Bay and Morecambe Bay steamed up the Han River estuary to shell communist troops and big gun positions near Pungdongni, headquarters said.



190 SUSPECTS HELD

Jakarta, Indonesia, Aug. 27/—(AP)—Military police have arrested 100 more suspected subversives, bringing the total to 2,000 jailed in three weeks. About 90 of those picked up yesterday were members of the Masjumi Moslem party—Indonesia's biggest government group. It was the first time all suspects arrested were not left-wingers. Eighteen members of parliament have been jailed. Three have been freed.

July Trade Shows First Surplus In Seven Months

Ottawa, Aug. 28 (CP)—Canada put on a big successful export drive in July to gain her first monthly trade surplus in seven months.

The Bureau of Statistics Monday reported that exports outpaced imports by $7,800,000, pulling down the total, over-all deficit for the seven months of 1951 to $332,000,000 from $339,800,000.

Both imports and exports were at record highs for the month. Shipments to the United States jumped by $34,200,000 to $264,400,000 from $170,100,000 in July last year.

A bigger surprise was a sharp climb in exports to Britain. Shipments rolled to $74,100,000, double the $35,300,000 of a year ago. It was the highest monthly total in three years.

Exports to all other Commonwealth countries increased to $27,000,000 from $18,400,000, and to all other foreign countries to $72,800,000 from $53,200,000.

These heartening boosts brought total exports for the month to $378,000,000, an increase of about $122,000,000 from $256,700,000 last year.

Imports, still buoyant, were more in line with exports, totalling $370,200,000, a $111,200,000 boost from $250,500,000 in 1950.

This gave Canada a small surplus of $7,800,000.

The deficit in monthly trade, a sharp reversal of continuous deficits in the first six months of 1951.

Purchases from all other Commonwealth countries jumped $16,000,000 to $38,000,000 from $22,000,000, and from all other foreign countries increased by $18,000,000 to $52,700,000 from $34,200,000.

New Aluminum Project Biggest In the World

Arvida, Aug. 28—(CP)—McNeely Dubose, vice-president of the Aluminum Company of Canada said last night the company's new aluminum project at Kitimat, B.C., "will be the biggest thing we have ever tackled."

He told a group of visiting British Columbia newspapermen the initial production of the plant, 80 air miles from Prince Rupert, will be 80,000 tons a year. Its set mid--1954 as the probable date for production of the first ingot.

Mr. Dubose said he expected the population of the B. C. town would expand as did Arvida which had increased by 50,000 persons in 26 years. He said settlements for land to be flooded in the Ootsa Lake district were proceeding.

Ultimate annual aluminum production at Kitimat will be comparable to and perhaps in excess of the 340,000 tons now produced at Arvida, the vice-president said.

Prague Radio Answers Critics

London, Aug. 28—(Reuters)—Prague radio, commenting on American reaction to the jailing of Associated Press correspondent William Oatis, said last night there is "complete freedom of information" in Czechoslovakia but "no freedom to conduct espionage."

Oatis was recently sentenced to 10 years' for "espionage"—a sentence which has been blasted throughout the United States and the west in general as a frameup.

The Czech radio broad here, said the U. S. was using the case as a pretext for its intention to set relations with the Soviet Union and the "people's democracies."

Little Benny's Note Book

I was drinking my milk this morning, and I said, Heck, goan saang ue suck.

What I mgr, and, did you swallow a vitamin? pop said, and I said, No sir, I just remembered I saw a shooting star last nite. Just before I went to sleep It shot right past my window clear across the sky, I said.

Goodness, is that such an utter clammity? ma said, and pop said, It's a clammity if you dont wish on it, and I said Benny was too sleepy to make a wish.

No sir, I made a wish all rite, I said, and ma said, Then where is the calamnity?

I was too sleepy to remember what wish I wished, that's where the calamnity lie, I said. Heck, the wish is libel to come true and I wont even pay any attention to it because I wont remember I wished it on a shooting star, so I wont even feel lucky. Heck, I said, and pop said, Now I just relax and I'll try to refresh your memory. You probably wished for something constructive, such as perfect report cards all during the coming school term, he said,

No sir, I dont think that was it, I'm almost sure it wasn't, I said, and ma said, I'll just bet I know. You wished you would develop a real liking for all the things that are good for you, especially salads, she said.

I know darn well that wasn't it, I said. G, hurraw, now I remember, and you were both party rite, it was something useful, only I cant tell you exactly what it was because it wont come true, if I tell what ti was, I said.

The result being I didn't tell them I wished by hair would change its habits and stop standing up straight so soon after I brush it down.

WEDDINGS

CORRIGAN—McKENNY

The Church of St. Charles Borromeo was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, August 4, when Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent McKenny, became the bride of Bernard William Corrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Corrigan. Rev. T. E. Briceland officiated at the Nuptial Mass. Adrian Corrigan and Ronald Cronin were ushers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over satin with inserts of nylon net in the skirt, fashioned with a jacket of matching lace with long sleeves ending in points over the wrists. Her full-length veil fell from a halo of lace matching that of the gown. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of American beauty roses and baby's breath.

Miss Mary McKenny was her sister's bridesmaid, wearing a gown of pale blue nylon marquisette over taffeta fashioned with a yoke of nylon net and lace trim. She wore matching mitts and headdress. A cascade bouquet of pink carnations and baby's breath, completed her attire.

Little Linda McGuinness, niece of the bride, was flower girl, in a gown of yellow organdy with a hooped skirt, low neckline and frills over the shoulders. Her gloves and headdress were matching the dress. She carried a white basket of garden flowers.

Don McKenny and Mr. Edward Power were the ushers. Mr. William Hanley rendered the wedding music.

After the wedding a reception was held in the parish hall, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a dress of pale green crepe and white accessories and a corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, wearing a navy figured dress with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Amid showers of confetti and good wishes the happy couple left on a trip to St. Anne's and eastern points. The bride's travelling ensemble was a dress of navy nylon marquisette over taffeta with white lace trim and navy accessories and a pink feathered shortie coat, and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Upon their return the young couple will reside in Oshawa.

WHITE'S W.A.

Mrs. W. Yateman was hostess to the ladies of the White's Woman's Association on Thursday, August 23. A delightful pot-luck dinner was served at noon.

Following the dinner the president, Mrs. Dudley opened the meeting with the theme song "Let the Beauty of Jesus", followed by prayer by the Rev. A. C. McCallum.

The devotional service was in charge of Mrs. Ernest Curtis with Mrs. S. McPherson and Mrs. Curtis reading the Scripture lesson with the thought for the day "Earth's crammed with heaven and every common bush afire with God." A hymn closed the worship service followed by prayer by Mrs. Curtis.

Mrs. George Bilham read the minutes of July meeting in the absence of the Secretary, Mrs. Leonard Young. Eleven members answered the roll call. There were three visitors and four children present. Mrs. Curtis gave the treasurer's report. It was decided to pay $100 to the church treasurer. Mrs. Allen Meyers invited the ladies for a pot-luck dinner at noon in September. One member paid dues and the collection was $11.75.

Mrs. Ernest Stickle took charge of the program; Mr. McCallum read an article on the origin of the hymn "Peace Perfect Peace" and part of the hymn was sung. Mrs. R. Bonisteel gave a reading "Precepts". Mrs. Bilham read "Window Box". Another was given by Mrs. A. Jeffery. A contest was won by Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson, who received a green plastic tray. The meeting was closed with the Mizpah benediction.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Two Contradictory Sayings — Which Will You Follow?

There are two, almost familiar sayings that directly contradict each other. One of them is: "Absence makes the heart grow fonder"; the other, "out of sight, out of mind."

Although she doesn't put her problem in those exact words, the young woman who wrote the following letter is obviously wondering which of the two is going to apply in her case.

"There is a young man whom I have known for a number of years, before either of us was married. After not having seen him for a long time, and both of us having married in the meantime, he has recently come back into my life. We are both divorced now.

"Although we are fond of each other, and always enjoy each other's company, very much, he has never told me he loved me. In fact, he actually warned me against falling in love with him, telling me it would do neither of us any good, since he never intends to get married again. His previous experience is responsible for his feeling that way, which I believe he will get over some day.

"He has just enlisted in the service, and may go overseas before long, and this has upset me a great deal for I care a lot for him, though I would never let him know it, things being as they are. But what I worry most about is that he may meet somebody over feeling he has for me while he is away. He may be sent to Europe, and I know that many men, out of loneliness and homesickness, have fallen for European girls and married them.

"What I would like to know is, how can I hold his affection even though it may not be love? At least I don't forget him to forget me entirely while he is gone. Is there anything I can do besides send him letters regularly?"

Now of course there is no possible way of predicting whether all this is going to turn out to be a matter of "Absence makes the heart grow fonder," or "Out of sight, out of mind." This young woman longs for the outcome to be in conformity with the first proverb, but fears it may be the second that proves true, and either could happen.

It might well be that when there are several thousand miles of distance between these two, the man may discover that his feeling for the girl is in reality much deeper than he had realized, and she might be so fortunate as to get a letter bringing this good news. On the other hand, it wouldn't be entirely outside the realm of possibility that the underlying reason for his enlistment was that he thinks she is too interested in him and he feels it an easy way to withdraw from the situation. If this is the case, she won't be long in doubt, as any letters he may write would then become fewer and fewer and finally cease altogether.

While she's waiting to see which of these two things is going to happen, however, all she can do is write him interesting and friendly letters which will let him know that she thinks about him. She should let the tone of them be guided by his own, and avoid being overaffectionate or sentimental in what she says unless he grows warmer in his.

But if this chap goes away without saying anything whatever about love or marriage, I'm afraid that, in itself, will show pretty definitely that his interest in her is no more than a casual one. For certainly he has already had ample opportunity to declare himself if he wished to do so, and not saying does, to date, his departure would be the last logical moment.

I hope that in the absence, the girl will not concentrate on letters to him and thoughts of him, but will form new friendships and find new interests. Otherwise, if this romance is such it can be called, peters out, she'll be left high and dry.

Cleanliness, Carefulness Two Rules for Lovely Skin

When oily skin gets rough, apply cold cream to smooth it. Remove the cream and then put on a skin lotion or astringent.

By RITA ROY FOLLETT

FASTIDIOUS cleanliness is the most important part of complexion care. One mustn't forget that make-up is just the frosting on the beauty cake. Also that it avails little if the texture of the skin is coarse, if coloring is dingy or sallow. Soapsuds have a certain antiseptic quality that is helpful. In only few cases do suds cause irritation and then it may be because the special soap used is not bland enough.

The normal, healthy skin exudes through the sebaceous and sweat glands a constant, almost invisible amount of oil, moisture and chemicals. This mixture attracts and holds the dust and dirt of the air on the skin's surface; so you can well understand that there is almost no such thing as keeping the cutaneous tissues too clean. Thus of atmospheric dust will fall in a big city in a remarkably short time. And faces get part of it.

The use of soap and water may be supplemented or follow the use of a cleansing cream or oil. To be on the safe side, use a thin cream first for the removal of powder and those synthetic roses that highlight your cheeks. Do a brisk lathering. Use a soaped washcloth lightly, then pat the suds into the flesh to bring a glow. Rinse with warm water, then with cold; dry gently and friction in a heavy cream.

If the skin has a soap phobia and for most coffee one's beautifying efforts to cream alone, remove most of it with tissues, leaving a little remain until you are ready to play with the make-up box.

There seems to be an idea among girls who are afflicted with shining noses that creams are not their cosmetic dish. Yet that's just what a nose requires and needs a soothing emollient. After cream is removed, it is a wise plan to use a skin lotion or astringent. Put it on with pledgets of cotton and let it dry. Quite as important as local treatment

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

The G.I.'s in the Philippines who used flame throwers to make biscuits were on the right track.

They know that biscuit dough, like pie dough, to be flaky, should be baked in a hot oven if possible, not a moderate oven.

When making a meat pie, the topping may be either a biscuit dough or the regular pastry crust used for dessert pies.

In today's tunafish pie, grated cheese is used to flavor the pie crust. The pie filling includes cooked sliced potatoes which combine well with the full bodied flavor of the tunafish. If less starch is desired, the potatoes may be replaced with any other vegetable. Or the potatoes may be eliminated and an additional seven ounce can of tunafish added.

Tunafish Pie, Cheese Crust

Serves 4-5

3 medium size potatoes
½ cup finely chopped celery
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups hot milk
2 bouillon cubes
3 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
7 ounce can tunafish
Salt—pepper
1 1-3 cups flour
1-2 cup vegetable shortening
1-4 cup grated cheese

Peel and cut the potatoes into 1-4 inch thick slices. Boil the potatoes in salted water until just tender. Drain well. Preheat oven to 425 degrees.

Put the celery and butter in a saucepan. Simmer very slowly, stirring frequently, until celery is tender.

Remove the pan from the flame. Stir in 3 tablespoons flour. Stir in the hot milk. Add the bouillon cubes. Simmer over a slow flame, 10 minutes. Add the parsley. Break the tunafish into flakes and add to the sauce. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Put the potatoes and tunafish mixture in alternate layers in a square 8 inch baking pan or casserole.

Sift the 1 1-3 cups flour with 3-4 teaspoon salt. Cut in the vegetable shortening until pieces of shortening are the size of peas. Stir in the grated cheese. Gradually sprinkle 4 to 6 tablespoons cold water over mixture, stirring with a fork until dough holds together. Roll out dough and fit on top baking dish. Bake at 425 degrees 30 minutes or until brown.

Accessories For Blue Coats — White Flannel Trousers for Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) When, in a late-summer wedding, the men in the wedding party wear dark-blue coats and white flannel trousers, what kind of shirts and ties should they wear? (2) And who supplies the ties?

Prospective groom

(1) White shirts. Four-in-hand ties (or bow ties, if becoming to all the men), often of dark-blue background with narrow white stripes or small white design. (2) In the interest of uniformity you should supply the ties to his attendants (best man and ushers) and the bridegroom's father as well...and also gives each of these his boutonniere.

Suggestions For Boutonnieres When Men In Wedding Party Wear White Suits

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As you suggested several weeks ago in your column on "Guide to Men's Attire for Summer Weddings," by attendants (best man and six ushers) and I are going to wear all-white suits at my wedding in the church here on Labor Day. We have followed your suggestions about correct accessories. But you merely mentioned "boutonnieres," and I wondered if you would please suggest which flowers you recommend for this summer wedding? (2) Also should we wear gloves?

Francis L.

Your boutonniere should be white; if possible a few small flowers from your bride's bouquet. Your accent against the white coat, you might ask the florist to make (or to give you) a bit of green background for the white flowers, two or three very small fatherly leaves, or a bit of feathery fern. The best man and ushers (the bride's father too, if he is giving his daughter in marriage and therefore is a member of the wedding party, and also your own father) might wear as boutonnieres a very small sprig of cornflowers (of the blue of the background of design in their ties), or carnations, or asters. (2) No...no gloves.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Tired of Dyeing? Here's What to do

There are women who have been slaves to a bottle of hair dye for years. They don't live happily with the silvered threads so they had the pristine color restored. They didn't know they were giving themselves a tough sentence, that no matter what happened in the family—births, marriages or deaths—they had to trek to the beauty shop for a touch up.

Nature keeps pushing out the white shafts, and dyeing does not. The touch-up treatment must be confined to the new growth; dye applications should not overlap. But they usually do and that means that the hair gets darker and darker. Not only that, but it loses the pleasing lights and shadows of normal tresses. Nature does not tint every thread the same color, but dyeing does, and that solid shade is what gives the game away.

Some women are slaves to hair dye

So, some fine day a woman will decide that she is through with the whole business that takes time and money. She is willing at last to accept the frosted crown. What shall she do? She hates the thought of the transition period, as well she might.

One way is to have the head shaved, wear demountable hair-pieces or follow the use of a cleansing cream or oil. To be on the safe side, use a thin cream first for the removal of powder and those synthetic roses that highlight your cheeks. Do a brisk lathering. Use a soaped washcloth lightly, then pat the suds into the flesh to bring a glow. Rinse with warm water, then with cold; dry gently and friction in a heavy cream.

If the skin has a soap phobia and for most coffee one's beautifying efforts to cream alone, remove most of it with tissues, leaving a little remain until you are ready to play with the make-up box.

After cream is removed, it is a wise plan to use a skin lotion or astringent. Put it on with pledgets of cotton and let it dry. Quite as important as local treatment upon the kind of dye she has been using. The wise step is to consult a beautician who specializes in dyeing and bleaching, fess up to what you have poured upon your head, trust him do do his best. Certainly the situation is not one that can be corrected by home treatment. Misguided women have used peroxide with dismaying results.

Man is Charged With Slaying Of His Cousin

Dresden, Ont., Aug. 27 (CP) — A man who pounded to help police "get the man who murdered my buddy" was charged yesterday with murder in the strangulation-slaying of Grant Wallace, 37, his cousin.

Lyle Wallace, 33, was taken into custody at the home of his sister on the outskirts of this southwestern Ontario town. He will appear before Magistrate I. B. Craig today in Chatham, 15 miles south of here.

The body of Grant Wallace, 37-year-old Second World War veteran, was recovered 10 days ago from the Sydenham River. His head bore a mysterious bump. An autopsy substantiated suspicions that he had died violently and a second autopsy showed he had been strangled.

Three police officers launched an investigation, later questioning scores of more than a score of district residents.

One theory on which they were reported working at the outset was that Wallace had died when 24 hours before he was thrown into the river.

As the inquiry got under way, Lyle Wallace told reporters he would help in every way in their efforts to find the slayer.

Wallace's body was found strapped to the waist and standing upright near the middle of the river half a mile west of this east Kent County community.

Police said the fists closed were bent and the fists closed and only the top of the head was above water when two boys in a boat spied it.

Lost in Egg Hunt

Police said at the time that Lyle Wallace apparently was the last person to see his cousin alive.

Grant Wallace, a widower with five children, was said to have left his own home on the west-ern limits of Dresden about 8 or 9 p.m. Aug. 14. He is reported to have gone to a Dresden Hotel where he met Lyle Wallace and two other men. At midnight he left the hotel with Lyle and one of the other men went to Lyle's shanty. Lyle later told police that Grant left the shanty about 1 a.m.

Police said that Lyle quit his job Aug. 17 and, with another man, took a taxicab to Chatham to search for Grant.

Wilford Franks of the Ontario Provincial Police yesterday ordered Lyle Wallace's arrest after further questioning of a Windsor witness, who he said was one of three men seen with Grant Wallace the night of the slaying. The witness declined to speculate on a motive for the slaying.

Trouble Maker

Parlmer, Mass., Aug. 26—AP—Spud is back and the neighbors may be able to get a little sleep tonight.

A shaggy mongrel, Spud was away for three nights and police said this is his record.

Man set in front of a car and caused a two car crash in which seven persons were shaken up; got stuck in a swamp and howled all night; kept on howling the second night until Earnest Tirell found and rescued him; bet out before Tirell sit got mired in a bog and had to work for quite a while to free himself before he could save Spud.

Nice Present For Alaska Bull Moose

Cordova, Alaska, Aug. 26—(AP)—She bull moose of a transplanted herd near here has produced a fitting chance for a happier future.

The United States Fish and Wildlife Service has brought them one of the nicest presents a bunch of bull moose ever received from a beneficient government.

It's a lady moose.

For a year, the herd roll call has included six bulls and a batle. It wasn't considered a happy situation from the standpoint of either the gentlemen moose or the government agents. The latter are interested in keeping a "balance of nature" in Alaska. Roughly speaking, that's about what the bull moose are interested in, too.

Then a lady moose was thrown into the river.

As the inquiry got under way, Lyle Wallace told reporters he would help in every way in their efforts to find the slayer.

Wallace's body was found strapped to the waist and standing upright near the middle of the river half a mile west of this east Kent County community.

The lady was willing. She waded right into the plasma. It took four struggling men to push the timid male in with her.

25-Cent Haircuts Keep Barber Busy

Smyrna, N.Y. Aug. 26—(AP) A barber here has been charging half for 50 years at 25c a head.

John Widger says he has never charged more than the rock-bottom price since he set up shop.

The average price for the rest of the United States is $1 up. "I'll see no reason to change," Widger says. "I made a good living 50 years ago and I'm making a good living now."

But there is a $5-hour-day limit. Widger works from 7 a. m. to 11 p. m.with only a half hour off for lunch and a catnap.

To avert a stampede, Widger does his haircu-wielding by appointment only.

aircraft putting in an air strike. Ignored on the sidelines were the battalion commander involved, together with the major commanding the artillery battery supporting the regiment.

A battalion commander whose troops were slugging it over difficult hilly country, sweeping it from house to house, with them going with the goal of being the first United Nations troops to effect a junction as planned. A U.N. armored force had struck deep into Chinese territory, dug itself in and waited, impregnable, until advancing infantry could reach it. The Canadians were about to start on the last leg of the gap when the brigadier heard the way was open, excitedly got into a jeep in the enthusiasm of the moment, and personally effected the link-up.

Hard on Colonels

It's hard on the colonels. But the same technique paid well when he commanded the 9th Infantry Brigade in Europe during the Second World War.

Field Col. Roger Rowley of Ottawa, soon to be director of military training at Canadian Army Headquarters, is during a recent visit to the brigade.

"He chased me across half of Europe during the war and now, by gosh, he has had me climbing Korean hills."

Wellington on the Lake

Summer and the dawn is fair,
Summer and the day is bright;
Green the woods, and softly there
Whisper winds in hush of night.

Oh! the joys of summertime
Deep within the heart of man,
Summer, summer, of days sublime.

When bright summer days aft-e'er.

Summer still lingers here, although there is a hint of coming autumn in the air. The maples gold-ened in the garden and in the gathering of the swallows for their southern flight.

Dr. and Mrs. T. M. Pine, Toronto, spent a few days the guest of Mrs. Walter Nelson.

Mrs. R. Marvin attended a meeting of the Women's Institute at the home of Mrs. Sherman Foster, on Thursday, when the August meeting of the branch were guests. Mrs. Wood cane from Brighton for the event. Mrs. Joyce Benway gave an account of her trip to New York.

It recalled a Second World War story written by Alan Randal, then was correspondent for The Canadian Press and now chief of bureau in Montreal.

Randal reported that Rockingham, in a stirring six-foot-three target, was walking through a village supposedly cleared of Germans — to one of his battalion headquarters, when he was shot at.

Instead of falling flat on the ground the brig. who was carrying a loaded gun, turned and charged the enemy gun-poet. He killed two Germans and took a third prisoner.

It wasn't until the divisional information officer reported about it that the incident came to light. Then all Rocky said about it was: "It was just a matter of self-preservation. They were shooting at me, so I shot back."

Rocky's technique has so caught the fancy of British troops in the Commonwealth division that they have worked up a song about him, a parody of Nelly Bledsoe's "Hurry on Down to my House, Baby."

One verse, which they sing with good-natured apologies to U. S. army liaison officers present, runs:

"Hurry on up to the front line, Rocky,
There ain't nobody here but us Yanks.
"Hurry on up to the front line, Rocky,
"And for gosh sakes bring your tanks.
"Jump in your jeep and bring your brigade,
"And when it's all over we'll have a parade,
"Hurry on up to the front line, Rocky,
"There ain't nobody here but Yanks."

The point is — whatever the technique — it is keeping the Canadians on the hit and aggressive.

Vancouver Police Lift Bans Against Three Newspapers

Vancouver, Aug. 28—(CP)—Vancouver police have promised to make it easier for newspapers to get crime news.

Police Chief Walter Mulligan at a meeting Monday promised to lift bans recently placed on the collection of news at police headquarters.

Representatives of the three Vancouver newspapers—the Sun, the Province and the News-Herald had protested to the police commission.

Reports of crimes will be speeded up to guarantee papers full information as soon as possible after crimes are committed, the chief told newspaper men.

And, he promised, that a new press room will be built shortly.

The chief recently banned reporters from the parade room where they had previously been allowed to listen to questioning of prisoners. This ruling which remains in effect, was due to lack of room, he said.

ACCUSED

Blank replied that throwing a grenade would have brought him to his senses and that he would have remembered the incident.

Hinkelman asking that the charge be dropped, said the prosecutor, Capt. L. M. Rainsay of Amherst, N.S. had not established a prima facie case.

Hutchins said no one testified to having seen the grenade thrown.

None of the Koreans in the house identified Blank, he added.

The prosecutor argued it was not necessary to prove Blank threw the grenade. He said if a group of persons caused the death then all members of the party were guilty.

Earlier, Gibson told the court martial he heard Blank shout outside the farmhouse: "I am going to throw a grenade."

Gibson said he told Blank: "Don't be a fool, cool' throw it."

Davis told the court he recalled drinking beer at a party at the camp the night of March 17 and recalled going on a jeep ride.

He said he did not recall how many persons were in the jeep but thought he remembered two British soldiers.

Davis said he knew Blank but did not recall seeing him on the night of the party.

Pte. Donald Mitchell Gibson, 22, of Ottawa, testified he had a conversation with Blank that night but did not recall what was said. He first said the conversation was during the first jeep ride but later said it was between the first and second jeep rides. He testified he carried a weapon that night.

Objects to Questions

The defence counsel, Lt.-Col. J. A. Hutchins of Regina, objected to some of the questions put to Gibson by Capt. L. M. Ramsay of Amherst, N.S., the prosecutor, on the ground they might incriminate Gibson.

Pte. C. Beasmore of the British Middlesex Regiment who has been convicted by a British court martial of attempted rape at the farmhouse, testified he was at the drinking party on the evening of March 17 and drove the group of British and Canadian soldiers to the farmhouse.

Beasmore said he was with one of the women the soldiers found at the farmhouse when he heard an explosion. He said he left the house and drove the rest of the soldiers back to the camp.

He said he could not recall any conversation during the trip but testified that there was "a lot of singing."

Col. Hutchins told the court that he would have to consider telling Ottawa that he could not defend both Blank and Gibson.

Hutchins said he was beginning to find his position impossible.

"I have been sent here from Ottawa to defend both of these men and here is this man (Gibson) doing damage to Blank," he said.

Hutchins submitted that the evidence being given by Gibson not only was damaging to Blank, but that Gibson also was incriminating himself.

He said he felt the only way be could proceed in the trial was to ask Gibson to keep silent and answer no questions.

Failing this, he would have to consider telling Ottawa that he could not defend both men.

The court ruled that the prosecution could continue to ask Gibson questions regarding an alleged conversation with Blank.

But it ruled that Gibson need not answer a prosecution question on whether he heard an explosion as the farm house where the murder allegedly took place.

Gibson told the court he had heard Blank declare: "I am going to throw a grenade."

Gibson said he told Blank: "Don't be a fool. Don't throw it."

The first bank display ever set up at the C.N.E., the B of M booth last year attracted more than a quarter-of-a-million visitors and supplied information on Personal Planning to 27,000 of them. WIFE, DAUGHTER SAW PILOT PLUNGE TO HIS DEATH

Just 28 minutes after FIL-Lieut. Don Brown waved a cheery "Goodbye girls" to his pretty wife, Joan, 29, and his daughter, Judy, four, they saw the former air force pilot plunge to his death in a field near the Downsview, Ont., airport. Horrified witnesses saw the Vampire jet miss two homes by only a few feet as it crashed into stubble field and instantly burst into flames. Pilot's body was found about 30 feet from the tangled and twisted remains of the fuselage, seen above. — Central Press Canadian.

Toledo Brothers Face Dismissal From Their Jobs

Toledo, O., Aug. 28—(AP)—Two Toledo brothers who have worked a combined total of 45 years for the New York Central System here face dismissal from their jobs because they are conscientious objectors to union membership.

Their religious beliefs they contend, prevent them from joining the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, as required by a union shop agreement between the N.Y.C. and the railway unions.

One of the men, Cornelius Delamotte already has received notice his employment will end Sept. 5. A similar notice is expected to be sent to his brother, Charles.

Both men are members of a religious group which has no set creed and no ministers. It has been referred to as the Plymouth Brethren.

The men base their refusal to join the union on this verse appearing in St. Paul's second letter to the Corinthians, 6:14:

"Be ye not equally yoked together with unbelievers, for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness and what communion hath light with darkness."

Officials said the company is reluctant to dismiss the men but is bound by the union shop agreement.

Another Rumor Sweeps County

Brantford, Aug. 28 (CP)—Another rumor swept today through Norfolk County where in recent days options to purchase have been taken by unidentified persons on many rich tobacco farms.

Investment of thousands of dollars in options led last week to a rumor, among others, that a big aircraft industry was to be established here.

Today's story: A British company plans to purchase property on which to grow and process tobacco.

J. K. Perrott, secretary of the Ontario flue-cured tobacco marketing association, said: "nothing to it."

Italy to Demand Extradition of Two On Murder Charge

Verbania, Italy, Aug. 28. (AP) —The Verbania prosecutor formally demanded today the extradition of former U.S. Army Lieut. Aldo Icardi and former Sgt. Carlo LeDolce to stand trial in Italy for murder.

Carlo Rama, deputy judge in charge of the inquiry, said the request was sent to the Turin district Court of Appeals, which would forward it to the ministry of Justice in Rome.

The two have been named by the U.S. Defence Department as the slayers of their commander, Maj. William Holoban. Under American law they cannot be tried in the U.S. for a crime allegedly committed during the war service covered by their honorable discharge from the army.

Extradition would require approval of President Truman.

The Turin prosecutor has said if the Americans are not extradited, they will be tried here in absentia.

Icardi and LeDolce have insisted they were innocent of the charges.

Loses $1,000 Playing Cards With Strangers

St. Catharines, Ont., Aug. 28. (CP)—Abe Freissein knew better, he told police today, than to play cards with strangers after having just withdrawn $1,000 from the bank.

But he did agree, he said, to lend his roll to two new-found friends to use as chips in a two-handed poker game at a district tourist camp to which he and the men had repaired yesterday after a drink or two.

He agreed, too, he said, to "step down the road" for a basket of peaches while the men continued their game.

When he returned, the men were gone. So was his $1,000.

Freissein told police one of the men was tall, fair and skinny. The other was short and dark "and looked stupid".

TIGHTENING UP!

It was Dyers and Cleaners night here last night in baseball and softball circles.

Frankie Dyer of the Picton COB Eilers took the crisp, dizzy Redmen to the cleaners, while the Cleaner Combines dyed the Bakelite a deep blue by shellacking them 20-9 to win the right to represent the city in the OASA AA playdowns against Kingston Alcans.

The Redmen showed a startling reversal of form over that which sent the Smiths Falls Royals and the Brockville Memos for a jaunt down defeat alley. They showed their usual first-inning generosity by handing a pair of runs to the "Spaniards" but failed in their usual catch-up style when they drop-kicked, punted and dribbled the ball for no less than eight miscues.

In the meantime the Batavia Shoemen came up with their long-looked-for victory over the Brecken. They edged the league-leaders 5-7 in their own Fulford Park in a decided departure from the usual victory spiciacle staged for the benefit of the Brecken outfit faithful.

The win and loss tightens up the race for fourth place in the league standing. Balawa are breathing down the Redmen necks just one-half game in arrears. With both squads having plenty of engagements on tap, this week should almost decide who will park permanently in the coveted 4th slot. And it might end in a "crosshaul" game next Saturday.

The Redmen go to Picton tomorrow gloaming for a 8.15 tilt with the Fraser-Vincent-Chairs combine and on Thursday trek to Smiths Falls. On Saturday they are hosts to the Shoemen in a floodlight fixture.

"COME OVER TO MY HOUSE"

It could be a lot of potential topflight softball pitchers are "awaiting the verdict" on the air of Killarney, Cork, the peatbogs and the "rivers and dells" of Ould Oireland.

Over there where the River Shannon flows and the shamrocks bow green leaf-clusters to the sun as it does to the Manistique hills, makes a day a busy is doin' a spot av stone-flippin' that, unknown to himsilf, is readyin' him for a hurlin' berth across the water.

Take the case of one Patrick Deasy.

Patrick, as the only member of the softball faithful here are aware, is the Kingston Alcans' big spalpeen that twirled our Glen Roya out of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association Intermediate championship, through the use of his whirlin' stone-flippin' right arm.

Four years ago, the husky omadhaun had never seen a soft ball.

He developed his six-foot-one collection of bone and muscle through consistent use of a hurlin ball, a cricket bat, and trained his eye on knockin' the bejebers out of the wickets of opposing batsmen without takin' time off for a spot of oolong, or the dew of Killarney.

He came to Canada, became associated with Aluminum Company of Canada at Kingston, and not only aemused himself but kept the good right arm in shape by flipping stones at set - up targets.

His uncanny aim with a pebble of pea-size to a young boulder the size of a baseball drew the admiration of his pals and later the attention of softball officials.

Pal, it is said, can knock a porcupine bristle from the hide of a humming-bird at a range of 100 yards with a pebble.

His lightning-like flip delivery propels the ball practically two-thirds of the way to the plate before the batter sees it in a manner favored by many American twirlers, who probably got the idea from the Paddy who, after absorbing plenty of Irish whiskey from Dew on March 17th started knocking sparrows off a telephone wire with small stones flipped with thumb and forefinger.

In any event the Alcan laddies new plenty of possibilities in Deasy's right flipper. The lady-buck took to the game like Fig McCool's drake to a Killarney bog and in less time than you can waft the froth off a beaker of Donegal brew, he had the lesser lights of the plant teams swingin' like a highwayman's coattails in a gale.

He "graduated" from his "clam" and popped up in the blue panties and sweaters of the intermediate "A" squad. He helped his pals plenty in the city title, and Belleville's fandom knows what happened in his debut in playdown society.

Patrick is a modest laddy-buck and a brogue as broad as the beam of a Killeed tar. On the mound he is as imperturbable as an ice - cube. Heckling rolls off him like water off the well-known duck's back while the umpire's word regarding balls and strikes is let to be questioned by his battery-mate.

Quite a likeable lrisher, is Pat. More power to his divilish elbow.

MEET KINGSTON!

Speaking of the Kingston Alcans, Belleville is going to have another ex softball dust with a team of that name, this time, though, it is the Intermediate "AA" edition. Winners of the Belleville title meet the Alcans in the first round of the playdowns in Kingston on Sept. 6th with the second game here on Sept. 8th.

"THEN THERE WERE SIX"!

To prevent further dislocation of the spinal vertebrae in the cervical region on the part of wrestling referees, the powers-that-be have ordered two officials to be present at the mass-manoeuvres here Friday night. The Sharpe Brothers who were their fend with Fred Atkins and the Mask, have requested a second official so that a lot of behind-the-back skullduggery will be missing. What a brawl this should be. Especially if those retired Roberts of officialdom "Bunny" Dunlop and Bert Maxwell get the nod. Popular Timmy Geoghan, Irish strong man will be here to take on Mayes McLean, while Pat Flanagan will clash with Dangerous Dan O'Connor. A good night for the Irish all round.

Take Twin Bill From Chicago, Brooks Divide With Pirates Tribe, Yanks Idle; Tigers Lose

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

There's no evidence of panic in Brooklyn today but the citizens of Flatbush are growing uneasy over the exploits of Leo Durocher's surging New York Giants.

The Giants have climbed to within five games of the pace-setting Dodgers on the wings of a 16-game winning streak.

They ran their unbeaten streak to 18 yesterday as they took a doubleheader from Chicago Cubs 5-4 in 12 innings and 6-3, while the Dodgers split a two-night doubleheader with Pittsburgh. The Dodgers won the opener 5-0, but lost the nightcap 5-2.

While the Giants continued to make hay, the contenders in the tight American League scramble were idle. The combatants resume action today with Cleveland Indians; out in front by a game, entertaining Philadelphia Athletics while the runner-up New York Yankees are at St. Louis, the third-place Boston Red Sox at Detroit and the fourth-place Chicago White Sox at home against Washington.

The Athletics shaded Detroit Tigers 1-0 in the only American League game yesterday.

In other National League games, Boston Braves captured a twi-night doubleheader from Cincinnati Cardinals, 6-3 and 4-2, and Philadelphia Phils won a twi-night twin-bill from Cincinnati, 2-0 and 3-0.

Jansen Gets 17th

Larry Jansen posted his 17th victory for the Giants in the opener against Chicago. The Cubs pushed home a run in the top of the first inning and Sid Gordon tied in their half to pull it out.

The Giants found starter sailing in the nightcap, running up a 6-1 lead in seven innings. Rookie runs by Ed Stanky and Monte Irvin eased rookie Al Corwin to his fifth victory of an unbeaten season.

Ralph Branca turned in one of the finest pitching jobs of his career in the first game at Brooklyn. Branca had a no-hitter working until the ninth when Pete Castiglione and George Metkovich singled with two out. The victory was Branca's 12th and second straight shutout.

Duke Hits Homer

Clyde McCullough beat the Dodgers with his single in the ninth in the nightcap as he drove in four runs on a double and homer. Curtis Hall got credit for the victory.

Leftfielder Warren Spahn limited the Cards to six hits and fanned 11 as he turned in his 17th victory for the Braves in the opener at Boston. The 11 strikeouts boosted Spahn's total to 133 high for the majors.

Red Munger held the Braves hitless through five innings in the nightcap but blew up in the sixth as the Braves put together five hits and five runs to score all their runs. Max Surkont went the distance to post his 10th victory.

Home runs and brilliant pitching featured the Phils' sweep over the Reds. Bill Nicholson accounted for both runs in the opener with a first-inning homer off Jocko Thompson blanking the Reds on three blows.

Del Wilber pounded out consecutive homers in the third, fifth and seventh innings off Ken Raffensberger to drive home all the runs in the second game. Ken Johnson shut out Cincinnati on seven safeties.

Bobby Shantz whitewashed the Tigers on seven hits. Dave Philley belted Marlin Stuart for a homer in the second to win the game for the A's.

Richmond Headed For Bat Title In International

(By The Associated Press)

Only once in the history of the International League which dates back to 1884, has a player captured the batting crown two years in a row. That happened 25 years ago, and now Don Richmond of Rochester Red Wings is aiming to make history.

Richmond, last year's batting champ with a .333 average, and the league leader this season with a mark of .354, would like to become the first man in the record books next to Jim Walsh, a former Buffalo player.

Walsh accomplished the feat during the 1925 and 1926 seasons when he led the league with averages of .357 and .353.

Wings Edge Leafs

The left-handed hitting Richmond connected for three hits in five trips last night as the Wings edged Toronto Maple Leafs 5-3. Richmond's third hit of the game was a ninth inning home run with a man on base and enabled the Wings to come from behind to win.

The Rochester third baseman added his name to competitors Marv Rickert of Baltimore Orioles, by 33 points.

Richmond poked twice in the 12th inning to lick the first-place Montreal Royals 5-4 at Baltimore. Pesehki scalped Tommy Lasorda to register his 10th victory. The defeat was the first for the league lead to 10 games, Marv Rickert, who tops the league in homers, swiped his 29th for the Orioles.

Jack Griffore of Syracuse Chiefs turned in a brilliant mound performance as he blanked Jersey City Giants 4-0. Griffore, going on a walk to Loren Babe, a double by Eddie Stubbs and Hank Workman's ground out.

Springfield Cubs rallied for five runs in the ninth inning to defeat Ottawa Giants 6-4. Bill Padgett went the route for the Cubs to win his 15th game. The victory moved Springfield to within one game of seventh place.

New Star Looms On American Tennis Horizon

By GAYLE TALBOT

Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 28 (AP)— Women's tennis, which has badly needed some new blood for several years, appears to have come up with a real winner in Maureen, Connolly, a cagey 16-year-old court personality from San Diego, Calif.

She will shortly will win the national title in the current tournament, Tall Doris Hart of Miami is a bit too good for all the other girls at the moment. But Maureen could take the big cup next year, and she looks like a sure champion before she's 20.

Several times national junior titlist, the west coast's newest star found that crown this season in order to play on the U.S. Wightman Cup team against Britain. Talks of her long string of conquests this summer preceded her here.

She had her first outing yesterday and won her match with Mrs. Margaret Osborne duPont, handier from Upper Montclair, N.J., 6-3, 6-3.

Maureen, no doubt flustered at making her debut before the discerning gaze of 14,000 critics, had a shaky start and found herself down 0-2 in the initial set before she got her game in her own control. But from there on it was the maureen, love tennis should be played, and she made a strong impression on a gallery that came to watch Mrs. duPont.

There hasn't been a real personality among the girls since Miss Marble had her big game at its peak, and there has been considerable talk of interest in their performances here since the war. Gussie Moran; brassiered lace tights like the current Miss Universe, is gone for good, and she has a zing to her play, a knowledge of how dramatic tennis is going to make her a great favorite.

Sports Roundup

(For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

New York, Aug. 28 — (AP) — Wilbur Wilbur needs a new automobile like he needs bifocals, but he gives that impression as soon as the country's baseball fans think up a name for the Boston Braves.

We have been granted a ride in the Wilbur Wilbur limousine, and can report that it practically is a must for the average citizen to travel at 70 to 75 miles an hour day in and day out.

Frankie Frisch, the traffic cop responsible for the yellow, close-to-the-road creation now is the Braves' manager, has been induced to drive it. One gathers that the boss was a mite reluctant, showing marked enthusiasm at the prospect of forming a one-car parade.

The suggestion has been made that Mr. Wilbur Wilbur continue to drive his shabby $4,000 job, he turn the gift car over to some needy ballplayer, or that Lou Runyon fund for auction to the highest bidder.

Tom Sheehan, head scout for New York Giants, has been commissioned by National League to scout the pennant contenders for the remainder of the season. Tom sent the Dodgers clinch the flag, assuming that the Giants' hated rivals will win it anyway.

A former pitcher, Sheehan is remembered by Lambs, on the theory that he is the business at spotting a club's weaknesses. The city of Louis Sockalexis has named the Dodgers' Pee Wee Reese its favorite baseball shortstop. That should put a stop to this loose talk about old Honus Wagner, who performed for the Loons before he went to Pittsburgh.

Down the years this Saturday Lon Warneke, then toiling for St. Louis Cardinals, pitched a no-hitter against Cincinnati, one of the pet complaints of modern day players in the Nelleford League is that the Arkansas hummingbird, now an umpire, "won't give 'em nothing."

Picton A's Defeat Redmen 9-5 In Error-Riddled COBL Game

Frankie Dyer of the Picton Athletics slow-balled himself to a 9-5 win over the Belleville Redmen in the Fairgrounds on Monday night.

The loss for the Redmen, coupled with Batawa's 4-7 win over the Brockville Memos, left the homesters once again hanging precariously in the fourth and last playoff position. Picton remain in sixth place but still have hopes of making the playoff grade.

Everything was right but the team. The weather was warm and clear, the crowd was for them and the diamond was perfect in shape but the Reds staged a good exhibition of how not to play baseball.

The Reds started out in their usual manner of spotting the visitors a pair of runs in the initial frame. Triples by Deslauriers Chaves, Bauchamp and a single by Hayden did the damage.

Their hospitality did not end there, however, as they kicked the ball around a couple of times in the third and combined with three errors, two safeties produced four more runs for the Spaniards. Jack Wardhaugh opened the inning with a single between first and second and moved down on a sacrifice. MacDonald reached base on an error and Beauchamp filled the bases by reaching first safely on a fielder's choice. Dyer then scored Wardhaugh on a long fly ball to centre. Mowat came in. He walked Duetta filling the sack and Deslauriers sent two more scampering across on his single to right. Mowat arrived down and Fanner Bell and Dyer to end the agony.

Picton scored singles in the fifth, seventh and ninth while holding the Belleville crew off the scoring sheet.

Belleville's only other serious threat came in the fourth. Straban opened with a double to start the ball rolling but was promptly forced at second. Duetta struck to grounder to third base, Reeves made first on a fielder's choice, Deslauriers walked to fill the bases and Hayden singled and Mulholland walked to load the sacks. The rally died on a sudden death as Gover forced Fitzpatrick at second base.

Fitzpatrick was the only Redmen to collect more than one safety, getting a pair of singles.

Frank Dyer showed good control in his first outing but the third when the Redmen got five of their eight hits. He struck out four while issuing only one base on balls. He received near perfect support from his mates.

Looks Like Repeat In Senior Golf

Toronto, Aug. 28 (CP) — It looks as if Dr. George Laing of the Essex Golf Club, Windsor, last year's winner of the Canadian senior golf championship, will do it again.

Playing over Toronto's Lambton Golf Club Monday, in the first half of the whole competition, he turned in a par 71—four strokes ahead of his nearest competitor, A. B. McEwan of Montreal Kanawaki, a former title-holder.

The field of 200 was divided in two parts half playing at Lambton, the other half at the Weston Golf Club.

Laing, a titleholder played a steady golf game Monday. He went out in 36, one over par, and came in 35, one under. He parred 1 holes and turned in four birdies, two bogeys and one double-bogey, a six on the 370-yard seventh hole.

Bakelites Bow to Cleaners 20-9 In Third Game Of Title Series

Climaxing a late-inning rally with nine runs in the seventh inning, Cleaner Combines last night defeated Bakelite by a score of 20-9 at the Alexite Ball Park.

The contest, third in a best-of-three series, decided the city representative in OASA Intermediate AA playdowns. Cleaner Combines now advance into the OASA against Kingston Alcans AA team, the first game being slated for September 5th in Kingston.

Bakelite drop back into the city series for the Labatt trophy and play the loser between Belleville Motor Car and Avon Jewellers who are currently playing off a third-place tie. The winner of this set-to meets Stewart Warner.

Cleaner once again demonstrated their potency at the plate by socking out 15 hits, five of them for extra bases, while the combined hurling efforts of three chuckers held Bakelite to nine scattered bingles.

Use Three Pitchers

Bunting started on the mound for the winners but lacked control, giving way to Holmes in the second after giving up a pair of blows and retiring two men. Holmes finished the inning but went out of the game in the bottom half of the frame when he was injured.

Bakelite picked up four runs on the first two frames and added another pair in the third when Cleaners put Bunting back on the mound. Harold relieved him on one out and retired the side in order.

Cleaners scored twice in the second and once in the third to keep within striking distance and added three more in the fifth after Bakelite had scored a brace. This made the score 8-4 after five complete frames.

The Cleaners took over possession of the lead for the first time in the sixth when they tallied four more times on a combination of two hits, two walks and an error. Mulvihill's home run produced the tying counter.

The Bakelite crew fought back gamely in the seventh, when Littlejohn walked and scored on Bobby Green's double. Green was out trying to make a home run out of it. This was the last scoring threat as the Greyhound Harold retired the last seven men in order.

Combines clinched things in the bottom half when they plated no less than nine runners. Starter Bob Green gave way to Birch. Five hits and four walks combined immensely to the cause while the Bakelite crew looked forlorn in their fielding roles. A single counter in the eighth wound up the scoring for the night.

Brian Mulvihill led the new champions with a home run and a pair of doubles. Young hit a triple and two singles while York, James and Graham each had a pair. Bunton, Holmes and Harold hit for the circuit.

Littlejohn was the only Bakelite member to multiply safely with a home run and a single. Cousins and Green each hit triples. Powers and Gerrard were collected by Graham, Ray Burley, Birch and Green each.

Green and Birch each struck out two in losing while they issued four walks each. Bunton walked five and struck out three, while Holmes walked two and struck out eight.

Bakelite: Cook, lf; Graham, 2b; R. Burley, ss; Cousins, 3b; Littlejohn, 3b; Green, p, rf; Birch, rf, p; Powers, c, and Gerrard, cf. R. Power replaced Graham in the 9th.

$2 Gets $106.55 At Thorncliffe

Toronto, Aug. 28 (CP)—A fifty-to-one shot that raced like a champion featured the 33th day of harness racing at Thorncliffe Raceway Monday. Dr. G. Grattan, owned and driven by Neil McLean of Port Elgin, Ont., took the lead when the favored Jane Chips broke a hobble and came home first with a strong drive. Dr. G. Grattan paid $106.55 for a $2 ticket.

Dr. G.'s Grattan showed that his win was no fluke when he was a fast-closing second to Nicodemus in the second heat of the same race.

Bebella MC, a 6-to-1 shot from Brockville won the first race and when Glendale Charm, a 7-to-1 shot won the second, they combined for a daily double of $168 for $2.

Interest in next Friday's big Canadian Cup race heightened Monday when it was announced that Dr. Slan'sky will be back to defend his Canadian championship.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Carl Voyles, coach of the Hamilton Cats isn't talking much about the line-up he'll use in Wednesday's opening Big Four tilt with Montreal Alouettes.

He did say Monday night that Bernie Custis, Negro speedster from Syracuse, would start at the quarterback slot but he wouldn't say who about his other prize players. Asked whether Hamilton's Ralph Bartolini, who came into his own at Lansdowne Saturday, or Tex Kilrek, long distance booter who played for Alouettes two seasons ago, would get starting nod, he said only:

"I'll probably come to me about half an hour before the game starts Wednesday."

One of the first calls on Lindsay's newly-installed police radio system went to Constable Johnny Hunter. It was an emergency call to the local softball park.

He found that a ball player had been beaned.

The player was Mrs. Johnny Hunter. She is star catcher for one of the ladies' teams.

Fog in the St. Lawrence River has delayed the homecoming of channel-swimmer Winnie Roech Leuzzler, North York township officials said Monday.

They said that her ship, due to dock Monday, had been delayed, and that Mrs. Leuzzler's formal welcome for its famous citizen scheduled for today would be postponed.

The swimming Mercer family—father, mother and five children—set out Monday from Tiverton, R.I., in two automobiles for Toronto, to take part in a long distance swim tournament at the Canadian National Exhibition Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mercer, their son, and four daughters, took part in a 1949 Coney Island swim. They had hopes of conquering the Kingston Channel that year but failed to find a sponsor.

The father, new 53, and Robert, 13, plan to take part in the 10-mile men's distance race Wednesday.

Three of the girls, Althea, 23, and the 15-year-old twins, Faith and Hope, will enter the women's distance championship race—three miles—Sept. 5.

The Ontario Racing Commission will resume hearings into an alleged jockey "fix" ring at the track near Niagara Falls, today, it was announced Monday. The commission will meet her for two days then adjourn to Toronto for a further meeting.

Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, manager of the San Francisco Seals announced Monday he would take an all-star baseball team of major and Pacific Coast league players on a good-will tour of Japan after the season ends.

The squad of 18 players will include 10 to 13 big leaguers, O'Doul said.

The Chicago Tribune says Monday night it has been informed that Commissioner Albert Chandler has turned down the job of baseball commissioner.

In a dispatch from Washington, the Tribune quoted a baseball club owner as saying that a committee headed by Chandler met in the New York Hotel suite last week and told him he would be elected by an unanimous vote if he would accept.

Close Title Race In Intercounty

(By The Canadian Press)

Ontario's Senior Intercounty Baseball final series between Brantford Red Sox and London Majors ought to be one of the most exciting games the Intercounty series has seen in many a moon.

Close to 7,000 fans—biggest crowd of the year—sat in on the first game Saturday of a best-of-seven finals series for the senior championship.

They saw a three-run outburst at the top of the 12th inning give the mighty Sox a 5-2 victory over a team which had held a 2-1 lead in the third.

The roughly battlers from Brantford have led the league throughout the regular schedule. They are favored to down the Londoners but the Majors seem to be at their best right now.

Sports writers say you can toss a coin as to whom the winners will be.

Tonight's game in Brantford will be followed by another there Thursday. The fourth will be in London on Friday. Fifth and sixth, if necessary, will be in Brantford Saturday and London on Labor Day.

Negro Star Sparks Giants' Fiery Stretch Drive

By WILL GRIMSLEY

New York Aug. 28 (AP) — Superintendent Leo Durocher, his famous lip light on any pennant talk, compromised a little today to praise Monte Irvin's role in New York Giants' sensational late pennant rush.

"Monte is the most under-rated player in the league," the Giants' manager said. "Every time I look up he gets the big hit."

If the Giants themselves had to pick one of their number who has furnished the most spark for their 16-game winning streak, the finger would probably point to the big Negro speed merchant.

Batting .310 and a terror on the base paths, the six-foot-one 195 pound flychaser is second only to Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner in runs-batted-in. He has 89 to the Pirate slugger's 94.

Irvin's is all the more impressive when you take into account that Kiner has 36 home runs while Irvin has connected for only 17. But Irvin delivers when men are on the bases and when the Giants need a rally.

Fails Game From Fire

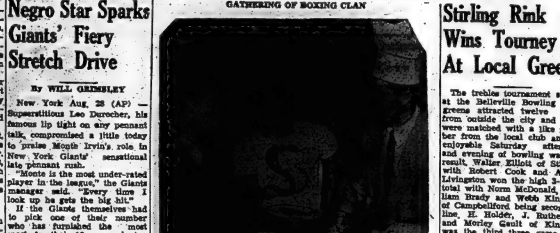
Irvin's value was never more vividly demonstrated than in yesterday's fifth victory over the Chicago Cubs—5-4 in 12 innings and 6-3.

In the first game he laced out two singles in five times at bat, one of them the crucial 12th to keep Giant hopes alive. Besides, he scored once from second on a base infield out and stole a base.

In the second game he poled a long home run and a single in four times at bat. During the day the right-handed hitter slashed two hits to rightfield, one to centre and one to left—an indication that forces pitchers into strait-jackets.

Irvin, 30-year-old rightfielder who has doubled at first base, has been a key factor in the Giants' rash of close-shave victories—games yanked out of the conflagration as yesterday's opener

Lacrosse



Hamilton, Aug. 28—(CP)—Hamilton Tigers fired two last-quarter goals Monday night to edge St. Catharines Athletics 7-6 and even their Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association quarter-final series at two games each.

Deciding game of the best-of-five series will be played here tonight.

Trailing 5-4 late in the third quarter, Tigers' George Masters scored late in the same stanza and early in the final period to tie the score. Then captain Blaine McDonald whistled home the winning marker at 1:56.

Pacing the winners' attack was George Masters with three goals: Merv Kelly had two and Doug Davidson and McDonald got singles.

GATHERING OF BOXING CLAN

Joe Blazim, world light heavyweight champion, who recently retained his title in 15-round bout with Bob Murphy at Madison Square Garden, poses with his famed clipt's hat to carves the turkey for Don Jeffra, former light heavyweight champ and Tuesday night light heavyweight champ and Randolph Turpin, world's middleweight champion, at a luncheon given in honor of Turpin in New York by the International Boxing Commission. Turpin, who will defend his title in a bout with ex-champ Sugar Ray Robinson on Sept. 12 in New York, will receive only 25 per cent of gate against Robinson's 30 per cent, a fact which was greeted first by incredulity, then amazement and finally anger by Blazim, who said he'd fight for less to whom the information was a complete surprise. Few, if any, knew that Turpin had to agree to these return fight terms before Robinson's manager signed for the London scrap in which Sugar Ray lost his crown.—Central Press Canadian.

Financial Support Necessary For Operation Redmen Hockey

Officials of the Belleville Redmen Hockey Club announced today that the team will operate again in the 1950-52 season.

But there were provisos with the announcement.

The calibre of hockey this winter will depend greatly on the response of the public to an appeal for financial assistance.

The executive feels, a spokesman said, that other teams of the group have, or are greatly strengthening their teams, and this means the Redmen must meet the threat with players of equal ability.

The executive is desirous of giving hockey fandom here the best team possible. Imports are needed, and imports cost money.

Will Canvass Public

A strong canvass of the public will start in the immediate future and the executive hopes the hockey-minded public as well as civic-conscious citizens will rally in their support in order to give the city a senior hockey team worthy of its name and traditions.

It was stated that a committee has been formed under the chairmanship of Arthur Black which will design and ready a hockey program for the club.

With the OHA import quota set at four, efforts will be made in the immediate future to secure the services of four outstanding players who with city stars should round out a team that will bring credit to the city.

Amputation Follows Jockey's Injury

Hamilton, O., Aug. 28—(AP)—Injuries suffered by a young jockey in a race spill Aug. 13 forced amputation of his leg yesterday.

Jockey Elmer Wright, 23, was riding Joe Marks at the Butler County Fair Grounds when his mount fell in the back stretch.

Wright suffered a leg fracture Doctors had to amputate the leg about four inches above the ankle when a blood clot formed.

The youth is described as in "fair" condition by hospital officials.

Favorites Out In Amateur Golf Weslock Defeated by Unknown

By ERWIN FRICKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 28 (CP) —There isn't a sure bet in sight for the Canadian Amateur golf championship, thanks largely to the giant-killing of a freshman.

Johnston McCormick of Toronto 'is pretty much of a giant himself in stature. The 17-year-old blonde, has six feet four. But in the golf world up to now he's been just another four handicapper.

When he came up against hurley Rick Weslock of Windsor in the opening round yesterday for the Canadian Amateur at the Royal Ottawa, the experts literally shuddered for him.

For Weslock is to Canadian amateurs what Ben Hogan is to United States pros. The wedge expert broke the competitive course record Saturday in a par-shattering display which paced Ontario to the Winningdon Cup. Even his practice rounds were sensation par-breaking performances.

Wins One Up

So what happens? McCormick whose home club is the nine-hole Toronto Humber Valley course, knocks off the tournament ace, one up.

Most members of the Willingdon Cup teams drew first-round byes but many of those who played were sidelined. Doug Silverberg of Red Deer, Alta., 1950 junior champion, missed out entirely this year, was another first-round victim.

Silverberg appeared to be pressing too hard during his match with Don Gelge of Quebec and never uncovered the form he displayed earlier. He lost 5 and 4.

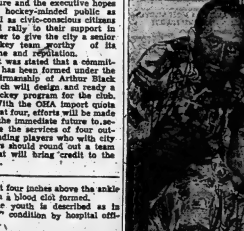
Bob Wylie of Calgary and Jim Harper of Edmonton, both members of the Alberta provincial Willingdon Cup team, lost out to less highly regarded rivals. Wylie was beaten 3 and 2 to Colin Brown of Leaside, Ont., and Harper was defeated 2 and 1 by Ellis Rickens of Montreal.

Big Jim Pidlaski, Winnipeg, a member of Manitoba's Willingdon Cup team, was eliminated by Dick Cordukes of Ottawa on the 18th when Cordukes sank a 15-foot putt for the hole.

Bob Hope of Montreal, Quebec Willingdon Cupper and three-time Canadian champion, was taken out by Bob Fair of Toronto. It was an 18th hole decision also with short medal play 73s.

Walt McKinney of Vancouver was the only British Columbia Willingdon Cupper to play and be defeated. R. J. McIntosh of Sydney, N.S., 2 and 1.

Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver, the defending amateur champion drew a bye and is drawn against a detailed player in the second round.



Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., former Canadian champ and Ontario Willingdon Cupper, boosted his stock as outstanding possibilities for the title by defeating Jim Gibson of Toronto 5 and 4.

RETIRED PRIEST DIES

Kingston, Aug. 28 (CP)—Rev. James J. O'Reilly, 76, retired Roman Catholic priest, died Sunday at St. Mary's on the Lake.

He graduated from the University of Ottawa and later studied at the Grand Seminary in Montreal. He was ordained here in December, 1904, and had appointments in the Eastern Ontario communities of Kingston, Enterprise, Stirling, Deseronto, Erinsville, Picton and Napanee. He spent 40 per cent of the years he was ordained overseas during the First World War. He retired at Trenton in 1945.

WILLINGDON CHAMPIONS

The Ontario team won the Willingdon Cup at the Royal Ottawa Golf Club with a team score of 565, 18 strokes ahead of the runner-up British Columbia foursome. The victory was the 12th for Ontario in the 18 times the event has been a 36-hole affair. Left to right, with individual scores bracketed, are. Don Vaney of Brantford (156); Gerry Kesselring, Kitchener (140); Phil Farley, Toronto (140); and Nick Weslock of Windsor, low man among the 32 players with 141.—(CP Photo).

Squires Defeat Phantoms 6-3 In Final Game

Squires defeated Phantoms last night in the third game of a best-of-three series by a score of 6-3 behind the no-hit hurling of Tom Lally. They now advance into the juvenile softball finals.

The winners scored twice in the second and fifth and singles in the third and fourth innings. Phantoms plated once in the second, fourth and sixth.

Nolan led the winners at the plate connecting for a pair of doubles. O'Sullivan, Lally, Jones, Johnston and Bohan each hit singles.

Lally struck out four and walked three in his hitless effort. Belnap and Canning shared mound duties for Phantoms giving up seven hits, striking out five and walking ten.

De Marco Upsets Sandy Saddler In Ten-Rounder

Milwaukee, Aug. 28 (AP) — Paddy de Marco set a blazing pace last night to upset Sandy Saddler, featherweight champion of the world, in a 10-round non-title bout before 8,831 fans in the Milwaukee Arena.

The stocky, ball-shoulder de Marco, weighing 126 pounds to a 7 1-2 pound advantage over Saddler, averaged the ninth twice as he suffered at the hands of the champ nearly two years ago.

De Marco used his weight edge to advantage, whaling away with both hands to his foes head. Yorker's head and body and then hustling him into the ropes in a tight clinch. There were no knockdowns and the only apparent injury was a bloody nose suffered by de Marco.

The crowd approved the decision as referee Julius Feller rated it 7-4 for de Marco, Judge Les de Camara 6-5 for Paddy and Harry Zaidee 8-3 for Saddler.

Batawa Defeats Brockville 8-7

Brockville, Aug. 28 (CP) — Batawa Shoemen kept their Central Ontario Baseball League playoff chances alive Monday night as they staged a late-game rally to best the league-leading Brockville nine by a close margin.

Trailing 7-3 going into the final inning of darkness-called game, Batawa Shoemen tallied five times for a winner on two hits and two errors.

Each type of overcall (defensive bid) is at a loss by itself. There is no reason for confusing one with the other. There is no excuse for choosing the wrong one. No excuse whatever.

Take the two types of strongest defensive overcalls: overcall in opponent suit and jump overcall. There is a dividing line between the two that is immediately obscure cut.

Overcall in opponent suit shows at least nine tricks and no loading. Sticks in that suit. Jump overcall shows at least eight tricks and a suit that is at least rebiddable.

Always select the bid that has all the values it promises. So, if any item is missing from a stronger bid, pick out the next lower in strength if it contains all the true values promised in it.

Suppose your opponent in south starts with an opening bid of one heart when you have the west hand shown here:

♠ A K 7 ♥ 9 8 4 3 2
♦ None
♣ K 8 ♠ 8 4 3

It contains no losers in the opponent heart suit. Being void. So, if it contains at least nine tricks it is an overcall in opponent suit. Count the tricks and see.

Count one for each high card (ace, or king or queen) and one for each short card. Four highs are there. Three shorts in hearts and one short in diamonds—one four. Total only eight tricks.

If you had nine tricks with no losers in hearts your bid would have been two hearts; an overcall in opponent suit. With only eight tricks, your bid is two spades; a jump overcall.

Suppose you had the rebiddable spade but only seven tricks. Or eight tricks and a suit that was not rebiddable. Then you would have made a bid that is lower in choice than a jump overcall.

You may think it fussy to draw so fine a head on hairs. But there is no percentage in fooling partner.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 28 (AP)—Cary Grant, one of Hollywood's highest paid stars, says all this talk of scuttling the movie industry is quite foolish.

"As a matter of fact," he argues, "television is going to make us look good."

This is a rather bold viewpoint, but Grant backs it up with this reasoning: "It's a matter of history. Every new medium of entertainment adds distinction to the older one. When the movies first became popular they pushed up the prestige of the stage. Legitimate actors became almost an aristocracy compared to those in movies.

"Now television has arrived and it can't help but make movies and movie people seem much better. It will add greatly to our social distinction."

Despite the scare talk, Grant feels that the film industry is in no great danger.

Healthy Changes

"Naturally, the industry is in a stage of transition, but the changes are healthy ones," he said. "Theatre difficulties were bound to come because films are being decentralized in America. You notice that the big department stores are opening branches in outlying districts of the cities. That's because people are living further from the downtown area and won't go so far to shop.

"The same holds true with theatres. People don't want to travel all the way downtown to see a movie, battling traffic and the parking problem. Downtown theatres are hard hit, but the drive-ins and most of the neighborhood houses are doing good business.

Not For Cary

Grant, who is currently playing the screen husband of his real wife, Betsy Drake, in "Room for One More," has been reported ready to jump into television. I asked him about such rumors.

"I should say not," he replied flatly. "I don't want anything to do with television."

Grant believes TV will bring added prosperity to Hollywood.

"Before long, there will be 34 TV stations in an area operating 24 hours a day," he predicted. "Most of the program material will have to be on film. That means the studios will have more work than they can handle."

WOULD NOT REPEAT STUNT

Toronto, Aug. 28.—(CP)—Eldon Stonehouse, Globe and Mail reporter with memories of keeping 72 pet snakes during high school days, saturday let a 21-foot python at a Canadian National Exhibition animal show wrap itself around his neck. Complete with tropical sun helmet, he posed for a picture but turned down an invitation to repeat the stunt with a 35-foot snake.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, August 29

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Unusual planetary setup with unusual yet useful ideas and products, and artistic and skilled workmanship top favored. Ill temper and aggressiveness are taboo.

May 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Grand indications today for you folks, your Venus, Mercury and Uranus in very auspicious aspects. Money to be made in artistic professions, sound investments, etc. Be serene, ambitious.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Favorable Mercury influences to spur you on to fresh achievement perhaps added financial gains. For surer, sounder results, keep orderly calm, figure things sensibly, take proper time.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Moon's aspect now stresses need for tact, unruffled disposition. This done you can have a very productive, even surprisingly gainful day in work and other activities. Essentials first.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—All worth while interests and duties have very helpful influences. Encouraging day for home affairs, government projects, writings, contracts, conferences, by executive, employee, student.

August 23 to September 22—(Virgo)—Authors, journalists, secretaries, scientists, all brain workers highly sponsored now. Virgo-ites generally can have a pleasant and grateful day without worry or train.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Your day similar to Taurus in tendency. You can obtain objectives and gain in (honorable) work, and you can have fun in winning them. Sound transactions favored. Good rays.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Mars' influences here advise) building emotional and temper under light control. Thus can you insure a happy as well as remunerative day. Important projects and tasks sponsored.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Some restraint felt? Don't balk at it, it may well serve to keep you on right path and producing steady results from intelligent effort. Good day for pleasant doings.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Excellent forecast for difficult tasks, matters requiring study, analysis, research. Also honored; home, personal affairs, recreation, artistic professions, things being normal.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius) — One of your best days. Uranus and several other planets in benefic positions. Work, government, military interests, domesticity, personal affairs under fine rays. Be alert.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—All encouraging, helpful rays in your sector. Attend essentials, urgent matters first. Use free time for relaxation. On vacation? Enjoy activities sensibly. Care for health.

YOU BORN TODAY: Keen, inquisitive, have reasoning faculties; if true to inherent good characteristics, are honorable, fair, clean-minded. Intuitive. Usually take middle course, preferring to win by hard work, steady effort and rationality than by games of chance or unknown problems. Inclined to worry too much about family, health, little things. Many writers, actors, decorators, critics in Virgo.

Birthdate: Maurice Maeterlinck, Belgian poet, dramatist; John Locke, writer, philosopher; Oliver W. Holmes, physician, poet, humorous essayist.

ASBESTOS CAN BE VERSATILE

FIREPROOF ASBESTOS Flexboard

a revolutionary building material, permanent as stone, yet applied with ordinary tools...

ASBESTOS in action

Asbestos is truly one of nature's miracles — it can't burn, rust, rot or wear out.

Today, in the Canadian research, asbestos has been "harnessed" to serve in countless ways. For example, one of the more recent J-M accomplishments is Transite asbestos-cement Pipe.

Today, hundreds of forward-looking municipalities are turning to Transite pipe for clean, safe drinking water. It is the ideal material for rural electric sewage disposal, home connection and drainage purposes. Industry specifies Transite Pipe to solve tough venting problems and to carry electrical and telephone cables. Yes, every day new uses are found for this versatile product of asbestos research.

• Another outstanding example of Johns-Manville engineering and ingenuity! Asbestos and portland cement processed under terrific hydraulic pressures into an all-purpose building board that becomes literally "a sheet of steel" . . . immune to moisture, easy to work and practically imperishable.

J-M Flexboard can't burn, rot or decay. It is easily painted yet needs no paint for preservative purposes. Light in weight, J-M Flexboard is incredibly strong; yet with all its toughness, is readily worked with ordinary tools and can even be curved if desired!

J-M Flexboard has a hard, smooth gray finish that resists scuffing and is easily kept clean. For indoor and outdoor building purposes, it has countless uses. For free folder on Flexboard, see your J-M dealer or write Canadian Johns-Manville, Dept. N-23, 199 Bay St., Toronto.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Marlatt Moore

The Emerson's mayor was the last person to come to Father Bradley's office with an axe to grind. The application followed another, to ask what stand his paper would take in the event of a provincial or a dominion election. One spokier for one faction advised that while Dad Roberts had never come out flat-footed for party in his paper he had hinted that the party he preferred by not giving the opposition as much free publicity.

To both deputations Father Bradley had but one answer, and to give his answer more strength he pointed to the pictures of both political leaders on his wall. The Foreign must ever be strictly independent in matters politic, even to municipal elections. He told them he belonged to no political party, that he was independent, and would vote as he saw best, that his editors had been given orders to follow his instructions — a hard-oft policy in regard to all contentious matters.

And quite bereft he because he had turned them down, these party-ward-healers made dire threats in his presence. They would help to start another paper in opposition to The Emerson, they would run him out of town. And even though he could afford to laugh at them, he knew that his wiser policy not to do so. Not one of these loose-tongued individuals knew what he was talking about, not one of them would start to raise a quarter of a million dollars to be put into such an opposition sheet, nor would he be around if that sum failed to pay its way and required more money to keep it going.

Meanwhile Lance Bradley, after a survey of the district served by his station, had discovered that fifty watts was not sufficient, CKDE was not being heard in many areas that lay beyond the town's boundaries.

So he made application to have his wattage raised to two hundred and fifty and when that was done, he built a piece of land north of town, erected towers. After that CKDE started going places. It became a local outlet for the big broadcasting chains, brought into the district the big station programs, the while it was developing its own artists and announcers. Advertising for CKDE was handled by Advertising Manager Dolson who saw in the broadcasting of radio station and daily newspaper, the answer to an advertising manager's prayer. It gave him so much to offer, for besides liking to "see his name in print," an advertiser man likes to hear it read over the air.

By the end of May Lance Bradley was in a more complacent mood. He could look back now on a business venture well begun, a business venture that was running like a well-oiled machine, every part in perfect synchronization.

When Managing Editor Gordon pointed out the importance of pictures in the paper's news stories, that there was too much delay between the time the pictures were sent to the city and the time they returned as half tone plates, it was not hard to sell Bradley on the idea that it would be better to have a photo-engraving plant of his own. That meant another trip to the city. The result was an engraving plant, a Fine-to-rite if said cameras for Reporters Artist and Holland.

Having definitively decided by now that steps must be taken to change the personnel at town hall, Lance Bradley waited until after the paper was put to bed one afternoon to broach some matters to his staff in the newsroom. While he spoke directly to his managing editor, he asked the others to listen in.

"Listen, Hal" he said, "we must start even now to make a clean up of this town—beginning at headquarters. Now look, I want you reporters to get the low-down on every member of council and the police chief. I want you to check upon the Brown Paving Company, who is in it, how much money the town has been paying them for street maintenance, if they have a legal contract with the town and if, they have, did they get it by tender or was it just handed to them."

"Okay, chief," Hal Gordon said, "Anything else?"

"Yes, Hal. To get rid of the present council, we will need a good man to oppose them. I want you reporters to get off-the-record interviews with prominent citizens, preferably those persons who have had previous municipal experience, and try and find out if they would stand for election."

"Before we're through," Gordon warned, "You may be asked to practise what you preach."

"All right, I shall," Lance said, "I'll run for anything, except the mayoralty, and don't know enough about that to be mayor. And you are at liberty to tell them so. If that will help matters."

"Which it will," the editor said. "Once they know that you're with them, there will be dearth of candidates. I'll turn over those matters to Bill and Terry—what say, boys?"—and there were nodded acceptance—"They're fast and accurate workers, and they'll have the low-down for you shortly, Lance, make no mistake about that."

But of all the people who came to see Lance Bradley in his office was one who was to receive a double welcome.

When Lance overheard that familiar voice said Miss Wilson at the switchboard if Mr. Bradley was in, he was on his feet and had the door wide open to the big shouldered, black-bearded Boss McKay of the days at The Lucky Strike Gold Mine.

"Hello, Boss!" he fairly shouted, pumping McKay's big, hairy hand. "Why, you old mucker, you haven't changed a bit. Come on in, make yourself at home. How have you been, where are you going, what are you doing?"

"Wait, Brad, wait!" Boss McKay said with upraised hand. "One question at a time—please! Now,—I'm quite well, thank you; I've been at my home in Glenwood; and I'm not on my way to Toronto. I took the change that the Lance Bradley I knew in the north was the same Lance Bradley who was stirring up things in Emerton and—I—well, I drove in to see for myself."

"Well, you've certainly welcome, Boss," Lance said. "Particularly since this is the first time I've been sitting down for some hours from overseas, and I do want to thank you for those shares of Lucky Strike that you deposited in my deposit box at the bank while I was away. Good old Lucky Streak!"

"Yes, she's a good mine, Brad," Boss McKay said, "but about those shares—what else could I do for you? After all we Lancasters must stick together, and if you hadn't knocked that wop out you would now be dished since."

"Aw, skip it, Boss," Lance said.

"They tell me you're up to some wonderful things around town," Boss McKay said proudly.

"Oh, I don't know that they're so wonderful," Lance reddened, "but they do keep me out of mischief. Come, let me show you around."

They had concluded their tour and were in the press-room when the big press started to roll at three o'clock and Lance Bradley pocketed the first paper to drop from the folder. Shortly afterwards they were standing in front of the office beside Bole McKay's big expensive car, and Lance bade him good-bye, telling him to return soon.

As Lance was entering the door, Goldie Webster with a bundle of papers under his arm slipped by him. When Lance was back in his office he was aware that something was wrong. Millie Brooks was waiting for him, and she was crying. When he asked her what had happened, she said that Goldie Webster had slipped town behind her, had grabbed her and kissed her, in front of the office staff.

"Don't mind him, Millie," Lance said sympathetically, "just leave him to me." In the morning I'll have him up on the carpet and I'll—I'll put him in his place—see if I don't."

CHAPTER XX

That morning, in the yard lined on both sides by the cars of the business employees, a flock of noisy sparrows sang a pair of quieter robins flew furtively on the roof of the brick building nearby as the slide door of the Ensign business office opened suddenly and Lance Bradley stepped out.

For a moment he stood in the sun, shading his eyes with his hand as he gazed up at the radio antennae atop the building. At the sound of a voice, he turned. The diminutive, dark-skinned Tony Pezzuto sweeping the sidewalk in front of his restaurant next door was calling.

"Why, Stallas, Brad!" he beamed, "you sacha too mooch sun without-a hat."

"Sun is all right in small doses, Tony," Lance grinned, brushing the front of his light blue open-at-the-throat shirt before drawing his belt in another hole around the top of his grey trousers. "How's business?"

"She's a pretty good, Brad, pretty good," Tony chuckled, leaning on his broom handle. "And how's the same you can say for yourself?"

Lance grinned broadly. The way Tony murdered the language was always highly amusing. "I'll be in after awhile to match you for the drinks."

"Sure, Brad, sure!" Tony shouted, then warningly "but no tricks money this time, eh!" Tony was referring to Lance Bradley's coin with the two heads on it. He had been caught before, "but, say, Brad when does Goldie Webster haves his first fight?"

"If he's not mighty careful, he won't have any fight," Lance said, "I'm afraid Goldie's turning out to be a bad boy."

"Oh, ano, Brad—I say oh a no," Tony and I'm one of his boys," he's what you call verra young, but not bad."

"Oh, yeah," Lance said, "Well, I plan to see about that."

A few minutes later Lance Bradley was in the composing room in the back of the building. He had stopped in the pressroom below to pass a word with his foreman Paul Johnson before mounting the stairs. Bent over the make-up table, Superintendent Sandy McLeod, raised his eyes under shaggy brows to greet him. He strode by the line of seated operators manipulating the keyboards of their respective linotypes, and stood beside the stool boy who was in charge of the mat rolling machine. The boy turned, saw who it was and grinned proudly.

Goldie Webster at sixteen could have been the Lance Bradley at the same age. Even now the resemblance between the two was so great that they might be taken for father and son, or at least a brother and brother. Their build, their features, the color of their hair, their eyes, the shape of their noses, their clean-cut pleasant faces, the very shrug of their shoulders.

Lance's hand fell on the boy's work and Lance said:

NEW, MIRACLE ELECTRONIC EAR HIDES DEAFNESS

CHICAGO, (Special)—An amazing new electronic ear which hides deafness and transmits even whispers with startling clarity, has been revealed by a noted Chicago electronic scientist.

He disclosed that this miraculous new discovery has rendered old-style hearing aids obsolete almost overnight, and brings new hope to the 15 million persons in the United States who are hard of hearing.

He reported that this electronic ear enables the deaf to hear without any button showing in the ear and without dangling battery wires.

To acquaint the hard of hearing readers of this paper with this new miracle electronic ear which hides deafness, full details are described in a fascinating booklet, "New Discoveries to Help the Deaf." You burn air by the silo full

IS IT CLEAN?

Did you know your tractor burns about 10,000 gallons of air for every gallon of gasoline? Yet, if a small amount of grit goes through with the air, it can damage cylinder walls and cause trouble.

That shows how important some of the "little things" are. It pays to have the air cleaner regularly, keep the oil filter clean, adjust carburetor properly. It also pays to replace worn parts and let our factory-trained mechanics check on anything that is out of adjustment.

Our parts department is well stocked with parts made in the same factory and to the specifications as the original. Our mechanics will work extra hours if necessary.

If your tractor needs service, don't put it off. Phone or stop in.

Protest Brings Letter Exchange With Committees

Washington, Aug. 28—(AP)—Informed sources said yesterday a Canadian government protest has brought an exchange of letters between the State Department and the senate internal security sub-committee. The sub-committee has publicly aired testimony naming a Canadian official as a one-time communist.

Chairman Pat McCarran (Dem., Nev.) of the sub-committee refused to discuss the exchange, or disclose contents of the letters.

But he repeated to a reporter a statement he made last week that nothing had developed to change his belief that the subcommittee should "pull no punches" in its investigation of charges of subversive influence on American foreign policy.

Specifically, the sub-committee is investigating accusations of McCarran and others that the Institute of Pacific Relations has been used by communists to influence foreign policy.

At issue with Canada is public airing of testimony by Dr. Karl August Wittfogel, one of the witnesses, naming Herbert Norman, acting head of Canada's delegation to the United States as soon as a student at a school for young communists at Cape Cod in 1939.

The Department of External Affairs in Ottawa has said that Norman, a far eastern expert who has been stationed in Tokyo, never has been in Cape Cod. The department said he had been cleared.

Canada protested to the State Department June 18 at the "dragging" of Norman's name through the hearing Aug. 9.

First Lady Mayor

GRENVILLE GOODWIN
Died in Office

Sudden death of Ottawa's energetic mayor, Grenville Goodwin, 58, has thrust reins of office into capable hands of Dr. Charlotte Whitton, senior member of board of control. Nationally known for her social work activities and particularly her expose three years ago of Alberta "baby-farming," Miss Whitton polled a record vote of 38,605, in last December's election. As first lady mayor of a Canadian city, Dr. Whitton intends to continue the social-improvement campaign that won her full support from Ottawa's housewives last December. — Central Press Canadian.

Speed Civil Defence or Forsake Program Worthington Demands

Ottawa, Aug. 2 (CP)—Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington today called for immediate action in Canada either to speed a civil defence program for the country or "chuck" it completely.

He said he is meeting "terrible delay" in getting the program developed. His feelings are, he said, that the program should be advanced quickly "or killed completely."

The federal civil defence coordinator made the comments at a press conference called to introduce the civil defence director-general for Toronto, Jake Sandelin, and his assistant, Ivar Muller.

Gen. Worthington read a message which he said he had received from Toronto Mayor Hillmond Caldwell, U.S. C.D. director, as saying that either the U.S. required the use of civil defence to win a major war or the program should be "killed forthwith."

"Those are exactly my feelings," Gen. Worthington said.

Blamed Parliament

Asked where the main trouble in the Canadian delay was rooted, Gen. Worthington said briefly:

"The trouble lies behind you."

He was pointing to the parliament buildings which could be seen from his office window.

Gen. Worthington said later that the situation in Canada was not nearly as bad as in the United States, but there are "irritable delays."

"There is no point," he said, "in publishing a book telling Canadians to go to shelters in case of a raid, when actually no shelters are being built.

"Time is running out and we've got to get action."

Mr. Sandelin, at 38 the youngest electrical engineer in Toronto, said he had come to Canada to give whatever assistance possible in civil defence.

Compulsory in Sweden

He said, unlike Canada, Sweden makes civil defences compulsory for persons between the ages of 18 and 65.

Of a population of 7,000,000—half the Canadian population—Sweden had 800,000 trained civil defence workers.

Shelters against an atomic attack are being drilled out of rocky hillsides. Some of the shelters are big enough to hold 20,000 persons. Factories are being dispersed. All homes built in Sweden since 1945 have special shelters built in cellars and the country to safeguard the urban population.

The government, involved in civil defence programs for the last 15 years, is spending about $15,000,000 a year to build shelters and train its population.

Murder Charge Against Others May be Dropped

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 29—(CP)—Pte. Glen Roland Blank, 27, of Winnipeg, today was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to life imprisonment in the grenade killing of a South Korean soldier March 17.

The sentence is subject to review by Canadian defence headquarters for a change."

A general court martial acquitted Blank on a murder charge.

The other Canadian soldiers, Pte. Ronald Wilfred Gibson, 23, of Ottawa and Pte. Allan Roy Montague Davis, 20, of Port Coquitlam, B.C., also have been charged with murder in the case.

The soldiers were charged with the murder of South Korean Lieut. Ke Chong Sung, one of the three R. O. K. soldiers killed in a grenade explosion in a farmhouse in the village of Chung Wooon. Gibson and Davis are to be tried later.

Reuters News Agency, in its report of the trial, said it was learned authoritatively that the prosecution had asked the charges of murder be dropped against Gibson and Davis in view of the manslaughter verdict against Blank.

The soldiers are members of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry regiment.

Blank stood at attention before the court as Col. W. C. Dick of Montreal, court president, read the sentence. The soldier showed no emotion when he heard the life verdict.

Fails to Show Malice

Earlier, Lt.-Col. J. A. Hutchins of Montreal, the defence officer, argued that the prosecution had failed to show malice or intent on the part of Blank. He contended that if it was found that Blank threw the grenade, the most serious offence of which he could be convicted would be manslaughter.

Blank testified he had been drunk.

INJUNCTION ISSUED

Mexico City, Aug. 29 — (AP)— A federal court injunction forbade the Mexican government yesterday from enforcing a new law that would force movie houses to sell 10 per cent of tickets to Mexican films. The temporary injunction was issued at the request of the Mexican Chamber. The measure drew objections from Hollywood movie distributors who threatened to cut off the supply of Hollywood pictures.

Movie Actor Robert Walker Dies Following Injection of Sedative

Hollywood, Aug. 29 (AP)— Actor Robert Walker, 32, who crooned to millions while wearing World War, in "Shy Guy" movie roles, died Tuesday night after he received a sedative for treatment for an emotional disturbance.

Dr. Frederick J. Hacker, a psychiatrist who said he had been treating Walker for two months, was summoned by the actor last night. The doctor said Walker was "relaxed" two hours, then called Dr. Sidney Bloch, another psychiatrist, to administer a sedative.

Dr. Hacker said the sedative (an injection of sodium amytal) a barbiturate had been given Walker many times for emotional disturbances and with good results.

However, this time the actor lapsed into a coma, the psychiatrist said, and developed respiratory failure. An inhalator squad was called but failed to revive him.

The physician added that Walker's former wife, actress Jennifer Jones, and now the wife of producer David O. Selznick, was notified and said she is flying here from New York. The two young sons of Walker and Miss Jones have been spending the summer with the actor.

Walker had been in films eight years. Recently he made a successful comeback in pictures after a lengthy illness.

He was treated at the Menninger Clinic, Topeka, Kan., for a nervous disorder in 1948.

Walker's films include "See Here, Private Hargrove," "Since You Went Away", "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo", "The Clock", and "Till The Clouds Roll By."

Walker became involved in several brushes with the law on drunk driving cases before he went to Topeka for treatment.

His comeback after his physical recovery was termed remarkably well. He has done three pictures recently, "Vengeance Valley" with Burt Lancaster, "My Son, John", with Helen Hayes, and "Strangers on the Train", directed by Alfred Hitchcock.

He admitted a "torch" for his ex-wife had something to do with Walker's breakdown in life including his brushes with the law.

In 1945 Miss Jones left Walker, wife called the "luckiest kids in Hollywood, the original Mr. and Mrs. Cinderella."

In 1946 Miss Jones was an Academy Award winner for Song of Bernadette." And in the same year the headlines said Jennifer was planning a divorce.

On June 21, 1945, she obtained a Reno decree on mental cruelty.

Walker then married Barbara Ford, daughter of movie director John Ford. That lasted only three months. She obtained a divorce, charging cruelty.

WHEN DEATH RODE PIGGY-BACK

A grim sight greeted rescuers coming to the aid of the injured and dying after a rear-end crash between the Basle-Calais express train and the Frankfurt-Paris train near Metz, France. Train from Basle smashed the wooden at the end of the Frankfurt train pushing the next one on to the roof of the car ahead, stark proof of the terrific force of impact. Two American soldiers were killed, while 18 other U.S. soldiers were hospitalized with injuries. — Central Press Canadian.

Patricias are Finest Thing Canadian Army Ever Created Says CP War Correspondent

Trenton, Onl., Aug. 29 (CP)—Bill Boss, Canadian Press war correspondent in Korea since last December, said today the Patricias are the finest thing the Canadian Army has ever created.

The red-bearded reporter, who crossed the Pacific last November with the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade, said the Patricias are "the spirit de corps as real you could touch it." The rest of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade was a first-rate fighting outfit which already had established a name for aggressiveness.

The troops' morale was outstanding despite the largely boring summer. Announcement of the government's rotation policy had enabled the men to adjust themselves to the certainty of either being home by Christmas, or of returning to Korea for later service.

Thinks Talks Will Resume

He was critical of the Kaesong peace-talks, said he remained confident they would be resumed and would lead to cessation of hostilities, but added that if they were abandoned it would be to "explode into a terrifying battle between two heavily built-up armies."

At Kaesong, he said, "both sides have been desperately and persistently attempting to bargain from extreme positions which are equally unreasonable."

"The communists are unreasonable in holding out for the parallel as a military line, while we are in balking for the present line—which is more defensible in the long run, militarily, than is the parallel.

"The present line is one north of the parallel all right, but only to the extent dictated by the ground, and one very obvious one reaches at the most 10 miles into North Korea.

It did not name the orphanage but said it was founded in 1910 and accommodates more than 500 children.

POISONED BREAD BLAMED FOR FOUR DEATHS IN FRANCE

Some Driven Mad, Others Attempt Suicide

Paris, Aug. 29—(AP)—Poisoned bread was blamed today for a bizarre illness in the south of France which has taken four lives, driven people mad and forced others to attempt suicide. Three other towns reported epidemics of ordinary food poisoning.

Strange tales of "bread that makes men mad" came from the tiny Rhone River port of Pont St. Esprit, where 4 persons died since the weird malady struck Aug. 17.

At least 200 persons have called for urgent medical care and some said their brains have been wrecked by hallucinations of being surrounded by flames or monsters.

Physicians found that all those stricken had eaten bread from the same bakeries. Some victims was thrown into the river and the fish died. The use of flour from a number of mills supplying the town has been banned.

On theory is that the flour was poisoned with ergot, a cereal parasite which flourishes in rainy weather. Officials thought the illness might be a recurrence of "Saverne Disease," which struck the middle ages to have been caused by ergot and in have been banned.

Mice Paralysed

They've given some of the bread to mice and the mice have become paralysed.

The Pont-Saint-Esprit-Saint-Gal-mier—about 100 persons were reported ill after eating ice cream. One source said paratyphoid germs were found in the milk from which the ice cream was made.

Several score persons were reported ill in the region of Poitiers, where officials thought they might also be cases to some meat.

In the region of Civrieux-du-Rhone, 100 persons were ill after eating the flesh of a horse which a farmer had slaughtered after it was injured.

At Pont St. Esprit, a man ran through the streets yesterday screaming "Help! help! arrest me! I'm going to kill me!" The police took him to a psychiatric ward as he pointed to imaginary flames.

Among the dead in the town were a man, 70, and his wife. The man died after jumping from the third floor of a hospital.

Churchill Asks How Many Bombs Russia Has

Washington, Aug. 29. (AP)— Winston Churchill was quoted as telling United States Senators visiting Europe recently that the world situation hinges on how many atomic bombs the Russians have.

Senator Brien McMahon (Dem., Conn.), told of the discussion Churchill had with members of a Foreign Aid Bill, made public today.

McMahon said Senator Theodore Green (Dem.-R.I.), asked Churchill: "what is the concept of the present outlook on things?"

Churchill "looked around what seemed to be three witnesses, confired the startling goal that broke up the last of five overtime playoff games with Montreal Canadiens to give the Leafs the Stanley Cup last spring.

Scientists Discover Human 'Guinea Pig' Who Cannot be Given a Cold

London, Aug. 29 — (CP) — Scientists seeking the elusive cure for the common cold have run into unexpected snag. They have discovered a human "guinea pig," a woman who has been given the sniffles, let alone an experimental cough or cold.

The scientific patient is Mrs. Kathleen Chaffey, 45-year-old housewife of London's suburban Elthan. Doctors attached to the research unit, at Salisbury in Wiltshire, where colds are artificially induced, are puzzled by the woman's strange resistance to germ inoculations.

She goes there for 10 days every three months to be infected but while other volunteers sit around all choked up, with eyes streaming to the accompaniment of a sniffling chorus, Mrs. Chaffey just relaxes and reads novels.

"When I had been to the unit three times without catching a cold I suggested to the doctors that I was immune," she said time," she said. "However, they asked me to keep going, apparently under the impression that germ somsthing from me, apparently under the impression that germ something from me, apparently under the impression that germ something from me, apparently under the impression that germ something

Fire Destroys Large Metal Barn, Loss is $8,000

Trenton,—(Special)— A spectacular fire on the Wooler road last night burned George B. Clapp's large metal barn to the ground with an estimated loss of $8,000. A team of horses and two calves were led from the flames, while smoke-choked threshers hauled the big threshing machine to safety.

The fire started while farmer Clapp and seven neighbor men were threshing and spread quickly into the hay and grain lofts. The farmer's herd of 12 cattle were out to pasture at the time.

Mr. Clapp had recently filled the barn with hay and grain. The entire crop went up in smoke.

The roadway firemen were unable to help. The Clapp farm is located in Murray township not far out of the town limits.

Wooler Snatches First Playoff Game by 6-4

Frankford—(Special)— Frankford Merchants suffered a 6-4 setback at the hands of Wooler on Monday night on the latter's diamond in the first game of the Trent Valley Softball League finals.

The game was a tightly-fought pitchers' duel between Rosenplot of Wooler and McComb of Frankford. Rosenplot whiffed thirteen of the locals, while McComb threw the third strike by nine others.

A single by "Barney" McColl drove in Karl Austin who had tripled, for a single-tally by the homesters in the first frame. Neither team scored again until the third when triples by Rosenplot and Mccy, a double by McColl, and a two bunt single by Austin, produced four big tallies for Wooler and give them a commanding five-run lead. Appleby of Frankford made the fielding gem of the night as he saw McColl's double. He fielded the ball, rolling over as he did and pegged to the infield with a great throw, to hold the runner up at second.

Final Run in Seventh

Wooler scored their final run in the seventh on doubles by McColl and Stacey.

Frankford did not break the scoring ice until the fifth frame when two walks preceded a single by Don Mannion, Rosenplot struck out Frankford's clean-up hitter with the bases loaded to end a scoring threat by the visitors.

Frankford's double in the seventh drove in Appleby and Gilmour, who had singled, for another pair in the seventh for Frankford.

Morden's pinch-hit double in the ninth drove in their final run.

Karl Austin and "Barney" McColl led the batsmen at the plate, each collecting three safeties, while Don Manion got a pair for the visitors.

The Methodists, starting their 11-day world conference on their church's problems, were told by the Bishop of Manchester, St. Rev. W. L. Greer, that hard-drying church traditions "induce a kind of religious arthritis, and, worse, they hamper free and unfettered movement."

Board of Trade Denies Operating Any Color Bar

London, Aug. 29 (CP) —Two members of parliament have asked the government to investigate claims by a student body that a color bar operates in some government departments.

Donald Wade, Liberal member for Huddersfield West, and Beverley Baxter, Conservative member for Southgate North, took the action after the national union of students said it had difficulty in placing some non-white students in vacation work.

The union said the color bar operates at some London railway stations, the Royal Mint and the Board of Trade. It cited correspondence from a district railway manager saying he was eager to employ students as porters but that there was objection to nonwhite labor at some stations, including Camden Town, Brook Street and St. Pancras.

The Board of Trade has denied it operates any color bar.

Lower Tomato Yield Expected

The general tomato yield in the Bay of Quinte district will be lower than expected, because of heavy rains and cool weather according to the weekly crop report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Most of the canning factories have commenced operations for tomatoes.

Continued rains last week delayed harvesting but threshing is now again in full swing. Yields are only fair-to-good with the best lots oats in particular have been cut by mid-September. Indicate outstanding yields.

Pastures are still in fairly good condition and the milk supply is holding up well.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP)—Stock market prices climbed in early afternoon dealings today in the forenoon weakness.

Continuing the upswing started late last Thursday, industrials climbed more than a point on the exchange's index of 30 selected issues to a record high of 345.42.

Agriculture, liquors and miscellaneous industrials showed the best gains. Utilities, banks and manufacturing companies remained firm while steels and refining and mining mixed. Foods weakened as papers, constructions and retail stores eased.

Consolidated Smelters led the list as it sold at a gain of 1.50. Anaconda Lead, Silver Standard and Walte Amulet dipped slightly.

Western oils showed little change from a mild morning advance. Devon-Leduc, Model Oil, Pan American and Quebec Labrador were in demand. Federal Petroleum, Calmorth and General Petroleum A climbed points. National Petroleum, Scurry and Alax eased.

Senior golds edged higher. Giant Yellowknife, Hollinger, Malartic, McIntyre and Wright-Hargreaves were in demand as did more than a point. Junior golds and prospects were mixed and quiet.

White, Colored Cheese Show Drop on Exchange

Business was not only brief, it was almost non-existent on the Belleville Cheese Exchange last evening as only Swift-Canadian Company and the Ontario Marketing Board entered bids on white and colored cheese.

Swift's took a total of 314 cheese at 36 1/16, while the Marketing Board took the remainder of 5,091 at a straight 36 cents. The price was a drop of 9/16 over the previous week for white cheese, while colored cheese declined ¾.

Production boarded totalled 5,549 boxes and was made up of 1,643 specials, 3,377 white, and 1,978 colored. The increase in the production of white cheese is approximately 1,100 greater than the seasonal average.

There was some discussion about the practice of the Exchange boarding cheese without authorization from the factory salesmen. The salesmen felt that they should not be bound by such contract, Exchange officials stated that it is up to the factory salesmen to notify the Exchange that they do not want their cheese boarded. It has been the practice to board cheese even when no authorization had been given. The Exchange will rule on the matter at a later meeting.

PICTON

Two Large 'Lunge Taken from County Waters this Week

Picton—Two of the 'biggest fish of the season' were landed by fishermen in Prince Edward County waters this week. Ted Rutter of Picton had topped the biggest specimens of muskellunge with one weighing 23½ pounds. He landed it in West Lake after a 35-minute battle, Monday night. It measured 48 inches in length. Another nice muskie taken over the weekend was a twenty-pounder landed by Douglas Wamsley of Picton just outside Picton harbor.

Biggest pickerel reported is one weighing ten pounds three ounces. It was taken off Indian Point by Mrs. George Frays of Bentleyville, Penn. It measured 37½ inches in length.

Other good catches include a 18-pound muskie taken off Adolphustown by Robert Johnston of Rochester.

Fishing in Smiths Bay, off Waupoos, John Hudak, Donald Taylaferro and Frank, Joe and Mike Taylaferro of Cleveland, Ohio, landed 36 pike during a week's fishing along with a number of bass and pickerel. The largest pike weighed just under 16 pounds.

Fishing in the inland lakes of the county, as well as in the surrounding waters, is exceptionally good at the present time.

GRAIN vs. ORE

Canada's deputy transport minister, J. C. Lessard, above, heading special committee of government shipping and grain experts now in session at Ottawa, has stated that strong action is needed to alleviate months-old problem of western Canada grain transportation. He indicated that transport controller may be appointed by government with power to redirect scarce Great Lakes shipping from essential iron ore and coal, needed in defense production, into grain trade. The committee is now dealing with problem of shipping this year's estimated record 382,000,000-bushel wheat crop. — Central Press Canadian.

A WRONG SET OF VALUES

Like everything else, the cost of making war is going up. This information, is, of course, hardly news to the general public because everything that happens anymore is blamed on the cost of defence.

The world is still struggling to pay its debts for the First and Second World Wars and already it is being impoverished by the defence costs against a third world war. The staggering losses of the last conflict have yet to be totalled.

Some demon statistician has figured out that it cost Julius Caesar about 75 cents to kill a barbarian. That included the cost of making swords, building and maintaining ships, and feeding and provisioning a soldier in the field. Rome's citizen army, unlike any army of modern time, paid for the chance to fight and the subsequent rewards of being on the spot to collect booty.

Today the object of war is to kill the enemy. Not a nice thought, but neither is war very pleasant. From the 75 cent killing of Caesar, costs have been soaring. The price of paying the spear-sharpener two loaves of bread a day in Caesar's time has risen to the point where it takes a million dollars to clothe a pilot in a jet plane, transport him to the scene of conflict, supply him with the fuel, landing strips, and special equipment that he needs for coming face to face with a similar expensively-garbed opponent. And when the fight is over one man is dead, and it has cost a million dollars to kill him.

The free nations of the world are spending billions of dollars to defend their ideas and their ideals from the encroachment of communism. They have placed 250,000 soldiers on the Korean peninsula to punish an act of aggression. And even as the rival commanders parley in the Korean fields, the whole of Asia lies prostrate with strife and poverty ready to nurture the weeds of further aggression. While the task of track manpower from Korea to halt a manifestation of these evils a whole continent is by-passed by the very streams of men, materials, and money that could revive it and place it beyond the grasp of aggressors.

It is a commentary on human affairs that free men are forced to spend billions of dollars to destroy life, and must continue to do so, while half the world's population could be reborn in hope and in fact at a fraction of this cost.

THE LOCOMOTIVE WHISTLE'S CHARM

(Watertown Daily Times)

Diesel-driven locomotives spell progress, but their sharp whistles are far from friendly sounding, whether met suddenly on some unexpected bit of track crossing a road or heard piercingly in the night. Imagine then the relief that was felt when the word came that the Southern Railway had given up the diesel whistle as one feature of progress which was not desirable. The locomotives in Illinois will continue to be driven by diesel engine power, but the old steam whistle are to be returned.

Now retired railroad men who live along the line will be much more contented, and middle-aged folks who have grown up with the locomotive's whistle sounding across the land will feel satisfaction in the familiar. Those of any age will learn to welcome the sound of the engine whistle as it notes the approach of the train around the bend, over the bridge and the note of the whistle sent back by the echo through the cut. They will set their watches by it in the daytime, and at night be assured that the world is still running and on time.

Were Thomas Wolfe the novelist still living he would be among those to rejoice that the sharp horns of the diesel engine had been given up, for he was a man who relished the dignity and might of the iron monster, and who could summon up nostalgic memories when he wrote of the train whistle at night, in the night, the long "Whoooo-ooo-ooo" carried through the valley then slowly lost over the sleeping countryside.

SWITCHED LABELS

(Vancouver Province)

A Miami man added variations to his druggist. The druggist filled them both and, in some way, interchanged the labels which gave the directions for using the medicines. In the meantime, he had been rubbing stomach medicine on his scalp each day and taking a spoonful of hair tonic after each meal.

He might as well have saved himself the trouble and expense, for the scalp developed no powers of digestion and the stomach grew no hair.

Perhaps Canada's inflation remedies, which do not seem to be working, are being applied in the wrong place. Have the labels been switched?

IT'S A COMPLIMENT

Son, keep in mind from day to day,
Although you may be over-baked,
It is a compliment they pay
When you to serve a cause are asked.
What skills are called upon to do
Is proof that men have faith in you.

Oh, some there are who never learn
This simple truth until too late;
That civic leaders never turn
For aid, although the need be great,
To selfish, lazy men or those
'Tis those that they can trust and seek.

I say, be glad and very proud
When service you are asked to share.
It is a privilege allowed
Only to men who greatly care.
From such a call don't run away,
It is a compliment they pay.

It is easy for us to quote St. Paul's statement that all things work together for good to them that love God. This is beyond simple trust. But it is hard to remember it in the hour or day of adversity. Furthermore, we can say it to others easier than we can say it to ourselves. But the brave must understand the meaning of such a statement. They do not have to be told that this came out of the Word of God. They know it did.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ON KEEPING COURAGEOUS

Once in a while I encounter a book so helpful in the living of our daily lives that I feel like passing on news about it to my readers.

Recently there came to my hands "Roads to Radiant Living" by Charles L. Allen. Among the many articles one especially impressed me. It is entitled "Life is Good." It tells the story of a man who lost his wife, his home and job and finally lost it all, but who kept up his courage nevertheless and met his situation with faith. During the days of his prosperity, this rich man had had a saying hanging on the wall above his desk, and he would read it to everybody who came to his office complaining. This was the statement: "I con-

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Canadians and Americans come busting over to England with brief cases, cricket matches, programs and plans. What are these snowflakes to be seen drifting in the pleasant summer air of London? They are torn-up agendas, programs and plans that Canadians and Americans have chucked out their upstairs hotel windows. It takes about three or four days for England to cut the mustard and clean everything from abroad down to size, and to get him on step with them. With a kindly, sardonic smile, the Old Countryman sits and watches the crying struggle and the failure of enterprise with which we are all filled for a few days after arrival in this mild and patient land.

Al Capp, the cartoonist and creator of Li'l Abner, is in England for a few weeks, and an enterprising London magazine took him out to a cricket match to make some pictures of him watching the game for a couple of days. I saw Al after this experience; and while he looked a little dazed, not having understood a single thing about cricket—and I couldn't have helped him there—he said:

"If these people can sit around in the afternoon drinking and looking at nothing, what is wrong with their sitting around drinking tea and looking at a cricket match?"

The air of leisure is wholly deceptive. Of the six men, Canadian and American, whom I have met in my hotel alone, three were here looking for experts to take home. One wants a dye chemist, one wants an electronics engineer, and the third is hunting for a tobacco in Arabic to join a great university faculty in the United States. Some of the people who fraternize with Canadians and Americans is that even when we are not working, we try to be interesting and amusing.

In Britain, it appears to be the reverse.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

HAPPY VALLEY

A letter in the mail this day from Maesteg, Wales, and so add another chapter to a story I find warming in the heart. Indeed, whenever a letter comes from that small and distant place I feel that perhaps, after all, there is some slight hope for the human race.

Maesteg is one of the many little mining towns in the Rhondda Fach, the smaller of the two Rhondda valleys, the cheerless valleys of coal where the streams are black the night with dust from the pits.

I was there when I covered the last British election, and came away with a deep and lasting regard for the people I met, and an unshakeable faith in the British Labor government.

Everyone in the Rhondda Fawr and the Rhondda Fach has a memory of degrading poverty over a period of some 30 years, and the people who went through it with such wonderful guts, the younger generation know of it almost as a legend of despair.

When I encounter people on this side of the Atlantic who talk or write critically of Britain's socialising of the mines I could weep for their ignorance. Before the state-owned coal system the mine-owners cared only for their profits, their royalties. Safety in the mines? The mines were worked when the price was right, conditions were unbearable. Methods were wasteful and slipshod.

I met families in Maesteg (the letter before me is from one) who remember the days when they could get only a day's work every week, left school to join their fathers and brothers on the dole, who lived on scraps. Not all families, but families in which a man has not died under the earth to keep the pot a-boiling.

Home and Town

The remarkable story of the Rhondda is that it could ever be a place of happiness. Somehow the people managed to rise to the desperate conditions that governed their lives.

On the surface it seems a gloomy place. In the narrow, hill-side streets of Maesteg, itself, you see stern faced men, as grim of visage as the sombre smoke-colored terraced hills that rise on either side of the valley. The long years of poverty left their scars. The man-made mantle of coal, the ruin of apparatus or the pit-heads poking up through the valley mist, the misery and bleakness that surrounded contribute to a first impression of quiet, timeless tragedy.

But with nationalization and all the people were strengthened. They found that they could live in a community life and toughed it out together, in the darkest and barest of days, and they kept their bright curtains and bright hospitality. When you enter a Maesty home you are engulfed by the warmth of a fire in the hearth, the sound of laughter and the music of the Welsh, at once a lament and a song of hope.

The families gather together and all life centres about the Workmen's Institute Social Hall, the place where people dance or see movies. The very old gather to reminisce, and everyone participates in the contests of melody and drama. Until you have heard a choir of Rhondda Valley miners and their wives you have not heard true beauty in song. Someone has called it "an anthem to courage" and that is very true.

In my own visit I felt myself deeply moved by the quiet determination of these people, their sense of right and wrong, their devotion to each other.

In many families I saw the parents sacrificing everything for their children. In one home I was present when a daughter came home from the university, school and I saw tears of pride and fulfilment in the eyes of a man who has spent a lifetime drawing coal from the ground for just that moment.

More Progress

There were splendid things going on in Maesteg. I was there some years ago and a great wave of hope for the future. I learn from my letter that it is still there, continuing and growing thing.

There are technical schools for the boys and an extension of a job when they graduate. The government has given new life to the industries into the valleys so that no longer do these people rely on their labor alone, but themselves, are being run efficiently and with the future in mind.

When I was there the plans were completed for pit-head facilities, but even then, when I walked home with a group of miners, their faces blackened and grimy, Now, I think, there are baths and showers and refreshments at a canteen and go home looking like human beings. It is a little thing, perhaps, but in the Rhondda it is a king of confirmation of their importance to the country's economy.

At the moment, they write, there is a major program to study and eliminate the silicosis (miner's consumption) and the government is X-raying the entire population of the valley."

There will be no more or the kind of poverty I visited in Maesty, wasted shells of men confined to their beds for the rest of their days, with their wives at their beside them to keep them alive.

A lot of people these days are writing Britain off as a power in the world. Yet when I read a letter like this, when I've been for myself what existence, what agitation can do, I know that so long as there is a Maesty there will be a Britain.

10-Mile Swim Big Attraction At Exhibition

Toronto, Aug. 29—(CP)— The annual 10-mile world championship marathon swim is today's big attraction at the Canadian National Exhibition, with an estimated 100,000 persons expected to be swimming through the Lake Ontario water for harvest fame and fortune.

Cliff Lumsden, fair-haired 20-year-old from suburban New Toronto, was ready, as were 20 others entered, to defend the title he has won the last two years. The husky Lumsden is the favorite among the 21 out of the $5,000 first prize for the third time.

Other contestants for the $2,500 in prize money included two former champions, Ben Gazzi, 40, of Toronto, who won in 1947 and Steve Wozniak, 35, of Buffalo, N.Y., the 1946 winner.

The two-year ban on Toronto lake-front yesterday was 67 degrees and exhibition officials predicted it would climb higher by the time of the starting gun. Swimmers said a water temperature of 67 degrees is ideal. On other daily events this years, cold water has forced many competitors to give up in early laps of the grind.

This also is food products and mercantile day. Throughout the day, admission prices which are changed for free prices are given away at the rate of 100 a minute to crowds in the food products building. In addition, at night there will be a draw for prizes including a television set, an electric stove and a refrigerator, plus 50 food hampers.

Attendance to date is about 22,000 ahead of the total for the first four days of 1950. Yesterday, 186,500 persons passed through the turnstiles, compared with 167,000 on the corresponding day last year.

MINIATURE FOOTBALL

For the benefit of parents, members of the board of education, school superintendents, physical instructors, family physicians and school children themselves I quote this statement from McKenzie's classic, Exercise in Education and Medicine:

"There is always danger of exhaustion and overstrain from excessive athletic competition, but early adolescence and middle age are the danger periods. The heart of the boy of fifteen is in no condition to withstand the exhaustion of extreme tests like the so-called Marathon races. Any distance run for boys should be broken by rests or changes of pace...about this time" (that is, adolescence, high school age) "a lad's ambition is apt to outstrip his locomotility."

As yet no medical authority has taken issue with the statement that American football is a dangerous strain for the heart of a growing boy—it is a game for college or university men who have attained adult development.

The physical education authority has defended high school football, as far as I know.

I have received numerous letters from teen-age boys who play football. Some of these letters are abusive, some courteous, some show the indifference to grammar, spelling and punctuation in our modern schools.

Several boys have claimed that basketball is a greater strain than football because of the shorter time for rest between plays.

Even so, it would be a mistake to assume that football is a heart strain which can be repaired by a few days' rest. The real harm has been done. That is the same kind of fallacy as the notion, popular among drinkers, that one can undo the harm done by excesses and refreshments at a canteen and go home looking like human beings. It is a little thing, perhaps, but in the Rhondda it is a king of confirmation of their importance to the country's economy.

At the moment, they write, there is a major program to study and eliminate the silicosis (miner's consumption) and the government is X-raying the entire population of the valley."

There will be no more or the kind of poverty I visited in Maesty, wasted shells of men confined to their beds for the rest of their days, with their wives at their beside them to keep them alive.

A lot of people these days are writing Britain off as a power in the world. Yet when I read a letter like this, when I've been for myself what existence, what agitation can do, I know that so long as there is a Maesty there will be a Britain.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE COMICS

No need for further evidence that people want laughs and well selected entertainment in their daily papers than the comic pages. The daily comics have become a world institution. In every country in the world you will find them, regardless of the cost of newsprint.

At close second to the news in every newspaper are these comic strips. Few papers dare touch them. Even in the editorial issue now and some go as far as to furnish two pages. Not all are good, but there is such a variety that one's individual taste is attended to, making the page appeal universally.

The power of these comics is tremendous, influencing the young especially, and placing a great responsibility upon those who write and draw them. The wide distribution of the more popular strips gives evidence of their importance as a means of entertainment. Their appeal is a universal one, or you would not find them in practically every newspaper in the world.

As a newspaper man myself, and a student of comics for most of my life, I can testify that great strides have been made in making the comics more wholesome, clean, and instructive, as well as humorous and entertaining. There is still room for much improvement, however. Those which deal with the goings on of the underworld, and which are fled to what we all may experience in our daily lives, have the greatest and most permanent interest.

I recall a popular comic of a few years ago which featured a character so unique that many people voted for him in the election which Mayor Bowman's term became so well known that the comics stood him, and indeed they are real to those who have their favorites.

When attending in line for a movie not long ago I asked the woman in front of me if she read the comics and she said that she did—many of them. I asked her favorite and she told me. I asked if it is a universal one, or you would not find them in practically every newspaper in the world.

And right along in her own home.

When should a family borrow

A family should borrow only when a loan is the best solution to a money problem. For example, to pay old debts, medical expenses or taxes. Or to buy or repair a home. Loans for these reasons are not inflationary. They are not used to buy goods in short supply.

SOLVING MONEY PROBLEMS

At HFC—Household Finance—we believe a family should borrow only when, by careful planning, the money problem can be resolved, and the loan repaid in an orderly manner. We do not want to borrow under these circumstances, it is simply "renting" money on terms often high. At HFC you may borrow $25, $50, $100 or more on your signature, without bonafide security.

Destruction Indescribable During War in Great Britain Fred Hart Tells Kiwanians

"To know England as I have to be and to see it now, is an experience that is unforgettable" said Fred Hart, retired Inspector of Weights and Measures for the Belleville District in an address on his recent trip to Great Britain delivered to the Kiwanis luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club Tuesday noon.

"The destruction is indescribable. Picture yourself going up Fleet Street, along the Strand, past St. Paul's and into Threadneedle Street. What remains are acres and acres of rubble with not a building going up."

"I went to the law courts," he continued, "and the library with its priceless documents is just a gutted shell. But the people do not complain. There is no talking like a hearyard about their sufferings. They are humble. The men tell you how wonderful the women were and the women say that the men were wonderful during the war."

"One English chap summed it up, I thought. He said that the people over there wondered what it was like. You worried about us and possibly prayed for us. But here we took it on the chin and for a week' wondered if something was up when the planes didn't come over. You would feel the same way if it I ever happened in Canada."

Mr. Hart then went on to describe the enormous amount of destruction which he saw in Plymouth, Bristol, Southampton, Birmingham, and London.

Just Piles of Rubble

"God only knows how much they suffered, and how many were killed," the speaker said. "The destruction of the workers' houses was indescribable. Street after street was just a pile of rubble. And yet, I think that these people who stood and suffered the most and saved the world, would do it again without complaint."

"Even now," he stated, "they are still on rations. Their measly ration of meat for a week is no bigger than a individual cup. Their tea ration is minute and they decorly love a cup of tea. They get one-and-one-half ounces of bacon and cheese a week. For empire cheese, that is cheese from Canada and Australia and New Zealand, they pay about 25 cents Canadian money a pound. That cheese here I understand is about 35 cents a pound FOR the necessary. The difference is made up by a subsidy by the government. "The shopkeepers make little profit from its sale."

Then, even at that the people don't grumble, I didn't hear a grouch all the time I was there. There has been tragedy and hardship but the people still have their sense of humour. While I was there I don't think I saw more than two drunks and then at one place it was rumored that the chap was an American soldier in civies."

Impressed Soon

"I don't think I am giving away any secrets when I say that there is preparedness in England. I went through a tank park on the Great Eastern Railway and for miles, jammed in trees-to-tread were army tanks. There are still pillboxes in the eastern counties and roadblocks are still built by the sides of the roads. At Sand's End the barb wire, rusty and worn though it may be, still stands."

"And everywhere you see the army. And they are undergoing training of the most rigorous kind."

"The Americans are everywhere," he continued. "They have army camps and airdromes all through England but especially along the east coast. All day and all night you hear the jets going over and the drone of the big planes."

Mr. Hart continued his address with his observations of the political situation in Great Britain.

"It is not getting as much from the Labor government as they do, I think it was Labor too," he said. "It seems that every 12th man in the country has a hearing aid and just about everyone has glasses."

Cannot Blame People

He then told his audience of the hospitalization care that is given free to the people even when they are in a position to pay for it.

"When the people get these services you can't blame them if they support," he stated.

He then remarked on the numbers or healthy, robust children to be seen in England and commented on the diet, which has produced such results.

Mr. Hart then commented on the beauty of Princess Elizabeth whom he saw twice at close range in Birmingham and noted that "pictures do not do her justice."

He concluded his address by creating vivid word pictures of the late blooming English countryside which he saw in all its glory.

"England may be down," he remarked in quoting statistics on the destruction of some of the English cities, "but she is not out. "I doubt that that nation will ever be destroyed," he said, "for she is just as determined to survive now as she ever was in the past."

He was introduced to the meeting by Kiwanis President, Everett Fairman and the thanks of the club were expressed by Jack Walton.

Special Guests

Special guests at the luncheon included Arthur Fordham, pitcher with the Redmen baseball team, who was given a laudatory introduction by Ray Schwenk, and the Ryan and Jack Elliott, pitchers for the Walker Hardware and Schwab's entries in the Pee Wee Baseball League who were presented by Walter Bent.

It was announced that, John Fisher would deliver an address to the Intermediate Kiwanis council in September; that a member had offered the use of his farm for a corn roast at a date to be announced; that the clubs wished to thank Ras Roblin for the picnic which he held last Wednesday at his home; that Kiwanian Andy Anderson had returned to the city after a serious illness; that past-president Taylor Franklin had maintained his unbroken attendance for the past six years by holding a directors' meeting in his hospital room; and that Shell Eston had donated the meal's freestone peaches.

Secretary Ted Clark was presented with a tractor as a consolation prize for failing to win the tractor driving contest at Ras Roblin's last Wednesday.

CAMPBELLFORD

Police-Sponsored Sports Day Proves Success

Campbellford Aug. 29 —The OPP midget baseball team and a team from the Cobourg Boys' Training School got together at a sports day organized by Provincial Constable Donald W. Erskine of Campbellford on Monday afternoon at the baseball diamond at Burnbrae a few miles east of Campbellford.

A truckload of boys from Cobourg arrived to participate in the sports day, under the direction of Jim Lamy, youth director for the Cobourg school.

The Kawartha Police Association had planned to hold many such inter-town and country league games throughout the summer months, but although this pre-conceived plan appears to have fallen short of its expectations in some municipalities teams in the local district have been getting all any fostering their baseball activities, free movies and other such entertainment.

Merchants Donate Refreshments

This was believed to be the first such team of youngsters from Cobourg ever to play in Campbellford, and Sports Director Lamy thinks the results a good idea in promoting good sportsmanship and understanding that he had arranged a return game to be played in Cobourg on Friday Aug. 24.

Merchants in Campbellford, as well as the parents of the local boys, donated soft drinks, sandwiches, cakes, cookies and chocolate bars for the occasion. These were soon devoured by the boys after the ball game and races.

Constable Erskine presented members of each team with a ball and a bat, donated by Lloyd's Sports Shop, for their good sportsmanship and clean play. His efforts on behalf of the boys were roundly applauded by both teams

The score wound up 33 to 15 for the Campbellford boys, but nobody worried about the score, it was the fellowship that counted.

The lineup was as follows:

Cobourg: Ron Gillis c, Mike Floyd cf, J. Smith 3b, Stuart Richardson ss, Ed. Sergeant rf, Leroy Risch 2b, Richard MacDonald lf, Larry White rf, Lloyd Anderson lf, Larry Dorsay, Fred Segriff and Ernest Alley—good.

Campbellford, OPP Midgets — Jim Hagerman c, Les Billen 1f, Bruce Mehlenbein p, Art Nelson 1b, Ralph Erskine ss, Ross Barnum 3b, Ralph Fry lf, Karl Fry 2b, Carl Owens cf.

WageBoard Takes Over Strike, May Toss it Back

Washington, Aug. 29—(AP)—The Wage Stabilization Board took over the copper strike at President Truman's request today amid signs it would toss the dispute right back to the president if the walkout continues.

The board has asked the striking Mine, Mill and Smelter workers' Union (Ind.), along with a dozen A. F. L. and other unions made idle by picket line, to go back to work while it holds hearings in the dispute.

The Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union refused but said it would have a delegation at today's hearings.

Some officials said the board would ask the strikers to show cause why they would not call off the strike, which has cut off 95 per cent of copper production in the United States. Lead and zinc output along with sulphuric acid, also have been cut by the walkout over wage and other contract demands.

Should the strike continue after the board's show-cause hearing, Truman may be advised that the board cannot proceed.

May Invoke Provision

The next likely step would be to invoke the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, which calls for a court injunction against the strikers after a board of inquiry looks into the facts.

That would take about 10 days, during which copper stockpiles may be reduced to a dangerous level.

The Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers want the federal government to press the industry into acceptance of an over-all increase of 20½ cents an hour, about 10 cents less than the union had originally asked. Wages now run from $1.31 for service laborers to $1.53 for miners. But Kennecott Copper, one of the industry's "big four," rejected the proposed settlement.

John Clark, president of the union, said in Denver that a delegation of "rank and file" workers would attend today's hearings, along with spokesmen for the union.

Aw, they'll only jaff at me because I've got a tooth out, I said, and pop said, Let them jaff. There's no shame in having a missing tooth. The only shame is in being ashamed. Monotonous Diet for Many Greeks Years After War

By JOHN VAN DRUSEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa. (CP)—Boiled leaves and beans with a pinch of salt—that's the monotonous diet for many in Greece, six years after the Second World War ended.

A grim picture of starvation and malnutrition in northern Greece was unfolded here by Dr. Otto Hitschmanova, executive secretary of the Unitarian service committee in Canada. She had just returned from a two-months tour of battle-scarred Europe.

This was the sixth annual fact-finding visit for the red-haired social worker. She welcomed the press in a cubby-hole office (45 Sparks Street) swamped with letters from grateful mothers across Europe.

Alone and one wall were pinned pictures in crayon by children of these mothers, and by children without mothers.

In a small cabinet beside her desk, carefully wrapped in cellophane were two beautifully embroidered tablecloths embroidered and loomed by girls in the committee's training centres.

The trim, uniformed woman described her 10-day journey through France, Austria, Italy and Greece, but her main interest lay in the Macedonian and Northern Greece, where she said $30,000 "is needed now to help them."

Starvation Rampant

Dr. Hitschmanova spent 12 days travelling through Grammos, Vitsi and Pallas mountains in northern Greece. She talked to 700,000 refugees who returned home in 1949-50 to find 472 villages destroyed.

In one village the mayor said: "We would eat anything a little softer than rocks, nor lives are in your hands".

She drew pictures of children, stomachs bloated with hunger—"because in many villages they are fed only meat, after slaughtering of boiled leaves and beans." She told of a woman who, for lack of anything better, was attempting to cultivate fields with an ax, and of a woman who had nothing but a loaf of bread between her and starvation.

"These people in Greece will surely die if aid does not come soon," she said.

The Unitarian service is a voluntary relief organization now to our association."

Friends Honor William Cooke On Retirement

A very pleasant evening was spent recently when about 35 friends and relatives of Mr. Will Cooke gathered together and surprised him on his 65th birthday.

The evening was very enjoyably spent playing euchre and talking over the good times all had enjoyed with Mr. Cooke. Music and vocal numbers were furnished by Mrs. Clarence Bell Rombough, of Foxboro.

Dr. Clarence Beatty very capably acted as chairman and gave an interesting speech on what Mr. Cooke was to neighbor Mr. Cooke has been and the good times most of them had enjoyed fishing and hunting with him. All hoped to enjoy many more good times together.

At the close of the evening the hostess, Mrs. N. Hannah served delicious refreshments. Mrs. Earl Saarr and Mrs. H. Gardner.

Mr. Cooke was not only celebrating his birthday but as well his completion of 48 years on the C.N.R.

Three Court Queens Named On Glamor Team

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—You needn't be beautiful to play tennis but it helps, says Harry Conover, head of the model agency bearing his name.

He names three court queens and a net umpire today in his 1951 all-glamor team of sports

The only requisite for surveyor, Nancy Chaffee, dark-haired tennis star of Ventura, Calif., who recently has received more attention as the fiancee of Pittsburg Pirates' Ralph Kiner than as the sixth best female player in the United States.

"To my mind, Miss Chaffee still is the most beautiful and most exciting woman athlete in the world," said Conover.

Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott, Olympic figure-skating champion, was on Conover's glamor lineup last year, but she didn't hit a spot in the 1951 lineup.

Conover said he picked the five-willing athletes after a study made by his office for outstanding model possibilities.

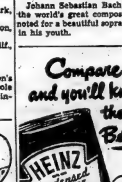
Here's Conover's 1951 pick: Nancy Chaffee, Ventura, Calif., tennis.

Joy Mottram, England, tennis

Beverly Baker, Santa Monica, Calif., tennis.

Alli Markoff, Forest Hills, N.Y., tennis umpire.

Katy Rodolph, Hayden, Colo., skiing.



Mrs. Catherine Fox Park, Bloomfield, N.J., golf.

Mary Freeman, Washington, D.C., swimming.

Diana Lewis, Glendale, Calif., swimming.

New British Cloth May Be Shaken Dry

Bradford, England. (CP)—A shake is all that's needed to dry the latest thing here in shower-proof clothing.

Materials treated with a new process, developed by the Bradford Dyers' Association, should banish the old bugbear—a water-proof carried over the skin. Dresses can be processed for only a few shillings, and stand up to a cloudburst.

The scientists turned a hosepipe on the dress I was wearing," said a girl tester. "They gave me a thorough drenching but after a few shakes, and a wriggle, there wasn't a damp spot or a crease anywhere."

It's handy too for the latest cocktail and evening dress. If someone spills a drink, it can be shaken off with a smile. And the proofing is not affected by dry-cleaning. Garments were tested six successive times.

Only limited supplies of the materials are reaching the market at present as processing depends on the import of a water-proofing chemical. Scientists, however, hope supplies will be adequate by spring.

40th Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

Eldorado—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chambers, of Madoc township, were pleasantly surprised on Thursday evening, when their family and also Mr. and Mrs. Chambers' brothers and sisters gathered at one of Mr. Walter Brett's cottages, on Bass Lake, where Mr. and Mrs. Chambers were spending a few days' vacation, to honor them on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary.

The evening was spent in visiting with each other and as the evening rolled by the bride and groom of 40 years were asked to be seated on the chesterfield and were then presented with gifts from those present by their oldest grandchild, Marie Chambers, after which everyone took part in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows".

Refreshments were served by their daughter, Mrs. Harry McCoy and daughters-in-law, Mrs. Elmer Chambers and Mrs. Harold Chambers.

Guests were present from Madoc, Windsor, Peterborough and Chesley.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about FOOD ... What's Cooking?

There are times to wash food and times when water should be avoided.

Raw meat, for instance, should not be washed since water carries away the soluble vitamins. It should be wiped with a damp cloth or else trimmed if necessary. Raw poultry and fish may be washed since the nutrients tend to cling to the body cavity.

Raw vegetables should be washed before cooking, but not after cooking since washing in the latter case carries away flavor and nutrients.

Spaghetti, macaroni and noodles should be rinsed in cold water to remove the loose starch particles that cling to these products. The warm water is those instances has no more effect on the flavor than the cooking water. Occasionally a self-appointed spaghetti spokesman will hurl darts at anyone who suggests washing cooked spaghetti. Washing, however, eliminates the gummy consistency which you can often detect by running your finger over a cooked batch of such foods. Rinse the cooked noodles in the day's recipe. Drain them well. Flavor them with a few spoons of caraway seeds. Pour the hot ham sauce over the noodles just before serving.

Noodles With Ham Sauce

1-2 cup finely chopped onions
1-2 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
1-2 cup finely chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons butter
No. 2 can tomatoes
4 ounces can tomato paste
1-2 teaspoon finely chopped dried basil
2 cups finely chopped ham
Salt—pepper—sugar
8 ounces medium size noodles
2 teaspoons poppy seeds

In a heavy saucepan put the onions, garlic, green pepper and butter. Saute very slowly, stirring frequently until the vegetables are tender.

Chop the tomatoes fine. Use Italian style plum tomatoes if possible. Add the tomatoes together with their juice and the tomato paste to the pan. Add the basil and the ham.

Simmer slowly until the sauce reaches a medium thickness. Skim any excess fat from the sauce. Add salt, pepper and sugar to taste.

Cook the noodles in rapidly boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Rinse well in hot water. Add the poppy seeds with the noodles.

Pour the hot ham sauce over the noodles in the serving plates.

Away at Wedding Find Homes Wreck

Gravesend, England — (CP) — While occupants of two cottages in this Hertfordshire town were away attending a wedding, somebody with a sharp axe and an'overgrown grudge had a field day.

This was the trail of devastation that greeted Mrs. Mary Burd and Percy Pilkington when they returned to their respective homes.

Practically every piece of furniture had been smashed, upholstery slashed to ribbons and the water taps turned on, flooding the premises.

A new sideboard had been reduced to fragments, the knobs of every drawer hacked off and the contents strewn about the place. The grider's axe had been buried in the panelled base of a new dining-table and its top chopped into kindling wood.

In the Pilkington residence, the radio set was wrecked, a settee and two easy chairs chopped to pieces and here again the water in the bathrooms was left running.

Then the destructive prowler went upstairs, stole an assortment of clothing and £20. On the way out he called it quits after ripping off 15 stair rails and damaging the stair carpet loose.

"I didn't know that I had an enemy in the world," remarked Mrs. Burd. "But I have now and I sure would like a few minutes alone with this maniac."

Frisky Going Fox Is Family's Pet

Toronto, (CP)— There's only one letter's difference between "pet" and "peil", but it's a big difference to 13-year-old Audrey Hinds.

Audrey, who lives in suburban Willowdale, has a pet fox called Freddy and she is getting a little weary of people telling her Freddy would make a better pet than a pet.

Freddy was found playing with the Hinds' two dogs on their lawn four months ago. Older than the dogs, Pat captured the fox and gave it to Audrey.

"Although he takes the occasional nip at strangers, and has eaten the family's pet rabbit "Snow White", Freddy is there to stay and has no intention of running away.

He knows Audrey's affection for him is more than skin deep.

Kilted Scots Win Air Cadet Drill at C.N.E.

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP)—Traffic headaches, exhibits and a forecast of the future shared the spotlight Tuesday on the fourth day of the Canadian National Exhibition.

Crowds estimated at 186,000 squeezed through the mechanical building—it was automotive and electrical day—to see 20 different makes of cars on display along with machinery and home appliances.

Outside the grounds, traffic crawled in the choked lanes despite the efforts of loudspeaker-equipped police trucks.

C. N. E. officials have complained that dazed motorists, especially Americans, were finding themselves caught in the stream of cars and ending up far past the exhibition grounds.

Col. John Page, C. N. E. traffic director, said that the traffic conditions were making "bad friends for Toronto and for the exhibition."

A group of kilted Scots walked off with the fourth international air cadet drill competition and the General Ross Trophy—the first time since the trophy was established in 1948 that a team from outside the dominion won the competition.

Defeat Canadians

The kilted visitors earned 367 points out of a possible 400, to defeat the Canadian champions who scored 361. The United States entry from the civil air patrol wing of the civil air patrol earned 360.

R. Kyle, 18, of Glasgow accepted the trophy from General Lucas V. Beau, national commander of the United States Civil Air Patrol and donor of the trophy.

L. Wing. Co. Edmunston, N. B., led the Canadian team.

H. M. Turner, president of the Canadian General Electric Company, predicted yesterday that by 1960 at least 1,000,000 more men will be employed by Canadian industry.

He told the C. N. E. directors' luncheon that Canadians have two aims:

"The first is to develop fully our natural resources to provide a fuller life—not only for ourselves but, through world trade, for other nations as well."

"The second is to make sure this continent and the free world strong enough to deter "possible aggressors."

He predicted the population of Canada by 1960 would exceed 16,000,000.

Old No. 6400 Not Ready For Royal Tour

Stratford, Aug. 29 (CP) — A game but tired giant was be unable to keep her appointment with Princess Elizabeth and Prince Phillip.

No. 6400, locomotive of the Canadian National Railways that pulled the Royal train for a portion of the 1939 Royal tour, won't hit the glory road again.

Workers in the motive power shops here reported today that the engine, painted in the Royal colors and bearing the Royal coat of arms on her sides, cannot be prepared in time for this year's Royal tour.

"She's got excessive boiler work to be done and she needs almost an entirely new firebox," said Walter Davis, foreman of the erecting shop.

Instead, two of her sister engines—No.s 6401 and 6403—will take her place.

Three Remanded Another Week In Race 'Fix'

Fort Erie, Ont., Aug. 29 (CP)— Three men charged with conspiracy in connection with a race here July 25, today were remanded one week at the request of Crown Attorney T. F. Forstell.

Bail for the three, Henry Dunne of Chicago and Brooklyn, jockey Johnny Wankmueller of Newark, N.J., and Frank Michaels of Buffalo, N. Y., was renewed.

Bail was set at $10,000 property for Dunne, $3,000 cash for Wankmueller and $3,000 cash for Michaels.

Mr. Forestell said the Ontario Racing Commission, continuing its investigations into alleged race fixing at Toronto and Fort Erie tracks at Niagara Falls, Ont., is not ready to present its evidence against the trio.

The Commission ordered the three men arrested in connection with a race won by North Drive that was allegedly "rigged."

Crown Prince Placed Into Nerve Clinic By Father Says Paper

Zurich, Switzerland, Aug. 29— (AP) — The newspaper Die Tat said today that Crown Prince Talal of Jordan was "stuck into a nerve clinic by his father (King Abdullah) for political reasons."

The paper said Talal was held to the throne of Jordan tried to escape a few hours after he heard the news of Abdullah's assassination, but was taken back to the clinic by force. The newspaper said a Swiss government investigation into what it called "the internment" of Prince Talal at the Rives De Prangins clinic on Lake Geneva.

Dr. Jamil Faik Tutungi, Jordan's minister of health, visited Talal last week and later issued a statement that the Prince's treatment had been completed and said Talal would leave for Jordan after a short convalescence, "to assume his future responsibilities in the Hashemite Jordan Kingdom."

SPAIN WELCOMED TO ALLIED CAMP

Fate of Truce Talks Rests On Red Command

Tokyo, Aug. 29 — (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway put it squarely up to the communists today to decide the fate of Korean War truce talks.

The United Nations commander curtly refused to investigate again the alleged Kaesong bombing incident. But he said the Allies would resume armistice negotiations whenever the reds are ready to end their "unjustifiable delays" of the conference.

The general view here was that Ridgway's message to the communist commanders left them almost no alternatives but to back down or break off the disrupted conference completely.

Ridgway did not even mention the communist demand that he admit a U. N. plane bombed the truce site. He has called the whole incident a fraud.

Would Prolong Delay

His message to the North Korean premier, Kim Il Sung, and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, dealt only with their request that he send his liaison officers back to Kaesong to look at new evidence.

"A reinvestigation after this lapse of time," Ridgway said, "could serve no purpose other than to sanction this unjustifiable delay in the armistice negotiations."

The U. N. commander observed that during the original investigation a few hours after he asserted bombing the night of Aug. 22, a red liaison officer "specifically refused the requests of my liaison officer to continue the investigation during daylight and to leave all of the alleged evidence in place.

This was a flat contradiction of a statement in the message from Kim and Peng to which Ridgway was replying.

The red generals said "We did not on the night of the 22nd reject your making of the reinvestigation in daylight."

Ridgway's note told the reds — "When you are prepared" to resume truce talks "I will direct my representatives to meet with yours, with a view to seeking a reasonable armistice agreement".

Winnie Leuszler Welcomed Home After Swim

Toronto, Aug. 29. (CP)—Winnie Roach Leuszler, suburban North York mother who swam the English Channel, came home today.

Ticker tape swirled, confetti fluttered, crowds cheered along Bay Street as Winnie rode shrewdly up to the city hall step where Mayor Hiram McCallum welcomed her.

Her husband and father were beside her in one car, and her mother and three children followed in another.

In a brief acceptance speech when Toronto presented her with a silver tea set, Winnie said how glad she was "to have been able to bring a little honor to Canada."

Crowds shouted "Nice going, Winnie", "Good." For You, Winnie", and "Hurrah for North York".

Then she drove off to her home in North York for another celebration.

Truman Orders Arlington Burial For Indian Soldier

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP) — President Truman today ordered the burial in Arlington National Cemetery of a Winnebago Indian killed in action in Korea, whose interment was balked at Sioux City, Ia., because of his Indian blood.

Truman acted after reading a news story that burial of the body of Sgt. John R. Rice, 37, was halted just as it was about to be lowered into the grave.

The White House said the President directed the army to arrange for Rice's interment in Arlington National Cemetery and to invite members of the sergeant's family here for the services.

The story which aroused the President quoted an army officer as saying the Winnebago Indian's burial was stopped by authorities of the Sioux City Memorial Park cemetery because "only members of the Caucasian race" could be buried in the cemetery.

Rice was killed in action Sept. 6, 1950, while serving with the 1st Cavalry Division. He also was a veteran of the Second World War.

in higher communist policy. He said the reds wanted a local settlement in Korea where their aggression was unsuccessful so they could try elsewhere.

The communists had used the lull in the war during the Kaesong peace talks to build up their forces. Reports from Hong Kong told of an international communist brigade of 300,000 including many Europeans, armed and trained, which was being held in Manchuria "as a threat."

While the Korean war could break out in fury, Ross said he did not think it would develop into a Third World War.

Ross said the destruction in Korea baffles description especially in its impact on the individual Koreans.

Many United Nations troops had an "unfortunate attitude" which had caused grave doubts in the minds of many Koreans. Many were arrogant and insolent. The attitude made no friends.

The U.N. needed to make friends by educating their troops, rehabilitating the shattered Korean nation and restoring the decimated Korean education system.

GRENADE

drinking the night of March 17 but was positive he did not hurl a grenade.

The prosecutor, Cap. L. B. Hanway of Amherst, N.S., said witnesses had testified Blank was in a jeep that went from the camp of the Patricia's March 17 to the farmhouse at Chung Woon.

Hanway recalled testimony of Gibson that Blank had said, "I am going to throw a grenade," and other testimony that Blank had been asked on the return trip to camp, "Why did you throw the grenade?"

Was Member of Party

Hanway said that even if the court found Blank did not throw the grenade, it must find he was a member of a party carrying out an unlawful enterprise and therefore equally guilty of murder.

Defence officer Hutchins told the court there was a large amount of drinking at the Patricias' camp the night of the incident. He said there was no order to prevent the men from drinking as much as they wanted and that it was only natural they discussed women.

Witnesses had testified that a jeepload of British and Canadian soldiers had gone to Chung Woon in search of prostitutes after a drinking party.

The men went out "to buy what they wanted," Hutchins said. All were in varying degrees of drunkenness.

Hutchins said there was no evidence to indicate whether Blank was in the house, what he did if he went in, or that he was in possession of a grenade.

Hutchins said Blank was arrested and questioned under conditions which would not be countenanced by any civil court and the evidence taken under those conditions should not be admissible.

Questioned While Handcuffed

Witnesses said Blank was first questioned by a British military police sergeant major in the middle of the night while he sat handcuffed.

Hutchins said Blank was as credible as any witness who appeared for the prosecution. Blank testified he did not to his knowledge leave camp the night of March 17.

Blank said he went on "a large sized bender" that night. Hutchins said that if Blank had used a grenade it was "an unpremeditated and spontaneous act."

Maj. G. A. Flint of Montreal, Blank's commanding officer in company A of the second battalion of the Patricias, testified for the defence that there were no specific instructions issued to the men regarding drinking. He said a few persons were drunk the night of March 17, but he did not notice Blank specifically.

Capt. O. R. Browne of Vancouver, second in command of the company, testified four bottles of beer were given each man for the Patricias' anniversary party March 17, and that the company was given a five-gallon punch bowl filled with four bottles of gin and fruit juice.

Truman Gives Lecture to New Ambassador

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—President Truman, in an unusual lecture to the new Czech ambassador, branded as "phony" communist Czechoslovakia in true William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent, imprisoned on "espionage" charges.

While anti-communist pickets paraded outside the White House Truman said that ever since the reds seized power in Czechoslovakia and Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk was "murdered," relations with the United States have deteriorated. The best way to improve them, he said, is to free Oatis.

Truman had a four-minute meeting with the ambassador, Dr. Vladimir Prochazka, when the latter called to present his credentials. Usually such ceremonies are confined to the reading of cut-and-dried statements.

Big Three Give $50,000,000 To Aid Yugoslavia

Washington, Aug. 28 — (AP)— The United States, Britain and France have agreed to provide $50,000,000 in economic aid to Yugoslavia to support Marshal Tito's "contribution to the security of the free world."

The Economic Co-operation Administration, announcing this today, disclosed it already has allocated $29,500,000 as an initial instalment to help the Yugoslavs buy cotton, coke and steel.

Britain shortly will announce its decision to make available $11,500,000 to help bolster Yugoslavia's economy, E.C.A. said.

The French government also is expected to announce its contribution in the near future. Informed officials said the initial French instalment will be around $5,000,000 or $6,000,000.

The aid will be furnished in the next six months.

The U.S. has given or loaned Yugoslavia total of $150,000,000 for military and economic supplies since Marshal Tito's communist regime broke with Moscow.

The announcement of the new three-power aid program came two days after President Truman's foreign policy advisor, W. Averell Harriman, conferred with Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia.

Harriman said afterward he talked over with Tito means of shoring up Yugoslavia's military and economic strength to help it withstand any possible aggression by Russia or its Balkan satellites.

The R.C.A. said the decision to provide new aid was made in London several months ago after lengthy conferences by American, British and French officials.

British Yawl Vanishes, Other Craft in Trouble

Halifax, Aug. 29—(CP)—Planes and ships today began a search for the 36-foot yawl Nova Express, on the tiny yacht lobbed into the news last year with a daring Atlantic crossing.

The craft has been unreported since she left Shelburne, N.S., for New York on her second ocean crossing, this one designed to improve trade relations between the United States and Britain.

Stanley Smith and Charles Violet crewed the vessel on her 46-day crossing. On the first trip Stanley was accompanied by his brother Colin.

Aircraft from Greenwood, N.S., and U.S. coast guard vessels spearheaded the search of southwestern Nova Scotia today. All ships in the area were also asked to be on the lookout for the home-built boat.

Meanwhile, two other ships still were in trouble off the eastern seaboard and another was safe in port after reporting herself in distress.

The two-masted yacht Northern Light arrived in Rock Harbor, near Sydney, N.S. last night under her own power after being reported in distress.

Two other ships were still aground off Cape Breton.

The Newfoundland coastal freighter Lucille M. Colp is believed a total loss off Port Acon, 18 miles north of Sydney.

A Sydney tug was sent to help aid but a report received in Sydney last night said the Gloucester, Mass., vessel was "beyond salvage".

Bradley Warns Against Guessing What Reds Will Do

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP) — A warning by Gen. Omar Bradley that it is "dangerous to try to guess" what Russia will do backgrounded the start of Senate debate today on a $7,335,730,000 foreign aid program designed to confront communist force with force.

"No one can know just what is in the middle of the nose in the Kremlin," the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff said. "We cannot guess what they are going to do, and it is dangerous to try to guess."

Bradley made the statements during the recent closed-door testimony by two Senate committees on the foreign aid authorization bill, already approved by the House of Representatives in a form different from that before the Senate. The testimony was made public today.

His was the latest ruling for the United States and its free world allies to do is to get ready as fast as they can to meet communist aggression anywhere.

As the measure reached the Senate, it carried $46,250,000,000 less than the $8,500,000,000 asked by President Truman.

This still was higher than the $7,449,000,000 voted by the House. The bill does not carry any actual money. That must be voted later in another bill.

Four members of the Foreign Relations committee — Senators Theodore Green, (Dem., R.I.), Brien McMahon (Dem.-Conn), J. William Fulbright (Dem.-Ark.), and John Sparkman (Dem.-Ala.) —already have filed an amendment to restore the cuts made by the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees.

All is more important to balance the Kremlin's power and win them to balance the 1952 budget and hope," they said.

Communists Begin Building Strength On Korean Front

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 29 — (AP) — Communist troops built up their strength along the Korean front today despite clearing weather which exposed them to allied air and artillery attack.

A softer break in the rainy spell also brought on a jet battle along the Korean or Manchurian border. Sixty red and Allied jets engaged in a dogfight.

Red ground reinforcements were spotted moving up to the lines in the iron triangle sector of the central front and east of the Kaesong neutral area on the western front.

Red assault troops lashed out in a series of pre-dawn attacks along the eastern front but pulled back to their own lines by daylight to escape American artillery fire.

On the extreme eastern flank, South Koreans attacked a communist hill position west of Kansong just before noon. The battle raged into mid-afternoon as the reds rushed up reinforcements.

Overnight, Allied warplanes struck only reported red gain was north of Yangpu, 37 miles to the southwest. The communists overran a South Korean command post, forcing the United Nations unit to pull back after an intense pitched battle.

Another battle broke out in the iron triangle, former red troop assembly area. A strong U. N. patrol moved to within sight of Pyonggang, northern apex of the triangle.

The patrol fought two hours with reds holding a hill overlooking the town. The reds finally gave up after taking a heavy pounding from Allied artillery.

A brief clash flared on the western front east of Kaesong, site of armistice talks which the reds broke off last week.

Twenty U. S. Sabre jets tangled with about 40 MIG-15s along the Yalu River boundary in northwest Korea. The reds broke off the fight before any hits were scored.

The communists lost 8,805 killed, wounded or captured in fighting from Aug. 18 to 24, an Eighth Army briefing officer said.

Giants Victory String Clipped By Pirates; Indians Retain One-Game Lead

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. HUSBAND, Sports Editor

THIS MAY BE IT!

Pat Wilson's Redmen will be well on their way to Picton by the time this is being read where they tackle the Picton McFarlands or Athletics, (they have been called plenty of names, even in their own dugouts), in a twilight OBHL game.

It is to be hoped that game Monday night can be tabbed a "bad one out of their systems" for the Reds can't afford to toss away pastimes like that at this important stage in the loop schedule. Batawa is ready to push them aside and take over fourth slot so it behooves the Reds to hold their brows and resume the brand of baseball that defeated Smiths Falls and Brockville.

They travel to Smiths Falls tomorrow to engage the Royals of that village while Saturday night they take on the Batawa Sheemen here in a floodlight special. Meanwhile the Sheemen are entertaining the Brockville Memos at Batawa this evening and that should be quite a brawl. The Batawans won a six-hasing affair over the Brocks in Brockville the other eve and the Memos who are fifth are champing at the bit for their Redmen relief. It will be in no mood for trifling. A Picton win and Memos' loss will hoist the Sheemen into the fourth spot while reversing the scores will see the Reds enjoy a game and a half lead.

WHO SCORED IT?

Shucks, they made errors and hits that "was errors and hits" away back when baseball games were the signal for a general holiday down on Cornwall's main and business, and the cows milked themselves in the hinterland of the USA.

Ten years before the turn of the century, the Seven Paths boys raised the Gold Valley banderoon. The Gold Valley boys left home at noon and walked eight miles barefooted to the game. It started at 1:30 and raged for 6½ hours. The final score 240 to 18.

The story of the game appeared in the Raleigh North Carolina News and Observer. Here tis:—

"Ben Gay was on the mound for Seven Paths and was in great form allowing only 102 hits. But he did not receive good backing from his teammates. Ossie Whitley did the hurling for Gold Valley and allowed only 93 hits and got good support.

"Several feature plays were made by members of both teams, but T. Denton, batter known as Slim Denton, (for he is over seven feet tall) in the visiting team's ranks made a spectacular catch in centre field when he climbed a tree to rob Ben Wood of a hit to the woods.

"Peter Denton, who held down second base for Gold Valley, was also in the pinches but otherwise he had 63 errors to his credit. Crad Bentley made the greatest hitting average, getting 47 hits out of 77 times at bat.

"Umpire Nat Strickland's decisions were fair and impartial and always reprompt. If a batter struck at a ball that didn't go squarely over the plate, he called it a ball and said he'd be confounded if he'd call anything like that a strike; but that brought no protest from the opposing side.

"Tiger Denton came near causing a sensation when he hit a double home run, making two trips around the circuit. Umpire Strickland said it was fair.

"Taking the game word for the whole afternoon. Umpire Strickland said that only darkness could halt such a wonderful game which he said was the finest he'd ever seen. Nearly 300 people attended."

GOOD LUCK, ROBS!

The Rob Royals, gallant little bantam champions of the city and representatives in the OSA bantam playdowns went to Kingston this afternoon to take on the Kingston bantam champions in the first game of their two-of-three first round playdown series. The second game is scheduled for the Fair Grounds here next Monday afternoon at 2:30.

The Reds are a well-coached team and under Bill Fullwell and Earle Vandervoort fought their way to the city title and the honor of representing the city for the first time in bantam history. More power to their moppet elbows.

'RASSLIN' RED-HOTS!

Those red-hot team rivals, the team of Mike and Ben Sharpe and the team of Fred Atkins and the Masked Marvel, will meet in a return, four-man clash in the ring at the Memorial Arena on Friday night. This time there will be two referees appointed to take charge of the anticipated, certain mat fireworks.

When these high-powered pairs collided here last week, the unruly Mask-Athlete twosome was disqualified. This verdict was not satisfactory to either side. The Sharpes are determined to flatten their opponents so the latter will have no alibis. The Atkins-Marvel team is screaming they are still unbeaten and loudly discount their disqualification decision.

With two referees on hand to keep tab on these explosive team battlers, there should be no reason for the outcome being questioned by either side. This match should decide their feuding for keeps.

THIS FROM BROCKVILLE!

"Now there is talk of a senior international set-up comprised of teams from Cornwall, Gananoque and Brockville on this side of the border, and Clinton, Lake Placid and Canton across the line. Negotiations on this phase of things are still active and there is a strong chance that the league could become a reality. Cornwall Falcons and the American clubs are all for it, with prospects good for Brockville and Gananoque to enter teams. An all-gettific! fast circuit, it could begin early and end late, the Canadian teams even drawing a bye into OHA play or engaging in an elimination among themselves should they choose to go in quest of the Allan Cup."

Jimmie Carter, Loses in Upset

Los Angeles, Aug. 29 (AP) — Art Aragon, 157 1-2, Los Angeles, scored an upset decision in 10 rounds of a non-title fight over world champion Jimmie Carter, 135 1-2, of New York, before a sellout crowd of 10,400 fans last night.

Aragon finished strongly to win a split decision.

Referee Abe Roth and Judge Musby Callahan voted for Aragon and referee Joe Stone voted for the champion.

The loss was the first suffered by Carter in six matches since he won the championship by a knockout from Ike Williams in Sudbury Wolves, Sudbury Cardinals, Sudbury Bisons, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, and, possibly, Timmins Rockets.

Walk-the-Plank Shutout Robs New Yorkers of 17th Victory, Dodgers Out in Front by Six

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Is this a pitcher's year or does Ted Williams know something when he insists the ball is dead-er?

Look at what happened yesterday. Early Wynn protected Cleveland's one-game lead over New York Yankees in the American League by besting Philadelphia's Sam Zoldak in a 1-0 hurling duel. A home run by Bob Kennedy settled the issue.

Brooklyn increased its National League lead to six games as rookie Clem Labine outpitched Cincinnati's Howie Fox, 3-1, while Pittsburgh's Howie Pollet blanked Sheldon Jones and the runner-up New York Giants 2-0 to end the Giants' 15-game winning streak.

Max Lanier of St. Louis Cards shut out Bubba Church and Philadelphia Phillies 2-0, and Connie Ryan of Chicago Cubs whitewashed Chet Nichols and the Boston Braves 1-0.

Walks 13

The highest run total was made by the Yankees, who defeated St. Louis Browns 7-3 in 10 innings and they needed 13 walks by Tommy Byrne. Detroit Tigers slipped the third-place Boston Red Sox 5-4. Chicago White Sox took a 4-3 decision from Washington in 11 innings.

Not one of the teams got as many as five hits. And the same story Monday when four shutouts, including two three-hitters and a pair of two-hitters, were pitched although six teams were idle.

Altogether 79 shutouts have been hurled thus far in the National to tie the 1944 mark.

A seventh-inning home run by Kennedy gave Cleveland its first straight victory over the Athletics. It was the second time the Indians have beaten Zoldak, a former teammate, 1-0.

Byrne's 13th walk, a pair of fielder's choices, a long fly by Joe DiMaggio and a single by Hank Bauer in the ninth furnished the winning Yankee runs in the 10th. Bob Kuzava, fourth Yankee hurler, was credited with the victory.

A brilliant pitching exhibition by Pollet ended the Giants' 15-game victory streak, longest in the National League since 1933. It took 3 innings and Pittsburgh runs however, to cool off the New Yorkers.

The Pirates made only three hits off Jones, only one of which figured in the scoring. That was an eighth inning headoff single by rookie Frank Thomas. Jones then walked Ralph Kiner and ran the count to 3-1 on Gus Bell when Dave Koslo replaced him.

Jack Phillips, who had hit for Bell and grounded into a double play on the pitch, hit a pinch-hitter Clyde McCullough sent a routine grounder to second, Eddie Stanky booted the ball and Thomas scored. Then McCullough scored from first.

Zoldak Scores Once

Duke Snider batted in all Brooklyn's runs with a four-run inning single and a eighth-inning homer. His four-bagger came with one man on base and snapped a 1-1 deadlock. Labine, in his first major league start, gave up seven hits, struck out nine and did not issue a base on balls.

George Crowe produced a two-run single off the shoulder of rookie third baseman Mal Hoderlein in the eighth to give the Tigers their victory over the Red Sox. The visitors dropped the Sox to six games behind the Indians.

Tiger Outfielder Johnny Groth scored Tom Ferr with the run that gave the White Sox their 10th-inning victory over Washington.

Lown hurled a four-hitter against the Braves and scored the only run of the game. Cub outfielder Hal Jeffcoat.

Lanier scattered nine safeties in blanking the Phillies. Hal Rice and Solly Hemus batted in the Redbirds' runs.

Need $20,000 For Hockey Costs

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 29 (CP) — The Greyhounds, Sault Ste. Marie's entry in the Northern Ontario Hockey League senior division, are going to need $20,000 to meet team expenses for the coming season.

A financial committee has been set up to canvass business and citizens in the drive for funds. So far $10,000 has been collected and $2,500 more promised.

In the N.O.H.A. loop this year will be North Bay Black Hawks, Sudbury Wolves, Sudbury Cardinals, Sudbury Bisons, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, and, possibly, Timmins Rockets.

Royals Win Two From Baltimore, Wings Down Leafs

(By The Associated Press)

Diminutive Hector Rodrigues of Montreal Royals has cast his ballot in the International-Pacific League all-star baseball player derby and his platform speaks for itself.

The hard-hitting third baseman from Cuba was the man of the hour for the Royals last night as they captured a doubleheader from Baltimore Orioles 6-5 and 13-3.

With his team trailing 13-10 in the ninth inning of the nightcap, Rodrigues stepped to the plate with two men on base and two outs, and promptly decided the issue with a three-run clutch homer, his eighth of the season.

Rodriguez collected five hits in eight trips in the twin bill to boost his average to .333. He drove in runs batted in, hits and runs scored.

The second game was an uphill battle for Montreal, which overcame a 7-run deficit with a pair of four-run clusters in the eighth and ninth innings. Bill Glynn and Jackie Rickert homers for the Orioles and Tom Lasorda connected for the Royals.

Bisons Take Pair

The Royals annexed the opener in 10 innings, after they blew a 5-0 advantage. George Shuba's single scored Jim Pendergast the winning run off loser Jake Schmitt. Chris Van Cuyk was credited with his 11th victory against only two setback.

Buffalo Bisons swept a twin bill from Syracuse 7-4 and 1-0, to move to within two games of the third-place Chiefs.

Hank Workman of Syracuse and Fred Hancock of Buffalo sweated homers in the first game. Hank Biasatti's ninth-inning round-tripper broke up a brilliant pitching duel in the second contest between Tom Acker of the Bisons and Jack Robinson of the Chiefs.

Jackie Collum posted his 14th triumph as against six losses as the second place Rochester Red Wings defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 7-2. Home runs by Steve Bilko, Johnny Hetki and Don Richmond paced the Red Wings' attack.

Ottawa and Springfield were not scheduled.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting: Duke Snider, Dodgers — Batted in all Brooklyn's runs in their 3-1 triumph over Cincinnati with a single in the fourth and a two-run homer in the eighth.

Pitching: Hank Wyrm, Indians — Gave up five hits in pitching a 7-0 shutout victory over the Athletics as the Indians edged the A's 1-0 on Bob Kennedy's seventh-inning home run.

Jewellers Take 9-3 Decision From Motor Cars

Behind the two-hit hurling of righthander Frank Baldwin, Avon Jewellers took a 9-3 decision from Belleville Motor Car at the Alemite Field on Tuesday night.

The game was the second of a two game series with total runs to count in a playoff for third spot in the Commercial AA Softball League. Avon won the first game by 11-7 and thus took the set by total of 20-10.

Avons are now slated to play Stewart Warner while the Motormen tangle with Bakelite in the first round of the city playoff. The winners of these two sets meet for the right to play Cleaner Combines.

The Jewellers tallied twice in the opening frame on a walk to Donovan and singles by McTaggart and Hull and scored to be away to a flying start. Belleville Motor Cars drew even back in the third however, on two walks, an error and an infield hit by Bowen.

Score Three in Sixth

Avons broke clear in the sixth with four hits, good for three runs, more than enough to clinch the win. McTaggart and Hull hit cleanly to the outfield with the latter's ball being scored and both runners advanced two bases. Murray flied out but McBride drove a long infield ground-ers and 2 more runs were plated.

The Motormen's only threat came in the bottom half of the game when Bowen reached safely on a double down the left field line. He took third on a ball hit to centre and scored on an infield out.

Avons pecked away for another pair in the eighth and ninth to wrap the game up as Baldwin retired the last 6 men in order except by one walk.

Hull led the attack at the plate with a pair of safe singles and McTaggart had a pair. Other singles were by Rose, McBride, Baldwin and Doran and a triple by Murray.

The defensive efforts by both teams were much improved over previous games, the Avons committing only one error as the infield worked very smoothly.

Frank Baldwin toiled effortlessly and was aided for the winners in one of the best hurling performances in the league this season. He allowed only two hits, one of which was scratched and six and struck out five.

Jack Reid, who went the distance for the Motormen, threw the third one by 10 batters while issuing only two free passes. His lack of practice seemed to show in the late innings.

Avon Jewellers: Donovan lf; Massey, replaced by Rose in the 7th cf; McTaggart 3b, Hull ss, McBride 1b, Doran c, Day rf, Baldwin p, Murray 2b.

Belleville Motor Cars: Tapp 2b, Hatfield ss, Stone cf, Bone c, Semark 3b, Bland lf, Callaghan 1b, Garvin rf-p, Reid p.

Mystery Driver Sets Top Speed

Darlington, S. C., Aug. 29— (AP)—Officials at the Darlington speedway have a mystery driver here.

Track officials are still wondering today who the 1950 Oldsmobile eight taps around the mile-and-a-quarter track yesterday at an average speed of 81.11 miles an hour to become the day's top qualifier for the 500-mile Labor Day race.

Harvey (Ace) McGartlin of Jacksonville, Fla., was supposed to be at the wheel of the Olds. But McGartlin was in Jacksonville.

Unable to solve the mystery yesterday, the officials did the next best thing.

They disqualified the Oldsmobile.

Sport in Brief

"That's the nicest moment I've had since I went away," said Mrs. Winnie Lavarier, first Canadian to swim the English Channel, as she kissed her husband at Montreal Tuesday night.

The 25-year-old mother of two met her husband, Morris, on the pier from Quebec where she landed Tuesday from the Empress of Canada. Morris was on a special leave from his R.C.A.F. post in Calgary to be on hand to his wife's return from England.

With her was her father and trainer, Eddie Roach, who coached her to 2:500 second-per-100-yard in the channel race sponsored by the London Daily Mail. They made the trip in meagre savings and a one-way ticket.

Mrs. Lavarier arrives in Toronto today.

Players will be studied as prospects for Ranger junior farm clubs at Guelph and South Porcupine in Ontario, Prince Albert, Sask., Lethbridge, Alta., and Quebec.

Toronto Argonauts got a setback last night when tough defensive tackler Byron Karrys was blocked right out of Saturday's Big Four football game with Ottawa Roughriders.

Karrys suffered torn ligaments in his right ankle when an unidentified offensive blocker knocked him out in a practice scrimmage as Joe Krol completed an end sweep.

Darkhorses Loom As Candidates For Baseball Boss

By TED SMITS

New York, Aug. 29—(AP)—There were indications today that a deadlock is developing among the 16 major league baseball club owners over selection of a new commissioner. This could pave the way for choice of a darkhorse candidate.

The owners meet in Chicago Sept. 20 to name a successor to A. B. Chandler in the game's top job, paying $75,000 yearly.

At the meeting in New York Aug. 21 the field was cut to five men:

Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Milton Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State College.

Warren Giles, president of Cincinnati Reds.

Frank J. Lausche, governor of Ohio.

It is beginning to look as if none of these, even if available, could command the 12 votes needed for election.

In the darkhorse field are two well-known figures who for one reason or another were not included in the "honorable" list but represented the considered choice of the baseball powers. These are James A. Farley, chairman of the Board of Coca Cola export, and George Trautman, czar of the minor leagues.

Now a new name has cropped up. It is Benjamin B. Rosse, who retired this year as managing editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. He is known as a "comer" among some owners. Although not well known nationally he is highly respected within the newspaper profession, and is a man of commanding physical and executive ability.

Some baseball owners feel that the game does not need a baseball name—in fact, they believe the job will make the man.

There is precedent for selecting a darkhorse. Chandler himself was one when he was chosen in 1945 to succeed Judge K. M. Landis.

Hamill, Anderson Named Coaches Galt, Calgary

Red Hamill, former National Hockey League player, has been named coach of the Galt, Ontario Hockey Association Black Hawk juniors, President Benny Bennett said Tuesday. Hamill ended his playing days with the Chicago Black Hawks and last year coached the Milwaukee club in the United States Hockey League.

Al Murray, fur exchange, will manage the club next winter.

Calgary Stampeders Tuesday announced singing new coach Tommy (Cowboy) Anderson, the former Drumheller, Calgary and National League hockey player.

Tommy takes over from Byron (Butch) McDonald, at the helm for the past two seasons, who may remain with the club while joins the Pacific Coast Hockey League next season, in a playing capacity.

Anderson guided pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League last season.

Lacrosse

Hamilton, Aug. 29— (CP) Hamilton Tigers knocked St. Catharines Athletics out of the Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association playoffs picture Tuesday night by defeating them 10-8 in the sixth game of their quarter final series. The Tigers now face a best-of-five semi-final contest against Minico Mountties.

The Tigers went beyond the series limit to best the Athletics. They tied their first game and was saved to Tuesday night's game in what was scheduled as a best-of-five series.

Hamilton took a 2-1 lead in the first quarter and never looked back. With a 3-1 start in the third quarter they held the Athletics scoreless, while netting five themselves, until well into the final period.

Brantford Sox Trip Majors 6-2

(By The Canadian Press)

Brantford Red Sox, only slightly surprised by Bill Nicks's home run off London Majors's opening batsman last night, registered a convincing 6-2 victory in Brantford to take a 2-0 lead in the senior intercounty baseball league's final series.

Sox will play the third of the best-of-seven series before a home town crowd before travelling to London Friday.

London didn't score again until Tim Burgess hammered an eighth-inning homer over the centre-field fence.

However, the Red Sox pitcher Johnny Moore handcuffed the Majors with six-hit hurling and Brantford's big bats pushed in two runs in the bottom of the first, two more in the second and fourth, and added two for safety in the eighth.

Sedgman, Talbert Clash Features Title Tennis

By Gayle Talbot

Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 29—Preparing to reach the most serious stage in the National Tennis Championships today, and by daylight tonight fails, it may give a real line on America's chances of reclaiming the Davis Cup next winter.

Spotlighting the program of the two-round matches in the men's division was an eagerly awaited test between Frank Sedgman, best of the present Australians, and Billy Talbert, the 33-year-old New York stylist who is gunning for a chance at the Aussies in the cup challenge round at Sydney next December.

The quest for one of the singles berths on the American team has unexpectedly become wide-open with the disclosure that Tony Trabert of Cincinnati has joined the Navy, and Talbert knows the quickest way to nail it down is by trumping the Aussies' ace.

The New Yorker never has been happy over the fact that he accompanied the U.S. squad to Melbourne as a doubles expert in 1946 and then watched from the stands as Jack Kramer and Ted Schroeder crushed the Aussies. He would like to return down under and show the Australians that he can play tennis.

It looked for a time late yesterday as though Uncle Sam might be smart to send his junior Davis cuppers to do the job this time. Frederick Augustus Trabert, 21-year-old junior cupper from the University of California, electrified the stadium crowd by dusting off tall Ken McGregor, Australia's second best singles set in the opening set of their match.

The boys in the press box were preparing to dust off the superlatives as the second set began, but then they took another look and realized as McGregor regained his poise and won at 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

After four days of play, not one of the 16 seeded American players has been eliminated. Veteran observers could recall few championships, if any, in which play had so closely followed form at this point. The top three seeded foreigners, Sedgman, McGregor and Mervyn Rose of Australia, also remained in the running. There had, of course, been nothing resembling an upset in the women's play.

3 Canucks, Yank In Semi-Finals Junior Singles

Ottawa, Aug. 29 (CP) —Three Canadian and a United States player will compete Thursday in the semi-finals of the junior men and girls competition of the 1951 Canadian junior tennis championships.

The semi-finals, originally scheduled for today, were put over to Thursday to leave the courts open for play in the junior men's, junior women's and mixed doubles.

The four who go into Thursday's singles struggle are Fred Simmons, Hamilton, John Griffiths, Regina, Jean Dussault, Montreal and Dudley Johnston of Jacksonville, Fla.

Only Upset

Dussault created the only upset of yesterday's play, routing Jim Killeen of Vancouver, top-seeded player, 6-1, 6-3. Dussault then beat out Alfred Levy of Buffalo 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. Griffiths defeated Ken Lawson, Calgary 6-3, 6-3; and Johnston defeated Paul Lafrenchie, Montreal 6-3, 6-3.

Diana Lowe of Ottawa and Joels Smith of Toronto, provided the highlight in the junior women's singles quarter finals with their two-hour, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5 victories. The third-seeded Ottawa girl eliminated her fifth-seeded opponent in the match.

Marcelle Latrambois of Montreal, top seeded in both the junior women's singles and the girls' singles, advanced into the semi-final round in both events. She met Connie Ioanidis of Fortage La Prairie, Man., 6-2, 6-4, in the junior women's, and Mary Chipman of Halifax 6-0, 6-0 in the girls' singles.

At the end of the third round of the junior men's doubles, top-seeded Jim Killeen of Vancouver and Jean Dussault of Montreal were still out in front.

They defeated Leon Mercier and John Belanger of Ottawa, 6-1, 6-1.

Booth's Peewees Win E. Ontario Softball Title

Booth's Radio softball team won the Eastern Ontario Peewee softball championship at Peterboro's Memorial Park last night when they defeated the Rotary Club team by a 20-8 margin.

The Booths are champions of the eastern section of the province by virtue of the fact there is no opposition east of Toronto. They will not go on into the OBAA playdowns.

The team, sponsored by the Booth Radio Co., Peterboro, created an enviable record in their first year of operation. Under the tutelage of Coach Al Chambers they won nine and lost three in the seasonal schedule. They now await the winners of a round-robin tournament to decide the city championship. Other teams in the league, Kinsmen, Gourleys, Boyces and Rotary will decide a winner which will meet Booths for the title. All games will be sudden-death affairs.

The batteries in last night's game were for Booths, Gathers and Ethier, and for Rotary, Butcher, Howard and Ryan.

Gavilan Rated 13-5 Favorite To Whip Graham

By MURRAY ROSE

New York, Aug. 29 — (AP) Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan, confident and at the peak of his form, was rated a 13-5 favorite to whip Billy Graham of New York in their 15-round title bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Although he lost one split decision to Graham and won the same way in the return, the slick, flashy Cuban has been made the big choice on the strength of his recent form.

The 25-year-old Gavilan is riding a 10 - fight win streak which began with his revenge victory over Graham on Nov. 17, 1950. The slick boxing New Yorker had edged the colorful Cuban nine months before.

While Gavilan has been busy fighting himself into top condition, Graham has been sitting on the sidelines waiting for his title shot. Once set with a campaign — he's had 103 pro fights — Billy has had only one tune-up this year. He beat a guy named Billy Jenkins at North Adams, Mass., on Aug. 14.

Video and Radio

This will be Gavilan's first title defence since he won the crown from Johnny Bratton on a TKO in the Garden on May 18. A crowd of around 9,000 is expected to pay around $40,000 at a $3 top.

The gross gate undoubtedly will be more than the $50,000 fee for radio and television rights. C. B. S. will network both the broadcast and the telecast. The fight will start at 9 p. m. (EST).

Under their 51½ — 27½ split, Gavilan will receive about $22,000. Graham figures to collect $30,000.

Familiar Faces Will Pass Up National Amateur

New York, Aug. 29 (AP) — Familiar faces will be missing when the pick of the nation's amateur golfers gathers at beautiful Saucon Valley in Bethlehem, Pa., just 12 days hence to battle for the national championship.

Pipe-smoking Ray Billows, of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., won't be there. The 37-year-old veteran who three times played in the finals of this blue ribbon event failed to qualify yesterday in the Metropolitan trials at Westbury, N.Y.

Former Walker Cup star Johnny Dawson of Hollywood, Calif., suffered a similar fate at Long Beach, Calif., where he lost in a playoff for one of the five places allotted that area. He can compete only if one of the successful men fails to show up.

The major casualty of the 32 sectional sectional tests, which reduced an entry list of 1,425 to a round 200—including 11 exempt players—was Frank Chirkinian, who lost to Johnny Goodman in the finals at Portland, Ore., in 1937, to Bud Ward at Glenview, Ill., in 1939 and to Willie Turnesa in Memphis in 1948.

Amateur Golf Cards Few Upsets In Second Round

By KEWIN PRICKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 29— (CP)— Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver, a tall, 23-year-old with a putting touch that brought him the Canadian amateur golf championship last year, gets into action today after coming through the first two rounds of the week-long golf classic at the Royal Ottawa without lifting a club—by virtue of a bye and a default.

As if to compensate, the luck of the draw has him facing stern tests in today's third and fourth-round matches.

Mawhinney, who didn't shoot his best golf in the Willingdon Cup contest Saturday but is rated better in match than medal play, meets Allan Boss of Winnipeg in the morning round. Boss has been a top-ranking amateur for many years. He made the third round with a par-equalling 144 play to defeat Rod Phalen of Toronto 2 and 1.

Few Upsets

If Mawhinney gets by Boss he'll meet the winner of the match between J. G. (Sonny) Adams of Toronto and Glenn Cunningham. Either could be a handful for the Vancouver star.

Adams, a veteran, already has two of the tournament's most lop-sided victories to his credit, including yesterday's 6-and-5 win over Robert Bertrand of Oshawa.

Gray, young and one of the longest hitters here, eased into the third round with a 4 & and 3 victory over Ralph Watson of Ottawa.

There were relatively few upsets yesterday as golfers were cut from the field. A prominent victim was Tommy Riddell of Montreal, who beat Frank Stranahan two years ago. He bowed to 21-year-old Ken Jacobs of Toronto on the 18th.

Unheralded Johnston McCormick of Toronto, who pulled off a first-round upset by eliminating the tourney's star attraction—Nick Sherlock of Windsor—lost his touch in his match with Ashley Cheetham, student architect from Montreal University. Tessier posted a solid 4 and 3 win.

Jack Nash of London, four-time Ontario champion, was taken out 2 and 1 by Fred Hunt of Ottawa.

A golfer who did live up to expectations is Gerry Kesseiring of Kitchener. He topped off a skilful 2-and-4 victory over John Goodwin of Kansas City with a one-foot sink for an eagle three on the 14th.

Toronto, Aug. 29—(CP)—A new contender for next Friday's $5,000 added cup pace was uncovered Tuesday at Thorncliffe Raceway when Della Axworthy split two heats with Canada direct in the featured pacing race. Each beat a shorter finish.

Canada Direct already is ranked as one of the horses to beat in next Friday's harness racing classic. Edging him at one mile and one-sixteenth, Tuesday, Della and one-sixteenth, Tuesday, Della and one-sixteenth, Tuesday, Della and Knight, of Blenheim, Ont., moved into the championship picture.

Dr. G. F. Laing Takes Golf Title

Toronto, Aug. 29—(CP)— Dr. George F. Laing of the Essex Country Club of Windsor, Tuesday won the Canadian Seniors' Golf championship for the third successive year.

He shot a par-71 Monday and followed it Tuesday with a 75 in the windup of the 36-hole medal play.

By his victory, Dr. Laing holds the Shaughnessy Cup for the next year.

Judge R. S. Clark of Guelph made his handicap of 16 work for him and he won the Bogert Cup for the best net score of 124. He nosed out Frank Lawson of Toronto Rosedale, a 24-handicap player, by two strokes.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 29 — (AP) — Directing movies is literally kid stuff to Norman Taurog.

This roly-poly, shiny - domed man has directed many an adult film but is most noted for his handling of child actors. This week he was at it again, directing three movie moppets portraying the children of Cary Grant and Betsy Drake in "Room for One More."

"I've directed just about every kid star except Shirley Temple," he said in an interview. They include Jackie Coogan, Jackie Cooper, Robert Coogan, Mickey Rooney, Deanna Durbin, Judy Garland, Virginia Weidler, Margaret O'Brien, to name a few."

Many of those mentioned have suffered numerous marriages and divorces and other unhappiness in later years. I asked Taurog how he accounted for that.

"It's bound to happen," he replied. "How can they look forward to happiness in later years when they get their first Cadillac at 14?"

Secret of Success

How does Taurog get along so well with the movie mites?

"I guess it's because I just like kids," he remarked. "But you can't handle them with kid gloves all the time. Before the picture I starts I warn the mothers that I might have to speak sharply to their children during the filming of the picture. Discipline is important."

The kid with the greatest talent was Judy Garland, Taurog says. "I directed her in 'Little Nellie Kelly,' in which she played her own mother," he said. "That took great ability, and she had it."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

For Thursday, Aug. 30

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Earnest, hard work can turn in a day full and plenty, at least a foundation-builder. Be the smart diplomat, get facts first, don't force or rush. Heart interests favored in turn.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Fitting time to advance sound new thoughts, bid for new business, though it may require some adventure. Assert your talents and leadership reasonably. Wise investments okay.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Aspects indicate fine progress can be made in pertinent matters, but personal affairs take more care, time. Abandon one-sided viewpoints, be broadminded, and no over-bidding.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Eyes open, mind alert, ready for vigorous effort! You can achieve many good deeds, finish on time, too, this favorable day. Be amenable, it brings friends, assistance without the asking.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—Keep up steady tempo. Work consistently but without haste, ill will or strain. You may ask some restraint at first but as day moves on you will find it grows better. Good going!

August 24 to September 23—(Virgo)— Not many complexities this day as you clever folks can't manage. It will be worth while to study first, then act. Business in general, transportation, handling groups of people, domesticity achieve.

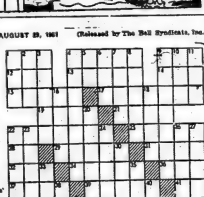
September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—What you do do early will have vital bearing on whole day's result. Wise forethought... hasten desired rewards. Tradesmen, brokers, builders, farmers, teachers, students prosper anew.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio) — Vibrations good. Tempey your acts and words with polished manner and good humor for best and lasting results. Finances, contracts, manufacturing favored if well understood.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—No extra prodding should be needed. Step forward, be yourself; with clean energetic effort you can achieve fine groundwork toward success. Romance, marriage freshly sponsored.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Outlook seem difficult? A suggestion: If you are not, and take proper time to analyze, make inquiries before acting. Personal desires can wait, concentrate on day's true problems.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—If you hold to balance and go after things in a steady and step-it-up manner, you can get some amazingly good returns. Watch little things; think, don't just follow the others.



February 21 to March 20—(Pisces) —Half-hearted effort or take-a chance attitude will get nowhere this somewhat tricky day. Put some new ideas, propositions out front, get well into progress line to win, and you will.

YOU BORN TODAY: Generally modest; honest, kindly. Seldom do a willful wrong or deceitful act. Are industrious, ready to do your share and more, also expect others to do theirs. Keen mentally, active physically; will go to great ends to make loved ones happy. But may be too critical at times. This Sign has produced many noted educators, doctors, nurses, artists, public speakers, musicians. Can adapt yourself to any environment but care little for the commonplace. You can succeed at unusual undertakings. Don't be easily upset.

Birthdats, L. Charnlavsky, famed violinist; David Hartley, English philosopher; Raymond Massey, actor.

Original Maoris Fast Increasing in New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Auckland, N.Z. (CP) — The amazing resurgence of the Maori race in New Zealand is causing the authorities to revise earlier estimates of the future composition of the dominion's population.

At the beginning of the century it was widely held that the Maoris were a "dying race", due for extinction in the not far distant future. But the Maori population has tripled in the half century and seems likely to increase at an even greater rate in the next 50 years.

This year's census showed the number of Maoris, persons with 50 per cent or more Maori blood, totalled 113,000 among a dominion population of more than 1,- 500,000. Half a century ago there were only 39,854 Maoris. Statisticians estimate the Maori total may reach nearly 700,000 by the end of this century.

The phenomenal growth of the race has been due partly to revival of confidence in the future among the natives. At the end of the Maori wars of the last century they were dispirited, living in miserable conditions.

Improved social conditions, introduction of the white man's medicine and hygiene to combat diseases, and better housing helped to check the death rate. But the greatest stimulus in re-birth of the race was the rise of native leaders of modern outlook.

Higher Birth Rate

When it became obvious that the Maoris were not dying out it was assumed by some authorities they would gradually merge with the Europeans but this theory has lost ground. The Maori birth rate is almost twice that of the white population, and more than half the natives are under 20 years of age at the present time.

It is agreed however that there will be an increasing Maori element living side-by-side with the white population. Maoris live on terms of equality with the Europeans, and inter-marriage is common, but the native race's vitality is such as to make any merger of colors doubtful.

Social workers now stress the need for young Maoris to adapt themselves fully to the European environment as a matter of urgency. They emphasize the importance of Maoris and Europeans cooperating ever more closely by mutual sympathy and tolerance in laying the foundations of a state in which the Maori will play an increasingly important part.

Intelligent Race

A proud race, natives resembling the Maoris were here when New Zealand was discovered by Captain Cook in 1770. But the present race is mainly descended from the great canoe migration to New Zealand about 1350, from a homeland far to the north across the Pacific which is believed to have been the Society Islands.

This epic voyage made over a century before Columbus discovered America was the cause of great anniversary celebrations at Whakatane earlier this year. The first natives journeyed thousands of miles across the Pacific without navigation aids of any kind.

Until the arrival of the Europeans little over a century ago the Maoris had no written language, but their traditions have been handed down with amazing accuracy ever since that voyage.

The Maoris are a well-developed, muscular race with varying shades of color, some being very light. They have well-shaped intellectual heads and few have beards or whiskers. They have long been converted to Christianity and the last recorded case of cannibalism was in 1843.

Crime Increases In England, Wales

London. (CP)—More crimes of violence were committed in England and Wales last year than at any time since 1929, it is shown in a newly-issued government Blue Book.

The report lists a total of 6,- 240 such cases in a survey of crime statistics for 1950. Of these, 125 involved children between the ages of eight and 14, while the other 336 were in the 14-21 age group.

Juveniles up to 14 years were also the greatest offenders for breaking and entering, with more than 7,000 arrests. Next to the age group over 30 they were also listed as the most frequent lawbreakers involving larceny.

More than half the offenders who committed 481,435 indictable offences during the year escaped punishment, but 116,021 were convicted.

133 Murders

The authorities investigated 133 all 133 murders. Thirty-eight of the suspects committed suicide before they could be arrested, while 34 were convicted. Of this number 14 were executed, eight death sentences were commuted and two were certified insane.

Suicides in 1950 totalled 4,324 with nearly twice as many men as women involved. The report disclosed that more men of 60 years and over committed suicide than any other age group.

It also disclosed that offenders given corporal punishment for acts of violence wound up with worse records than those receiving other forms of punishment. Of 224 cases who were flogged, 53 per cent after being released from prison committed other crimes. Against this, 55 per cent of those not flogged remained on the right side of the law.

But of the 66 who escaped flog-

Hermit Enjoys Home in Woods, Natural Foods

Bolton, Ont., (CP)—The housing problem doesn't bother Art Scholes, Olympic runner of the 1920's who has left both the running track and the beaten track far behind.

Art took to the woods near this town and pays a farmer $1 a year for rental of a wooden shack on the bank of the Humber, not far from Tie Side. He and his collie pup live there all year round.

His few wants are provided by nature. He traps and fishes, has an ample supply of wild berries and makes his own maple syrup. During his 30-year stay in the woods he has acquired wide knowledge of wildlife and woodlore.

He earns enough money for his few needs from civilization by helping district farmers during harvest season and by selling skunk oil to outside hands for $1 a quart. The oil is one ingredient in a rub-down mixture for horses'. Art, incidentally, found that skunk stew, flavored with wild carrot, is as "tasty" as rabbit.

Former Athlete

The woodsman, known here as the "hermit" won early fame as an athlete. He ran in the 1920 Olympic five-mile event and in 1928 defeated the famous Indian runner, Tom Longboat, at Scarborough Beach, Toronto.

After working his way through a $12,000 inheritance without retaining a souvenir" Art went to work in a factory. Punching a time clock was the "bane of his existence" so, after his wife died, he decided to "start the kind of life I had always wanted".

He first went to the far north but soon returned to this area. "There is much less chance of a bear getting bushed down here," he says.

He is close to but invisible from the highway, so that he can have as little or as much contact with the world as he wants. Only 40 miles from downtown Toronto, his trap line provides him with all the mink, muskrat, fox and raccoon fur he needs.

Those who meet him often depart questioning the push-button, chromium-plated existence of city and town life. — Art, at 61, recommends his life for tired business executives. "I feel like 30, sleep like a baby and couldn't be happier," he says.

CEMENT MIXER

Nanaimo, B.C. (CP)—Several tons of valuable cement powder were let loose last week in the Gulf of Georgia near here. The cement was spilled when a barge upset, dumping her cargo.

PRODIGAL SONS

Calgary. (CP)—Arthur Peterson, 13, and his brother Roy, 12, decided to leave him and head for the United States. The next day, just when police started to organize a search, they returned home. After heading in the wrong direction, they had changed their minds.

It takes a lot of cooling to keep a Polar Bear happy. The largest member of the bear family is smaller than a porcupine at birth, but often weighs more than three-quarters of a ton when full grown. WATERLOO, ONTARIO

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

"When you get a few minutes, Goldie, drop into my office," said Mr. George Dobson, who was about to say a word with [illegible] at the moment, then stood at his door of his office to pass some pleasantries with Darla Parker. In the newsroom Hal Gordon got up from a doubledesk to ask him to sit down with Bill Jennings, Stub Rose, thick horn-rimmed glasses diving his face an owlish look, Bill Artist and Terry Holland raised their eyes from typewriter keys to give him a warm smile of greeting. Presently there followed him into the room Dad Roberts, but after a minute or so, he shuffled out on his way to the job room as his objective, for Dad Roberts could never remain idle for even a few minutes during working hours. Lance followed him back through the composing room, through the door into the upper floor of the job room, down the stairs at the end to enter his little office where, several girls under the direction of Nelson Sparling, handled the business establishment, waiting on customers, receiving money and doing the necessary book work. Gilt set at a switchboard with its connections to the outside world, to all parts of the plant even to the radio studios two floors above. For a moment Lance surveyed the scene with a satisfied eye, then he stepped into his private office and closed the door behind him.

Lance Bradley's office was neat and orderly. It was a square well-lighted room with broad oak desk behind which was a swivel chair with back to the screened front window which bore on the outside of the broad glass the name of the business in gold letters. There was a hat tree in one corner, a small book-case with two rows of books, and on top a small radio which was turned low at the moment. There were several easy-chairs, a desk and second chair in another corner where Dad Roberts edited the country correspondence. The floor was carpeted in dark blue. On the walls, which were done in two shades of blue above varnished wainscotting, were a group pictures of a Canadian overseas battalion 1916-1918 and an enlargement of a picture of the black tramp steamer "May Queen" of the Three Brothers Line. To add to the marine motif, there was a miniature compass mounted on a small anchor hanging on the wall. On his green blotter-covered desk, there was a telephone in cradle, an accumulation of ink wells, pens, paper, pens and pencils, letters opened and unopened, and a square pad containing several notations written in a broad hand.

Lance Bradley dropped into his chair, picked up a copy of a city morning paper, opened it at the financial page. From outside came mixed sounds of automobiles, the voices of people as they passed.

Lance had not been reading long when his door opened quietly and closed again and Goldie Webster stood before him.

"You wish to see me, Dad?" the boy enquired. His face was sober, for this was the first time he had been called into the boss's office during working hours, and as far as he was concerned, this would be the last time, he hoped.

"Yes, Goldie," Bradley said, laying his paper aside, and reaching forward to a sheaf of papers on his desk.

"Sister says, a chair and sit down," he said. "Sister says, a chair and sit down," Bradley fingered through some papers and having found what he was looking for handed it over to Goldie. "Yes, this is it," he said.

Goldie Webster took the paper and as he read, his face reddened. It was Dr. Brown's account for $65 for medical attention to one Billy Blair. Blair, an employee in the press-room, had been severely injured in a fight with Goldie Webster, Lance had been told, as the outcome of some difference of opinion over a mat which Goldie had chated to him from the composing room to bake and have ready for the stereotyper. Blair had been rushed to the doctor's, and had not been back in work since. Goldie studied the doctor's bill for a few moments, then, with trembling hand put it down on Lance's desk.

"Well, Goldie," Lance Bradley said, "What do you think of that?

It looks like a lot of money to pay out for beating up a guy, don't you think?"

"Yes, Dad," Goldie admitted, "but the fault's not all mine. A fellow can take only so much and, and he can't say I didn't warn him. And besides, Dad he's nineteen, while I'm only sixteen—"

"Now, look, Goldie," Lance Bradley said, faint pride in his voice that his adopted son could and would look after himself. "I'm going to pay this bill—out of my own pocket, see! But only on one condition—"

"And, what's that, Dad?"

Sentence May Be Reviewed By Authorities

Ottawa, Aug. 29 (CP) — An army spokesman said early today that the sentence of life imprisonment passed on Pte. Glen Roland Blank of Winnipeg by a court martial in Seoul, Korea, will be reviewed here by a military review authority before being carried out.

Word of the conviction of Pte. Blank by a Canadian court martial in Seoul reached here early today. He was acquitted of murder but convicted of manslaughter in the March 17 grenade killing of a South Korean army officer.

The spokesman said that should there be an appeal against the conviction or the sentence, it would be heard in this country by Canada's permanent military appeal authority. This authority is composed of civilian legal jurists.

The sentence imposed on Pte. Blank will not be enforced before being reviewed here. The review authority is composed of high military officers at army headquarters and the spokesman said that in such circumstances Minister Claxton himself may possibly be called upon to review the sentence.

If the sentence were confirmed, Pte. Blank could be brought to a Canadian prison.

Formal Demand For Extradition Is Received

Turin, Italy, Aug. 30 (AP) — A formal demand for the extradition of two wartime American secret agents on charges they murdered their predecessor here was received today by the Turin prosecutor-general's office.

The extradition request asks that former U.S. army Lieut. Aldo Icardi and former Pvt. Carlo LoBoice be returned to Italy to stand trial for the slaying of murdered their commander, Maj. William Holohan.

The formal demand and supporting documents — including warrants for their arrest issued from the office of the prosecutor at Verbania, where two Italians say awaiting trial — were brought with the wartime slaying.

The prosecutor general's office has said that the request will be sent to the Minister of Justice in Rome this week.

The Turin prosecutor general has said if the United States refuses the request for extradition, the two men will be tried in absentia.

The U. S. defence department has named the two as slayers of Holohan during a secret mission of Italian partisans behind the German lines in northern Italy. Both have denied the charges.

TWO CRUISE SHIPS COLLIDE, NO ONE INJURED

Both Making Slow Progress in Fog

Prince Rupert, B.C., Aug. 30 (CP) — Two ships collided in dense fog today 29 miles northwest of this northwest port.

No one was reported injured in the ramming of Canadian National Steamships' 4,000 - ton Prince Rupert and Canadian Pacific Steamships' 6,000-ton Princess Kathleen.

First reports said the 300 passengers aboard the Kathleen were transferred to the Rupert but this could not be confirmed immediately.

Both ships were making slow progress toward Prince Rupert and were scheduled to arrive here about noon, PDT.

The Kathleen was reported badly holed from forecastle to waterline while the Rupert said she was "slightly damaged."

There were 180 passengers aboard the Rupert.

Company officials here at midnight last night for Ketchikan, Alaska. The Kathleen was returning from that port.

Both ships sail every 10 days from Vancouver on northern luxury cruises. Most of the passengers are usually American tourists.

New Rental Office Being Swamped With Applications

Sudbury, Aug. 30—(CP)—Applications for rent adjustment are nearly crowding out the staff at the new rental office here, George Simpson, rental administrator, said today.

Applications from Sault Ste. Marie, North Bay, Timmins and other communities in the area, as well as Sudbury, are also storming the office.

Yesterday Simpson received the Ontario government's new forms for adjusting rents so that the second job of the new office begins today.

From Aug. 15 — the day the office opened — to Monday, only three rent appraisers and administrators were taking applications but today and Thursday tomorrow they start examining the applications and making adjustments.

Every landlord or self-contained accommodation must either apply for rental adjustment or enter into a two-year lease with his tenant.

If such a lease cannot be arranged, landlords must apply to have his rent fixed.

W. J. Boivin, city assessment commissioner, has loaned the office staff wasn't designed to handle this kind of flood."

Charges Misrepresentation

Toronto—(CP)— Eamon Park, CCF member of the Ontario Rent Control Committee, charged today that some landlords are misrepresenting new rental regulations to tenants to force them to sign two-year leases at higher rentals.

"There has been no adequate statement of landlord and tenant rights under the new regulations," he declared in a letter to Hon. Leslie Frost, minister in charge of rentals administration.

Japan Looks for Independence As Confident, and Stabilized Country After Six Years of War

By RUSSELL BRINES

Washington, Aug. 30. (AP)—Six years ago Japan was a devastated, floundering country, badly beaten in the war, its people were numbed by fear of starvation, its government and industry paralyzed by uncertainty.

Today, Japan is reaching for independence again as a confident, stabilized country.

In August, 1945, hundreds of occupation officials poured into the battered country with only one mission to destroy Japan's militarism and tear down the social, political and economic structure which nurtured it.

They began enthusiastically. A loose defence force of more than 4,000,000 men was demobilized, war equipment was destroyed—gunsmith, war-wrecked ships, mounds of ammunition and even a prohibition for atomic experiments.

About 200,000 career military officers and civilian leaders during wartime were removed from the positions of influence. Dozens of war criminals were prosecuted.

A flood of directives, from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters demanded basic alterations in virtually every field of national life.

The emperor was transformed on paper from a demi-god to a tax-paying civilian. A new constitution blueprinted popular rule. The centralized police leadership was weakened and 44 subservient prefectures became little states.

Women Proclaimed Equal

Women were proclaimed equal to men and given the vote. Labor unions were given their first official encouragement.

The theory was that Japan's millions had waged imperialistic war in blind obedience to the autocrats who ruled them through the powerful symbol of the emperor. The planned remedy was to infuse the people with democracy as a check against a duplication of the militaristic bloc.

But the Japanese are a long way from being democratic.

The reform program was perverted latently for only the first two years and eventually became a secondary phase.

Post-war circumstances gave a higher priority of these programs:

1. To put Japan back on her feet economically.

2. To thwart communist designs on the archipelago and to keep Japan in the western bloc.

In the beginning, official American occupation policy was to make Japan as self-supporting as possible for economic rehabilitation. But it soon became apparent they would not be able to do so.

The American government poured more than $1,000,000,000 into Japan for food, vital raw materials and some rehabilitation industries.

This help and Japanese energy started the country's economic blood circulating. Industrial production is 140 per cent of the 1930-34 level. The currency is sound.

Japan is ready to conclude a mutual aid agreement with the United States. It will give Japan the protection she needs in tumultuous Asia and will permit the U.S. to maintain a beachhead in the orient.

Copper Strike Tossed Back To Truman by Board After Union Refuses to Give Order

Washington, Aug. 30 (AP) — The four-day copper strike in the United States was tossed back to President Truman today.

The wage stabilization board stepped out of the controversy last night after the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union (Ind) refused to call off the strike.

The board apparently found little hope of breaking the deadlock which has halted most of the country's production of copper, a critically-short defence material.

A spokesman said the board will report to Truman today on the negotiations he asked it to move over the weekend. It held a 90-minute hearing yesterday, and discussed the case again last night.

A possible next step would be for the president to appoint a board of inquiry to report to him on the facts in the case. The strike would continue while the board investigates.

Attorney-General McGrath would have to wait until the board reported he could seek a court injunction to end the walkout under the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

If the president should feel there is little hope for settlement and the walkout is creating a national emergency, he could by-pass court action and order government seizure of the mines and smelters.

96 P.C. Production Cut

The strike has already cut off 93 percent of the country's copper production and dealt heavy blows to the output of sulphuric acid—a key ingredient in the refining of uranium and high-test gasoline—and lead and zinc.

Union leaders told the wage board the strike will be ended if it continue unless (1) a negotiated contract is signed, or (2) the government seizes the strike-bound works, or (3) a injunction is issued against the stoppage.

Government officials said it would be about 10 days to get a court injunction.

The strike has left idle about 100,000 workers and crippled operations of scores of copper producing firms in 26 states.

Orville Larson, vice-president of the union, today told the wage board yesterday it would be possible to negotiate a contract with the mine operators in an hour-long "package" proposal by Monday, Cyrus S. Ching, federal conciliation chief, and turned down by Kennecott.

The union was ousted from the CIO in 1950, along with 10 other unions, on charges that its leadership followed the communist party line. The union claims its policy is set by its members.

Four are Burned To Death In Apartment Fire

New York, Aug. 30 (AP) — Four persons, including two children, died early today in a fire that broke out in an apartment after a birthday party.

The dead: Raymond Hurley, 47-year-old occupant of the fifth-floor apartment where the fire started; his nine-year-old son, Vincent; Mrs. Dolores Carmody, 20, and her five-year-old daughter, Geraldine.

Hurley's seven-year-old daughter, Rayna Hurley, and 11-year-old son, Raymond Hurley, were taken to a hospital with burns.

The fire of undetermined origin, started shortly after midnight following a party to celebrate the birthday of Hurley's

Dairies Refuse To Pay Increase Ordered by Board

Toronto, Aug. 30 — (CP) Member dairies of the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association Wednesday notified their producers that they will not pay them the 33-cents-a-hundred weight increase ordered, effective Sept. 1, by the Ontario Milk Control Board.

They said milk shipments would be accepted only on the understanding that payments will be made at present prices.

Milk distributors in the city don't pay the increase, Joseph Sedgewick, counsel for the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association, said.

He said the distributors will ask for a court order setting aside the board's decision to grant the farmers $4.55 a hundredweight.

FOREIGN OFFICE DENIES MISSING DIPLOMATS FOUND

Says Story in Papers 'Without Foundation'

London, Aug. 30—(AP)—The foreign office denied today that British secret agents have located missing diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean. . . . William Riddale, head of the foreign office news department, said reports published in two London newspapers this morning were completely without foundation."

Riddale conferred with top officials for an hour before making his announcement.

He said that the search for the two is exactly where it was before the reappearance in Russia of the two diplomats who vanished without a trace last May 25.

Riddale said the agents claimed they made no such statements.

He refused to say whether the secret agents had made any statements in Russia. Reports indicate a new development in the European search for the two British men who were in a position to know many of the west's top secrets.

The Associated Press Daily Digest, in a dispatch from Paris, said the same story was current there and added that Mrs. Maclean had left her Riviera villa for a secluded hideout in the Var mountains 50 miles away.

Neither story gave any hint where the missing men are or why they did not indicate one way or another whether they have disappeared behind the Iron Curtain as has been suggested by high officials.

The two men have been the quarry in one of the greatest manhunts since last spring.

They disappeared May 25.

Maclean, 38, was chief of the American section of the foreign office and Burgess, 40, had just been recalled from Washington.

Took No Documents

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison told the house of commons there was no evidence they took any secret documents with them. He said investigations showed they carried over possible betrayal of western diplomatic secrets.

The two men vanished as far as St. Malo, France, and have been reported seen somewhere in Austria which took them to Rennes. There the trail went cold.

The latest report received telegrams from Paris and Rome, but the originals were not in the diplomats' handwriting.

Born in Tilsonburg, Ont., she is a graduate of Alma College and the University of Western Ontario.

R.W. Milner Named First Peacetime Transport Chief

Govt. Decides to Use Direct Action to Get Grain Moved

Ottawa, Aug. 30 — (CP) — Roy Wilfred Milner, one of the country's foremost grain authorities, today was appointed Canada's first peacetime transport controller in history.

His appointment, announced by Transport Minister Chevrier, was an indication that the government has decided to use direct action to force a diversion of ores from Great Lake shipping from iron ore and coal to grain.

The threatened shipping czar, native of Brampton, Ont., will have power to break contracts and redirect bulk-carrying traffic on the waterways and rail lines of the country.

He will have control not only over bulk - carrying rail and water traffic but also on all storage elevators and terminals north of Quebec City in the shipment of bulk commodities.

Those disobeying his orders will be liable to a two-year prison term and a $5,000 fine.

Vet of First War

R. Milner, veteran of the First Great War, is a member of the government's three-man board of grain commissioners and a former president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. He was a pioneer in the grain board last year.

He has been ordered by the government to wipe out a Great Lakes shipping bottleneck that threatened to become a crisis with the prospects of a record 583,000,000 - bushel wheat crop this year.

Assisting him will be W. Jackson Fisher, 49-year-old traffic chief for the Canadian National Commission, named by Mr. Chevrier as deputy transport controller.

Native of Calgary, Mr. Fisher was in charge of movement for the Canadian Army during the Second World War holding the rank of colonel. He has gained grain and transport experience on the staffs of the Canadian National, the Canadian Pacific Railways and the Alberta wheat pool.

Work from Ottawa

He was appointed to the Maritime Coal Commission in 1943 and has been studying ways of alleviating the western grain shipping shortage since last spring.

The two men, both drawn from government posts, will work from offices in Ottawa.

Mr. Milner's first act was to call a special cabinet committee that had been working on the tough transportation problem all summer. The committee includes the special committee, headed by J.C. Howard, deputy transport minister and including representations of the grain and shipping industry, now will be dissolved as it had no control powers. All its works will fall into Mr. Milner's hands.

He indicated in an interview that he will have the power to have to allow ship and rail operators normal freedom in operations. He will use force only as a last resort.

First of Canadian Troops Leave Korea for Home

Somewhere in Korea, Aug 30—(Reuters) — The first group of Canadian troops in Korea to be relieved left a Korean airfield today for Canada by way of Japan.

The group, which consists of 5 officers and 45 other ranks, are all members of the Second Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. They have been in Korea since last December.

The contingent will have thirty days leave in Canada and then will undergo a parachute course at Rivers, Man.

Among the group is Capt. Wallis Mills, of Winnipeg, who won the Military Cross at Taegyong April 24 — the day on which the battalion received a citation.

Farstreepers First

At Ottawa, army headquarters said the first unit to be composed of parastroop volunteers who will undergo training at Rivers, Man., and then go to become a crack unit, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry on home defence in Canada.

The move is part of a rotation plan to return veteran Canadian troops to their homes in Canada and replace them with active force troops stationed in this country.

Canadian Soldier Pleads not Guilty To Three Charges

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 30 (AP)— A 22-year-old Canadian soldier pleaded not guilty to charges of attempted rape, assault and being concerned in an affray before a Korean court martial today.

Originally charged with murder in the grenade-killing of three South Koreans in a farmhouse near Chiyong, Pte. Douglas Michael Gibson of Ottawa, was tried on the lesser charges after the Canadian Army withdrew the murder charges against him and Pte. Alan Roy Montgomery Davis, 24, of Vancouver.

A third private, Glen Roland Blank, of Winnipeg, was convicted of manslaughter yesterday and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The South Koreans were killed after interfering with an attempt to rape two Korean women refugees.

Capt. M. Hanway of Amherst, N.S., the prosecutor, said he suggested the charge be revised because manslaughter is an unpremeditated act and only one member of a group can be held responsible. Originally Gibson, Davis and Blank all were charged with the murder of Lieut. Ee Chong Sung, one of the three South Koreans who died from a grenade blast in the village of Chung Woon last March 17.

Gibson closed his defence and repeated "not guilty, sir," as each of six counts were read in court.

BEAUTIFUL TROUT HOOKED IN MAZINAW

Weighing fifteen pounds at it is proven. Just how much more is left to conjecture. Harry Mayhew and brother Doug headed in a lake trout bonanza at Mazinaw Lake that sent their fifteen-pound scales to capacity. The fish measured at 1-3 inches by length and girth a 12-inch girth.

The trout was hooked on Williams. Wobbler and gave the anglers a tough battle before being landed.

Quartets Visit County Home

Last night the local chapter of the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartets of America, Incorporated) held their first chorus practice in the Eastlake Gardens for the coming "Harmony Night" show which will be presented in Belleville.

Several completely new arrangements of well known songs, suitable for close harmony, are being undertaken and should be ready for the show.

The trials for the $100.00 scholarships to be presented at the show to the most promising girl and boy voice students in the local high schools are expected to be held early in the coming term. It is hoped that every high school student in Belleville who considers his or her voice worthy of training will compete in these worthwhile scholarships. Details of the contest will soon be published soon in this paper.

It has just been announced that the final adjudications for the two winners will be held at the Kingston Music and School meeting on October 1st.

The two organized quartets of the society have been doing some worthy entertaining. Last Monday they dropped down to the County Home on Dundas Street East and entertained a large group of patients gathered there. The appreciation shown by their efforts certainly made the trip well worth while, and they hope to return again when the Home is transferred to the new building on the Trent Road.

Chamber Issues Warning Against Certain Methods

Chamber of Commerce officials today issued a warning against salesmen who are or might be operating in the city.

Questionable methods of collection of one who is reported to be selling a set of books on education, aroused the curiosity of one buyer. The salesman requests a down deposit of $5, but subsequent operations did not appear to be "on the level."

The salesman in question did not register with the Chamber of Commerce here as is the proper procedure for transients of this type.

Another salesman who gives his name as White and address as Edmonton, Alta., and Saskatchewan is said to be operating on his own. He offers printed tracts, but publishers have denied any connection with the man.

'Hasty Pees' Regt. To Parade At Royal Visit

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment (reserves) will parade in Trenton on October 9th on the occasion of the visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, it was announced here last night.

Lieut.-Col. Max Parritt, M.C., commanding officer of the regiment made the announcement at a pre-parade mess meeting of regimental officers held in the Church Street Armouries.

Col. Parritt also announced that the regiment had recruited 300 men for the 27th Brigade of whom 36 had enlisted from the reserve battalion.

The appointment of Lieut. Angus Duffy as regimental adjutant was announced.

Fall training activities will include a battalion exercise in the field, a battalion dance, the regimental officers, officer cadets as well as regular other-rank instruction.

Col. Parritt particularly stressed the necessity now recruiting to fill the vacancies caused by enlistments from the regiment for overseas service. He extended an invitation to young men of good character and intelligence to join the regiment.

Inspector Gives Apparent Reason For Lack of Fish

"If there is an apparent scarcity of fish in the Bay of Quinte, the chances are that cropping exceeds what natural reproduction and angling losses can account for," said G. Sheppard, Fish and Wildlife Inspector, Department of Lands and Forests, Trenton, at the Baptized Fish and Game Protective Association.

Speaking at the association's summer meeting, Mr. Sheppard urged anglers to forget limits and catch and retain only what fish they want for immediate needs. Returning others to the water, he added, is one way of practising conservation and it has definitely paid returns in the large lakes where anglers enjoy good fishing every summer.

He told the association that unfavorable weather conditions frequently interfered with natural spawning and winter losses might be heavy.

Appeal Made to Motorists To Drive Carefully on Holiday

An appeal for Belleville and district motorists to exercise even greater care and caution than in safe driving over the Labor Day holiday weekend was made today by Chief of Police Wallace Reynolds and O.P.P. Inspector A. McDougall.

They pointed out that Labor Day was last and biggest holiday period of the year and warned motorists than usual will be using the highways. As result it is usually the worst period of the year for traffic accidents.

Highway Minister George H. Doucett; Provincial Police Commissioner W. H. Stringer and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada have also issued an appeal for greater driving safety over the coming weekend.

Police Commissioner Stringer states that every vehicle that can be spared from other important duties will be kept on the traffic beat during the critical week-end period. Special attention will be given to motorists who endanger the lives of others by cutting in on, or out by illegal passing.

Based on past experience in Ontario, the safest time to travel will be in the morning, especially before dawn. Worst times will probably be Friday evening from 5 o'clock to six; Saturday afternoon through until about 2 a.m. Sunday and Monday from 4 p.m. on.

Girl Sleeps in Store Window After Being Hypnotized Over Radio

It happened just as advance notices intimated it would happen!

Raymond, the master hypnotist, yesterday afternoon put a 17-year-old girl to sleep in the window of Lipson's Furniture store on Front Street.

When Raymond the young girl was put to sleep by the master hypnotist while listening to his voice over the radio. The girl was sitting on the edge of the bed in the store window during Mr. Raymond's voice. One minute later she was sound asleep.

The demonstration of Raymond's hypnotic power failed to come off as scheduled when the young girl rose to difficulty in getting a volunteer. One young girl yesterday had volunteered to allow herself to be hypnotized, but at the last moment declined.

In the afternoon, however, Miss Beth Wilbur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Wilbur, volunteered to allow herself to be put to sleep and from then on everything went just as Raymond had said it would.

And just to make the feat a bit more difficult Raymond agreed that he would put the girl to sleep while speaking over the radio. Hundreds of people heard the broadcast.

The window at Lipson's furniture store was jammed with curious spectators despite the fact the demonstration did not start at the scheduled time. They came curious and a bit skeptical and went away convinced.

Interviewed after putting the young girl to sleep Raymond declared that he had had more excitement possibly three times before. He is scheduled Thursday night on the stage of the Capital Theatre.

"But she is expending very little energy while she is asleep and will need but very little nourishment," he said.

Raymond said Miss Wilbur was in good health. He had put her to sleep prior to theatre appearances in Canada and in the United States.

Leo Marcus, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Marcus of 153 James Street, city, has been awarded one of six scholarships to Canadian students for one year's study in Israel, it has been announced by the Canadian Zionist Federation. The scholarship warded by this organization is sponsored by the Zionist organization of Canada.

Approximately one third of the time Mr. Marcus will be in Jerusalem, and for most of the remaining period he will live in a "Kibbutz"—a collective settlement of Israel. He expects to do considerable travelling throughout Israel and the borders of neighboring countries. FRANKFORD

Five Vacancies On Public School Board Filled

Frankford—Reeve George Spencer has announced that the vacancies in the Frankford School Board have been filled, and that there will be no election necessary.

Early in the summer, five of the school trustees resigned following a disagreement with the village council over the construction of a new school in Balaws.

Eleven nominations were received at the nomination meeting last week, and five have qualified for the offices, thus going in by acclamation. The new members are Bill Rose, operator of Frankford Radio Specials, Grant Patrick, Foreman or Gair Company, and George Flindall, Robert Donahue and Thos. Tiffey, all three of Trenton, and all employed by the Bata Shoe Company.

The new school board comprises of the five new members, and Allan Lawrence of the former board. Step into their offices under very unenviable circumstances, since Frankford faces an over-crowded public school, and the possibility of having no place to send their high school students next year. They are to be complimented on their courage to tackle the job, and it is sincerely hoped that the various problems confronting them can be dealt with in the best possible manner.

Incident Closed As Far as Canada Is Concerned

Ottawa, August 30 — (CP) Canada is not going to make any further representations to Washington about Canadians reported to have been mentioned before the United States congressional committee; External Affairs Minister Pearson said today.

He told a press conference the diplomatic incident of a few days ago is closed as far as Canada is concerned.

Last week, his department expressed dissatisfaction over not being able to find the basis for a Washington news report that two high but unnamed Canadian officials had been mentioned before the committee as having been associated with espionage suspects.

"We made a request for information," he said, "and we were unable to get it. So the matter is ended—that particular incident."

PICTON

Child Fatally Burned In Apartment Blaze

Picton — Seventeen months-old Bobby Findlay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ian Findlay, was fatally burned when the room in which he was sleeping was swept by fire, which broke out about 8.30 Wednesday night in the Regent building.

Early this Thursday, Mrs. Findlay was in the kitchen of the three-roomed apartment on the second floor of an apartment block on Bridge St. She was caring for her four-weeks-old son, Gerry, who was ill. Mrs. Robert Creighton and Mrs. Seymour Putnam saw the flames through the front window. They dashed up the stairs and told Mrs. Findlay the place was on fire.

The women were unable to enter the small room where Bobby was in his crib.

Lieut. Milford, who resides nearby, rushed into the building and braving smoke and flames, entered the room and carried the baby outside. He was taken to the hospital in a car.

The cause of the fire is unknown, some clothing hanging on a chair immediately above the crib caught fire and places of the burning cloth fell on the baby, causing the fatal burns. The father was not at home at the time, being in the army. There will be no inquest.

Fungus Parasite Named as Cause Of Four Deaths

Pont Saint Esprit, France, Aug. 30—(CP)—A fungus parasite that flourishes on cereals in rainy weather was named today as the cause of four deaths and numerous cases of madness in this little town.

Professor Olivier, head of the police laboratory at Marseille said his autopsy findings confirmed those of another French scientist that the flour in bread eaten by the victims had been poisoned by ergot.

Ergot is defined as "a fungus disease of rye, other cereals," and wild grasses, in which the grains are replaced by black or dark-purple club-shaped bodies."

Ergot, prepared in laboratories, is used as a drug to control hemorrhage. It is used for treatment of childbirth. In large amounts it paralyzes the nerve endings.

The disease in this southern French town of 5,000 persons struck 200 persons, most of whom lived in a cast. There are still 37 persons in hospital. No new cases have been reported for four days, it was said today. Dean has been a member of the Canadian Army since April of this year.

Dean pleaded guilty to forging and uttering cheques passed at stores in the city. Stirling and Frankford, and of uttering a forged cheque at Madoc store. Amounts of the cheques ranged from $20 to $30.

Owing to illness of Magistrate J. L. Lloyd, Dean's case was transferred from Madoc court to Belleville before Magistrate T. Y. Wills. He was remanded for sentence to allow court officials to confer with army officers.

Marie, Ont., meal-ticket for 6,200 workers, has come to standstill as a result of an unauthorized strike by 1,325 maintenance workers. Maintenance workers are protesting company's alleged delay in setting up a job-rating plan included in their contract ratified last May. Louis D. Denver, above, general manager of the steel mills, branded the walkout as a breach of present working agreement between company and union, which includes a non-strike clause.—Central Press Canadian.

New Zealand's Butter too High For Canadians

Ottawa, Aug. 30—(CP)—The government, searching for surplus butter from foreign sources to prevent a shortage in Canada, decided that prices for New Zealand's butter are far too high for Canada's pocketbook, informed quarters disclosed today.

The first intention was to purchase 10,000,000 pounds from New Zealand, but because of the high price, the purchase has been cut sharply and negotiations are under way to swing a butter deal with Sweden, Denmark and Holland.

An announcement on the negotiations is expected to be made within a week. Meanwhile, it was learned that New Zealand, which sells most of her butter in the United Kingdom market, has asked Canada to pay about 17 cents a pound more for butter than the approximate 45 cents a pound New Zealand gets from Britain.

Canadian negotiators balked at the price, pared the original purchase down to an undisclosed minimum and decided to make up the difference with European butter.

COSTLY AMUSEMENT

The magic manipulation of public monies that has piled nearly four hundred million dollars into the federal treasury as surplus in the first four months of fiscal year is due for a grand finale in October when that master of sleight-of-hand, Finance Minister Abbott, takes the stage to present his new budget.

In order to prevent the general public from becoming prematurely grey from the shock of having to pay an additional two hundred and fifty million dollars annually for the old age pension scheme, Mr. Abbott is preparing, so it is rumored, to lower the sales tax. At present this hair-shirt beneath the Joseph's coat of taxation that's currently burdening the wage earner, is set at 10 per cent. This is called "hidden taxation" which increases simultaneously with the increasing cost of every article, is a questionable method of raising money as it pyramids costs and directly contributes to the high cost of living thereby placing an unnatural and often cruel burden on the lower income groups.

In this way Mr. Abbott will let it be known that all the new taxes will be earmarked for old age pensions — a logical idea as the money has to come from somewhere, and that his concession in the matter of the sales tax is purely largess on the government's part. The overall tax bite into the wage earner's salary will get larger, but the taxpayer will never be aware of it if he keeps his gaze intently fixed on the Ottawa stage show.

The sales tax has been the bane of merchants since its inception and despite the hocus-pocus involved in its collection, the public has to come from somewhere. How-lowering it will afford business a measure of relief. However, it is not likely that the tax will be lifted in its entirety, and until it is it shall continue to be an imposition.

One possible way of effectively destroying the hiding place of the "hidden taxes" would be to list all articles at their retail price, then add a separate notation about the their retail price, then add a separate notation about the tax, and then state the total cost. While this in no way lowers the cost to the consumer it reminds him that he is being taxed by his government. For instance on cigarettes 16 the price tag for a package of 20 cents; 2c tax; total 40 cents; government gets 4 cents: total 40 cents.

If such a practice was adopted the best of government and the extent of taxation would be forcefully brought home to the buying public, who no doubt would demand a greater interest in the eventual use of their money. Unless the public becomes aware of the extent to which they are being taxed they have no reason to hope that any real relief will ever be afforded. No taxing body has ever voluntarily relinquished, voluntarily, any means of collecting money. Rather it is the practice for taxing bodies to continually increase their revenues and their excuses for spending.

Aroused and informed public opinion is the only method by which the monstrous tax burden can be lifted. It is up to the individual to press for government economy and to question sharply every new request for public funds. Only when the wage-earner becomes fully conscious of his extent to which he is being deprived of his earnings by taxation, will he take effective action. A constant reminder of this burden, and the stimulus necessary to move the taxpayer into working for his own release, can be provided only by methods similar to the one mentioned above. The feeling of indignation caused by an income tax form once a year is not enough. The painless extraction of the pay-as-you-go plan, soothes the taxpayer, but leaves him poorer. Relief will be forthcoming only as a result of unremitting public pressure. Watching the financial antics on capital hill may be entertaining, but it is costly amusement.

PERILS OF THE FARM

(Ottawa Journal)

A farmer falls off a load of hay, breaks his neck and dies, and so directs attention to the fact that farm work has factors of danger that seem somehow out of keeping with the placidity of fields and woods and domestic animals.

Poets have written of the charm of haying operations, and yet over the years many men have fallen to death, or to severe injury, from the top of a hay-load. Every year there are stories of farmers killed by a bull in the pasture. Every year farmers are killed beneath an overturned tractor or some other farm implement.

Time was when most accidents on the farm were caused either by an angry bull or a runaway team of horses — sometimes the kick of a horse was fatal. Now there are fewer horses, but there are more machines and the need for caution in farm work is greater than ever before — there are more ways than forty years ago of being killed.

LITTLE BOY IN A BIG BED

Little Terry's growing up, getting bigger every day.
He is now "the little man," as they've put his crib away.
Gone is the crib that fenced him in,
no foot and sides and at the head.
Little Terry's boasting now: "I am sleeping in a bed."

Oh, I fancy there will come other triumphs when he's grown,
But not every child can sleep
in a big bed all alone.

And I'm sure it's worth a cheer when you're taken to behold
Little Terry in a bed, and he's not yet four years old!

Little Terry's growing up. This is all I need to say.
He's "a little man" right now
... and I can put his crib
away.
Yes, it may be, later on, when that happened he'll forget;
But he's sleeping in a bed, and he hasn't fallen yet.

RELIABILITY

Almost all of us like to be thought well of by our family and friends. Even if we are above wishing to be praised for once, we still we want to know that others value us highly and speak of us with respect.

We may be valued for different reasons. Some people, unfortunately, are admired only for wealth and social position, while others are respected and sought after because of their great knowledge or brilliant intellect. For most of us, these means of winning esteem are out of reach. But there is a quality available, to rich, poor, important, unknown, clever, and ordinary people alike, which will always draw respect: reliability.

The man who is one hundred percent reliable is a valuable man everywhere—in business, in the community, in business, in church. He inspires confidence and puts to those around him. His wife says, quietly, "John said he would come. You may count on him to be there." His neighbor says "Don't worry. We can depend on John to help." His employer says, "I know that part of the job will be done well, because John has been trained."

We cannot all be rich, or influential, or brilliant. But every one who will can be reliable and win the respect of all who know him.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of the humors of being middle-aged is in seeing some old flame you might have married, and by heaven's grace, didn't. The great majority of men who have reached fifty must be extremely glad they married the girl they did.

In a restaurant last night, I saw a girl I went to school with, now a sort of three decked galleon with all sail set. At school, she was one of the teacher's pet types, a number one girl in her class. Being at that time a bit of a rebel at her myself, the terrifying thought occurred to me, as I sat watching her taking the restaurant by storm last night, that we two good little children might have been attracted to each other, and our schoolboy-schoolgirl friendship might have ripened.

Here she was dressed in a sort of gypsy outfit, a blue polka dot silk scarf draped over her head, her upper rigging festooned with clanking hardware of costume jewelry, her face made up like a mask, and her eyes that used to be those of a little mouse, those of one scholar were like burnt holes in the mask. They darted around the restaurant like horse flies.

Her voice was loud and fake. She had a flamboyant manner such as you see in extras in movies set in Straus vaultzes in old Vienna. Who would dream that out of such a little Easter egg of a girl there would have emerged such a bold goddess?

Thank goodness she did not recognize me. For if she had, I am sure the restaurant would have rung with her laughter as she reflected on her childhood and thought that I must have been attracted to each other.

Once a mama's boy, always a mama's boy, she would have shrieked to her companions,

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

STOMACH TROUBLE

While the United Nations is seeking the question of human rights, I suggest they look into the right to eat as you please. You can't know about this, but Freedom of Appetite is as much in peril as any other. Maybe more.

The intolerance of the white man to the black man, which most of us deplore, is a matter of public concern and news day, God willing, may be wiped from the face of the earth.

But I see no hope for bringing to an end the intolerance of the oyster-eating to the non-oyster-eater or the olive-lover to the olive hater or the chicken chow mein enthusiast to the man whose taste buds abhor chicken chow mein.

There is no reasonable hope that the man with the big appetite will ever grant equality to the man with the pigeonhole appetite.

I speak as a man cursed with the appetite of a Dutch. All my life I have been surrounded by relatives and friends whose greatest joy is to consume mountains of meat and potatoes, to demolish it and to fall back with little groans and hiccoughs of "Oh" that they will cry, "I did make a proper pig of myself," a remark filled with a curious self-satisfaction.

Me and my little sachet-type stomach I have watched them, have been picking away at our food, asking ourselves petulantly how we ever got into a party of such gluttony and bracing ourselves for the customary attack.

Some one is bound to say, "Poor Jack, he doesn't eat enough to keep a canary alive." Then I will be plunged into the pleasure of pity and scorn which the heavy eater reserves for the man with the light appetite.

I am made to feel that I am an unmanly, sissified, effete exotic curiosity, an object of suspicion, perhaps even a foreign spy.

"Very Rare"

This is, of course, a two-sided affair, and the contempt which the hearty eaters is a terrible thing. I hate myself for it.

Confronted by a table full of Henry VIII types, intent on filling their great bellies, I feel my eyes narrowing with sympathy and scorn.

This is especially true of those friends of mine who must have their meat rare. Rare means they perfectly free to make, but which I like to consider a matter for public interest with moustache-growing, retaining of military rank in civilian life and other contemptuous acts.

At almost any dinner party where steaks are to be ordered—and I am casting my mind pretty far back to make this point—I sit in sorrow as each diner asks for his meat "very rare." When, I, in my turn, order mine "well done" I know that I will feel their glances on me. It is as if they had suddenly encountered a strange and rather loathsome beast.

"Well done!" someone will inevitably bark. "Why, you poor sap, you ignorant boob, you don't know what you're missing."

The man will then lift in his mouth a chunk of cattle exposed to a brief flame from a match, thus instantly robbing me of my appetite for the next 24 hours.

In self-defence I am bound to make some remark about cannibalism or to mouth some nasty reference to their large stomachs. Unhappily, in recent years, I have developed an immense pot myself, which does not escape notice.

Then a new meat-eater is prone to associate his state with masculinity and I have seen little fellows with handkerchiefs tucked in their coat sleeves who will behave over an uncooked and defenceless beefsteak as if it were a lion they had personally strangled with their bare hands.

Man Banished

A particularly glaring example of this difference occurred at our place last weekend, Is involved a couple of guests who arrived for dinner. I am something of a glutton myself when oysters are involved.

Our friend Burwash was staying with us and, when informed of the arrival of a ton of raw liver produced only a few crystals of B12.

Fortunately for sufferers from anemia a new and much cheaper source was discovered. One of the pharmaceutical manufacturers found that Streptomycin growths being cultured for their antibiotic activity, also produced Vitamin B12. The same fact was discovered independently by other manufacturers and each set about producing it in a plentiful and inexpensively. Thanks to this research related molds were found and manufacturing methods developed so that today the cost of this vitamin potency is only a few cents each and containing ferrous gluconate (iron) where needed is within the reach of all.

For those who are interested further, more information is available without charge by merely sending a stamped self-addressed envelope and asking for the leaflet "The Red Blood Vitamin."

Anemia often develops gradually. Its first symptoms are usually weakness, easy fatigue, nervousness or restlessness. Simple iron deficiency anemia is quickly and easily cured by a supplement of iron in the form usually of ferrous gluconate and B-complex vitamins or by eating a sufficient volume of foods such as green leafy vegetables which contain iron.

Through continued research and dedication of knowledge, the future is bright for more than two million people in the United States who suffer from one form or another of anemia.

DECOYS

We are beset with decoys in this brief life of ours. If there were not so many of the bad ones we would not so much feel the ills of life by lengthened joys, health, and a genuine zest for life. But the decoys are on the main road, or tend to make us take the more dangerous route.

Take the bellow pleasure, threats and fears, promises of unearned rewards, insincere flattery, and the insincerity nor substance to back them up. Man has been led by decoys as well—and to his harm—that he has employed the method in nature, decoying prey in human flesh who easier destroy it, taking away its just right to have a chance against danger.

Marcus Aurelius, nearly two thousand years ago, termed such decoys "despicable, filthy, perishable, dead."

Our newspapers of late have described the decoy methods used by rats in human flesh who decoy mere children that they may fatten their purses with ill-gotten money through the sale of dangerous habit forming drugs. No punishment is too severe for such.

Sometimes we even decoy ourselves away from the fundamentals we should cherish and cling to. We are the right and only ones, thinking that we may improve upon them through the use of the mind. We are decoyed by the promise of quick successes, and beyond these mere, and by temporary thrills.

What a masterful thing the mind is! It is our guide through life. It immediately recognizes the safe decoys from the dangerous ones. It knows that one of the most valuable of all decoys for they seem such—is himself. Transporting him into times long spent, and into the lives of those who left a mark on his life, and a place in which to live and work.

Great also, is too, is a wonderful decoy for those who would enter the feeling spirit of those who have gone beyond the human life and in nature and have put this feeling into art that is imperishable. Sometimes inspiring millions to a happier way of thinking, and teaching them to appreciate "what God hath wrought."

NEW SOURCES OF THE RED BLOOD VITAMIN

Medicinal science has come a long way in the past 25 years. A quarter of a century ago persons who suffered from pernicious anemia usually had a life expectancy of about 2½ years from the time the condition was diagnosed. Now, due to increasing research on the part of the medical profession, and the pharmaceutical manufacturers most forms are quickly and permanently brought under control. Anemias occur from various causes. One cause of anemia is excessive loss of blood; another is due to toxic chemicals which destroy blood cells. The third cause is dietary in origin. Of these, dietary deficiency seems to be the most common. Liver in raw or nearly raw state had long been prescribed for deficiency anemias and it was from this source that vitamin B12 was finally isolated. Research, however, in which anemic animals were treated orally with vitamin B12 alone and this vitamin in company with various other substances, showed conclusively that a potentizer (or activator) was needed to achieve a satisfactory result. Of these Folic Acid (—other derivatives of folic acid) to be by far the best and results showed it to be at least 10 to 100 times more active as a duodenal substance (another material used largely as a B12 potentizer).

If liver had remained the only source of B12 its price today would be out of the question for most persons since the extract of a ton of raw liver produced only a few crystals of B12. Fortunately for sufferers from anemia a new and much cheaper source was discovered. One of the pharmaceutical manufacturers found that Streptomycin growths being cultured for their antibiotic activity, also produced Vitamin B12. The same fact was discovered independently by other manufacturers and each set about producing it in a plentiful and inexpensively. Peiping Radio Charges U.S. Planes Violate Armistice Area In Kaesong Almost Every Day

Tokyo, Aug. 30—(AP)—Red China's official Peiping radio charged today American planes violate the Kaesong neutrality area in Korea "every day."

The charge was injected into a series of broadcasts accusing Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway of lying, slander and distortion.

The latest asserted violation was early Wednesday. The broadcast heard in Tokyo said an American bomber dropped a flare over the site of the now-suspended Korean War truce talks.

The radio said it happened at almost the same time Ridgway refused to reopen an investigation of red charges that an allied plane bombed Kaesong Aug. 22.

Peiping called it an attempt "to cover up the flagrant lies that he handed the world."

The broadcast made no mention of the U. N. commander's offer to resume truce negotiations any time the communists are willing to do so. He made the offer in the same note that refused to reopen investigation of the Kaesong bombing.

Top red commanders, to whom the message was addressed, have not replied. There was no indication when they would.

In its sweeping accusation, the Peiping radio said as many as 43 American planes had flown over the Kaesong neutral zone for a single day. The neutral area extends for a five mile radius around Kaesong.

The broadcast devoted most of its attack to Ridgway, charging the communist armistice tender to support a theory the reds want to delay a decision on Korea until after the Japanese peace treaty conference in San Francisco.

Peiping's broadcasts dampened a cautious optimism expressed in a press release from Gen. Ridgway's headquarters.

The release suggested the red proposal to re-investigate the Kaesong bombing charge "may contain some hope for resumption" of truce talks. Communists broke off negotiations Aug. 23, a few hours after they said a U. N. plane bombed Kaesong.

The red broadcasts said Ridgway's latest note on the incident "again distorted facts" and was "full of contradictions because he is lying."

It particularly assailed his statement that a red liaison officer refused a request for daylight investigation.

"On one hand he slanders our side as refusing to conduct a reinvestigation," the radio said, "and on the other stubbornly refuses our request for a re-investigation."

The broadcast then asked:

"Why is Ridgway so afraid of investigation, like a criminal afraid of his final trial? Ridgway's liaison officer said that investigation in dark or night could not be (held). Why then does Ridgway insist on relying on unreliable investigation, and yet refuse to make reliable investigation"

Savage Assaults North of Yanggu Are Beaten Back

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 30 (CP)—About 10,000 fresh communist troops dug into jagged hills of eastern Korea behind their attacking comrades.

Reds hurled three small, savage assaults at United Nations troops north of Yanggu. All were beaten back.

To the north, U. N. planes tore up rails and road beds in their determined effort to cut communist supply lines. Pilots reported they destroyed or damaged 62 box cars and cut roadways in 67 places after night attacks knocked out 270 trucks.

A fresh communist division—about 8,000 men—was observed digging in northeast of Yanggu, which is 27 miles from the eastern tip of the front. The division, presumably North Korean, was in hills just north of the scene of recent bitter clashes.

Another group of reds, estimated at about 2,000 men, was moving south in the area northwest of Yanggu. Five hundred more reds were seen digging in in this sector.

In their most persistent attack Thursday, the reds fought allied troops 13 hours before withdrawing. The attack was supported by heavy artillery fire. By mid-afternoon it had dwindled to a long-range exchange.

In the iron triangle of the central front, artillery mortars and hidden groups of red infantrymen harassed an allied patrol sporadically until it withdrew at dusk. Only small patrol clashes were reported elsewhere on the front.

Yesterday two British frigates steamed up the Han River on the Korean west coast to strike at communist troops on the north bank. Shellfire from the Mounts Bay and Morecambe Bay cleared communist troops from a village, the U. N. naval command reported.

Kansas City, Aug. 30 (AP) —A youthful business man shot to death two persons yesterday and told police he intended to kill five others and then commit suicide.

He said he was "mad at them" and "just disgusted."

Police said Richard Donaldson, 23-year-old laundry operator, admitted the slayings in a signed statement.

Dead were Alfredo Ortiz-Vargas, 58, assistant professor of foreign languages at the University of Kansas, City, and Mrs. William Lay, 77-year-old Negro.

Two of the intended victims escaped death because Donaldson's pistols, misfired. Two others were not home and the fifth did not answer her door when Donaldson appeared.

Donaldson told officers that in addition to Ortiz-Vargas and Mrs. Lay, he intended to kill his former mother-in-law, an aunt, a son of Mrs. Lay, his landlady and her brother.

Well Chosen Jewels are Aid To Make-Up

London.—(CP) — Background house in summer fabrics give good scope for bright accessories and jewelry and make the ideal complement to one's individual coloring.

Though vivid and subtle colors are popular this year in England, the most fashionable choice in London is black and white, closely followed by navy blue and all the natural shades associated with browns and deep colors.

Jewels can be selected to flatter and emphasize the shade of the eyes, hair and make-up, and generally to contribute in a distinctive personal appearance. The fashionable hair tints of red gold, corn gold, platinum and light chestnut are being used as an effective partner to gold-set jewelry, and to such stones as emeralds, topazes, amber and more unusual perhaps, but equally pleasing—to amethysts.

For the red-haired blessed with a naturally creamy complexion, cream-colored pearls are the ideal choice.

Lustrous jewelry needs lustrous hair and a well-cared for complexion to look its best, jewelers say. With pearls it is wise to wear only the finest powder or their texture and delicate sheen may become impaired.

Brunettes with fair skin will find a combination of coral make-up and jewelry becoming, and emeralds, topazes and turquoise will also blend with this type of coloring. Sapphires need a fairly warm make-up and look especially striking when complementing blue eyes and golden hair. The blonde with a fair skin can emphasize her ivory or nearly pink coloring with turmalines, garnets or blush pearls, while the olive-skinned will find plain gold ornaments very flattering.

London jewellers say that eye-color, too, can be accentuated with well-chosen jewelry.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about FOOD ... What's Cooking?

In Denmark the salad goes right from the garden into the bowl.

Waitresses bring a tray of watercress growing in a soil box and snip off the leaves onto the customer's salad plate. Watercress leaves are the size of large clover. They have a mustardy, sharp flavor, and are frequently used in the same way as parsley, as a garnish for meat or poultry.

You may not be able to buy watercress in every market. But in the better class fruit and vegetable stores watercress is usually sold.

If the stem-ends are too coarse, they may be cut off. The leaves should be examined carefully to remove any small shells or pebbles which are found in watercress grown outdoors.

Watercress is used as the bed of greens for today's chicken salad. The amount of mayonnaise needed is a matter of individual preference. The portions of food should be cooked with it but not swimming in it. If the mayonnaise is very stiff, it should be thinned with a little cream or milk. Cooked ham or tongue may be substituted for chicken in this recipe.

Chicken and Orange Salad
Serves 4.

2 cups diced cooked chicken
1 cup diced celery
1 cup shredded lettuce
1-4 cup ripe olives
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1-2 cup mayonnaise
Salt—pepper
1-4 lemon
2 oranges
1 bunch watercress
2 hard boiled eggs

Cut the chicken into 1-2 inch cubes, removing all fat, skin or gristle. For making a salad, boiled fowl is better than chicken cooked by other methods.

Prepare the celery part of the celery by running a vegetable peeler over the outside of the stalk to take off the fibre.

Cut the ripe olives into slivers, discarding the seeds.

In a mixing bowl combine the chicken, celery, lettuce olives, chili sauce and mayonnaise. Mix lightly. If a more moist dressing is desired, add more mayonnaise. Sprinkle with the juice of the 1-4 lemon. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Peel the oranges with a sharp knife, and remove all the outer membranes. Cut into thin crosswise into slices, or cut between sectional membranes to make long wedges. Cut the hard boiled eggs lengthwise into quarters.

Put the watercress on the serving plates. Put the chicken mixture on the watercress. Arrange the orange sections and the eggs around the salad.

Two Old Vic Companies Will Produce Plays

London, Aug. ——(AP)—The Old Vic Theatre, breeding ground of some of the greatest actors of this generation, is undergoing a reorganization which may give it a solid claim to the title of Britain's national theatre.

Instead of one group presenting plays in the tiny Old Vic Theatre near the south bank of the Thames, there will be two Old Vic companies. Each will alternate presentations at the home theatre with tours carrying Shakespeare and other classics throughout Britain.

The series of events that brought on the resurgent Old Vic was caused by an intra-mural fight that led to wholesale staff resignations and a wordy feud in the newspapers and magazines. Over-simplified, it could be termed "art vs. commercialism."

The struggle began with the resignations of three of the four directors who supervised Old Vic productions. They charged the theatre was going commercial, recruiting "name" actors and subordinating the mission of educating young aspirants through the Old Vic school.

The resignations were followed by a statement of policy.

1. Two companies were to be set up, each of equal status.

2. The repertory to continue to be predominately, but not exclusively, classical.

3. Educational interests to be served in London and the provinces by special prices concessions and special performances for school children and students.

4. Provincial interests to be served by continuation of the Bristol Old Vic, an offshoot of the London theatre.

5. If they wish to develop similar groups, other cities will receive the aid of the Old Vic organization.

6. Since such groups can foster creative talent and act as a training ground "the Young Vic company for the present will be disbanded."

The Old Vic was conceived in 1891 by London's charity commissioners to provide "entertainment for the recreation and instruction of the poorer classes."

GOOD MANNERS

Thank-you notes for "Bon Voyage" presents, some of them money-gifts

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

At a "Bon Voyage" party given for me, I received personal gifts and gifts of money. Will you please tell me how to word letters of thanks for these? M. E. G.

Suggestion for thank-you note for personal gift:

Dearest Emily,

How good of you, and how happy you made me by your grand gift! I was thrilled with the handsome leather dressing-case, and it's already filled and happily packed in my suit-case. It's a perfect case, so lovely to look at, my favorite dark-green in the sturdy leather, and just the right size. It will add real joy and comfort to my travels! Thank you, with very special thanks. And I'll be writing you!

Affectionately,

Note for money-gift:

You dear Dorothy,

What a darling you are—to be so good to me, so thoughtful! And so very generous in your gift. I shall have great fun spending it on my travels, choosing a Something which I'll hope you approve of my choosing something "near my heart's desire"—and I'll report to you at once when I return.

Dearest love to you, Dorothy, and again and always my deep appreciation.

The correct form of name for divorcee

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

Since I am getting my divorce at the request of my husband because he wishes to marry another woman, I am sure that as soon as possible after the divorce he will re-marry. We all live in the same community, all are employed here. Therefore what form of name could I use to distinguish me from the second "Mrs. John Smith", so that there will be as little confusion as possible as to mail, store deliveries, as well as to social occasions?

Divorcee-to-be

Drop you ex-husband's first name . . . . and in its place use your maiden name. For example, let's say your maiden name was Mary Graham. Then your after-divorce name would be: Mrs. Graham Smith. This form of name is the proper form for

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Good looks 'aids' to, career girls

What has become of the poor working girl, as old-timers knew her in the melodrama? She has swapped from her part of the world and that's just dandy. Her successor is earning good money, she wears smart clothes, she has her session at the beautyticians. She knows she is the public eye, that she must put up an attractive appearance as she can. Well and good. What she doesn't always think about is that she must not only look fit, but be fit. She must take excellent care of her health if she is to carry on splendidly and gallantly, win a profitable future in the business realm.

If she has learned anything about health and hygiene she will not start the day on a cup of coffee and a nibble of toast. Hours have elapsed since the dinner of the night before and her motors are in need of fuel. The stodgy breakfast is usually a matter of habit. Besides fruit or fruit juices and a beverage she should have an egg or several slices of bacon. If she can manage cereal, so much the better. The practice of leaving the office at ten o'clock for coffee has caused many work-

Sliding all day encourages hip expansion.

Grabbing a sandwich for lunch-on at a soda fountain is no way to treat oneself. After half a day's work one should have a restful period, eat slowly and, if possible, in a place that is not crowded. A sandwich, a salad and a glass of milk form a good combination from a dietary standpoint. Many a career girl is jittery and nervous, worries about her work, trails home all worn out at five o'clock because her eating habits are all wrong. She isn't getting the various food elements she needs.

If she is tired at dinner time, appetite will depart. Before sitting down to dinner she should relax. It's nice to slip out of one's working clothes, get into other duds.

Exercise and outdoor life are essential, especially if one is a desk worker or typist. Sitting all day is about the least possible means of acquiring spread antidotes. We can't expect a girl to exercise in the morning she chases out of the house in a flurry—but she can do a few calisthenics before slipping in between the sheets. If she does nothing more than stretching her body for five minutes, that will help. She can do that in bed, if she likes. Stretch fingers and toes, legs and arms, neck and torso. This practice will bring a feeling of relaxation and the sand man will not be long coming.

THE CANADA STARCH COMPANY LIMITED

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

"That from now on, you never raise your hand to a low employee in this plant. If all you have a mind to outside these premises. Keep on learning to box at the Y, it's good training for you. But, no more fighting in The Ensign office, see! And another thing—yesterday Milly Brooks came into this office crying. She said you slipped up behind her, grabbed her and kissed her."

Goldie Webster's face colored. "But, Dad," he protested, "she's been teasing me, and—and, well, she's, so pretty. I just could not help myself."

"Yes, but Goldie, that's something that you must never, never do. Hands off girls, see! Once you form the habit of kissing every pretty girl you see, do you know what will happen to you?"

"What—Dad?"

"Some one will punch you in the nose. May even break your neck."

Goldie Webster thought that over for a minute.

"It might be worth it," he blurted soberly, and Lance Bradley got up hurriedly and looked out of the window to straighten his face. Then controlling himself, he turned.

"Well, Goldie," he asked, "What's your answer? Will you promise that you will never fight on these premises again, and that you will leave the girls—Milly in particular—alone, from now on?"

Goldie Webster stood up.

"Yes, Dad," he said. "I give you my word. I'll do anything you say."

Lance Bradley came around his desk to lay his hands on the boy's shoulders, to look him in the eyes.

"You know, son, I think a lot of you," he said proudly. "If I'm not mistaken, you're going to be a great man some day."

"And I think you're awful swell too, Dad, Goldie stammered. Then, suddenly remembering something, he wriggled loose. "You'll have to excuse me, Dad, but I have a lot of work to do."

And next moment he was gone.

It can be said to Goldie Webster's credit that he was a boy of his word. That one unpleasant experience of being called into his father's office was enough that he must watch his step in future. For after all, he was a happy, contented boy. He was wrapped up in the interesting work of the composing room, he was drawing wages for one of his age, he had all the clothes he needed and a good home. Besides he was paid up member of the Y.M.C.A. and he had free use of the Y's facilities to learn to be a good boxer.

CHAPTER XXI

For some time Lance Bradley wondered what to do with the old printing office building, the land, on the side street, back of the new Ensign Building. He could sell the property, for more than one man had an eye on it, or he could tear down the building and put up a garage for his car and a row of garages for trucks that might be required in his business.

He was debating what to do with the property one day when a tall young man with a returned soldier's button in his coat dropped in, and provided Lance with the solution. He wished to rent the property to start a garage business. He had a good working knowledge of the garage business and was in fact working steadily for some one else, now. He had some tools, but not much money.

Lance asked to see his visitor's discharge papers. The papers gave the man's name as Samuel Jackson, son, sergeant, showed that he was one of the first to enlist for the Great War and had a good record. Lance looked him over. He appeared to be a straightforward, honest chap. But then Lance wanted to know more about him, so he asked some questions.

Jackson said that he had been born in Emerton, and that he had a wife and two small children. He gave the names of his minister and several business men as references regarding his stability, his honesty.

For a few minutes Lance Bradley sat in serious thought, then he leaned forward.

"Tell you what we'll do, soldier," he smiled. "We'll go into this thing together. We'll have the old building remodelled to suit your purpose. We'll build garages for my car and my trucks we may require, on the property; there's lots of room. You'll look after my car and trucks, keep them serviced. Now so far so good. You'll start the business on your own and take what you make. I'll deed the greater part of the property over to you."

"But, Mr. Bradley, what is all this going to cost me?"

"Not a cent, soldier. We veterans should help one another, don't you think?" He picked up the telephone, called Mother Roberts, told them to send a man to The Ensign office at once.

"I just can't get this through my head, Mr. Bradley," Jackson said puzzled. "Do you mean to say that you'll remodel the building at your own expense and you will deed part of the property to me, all for nothing?"

"That's it," Lance said. "And give you a thousand dollars to help get you started."

"Well, I don't know how to thank you, Mr. Bradley," Jackson said. "It's more than I expected, more than I deserve from one who doesn't know me, but I guess there's a Santa Claus after all."

"Of course there is," Lance laughed. "Did you ever have reason to think that there wasn't?"

A few minutes later they were on the property with a Russell Builders' man, telling him what to do and that the work must be rushed.

In a few short weeks Jackson's Garage opened for business, Lance Bradley had a garage for his car, garages for trucks, and there was a gruff man handy to keep the car and trucks running.

But so far there was one prominent man in Emerton who had not dropped in to pay his respects to the new publisher. That man was Police Chief William Slender. But there came a day when he barged into Lance's office without knocking, and without permission dropped himself into a chair. He was a big, bull-necked man with the red veins of the heavy drinker lining his big, red cheeks.

"Just dropped in while passing, Brad," he said. "I want a word with you. Just want to know where you stand in regard to our police force."

"I don't get you, Chief," Lance said. "What do you mean?"

"I think your paper should give us a break, should keep our names before the public, support us in the good work we're doing in this town."

"But, aren't we doing that already?" Lance asked.

"Yes—and no," Slender drawled. "We think you could do more for us. We think that your paper should be our mouthpiece."

"Then you think wrong," Lance said shortly. "The Ensign can never be the mouth-piece of the police force or any other group of men, for if they should do wrong, you can see what a mess the paper would get into. No, sir the police force, like this newspaper, must stand in its own sphere."

Chief Slender got up and strode slowly towards the door.

"Well, Brad," he said, turning to look at the publisher, "if that's the way you'd have it, well—that's the way you'll have it."

"Yes, Chief," Lance agreed. "That's the way it will be in my time anyway."

Now that Lance Bradley had little occasion to drive his car in working hours, he took advantage of the long summer evenings, at Dad Roberts's suggestion, to drive into the country to get acquainted with the country writers for his paper and to appoint correspondents in areas not already covered. Dad was usually with him, there were times when Mother Roberts went too.

It was a pleasant way to spend the evenings, but in one instance at least Lance was shown that he was now being looked upon as a man who could be trusted, as a man who might clear the name of a respectable young farmer and take necessary steps to punish a man who had taken advantage of him.

In his weekly newspaper days Dad Roberts had learned to know every country correspondent personally. He knew where such one lived and the roads that led to his or her door.

And so Lance Bradley drove the car where Dad told him to drive it, he turned in where he was told, and he admitted that these bright country women—the majority of The Ensign's rural correspondents were women—were most hospitable, most generous. Seldom did the publisher's car leave a farm without some generous gift in the back—early vegetables, some of last year's apples, butter, eggs and in some cases dressed chicken, a roast of fresh killed beef or a generous portion of fresh pork.

But whenever Lance Bradley and Dad Roberts drove, they were reminded that the Emerton market was a disgrace to the town, a most unsatisfactory place in the lack of facilities for the farmers that they serve who must spend long hours there, especially on Saturdays. And Lance made note of that—it was not the kind of stuff that Managing Editor Gordon was looking for.

But the most important matter that arose out of those visits to the country in the evenings was Lance's meeting with Farmer John Weber and his son, Henry. This was not a chance meeting, but resulted from a request by the Webers, They had something very important to tell him. Lance left Dad Roberts in the kitchen to talk to the women folk and followed Weber and his son out into the farmyard where no one could hear what they were talking about.

Goods, Not Cash Were Wagered At Early Horse Meet

London, Ont. (CP) — Despite the unpopularity of fixes, bribes or losing that last two bucks on a longshot, Canadians have always followed eagerly the thundering hooves of racehorses.

Take the back-road racing of the 1830 London District, for example. A writer of that era describing the saga and the activities which surrounded these "sports" witnessed no ludicrous a scene" in his life.

No sleek, nervous horse he brilliantly-attired jockeys brightened the 1830 racing picture. And there were no backwoods plungers to put cash on the barrel-head, the 1830 equivalent of the modern pari-mutuel window.

The writer claims that he went to one horse race—"just that 1 night witness the speed of their sorry horses, as they careered over a quarter-mile course. Three horses were started for a bet of 10,000 feet of boards. The riders were clumsy-looking fellows, bootless and toothless."

Apparently the betting public, while seldom using cash, stood in great danger of losing their shirt. Although he records no such instance, the writer does describe several other wagers wherein personal property took the place of money.

"I was soon assailed by a host of fellows requesting me to take their offers," the writer says. However, there was no cash involved in the bets. The reckoning was in goods or barter like everything else in the pioneer communities except tax payments.

Varied Bets

The writer says the first person to attract his attention wanted to wager a barrel of salt pork that a horse called split-the-wind could win. When the writer resigned, another offered to bet him 5000 shingles that a horse named Washington would "distance every tarnation scrub in Albion." Other bets offered were: 50 pounds of pork sausage against a cheese of equal weight; a yoke of ox-hide against half its weight in tanned leather, and a pair of blacksmith's bellows against a barrel of West Indian molasses or 200 lb. cash.

"I venture to say that $10,000 at least were lost and won, without a single sou or specie being in the possession of anyone present," the writer concludes.

Increase in Ragweed Growth Causes Concern in Ontario

Toronto, [illegible] Ragweed which [illegible] called "Roman Wormwood" [illegible] arousing a great concern to [illegible] city and country people, as it is the [illegible] of over 90% of hay suffering in Ontario. This is a very serious matter not only for the people of Ontario, but also for tourists. If they know there is ragweed around, it may tend to keep them away, particularly in late summer, and hence we have many thousands of tourist dollars. This statement was made by K. E. Fullis, fieldman for the Crops Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture. He gives as still another reason for keeping ragweed under control, the fact that if too much is present in pasture hay it tends to give the milk an off-flavor.

Mr. Fullis points out ragweed is equally at home in the city or country, on waste or cultivated ground. It is fast spreading to Northern Ontario which was once free of ragweed and area and soon a haven for hay fever victims.

An annual weed with a tap root, ragweed has a smooth, erect, hairy, erect stem. The flower heads for slender spikes at the ends of the branches and the seed is borne in the axil of the leaves.

Mr. Fullis states that although ragweed is very susceptible to all forms of chemical weed killers, two of its habits make control and eradication difficult. In the first place, it is a late seeding weed and springs up after harvesting or cultivation operations have ceased. Secondly, the seeds are borne low in the stem and therefore only very close mowing will prevent seed formation.

Under the circumstances, Mr. Fullis suggests that cultivation is the best means of control. Unseeded stubble fields should be cultivated immediately following harvest and cultivation continued as late as possible. Fields that are seeded down with clover may be closely clipped following harvest. Some success has been obtained from after-harvest spraying with 2 qts. 2,4-D acid per acre. As an important step in controlling further spread of ragweed he emphasizes that only the best clover seeds—those known to be from ragweed—should be used.

When mowing along roadsides and on waste places, the important factor to remember is to clip close. Additional mowings may be necessary to control later maturing plants.

Mr. Fullis declares that July 15th is about optimum for control of ragweed, but is possibly too late for many other weeds. If sprayed earlier, effective control will be difficult as all the ragweed plants may not have emerged.

Finally he stresses the point that ragweed can only be eliminated by a determined effort on the part of both rural and urban people. Any one of three methods can be used—weed killers—clipping—and hand pulling—and all will reduce the seeding of ragweed.

Norway Vessel Using Science To Chart Course of Herring

Oslo, Norway. (CP)—A scientific hunt for the elusive herring now being conducted by a Norwegian research vessel may lead to big effects on the world's fish catch.

The C.O. Sars, equipped with the latest in electronic depth and distance detectors, is plying the deep waters of the North Atlantic "trying to discover the secret movements of the big herring shoals.

Main object of the present search is to find out whether the bulk of the herring are heading for the fishing banks north of Iceland, or in the direction of the Antarctic Island of Jan Mayen, where they were doomed last year.

This is the third expedition in a year to be launched by the Norwegian Directory of Fisheries to track down the herring. Last summer the crew of the Sars traced the herring way down south with the help of sound device known as "Asdic". Three large fishing vessels which followed their directions made good catches.

Further research discovered the general route taken by the herring in its search for food during the summer months. Last December the Sars again sailed to the cold waters off Iceland and vast shoals of herring found in that area were followed to the Norwegian coast.

Fishing fleets lying in Norway's coastal waters are kept constantly informed of the progress of the survey and recently, for the first time in history, big catches were made more than 100 miles off shore.

Actual Movements

By these voyages Norway hopes to be able to locate the herring from May until the shoals return to Norwegian coastal waters in January. But no one can yet discovered what makes the herring take these annual migrations.

Zoologists of the 19th century believed the herring which came to Western Norway in spawning during winter months, spent the rest of the year in deep water off the Norwegian coast.

About 1870 however the Norwegian zoologist Georg Ossian Sars proved the amount of plankton found at such depth was not enough to feed the herring and reasoned their home would have to be the large expanse known roughly as the Norwegian ocean.

Since Sars advanced this theory it has been the dream of marine zoologists to determine the home of the herring before and after the spawning season. Only within the last few years have instruments been produced which offer hopes of feeding the solution.

The echo depth sounder made possible the locating of herring at great depth, but was limited to shoals directly below the ship. Development of effective horizontal range during the Second World War presented greater possibilities.

With this device it is possible to locate herring shoals some distance from the survey ship.

WILL BE FOR VISITORS

Toronto, Aug. 29 — (CP) — It looks like Ontario is falling to pieces. It does when you look at one of the jig-saw puzzles the travel department has produced. The puzzle divides the province into pieces and has local information about each area printed on the back of the sections. Only a few have been made and probably will be for young visitors to Ontario's parks.

FOREMAN KILLED

"THE DEAD LIVE ON"

Usual group of black-clothed women, some genuine, others publicity-seekers, appeared at Hollywood cemetery to honor 25th anniversary of death of famous screen lover, Rudolph Valentino. Accepted as genuine "woman in black," Ditra Flame arrived at the cemetery at high noon in black limousine, as she had done for many years. Miss Flame is seen saying a solemn prayer after placing two dozen roses at marble crypt. Too overcome by emotion, the "woman in black" swooned to floor of vault into a faint. — Central Press Canadian.

Courts to Decide Toronto's Milk Price Problem

Toronto, Aug. 29 — (CP) Toronto's milk price problem will be taken to the courts for a decision, milk distributors announced today.

The distributors said they will apply for a court order to set aside an increase of 35 cents a hundredweight paid to milk producers. Ontario Milk Control Board ordered the increase to become effective Sept. 1.

Yesterday the Milk Board refused to postpone the increase to producers. It also took no action on an alternative suggestion by the distributors that the retail milk price be raised to 22 cents a quart for home delivery and 21 cents in the stores.

Distributors said in a letter to the board that they cannot pay the increased price to farmers without an increase in the retail price. Farmers now receive $4.20 a hundredweight.

Judge A. B. Currey, chairman of the Milk Board, said yesterday that a scheduled reduction in the cash-and-carry retail price of milk in Toronto from 20 cents to 19 cents, will be postponed.

The reduced price was to have become effective Sept. 1.

Students Sharing Dunkerque Repair

Paris. (CP)—A dozen British students of both sexes are spending part of their summer holidays working hard and willingly on reconstruction of the famous library at Dunkerque.

Although the library was one of the few buildings left standing in that coastal town after the Second World War, its full restoration had to be postponed while more urgent tasks were undertaken in the coastal town which was the scene of the great British evacuation in 1940.

Most of the books remained in storage, as they had been during the hostilities, but now the library too can have its big reconstruction thanks to the student volunteers.

A dozen of these students, members of the British Students United Nations Association, ages between 18 and 25, have volunteered to do a month's labor on the library.

With help from the director of French Libraries, and a number of specialists including U.N. experts, the students will classify between 10,000 and 15,000 books during their stay, which starts August 15. The town of Dunkerque will provide board and lodging and provide spare-time excursions for the visitors.

The Strasbourg Library will also benefit from another project of the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. There a party of British students will micro-film and label the volumes, selecting works which may be exchanged for volumes to replace war losses.

Minister Opposed to Vacation Work for School Child

Wellington, N.Z. (CP) — [illegible] starts in North America, New Zealand schools have a vacation of two or three weeks in the fall, a shorter one in the spring, and the "long vacation" of six to eight weeks in summer.

Teachers Disagree

With the current labor shortage it has been easy for children to get part-temporary work at high rates of pay during their vacations. More than 50,000 children attend full-time secondary schools and half as many more get part-time technical education.

Some teachers and educational authorities disagree with the education minister's view. They say that light work in the cities, or open-air work on farms, is a good change from school work and that pupils return from such jobs just as fit to resume studies as those who spend the holidays in recreation.

This section maintains there is no reason why pupils should not get valuable experience of the working world and at the same time earn some pocket money when the opportunity offers.

Corn-Meal Mush Special Food for Big Goldfish

Martinsville, Ind., (AP)—A far-away look in the eyes of your pet goldfish may be a yearning for corn-meal mush from Indiana.

The Grassyfork Fisheries here claims to be the goldfish capital of the world, and some 400,000,000 flashy fish have slithered out into the world from the 675 ponds on the firm's seven farms.

Long ago the firm found that prize specimens, the big ones passed for breeding, thrived on mush. It has a vat large enough to heat up 7,000 pounds at a time.

Grassyfork's development "is something like a soap opera," Eugene Stuireman's marshy farm hand's seemed good for much of anything except mosquitoes, until in 1890 an enterprising soap salesman from Indianapolis decided a bowl of goldfish might be an enticing premium to boost his sales.

The soap company was out of business by the time Grassyfork got into production, but other soap companies fell in with the goldfish premium idea. The fish caught the eye of the Americans. They showed up in dime stores and pet shops. College boys swallowed them. Fishermen tried them as bait—and still use them.

Shireman was delighted to find the hiros and limia in Southern Indiana water heighted the new coloring in the fish.

That vivid color is the keynote of the whole Grassyfork operation. Harry Wood, biologist at Grassyfork for 37 years, looks for that brilliance (and well-forged bodies) in his continual search for new breeding stocks. When he spots a pond or choice fish he's drained, and the best of the lot stay on at Grassyfork to spawn fish for marketing.

Big and Husky

The assortment of males and females isn't left to chance. After years of handling fish, Wood can usually differentiate at a glance. If there's any doubt, the test is as simple as the whiskers on a man's face. The gill plate of the male goldfish feels rough and whiskery to the touch; the female's is smooth.

The breeders average about three years old, but Wood remembers some that have lived to the ripe old age of 16 years. Most of them don't live past five years. They're usually 14 to 22 inches long.

That's far too large for the usual household goldfish but don't worry about your pet bursiling his bowl.

"They stay small when they're kept in confined places," Wood said. "We keep the market fish crowded in ponds to keep them small. They can grow as long as eight inches in one season in an uncrowded pond."

Mush helps the breeders grow big and husky—the "small fry" being grown for the market, get no such delicacies. The culled-out breeders are sold for ornamental fish ponds.

The common, orange-colored goldfish usually sell in stores and shops at a nickel or a dime each. The Chinese Moors, Fantails and Shubunkins bring fancier prices like 25 to 50 cents.

SIX SOLDIERS DROWN

North American Car Big Prize In New Zealand

Wellington, N.Z., (CP)—Cars from Canada and the United States are so scarce and eagerly sought in New Zealand that 3,000 can be imported this year are being rationed out to essential users under extremely strict conditions.

Owing to the dollar shortage, scarcely any North American cars have been imported in recent years. When the government decided to make dollars available for 3,000 cars this year, it stated cars should be taken to ensure that no black marketing took place.

Conditions under which the cars will be allotted ensure they go to those most in need of them.

A total of 2,000 will be made available to persons who chiefly use back roads, with preference for those drivers using the worst roads.

Buyers must be essential users, such as back-country farmers, county engineers, employees in public utility services, doctors, veterinary surgeons, clergymen, stock and station agents, meat, dairy, sawmill and mining executives, and commercial travellers or others in similar occupations.

The remaining 400 are for taxi-drivers, but if they have had a new car since 1945 their quality for the imports only in exceptional circumstances.

Must Sign Contract

Each purchaser must sign a covenant not to dispose of the car in less than two years except at cost price, less depreciation.

If such a car is sold by the original purchaser, the new owner must also qualify for priority purchase and is also barred from selling again in less than the unexpired balance of the original two years term at more than cost price plus depreciation.

New cars are at scarce in New Zealand that those less than two years old, of any make, can be sold at hundreds of dollars above the new-car price even if they have covered 20,000 miles or more. Pre-war North American cars still bring about their original purchase price.

EVEN HAD A FAN

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 29 — (AP)—Alert guards who noticed traces of digging at Kilby prison's cotton mill yesterday failed what could have been a mass escape of convicts. Investigating, they found a long tunnel from the mill toward the huge prison walls. Warden A. C. Warming said, The tunnel was fitted with electric lights and a fan for the comfort of the diggers.

ONLY PURCHASE NUMBER ONES

St. Catharines, Aug. 29 (CP)— The Ontario Pear, Plum and Cherry Growers' Marketing Board said today that lack of cold storage space will limit purchase of Bartlett pears to No. 1 grade.

H. L. Craise, chairman of the board, made the announcement following a meeting of the board here last night to review marketing of the pears for processing.

CHARGED WITH REBELLION

Manila, Aug. 29—(AP)— The mayor, a policeman and 102 residents of Pandi were charged last night with rebellion. The Philippines army ordered a company of troops into the town, north of Manila in Bulacan province. An army undercover agent accused Mayor Matias Salvador, policeman Crispin Santa Maria and the 102 citizens of aiding rebel Huk bands.

Howe Predicts Requirements For Steel and Supplies Will Be in Balance at End of 1953

Ottawa, Aug. 30 (CP) — The steel shortage in Canada will be over by 1953.

That's the word from a rearmament czar, dogged by a critical steel shortage ever since he relinquished control of industrial materials last year at the request, it is three years hence all requirements and current military needs will be in balance.

But while Mr. Howe was able to predict with some degree of certainty what the future will be for steel, he still would make no guesses on shortages of other metals such as copper, lead, nickel and zinc.

All these stem from the world's defence programs and all of them enter, into production of civilian goods, including some construction, radios, chrome finish, and the like.

Until now, no drastic reductions in the use of these metals have been required, although firms still are not getting all they can use.

All Now Under Control

On top of that Canada is constantly besieged by appeals from other countries to boost allocations. Requirements, particularly in the United States, if protected, will likely see the United States spend $1.25 per pound more copper—and every pound of copper that Canada produces now is under control.

Britain for months has appealed to Canada for more metals. So have other Commonwealth countries. Now Mr. Howe is faced with the embarrassing task of trying to arrive at a fair distribution of available supplies without hurting anyone's feelings and without causing any international tiffs.

For example, next month, on Sept. 24, he will be in London, surrounded by his materials adviser, T. N. Beaupre, 34, of Montreal, to promise Commonwealth countries that Canada will do everything possible to co-operate in getting more scarce materials to Britain and the other member nations.

But he'll still have to keep one eye cocked on U.S. demands. For the U.S. has been purchasing metals from Canada in increasing amounts over the years. It will be difficult for Canada to ship more metals to Britain without considering the needs of the U.S. too.

Holiday Bus Careens into Ditch, 11 Children Hurt

Arnprior, Ont., Aug. 30 (CP)—A bus carrying 36 children and four adults back from a holiday at Canoe Lake in Algonquin Park skidded and careened on the highway near here late Wednesday and careened into a ditch, injuring 11 passengers and the driver.

The driver, Carl Lauhway of Winchester, Ont., was taken to hospital from the accident scene five miles west of here with undetermined injuries. His condition is reported serious. Also in hospital is one of the children passengers, John Hutchinson of Ottawa, who suffered a broken leg.

Four others were treated at the hospital then released and six more were treated by a doctor for superficial cuts and bruises.

James Cheery, driver of the truck and his helper, W. J. Gillan of Ottawa, escaped injury though their truck was wrecked.

Police Probing Death of Chef

Morrisburg, Aug. 30 (CP) — New York State and Ontario Provincial Police are investigating the death of Peter Vasilous, 39-year-old Morrisburg chef, found unconscious twice within 24 hours and who died of a skull fracture in the Massena, N.Y., hospital.

Vasilous left Morrisburg Sunday and that night was found unconscious near the ferry dock. Taken to the customs office, he spent the night there and then was again found unconscious on a road near the Morrisburg highway next morning with a fractured skull.

He was rushed to the Massena hospital where an emergency operation failed to save his life.

New York and Ontario police are attempting to locate relatives of the man who came here originally from Ottawa. He is believed to have a nephew in Sudbury, and a sister in Fargo, N.D.

Long Conference Looked For by Russian Group

San Francisco, Aug. 30 — (AP) — The Japanese peace treaty conference is scheduled here five days next week but the Russian delegation is looking far beyond that.

Kenneth L. Ball, a music teacher, reported yesterday emissaries tried to rent his 17-room mansion for the Soviet delegation "for a month. Then they talked about six weeks."

But Ball didn't close a deal.

The Russians then rented half the 10th floor of the Fairmont Hotel — 36 rooms and two suites at $400 a day.

The Russians' "mouth or six week" bid threw a scare into the San Francisco Opera Company. It rehearses and performs in the opera house, site of the treaty conference.

The conference is scheduled to end Sept. 8 and the opera company to move in two days later.

More Suspensions In Track 'Fix'

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 30—(CP)—A hint of more suspensions in Ontario's race track scandal was given Wednesday by E. Tupper Bigelow, chairman of the Ontario Racing Commission.

Usually tight-lipped, Mr. Bigelow told a reporter after a meeting of the Commission here that there was every possibility of further suspensions.

The hint came at the end of a two-day investigation by the commission into charges of fixed races on Ontario tracks which benefitted gambling syndicates. Six jockeys and one owner already have been suspended for life from Ontario tracks and two other jockeys are under indefinite suspension.

Others have been fined for failing to report bribe offers promptly.

Butter, Cheese And 32,000 Eggs Bring High Price

Toronto, Aug. 30 (CP) — Six tons of butter and cheese and some 32,000 eggs were auctioned for good prices at the Canadian National Exhibition Wednesday. Many dairy produce firms paid $5,400 for the lot.

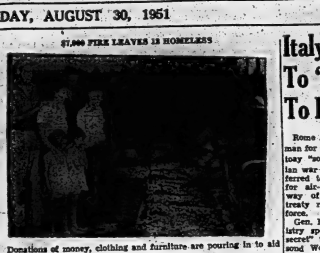
Canadian Silliton cheese sold for a record $1.01 per pound. The rest was bought for prices ranging from 39 3-4 to 70 cents a pound.

The 2,030 pounds of prize butter was sold for 65 1-3 cents a pound while a Toronto produce company bought all the eggs, paying from 58 to 76 cents per dozen.

Iron Ore Carrier Rescued by Tug

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 30 (CP) — The Canadian Steamship vessel went out of control in the swift current of the Power Canal here and was swept into the canal.

For a time the 10,000-ton ship threatened to smash the power dam, the Jackknife railway bridge and four other bridges. Fog was blamed for the trouble.



The ore carrier, operating by radar, was caught in a current through the misinterpretation of a fix on the radar scope.

Search Continues For Missing NHL Star and Doctor

Timmins, Aug. 30 (CP) —Conflicting reports regarding the course of a missing plane today clouded a search for it and its two occupants.

Provincial police stated that the Fairchild bearing Bill Barilko, Toronto Maple Leaf hockey player, and Dr. Henry Hudson, Timmins dentist, passed over here Monday afternoon. The plane has been missing since Sunday after taking off from Rupert House on James Bay. Seven RCAF planes are scheduled to take up the search today.

Two RCAF search and rescue squadron planes returned to their Kapuskasing base last night after an intensive "tree-by-tree" inspection of the Coral Rapids area, 130 miles north of here.

The inspection followed the report of a birdro survey party that a plane passed its camp on the north bucking a strong headwind at 3 p.m., Sunday. The report was seemingly backed up by word from bush pilot Leo Lamothe that he had seen a trail of smoke 35 miles west of Coral Rapids Monday afternoon.

"We inspected the area practically inch by inch over a distance of 60 miles by 40 miles around Coral Rapids and found nothing whatever," said Flt. Lt. G. J. Ruston of Hamilton, search director.

A puzzler was the belief of Dr. Lou Hudson, brother of the missing dentist, that Henry's plane passed his home several times Ih. mid-afternoon Monday. But an air search of the Timmins area has also disclosed nothing.

On James Bay Indians searched the coastal shorelines for traces of the pair who had been flabbing Sunday before flying back.

LOITERED TOO LONG

Fort Erie, Aug. 30 — (CP) — Eugene Kennickl, 30, of Toronto, held by police on a charge of loitering by night, loitered too long by day after escaping from the jail study yesterday. Police say he was recaptured yesterday afternoon in a hotel room where he had been registered previously. He has been charged with jail-breaking.

Pioneer's Hunch Assured Growth of Railway Town

Capreol, Ont. — (CP) — Shrewd foresight possibly backed Hints Manpower a few hot toddies assured the economic prosperity of this Northern Ontario community for generations to come.

Capreol is a divisional point on the Canadian National Railways, about 18 miles northeast of Sudbury. Its financial security is based on the determination of a man who 60 years ago gave 100 acres to the Canadian Northern Railway in return for an agreement that its big railway shops would never be moved to another community.

The bargain was made in 1911 when Capreol was a hamlet in the woods. In nearby Hanmer lived Frank Demnie, to whom hotel cane surveyors working on selection of a site for the Canadian Northern's workshops. At night they would take a few drinks with Demnie and talk over the day's work.

So it was not too surprising that when the railway company proposed construction of their shops they found the chosen site was owned by the hotel keeper.

"Sir Donald Mann, then head of the Canadian Northern, was a tough man to deal with," Demnie recalls, "I had acquired 200 acres of land, which they planned to build the townsite and divisional point."

Sir Donald summoned him in Toronto where he demanded that Demnie sell the land. Demnie refused. Finally the railway builder agreed to accept the hotelkeeper's terms: "I told him that I would give him the 100 acres he wanted if he would sign a covenant that the shops would never be removed from Capreol."

Colorful Career

Demnie held on to about 200 acres which he never subdivided. He still has many real holdings in the town he founded 40 years ago.

But the town-building was only one episode in a colorful career. Born in Lanark village near Ottawa he went to work at the age of nine. As he grew older he worked as a logger and then was bitten with the prospector's bug.

He had worked as a porter, bartender and manager of the old Montreal House Hotel in Sudbury before deciding in 1910 to open his hotel at Hanmer. Along the way he had acquired a reputation as a rough and tumble fighter during sporadic expeditions in search of previous minerals.

The move to Hanmer was prompted by study of the rail routes when the old Canadian Northern was building in the territory, long before its amalgamation with the Canadian National Railways. And the expansion of Capreol was a direct result.

WILL BE ACCELERATED

Centralia, Aug. 30—(CP)— The tempo of royal air force pilot and navigator training in Canada will be accelerated in 1952 to strengthen Britain's air defence, Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, British secretary of state for air, said here Wednesday. Accompanied by a party of high-ranking R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. officials, the minister arrived from Ottawa to inspect the pilot training station here.

MAY PRODUCE VACCINE

Copenhagen, Denmark, Aug. 30 — (AP) — A vaccine against polio within a few years was predicted yesterday by Basil O'Connor, president of the United States Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. O'Connor is here for the second annual poliomyelitis conference.

Ailing Premier, U.S. Ambassador Hold Oil Talks

Tehran, Iran, Aug. 30 (Reuters) — Henry Grady, United States Ambassador to Iran, had a bedside interview with ailing Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today to discuss the latest developments in the British - Iranian dispute over nationalization of the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Grady, who met Shah Reza Pahlevi yesterday for similar talks, told reporters after today's interview with the premier that there are no new developments.

"The prime minister does not seem to have any plans. In fact he seems to be expecting more proposals from the British."

Grady said the United States would not take any further steps to mediate in the oil dispute at this time. He said his meetings with the premier and the Shah had been taken on his own initiative.

In his talk yesterday with the Shah, Grady said he had found the Iranian ruler "very disturbed that there had been no settlement."

GOLD THIEVES OPERATING

Johannesburg, South Africa, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Police believe a gang of international gold thieves are operating here. Shipments of the precious metal have disappeared twice recently—one from a plane bound for Rome and one from a plane bound for the Middle East.

Italy Transferring Old Planes To 'Sovereign State' of Malta To Dodge Peace Treaty Limits

Rome Aug. 30 (AP)—A spokesman for the defence ministry said today "some scores" of old Italian war planes have been transferred to the Knights of Malta for air-ambulance use as one way of keeping within peace treaty restrictions on her air force.

Gen. Flore Vermarza, the military spokesman, said "it is no secret" that some of Italy's Second World War three-engine bombers have been turned over to the order, which is recognized here and in a half dozen other countries as a "sovereignty."

Qualified American sources said the transfers—which puts Italy's inventory of old planes to more modern air power can be brought in under the treaty restrictions—is being done with the knowledge of the U.S. government and of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's Atlantic Pact command.

Italian army and Knights of Malta sources both confirmed that Italian air force crews are assigned to fly the planes for the Order, and the fliers are being paid by the Italian air force.

Italy, with a wary eye toward the Iron Curtain, where Russia is a signatory power to the Italian peace treaty, previously has kept silent about the transfers.

Under the terms of the peace treaty of 1947, Italy is restricted to only 350 planes—200 fighters and reconnaissance planes and 150 transports. But its 1949 listing showed it had a total of 419 planes, and since then new British and American fighters have been sent in as Italy's share of Mutual Aid here, including American jets, are on the way.

$1 Plaque Received

An official spokesman for the Italian branch of the Knights of Malta said at least 81 planes had been received from Italy. Some of the planes already have been fitted with stretcher carriers, and the first four of these flew to Dublin this week on their first aerial mission. They carried crippled and ailing Irish Catholic pilgrims to the French Miracle Shrine at Lourdes yesterday.

The planes are kept at Italian military air bases at Guidonia near Rome an dat other air force fields near Venice, La Spezia, Naples and Taranto.

The planes have been handed over as outright gifts to the sovereign and military Order of Malta. The eight-centuries-old Order has neither territory nor population, but 45 has diplomatic representatives at the Vatican and in Spain, Portugal and Argentina.

One of the Order's principal activities is to maintain hospitals and first aid services to war injured. It was given its sovereign status for its part in the Crusades and in the post-Crusade defence of Rhodes and Malta.

10,000 Miners Away From Work On Illegal Strike

New Waterford, N. S., Aug. 30. (CP) — An estimated 10,000 miners stayed away from work today as an uncalled strike spread through the Cape Breton coal fields.

When workers came off at midnight, the other shifts didn't report, leaving most of the pits in Eastern Cumberland coal industry idle.

The men gave no reason for their failure to report to work but it came closely on the heels of an appeal from Miners already on strike at three collieries here.

The earlier walkout came when miners at No. 12 colliery went out to protest what they termed unusual working conditions. Workers from two nearby pits followed suit, apparently in sympathy.

There were numbering more than 2,000 — formed a 35-car parade into the Glace Bay area last night to seek support despite an appeal from their union president to return to their jobs.

Freeman Jenkins, head of the 13,000 - member United Mine Workers (C.C.L.) district 26, told them it was a "grave mistake" to take maintenance workers out of the three collieries Tuesday night.

Harold Gordon, coal operations chief for Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, declined comment on the walkouts.

Rita Will Let Courts Decide

Los Angeles, Aug. 30. (AP) — Actress Rita Hayworth will let the Nevada divorce courts decide how much Prince Aly Khan should pay for the support of their daughter.

Her lawyer, Bartley Crum, said she will leave Friday for Reno to complete the divorce proceedings she began several years ago. Crum said she will seek sole custody of 30-month-old Yasmin. He said that regardless of the Moslem Prince's wishes, Miss Hayworth will let the child determine if she wishes to embrace her father's religion.

Miss Hayworth has been asking a $3,000,000 settlement for Yasmin, based on large sums Aly set aside for his sons by a previous marriage. The prince's offer for Yasmin was reported to be $6,000 a year.

NAPANEE WINS

Napanee, Aug. 30. (CP) — Napanee defeated Sydenham 11-3 here last night, winning the intermediate Central Ontario Baseball Association playoff round in two straight.

Napanee will meet the winner of the Strathcona-Bancroft series.

Korean Landscape Reminds Botanist of Canadian Home

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Korea may offer "something new, something different" to the ordinary soldier. But the botanist in uniform — such as Capt. Murray Edwards of Kelowna, B.C. — finds he might almost as well have stayed at home, as far as his hobby is concerned.

Edwards, 31-year-old quartermaster for the 2nd Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in Korea, since last spring has been collecting specimens of wild and cultivated flowers growing alongside the paths of his military duties.

All but two or three of the blossoms collected, he says, are duplicated in his Canadian collection at home.

Last spring he gathered and pressed 18 types of Korean spring flowers, all but two or three of which were found in Canada. Since then he has added to the collection — at the moment reposing between the pages of several books in his tent — 17 more varieties.

He also has identified and made notes on 14 types of vegetables known in Canada, but not grown in Korea, and seven common fruits.

He also can lecture — with photographic illustrations — on the art of building a Korean house.

Commonest wildflowers found by the Q.M. are "New England" asters, tiger lilies, daisies, snowballs, lupins, and vetch. They grow mainly on the uncultivated hillsides, on the lower stretches of ground above the cultivation level.

The vetch, a member of the pea family and in Canada used as a cattle food when mixed with hay, is used as a textile here. The vine is treated and processed into a coarse cloth — used principally for mourning — and is similar to unbleached flax or muslin.

Lupins develop into bushes here. A rarity in the daisy family is the black-eyed Susan.

Popular in Canada

The cultivated varieties, found mainly in abandoned gardens, include many that might be found in any garden back home — Canterbury bell, morning glory, peony, gladiolus, sweet pea, cocks' comb, sunflower, portulaca, hemp flower, 100-day zinnia, golden glow, cosmos and hibiscus.

The Korean national flower, appearing as a common motif in building ornamentation and in native art. A flowering bush, its pale purple flower with a plum-red centre, it is common in Canada.

Staple cereals are rice, barley, rye and wheat.

The rice seedlings were transplanted by hand into the flooded paddies during July and spaced about one foot high. The paddies, kept under about two inches of water by systems of irrigation sluices that draw on reservoirs in the hills, look well in their thick, yellow-green coat.

Vegetables here include the cucumber, squash, pumpkin, yarrow, and soya bean. There are tomatoes, onions and lettuce — "out of bounds" to Allied troops because grown in fields fertilized with human manure and with the consequent danger of bacterial infection.

Koreans grow their several varieties of beans — similar to Canada's string beans — in cornfields between the rows of cornstalks. Canadians now call the patches combining the two growths "fields of succotash."

There also is the sponge cucumber which, dried, is used as a dish-cleanser.

Ground fruits include the watermelon, the honey-dew melon and the cantaloupe, while tree-grown varieties are the cherry, the pear, the apple, the crab-apple and the plum. The plums, already on the market, are delicious.

Troops buy them at 6,000 won ($1.15) a measure, which is more than one peck. For their evening snacks they also buy tomatoes at about the same price.

The melon crops are valuable, and while the fruit is ripening — most of it is in by mid-August, the farmers build small straw-thatched shacks on stilts in their fields and guard them against thieves.

"STRONG MAN" PROVED HIS POINT

World's "oldest strong man," physical culturist Bernary MacFadden, parachuted 1,500 feet into the Hudson River to prove a point — that a man can still be youthful at 83. The octogenarian bailed out of a private plane near Yonkers, N.Y., clad in several suits of red woollen underwear, two parachutes, a Mae West life jacket and a white crash helmet. Photo shows the muscle man safe in a boat after landing in shallow water some 10 feet from the Jersey shore. — Central Press Canadian.

R. W. MILNER

"I shall approach this transportation problem with the knowledge that vessel owners and railway companies know their business better than any outsider," he said.

"I hope that they will work out with us the best method of relieving the bottlenecks which prevent a maximum use of transportation facilities.

"Both grain and ore will have to be moved in volume as well as other bulk commodities such as coal, pulpwood, stone and lumber. We believe that the full use of technical skill peculiar to the efficient operation of transport companies should not be interfered with and we shall do our utmost to obviate the necessity of the issuance of orders."

Rosedale Dally Shipments

"Well-informed sources disclose that Mr. Milner likely will plan to boost the daily shipment of grain from the lakeheads to 1,000,000 bushels a day from the current 1,200,000-a-day rate.

That likely will mean initially a diversion of about two ships a day from other cargo, but is not considered a large disruption.

At the new rate, Great Lake shipping likely will move about 300,000,000 bushels of grain this fall which is about the minimum the Canadian Wheat Board wants moved before the winter freeze-up. It will mean that a transatlantic load of wheat and coarse grains—oats, barley, rye, flaxseed—will still be available for the spring. The backlog is expected to be greatest since the Second World War and may run to about 700,000,000 bushels of various types of grain.

Not Lack of Equipment

Mr. Chevrier, in his announcement, said the basic problem with which the transport department has to deal is not altogether one of lack of equipment to handle commodities.

"It is largely a matter of timing the movement of obviate bottlenecks occurring at the west Great Lakes of grain at the lakehead terminal, and the number of cars tied up en route and awaiting to unload, present the most immediate problem.

"Contracts for the movement of ore; coal, pulp and stone were made early in the year, and vessels were allocated to that trade to complete the contracts before most makes ice harbors difficult, which condition usually occurs early in November."

He said the special committee under Mr. Lessard reviewed the whole situation, but its hands were largely tied because it had no power to control movements. It could not order shipping, but merely make suggestions.

"It had been evident that due to the anticipated large grain crop and the need of a heavy ore movement that the committee lacked the authority essential to do what was necessary in the circumstances," Mr. Chevrier said.

Mr. Milner will have power to determine priority on the movement of grain in relation to other bulk commodities.

R. W. MILNER

Covers All Grains

New transport regulations cover: wheat, flour, flax, barley, rye, buckwheat, corn, oats, mill feed and grain screenings; ores and mineralsiferous metals and iron and steel scrap; sand, stone and gravel; pulpwood, woodpulp, poles and logs; coal and coke; sulphur and phosphate.

Mr. Milner and his deputy will have power:

1. To order any person dealing in bulk transport to give top priority to goods the controller wants moved first.

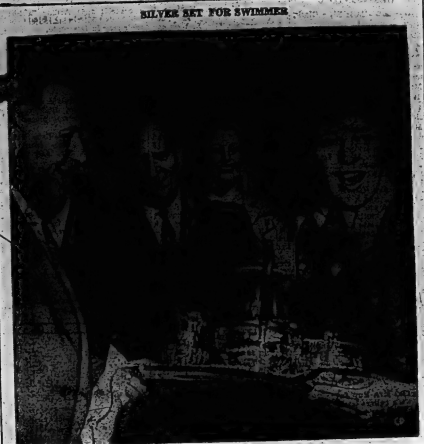
2. To fix the amounts to be moved and the time of transport.

Mr. Milner's powers are defined in a set of regulations issued with the control announcement. Not defined in the regulations is the attitude the controller may adopt towards transport workers and union involved in grain and other bulk commodity loadings.

It appeared likely that Mr. Milner may approach the unions with a view to getting them to pitch in with an increased working week.

PAPER'S PRICE INCREASED

Montreal, Aug. 30, (CP)—Beginning Sept. 4 the price of Le Devoir, Montreal French-language daily newspaper, will be increased from five to seven cents a copy.



All others of Montreal's eight daily newspapers sell at five cents a copy for the regular week-day paper.

In an editorial announcing the proposed increase, Le Devoir said rising costs of production forced the change. It noted that costs had gone up "at least 100 per cent" since 1944.

Plumbers Pound Painters Into Playoff Discard

Howe and Hagerman Plumbers sent Ramsay Painters into the discard when they handed the Painters a 13-6 setback in a round-robin game for the city league title played last evening under the lights at Alemite Field.

The win left the Plumbers with two victories and a defeat while Ramsays were sent reeling with their fourth loss against one win. The Plumbers have another game with the Painters and two with Glen Roy before their round-robin is over. Point Anne has a 3-3 record and Glen Roy have notched three wins against one defeat.

The lights played havoc with the defense of both teams, with the outfielders finding the going especially rough. There were 13 errors in the game and most had a bearing on the scoring.

Ramsays scored twice in the first inning on four errors and Glen Young's double to right field. Young took third as the relay escaped Jack Wardaugh but was thrown out trying to get home.

Howe and Hagerman took advantage of three walks, a single and an error to count two in their half of the first.

Lumbery Homers

Ray Lumberg crashed a home run to left field with no one on to score the only run in the second inning.

Howe and Hagerman came up with three runs in the third on "Mucker" McGregor's home run to right centerfield with Tim Williams and Don Locke aboard.

The Painters kept chipping away at the lead scoring one in the fourth on LaFort's basewempty homer, one in the fifth on an error and singles by Glen Young and "Bunk" Young. Glen was thrown out at the plate by Harry Wardaugh who fired a strike to Tim Williams from deep centre field to nail him on the way in.

Bert Young then shoved Howe and Hagerman back into the lead with a home run over the fence in the fifth. In the sixth the Plumbers bagged five runs on two hits and two errors. Locke walked to start the inning and Bert Young followed one out and struck out one.

Bunk Young, Ramsay starter, was in trouble in almost every inning as he gave up nine walks, and seven hits while striking out eight.

Al Adams toiled the route for the winners walking three and striking out two while he served up nine hits for six runs.

Glen Young, Ramsay catcher led all batters with two doubles and two singles in five appearances. Lumberg and Letura homered for the losers while McGregor and Rex Young hit for the circuit for the winners. Jack Wardaugh hit a triple.

Lineup: Ramsay Paints: E. Donovan lf; Whiting 2b; Woods 1b; G. Young c; R. Young p, rf; R. Lumberg cf; Scanlan 3b; Letura ss, replaced by Harris, p, in 6th; Peters ss.

Howe and Hagerman: J. Wardhaugh 2b; D. Adams lf; Fitzpatrick 3b; T. Williams c; Locke 1b; McGregor ss; D. Wardaugh cf; R. Young rf; A. Adams p.

Johnny Sain Goes To Bronx Bombers

St. Louis, Aug. 30 (AP)—Baseball wondered today whether New York Yankees may have bought the 1951 American League pennant with the $50,000 it cost them to land the veteran Johnny Sain from Boston Braves.

The 32-year-old Arkansas curve-baller, good enough to win 30 games last year, provides the world champions with much-needed mound strength for the stretch drive with Cleveland and Boston Red Sox.

If the Indians now tied with the Yankees for the league lead; were worried, didn't show it.

"We weren't interested in Sain," said Hank Greenberg, Cleveland's general manager.

At first there was some consternation over how other National League clubs let Sain get away when he could have been nabbed for $10,000 waiver price.

Sain had to be waived out of the league before the deal, which also sent righthander Lew Burdette to the Braves, could be completed.

But National League teams expressed disinterest in the tall righthander whose 8-13 record this year is far from imposing.

SEARCH IS UNDERWAY FOR HOCKEY PLAYER, FRIEND LOST ON NORTH ARE TRIP.

A full-scale search is under way in the wilds of Northern Ontario for Bill Barilko, popular hockey player with the Toronto Maple Leafs, and Dr. Henry Hudson, prominent Timmins dentist, who are lost somewhere between Timmins and Moosonee. Both men were reported long overdue at a plane flight from James Bay, where they had gone for a day's fishing, to Timmins, where Barilko is well known as a great athlete, by many other Canadians he is known as the guy who won the Stanley Cup for the Leafs. With his team leading three games to one in the playoffs and tied in fifth game with Montreal 2-2, Bill fired the winning goal in 1:23 minutes of sudden-death play.

Brockville Edges Bata Shoemen 8-7

Brockville Memos jolted the Batava Shoemen hopes of closing the gap with the fourth-place Belleville Redmen as edged the homestars by an 8-7 score.

The loss put the homesters a full game and a half behind the Redmen who defeated Smiths Falls 13-0 on Billy Strehan's no-hit pitching performance.

The Shoemen spotted the Memos four runs in the first innings but roared back with six in their half of the best. Memos came back with a four-run rising in the fourth to clinch the game since the best Batawa could do was a single counter in the eighth.

Hayes won the route for the Memos striking out four and walking the same number. Bobby Bunton started for the Shoemen but was chased in the fourth after giving up eight hits. Art Wright relieved him and shut the Memos off with three over the rest of the route.

Pierce paced the winners offensive with three hits with Weaver and Skodis two each and Bielmack, Kapseckuk, Galen and Coleman accounting for the rest.

Bridgman and Cosgrove hit twocarom for the Shoemen with Bush, Aquino and Wright getting singles.

The score:

Brockville	400 400 000	9	11 1
Batawa	000 000 010	7	8 3

Hayes and Coleman; Bunton Bush, Aquino and Wright getting (3) Wright and Aquino.

Wooler Clubs Frankford 18-14 In TVL Playoffs

Frankford—(Special)— Wooler, pounding out eight runs in the seventh inning, broke up a 9-9 ball game and went on to defeat Frankford Merchants 18-14 for their second straight victory in a best-of-five final series for the championship of the Trent Valley Softball League and the Dr. Robertson Trophy.

The thing game will be played in Wooler Friday night.

Frankford rallied for six runs in the bottom of the ninth but could not overcome Wooler's commanding lead.

Frankford, counted two runs in the first inning on a walk and Wickson's triple, but fell back in the second frame when Wooler gathered in six runs on two errors and singles by Anderson, Fox and McMaster. Frankford starter Manion was yanked and Bill Rankin came in to put down the uprising.

Frankford collected one run in the second and then tied the game in the fourth when they counted three runs on singles by Manion, Murphy and Connel.

Prosperity was too much for them however, and Wooler counted two in the fifth and one in the sixth while Frankford stayed in the rear with single runs in each inning, with Wickson's homer in the fifth being the big blow.

Roof Caves In

The roof caved in on the Merchants in the seventh as Wooler paraded in one-by-one to the plate. Richards, Putnam, Fox, and McColl singled once. Austin had two singled and Stacey and McColl hit doubles on their second time around. Wooler added their final tally in the eighth on singles by Austin and McColl.

Frankford's big inning in the bottom of the ninth wasn't good enough as a walk, doubles by Bedard and Wickson, and triples by Cook and Gilmour, and a single by Murphy netted six runs.

For the winners Austin had four singles, McColl and Fox each had three safeties, and Putnam and Richards two each.

For the losers Wickson hit for the circuit with a single, double triple and home run.

Kingston Bantams Edge Rob Royals In Playdown Game

Belleville Rob Royals, city bantam champions, lost the first game of the Ontario Baseball Association bantam playdown series with Kingston by a 2-1 score in Kingston yesterday afternoon.

The second game will be played in the Fair Grounds here Monday at 2.30 p.m. The series is a best-of-three affair with the winners advancing into the second round.

The game was a close-fought affair with Kingston opening the scoring in the second innings and the Rob Royals evening the count in the fourth. Kingston again took the lead in their half of the best and scored the clincher run in the eighth on an error.

Buskard Stands Out

Buskard went the route for the Royals striking out seven and walking six. Kennedy on the mound for the winners whitted eight and walked five.

The Royals pitcher stood out for his team banging out two singles and scoring their only run. First baseman "Chuck" Kingston got the other Royals hit, a single.

Kennedy hit a double, the only extra-base hit of the game for Kingston with Ball, McIntosh, Bernard and Sanderson getting singles.

The Kingston team nearly outweighed the Belleville youngsters in a game that was clean and played in less than two hours. Both teams came up with some neat fielding plays each with but a double-drifting.

The score:

Rob Royals	000 100 000	1	3 1

Boxer Undergoes Brain Operation After Knockout

New York, Aug. 30—(AP)—Welterweight boxer George Flores of Brooklyn, who was knocked out and failed to regain consciousness last night, was reported in critical condition today after a brain operation.

Dr. James Daniels, who particpated in the operation, said the object was to remove pressure on a blood clot. Indications were that there would be no change in the 25-year-old Flores' condition for several hours.

He was taken to St. Clare's hospital after being knocked out by Roger Donoghue of Yonkers, N.Y., in the eighth and last round of the semi-final bout of the Kid Gavilan-Billy Graham welterweight championship card at Madison Square Garden.

At the hospital were Flores' wife, Elaine, and other relatives.

Also on hand were Al Weill, matchmaker, and Harry Markson, managing director, of the International Boxing Club, as well as Barney Felix, who refereed the bout.

Felix counted Flores out after Donoghue had nailed him with a right, sending his mouthpiece spinning out of the ring, and followed with a sharp left hook. The time was 46 seconds.

Yanks Draw Even With Indians; Giants, Brooklyn Keep Pace In National

CHIPS OFF THE BASEBALL BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

MASTER STRAHAN "LAYS AN EGG"

The Night Hon. Ronald Sirvi who likes to be "reporting" about everything in his sports staff for the Picton papers, should, today, be dining off large platters adorned with Olie Jim Crow. In a recent effusion in the columns of the Gazette, Ronald, aged writes of the "hated Redmen" who, quoth he, were not having an off night by committing eight errors but were playing, Athletics, or whatever they are called, was strictly on their merits, when they licked our side 9-3 the other evening.

Now that could be — and we're not detracting from the Picton opportunists who grabbed every advantage that the Moira Injuns tossed their way and deserved to win. But Ronald, old loppo, one swallow does not constitute a binge, nor does one victory put any team in the invincibility category.

That, my dash fellow, was definitely proven last night, when our varsity, tied a nice lucky duck-soup on the peripatetic, hitherto unbeaten of Little Spain "who can beat any team in the old COBL".

"Little Chief" Billy Strahan, of the "hated Injuns" remembered quite unclean the scrapbooks of the baseball Dons from across the bay. Our sports ears who witnessed the debacle, reports the Spanish bindgrams waved consistently, apparently at friends in the grandstand since none was intended for the greeting young Master Strahan's efforts with even a modicum success.

Now since it's not cricket in baseball to allow a large crowd of the "skinful to sit in a splinter-seated grandstand and watch baseball players go through pregame exercises with bats, nor to let brand new baseballs be returned to their boxes without even busting a cuticle, the Redmen decided to take a hand in the entertainment.

This they did in startling roles. In fact they stole the blooms' show with boomin' bats and blastin' balls that shattered the senses in all sections of the outer pastures in the Picton stadium. They batted in their assists with such accuracy with some long and short if snappy sprints and finale'd them with brief taps, some thirteen all told on the platter.

But enough of that. In short the Redmen came through with a spanking performance behind the near - perfect flinging of Strahan and with the Brockville Memos wreaking vengeance on Belmo, took a game and one half lead over the Shannon in the deal for fourth place. Tonight they go to Smiths Falls where they face a tonight since the Fellows have been relegated to third place by the Kingston Diesels.

SUPPORT 'EM!

The Rob Royals banians spotted the Kingston champions plenty of weight yesterday afternoon and dropped a close 3-1 decision to the eastern kids in their first playdown game. The teams meet in the second game of the two-of-three series Monday at the Air Grounds at 2.15 p.m.

We talked with one of the Royals last evening and the youngster summed it up in these words: "Gee, those guys were bigger than you are. But we can beat 'em, yes we if we don't. We are not afraid of 'em even if they are a lot bigger."

That's the spirit-that makes champions, and these gallant young Robs deserve some hometown support. Get out there Monday and cheer the younkers to their first win in their first home appearance in OBA playdown baseball.

LARGE FIELD!

The largest field to compete in Avio Stock Racing east of Ontario this season will roar into action at Speedway Parkland, ten miles east of the city on Labor Day, September 3rd, Promoter Bill Burrowes announced today.

The meet, an all-district one, has attracted the cream of drivers from an area between Trenton and Kingston, and with the track reported to be in excellent condition, the "hellbats" and should be the best since the inception of the sport last spring.

Drivers have been training faithfully for the past three weeks with a good sprinkling of new faces noted among the veterans of the season. The meetings of the SPARK Club have been held in its new clubhouse, an attractive 18 by 36 foot building where plans have been laid for the holiday races.

With a record number of entries expected to compete for the awards, Promoter Burrowes is leaving no stone unturned to make the Labor Day meet one of the most exciting events of its nature ever held in the district.

"THEM WERE THE DAYS"

The published report of a baseball game at Battle Creek a dozen years ago stated that a dog came racing on the field, dodged behind the pitcher's mound and grabbed the catch bag. The pitcher tried to coax it away from him but the dog stayed out of reach. The pitcher then thought if he'd offer the dog his glove, the animal would drop the resin bag. The dog accepted the offer and dropped the bag, grabbed the glove and made off with it.

After a delay of six minutes the pitcher managed to snatch his glove back and the dog was chased off the field. He remained away until the seventh when a particular series of events excited his interest: A batter had just hit a line drive and was running hard, rounding first and trying for a double. The dog took after the runner, snarls his midway to second, leaped on him and actred him by the pants. With a dog fastened to his behind, the runner went into a long slide throwing his body sideways. The second baseman, the ball and the runner with the dog attached all arrived like the second it appropriately the same instant. The umpire ruled the runner safe. The second baseman, pivoting to make the tag, was a trifle late, and tagged the dog.

Bombers Bash Brownies 15-2 While Tribe Loses to A's 3-0, Bosox Rip Tigers, Chisox Lose

By RALPH RODEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York Yankees won the 1951 pennant with late season acquisitions from the National League and the Bombers today are heading to their fifth consecutive championship from the senior circuit to ensure success in their current drive for the American league leadership.

Johnny Sain, veteran right-hander, is the latest Yankee importation from the National League. The Yanks acquired him from Boston Braves yesterday and celebrated the purchase by trouncing the Brownies 15-2 in St. Louis to tie Cleveland for first place. The Indians dropped a 3-0 decision to Philadelphia.

Sain, picked up for $50,000 and minor-league pitcher Lew Burdette, will join the Yanks in Washington Saturday. The 12-year-old vet is tabbed for relief duty. He won only five and lost 13 for the Braves this season. Sain, a 20-game winner three times, was waived out of the National League.

The Yanks dipped into the National League in 1948 and bought Johnny Mize from the New York Giants. Mize's big bat helped win the pennant and also the world series. Last year the Yanks got Johnny Hopp from Pittsburgh and his pinch-hitting and platoon figured prominently in the Yanks' successful defence of their laurels.

Reynolds Stops Browns

Allie Reynolds stopped the Browns on two hits while the Yanks clubbed Brownie ace Ned Garver and two relief pitchers for 17 hits. Ken Wood drove in both St. Louis runs with a fourth-inning homer.

Gus Zernial and Alex Kellner teamed up to beat the Indians. Zernial drove home two runs with his 29th homer and doubled and scored the only Philadelphia run. Kellner blanked the Indians on five safeties in out-pitching Mike Garcia.

In other American League games, Detroit's Red Rox burned Detroit Tigers 7-5 and Washington Senators nosed out Chicago White Sox 3-2 in 13 innings.

In the National League, the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers bumbled Cincinnati Reds 13-1, the runner-up New York Giants downed Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1 and the Boston Braves slipped Philadelphia Phils 3-2 and Boston Braves defeated Chicago Cubs 6-1.

Gil Hodges drove home seven runs on a pair of homers and a double to lead the Dodgers. The Homers boosted Hodges' output to 36, most ever hit by a Brooklyn player in one season. Babe Herman held the former high-33. Don Newcombe hurled his 18th victory.

Jim Hearn stopped the last-place Pirates on three hits in winning a duel from Murray Dickson, who was saddled his 16th victory. Al Dark sealed the the verdict with a homer in the sixth.

The Cards scored a run in the ninth without a hit to edge the Phils. Harry Dalby was the winner and Ken Heintzelman the loser.

Appears Likely Coast League May Withdraw

San Francisco, Aug. 29. (AP)—Directors of the Pacific Coast League voted unanimously Wednesday to withdraw from organized baseball unless the major league draft is eliminated.

The drastic action followed a day-long emergency meeting in which the resignation of Paul L. Fagan, owner of the San Francisco baseball club, as a league director was officially accepted.

The directors sent the San Francisco club a letter warning it that unless assurances were received immediately that Coast League baseball would be played in this city in 1952, the franchise and players' contracts of the club would be forfeited to the league.

Jerry Kerschner Wins 10-Mile Marathon Swim

Toronto, Aug. 30— (CP) — A fighting finish that battled off the challenge of an untried 18-year-old from Winnipeg last night gave Jerry Kerschner, 23, of Toronto and Columbus, O., the world's professional swimming championship.

Stroking powerfully in an unprecedented finish to the 10-mile marathon along the Canadian National Exhibition's waterfront, Kerschner edged Gordon Bevan, 18, to win $5,000 in the time of 4 hours, 36 minutes and 23 seconds.

For the first eight laps it appeared the race would go to the young Winnipegger, making his first professional appearance after winning the Canadian amateur two-mile title at the C. N. E. Monday.

His blistering pace (he finished less than five minutes behind Kerschner) gave him the edge over the rest of the pack, including defending champion Clint Lumsden of suburban New Toronto, who ended third.

So close was the finish that all six prize winners, for the first time in C. N. E. history, came in within 13 minutes and 37 seconds.

The winners and what they won:

Kerschner, $5,000, plus $180 in lap prizes.

Bevan, $2,500 plus $400 in lap prizes, including $50 for the fastest mile, 32 minutes and 6 seconds.

Lumsden, $750; Steve Wozniak, Buffalo, New York, $500 for fourth place; Forbes K. Norris, Jr., Winchester, Mass., $200 for fifth, and Paul Mealey, another, Buffalonian, $150 for sixth.

Leafs Clip Wings In 18-8 Victory; Birds, Chiefs Win

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal Royals today were only five victories away from clinching their sixth international League pennant.

Manager Walt Alston's Royals lead the runner-up Rochester Red Wings by 10½ games and have 13 games remaining to the Wings' 17.

The Royals, by winning five of the 13 games, would finish with a 86-63 mark. The Wings, if they won all of their 17, would come in second with a 86-64 slate.

Montreal dropped a rain-shortened 5-4 decision to Baltimore Orioles at Baltimore Wednesday as step closer to the pennant as Rochester suffered an 18-8 beating at the hands of Philadelphia Leafs.

Little Billy Donnelly limited the Royals to five hits in the game that was called because of rain after five innings. Anne Mooney's first-inning homer decided the issue.

The Leafs pounded four Rochester pitchers for 19 hits with Bobby Morgan and Frank Colemen leading the way with four hits each. Fleming featured the bombardment, driving in seven runs on a pair of homers and a double. Irv Noren, touched for single runs in each of the first four innings, brewed to victory.

Syracuse's third-place Chiefs edged Buffalo Bisons 5-4, pulling the decision out with three runs in the ninth inning. Vic Power singled home the first run and Hank Workman followed with a game-winning, two-run double. Ottawa and Springfield were idle.

Wins and Loses At Thornecliffe

Toronto, Aug. 30. (CP)—Celtic's counsel, the speedy but sometimes erratic mare owned by Hon. W. Earle Rowe, former federal cabinet minister, gave one of her typical performances Wednesday.

In the first heat of her race she broke stride twice and finished far out of the money. In the second heat, she trotted like a horse of the highest calibre and won the one mile and one-sixteenth in the smart time of 2.13.

She lost first money, however, to Williamsburg which won the first heat and finished second to her on the second trip.

Lacrosse

Milnico, Ont., Aug. 30. (CP)—Milnico Mountaineers romped to an easy 12-6 win Wednesday night in the first game of their Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association semi-final series with the legendary Hamilton Tigers.

Second game of the best-of-five series is scheduled for Hamilton Friday night.

Playing their fourth game in five night the tired Tigers held period but faded in the final quarter. The score stood 3-3 at the end of the first, 4-3 by half-time and the Mounties were well away with a 9-3 lead at the start of the fourth.

"This" smiled the Golden Lidd from Hamilton, "should be different. With two referees in the ring tomorrow night in Memorial Arena we'll show Atkins and the Mask what real team wrestling is like. There'll be no more skullduggery behind the ref's back unless they throw in two hind men." And in the meantime Atkins and the Hood snort, "Two referees, so what? We can beat 'em with a dozen in there, and they can throw in an official as well. What's a referee more or less. We'll demand our rights and if we don't get 'em we'll toss the refs in the bay along with the Sharpe". Nice fellas, wot? Tommy Geohagen and Pat Flanagan meet Mayes McLean and Dan O'Connor in supporting bouts.

Strahan Hurls No-Hitter As Redmen Pound Picton Pitching For 13-0 Win

Righthander Shows Rare Form Facing O[illegible]27 in 8 Innings; Red Bats Blast Out 20 Hits

BY MAURICE REID

Master of the situation throughout, Billy Strahan, Redmen righthander, hurled a no-hit, no-run game against Picton Athletics in Picton last night while his mates blasted opposing hurlers for 20 hits to win 13-4.

Not a man reached second base after the first inning. Strahan retired the Picton team in order for the remainder of the game. He struck out three and walked three.

The win strengthened the Redmen's hold on fourth place in the league standings and practically knocked Picton out of the playoffs. Belleville journeys to Brockville Friday, this defeat is in game that is important to both clubs and heads up with Monday on in Gilberdville on Friday.

Scored at Will

The Redmen, scoring practically at will, tallied in every inning but the second. Only in the first inning did they fail to get a man safe between a double and a single.

Two singles and a long fly ball netted them a run in the second inning. Two more in the second and a single in the third gave them a 4-0 lead. Then they went on a batting rampage in the fourth and left the island leaded but could not push a fifth across.

Two singles, a sacrifice and a double netted them three runs initially in the fifth before manager Walt Frazee decided to hit Ron Wentz, relief pitcher, into the ball game. Wentz was greeted with a single by Frankie Dyer who had so effectively quelled the Redmen's bats on Monday evening.

Dyer got out the five and sent the squad down in order in the sixth.

But in the seventh, the Reds ganged up him unmercifully for five runs on five hits, featured by a tremendous triple by Johnny Dean. They added another in completing their big inning.

Umpire George Whitman called the game at the end of eight complete innings because of darkness.

Strahan and Geyer led the hitters, accumulating four hits apiece in five appearances, all singles. Geyer had three in two, Dean 3 for 5 and Mulholland three for six. Gilmore had a pair of singles. Mulholland's double and Dean's triple were the only extra base hits.

Strahan shone on the mound for the Redmen taking a sliding step and a delivery with a lot of "stuff" to completely baffle the Picton batters. Only two rose in the first and walks in the third and fourth resulted in the only times a reach base on balls delivery. He retired the last batter on a fly ball after no balls being hit out of the infield after the fourth.

Picton's mark bid fair a hit mark as the fourth frame when with Snyder on first because of a walk, Beaudoin drove a long fly drive over second that Sam Mulholland made a particularly good running catch of. The infield played very well after the first inning, with no errors in the fielding plays and good throws for a change.

Bassett, 17-year-old hurler, started for Picton but just didn't have it, allowing 12 hits in four and one-third innings that he was worked. His control was fairly good but the Reds had drove and passed their batting eyes and their beating off on his slow pitching.

Dyer, who relieved in the fifth, seemed to have things well in hand as he mowed down the first six men to face him but after that he was just another fellow throwing a ball up to toss to the next batter at the plate. He gave up eight hits and six runs over the remainder of the route.

Amateur Golf Crown May Go To Vancouver

By ERWIN FLESER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 30 (CP)—Not since 1939 has city produced both finalists in the Canadian amateur golf championship. Vancouver may be capable of pulling it off this year.

All four Vancouver golfers to start the week-long competition at the Royal Ottawa are still in the running after the end of the fifth round. They comprise half the field.

There is defending champion Bill Mawhinney, Laurie Roland, the new junior champion, Percy Clegg and Walter McIlroy. All are extremely competent players.

At least one Vancouverite, however, will be eliminated at the end of today's quarter-final round. Clegg is drawn against Roland in the first match, an afternoon affair.

Mawhinney tackles veteran Phil Farley of Toronto and Mcilroy meets Don Doe of Granby, Quebec amateur champion. The other match is between Fred Sommer, of Montreal Roy Kepron of Winnipeg.

The Manitoba Field of New York won the Canadian amateur by defeating another New Yorker, Gardner Dickinson.

Clegg, a one-time professional, advanced to the quarter-final round with sharp iron work that netted a lopsided 7-and-6 victory over Pete Kelly of Fredericton. Clegg was off the fairway driving into the woods.

Roland, an 18-year-old protege of Canada's ace of professional golf fame, yesterday took out Gerry Rosenberg of Kitchener, Ont., 2 and 1. Rosenberg was a leading contender in the amateur title and had been shooting beautiful golf for easy victories until he hit Roland. The Vancouver junior got ahead early and had the tall Kitchener golfer pressing most of the route.

THREE REASONS WHY "BIG FOUR" RIVALS FEAR HAMILTON'S TIGER-CATS

Coach Carl Voyles of the Hamilton Tiger Cats has assembled a team this year on which Harold Waggoner, left; Bernie Curtis, who is expected to win quarterbacking job, and Ted McNeill are expected to play important parts. Rattled and reckoned, the Tiger-Cats are expected to prove a powerful threat to the Big Four title, which slipped through their hands into bigger and better ones of Toronto Argonauts in last season's playoffs.—Central Press Canadian.

Favored Stars Reach Quarters Tennis Singles

By GAYLE TALBOT

Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 30 (AP)—If there is able to rise from his bed of pain, Dick Savitt will have an opportunity to breathe fire into the big four football this autumn by clawing the favored Montreal Alouettes 37-6 in the league's opening struggle.

Coming on the heels of a recent exhibition beating given Toronto Argonauts, last night's victory gave opposing coaches something to think about. Hamilton displayed a versatile attack and strong defensive ability in ripping through the Montreal line for six touchdowns, all of them converted.

Waggoner Scores Three

Speedy Hal Waggoner sparked their offensive, scoring three touchdowns. Other majors were by Tip Logan, Ralph Bartolini and Bob McDonald. Montreal's lone major came in the first quarter when Joey Pal snagged a pass by George Ratterman.

A near capacity crowd of 14,000 fans saw Hamilton score two touchdowns in the first four plays of the game. By the quarters the Tiger-Cats led 12-6, at the half 18-6 and by three-quarter time 30-6.

Waggoner, fleet-footed halfback from Tulane University, twice galloped more than 40 yards for majors, outdistancing the fastest Alouette with apparent ease. Logan, who came to Hamilton from Queen's University, collected 11 points in scoring his major and converting all Hamilton touchdowns.

Task Line

The Cats' task-like line crashed through the Montreal wall almost at will, forcing Ratterman to pass hurriedly. He managed to complete 19 of 44 attempts during the game. Four were intercepted. For Hamilton, Bernie Custis completed 10 of 23 heaves.

Ratterman, $20,000 passing expert from Buffalo Bills and New York Yankees, found his gains through the air offset largely by the mammoth Hamilton ground attack.

For a time the Alouettes feared the loss of a key player—outside Ralph Tooley, who was hurt last year when tackled on the sidelines. His head hit a photographer's light. X-ray examination at hospital disclosed twisted neck muscles.

Tiger-Cats Claw Alouettes 37-6 Rip Through Larks Line for 6 TD's

Hamilton, Aug. 30 — (CP) — Football fans stood back today to take a good long look at Hamilton's surprising Tiger-Cats.

The power-packed Bengals gave notice last night they'd take some beating in the big four football this autumn by clawing the favored Montreal Alouettes 37-6 in the league's opening struggle.

Hodgens, from the stable of Mrs. Mildred Knisely, Toledo, Ohio, has paced the mile in 1.58 3-5 and has won more than $65,000 in purses. Royal man has won $75,000.

But the $141,000 winnings of Dr. Stanton, owned by Lindy Fraser of Forest, Ont., constitute a world record to pacing geldings.

Malcolm Hanowe, king of the pacers in Ontario this season, will get his first opportunity Friday to race against the top horses on the continent.

Art Foster of Winnipeg scored an upset Wednesday when he defeated former Davis Cupper, Bob Murphy of Toronto, 7-5, 6-4, in the Ontario senior and Toronto Cricket Club International invitation tennis tournament at Toronto

Kid Gavilan Retains Welter Title Gets Hairline Nod Over Graham

By TED SMITS

New York, Aug. 30 (30)— Kid Gavilan won a hairline decision over Billy Graham to keep the world welterweight championship, but the fight served only to start a furious argument.

It was their third meeting and the third split decision. Graham now has won once and the Cuban twice.

The 15-round fight last night in Madison Square Garden resolved itself into a matter of personal opinion. Gavilan was more generally the aggressor, started fast, and threw long, hooping punches. Graham was the superb counter-puncher, started slowly, and closed with a mighty rush. Despite the numerous blows there were no knockdowns and no serious damage.

Judge Arthur Swartz liked Gavilan clearly, nine rounds to six.

Judge Frank Forbes called it 7-7 with one even, and gave Graham the edge in points 11-10. That cast his vote for Graham.

Referee Mark Conn also called it 7-7 with one even, but he gave Gavilan the edge in points 10-7, and that decided it.

Press Favored Graham

Of 13 ringside newspapermen polled, 10 favored Graham and three Gavilan.

The Associated Press card gave it to Graham, 7-5, with three even.

The pro-Graham crowd roared a mighty protest, cheered the 000.

New Yorker to the echo, and Al Weill, International Boxing Club matchmaker, dashed into Graham's dressing room and told the disconsolate challenger, "don't worry, don't worry, you'll get another chance."

"I know I'll get another shot, but I want the title now," said Graham softly.

Gavilan talked Spanish a mile a minute but allowed he thought he won it nine rounds to four with the rest even.

This was the Cuban's first defence of the championship he won May 18 of this year from Johnny Bratton and he went into the ring a 12-5 favorite. At 145 1-4 he had a one-quarter pound margin over Graham.

Officials Can't Agree

Apparently officials just can't have a meeting of minds about these two men. They first fought Feb. 10, 1950, and Graham won. Two officials gave it to him 6-5 1 and 5-4-1, and the other gave it to Gavilan 6-4-1.

In the second meeting, Nov. 17, 1950, when Gavilan won, he was favored by two officials who gave him 6-4, but the third voted for Graham 4-2-4.

The crowd of 8,137 seemed almost all for Graham. They booed Gavilan's every attempted hop, skip and hole punch, and cheered every hard blow Graham landed.

The gross gate was $34,419, with television kicking in $50,000. As a result Gavilan collected about $23,000 and Graham $17,

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
Chief Thinker

You should have no trouble with a double for a takeout. To find out what it shows, don't go wandering around all over the place. If you have as good a hand opening one bid, there it is.

Suppose you have the west hand shown here:

♠A Q 9 6 4 2
♥9 7
♦K 8 7
♣A 8 3 2

You have seven sticks. They are your four high cards (aces, kings, queens), two short cards in hearts, one short card in diamonds. Among them are four high cards, two sure tricks, a suit better than bobdable.

With such a hand you have all the needs for opening bid of one spade. But suppose your opponent in the south has opened with a bid of one heart. What is your first overcall (defensive bid)?

An overcall in opponent suit (two hearts) would promise nine tricks and no good bobdable. This hand is not that. Not only has it less than nine tricks. It has a loser in hearts.

A jump overcall (two spades) would promise eight tricks and a rebiddable spade suit. This hand is not that. Although it has the rebiddable suit it contains only seven tricks.

A double (for takeout) promises a hand that is good enough to start with an opening bid of one. A simple overcall (one spade) shows five tricks, two highs, one sure, a five card biddable suit.

Your hand is thus either a double for takeout or a simple overcall. With a choice of two bids, select the bid that shows the strongest type of hand. Providing it has all the qualities for it.

So, you would double in this spot. It says your hand is stronger than a simple overcall; not as strong as a jump overcall or overcall in opponent suit. It says you lack some quality for a better bid.

Did I hear you say there would not be much harm in making a simple overcall or a jump overcall with this hand? Forget it.

Never keep your partner guessing what you have.

Movie Column

(By BOB THOMAS)

Hollywood, Aug. 30 — (AP) — Tony Curtis, who looks like a younger Victor Mature and is just as shy, was expounding on how he plans to make his marriage to Janet Leigh stick.

Like Mature, this Curtis is a talkative fellow and willing to expound on nearly every topic with the exception of early Egyptian urns and Hopi basket weaving.

The lad is not quite as immodest as you would first believe. He likes to emphasize that he is still Bernie Schwartz from New York, despite the fame that has come his way as Tony Curtis. And that, he reasons, is why his union with Miss Leigh will beat the odds against film marriages.

"I look at it this way — fame and money are strictly relative," he argued. "Is there any difference between having $2,000 or $2,000,000?"

I thought maybe there was, but he would not hear of it. "Of course there isn't any difference," he continued. "That's why, no matter what happens to me, I'll remain the same. I'll still keep my two feet on the ground.

"Janet is the same way. She has been in the movies longer than I have and has a much bigger name. But she has remained herself."

One stumbling block he says is the long absences caused by the husband or wife being on location or appearance tours.

"That's bad," Curtis declared. "Absence is the worst thing for a marriage, particularly in the first year. Yet if the pair really work at it, they can arrange to be together most of the time. Those stars who are separated from their mates for long periods of time generally do so because that's the way they want it."

The Curtises have been wed not yet three months and already the gossips speculate how long it will last.

"I've heard that talk," he said, "but I'm going to fool them."

Capsule Review

"When Worlds Collide" continues the current rage for science fiction movies and it is one of the better ones. It concerns the destruction of the earth by an impending planet and the rocket flight of a select few to find a new world. These fantastic goings-on are performed by a serious group of actors, who are not spoiled only by one of those little love plots which seem standard for these films. Aside from that drawback, the film generates some fair excitement. The trick stuff is well done.

BELLE THEATRE—Loretta Young is co-starred with Barry Sullivan in "Cheaper By The Dozen." Ann Time Magazine for August 27, Van Johnson, Ann Harding and Louis Calhern are starred in "The Magnificent Yankee", a love story for adults, both closing at the Belle Theatre tonight.

TOOK HIM HOME

Toronto, Aug. 30—(CP)—Jimmy Holley, 6, put two pairs of pants, a shirt, a blanket and two comic books in a battered suitcase yesterday and set off for the Canadian National Exhibition. A worker from the lost children's shelter found him outside the gates wondering how to get in, the street-car ride had exhausted his bank roll. She saw him home.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, August 31

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Favorable day for useful, not ornamental activity, especially for keen mental work and analysis. Care is advised against polarized changes, erratic moves. Good day for study.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—While day is encouraging for most interests it will be wise to keep disposition very even; not fly off the handle at happenings or persons that should be overlooked. One day with your help.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Much can be accomplished this day, particularly if you are in good mood, steady in effort. Finish things you start if possible for more consistent weekend, but don't fear new urgent tasks.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Moon, Mercury and Saturn all favorable configurations augur strongly for a happy, acquisitive day if you are co-operative, helpful, "on the beam." Have faith in God, in you.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—Finishing incompleted tasks, clearing desk or bench of clutter, bottlenecks, making plans for next week's schedule highly favored. Be read to go to extremes or make drastic changes. Be composed.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—Excellent vibrations for your special talents, activities you understand, enjoy. Writing, painting, sculpturing, decorating, landscaping among top favorites. Enjoy home diversion.

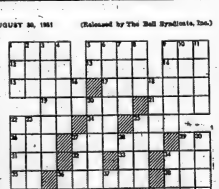
September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Take time with things you well understood. Encouraging rays for familiar, studied tasks. Important, urgent problems may need conferences, advice. It is a favorable time generally.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—This can be an interesting, even exciting day for many activities, sports, competitive games; military, naval, air manoeuvers. Trades, rolling stock, essential building among first favored.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius) — Calm reasoning, sound planning will help all efforts. It is a generous, stimulating period generally, but some caution is advisable as always, especially handling tools, vehicles.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Practice of medicine, surgery, dentistry, nursing among important interests backed by generous rays. Labor, trades, artistic professions, domestic affairs honored. Have tact.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Your Uranus' position warns against irregular moves, changes. Day's endeavors can be most lucrative if sensibly managed and directed. Up to you! Recreation favored in turn.



February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Shipping, water sports, travel by water need extra caution, and do use care in confidential matters. Day otherwise very friendly for familiar tasks, recreation, domesticity.

YOU BORN TODAY, fair-minded, lawful, dependable in emergencies and for holding important position. You folks often retain your youthful appearance way past middle age, and if you sensibly put worry in it's place, you can continue to attain success and gains so long as you strive after them. Don't permit timidity to keep back true progress. Step out stantly but without strain. Pray when disturbed. God will be your willing guide, comforter.

Music is Theme Of Exhibition

Toronto, Aug. 30 (CP) — Music is today's theme at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Wandering bands of troubadors clothe in European national costumes and dancers are all on hand to put the visitors in a carnival mood.

It's women's and arts day at the "ex" too, with contests for the ladies ranging from knitting to making the best "Dagwood" sandwich.

Art-lovers will be heading for the CNE gallery to see some 100 Canadian paintings on display and the famous original "Whistler's Mother."

There's an old time fiddler's competition, with classes for age groups under 33 to over 70, and square dancing contests.

Attendance at the CNE yesterday was 316,006 down from last year's figure of 327,000 for the same day. Ten thousand people were at the waterfront to see 29-year-old Jerry Kerschner of Toronto and Columbus, O., win the men's professional world championship swim.

Cow Becomes Horse Quite all Right To Shoot Beast

Washington, Aug. 30 (AP)—The cow became a horse, and now it's quite all right to shoot the beast.

It's a tale of mystic India, told in testimony at senate hearings on the new foreign aid bill.

A big wild animal of the antelope family and known as the "nehli gae" was causing extensive damage to crops in the field. But the farmers would not harm it because "nehli gae" means "blue cow", and the cow is sacred to the Hindus.

So the Indian government has changed the name to nehli gae"—which means "blue horse." Horses are not sacred, and so now the beast can be killed to protect the crops of food-short India.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself with a satisfied expression, and ma said, Well, William, I was rite.

I admit it, my dear, pop said. What about? he said, and ma said, About our nek naybors and the social corrections of not calling on them until they've had time to adjust themselves to their new surroundings and attend to the thousand and one odds and ends and incidentals and accidentals that are bound to crop up. And sure enough, William, the woman was so pleased with our thoughtfulness that she decided to break the social ice herself, so she dropped in for a few minutes this morning, ma said.

What did she have to say? pop said, and ma said, Ehh just couldn't of been nicer, she told me there was something so nayberly and frendly about me, she just couldn't resist dropping in.

What does her husband do for a what kind of people are they? pop said, and ma said, It seems their name is Tomkins.

Is that the extent of your information? pop said, and ma said, Well yes, she didn't have time to get more personal. She was so busy she just had a few minutes to pop in and borrow a cup of flower and a pinch of baking powder and a couple of lemmons and a little sugar, ma said.

You gods, cronick borrowers, pop said, and ma said, Now William they just moved in, be charitable. The really important thing is, she just had time to tell me that she and her husband are both bridge players. Isn't it wonderful, William, rite next week it will be your golden opportunity to find out that you can pay bridge offener than once a week and survive to tell the tail, she said.

Fine, I'll begin some leap year, pop said.

Probably meaning never.

Naval history and tradition has a new significance for cadets, who took training cruises from Canada to the United Kingdom this summer because they saw first hand the historic Portsmouth base of the Royal Navy. In the photo at left, cadets proceed on board Nelson's famous flagship, HMS Victory, to see the cramped spaces in which Englands heroes lived, fought and died. At the right, they are shown a model of one of the old muzzle loading cannon which formed the Victory's main armament. — (National Defence Photo.)

One of Hitler's secret weapons the V-2 is on display this year just west of the main grandstand at the Canadian National Exhibition. The guided missile which stands 46 feet high, is five feet in diameter and carried one ton of high explosives. In flight it reached heights of 60 miles and touched speeds in excess of 2,500 miles an hour. It was directed at targets in England and on parts of the Continent by setting the fins prior to launching.

TWO TRY CHANNEL

Calais, France, Aug. 30 (Reuters) — Two French swimmers waded into the water in pouring rain at Cap Gris Nez today in an attempt to swim the English Channel. They were Jean Rebeyrol, 48, a former post office official, and Paul Seneschal, a 40-year-old druggist.

"Feel Well First Time In Years," Praises Syntona

"Free of Stomach Disorders, Headaches and Backaches; Rheumatic Pain Gone — "Even Work Seems Easier," Says This Man.

"After being rundown and suffering from stomach disorders for several years I have found Syntona to be the best medicine I ever used," said Mr. Stanley Stafford, Shedden, Ontario, in a recent report.

"Many people who suffer as I did will know how badly I felt at times. I could scarcely eat a meal without having distress after. Indigestion, heartburn and gas would accumulate. I was so nervous that nothing did relieve. But the worst trouble came when rheumatic pains set in my back, limbs, joints and muscles. They would get sore and swollen and kept me from doing my work properly. I became nervous, always tired and rundown.

"I had often heard people talking about Syntona but I didn't take it seriously until a few weeks ago when I made up my mind to give it a trial. From the first dose I began to feel better. Gradually my food began to digest better, the gas escaped and heartburn clear up and I was keeping from heartache. Now the aches and pains are gone, and standing the exhibition.

Flight Cadet Ted Tromanhauser Wins Individual Championship At Trenton Station Track Meet

Trenton, — (Special) — A long, lean Flight Cadet R. A. "Ted" Tromanhauser, 19, gathered two first and two seconds in track and field events to make a clean sweep of the Trenton R. C. A. F. annual sports meet at Station Trenton yesterday. The blonde R. M. C. cadet from Chatham, Ont., serving with the air force as a flight cadet during the summer months, walked off with the individual championship and the high aggregate trophy. He was awarded the Benedict-Proctor challenge cup and the Senator W. A. Fraser Trophy, besides several other awards. In short, this western Ontario athlete with a strong wind and plenty of drive in his lanky legs stole the show.

Tromanhauser breezed through the mile and took the half-mile even in spectacular fashion. He placed second in the high jump and second in the gruelling 440 dash.

A Flight Cadet Scott established himself in two sprint events. He dashed the 100 yards in 11 seconds to take that honor and dashed home ahead of Tromanhauser and McDonald in the 440. Two Records Broken.

Two standing records, however, were broken during the meet. Flight Cadet Burleigh dashed the 220 in 24 2/5 seconds to break LAC Guthrie's time of 25 seconds established in 1946, while in the pole vault ACI J. W. Hudson of Station Trenton bolsted himself over the bar at 9' 11", two inches higher than the former mark.

The officers' mess vault grand aggregate cup went to the flight cadets ahead of the athletes competing from Station Trenton and No. 6 Repair Depot. More than 3,000 watched the track and field and swimming and diving performers.

Awards for swimming and diving went to LAC Val Scott and Cpl. Miller respectively.

Among the distinguished onlookers were: Senator and Mrs. W. A. Fraser, Mayor and Mrs. Kenneth Couch, Bill "Bull" Riddell, former R. C. A. F. Commanding Officer and, famous as an aerobatic pilot in the 30's.

India Defends Refusal to Attend Peace Conference

New Delhi, India, Aug. 30—(AP)—In a hard-hitting note to the United States, India today defended her refusal to attend the Japanese peace conference in San Francisco.

At the same time, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru pledged his government not to sign a separate pact with Japan whose terms would contradict provisions of the American-sponsored treaty.

The Indian note was in reply to one from the U.S. state department Aug. 28 expressing displeasure with India's decision to boycott the San Francisco conference. It was made public in parliament here.

The note asserted that, contrary to American claims, the people of Japan did not approve of the treaty. It insisted that the treaty should contain a declaration reaffirming that Formosa would be turned over to red China and called on the U.S. to hand the Ryukyus (Okinawa) back to Japan.

The U.S. note had chided India for insisting on the return of the Ryukus to Japan by the U.S. while assenting to continued Russian control of the Kuriles. The Kuriles are a group of islands between Japan proper and Siberia.

India's reply today said this arrangement was worked out at Yalta and "the government of India can not be held responsible for an inconsistency which is a result of the Yalta agreement."

While vigorously defending India's stand, the note appealed to the U.S. not to let differences over the treaty affect friendly relations between the two countries.

U.S. officials have let it be known that India's attitude might bring about a tougher American policy towards India.

'Mr Fix-it' Held On Two Charges Of Conspiracy

'Swabby' Swartz is Named Master-Mind of Turf Swindle

Mrs. Fay Barilko Takes to Air To Hunt Son

Timmins, Ont., Aug. 31 (CP)—Mrs. Fay Barilko, widowed mother of missing defenceman Bill Barilko of Toronto Maple Leafs, took to the air today to help in the search for her son and his denied companion.

The flight was the first for the 32-year-old woman, who has been in a state of near-hysteria since her son and Dr. Henry Hudson of Timmins disappeared Sunday in Dr. Hudson's plane while returning from a fishing trip to Bear River, near James Bay.

It was also the first time in five years that Mrs. Barilko forsook her Timmins home on a Friday. Her husband died on a Friday and since his death, she has refused to leave the house that day.

"It's bad luck, that's all," she says.

Today, however, she rode early to Timmins airport in the plane of South Porcupine, east of here, and took off for the air base up to Kapuskasing, centre of searching activities, to be as "close to Bill as possible."

She said that with the first sure sign of sighting her husband, she will "hit the bush" to help find him.

Crewmen of the strong winds, meanwhile, slowed search operations today. Rain also lashed the James Bay area throughout the night and reportedly visibility this morning was to around the 500-foot level.

The search was to be carried on at least a dozen R.C.A.F. planes were given the bearings and mapping for their first search area here to Rupert House, 236 miles north, and Moosonee, 50 miles to the west.

Three aircraft flew over the Clute-township region near Cochrane to check on a report of a mysterious light there Wednesday night.

Mrs. W. K. Osmar of Clute said she heard what she thought was an automobile operating without a muffler. Then came the flash, she said.

Toronto, Aug. 31 (CP)—Harry (Swabey) Swartz, of Toronto, was arrested late yesterday on two charges of conspiracy and accused of being the "Mr. Fix-it" behind race fixing and jockey-bribing at Fort Erie, is scheduled to appear in court today at Welland, Ont.

Swartz was held in jail here overnight. His lawyer, Charles Dubin said he expects Swartz will be remanded and he will apply for his release on bail.

Swartz surrendered to police after consultation with his lawyer. A warrant for his arrest was sworn out when witnesses at the continuing Ontario Racing Commission investigation named him as the master mind of the turf swindle.

His wife, Ann, known as "the lady in black" who wagered $1,-000 on Nashua in the stakes on the winning North Drive in a $100,000 race that is under investigation, may appear before the commission next week.

One charge against the pair is of conspiring with ex-jockey John Herron and jockeys Frank Wamsley and George Thompson in the fixing of races and bribing of riders in the Fort Erie grounds. The other charge is one of conspiring to defraud the public.

Herron, named as the "brains" of "Mr. Fix-It" and contact man with the jockeys, fled to the United States and is sought on a warrant charging conspiracy.

Will Reopen Case

The commission today will reopen the case of jockey Gordon Cox, previously ruled off Ontario tracks for life for offering a bribe to fellow-jockey Robert Marchant. A lawyer representing Cox asked for the hearing to enable another witness for Cox to be called.

To date in the investigation, six riders have been ruled off for life and three, Marchant, Thompson and Phil McGrath, also face criminal charges. Marchant, Cox and Jockey Kenny Kearns are the three under life suspension. Jockey Charlie Bridge and apprentice rider John Brophy are under indefinite suspension with the commission's investigation.

The commission announced that jockey Conn Kalbfleisch of Detroit, a leading rider on the Ontario circuit, had been fined $100 for not reporting the offer of a bribe.

LABOR CONGRESS RENEWS DEMANDS FOR CONTROLS

Dollar Only Worth 54 Cents Says Bengough

Ottawa, Aug. 31 (CP) —Heads of Canada's two biggest labor congresses renewed union demands for anti-inflation price controls in Labor Day messages.

The annual messages were issued to Canadian labor by presidents Percy Bengough of the 500,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada; A.R. Mosher of the Canadian Congress of Labor, which has 350,000 members. They speak for about four fifths of Canada's union labor.

Because of "high and uncontrolled" prices, Bengough said the dollar is worth only 54 cents. He pledged the congress to work for price controls and reduced living costs in the next year.

Mr. Mosher said probably no one condition could provide a more fertile soil for the growth of communism than "the unprecedented rise in the cost of living in Canada since the war, and the consequent hardship imposed on large number of its common people."

The government had made a "very serious error" in not removing price controls, he said.

"Surely," Mr. Mosher said in his statement "it is not beyond human skill to find a practicable plan to end the cost of production and distribution and fair prices, pay, and to put into effect whatever machinery may be necessary to ensure that labor and capital, producers and consumers, receive their fair share."

Mr. Bengough and Mr. Mosher issued no statement.

While the frontiers of fear and want were being pushed back, Mr. Mosher declared, "we people must 'not be lulled into false security."

"The imperialist aims of communist dictatorship are a definite menace to fellow-labor," Robert Marchant, A lawyer representing Cox, asked for the hearing to enable another witness for Cox to be called.

To date in the investigation, six riders have been ruled off for life and three, Marchant, Thompson and Phil McGrath, also face criminal charges. Marchant, Cox and Jockey Kenny Kearns are the three under life suspension. Jockey Charlie Bridge and apprentice rider John Brophy are under indefinite suspension with the commission's investigation.

The commission announced that jockey Conn Kalbfleisch of Detroit, a leading rider on the Ontario circuit, had been fined $100 for not reporting the offer of a bribe.

Tentative Settlement Reached In Hollinger Gold-Mine Strike Miners Will Vote Tonight

Timmins, Ont., Aug. 31 (CP)—Some 3,800 employees of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines Ltd. will vote tonight to accept or reject terms of settlement tentatively agreed on in Toronto yesterday at a meeting aimed at ending a strike that started July 9.

The strike was called by Local 4305 of the United Steel Workers of America (CIO) to enforce demands for a wage increase of 13 cents an hour and for a check-off of union dues. Hollinger, one of the seven big gold-mining companies in this Northern Ontario district, offered the equivalent of an eight-cent increase but refused to deduct the dues from the workers' pay cheques.

Louis Fine, Ontario's chief conciliation officer, announced late Wednesday that a basis of settlement had been reached by union and company representatives on all points at issue. He said details of the settlement would be kept secret until it was put to the union vote.

His statement read.

"After a four-day session, a memorandum of agreement has been arrived at as the basis of settlement of all matters at issue between the parties subject to ratification at Timmins tomorrow (Friday) night. I want to thank both parties for the co-operation they have given in this matter."

In Timmins, the news brought jubilation after anxious waiting for the miners and their families and for business men. Happy citizens streamed into the streets, gathered in groups to chat and headed for the four theatres, the hotels and other places of amusement.

Mayor Quite Happy

Mayor Philip Fay, who at one stage of the strike asked federal authorities to seek an increase in the $35-an-ounce world price of gold and enable mines to boost wages, said:

"This is the happiest man in Canada tonight."

Mayor Fay twice sent wires to Hollinger president Julee Timmins, asking him to intervene in the dispute, explaining that the firm could not grant the check-off demand.

Before the strike had gone two weeks, Labor Minister Daley tried to help the parties reach agreement but the talks bogged down on the check-off issue.

Phil Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor, asked Premier Frost to arbitrate the check-off dispute. Mr. Frost replied that he thought the best method of settling the strike would be to get company and union representatives around a bargaining table.

The settlement talks that ended Thursday resulted from telegrams sent to Mr. Frost and the premier and which were followed up by telephone calls from Mr. Fine.

As the settlement talks neared their climax, it appeared that production of the record 22 tons of gold-bearing ore underground in the mine. It had reported that moisture would cause the explosives to deteriorate and perhaps cause a blast.

U.S., Allies Gambling Japan Will Remain Steadfast Friend

Washington, Aug. 31 (AP) — The United States and its allies are gambling that Japan will remain a steadfast friend.

The "acid" comes tersely to be signed next week in San Francisco to pass a calculated risk.

Instead of being left to her weapons or bondage, the island country will be given "sovereign equality" much a menace to security as those in Russia.

Japan could labor be given a greater say in the government's defence preparations.

ASSISTANT PASTOR DIES

Toronto, Aug. 31 — (CP) — Rev. John Anthony Kelly, assistant to the pastor of St. Mary's Church, Welland, died here Wednesday, Archbishop James Charles Mac-Donald announced today. He came to serve in the Roman Catholic Church in Canada three years ago. He was educated in Italy.

Not Free Till Treaty Ratified

Japan will not become officially free until the peace treaty is ratified, probably by the end of the year after the San Francisco conference.

It will be much longer before the Japanese are placed on their own feet.

American forces will protect them for an indefinite period under a mutual aid agreement to be signed in San Francisco. This will mean U.S. air and naval bases and ground force installations.

In time, Japanese will be expected to provide their own defensive ground forces.

The Japanese will not be obliged to keep treaty forces to retain any of the extensive reforms introduced by the occupation. American officials expect some "backsliding" when the Japanese regain authority.

Eventually, the Japanese will evolve their own kind of state. But they expect Japan can be expected to stand with the western bloc for the most compelling reason in international politics—mutual benefit.

Canada Takes First Step To Build Seaway

Ottawa, Aug. 31—(CP)—Canada has taken the first tentative steps toward getting the United States' okay on this country going it alone on the $105,000,000 St. Lawrence Seaway project.

With prospects for joint Canada-U. S. action killed for at least another year in congress, the Canadian government has called a conference on Washington's attitude toward all-Canadian construction of the big navigation project.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, announcing this move at a press conference Thursday, did not indicate what attitude the U. S. is taking. He emphasized that the talks are in a very early stage and that Canada herself has not decided on the seaway project without U. S. participation.

Mr. Pearson said he will have to at least give consent before the project can go ahead.

FELL ACROSS POWER LINE

Dayton, Aug. 31—(AP)—A Dayton couple and their 17-year-old daughter were killed last night when a television antenna they were installing fell across a power line. The dead: Chester Brown, 47; Evelyn, 46, his wife, and Dora Ester, their daughter.

HALIFAX CALLED BEST PREPARED TARGET AREA

Haligonians Realize Value Civil Defence

Halifax, Aug. 31. (CP) — If a shooting war starts tomorrow, this old fortress city will be Canada's best-prepared target area.

That conclusion is obvious enough, says Rear Admiral Frank Houghton, Halifax's Civil Defence coordinator.

"After the chaotic 1917 and 1945 explosions, and the possibility of more with ammunition ships moving in and out daily, Haligonians realize the value of civil defence."

And Admiral Houghton has facts to back up his statement.

Halifax has the largest civil defence school of its kind in the country. Some 340 citizens are taking courses in the civilian's role in atomic, chemical and bacteriological warfare.

City officials are completing a survey of major buildings with a view of converting them, if necessary, into suitable shelters. As a result, a building control bylaw has been appointed in nearly every large building.

Under the bylaw, the basement of the seven Canadian centres which an enemy would consider worthwhile targets for that type of bomb on. Civil defence officials estimate that casualties would be inflicted in the opening hour of attack, of which 15,000 would die.

Each Plant Surveyed

The city's 40-odd large manufacturing plants have also been surveyed and each has appointed a C.D. plant co-ordinator.

Halifax air-raid wardens, clearly marked with "shelter" signs. Tin hats, anti-gas suits, hatchets and stirrup pumps are available in "fairly large" quantities. Fire-fighting and protective shortly for training purposes.

The newly-formed welfare organization has 1,100 volunteer workers now along. The organization embraces information, mass feeding, emergency clothing and emergency shelter services.

Responsibility of warning citizens of an attack falls on the R.C.A.F. Air Defence Command has 16 sirens, like those used during the 1945 blackouts, on order for the Halifax-Dartmouth defence area.

Auxiliary police and fire-fighting forces are rapidly reaching top strength.

BUILD UP STOCKPILE

Ottawa, Aug. 31 (CP) —Canada has completed negotiations to build up a stockpile of 500,000 pounds of imported butter, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said in his last year's level, the agricultural products board announced Thursday.

Of the total imported, 10,000,000 will be purchased by the board and 4,500,000 by private trade. Butter imports by private trade were banned by an order-in-council starting Aug. 1, but it agreed to allow private trade butter into the country if the transaction was carried out before that date.

Mr. Gardiner gave no indication what prices it paid.

Canada Protests New United States Import Controls

Tells U.S. it Violates Geneva Trade Agreement

Ottawa, Aug. 31— (CP) — Canada has protested to the United States against its new prohibition on imports of dairy products, charging that it violates the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—"immediate damage" to Canadian trade with the U.S.

This was disclosed today by the external affairs department as it made public the text of a 3,000-word diplomatic note handed to the state department by the Canadian Embassy in Washington earlier this week.

The note said a recent announcement of the U.S. department of agriculture regarding control of imports of fats, oils and other dairy products "has created a situation which is of urgent concern to the Canadian government."

Cause Immediate Damage

"The restriction of the imports of dried milk products, and cheese in particular, will cause immediate damage to Canadian trade with the United States."

Calling attention to "the more far-reaching implications" of the American action, the note said the restrictions "are contrary to the obligations which the two governments have undertaken one with another in the general agreement on tariffs and trade."

It was understood here that the U.S. agriculture department, in imposing its controls, acted on the advice of a price control board bill which went through Congress more than a week ago.

The latter acted under import control during the period while the U.S. government was controlling prices. The period is for one year.

Hopes For Review

The Canadian note recalled that the Geneva agreement "provides clearly that consultative import restrictions of this kind shall not be imposed except in certain limited circumstances which cannot be held to exist at present in respect of these commodities."

"These new import controls, furthermore, will nullify the value of certain of the tariff concessions which were negotiated at Geneva in 1947 and at Torquay, Devon, in the United States until Jan. 1, 1954."

The Canadian government, it said, has sought at all times to observe the terms of the agreement.

The Canadian government earnestly hopes" that the U.S. government will review the action in the light of provisions of the trade agreement "to the end that mutually advantageous trade which is of such great importance to the people of both countries of both our countries may not be impaired."

YOUNG ADDITION

Saint John, N.B. (CP)—Recent changes in Canadian immigration laws have paved re-union for a five-year-old Chinese boy, See Foon, with his father here. The boy arrived from Hong Kong recently since amendments permitted natives of Canada to bring any children under 21.

Twin-Jet Bomber Crosses Atlantic In Record Time

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Aug. 31 (AP) —The air ministry said a British twin-jet bomber completed a trans-Atlantic hop from Ireland to Newfoundland today in a record smashing four hours and 19 minutes.

The flight beat the previous time of four hours and 37 minutes. But it lost the race westward with the sun while making the swing in 3 1-2 hours at a rate of 600 miles an hour.

The jet-bomber's non-stop flight of 2,072.7 miles ended at Gander, Nfld., at 12:45 a.m. (8:15 p.m. EDT). The Canberra jet with its crew of three had taken off from Aldergrove, Northern Ireland, at 8:26 a.m. (4:56 a.m. EDT).

A sister plane streaked the other way from Gander to Belfast with record-breaking time in four hours and 37 minutes for an average speed of around 448 miles an hour.

No claim for an official record was made at that time, since the Federation Aeronautique Internationale—governing body for air sports—recorded times only in part in the arrangements.

At this time members of the Royal Aero Club were present on the federation's behalf to make official timings.

The official takeoff time was given as 12:26:30 G.M.T. (8:26 a.m. EDT).

Official for today's attempt was R.P. Beamont, 31, an RAF ace of the Second World War.

With him on D. A. Watson, 36, navigator, and radio operator R. H. T. Rylands, 39.

Weather conditions on the Canberra's route were described as good, although there was a chance that it would meet headwinds of 60 to 70 miles an hour in the later stages of the trip.

U.S. Planning 'Radar Screen' For British Bases

Washington, Aug. 31 — (AP) — The United States Air Force is planning a "radar screen" for its bases in Britain, Northern Europe and the Mediterranean area.

An air force spokesman confirmed today that the Senate-House Committee has voted $1,071,000,000 requested by Congress for "classified" projects. The construction overseas will go into such an air raid warning system, he said.

Authorization for the spending is part of $5,762,000,000 military construction bill approved by the House of Representatives and now pending in the Senate.

Work has been speeded up on the $161,000,000 defence warning system around the U. S. and Alaska. This radar screen is being constructed to give early warning against possible surprise attacks from the air.

The total number of warning stations and their locations are secret. But the U. S. and Alaska work with similar installations in Canada under the U. S.-Canada defence plan.

North Koreans In Thousands Moving to Front

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, ands of north Korean troops were reported today moving toward the front in hilly eastern Korea. Savage fighting has been in progress there more than two weeks.

Yesterday and last night, allied planes pounded the these reinforcements, into their highway supply convoys and the railroads feeding down the communist front lines all across Korea.

Allies supplied their own front line troops with the biggest airdrop in two months. Thirty-six flying box cars parachuted 110 tons of ammunition, rations and medical supplies yesterday to troops battling high in the mountains of eastern Korea. Rain-swollen streams and muddy roads cut off truck convoys.

A U.S. eighth army staff officer today reported these new observations of communist troops in eastern Korea:

A fresh division, about 8,000 man, digging in west of the coastal city of Kanneng, 23 miles north of Parallel 38.

Three Baffling Mysteries Have Brought Violent Death to 17 Persons

Paris, Aug. 31 (AP) —France could use a Sherlock Holmes today to help solve three baffling mysteries which have brought violent death to 17 persons.

Three died from grain cone from that went into the bread in the hills southern town of Pont-Saint-Esprit—bread that killed four persons and set at least 40 others writhing in the agonies of St. Anthony's Fire.

Did kindly, matronly Marie Besnard, 53, feed little grains of arsenic to her two husbands and 10 other persons, including close relatives, in-laws and paying guests? They all died between 1927 and 1947 and Madame Besnard now in jail awaiting trial accused of a great deal of wealth during the years she was a widow twice.

Is it the body of Madame Marie Emigly-Hyvin, widow of the late Polish army marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, that was found under the floor of her villa on Friday, July. If so—and police think it is, though the head, legs and arms are missing—who killed her?

Case No. 1:

Yesterday they've got the bread deaths partly cleared up. The bread was poisoned by Ergot, a fungus on rye, police say that hits cereals in rainy spells and manufactured was brown from medicinal tinture as "brown fever" or "St. Anthony's Fire."

Police believe the poisoned grain may have come from farmers who sold it clandestinely to avoid taxes and other paper formalities. Officials said they had traced the flour used in the bread to a nearby mill.

Case No. 2:

Back in 1945, Louis Besnard, second husband of Madame Besnard, died in a little town of Loudun. Police exhumed the corpse thought it was from natural causes until a tip from neighbors caused them to dig up his body in 1949. They said tests showed he died of arsenic poisoning.

This led them to dig up 11 other bodies and all of them, said the police, were drenched in arsenic. Included were the bodies of the woman's first husband, Augusta Antigy, who died in 1927, his mother, who died in 1940, her second husbands' mother, other relatives' and two paying guests.

Madame Besnard was arrested and charged with murdering all 13. She denied the charges.

Examinations show she is sane. She'll now be questioned by police on the eve of her trial. Toxicological experts, acting for her lawyers, say they will ask to see where the bodies were buried because it would support her claim of arsenic a cubic yard. How the arsenic got there hasn't been explained.

Case No. 3:

Finally, the torso of a woman was found in a sack under a bridge at Cros-D'Utelle, a village near the Rhone resort city of Cannes.

Police said they are convinced it was the body of 57-year-old Madame Smigly-Rydz, missing for two weeks.

For weeks police have questioned hundreds of persons to no avail. Now they're wondering if they'll ever solve the crime, was no damaga.

Dumb Blonde Has as Good a Chance For Romance as Her Smarter Sisters

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Chicago, Aug. 31 — (AP) — The dumb blonde has just as good a chance of grabbing a husband as her brunette, redhead or psychologist said today.

That's the conclusion of two brunettes and redheads too, said Dr. George K. Bennett, president of the Psychological Corporation of New York.

He told the American Psychological Association, opening a six-day convention, that aptitude tests given to high school seniors can do a good job of predicting how well boys and girls will do in college but are most likely to succeed in it.

But the tests "just do not pick out the girl who is going to get married early. Test scores were average near the average for all high school girls."

"We might draw the conclusion that the 'traditional' 'dumb' blonde — and this applies to the brunette and redhead as well — has neither a better nor a poorer chance of finding a husband than her smarter sister but does far greater skills and intellectual attainments."

Dr. Bennett, Dr. Harold Seashore and Dr. Alexander Wesman told of studies of 4,700 men and women who had taken aptitude tests four years after they had chosen their best fields of work.

Some findings were:

Boys who later became medical students scored highest in a group on all of eight tests, especially in mechanical skills, numerical ability, spelling and grammar. The other tests were abstract reasoning, space relations, mechanical reasoning, and clerical speed and accuracy.

Most of those students now seeking college degrees scored higher in knowledge of engineering and mechanics of English.

Students now in science courses and engineering schools were high in spatial relations and mechanical reasoning.

Plans have been made to hold the service at the High School grounds at seven thirty. In the event of rain, the service will be held in, St. John's United Church, The Campbellford Citizens' Band will be in attendance, and will play for the hymns.

Rev. Joseph Machan will be the guest speaker for the occasion. Rev. Machan recently returned from India and is an outstanding conference speaker.

The local Ministerial headed by Rev. D. Mundell Smith, is supported by all ministers of the town hope that all members will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear the Rev. Machan in this rededication service.

Population Increase

The recent 1951 decennial census has revealed the total population of the town of Campbellford to be 3,303. This is an increase of 125 persons over the census of ten years ago, when it was 3,018.

The preliminary census in this district has been completed by the enumerators, and anyone who may have been missed is asked to contact the local authorities.

One Case of Polio

Thirty-five-year-old Cecil Hopkins is the town's first polio case to date this year.

Mr. Hopkins noticed a headache and stiffness of the neck muscles on Sunday. His case was diagnosed as polio by Dr. W. W. Baker, who had the man transferred to Peterborough Civic Hospital. His condition now is reported as good, and Dr. Baker expects no paralysis will result.

It is believed Mr. Hopkins contacted the disease in the Peterborough district.

Rebekahs, IOOF Hold Annual DecorationService

Campbellford —The Campbellford Loch Lomond Rebekah Lodge and Campbellford Lodge IOOF No. 248 carried out their annual Decoration Day ceremonies on Sunday last with a good turnout of members.

The parade lined up on Front Street, headed by the Campbellford Citizens' band, they marched to the Cenotaph where Bro. C. Ilsey placed a basket of flowers, while the band played a hymn. The next pause was made at Christ Church corner where flowers were placed on graves of deceased members there.

The main service was conducted at Mount Pleasant cemetery. The members gathered in a circle with the Rebekahs in the inner circle. The names of deceased members of the Rebekah lodge were read by Sister Ella Abar, and flowers were placed on the grass as each name was called. The same procedure was carried out by the Oddfellows, with Bro. J. F. McGregor reading the names. The flowers were then taken and placed on the graves of deceased members, while the band played several well known hymns. Afterwards the rites reformed and P. G. Bro. P. R. Sherwin gave the Noble Grand's address. Rev. T. J. Craighead acted as chaplain.

The parade formed once more, and marched to the lodge room. With the flag bearers and Bro. Nicholas and the Marshals were Bros. C. Nicholas and C. Ibey.

Raymond, Master Hypnotist, Had Audience Rolling in Aisles With Antics of His Subjects

Hypnotism may be a serious business and far from being understandable by the common majority, but it also may be funny!

To the audience which Thursday evening packed the Capitol Theatre for the one night stand of Raymond the master hypnotist, will testify. The tall slim young man whose uncanny control over the minds of his subjects has mystified thousands across Canada, literally had his audience rolling in the aisles.

Raymond had a young boy, who knew not a word of the language, standing the first time a Italian song with all the gusto of a Metropolitan opera singer; another young man went up and down the aisles solemnly shaking hands with the aisle patrons. Still another was made believe he was a peanut vendor, and a young girl went through all the antics of a channel swimmer. In all about a dozen volunteers allowed Mr. Raymond to work his art on them.

It was a two-and-a-half hour show of good fun and the hundreds of skeptics who came to it apparently went home convinced.

Awakened on Stage

As a preliminary to the theatre show proper, the sleeping beauty who for 30 hours had slept in the window of Lipson's Furniture store after being hypnotized was awakened on the stage.

For nearly a day and a half Beth Wilbur, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Wilbur of this city, had slept soundly in a bed in the store window. Last evening she was taken to the theatre in ambulance and wheeled onto the stage where a kiss on the forehead by Theatre Manager Thomas Mascaro, broke the girl's long slumber.

"I feel fine", Miss Wilbur said after she was wakened from her 30-hour sleep.

Later she said she was able to remember everything during her sleep, including the several occasions on which she sat up in her sleep to take nourishment. She asked if she would again volunteer to be put to sleep by a hypnotist, she said "I don't know. After all it is a day and a half lost out of your life."

A motorcade will proceed from the station, down Front Street to Dundas and east along Dundas to the air station. They are scheduled to leave Trenton at 3.00 p.m.

Truman Takes Initial Step To Get Men Back

Washington, Aug. 31 (AP) — Efforts to settle a wage dispute which has tied up most of the United States copper industry continued today despite an initial step by President Truman to obtain a back-to-work order from the courts.

The president issued an executive order last night to put the emergency machinery of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act in motion.

The strike, which Truman earlier termed a serious threat to the U.S. defence program because copper is a scarce and critical metal, started Monday.

The President named a three-man board of inquiry which went to work at once in an effort to report back on the facts by next Tuesday, as required by Truman. The board is not authorized to recommend a settlement.

A court injunction to force an end of the strike, may not be obtained before the board reports, under terms of the Taft-Hartley law. Once obtained, it runs for 80 days.

Despite Truman's action, interest was focused on the negotiations between the Kennecott Copper Company and the A.F.L. and Independent unions involved in two major Salt Lake City plants.

If was freely predicted that any settlement was likely to be around the 25-cent-an-hour as a package of wage benefits, including an eight-to-12-cent boost, about eight cents. The Kennecott workers now average $1.54 an hour. They get a 10-cent increase last year.

A Kennecott settlement likely would be followed rapidly by a break-up of the entire strike and settlements in the other major copper operations.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Aug. 31— (CP) —Industrials continued to climb slowly today in early afternoon trading.

The exchange's index of 30 selected issues again reached a record high. Although the index, a barometer of leading stocks, advanced slowly, the rise spread to other issues and gave the market a firm tone not readily observable in index fluctuations.

Steels continued strong while refining oils, a recent leader, weakened. Utilities, agriculture and retail stores also climbed. Constructions, textiles and manufacturing companies remained firm. Papers, banks and miscellaneous industrials turned mixed while foods weakened.

Western oils were mixed.

Base metals weakened. Consolidated Smelters slipped more than 2 while Falconbridge and United Keno Hill dipped fractions. East Sullivan, Mackeno, Penmans, Iron, Silver Standard and Quebec Copper lost pennies. Coast Copper, Minda-Scotia and United Asbestos went against the trend for small gains.

Senior golds held firm. Junior issues showed little trend while prospects and holding companies weakened.

Newspaper Story Not News, Says Foreign Office

London, Aug. 31 (AP) — The Daily Herald said today it has told the British foreign office where missing diplomats Donald MacLean and Guy Burgess are hiding—and how they got there.

The foreign office replied that the same information has been in the hands of the British Secret Service for some time—and that its agents have been unable to confirm any part of it.

MacLean, 38, and Burgess, 40, vanished May 25 after landing at St. Malo, France, from an excursion steamer which they had boarded at Southampton.

The Daily Herald stepped yesterday they had been tracked down by MI-5, the British Secret Service. It quoted unidentified MI-5 agents as its source.

This sounded a formal denial from the foreign office. A spokesman said the missing men have not been found and that the sources quoted by the Herald "made no such statements as those attributed to them."

Returned to the attack today, the Daily Herald said in a front page story:

"In view of this statement, the Daily Herald has submitted its information to the foreign office.

"This information includes a detailed day-by-day itinerary of the journey the two men made by steamer, train and plane, and where they are now."

Back came a foreign office spokesman with another statement:

"The same information received from sources other than the newspaper has been in the hands of the authorities. Investigating the disappearance for some time. It has all been thoroughly examined but not one point in it has been corroborated or confirmed."

Rocket-Powered Plane Shatters All Altitude and Speed Records

El Segundo, Calif., Aug. 31—(AP)— A United States navy rocket-powered plane has shattered all altitude records, climbing to what aviation unofficially believes was 77,274 feet (more than 14 1-2 miles). It levelled off at 1,500 miles an hour.

The supersonic flight in the needle-nose Douglas Skyrocket ship was made Aug. 15 from Edwards air force base. The exact altitude reached by the Douglas test pilot, Bill Bridgeman, was not disclosed.

Marvin Miles, Los Angeles Times aviation editor, estimated the altitude at 77,275 feet. He said that at a "planned altitude, Bridgeman levelled the Skyrocket off to obtain high-speed performance data that may mean the research craft whipping through space at speeds faster than 1,200 m.p.h."

The officially-recognized world altitude record is 72,395 feet, set in 1935 by two balloonists, U.S. army capts. Albert W. Stevens and Orville A. Anderson. The official speed record is 670.981 miles an hour, set in 1948 by a North American F-86. The accepted piloted aircraft altitude record is 59,445 feet, set March 23, 1948, by British test pilot John Cunningham in a Vampire jet.

Bridgeman's plane was dropped from the bomb bay of a superfortress at 35,000 feet and he immediately cut in the four powerful rocket tubes to curve upward in front of the bomber.

Bridgeman wore a special high altitude flying suit with a "fishbowl" helmet for protection in case cabin pressurization failed.

The Skyrocket has a wing span of 25 feet, is 40 feet long and weighs about 15,000 pounds.

IN FAVOR OF DIRECTNESS

There is something to be said in favor of directness, and while international diplomacy, by custom, is fraught with innuendo, double talk, and private interpretation of accepted terms, it is refreshing to learn of President Truman's frontal approach to the problem of the imprisonment, on charges of "espionage," of William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent in Czechoslovakia.

The occasion was the presentation of credentials at the White House by Vladimir Prochazka, new Czech ambassador to the United States. Mr. Prochazka had finished reading a prepared address in which he had declared that his government's policy was one "dedicated entirely to peace," and Mr. Truman was delivering his prepared diplomatic reply when he broke off and took Mr. Prochazka and the Czech government to task for their treatment of Oatis.

If Mr. Prochazka and the Czech government entertained any ideas that impending United States trade embargoes against that country might be lifted by the appointment of a new ambassador, their hopes must certainly be dashed by the sudden and unexpected rebuke from the American president. The elaborate structure of diplomatic negotiation is based on an iron-clad set of rules that permits political and military enemies to meet on common ground. Even minor deviations from these rules are fraught with significance. The tangent taken by Mr. Truman is so loaded with significance that Mr. Prochazka is reported to have emerged from the meeting "pale and shaken."

This reaction is in itself significant. No diplomat of integrity and honor could have reacted with less than glacial rigidity and a carefully controlled fury at such an affront. In any but these topsy-turvy times a diplomat worth his salt would have packed his bags and gone home. But such is the low estate of Czechoslovakia in the Russian sphere of power that all Mr. Prochazka could do in return was stand and take the insult like the puppet he has been, and take the fellow government officials have become. He and his fellow government officials have become less than office clerks sent on great missions. They do not even enjoy the privilege of quitting.

Another reason for Mr. Prochazka's "pale and shaken" manner may be that he is only too well aware of his precarious position as a Russian tool, and the fate that unsuccessful envoys often suffer at such an assignment. If the ambassador's new job is none too salubrious.

On the other hand, what else could Mr. Truman do? He is the highest official of a great nation, and it is an affront to his office and to his person for the Kremlin to send out errand boys for his approval. If Czechoslovakia is in earnest about being "dedicated entirely to peace" it will be the first government not send out some high Russian official to fill the post of ambassador, because in truth the official to fill the post of ambassador, because in truth the Czechs have little enough say in the management of their own country, without expecting them to speak on its behalf at the capital of a great nation. The false nature of Czechoslovakia's status in the world, which Russia attempts to disguise by setting up "Czech" embassies in the capitals of free nations, has been effectively exposed by Mr. Truman's blunt gesture. Desperate measures are often needed for desperate situations. Typical Truman directness, while hardly diplomatic, has at least the virtue of clarifying confusion and establishing the true basis for negotiations with the "Czech" government.

EXCELLENT WAY TO SAVE

(Edmonton Journal)

Life insurance is a good place to put personal savings, and Canadians have demonstrated they know it. During the first six months of this year new life insurance put into effect was close to $1,000,000,000, which is about $175,000,000 more than in the first half of 1950.

One billion dollars' worth of insurance is the equivalent of a million $1,000 policies. Insurance varies tremendously in cost, depending on age of insurer, type of policy and so on, but the annual premiums for this amount probably represent a sum somewhere between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000. And, of course, this is "life" insurance.

According to a statement by the Life Underwriters Association, the amount of life insurance in force in Canada on July 1 of this year was $16,500,000,000, an all time high. This is more than twice the figure for 1941.

Canadians, in spite of all that is charged to the contrary, must still be thrifty, for life insurance is more than protection for the family, it is a form of saving against unexpected needs of the future. It is truly saving for a rainy day.

LAUGHTER

How dreary life had been for men	Courage could never brave despair.
Had we not laughter now and then.
	And so our faltering hearts to lift
It must have been the good Lord knew	He gave us laughter's precious gift.
That many silly thing's we'd do.
	Folly He let us all commit,
And, if too serious we stayed,	That laughter soon could follow it,
Disturbed by every blunder made,
	He gave us chuckles so that we
Kept pride of self our only care,	Could for our burdens strengthened be.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BETTER THAN MEDICINE

The world has long been familiar with the story of Elizabeth Barrett Browning invalid languishing her life away on a couch and thinking how miserable she was.

Then one day Robert Browning, the poet, called at her home, and that was the end of her suspect. The romance and subsequent marriage of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning brought together two of the richest personalities and two of the most fertile literary geniuses of the nineteenth century. As soon as she had something really to live for, Elizabeth Barrett soon recovered from her invalidism.

The same was true of Sophia Peabody. She was an invalid and her mother insisted on keeping her so. But this 'invalid' fell in love with young Nathaniel Hawthorne and they were married. On her wedding trip she wrote to her mother, "Dear, dear Mother; every step the horses took, I felt better and not in the least tired . . . it seems miraculous that I am so well." And Louisa Alcott, who has written the book entitled "The Peabody Sisters," has this to say: "The lovelid Sophia Peabody had ceased to exist. It was Sophia Hawthorne, a supremely happy young woman, who had stepped into a carriage and driven away. .

Perhaps both Elizabeth Barrett and Sophia Peabody were really sick. But the "propitious presence" or "new affection" certainly wrought wonders in the way of cure.

Love and new interests are much better for some ailments than medicine.

THE PACKSAD

By GREGORY CLARK

In no city in Canada and few sixpences rained on him. At the corner of a lane in the theatre section, a thin, ragged old woman sat on a low shop ledge. She was bent over, her head buried in her arms, old grey hair dangling like a mop. On the pavement between her feet was her battered felt hat. She was the faceless picture of utter dispair. In her hat were ten or fifteen pennies and a shilling or two. The musicians, at any hour of the day, wailing along the curb playing trombone, guitar and other fancy combinations; the dancers, the chirpy, white heather, chirping "Lucky, lucky, lucky," like chipmunks; the pavement artists squatted on the concrete with a few chalk landscapes; they had been here for generations. Social reform does not go so far as to attempt to change the scene.

Canadian Soldier Given Two Years On Charge Laid

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 31 (Reuters)—A Canadian court martial sitting here, Donald Michael Gibson, 22, of Ottawa, to two years imprisonment on a charge of attempted rape.

Gibson and two other privates of the Princess Patricias' Canadian Light Infantry regiment are being tried separately on charges arising from the killing of a South Korean army officer and two civilians last March 17.

Pte. Glen Roland Blank was sentenced to life imprisonment for manslaughter Wednesday when he was found guilty of throwing a hand grenade into a farm house where seven members of the Korean army were billeted.

The trial of Alan Roy Montgomery Davis of Vancouver, also charged with attempted rape, will begin either tomorrow or early next week, it was reported.

The prosecution charged that the three Canadians went to the farmhouse and attempted to assault the sister-in-law and friend of the Korean officer, Lieut. Ko Chong Sung, who were staying there. The two women escaped by hiding on the roof.

Later a hand grenade was thrown, killing the three Koreans and injuring three others.

The Canadians were originally charged with murder, but the court found Blank not guilty of that charge.

As a result the prosecution applied for a reduction of the charges against Gibson and Davis.

Gibson was found guilty of attempting to rape the two women and also of "being in an affray." Charges against him of common assault of the civilians were dismissed.

Communists May Face Some of Their Own Pet Tactics

Washington, Aug. 31 — (AP)— Communist leaders in Europe and Asia soon may face some of their own pet tactics of intimidation and underground activities, informed senators said today.

Tucked away in general terms in the multi - billion dollar foreign aid bill is the authority to spend, at least $150,000,000 on such activities, termed "psychological" matters.

But the public report of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees notes that of the more than $5,000,000,000 for military aid in Europe, up to $100,000,000 may be used "to form selected escapees from iron curtain countries into elements of military forces supporting the North Atlantic Treaty organizations."

In "the general area of China" the Senate bill would authorize spending $336,350,000.

The committees say numerous demands in Congress for open arming of anti - communist forces on the mainland of China. Some lawmakers contend there are up to 1,000,000 potential fighters there anxious to fight the red forces if they could get arms and supplies.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE ROADSIDE

Why this feverish rush to get to destinations, by those who travel on good roads? Many of the most interesting things on a journey are right along the Roadside. The late Dr. George Washington Carver was once accosted by a stranger on the highway and asked for money to get food. He was given a small gift by the friend who had met him, but after he left he remarked to the friend with him that there was enough food in the growths along the Roadside to feed all the people in the next village.

I was in Dearborn, Michigan, once when the famous scientist was there as a guest of Henry Ford, and they had grass sandwiches for lunch.

Tagore once wrote that the road was a part of anyone's destination. There are certain roads, over which I travel in the summer time, in New England, that are lined with mountain laurel in the springtime and early summer. The memory of the beauty of this flowered shrub gives fragrance to my mind, whenever recalled.

Travelling to Nova Spotia this summer I noted an innovation—picnic tables and tables and seats for visitors who might want to picnic along the Roadside. I separate and protected side road led to each and I always noted that they were well used. Often the parking at the road was there having a good rest and refreshation after a long drive. There were signs in advance of each, notifying travellers of the location. What an idea to be adopted all over the country—and one sure to be appreciated by thousands of tourists.

Roadside sights are often most unusual and interesting and informative as well. Roads pass many a historical sight. On one of my southern trips, I was stopping at a small enclosure with a chain fence about it, and a beautiful tree in the centre, and there was a sign that said this spot was dedicated to the Lord! Why not? It was created by Him in the first place.

A COOKING LESSON FOR MOTHER

If your children show a lack of appetite and are listless and underweight you need to read this. Such a condition is often the result of a lack of vitamin, particularly those of the B family and more often of B1.

A number of foods such as ripe beans and peas, liver, yeast, Brazil nuts, whole grains and lean pork are excellent sources. The cooking loss is small if the water used is saved. Use as little water as possible and do not use soda to preserve color of green vegetables or the active thiamine content will be lost. Do not overcook. When you purchase bread ask for those made from whole grains. Do not be fooled by the misleading statement "Wheat Bread'. Be sure it says "whole wheat bread". Also remember in realizing the need for all of the wheat grains for body building whole wheat grains each day to supply this food which is rich in B-complex and thiamine. When you see a loaf of bread marked enriched with vitamins be sure you are getting something made from white flour from which most of the vitamins have been removed and then some of these put back in to make the whole loaf look normal. White flour has been preferred by bakers because it is easily stored for indefinite periods while ground whole grains are perishable and must be used soon after they are milled.

Besides B1, your child obtains from these same foods B2, formerly known as Vitamin G or Riboflavin, which is also great influence on growth and vitality. B1 prevents beri beri and helps to prevent pellagra disease, now fast disappearing, but one hears still 'silly many people in our own South each year.

For more information and recipes write enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the free leaflet "Vitamin B1."

Another factor very necessary to the well being of the body is often left out in nutritional iodine. This plays a strong part not only in preventing goiter (the extreme of iodine shortage) but in many cases of body chemistry. If you are not eating a quantity of fresh sea-food daily should for best health consider iodine intake. This is best done by following the suggestions set forth in another free leaflet "Iodin Ration." Send for both leaflets today, and watch your child increase in vim, vigor and vitality tomorrow.

Greatest Need for Evacuees Was Food and CSM of Van Doos Supplied the Answer

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Tears came to the eyes of Dr. Pak Syung Woo as the Canadian truck drove up to his hospital in Korea.

The humanitarian Van Doos were at it again.

Cmn. Maurice Juteau of Montreal, from the sniper platoon of the 2nd Battalion Royal 22nd Regiment, already had visited the hospital once.

It was the civilian relief hospital at Uijongbu, 17 miles north of Seoul. Its 10,000 patients a month were refugees, evacuees and distressed Koreans who one way or another had managed to remain in the area.

And while they needed treatment and medicines and dressings, Juteau had seen at a glance that their greatest need was food. Three Korean doctors, three medical students, six nurses and 40 orderlies with inadequate supplies and food trying to do a job for 10,000 of their ravaged fellow countrymen.

Would they accept any food the sergeant major's regiment could spare?

They would—indeed, with thanks. But they were unprepared for the truckload Juteau turned up with a few days later.

The whole hospital got interested. Another truckload. Then still another.

Three Loads Delivered

Three loads—enough for 5,000 meals—had been delivered when Juteau had an inspiration. Why not organize a movement properly, on a battalion basis, and get every platoon to channel its surpluses to the hospital.

And so was formed "Les Charlies Eaki" (Khaki Charlies).

Juteau produced a manifesto defining the projected organization, its aims, objectives, methods, even outlining obstacles it would have to overcome, and concluded with its motto: "An hour a day for the poor Koreans."

"Reawaken in the men the virtue of charity," he says, "and brutalities toward civilians will cease."

Troops were asked to "give over everything no longer necessary to them—such as clothing and unwanted individual rations —any local surpluses civilians could use—and in addition, to make personal sacrifices from their parcels.

Lecturer to Cadets

Juteau, the sergeant major, who did similar work with the Vandoos for the civilians of Orleans Island, during the winter of 1944-45, thought other units in the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade group could do the same.

He got permission to lecture cadets attending the brigade noncommissioned officer's school before running, by Maj. Don Dimeon of Hamilton, Ont., so that when the cadets returned to their units they would be evangelists of the cause.

Ship Engineer Disappears at Sea

Southampton, England, Aug. 31 (Reuters)—A Canadian ship engineer, Albert Tipton, of Ocean, disappeared at sea while sailing here from Quebec on the liner Samaria, ship's officers reported on arrival Thursday night.

Tipton, a 31-year-old aircraft process worker, travelled tourist class. Officers said he acted strangely after boarding the vessel and had been examined by the ship's surgeon and placed in the isolation hospital.

Friday night, when the ship was two days out from Quebec, Tipton left the hospital and vanished.

Capt. C. B. Osborne ordered a search but no trace of the patient was found.

A preliminary investigation will be opened today by transport Ministry officials.

SUGGESTS JURY TRIAL

New York, Aug. 31 (AP)—Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.) suggested yesterday a jury trial of his charges against State secretary Dean Acheson and Philip K. Jessup, U.S. ambassador at large. McCarthy said he would resign from the Senate if the jury ruled against him.

He has accused Acheson of harboring communists in the state department and has questioned Jessup's loyalty on numerous occasions.

McCarthy flung his challenge of trial by jury at the 52nd national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Dewey Calls On World to Draw Defence Line

New York, Aug. 31 (AP) — Governor Thomas E. Dewey yesterday called on the free world to draw a definite Pacific defence line with a promise of "the same kind of bloody nose you got in Korea" to any aggressor who stepped over it.

The New York Governor, just back from a Far East trip that took him to the Korean battlefield, suggested that the "stop communism" line run from the Arctic to New Zealand.

Dewey told the Veterans of Foreign Wars it their encampment here that little New Zealand has 4,000 men in the Korean front lines and that Canada with a population less than New York State's "has 5,000 and every one is a volunteer."

Bus Rams Rear Of Transport, Three Killed

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 31—(AP)—A Greyhound bus rammed into the rear of a semi-trailer truck last night on the highway near here, bringing death to three of its 37 passengers. Eight were injured.

Police said the truck driver told them the accident occurred as he pulled back onto the highway after parking on the shoulder of the road when he became drowsy. He said he did not see the approaching bus as he pulled out into the traffic lane. The truck driver, Carl H. Jackson, 47, was held by Kenosha authorities. He was slightly hurt.

Asian Countries May Hold Parley After U.S. Meeting

New Delhi, India, Aug 31—(AP)—Prime Minister Nehru told parliament today the Asian countries may hold a Japanese peace conference of their own after the American-sponsored conference in San Francisco ends.

Nehru said earlier this week that India, which is boycotting the San Francisco meeting, would sign a separate individual pact with Japan.

He said today that India, Indonesia and Burma have considered calling a separate Asian parley, but decided to postpone discussion of the project until after the San Francisco conference ends.

Asked directly whether communist China would be invited to a possible Asian conference, Nehru would say only that "Asia is a big continent, but only Burma, Indonesia and India have exchanged viewpoints."

Burma is also boycotting the San Francisco meeting, but Indonesia has accepted an invitation, as have most other Asian states.

The U. N. and Britain, sponsoring powers, did not ask either nationalist China or communist China.

If the Asian states which accepted invitations to San Francisco sign the projected treaty, any separate Asian conference would apparently be limited to India, Burma and possibly red China.

Nehru said India has had no discussions with Russia on the question of a Japanese peace treaty.

WATER SUPPLY SHORT

Toronto, Aug. 31—(CP)—Water was so scarce in Islington yesterday that Mrs. Allen Charters had to melt ice cubes to get enough water to cook corn for dinner. Toys there had been dry since early yesterday morning when watering of lawns made the artesian well water supply run short.

Growth of Catholic Labor Body in 30 Years Revealed

Quebec, Aug. 31—(CP)— The difference between a tiny office and a modern five-storey building illustrates today the 30-year growth of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor.

And, at Monday's inauguration of an $800,000 edifice on downtown Charest Boulevard, they'll speak of the ups-and-downs of the labor organization established in 1921 at a convention of Roman Catholic Workers' Syndicates in Hull, Que.

Since then, the body has expanded from a membership of little more than 10,000 to a 90,000-member force.

Inauguration of the building will be followed by 39th annual convention Sept. 15-20, when the Labor body will present a formal statement of its principles for approval of delegates from its 450 affiliated syndicates.

The C.C.C.L., basing its policies on the principles of the Roman Catholic Church, will describe in this code of principles its "particular conception of the worker"—that he is destined for other things than earning a living.

"That is why we drive at agitation of his professional, economic, social and moral interests," said one C.C.C.L. official.

The 18-point statement is still secret but the C.C.C.L. feels its principles will appeal "to the Anglo-Saxon Labor circles," as well as to those of "the lower" almost 100 per cent French-speaking.

Represents Large Number

The C.C.C.L. claims it represents all textile and glove workers in Quebec, almost all aluminum workers, 90 per cent of the shoe workers, about 70 per cent of the textile workers and two thirds of the pulp and paper mill employees.

For all its concern for the worker's life outside his hours at the plant, factory and mine, the C.C.C.L. remains a fighting labor force in collective agreement negotiations.

The 4 1-2 month strike of asbestos workers in Quebec eastern townships in 1949, resulted in general acceptance of escalator cost-of-living clauses in Quebec collective agreements. These usually provide for a 40-cent weekly bonus for each rise of one point in the national cost-of-living index. The building, housing the C.C.C.L.'s offices for research and organization, is directly owned by Quebec District Syndicates, it was paid for mostly by contributions from syndicates throughout the province.

It boasts eight bowling alleys, a workers' caisse populaire (credit union) and a $17,000 front door made of stainless steel.

Half the building has been leased to the federal government for its district unemployment insurance commission offices.

$10,000 HOME BURNED

Grafton, Aug. 31—(CP)— An elderly widow, Mrs. John Johnstone, escaped with a slings when her $10,000 home went up in smoke yesterday. While talking to friends she noticed smoke coming under the kitchen door. Opening the door she was met by a wall of flame which singed her hair. She gave the alarm and was taken to a neighbor's home for shelter.

Why Bakers Make Poor Pies

(A letter in the Ottawa Citizen)

Editor's Note: Chester Bloom, Ottawa, correspondent for the Winnipeg Free Press and the Ottawa Citizen, complained in a recent article that today's pies are not what Mother used to make. And in these days, he says, all bakeries and eating houses vied with the artistic pie genius of our mothers and grandmothers. "But now what do we get? Alleged pies, not pies. Pies with one or two berries to the pailful, stuck in some fearful chemical-filling of horse's foot gelatin, flour or corn starch filling, flavored with glucose or corn syrup. Flat as a pancake too . . ." Mrs. Herswith a Perth baker, Mrs. E. A. Vice, puts the lid on Mr. Bloom.

Being a mere baker without the art of endless phrases, full of long-drawn-out adjectives, I don't expect this will make interesting reading for the cultured masses, but I'll give my opinion about what is wrong with the bakers' pie.

Mind you, I'll for a minute deny it is a poor pie — but so were the majority of pies baked in the old wood stove by grandmother and the modern aunts of today. Even in three days baking for the church picnic. Anyone who is honest will say all those picnic pies were lovely, flaky, crusted delicious affairs to tempt the truth. Some of those pies made at home are still good, but the majority are soggy, rubbery, and unpalatable, just as the bakers' pies are.

But now I'm defending the bakers' pie.

Eleven years ago, a good pastry baker worked for $25 per week, 10 hours most days, and up to 12 hours on Saturday. This man was well paid — $25 a week being top wages.

In those days we sold a lemon pie for 30 cents. We paid $2.50 a 100 for coke to heat the oven, 16 cents a dozen for eggs, 10 cents a pound for shortening, and 7½ cents a pound for sugar.

Today we pay the same pastry baker $55 a week and he works only 48 hours, instead of 86. His wage is about approximately $65 — more than double. Eggs today are 84 cents a dozen, five times the former cost. And just try making a lemon pie without eggs! Shortening — well, it's twice as much, and so is the paper and the pie box. Sugar and lemon are nearly double. Now this averages an increase cost to the baker of about 2½ times the cost 11 years ago. But just try taking a 75 cent ticket on a lemon pie. People would avoid it like the plague.

So what? So the baker has only one course of action open to him —make an inferior pie. The consumer always pays, he always pays for everything — although he can be fooled by some things easier than by a pie.

And why will the public not pay 75 cents for a pie? They have spent too much money on pop, ice-cream, chewing gum, cigarettes, and many other non-essentials, just as they'll willingly pay for quart pf beer and holler their heads off about the price of milk for the babies, as also they'll eat fancy hotdogs, potato chips, endless bottles of pop — but "Heavens!" they yell, "really they don't expect anybody will pay 75 cents for a pie!"

(Mrs. E. A. Vice)

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

Apples belong to the same family as the rose and the raspberry. The green fruit, however, arrives much later than the red flower and the red berry.

The first of the season's apples are the greetings now in abundance in most markets. These are the firm cooking apples too tart to eat raw but excellent for all cooking purposes.

If the greetings seem very hard when they are sliced, they may be steamed in a saucepan with an inch of water until semi-tender. They may then be drained and used for baking in pies, turnovers, etc.

In today's recipe apple slices are placed on a cake batter and then baked. The batter is flavored with both ground spices and vanilla. As the batter rises, the apple slices are covered with the cake.

If whipped cream is used as the frosting, the cake should be stored in the refrigerator until eaten. Any other desired frosting may be used, or the cake may simply be sprinkled with powdered sugar and served.

APPLE SPICE CAKE

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1-2 teaspoon allspice
1-2 teaspoon powdered cloves
1-2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2-3 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups apples, pealed, cored and thinly sliced
1 cup heavy cream
3 tablespoons sugar

Measure the sifted flour, sift again with the baking powder, salt and spices.

Have the shortening at room temperature. Cream the shortening until soft and smooth but not melting. Gradually stir in the 1 cup sugar, beating well. Add the unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Add the dry ingredients and the milk alternately to the shortening mixture. Begin and end with the dry ingredients. Beat well after each addition. Stir in the vanilla.

Pour the batter into 2 greased 8 inch layer pans lined with wax paper. Sprinkle with the thin apple slices.

Bake at 375 degrees 30 to 35 minutes or until done. Cool on a cake rack. Beat the cream with the 2 tablespoons sugar until thick. Spread the cream between the layers and on top the cake.

Fashion Flashes

NO MATTER the temperature, about now, city children, apparently wearying of summer clothes, parade in smart black, shocking dresses with a definite fall flavor but in very light fabrics. Plastic fashion the low V necklines and midriff of a black tissue faille frock and the skirt, of unpressed fine pleating, is tied at the waist with black velvet ribbon.

VARIETY is the keynote of fall and winter millinery with much use of satin as well as of velvet. Star of a fashion show was a hat of white fait, its wide, rippling brim covered with natural white fox. With the hat, a barrel muff of the fur.

LOOKING NEW is the full-skirted waist-nipped coat of velvet or rich silk fabrics. Black velvet makes a coat of this type with a large caper collar standing away at the back of the neck. Two slanting pockets below pintucks that round the hipline. The double-breasted rows of jewelled buttons above the slim waist.

VERY RICH trimming marks many of the handsome ensembles designed for the mature woman. Black silk faille for a fine suit with blouse of red silk crepe to match the jacket lining. The fitted jacket is trimmed at the pockets and collar with ball fringe that edges braid and jet bead embroidery.

HOLDING out the full skirt of many a youthful date dress for fall is the crinoline petticoat. This type of skirt, posed over crinoline, is a feature of a pretty dress of iridescent taffeta overplaided in velvet. The deep neckline is marked by a horizontal fold that projects double point edging and extends across the shoulders.

A STANDBY in any wardrobe is a good little suit of worsted jersey. This fabric in a deep purple is used for a slim, soft suit; the jacket braid bound, jet-buttoned and lined with cherry-purple satin.

STIRLING

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON OF THE WEEK

'The Greatest Conversation'

By ROY L. SMITH

The longest conversation Jesus recorded in the Ne[w] ment—and the most pro was one He had with a "foreigner", a reprobate woman of a mongrel race. In it He pro pounded greater principles of life, and proposed a greater conc cept of faith, than in any other interview He ever held.

Long before the conversation began the unpleasantness started. He was under the necessity of going through Samaria, a dangerous adventure for a Jew—one in which He might easily have suffered great indignities, and might even have lost His life.

His first contact with the Samaritan at the well was unpleasant. The woman was strongly inclined to be disagreeable. For once in her life she had a helpless few at her mercy, and she proposed to make the most of her opportunity. She and her people had suffered much at the hands of the Jews, and now she had a chance to get some small revenge. The fact that Jesus had never harmed her made no difference. Those who are race prejudiced never discriminate between individuals.

Jesus Mystified Her

From the start Jesus mystified her. She was not accustomed to hear chaste conversation about the great things of life. She was unprepared to listen to a sober discussion of a profound theme. She had set out years before in search of the surface satisfactions of life and had never learned to live in the company of great ideas. She found it difficult to understand a man who spoke familiarly of God, of life, and of inner sources of power. That, too, is one of the reasons some moderns find a church service dull.

Nothing to Draw With

So many people live in the midst of beauty with no capacity to appreciate it; they sit at a radio which offers them symphonic music and tear into an syncopation; they buy newspapers with great editorials in order to read the "funnies"; they live through days of destiny and spend their strength on canasta.

Prejudice Is Unthinking

It is impossible to reduce race prejudice to logic. The moment we think we have explained it in one part of the world it crops up in a new form in another section. It takes on one disguise among one race and another guise among another people. But all its forms and guises are ugly.

Race prejudice is a corrupt child of the emotions, never a true fruit of culture or scholarship. The victim of race prejudice is hardly sincere in his belief than the perpetrator thereof.

If Christianity is not able to solve the problem of living together in spite of racial differences, then it can never lay claim to being a saviour for this world. A church that is not healing the differences between peoples who are equally honest and equally sincere is not serving a Lord who would take time beside a well to discourse on profound themes with a woman who had been schooled in prejudice.

SWISS DONATION

Vienna. (CP)—A new town district built here with funds and equipment donated by Sweden will have streets bearing the names of famous Swiss men and women. The development provides housing for 2,900 persons.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for September 2: "Christian Relations Among Races." John: 4:4-14; Acts 10:28-35; Colossians 3:11.

It did not take her long to discover, however; that this strange Jew knew some secret. He seemed to be on such good terms with magnificence. In spite of her ignorance and her prejudice, the Samaritan woman sensed the fact that a deep desire was coming to life within her. And that mystified her even more.

Shall Thirst Again

It is one of the cynical facts of life that so very few satisfactions have any survival value. Thrills, sex, excitement, applause, popularity, fashions, best-sellers, headlines, sensations, our picture in the papers, party initations, adulation, championships, election returns, praise, compliments, beauty contests—everyone who drinketh of these waters shall thirst again.

Let Us Leaf Through Lettuce Leaves

By KAY KEX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Salad Week — among other things — resulted in several new fruit and vegetable concoctions being plized before the public eye.

The Quebec Fisheries Department saized on the "week" to distribute a recipe highlighting its favorite product: a canned food plant in Hamilton, Ont., was moved to offer recipes for some of its own output.

Finally, the Dominion Department of Agriculture's consumer section looked over a few angles on salad-making and came up with some timely tips.

Stuffed tomatoes lead the Agriculture Department's recommendations.

Such a variety of fillings may be used "that it would be easy to serve a different stuffed tomato salad for each day of the week," say the home economists.

For example: a filling of diced celery, diced cucumber, sliced radishes and chopped green onions, combined with a little whipped cream, vinegar and seasoning (to taste) — for Monday.

A cottage cheese filling mixed with diced celery, chopped parsley and salad dressing—for Tuesday.

Diced chicken, diced hard-cooked eggs and celery and chopped pickle moistened with salad dressing — for Wednesday.

Cooked leftover macaroni, spaghetti mixed with diced celery and well-seasoned tomato pulp—for Thursday.

Cole slaw — for Friday.

Devilled eggs, on a bed of salad dressing spread on tomato petals — for Saturday.

Fish Salads Healthy

The Fisheries Department of Quebec suggests the following salad as "a health-builder for the children" and "a treat for the grown-ups."

Ingredients: two cups flaked cooked fish (cod, halibut and so on); two cups diced potatoes; one cup celery, chopped; one carrot, grated; one onion, minced; two pickles (chopped).

Rub a salad bowl with a clove of garlic. Mix one teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, two tablespoons vinegar, until salt is dissolved. Add six tablespoons of oil.

Salad will be well seasoned if turned carefully with a spoon and a fork.

Dress salad on crispy lettuce; sprinkle with grated carrot and chopped parsley. This salad can also be decorated with quarters of hard-boiled eggs and tomatoes.

Salads with Canned Foods

Here's what you can do in the salad way with a 20-ounce can of sliced beets and some seasoning:

Ingredients: one 20-ounce can sliced beets; one tablespoon sugar; one tablespoon minced onion; one tablespoon salt; dash of pepper; two tablespoons salad oil; one-quarter cup vinegar; six lettuce cups; one-half cup cottage cheese.

Drain beets; reserve one - half cup liquor. Combine with sugar, onion, salt, pepper, oil, vinegar and beet liquor. Cover. Marinate over night in refrigerator. Arrange in lettuce cups. Top each serving with a mound of cottage cheese. Serve with French dressing. Six servings.

Press and Radio Day at C.N.E.

Toronto (CP)—One way to keep cool in a heat wave is to take up water skiing but you'd have to be good to do it in company with the skiers at the Canadian National Exhibition today.

Under way on the waterfront are the Canadian open and North America water skiing championships and, as part of the entertainment, there is a display of veterans' boys' and women's trick-riding on the bounding planks.

Members of the press and radio world have a special invitation for front row centre to watch the fast moving mermaids. Today is their day at the "Ex".

Attendance Thursday, Ladies' Day, was 181,000, 2,500 above the mark set on the same day last year.

This is the day when the champion dairy cattle will parade around the Coliseum arena and when women will knit for cash prizes in a special knitting competition.

Intensify Search For Missing NHL Player, Dentist

Timmins, Aug. 31 — (CP)—At least a dozen RCAF planes, flying 500 feet over treetops and muskeg, will intensify the search today for hockey player Bill Barilko and Dr. Henry Hudson, Timmins dentist.

Seven airs crews Thursday swept 27,000 miles of practically uninhabited wilderness between this Northern Ontario mining town and James Bay without finding a trace of the two men who disappeared in a little yellow airplane Sunday while on their way home from a fishing trip to the eastern side of James Bay.

Flt. Lt. G. J. (Rusty) Ruston of Hamilton, searchmaster, said high air force officials have ordered the intensive search today.

"We'll fly at 500 feet and allow for only a mile visibility," he said. "With as much territory as we have to cover, that amounts to looking under every twig."

Smoke plumes and every other rumor and clue had been investigated thoroughly without result along the route the missing fishermen planned to take.

"Although we've covered the whole territory, we are still quite optimistic. Our survival experts have told us that if Barilko and Dr. Hudson are down without being too badly injured, they should be able to survive indefinitely in the bush in this weather."

The men were last reported when they refuelled Sunday afternoon at Rupert House, some 240 miles northeast of here.

'Sasky' Roughriders Blast Winnipeg, Dobbs Carries Mail in 33-1 Victory

Winnipeg, Aug. 31 — (CP) — Now is the time for all Labor Day followers of Winnipeg, Regina and Edmonton football clubs to holler "stop those Roughriders."

But it will take more than hollering as Saskatchewan Roughriders demonstrated here Monday night as they pasted the defending champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers 33-1.

The "dark horse" of the western football union race at the outset with quarterback import Glenn Dobbs an unknown quantity in the gridiron comeback after a two-year absence, Roughriders no longer appear a question record.

1. They lead the league with three convincing victories in their first games against each of the opposing clubs;

2. In beating Winnipeg—and Edmonton 22-0 and Calgary Stampeders 8-1—they did not allow an opposing player to cross their goal line.

3. With Dobbs displaying the same passing, kicking and running that made him one of football's best with Los Angeles Dons, Roughriders have scored 84 points in three games and have had only two points scored against them.

About 10,000 stunned fans last night saw the matchless Dobbs score two touchdowns on quarterback sneaks and pass for the other three touchdowns—two to import Jack Nix and one to Del Wardien. Another import Don (Red) Ettinger converted all five majors.

Riders gained a single point when George MacPhail was roughed on a Dobbs' kick and another two points when substitute quarterback Pete was smeared for a safety touch.

Quarterback Indian Jack Jacobs got Bombers' only point on a kick to the deadline in the last three minutes.

A fast-charging line kept Bombers off balance, forcing Jacobs to rush his passes.

Dobbs completed 16 of 33 pass attempts for 234 yards compared with Winnipeg's record of 166 yards on 13 completions out of 33 attempts. Ettinger intercepted three Bomber passes.

Along the ground, Riders ate up 156 yards to Bombers' 46. Dobbs' out-punted Jacobs 45.3 yards to 40.

Flyer Protest Rejected by TVL

Frankford—The Trent Valley Softball League has rejected the protest letter sent by the R.C.A.F. Flyer team, following the second and deciding game of the semi-final series played in Frankford, August 30th. While the protest has been under consideration, the Wooler-Frankford series was begun, with understanding that should the Flyers win their protest, the games played between Wooler and Frankford would be considered only exhibition.

The Air Force protest letter was based on points. The first point, was the fact that Umpire Steenburg had awarded Gilmour, Frankford base runner home plate on interference by the Air Force shortstop Common.

The second point was in connection with a play in which umpire Ethier called a Flyer base runner out at third base.

The Air Force protest letter, and a statement by umpire Steenburg on the calling of his play, were forwarded to the district O.A.S.A. representative, to be considered on the merits of the protest.

The O.A.S.A. representative replied that umpire Steenburg had been entirely correct in his decision.

B.M.C., Alemite Claim Victories In Series Openers

The Commercial Softball League AA playoffs sprung a double surprise on the fans last evening as Belleville Motor Car took Bakelite 7-5, and Stewart Warner downed Avon Jewellers 8-7 in the first games of best-in-three series. The four teams go at it again in another fast-night marathon Tuesday evening September 4th.

In the opener Motor Car slammed over four runs in the top of the first inning, picked up two in the fifth, and collared one in the ninth to hold off a last closing Bakelite rally.

In the first frame Green walked Miller and Topp and then Bob Hatfield banged a double down the right field line to score both runners. Bons popped to the infield and Hatfield took third on a passed ball. Semark got a life on an error at first and Hatfield scored. A passed ball and another error plated Semark.

Two Double Plays

Bakelite, plagued by double plays in the second and third frames, collected their first run off Leclerc in the fourth with two walks and an error by the pitcher letting in Lawn.

Motor Car used two errors, a single, and a sacrifice to count two in the fifth. Bakelite started beating in the ninth and when the carnage was over they had plated three runs on five errors and two singles. They added another in the seventh on a walk, a passed ball and an error. Bob Green's home run in the ninth with no one on brought them within one run of a tie, but Jack Reid was rushed in to Leclerc's aid and he preserved the win by striking out the side.

Littlejohn with three hunt singles in three official appearances led all batters:

Green Whiffs 14

Bob Green, in going the route for the losers walked six, struck out 14 and gave up seven hits. Leclerc toiled eight frames to claim the win walking three, striking out two, and giving up eight hits and all the runs.

Lineups:

Belleville Motor Car: Miller ss; Topp cf; Hatfield 3b; Bons c; Semark 3b; O'Brien rf; Bland lf; Callaghan 1b; Leclerc p, replaced by Reid in 9th.

Bakelite: Cook lf; Burich 2b; replaced by C. Burley in 5th; R. Burley cf; R. Cousins ss, c; Lawn rf; Littlejohn 3b; Powers 1b; Green p; R. Power c; replaced by G. Graham ss, in 1st.

SECOND GAME

In the afterpiece Stewart Warner built up an 8-2 lead by the fifth inning and then staved off a typical garrison finish by the Jewellers to eke out an 8-7 victory.

An error, a sacrifice, a double, and outfield fly, and a single plated two runs for Alemite in the top of the first inning.

Jewellers came back to count once in their half of the inning on a walk and two singles.

Alemite came up with a four run rally in the third to take what looked like a commanding lead. With one out Jim Hammett singled, Lewis doubled and Duesbury singled to plate Hammett. Barnum took first on an error to short and Lewis scored. Upper doubled to left field to plate Duesbury and Barnum took third sliding to beat the relay home. Barnum's slide was thrown out at the plate as Page took first on a fielder's choice.

Two In 5th

The Alemite kept things moving in the fifth with Barnum aboard on a walk and Upper at second on a bloooper over third base that went for a double. Barnum scored as Page went out on a fielder's choice, and Upper came home when catcher Doran threw the ball into centrefield.

At this point Frank Day came in to relieve Frank Baldwin and he blanked the plantmen over the rest of the route.

Avon's picked up a single tally in the fifth on an error, a double by Hull and two walks. They added two more in the eighth on an error, a triple down the right field line by Ross and a single by Doran.

They came within an ace of tying the game in the ninth as they took advantage of their most potent batting spree and some Alemite defensive lapses to plate three runs.

Dracup Gets Win

Harold Dracup in claiming the win for Stewart Warner, walked eight, struck out ten, and gave up 10 hits in going the route.

Frank Baldwin worked four and two thirds frames for Avon walking three, striking out two, and giving up 10 hits for all the runs. Day toiled the rest of the way giving up one hit.

Lineups:

Alemite: Doyle 3b; Dracup p; Hammett 2b; Lewis ss; Duesbury lf; Barnum rf; Upper c; Page 1b; Taylor cf.

Avon Jewellers: Donovan lf; Rose rf; Doran c; Hull cf; ss; Murray 2b; McBride 1b; Ford ss; cf; Baldwin p, replaced by Day in 5th; McTaggart 3b.

Lopez Confident Of Tribe Chances

Cleveland, Aug. 31 (AP)—Dismayed, but still hopeful, Manager Al Lopez looks for his Cleveland Indians to pull out of their slump soon and for the New York Yankees to weaken in the stretch.

"Our slump is coming at a bad time, but it's something you had to expect," Lopez said after his club's 2-3 loss to Philadelphia yesterday. "We did go real good for a while.

"I'm looking for those Yanks to go into some kind of a rut. They've not been in a real rut all year. The White Sox were in one, so were the Red Sox, and now it's us.

"It's going to be a close race all the way through."

NOW IS THE TIME!

The Central Ontario Baseball League is an unpredictable as a weather man's forecast sheet. One day you get a near-perfect game; the next, up pops a Fredonk Corners — Hogs Hollow brand, and the third is liable to be a crew from a soggy waste, a baseball team not a parliamentary filibuster.

Down in Smiths Falls last night the tiff between the Redmen was scarcely of world series calibre. The game not only produced a 5-3 setback for the Reds in a six-inning duel but injuries to Fitzpatrick and Mulholland, and a brace of heated arguments that ended in a coach and a player tossing right-hocks at the plate umpire.

According to reports, Coach Harry O'Neill and Pitcher Clouthier climaxed heated verbal f'kavs with punches at the official. Naturally they were tossed out of the game.

Their punishment should not end there. Regardless of the facts of the case, whether the umps was right or wrong, both O'Neill and Clouthier have been in baseball long enough to know better. The COBL executive should deal with the matter with a firm hand and exercise its suspension rights. There has been too much umpire-baiting in the league this season as it is, and now is the time for the master — minds to step in and step it.

COULD BE A RECORD!

Billy Strahan's sensational hurling effort in tossing a no-hit no-run game against the Picton Athletics Wednesday night had some of the oldtimers scratching their noggins yesterday as they delved deeply into memory bags.

And unless some of the grey-thatched building gentry are amiss in what they retrieved, Strahan's no-hitter is the first in the history of a Belleville team in the Central Ontario Baseball League since way back when "Penny got 'em", and the Indian was tossing a few antipasmodic curves for Consecons.

One of them racked his cranial cache more deeply than the others and recalled a no-hit no-runner hurled by the one and only Al Heckman, of Peterborough fame who thatched Oshawa team. Digging deeper, the oldtimer said he believed the popular Peter' flinger faced but 27 batters, walked two but retired them on double plays. That could be slightly amiss, and we're quoting from the memory box of one of the boys who was around in that famous era when the Central Ontario Baseball League was the spotlight senior baseball organization in Ontario.

CAL TAKES A BRIDE!

Cal Gardner, Maple Leafs centre star, who now represents a well-known sudcery, was in Trenton Wednesday and confided in one "Scoop" covering the RCAF field day that he was jumping off the deep end of the bachelor dock on Saturday and taking unto himself an attractive nurse from Toronto.

Speaking of the missing Bill Barilko, Gardner refused to believe his long-haul was "gone". He was firm in his belief that Barilko and his dentist fishing pal were holed up in the dense bushland and would eventually be rescued.

RACING STARS HERE MONDAY!

Here's good news for auto stock car racing fans. Promoter Dick Barrowes announced today that he has secured the well-known Toronto drivers George Bowers and Billy Wilson for his Labor Day meet at Speedway Parkland near Marysville.

Bowers who won the Ontario championship last week finishing a flat-tire ahead of Wilson will take part in a match race with his track buddy in a special attraction. Wilson in turn will try and lower the Speedway track record of 25 seconds flat held by Bowers.

Meanwhile local and district drivers are completing plans for what is expected to be the most exciting meet ever staged at the popular Speedway track. Burrowes is taking special precautions to have every safety facility in topflight order and anticipates the largest crowd of the season.

While all entries are not yet received, there is sufficient to warrant the statement that it will be the largest field of local and district drivers ever to assemble in this part of Ontario. Several novice drivers, who have been practicing faithfully will be entered for the big day.

FRIDAY FIREWORKS!

The team of Mike and Bez Sharpe is supremely confident of victories over their arch-rivals, the team of Fred Atkins and the Masked Marvel, when they meet again in their four-man tag match in the ring at the Memorial Arena tonight. The top Sharpe team has been hampered by the results, illegal tactics of the Atkins-Mask side previously, but for this match there will be two referees in charge to keep check on the anticipated fireworks. Thus, with the fair, fair supervision which two officials will be able to give this explosive clash, the high-flying Sharpes figure it will be up to themselves to prove their team wrestling superiority over their ruthless opponents.

Of exceptional interest also is the semi-final in which Timothy Geohagen, the Irish strongman of wrestling, will collide with Mayes McLain, the Masked Marvel's meddlesome manager. The bout would relish few things better than seeing Geohagen give a wrestling lesson to the troublesome McLain. Flying Pat Flanagan has signed to meet rough and ready Dangerous Dan O'Connor in the first event.

Indians Drop Another to 'A's; Brooks Edge Cincinnati 3-1 Pirates Squeeze Giants 10-9

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

This is the time of year that second-division clubs have fun knocking off the contenders.

The lesser lights, relaxed and with nothing at stake, exact a degree of vengeance in beating the tense teams involved in the flag chase.

Philadelphia Athletics, who will have to pay their way into the world series, have been making merry of late with the top four teams in the American League.

The A's, a sad seventh, knocked Cleveland Indian out of a first-place tie with New York Yankees yesterday, beating the tribe 6-2. The idle Yankees moved a half game in front.

During the last few weeks the A's have split eight games with the Yanks, divided six with the third-place Boston Red Sox and took three out of four from Chicago's front-placed White Sox.

Brooks lefthander Morris Martin, with help in the eighth from Carl Scheib, posted his tenth victory against four setbacks in downing the Indians.

Feller Loses 7th

Bob Feller, gunning for his 21st victory, was tagged for his seventh defeat. Feller gave Philadelphia a pair of runs in the second and added four more in the third. An error by Shortstop Bob Kennedy with the bases loaded and two out permitted three of the four third inning runs to score.

Martin was lifted in the eighth after he forced a run home by walking Luke Easter with the bases loaded. Scheib came on and Al Rosen to bang into a double play to end the inning.

The third-place Red Sox downed the Detroit Tigers 10-4, to move to within 4½ games of the Yanks. The Red Sox iced the game with four runs in the ninth. Chuck Stobbs started and gained credit for his ninth victory but Ellis Kinder saved the day for Boston by pitching the Tigers on one hit over the final 2 2/3 innings.

Dodgers Win

In the National League, Brooklyn Dodgers defeated Cincinnati 3-1, Pittsburgh Pirates clipped New York Giants 10-9, St. Louis Cardinals defeated Philadelphia 6-3 and Boston Braves swamped Chicago Cubs 12-2.

Preacher Roe and Clyde King stopped the Reds on seven hits at Brooklyn. Roe left in the seventh when his pitching arm tightened but gained his 13th victory against two losses. Connie Ryan homered for the lone Red run in the first inning. The Dodgers tied the score against Ewell Blackwell in the fifth and won out in the sixth when Gil Hodges singled home Duke Snider from third.

Home runs featured the Giant-Pirate game. Ralph Kiner won the game for the Bucs by belting his 37th homer in the ninth-inning. Monte Irvin, Thomas, Gus Bell and Pete Castiglione also homered for the Pirates while Willie Mays banged two and pinch-hitter Bill Rigney one for the Giants. Murry Dickson, working in relief, picked up his 18th victory for the tail-enders. The loss dropped the Giants seven games back of Brooklyn.

The Braves pounded a trio of Chicago pitchers for 15 hits to allow Jim Wilson to coast to his sixth victory. Wilson and Sam Jethroe led the assault with three hits each. Earl Torgeson chipped in with a three-run homer. Roy Smalley accounted for both of Chicago's runs with a homer in the seventh.

Veteran lefthanders Al Brazle and Harry Brecheen collaborated in pitching the Cards to victory at Philadelphia. Brazle worked the first six innings and received credit for his fourth victory. The Cards jumped on rookie Niles Jordan for four runs in the fourth inning to win the game.

Australian Stars Out of Singles, Sedgman Left

By GAYLE TALBOT

Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 31 — (AP)— There is just a chance that, with all the expecting which has gone on during the week, the deep thinkers have overlooked the player who will be handed the cup when the national tennis championships end Monday.

He may be Budge Patty, originally from Los Angeles who yesterday put the boots to young Maryan Rose of Australia in the fourth round of play. Rose, seeded third among the foreigners, has been considered very hot stuff lately.

Patty beat him, 1-6, 6-3 6-2, 7-5, with the score of the two middle sets accurately reflecting the American's superiority. The brand of tennis Patty played could win the title, particularly if Dick Savitt fails to recover completely from the leg infection which prevented his playing yesterday.

Some might have forgotten that Patty won the Wimbledon crown a year ago. Any player who wins the Wimbledon any year's good. Right after Wimbledon Patty twisted his right ankle and was out for the remainder of the season.

Should Patty reach the semi-finals he would find himself facing either Vic Seixas of Philadelphia or Jaroslav Flam of Beverly Hills.

Many who watched Seixas cleverly his 28th birthday yesterday by upsetting Ken McGregor of Australia in a homeric four-setter were ready to bet that he not only gets past the fourth-seeded Flam, but that he plays singles for the U.S. in the Davis Cup matches in Australia next December. He looked that good.

With both McGregor and Rose dumped in a short space of hours, Frank Sedgman of Australia was the only foreigner left to dispute the American domination of their own championship. Sedgman was to face young Tony Trabert of Cincinnati in one of today's quarter finals, and it promised quite a tennis match.

Redmen Lose to Smiths Falls In Brief Boisterous Game 5-2

Before a small but very partisan home crowd, the Smiths Falls Royals, capitalizing on fielding errors and errors in judgment, defeated the visiting Belleville Redmen by a score of 5-2.

The win solidified the Royals' hold on third place in the OBHL standing while the Redmen remain in fourth place by a slight margin.

The fray, called off in the eighth because of darkness, was enlivened throughout by the antics of Harry O'Neil, Royals' manager, who eventually was thrown out of the game and off the field by the umpiring duties, Mac White was called out and O'Neill disagreed so heartily that he ended up by taking a poke at the plate umpire. This, with his very loose use of the English language, was more than enough to have him ejected.

Belleville's scoring was all done in the initial frame, the first three batters getting safeties but Fitzpatrick was out at the plate trying to score on Guyatt's bingle and Smith-Falls' pitcher fanned the first with the result that a very serious threat was nipped in the bud.

Fitz, Malholland Hurt

The Fallsers took a one-run lead in the bottom of the second when Fyrtis singled and scored all the way around on an outfield error. This was the only hit procured off Malholland's pitching in the 3 and 1/3 innings that he worked.

Scales walked to start the third for the visiting Redmen and eventually scored on Fitzpatrick's hit and an outfield out. They countered their other counter in the top of the fourth on Carson's walk, a fielder's choice and Buchanan's drive to right field. It gave them the lead but only for a short time.

Fitzpatrick had to be replaced at the end of the third inning when an injured leg bothered him so greatly that he could hardly move on it. He was thrown out at second on Buchanan's drive to left field that ordinarily would have been a clean hit. Scales moved to from right field and Fotheringham was sent to the outer garden.

Leyendecker started the ball rolling for the homesters in the bottom of the fourth when he drew a base on balls. Fortin sacrificed, pitcher to first on a beautiful fielding play by Malholland. In going after the ball, however, Hendry tripped and sprained his ankle necessitating his removal from the game. Mowat replaced him and was promptly greeted by a hit by Seeley, Muldoon was retired but the next two batsmen reached base on infield errors, with two runs plated and giving the Falls the lead again. White was out on a close play at the plate when he gained it sliding and this brought all the home team storming to the plate. The affair was culminated with the ejection of O'Neill. Strangely enough, the least protesting player on the whole team was White.

Takes Poke at Ump

Apparently the fracas upset Cloutier, starting hurler for the homesters because when he walked the first batter in the fifth, he charged in on the ump, protesting vehemently, and finally took a poke at him with the result that he also was thrown out.

While since in to finish the game, setting the Reds down in order in the last two frames.

Smiths Falls added a pair of insurance markers in their fifth on three hits and a couple of Reds' errors in judgment.

Seeley paced the Smithville attack with a pair of safeties and drove in three runs. Fitzpatrick procured two hits in his two at bat before his removal in the

Seven Records Go At Thorncliffe

Toronto, Aug. 31 (CP) — A track record and possibly a Canadian record looms as a possibility for Friday's Canadian Cup pace after horsemen analyzed results of Thursday's events at Thorncliffe Raceway.

In the first seven races on Thursday's program, the winners established lifetime speed marks for themselves at one mile.

Such a performance by seven different horses was said to be unequalled in the history of the Canadian harness racing sport.

Most spectacular performance of the afternoon was provided by Sandy Grattan Sr., which never before had gotten in better than 2.18 4-5. He won the sixth race in a sizzling finish and three official watches caught him in 2.07 4-5.

Other horses to shatter their marks during the afternoon were Texas Lee, Peter Van H., Globe Direct, Hixsel Grattan, Buddy Harvester and Ruby Rex, which won the first, second, third and fourth, fifth and seventh races respectively.

The world champion doubleguited horse was the favorite in Canada's richest harness race —the Canadian Cup Pace. The horse Hodgen is owned by Mrs. Mildred Knisely, of Toledo, O.

Hodgen has paced a mile in 1.58 1-5. That would be enough to rank him with the world's best horses but, additionally, he has trotted a mile in 2.02 1-5. No other living horse has attained such records at both gaits.

The countries called especially for increases in the supplies of coal, electricity and steel.

London Majors Clip Brantford's Home Win Streak

(By The Canadian Press)

Brantford Red Sox in their third game last night of the senior Intercounty Baseball League final series with London Majors chose the wrong night to end a 20-home-game winning streak as they picked up the wrong end of a 7-3 ticket.

The game puts the Majors back into the best-of-seven series with a single win against two for the Red Sox. Next game will be in Brantford tonight.

London's Billy Slack, pitched eight-hit ball, to put ginger in the Major attack. Clare Vanhorne switched his field behind Slack with Mickimmons catching, Bechard on first, Bobby Rose on third and Rus Even in left field.

Majors Hand Out 14 Hits

The Majors banged out 14 hits including two doubles and a pair of singles by Tom Burgess who had four for four.

Bechard hit two doubles in the critical seventh inning when London scored four runs to put the game in the bag.

Alf Carver, the losing pitcher, faced the heaviest hitting visiting team this season. Wilson and Fields each got homers, while Wilson and Lipka batted triples. They started well as he fanned eight batters for four walks, Slack fanned six, walked two.

In the Nickel-Belt senior semi-final series McIntyre got a 2-1 decision over Combines via a two-run homer by Jack Thayer in the top of the eighth. The series now stands at one game each with the final game scheduled for tonight.

Garson Greyhounds took a 2-1 lead in their best of five semi-final series in the senior Nickel Belt League last night by handing the Coniston Red Sox a 7-3 defeat. The Greyhounds won the game on a rally that started with two-away in the ninth.

Oshawa Merchants earned a 2-0 lead in their best of nine final series in the senior Ontario Baseball Association defeating Peterborough 7-1. They meet in Peterborough again tonight. Series winner goes to the Intercounty League team Sept. 6.

Trenton Ousts Legion, Mitts Has No-Hitter

Bill Mitts, starry Trenton midget pitcher hurled a no-hit no run game last night as his team defeated the Belleville Canadian Legion Midgets 10-0.

The victory eliminated the Legion team from OBA midget playdowns, Trenton winning the first ull inning.

Mitts struck out a dozen and had two putout of the fifteen in the five-inning tussle. He also clouted a double for a perfect day.

Cherry started for the Legion and was replaced in the fifth by Delaney. Amodeo hit a triple and a double for the winners with Terry getting a triple. Trenton also benefited by nine Belleville walks.

The Legion kids were outclassed by the Trenton team, and showed fine sportsmanship in congratulating their conquerors after the game.

Leafs Nip Royals, Bankhead Loses Sixth in Seven

(By The Associated Press)

Don Bankhead, 20 - year - old righthander with Montreal Royals, is finding the road hard in the major leagues extremely rough.

Bankhead, who advanced to Brooklyn after a great International League season in 1949, returned to Montreal late this year after a poor showing with Brooklyn.

The lanky Negro has failed to display the form that made him a 20-game winner in 1948. Bankhead was charged with his sixth loss in seven decisions last night as the Royals bowed 4-3 to Toronto Maple Leafs.

Toronto pounded Bankhead for eight hits and five runs in less than six innings. Lew Morton belted his 21st homer for Toronto's final run in the eighth. Johnny Hatki posted his 13th victory for the Leafs, limiting the Royals to seven hits including a home run by George Shuba.

The tall-and Springfield Cubs captured a doubleheader from Baltimore Orioles, 2-1 and 3-1, behind Frank Lamanna and Vern Fear. The Cubs pulled the opener out with two runs in the seventh and final inning. Emil Verban's Texas-league single decided the issue. The Cubs pulled the nightcap out with two runs in the 6th.

Bob Keegan pitched Syracuse Chiefs to a 5-1 triumph over Buffalo Bisons. Keegan fanned nine and walked only one. Wally Post homered with two out in the 9th for Buffalo's lone run.

Montreal Girl Blonde Bombshell Junior Tennis

Ottawa, Aug. 31 — (CP) — A husky, 18-year-old Montreal girl, Marisete Letrembles, has emerged as the blonde bombshell of the 1951 Canadian junior tennis championships.

Armed with a hard backhand and a baffling forehand gained in just a few years of tournament play, Marisete ruled to the girl's single championship with a comparatively easy 6-4, 6-4 victory yesterday over top - seeded American Carol Wolf of Buffalo, N.Y.

When paired with Penny Lowe of Ottawa she went on to share the girl's doubles title and in the Junior women's doubles she was the other half of the championship combination beside Toronto's Joele Smith.

Today the tall daughter of a Montreal policeman is in a fair way to take the junior women's singles after a 6-3, 6-3 win over Carol Turnetin of Ottawa in the semi-final. She goes against Diana Lowe of Ottawa who won her semi-final match against Gloria Stanford, Toronto, 5-7, 7-5, 6-4.

Meanwhile Jeff Arnold of Great Falls, Montana is in a fair way to take the junior women's singles after a 6-3, 6-0 win over the Canadian top seeded player, Pierre Lambert of Victoriaville, Que.

Farley Defeats Bill Mawhinney In Semi-Finals

By ERWIN FRICKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 31 (CP) — Two veterans take up the scrap—two five youngsters today in the semi-finals of the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship.

Phil Farley of Toronto meets Vancouver smoothie who wasn't born when Farley knocked off the first of the six Ontario amateur golf titles he has won. Farley, 39, is drawn against 18-year-old Laurie Rolland, who last week won the Canadian junior championship.

In the other bracket another 39-year-old, Fred Kammer, Jr., of Detroit takes on Walter McKivoy, 34, of Vancouver.

Kammer, a tall, blond business executive who claims to be a once-a-week golfer, was a U.S. amateur semi-finalist in 1946 and a member of the 1947 Walker Cup team.

McKivoy, wavy-haired, handsome stylist, was low amateur in the 1946 Canadian Open but dropped out of competitive golf for the next two years to tend his Jewelry business.

A victory in today's 36-hole matches by the west coast players, would give Vancouver the distinction of being the first city to provide both finalists in a amateur since two New Yorkers did it in 1923.

Farley yesterday played the best golf of the four-semi-finalists. He had to defeat Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver, defending champion, 3 and 1.

Their game was a fight all the way. A one-hole lead was the widest margin. It was tied 18 when Farley played the most beautiful iron of the day—an 85-yarder which stopped a foot from the pin. Mawhinney missed the 18-foot putt he needed for a half and conceded the hole and match to the popular, curly-haired Torontonian.

Farley, runner-up in the amateur in 1937 and 1949, had an unbelievable medal score of two under par.

Oshawa won the first two games. Then the teams Thursday night, without explanation played a third game in an apparent effort to carry the series to a best-of-five or best-of-seven. Oshawa won 7-1.

Home Runs Lands In Police Court

Minneapolis, Aug. 31 (CP) — A home run hit last July 1 at Nicollet Park landed in district court here yesterday in the form of a $17,500 law suit.

Robert Lindberg, 50, Minneapolis, claims he was damaged to that extent when the homer cleared the fence of the American Association ball park and struck him in the head as he walked along abutting Nicollet Avenue.

The homer was hit during a Sunday doubleheader Minneapolis was playing with the Columbus Redbirds. The suit was filed against the Minneapolis baseball and athletic association.

Hollywood, Aug. 31 (AP) — What was Rudolph Valentino really like?

The screen's greatest lover has been dead 25 years this month, and legend has already clouded his real nature. There are still many people in Hollywood who knew Valentino in his prime and fought out their impressions of the famous man.

His was a pretty good fellow about publicity," remarked veteran publicity agent Frank Pope. "He would co-operate on just about anything you might suggest, although he was one star who really didn't need to be publicized. The women did the publicity job for him. . .

"He was nice enough to the people he knew and liked, and when he didn't like someone—bitch pot."

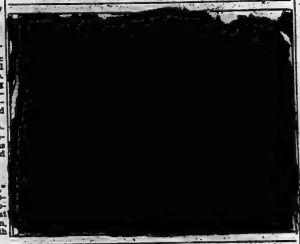
One of those he didn't like was Barry Reichenback, a dynamic man who was doing some special publicity work on Valentino. Once when the actor was making up for a scene Reichenback bustled up, placed his hand on Valentino's shoulder and started talking.

"Screen me in," Valentino ordered his valet Chris. Reichenback watched open-mouthed as the valet placed a screen around the disdainful Valentino.

No "Woman-Chaser"

He wasn't a woman-chaser," said Dev Jennings, who photographed Valentino in "The Cobra" and is still a cameraman at Paramount. "When I knew him, he was very much in love with his wife Natacha Rambova, and was very jealous of her.

"Rudy lived very quietly. He preferred a few friends at his home, rather than big parties. . .



"Rudy's hobbies were riding, fencing boxing. Here's one thing most people don't know— his left ear was cauliflowered. . ."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the sectionin which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, September 1

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—May seem uninteresting day, but if you look sharp under surface you can find prospects. Will have to make some of the breaks, and follow through well. It should not be hard.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Outlook should be tonic for you keen thinkers. In right time and manner, step away from matter-of-fact procedures to build better plans. Be consistently alert for new opportunity.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Good period to store up strength for better activity ahead— get early start and profit. Refresh mind as often as possible to avoid repeating, growing stale. Good news in the offing.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Fine planetary aspects. Be ready daily to take advantage of good openings, leads. Don't neglect duties in rush to gain worldly goods. Give your share to the future.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—May be less incentive but that should not deter steady ambition toward honorable progress. Set aside some personal desires temporarily, reward will gratify. Heart interests need care.

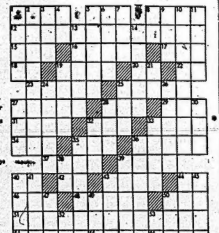
August 24 to September 23—(Virgo)— Aspects in position to assist you who will help yourselves. Business, finance should bring profits through worthy effort. Head up! Stakes are high.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Another stimulating day for the wide-awake; dull for careless, non-thinkers. These days alertness pays well; use your natural keen sense of perception and forge ahead.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Action speaks louder than words" good motto to heed today. Bury yourself with essentials, don't give too much time to what others are doing. Go your way and make it good.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Tendency may be to relax on first wave of success where following through could insure, extend greater gains. Don't hesitate unduly; position, alertness can help make fine records.

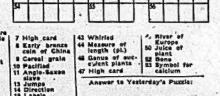
December 22 to January 21—(Capricorn)— Keen mind, ideas up-to-date. Pep up and be open-minded. Avoid smugness and see dandy results. You are generally practical, economical, use these God-given assets to advance.



January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Fine influences, but differentiate well. Better results achieved if you plan first before acting. Be eager to learn, consult elders, anyone who studies, make changes when needed.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Avoid being too fastidious, it will becloud the situation, cover your best view-point. Tackle work with confidence and you can advance appreciably. No quibbling.

YOU BORN TODAY: Keen, intelligent, systematic, orderly; a stickler for the right thing at the right time, and the right word said rightly. Innately honest; seldom sarcastic or willing to resort to any questionable means to gain your end. You are your own worst enemy through worry over health, activities of loved ones, etc. Good intuition, but you must also study facts. Avoid being too critical. Don't overindulge in foods, beverages. Have more fun, and with family.



Birthdate; James Gordon Bennett, journalist; Rex Beach, novelist; Geo. O'Brien, actor.

Hollinger Moose Jumps Fence, Strikes for Bush

Ont., Aug. 31 (CP)— The Hollinger moose is free and the striking gold miners who had a warm place in their hearts for the frisky female are sad.

Donalda (known as Donald until it was discovered she was a girl moose) has been living on the property of Hollinger mines for more than a year. She arrived with her mother and departed soon after. Striking miners, on picket duty since July 9, had become sincerely attached to the young moose who depended on them for her food.

Today Donalda quietly vaulted a three-foot fence and headed into the bush without glancing back.

Some of the men on the picket line said she wouldn't be permitted to enter the mine property again without a special pass.

They didn't say, however, who would stop her from returning the way she left if she wanted.

"Tom Gard's Note Book"

August — the month of picnics! Each weekend we try to have something special planned for the whole family — an overnight, if we are at the cottage and weather will permit, or a trip to some picnic area if we are home. Such enjoyable days should be enjoyed by all young Canadians with such excellent beauty spots so close at hand.

It becomes the duty of every adult to learn and to teach safety measures with camp fires if this heritage is to be protected. Each year careless people cause forest losses through fires. At this time of year, when our forests are often tinder dry, cooking fires or camp fires should be built on solid rock or right out in the open on packed earth. Embers have been known to smolder for days and travel many feet underground before they break to the surface if the earth is laden with decaying roots and bits of wood. If a large flat rock is not handy, turfs can be rolls of sod to form the sides of the fireplace and carry the weight of the cooking utensils.

Silhouettes

My teen-aged daughter is painting interesting silhouettes on plate and framing them with cardboard and gold binding tape. She does a good job of it, too.

Son Jimmy, not to be outdone by his sister, brought home a pet of "tin-can" lardlarers he had made during the craft period at his boys' camp. They were painted and ready for immediate use in his mother's "window" garden.

Foot Rest

When I sit down to relax and put my feet up this winter, it will be with the aid of a new hassock made from a butter box. Cut the finishing touches. The top has been carefully padded and covered with bright durable plastic. (All that remains to be done is complete the pattern being made with decorative tacks.)

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

And what the Webers told Lance was not only sensational, but it packed a wallop with it. It could be lacked. When he asked them if they would support the fight he chose to back up the charges he must lay against a prominent Frontier citizen if he was to help them, they promised faithfully that they would. They advertised it in writing on a sheet of paper with a printed heading and signed by a professional man. And when he asked if he might have it, they willingly agreed. Lance asked them to be patient with him. There would be a proper time for that paper to be read out in public, but that time was not yet. However, he would put the damning evidence in his safe, and when the proper time came to divulge his contents, he would let them know and expect them to be present.

On his return to his office that night, Lance Bradley placed the Weber letter in his safe, and as he did, he smiled to think that he had outsmarted the crack newsmen in the Weber case. As a matter what the editors, the reporters could dig up in Kenmar in days to come, they would never get their hands on anything of a incriminating nature in the piece of paper that had been handed to him. This was real pay dirt; headlines stuff for the first edition one day near the end of the year.

So having filed away for safe keeping such a valuable document, Lance forgot about it in the pressence of less serious and more personal matters. The Y.M.C.A. secretary had decided to hold a boxing eleven tournament in the town hall in early fall, and he would like to have Goldie Webster compete in the 130 lb. class.

Now Lance Bradley wished to see his adopted son Gregory into a good boxer a competitor in amateur sport, but as a professional prize fighter, never. No son of his would ever be seen on the streets of Kenmar, his face pounded out of shape ,walking on his heels. No son of his would have cauliflower ears flattened nose, lips puffed out of shape, nose and a flattened nose, fighting with light gloves. But as a boxer in his own class more for the fun of it than for any other reason, there was no harm in that. Boxing was the only form of athletic that Goldie appeared to care anything about, and he was promising material. He would talk about the boy with Stub Ryer. Jacky Palmer. And what he did to that poor kid. From now on, I'll make you, you just would not believe it, that's all."

"Then, you'll manage me, Stub?" Goldie asked eagerly. "You'll train me and handle me in the Golden Gloves?"

"Since you asked, yes, I will, kid," Stub leaned forward with a hand on the boy's shoulder. "Here's my offer to you. From now on, I'll manage you, see, and I'll knock the block off Michels if he ever beat kid." Goldie doesn't want you to be a prug, a slap-happy prize fighter, but we'll let that matter rest until the time comes."

"You've seen me box, Stub," Goldie said. "How do I look?"

"Lousy!" Stub snapped. "Just plain lousy! You're a one-hand puncher, and do you know what would happen to a one-hand puncher when he come from?"

"No, stub, what!"

"He'd be moldered. Look, kid, let's get this straight. You show promise, you have much to learn, you're green, inexperienced. Now I'm going to handle you, see? and I'm going to make you hit as hard and as fast with your left as you do with your right, even if I have to rope your right hand to your side, see! However, kid, before we go too far, I'm going to ask you a question, and I want an answer."

"What's that, Stub?"

"Will you promise to do what I tell you, without question, without argument? If you won't agree to that, then the whole thing is off. Get it?"

"Okay, Stub," Goldie said at last. "I'll promise, I'll do everything you tell me to do."

"Now, you're talking, kid!" Stub chuckled. "Now we'll go places, kid. You and me doesn't want you to be a prug, a slap-happy prize fighter, but we'll let that matter rest until the time comes."

"You've seen me box, Stub," Goldie said. "How do I look?"

"Lousy!" Stub snapped. "Just plain lousy! You're a one-hand puncher, and do you know what would happen to a one-hand puncher when he come from?"

"No, stub, what!"

"He'd be moldered. Look, kid, let's get this straight. You show promise, you have much to learn, you're green, inexperienced. Now I'm going to handle you, see? and I'm going to make you hit as hard and as fast with your left as you do with your right, even if I have to rope your right hand to your side, see! However, kid, promising young fighter in the country at the time. "Yes, Stub," Goldie said dreamily, "maybe even Tex Burdell."

CHAPTER XXII

While Stub Rose was teaching Goldie Webster the refinements of the art of fighting that would make him a doughty contender to the Golden Gloves boxing tournament in the Exmeton town hall in October, while Lance Bradley's highly paid news-agents were getting the low-down on the incumbents of the various civic offices, while The Ensign's editors were pecking away at the typewriters in the market, among other things, Owner-Publisher Bradley was also getting around.

There was the meeting of the members of the Great War Veterans, and Lance Bradley, as much-desired guest, was present. The vets had now learned that he was the mysterious donor of their hall and its appointments, and all without strings to them. So there was a place for him at the head table with officials from the various district branches of the local officers and several invited guests. And he was told what a fine man he was, what a great citizen he had become, his best of all, as far as they were concerned, what a true comrade and pal he was to all of them.

If the fish won't bite,

Here's an idea for those days when you feel like going down to deal with the fish personally.

Intrepid souls who, with spear in hand and web on foot, chase fish in southern waters, can now increase their range with aluminum harpoon-gun.

Aluminum is used because it is light and does not rust. These are the main reasons why this metal is so popular, and why Alcan is busy with projects which are planned to increase Canada's production to 500,000 tons a year. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).
